HIGH SIERRA SEASON ON

Above and beyond Yosemite Valley, Calif., lies a vast mountain world almost as large as the state of Rhode Island—a land of towering peaks, rugged canyons, deep forests, white-cragged streams, sparkling-blue lakes, and leaping waterfalls—a land of high adventure.

Into the Yosemite High Sierras each summer go an increasing number of riders, hikers, and campers—finding in its solitude the simple pleasures that make life more living, and discovering in its fastness some of the park's most cherished scenes.

Once these pleasures were difficult to attain. They were reserved for hardy mountaineers who could scorn the ordinary comforts of civilization or those who could afford the luxury of a deluxe pack train. Now anyone may travel through the Sierra Nevada in the more comfortable section of the Sierra Nevada in perfect safety and comfort, and at minimum expense. Five permanent camps, located in as many distinctive areas of the Yosemite High Sierras, make this possible—even for those who are inexperienced in mountain travel. They need carry only a few personal necessities—and the camps are an easy day's ride or walk apart.

Beginning in July and through mid-August, Six Day All-Expense Saddle trips leave regularly from Yosemite Valley on a complete circuit of these camps which are located at May Lake, Glen Aulin, Tuolumne Meadows, Vogelgsand and Merced Lake.

DON'T DREAM WHILE DRIVING.

Police Judge of Salsyerville 'Stolen'

According to the Police-Department of Salsyerville, the Police Judge James Bailey, was kidnaped Wednesday night, but escaped his captors after a struggle, while being spirited away toward Paintsville.

According to Clay Williams of the Paintsville Police Department, he received an urgent call from the Salsyerville police Department, the theft of a 1940 model Plymouth coupe, which, they alleged, carried their Police Judge, and to be on the lookout for a 1940 model Plymouth coupe, which, they alleged, carried their Police Judge. They described the kidnaper of their Judge as "large, red-headed and very belligerent."

Policeman Williams took up his station to watch for the alleged kidnaper and picked him up as he drove into Paintsville. The Police Judge was missing from the car. Mr. Williams said. He phoned the Salsyerville police telling them he had his man, but they said they were missing. The Salsyerville officers came over, recognized the man and returned him to Salsyerville.

It later developed that Judge Bailey, fearing for his life, jumped from the man's car when about one and a half miles out of Salsyerville and was picked up by a passing car and returned to town, no worse for his experience but badly frightened.

It is not definitely known just why the man kidnapped Judge Bailey. However, it is reported that Judge Bailey had fined the man Wednesday afternoon for breaking a speed limit through Salsyerville, where, it is alleged, a speed trap is in operation. Starting Sunday night, the man and his alleged mistreatment he evidently decided to get even with the people of Salsyerville by stealing their Police Judge.

The "red-headed man" is alleged to have called Judge Bailey out of the picture which are located at May Lake, Glen Aulin, Tuolumne Meadows, Vogelgsand and Merced Lake.

"The large man, red-headed and very belligerent" is said to hail from Huntington, W. Va.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

HACKS

Recently in my home town there died a very picturesque character, a man who could have been called the last of the hack-drivers. For years he had been driving a taxi, but most of us remember him for his earlier vehicle, which was one of the distinctive things of our town. It is doubtful whether any more popular person has ever lived in our town. Time and again when a carriage was called for, the caller specified that Mr. McAllister be sent. He was the soul of courtesy, a quiet, genial gentleman, and a very good driver. It increased one's respect for the occupants of the house where his vehicle stopped. We knew that during the following days there would be no travel in style. It was often impossible to get him, for the demand was so great that he could not get around to all of his calls in his two-horse carriage. Parents often sent him around to the high school on rainy days to wait for their children; and the ones who had to walk felt envious of the more fortunate ones who dashed away in Mr. McAllister's closed carriage.

Time and again, however, those who did not trust the new-fangled cars, and thought that horse-drawn cars were good enough for anybody, gave the old gentleman a clientele long after other hack-drivers had modernized and were rattling along in automobiles. Some of my old townsmen said when the old hackman died, he was an institution, one not likely to be replaced, as he completely a thing of the past as the Civil War.

Our fellow-townsmen was a member of a great profession. Probably without knowing it, he belonged to an order once very numerous and long described by visitors to New York, or Boston, or London, or Paris. Before the days of even-horse-drawn cars the cabman was on hand at every function; the coming of the railroads even increased his usefulness, for the new travelers grew rapidly, and it was manifestly impossible or unthinkable for people who were going away on the train to trudge with their baggage. Besides, there is the intimate touch of a cab that no public conveyance has ever acquired—can go where you want to go and on your own time. You do not have to submit your ride to the inauspicious of a street corner for a number of minutes to come along at its own good time and stop condescendingly for you. To step off the street car elicited no comment and scarcely noticing glances; when cab stopped elsewhere, all the neighbors looked up and their work- or pleasure-furtive through the shutters or curtains.

Then came the automobiles. By degrees they have driven away most of the street cars from our cities. Not limited to rails, they dash here and there, giving you all the conveniences of the old cab and often quite as much of its style. For a long time, though, the new vehicles seemed too obvious; young people might patronize them, but the older folk, safer and a bit more aristocratic in their tastes, drew back. An elderly gentleman of my acquaintance long kept his private phaeton and drove with his two-horse along the streets where he was often the cause of squeaking brakes, which he, in his fondness, failed to hear. It gave me one of those thrills of his life to find his horse and phaeton "parked" between two modern automobiles in my town's street. I could not keep my eyes off the strange contrast; the shabby, new standardized cars, with little or no distinction between the old and phaeton and the spirited horse, remnants of yesterday.

Farmers Invited To Study Tests of the Experiment Station

Three days of "open house" for farmers to inspect the experimental work of the Agricultural Experiment Station are announced by Director Thomas P. Cooper. On August 7, farmers and all other interested persons will be invited to the main Experiment Station at Lexington, August 8 the annual field day will be held at the Western Kentucky Experiment Station at Princeton, and on August 1 there will be a meeting at the Robinson Experiment Station at Quitman.

At all meetings, visitors will see experimental work with 11 soils, crops, fruit, livestock and other farm products. These will include wheat, limestone, phosphate, fertilizers, manure, rotations and other methods of building and maintaining fertility. Also will be seen tests of varieties of clovers, alfalfa, soybeans, grasses and small grains. The breeding of hybrid corn and improved tobacco and other crops will be explained.

The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station has a wide reputation for its improvements in agriculture every phase of agricultural production and marketing. Largely as a result of its long and extensive investigations farmers have been able to use almost a million tons of limestone each year for several years, and are leaders in the use of phosphate. Kentucky also long has been a leader in livestock improvement.

Attorney General OK's "Beer Shut-Off" Plan

QUESTION: "Is it legally permissible, under the laws of Kentucky, for beer distributors to unite by agreement of understanding with each other to withhold the sale of beer from persons selling at retail who are violating the liquor laws, or any other laws of the state?"

ANSWER: "There is no restriction in either the constitution or the Kentucky Statutes prohibiting the making of the kind of agreement referred to in the above question."—(Signed) Jesse K. Lewis, Asst. Attorney General.

APPROVAL: "I have read and approve the above opinion, and will add that, in my opinion, the proposed form of agreement is valid and enforceable."—(Signed) Hubert Meredith, Attorney General.

A majority of the legitimate beer wholesalers and distributors are working in full cooperation with the Committee. They pledge their support of the shut-off plan wherever conditions justify such action.

That the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee means business is evidenced by the following

ACTION!

On June 26, at the request of the Committee, a Rowan County roadhouse, scene of a fatal shooting, was closed up and its beer permit cancelled.

Since organization on May 26, the Committee has investigated more than 125 retail beer outlets, and has warned 17 of these to eliminate unwholesome conditions in violation of public decency and morals and the beer control laws of Kentucky.

This is official approval of the policy of the Kentucky Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee to shut off the supply of beer to those few retail outlets in the state that

The Committee invites every clear-thinking, civic-minded Kentuckian to add additional authority to its efforts by patronizing only those retail outlets in which the conditions surrounding the sale of beer are as wholesome as the beverage itself.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

The 1940 General Assembly is over and unless an emergency arises there will be no lawmaking for another two years.

The results of this Legislative Session are an accurate barometer of the four years of this administration. The error Johnson stated at the Kentucky Press Association meeting. He said, "I will not make you a spectacular Governor but I will try to make you a good one."

There were no spending bills passed and the Governor's Assembly seemed to want to refrain from any expenditures that were not absolutely necessary. We believe that the upturn of business Kentucky may be out of debt at the end of this Administration.

Action of the 1940 General Assembly: void to submit to a Constitutional Amendment to be voted on at the next election; the voting machine Amendment providing that counties using them must pay for them and another authorizing aid to schools in the poorer counties.

The most important bill passed was the Conservation bill authorizing said conservation districts in Kentucky for the Federal program of flood control, reforestation and enrichment of woods. It gave the dangerous mandatory features of this bill were amended and the bill will enable Kentucky to get from the U. S. a million dollars a year of Federal funds.

Old pensions were increased and the teachers retirement act was made effective with an appropriation of half a million.

Most important revenue bill passed was one to increase the consumption tax on whisky and the chain store tax. The most important bill relating to State Government was the one permitting the Governor to hire outside accountants to audit State departments and boards.

A bill to increase the truck load limit was defeated, as was one to repeal the tax on neutral spirits.

As stated in this column in January, Ivan Jett has been offered the place as Director of Marketing in the Department of Agriculture. The bill provides broad powers for the director in aiding farmers to form cooperatives, and in gathering information as to supply, demand and price, and cold and common storage of farm products and in maintaining a market news service.

RETURN TO IDAHO Mrs. Everett Fraure, Miss Eva Fraure and Robert Hamilton, left for their home at Blackfoot, Idaho, Wednesday, after spending three weeks with Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bentley, of Moscow, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Fraure, of Grethel, and other relatives in the county.

JELLY AND JAM SEASON

Cloudy jelly and thick jam cooling on the pantry shelf are a familiar sight at this time of the year. But every once in a while there's a batch of red raspberry jelly that doesn't become firm—apple jelly that turns into a gummy mass—or grape jelly with crystals all through it.

Cloudy jelly is caused by improper straining after the juice is extracted. This clouding, if it is for family use, Best straining the juice twice will help to make jelly clear. Use a Canton Hannel bag with the two sides to strain in the juice. The first section of the Hannel bag is of good quality cheesecloth, or a sugar bag. For the first straining, use the juice bag and then squeeze the bag. For the second straining, use a fresh bag wrung out in hot water and do not squeeze.

When the strup does not form jelly, there are a number of different explanations. The fruit itself may not have the proper balance of pectin, acid and mineral salts that must be present for jelly formation. To make sure there is enough pectin and acid present, it is best to use a mixture of ripe and slightly unripe fruit.

Another reason for the failure of the strup to form jelly is the use of too much water in extracting the juice. Jelly will also be soft and runny if it is taken off the stove before it gives the jelly test. To make the test, dip a large spoon into the boiling strup and lift the spoon so the strup runs off the side. Try timing to stop cooking when the strup no longer runs off the spoon in a steady stream, but separates into two distinct lines of drops.

Jellies and jams may mold or ferment because the glasses were not sterilized, because the were not sealed properly, or because they were not stored in a cool place.

Jams are hot-packed like preserves or canned fruits. Pour the mixture into sterilized jars and seal at once.

WAYLAND WINS TWO GAMES

PIKE COUNTY TEAMS BOW SATURDAY, SUNDAY

By noting out Pikeville, 11-9, at Wayland Saturday afternoon in a rescheduled game previously postponed by rain and then swamping Ekhorn City, 10-1, there Sunday afternoon, Wayland took a firm hold on second place in the Big Sandy Baseball League standings, one game behind the pace-setting Wheelwright team, victors over Van Lear Sunday.

Against Pikeville the Wayland hitters blasted out 16 hits, good for 11 runs. Pikeville got to Rollins and Martin, pitching for Wayland, for nine hits which, with the aid of five Wayland errors, were converted into nine runs. Martin was the winning pitcher, and England went all the way on the mound for Pikeville.

Times and Big Jess Ratliff, Wayland veterans, led both teams in hitting, each making three safeties. Hatcher, Tynus and Casdill each made two for the losers. Behind the five-hit pitching of Patton and Stumbo, Wayland met with little trouble in downing Ekhorn City. Patton, who started for Wayland but who was later relieved by Stumbo, was credited with the win. Ekhorn pitched Barrowman and Mullins, with the former being charged with the loss.

Prady, Tims, Marks and Martin each collected two hits for the winners. Box scores:

A birthday of importance was celebrated recently in this community when Mrs. Mary Thompson was honored by her friends and relatives at the home of her grandson, Buford Rollins, "Grannie," as she is affectionately known to hundreds of her friends in this community, is 91 years old and we must all admit that very few of us will see that many candles on our cakes.

Baseball is baseball in this town today, with the Black Cats in action and with the Wayland Regs (or the White team) clinching steadily. It looks like we are in for a lot of good sport. Young Bill Prady, picked off the Wayland high school team, is playing short-stop in a very classy fashion and is batting .526. The last report is that he has been scouted by the Cardinal organization, and will soon receive a try-out with one of the farm clubs, probably Kingsport, Tenn.

Ye scribble was very much interested in the letter Doug Hays penned to the Times last week and it seems to me as if Doug has a very strong case against the disgruntled Democrats but still he won't come over and be a Republican. Oh, no! And if the Democrats think we must all admit that we will all chip in and buy him a soap box and set it on Fountain Square in Wayland so Doug can orate in style. About every time Doug comes to Wayland he makes a speech about all Republicans in general and myself and Joe Hicks in particular, and we say, "Go to it, Doug, and let's all be proud we live in a country where we can all be Democrats, Republicans, Mugwumps or what-nots."

And so long till next time.

Floyd County Times

Published Every Thursday by PRESTONSBURY PUBLISHING CO. OFFICIAL ORGAN FOR FLOYD COUNTY, KY. $1.00 Per Year. Payable in Advance

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Ky., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

THE TIMES ENDORSES 1. Immediate completion of the Left Beaver, Middle Creek and Johns Creek road. 2. Consideration by officials of human needs, not the need for political influence. 3. Completion of all Farm-to-Market roads, by W. F. A. labor if possible, maintenance of these roads by the state rural fund. 4. A trade-at-home policy followed by merchants and customers alike. 5. Full co-operation with all county and city officials, insisting that lawmakers and enforcement officers themselves obey the law to the letter. 6. Continuance of the Floyd county health department and the county agricultural agent work.

THE HILL-COUNTRY FOR DEFENSE With the need for inland locations of factories and airports apparent as the United States prepares against the day when we shall be obliged to defend ourselves against a foreign foe, what section is more ideally suited to such enterprise than Eastern Kentucky? Consider Floyd county, for instance. A war industries plant located here would be far removed from either coast, veritably tucked in amid protecting hills, in the midst of remnants of the pure Anglo-Saxon blood-strain whence subversive elements do not spring and wherein they cannot thrive. Coal, oil, gas, water power—all are here. Rail and highway facilities are adequate. Labor is plentiful. Back in the natural fortresses of these hill-locked valleys of ours is where Uncle Sam, girding for battle, may lift up his eyes with the least danger of enemy eyes looking down upon him from the sky.

FOR THE PRICE OF A HOT DOG Says THE PAINTSVILLE HERALD, editorially: "The indictments against the carnival variety of shows are many, but the more serious is that they spread venereal diseases. The Johnson County Health Department reported . . . that an examination of last week's carnival employes revealed that at least three were syphilitic and the most horrible thing about it was that they were dispensing of food sold to hundreds of people who frequented the grounds." QUOTH THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES: Had you who contend that carnivals, those so-called "good, clean shows full of fun for everybody," have a rightful place in this and other communities of Floyd county thought about that "clean" and "good" and "full of fun" feature of most carnivals? Had you thought of the children of your community, not to mention the adults? For the price of a hot-dog or a hamburger—infection with syphilis! And for the price of a small percentage of the receipts from a glibble public you get, in addition to dread syphilis germs, the economic and moral losses that attend the visitations of every carnival! They surely will take most of your money with them—and they may leave part of their bad with you!

A REMINDER TO ROAD ENTHUSIASTS As Left Beaver Creek, Martin, Prestonsburg and representatives of the sections affected turn to a concerted move to get the Left Beaver highway surfacing completed, THE TIMES is with the boys, yet as always. It endorses that idea of a motorcade to Frankfort to show "the powers that be" how much we are interested and how many of us are interested in the completion of this highway. Why not endorse such a plan—that's what we suggested, three years ago. This newspaper has always contended that a visit to Frankfort by one or two men, be they county officials or citizens, is nothing more than a motor trip, possibly an enjoyable drive down through the Blue Grass and on to Frankfort, with a promise or excuse received before the return home is begun. During recent months, this newspaper has steadfastly held to the belief that Left Beaver's road would be surfaced. Some of it is being surfaced. But not as much of it as we had hoped. During this time, this newspaper has not been belligerent; it has tried to be helpfully considerate of those upon whom we must depend for help. And so it has drawn some criticism. We have been criticized for our failure to emit regular blasts in our version of the "King's English" against Zach Justice, highway commissioner from this district. We have been asked if our position has been abandoned. No, boys, we are still with you and against anybody against you. But circumstances, to repeat an ancient saying, alter cases. And the circumstances here are not merely so critical and so open to criticism as "way back then." The road has been graded, given a gravel surface and a part of it will be given a "black-top" surface this year. So why condemn everybody connected with the matter from Governor Johnson on down? The matter is now being attacked in the manner we have always advised. Eventually, it will be settled to the satisfaction of us all. Incredibly partisan criticism, a "So-and-So" be damned" attitude will not be worth the time to voice them. But, if a deliberate attempt to ignore Frankfort and Left Beaver is made, let this newspaper hear about it. Then we may say something that will re-inrench ourselves in the position some of you think we have abandoned. P. B. If they tell you down at Frankfort, that the "surface value" of the Left Beaver road is only two inches or little more deep, and thus requires a costly base to the extent that the mileage let to contract for surfacing is exhausting the funds appropriated for twice as much—don't give up, folks. Who was responsible for that comparatively worthless surface? Certainly, they can't blame that on us!

A STRONG, SILENT PLATFORM

By JOHN LANDREAU (The Courier-Journal)

The troubles of Wendell L. Wilkie are just beginning. Outside of the major problem (who is now collecting a salary of $75,000 in Washington, D. C.), there is the problem of what the Republicans are going to give him to work with.

Your correspondent has studied the Republican platform carefully, from above, beneath, left profile and right profile. It looks the same from all sides. It is a strong, silent platform. It reminds you somewhat of Harpo Marks in the fact that it doesn't say anything.

Now that the party has a nominee, the leaders (including our favorite character, the party whip), will get together and make the platform a little more specific by filling in the name of "Wendell Wilkie" in all the blank spaces and denouncing the bull weevil in paragraph 7, formerly occupied by the man-eating shark.

Then Mr. Wilkie puts his foot down with a gentle thump the platform will then emerge as standard Republican, containing the following planks:

- 1.—Down with dry weather. ("Under the New Deal the weather has been rotten, venal and corrupt. Let us restore a patriotic mean rainfall for Americans!") (Congressman Alabaster Smith.)
2.—Stay in and out of war.
3.—Down with dishonesty.
4.—Help the Allies by all means short of help.
5.—Down with forest fires.
6.—American will never perish as long as America never perishes.
7.—Down with the bull weevil (formerly the man-eating shark.)
8.—No parking within 10 feet of a fire-plug.
9.—Down with Democracy.
10.—How have you been?

Before Wilkie's nomination the platform touched lightly on the international situation. The boys decided to nominate first and let the candidate figure out what they meant. This practical joke has everybody in a tizzy. Mr. Wilkie, who is still trying to find the code word.

As nearly as Wilkie and his staff can make it out, the platform argues as follows: "Defend America, but not at anybody's expense, and have the young people prepared for war, but do not train them, and Hitler is a hebl, but do not get him sore, and the situation is serious, but very satisfactory, except February, which has but eight and a score full leap year gives it one day more—and not one cent for tribute. The first international platform to be written in double talk, and Mr. Wilkie, as a desperate measure, has called upon Hymie Caplin, the popular fight manager, for advice. Mr. Caplin can decipher it if anyone can. There is some reason to believe he wrote it."

THE KNOCKOUT BLOW

With the withdrawal of virtually all Allied troops from Flanders, except the multitude killed or captured, still another phase of the war is finished. After a few days of lesser activity German forces will hold the whole of Belgium and a considerable strip of Northern France. The first international platform is conveniently disposed for either the long-promised blitzkrieg against England or a new, intensified drive into France, heading for Paris.

That the so-called knockout blow will not be long in coming is reasonably certain. The German military command will need some days, it may be supposed, to reorganize its heavily damaged armored divisions and to replenish its supplies of ammunition and gasoline at advanced field bases. If the knockout blow is to be against England, Germany will need some time to prepare captured airplanes and still more time to prepare captured airmen and to improve defensive positions on the Somme against possible French attack.

But time urges Herr Hitler onward. He has to win quickly, if he is to win at all. This has become a trite observation, but it is more evident each day. Until three or four days ago it seemed nearly certain that the great effort would be made against England. Every newspaper in Germany, every German General who would talk at all, promised it. But since then a great campaign has been going on. France has been built up, replacing the Nazi policy of kind words for the "deluded French."

Possibly the difficulties of direct invasion of England have been more clearly realized in Germany. Perhaps the weakness of the French army has been singled out by Hitler as his great opportunity. Perhaps the final, reluctant promise of Mussolini to come into the war was given only on condition that Hitler turn his whole offensive strength against France, to make Italy's task easier.

This is borne out somewhat by the swelling tide of Italian preparation, the talk in Germany of France as the great enemy, and the murmurs of revenge heard in Spain against the British, possessors of Gibraltar. Madrid has suddenly loomed up as a potential ally of the axis powers once more. The dangers here lie in the use of Spanish airbases for Italian attacks on French cities and the possibility of land attacks on Gibraltar, which is strong against sea power but vulnerable to assault by land.

It seems that the Allies are soon to face a test greater than any yet demanded of them.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WHY THE NAZIS NEED WORLD DOMINATION

Even today, in the face of what Germany has done to the Jews, to the Poles, to the innocent nations who chanced to be in her path, it is hard to remember that Nazism is a total moral revolution: a revolution which cannot endure unless it is imposed throughout the civilized world. We are accustomed to law-breakers. All nations have been law-breakers in their time. We are not accustomed to the denial that there is any such thing as law.

As Thomas Mann has said, "The laws are not violated in Germany; the tables of the law are broken." The same idea has been put out by Hans Frank, who was Hitler's lawyer before 1933 and who is now Governor-General of Poland: "Whoever benefits the National-Socialist State, is right."

The destruction of Christianity is a necessity, if this moral revolution is to succeed. The thoroughness of the anti-Christian campaign within Germany is displayed in a pamphlet made up of German documents compiled by Dr. Stanley Hahn, and circulated by the Rev. Henry S. Lohrer, executive secretary of the Federal Council of Churches in America.

We call attention to this pamphlet because it proves again a point we should never forget: Nazism is not a weak revolution or a timid escapade. Since the Nazis do not intend to collapse, we must assume that they do intend to impose their doctrines as fast as possible in every civilized country of the world.

Man will not long endure the imposed worship of the state if anywhere there remains the example of a people still free to worship God. Man will not long accept materialism, and slavery to a master race, if anywhere the dream of Western civilization is still alive; the dream of brotherhood and individual responsibility.

These are pertinent reflections for the Americans who ask "Why should Hitler ever desire to bother us?" If Nazism is to last there must be no escape from the system, no refuge for the beaten or the un-reconciled.—The Courier-Journal.

LEOPOLD'S BETRAYAL

If past reports are confirmed and King Leopold surrenders to the Germans, he is not only going to have to do, he stands guilty of what in the most charitable terms amounts to colossal stupidity and disregard for the fate of his allies.

One can understand how King Leopold might be concluded to further resistance, how he might have been moved by the very worthy wish to

AN OPEN LETTER

Mr. S. L. Isbell, County Agent: I am sincere when I say, "Thanks for everything." I have enjoyed your time to time little talks with you about your work, but not until Friday night, July 12, when I attended a meeting with the Forestry Department of the county. I realize the extent to which a county agent will go beyond what his job calls for in an endeavor to help the people who are looking to him for leadership. I wish every man and woman in Floyd county could have attended the meeting Friday night and witnessed for themselves your active participation in a branch of conservation, the full meaning of which is fairly obvious. It is a pity that I myself in the belief I had a fair conception of what you have been trying to accomplish, but this meeting on the conservation of the forest has opened my eyes sufficiently to make me realize that I like most everyone else, am far behind you.

I hope it will be possible for your message to reach the ears of everyone, and that the moving pictures, so ably presented as I have come to know you men, E. H. Price, district fire warden, and Paul Cooper, district field agent of the Forestry Department, will be shown throughout the district. A few made possible only because of your personal efforts to obtain a generator to be used where electricity is not available.

While we think of you as our County Agent, I prefer to define your work in other terms. You are, in my opinion, as a good-will ambassador for the conservation of our natural resources.

Miss Jean Thomas, Ashland author and founder of the American Folk Song Festival, and Miss Florence Clarke, well-known Detroit singer and entertainer, were guests Friday night of Mr. and Mrs. Tom James. Mrs. James entertained her guests and Miss Helen Conaway to breakfast on Saturday morning at the Valley Inn.

P.S. I can't agree with you that the people are all very busy, in a sense that they could ever be too busy to attend a meeting of their own benefit.

TO A BOY'S MOTHER

Indications are you will be called on soon to spare your son long enough for him to receive a course in military training. It will be a most trying time for you, your heart will cry out at the prospect of a world of trouble that you will have to give up your most precious possession.

Please, just for a moment, let your heart be your guide and realize that the United States is not at war. Experiences during the last 22 years have taught us the best insurance against such a catastrophe is a thorough preparedness program. The training your boy will receive now will be a warning that the United States is strong enough to defend the free government we have had the privilege of living under for 163 years and they will think a long time before attacking us. We avoid further bloodshed in a new cause and how he might have been motivated by a desire to spare the Belgian race from virtual extermination.

One cannot understand how he could take so drastic a step as this without consulting first with the opinion of the French and British armies, how he could have taken such a step without consulting the Belgian race from virtual extermination.

But this is the third of three blunders made by Leopold. In 1918 he terminated the Belgian treaty of alliance with France and said he could rely on the pledge of the Nazis not to invade his country again. Even though the word of Hitler was notoriously unreliable, Leopold's mistake was committed in good faith. After the war he refused to confer with the British and the French on a plan of defense, he was still holding to a blind faith, or hope, in Hitler's promise.

It is to the everlasting credit of the Belgians that their cabinet, their officers, their soldiers and the people opposed the king's surrender. A King too young and inexperienced to carry the burden, may have fallen in the hour of greatest need, but his people did not, and will not have failed even if now the shocking demoralization of his action should cause their surrender.—Richmond Register.

Such headlines as "PEACE GROUP, MANY CHURCHES-RELATED, PUSH ANTI-WAR PROGRAMS" are commendable in themselves. In the lines which follow, however, one will find a true meaning.

"The War Resisters League, with an estimated membership of nearly 100,000, is an affiliate of the War Resisters' International. . . . At the same time the following is opposed in vigorous fashion to the Burke-Wadsworth bill which would sanction military training for all young men. . . . According to the F.O.R., military conscription in peace-time is un-American. . . ."

It would not require much intelligence to be able to visualize the smiles on the faces of the dictators in satisfaction at the utter stupidity of a country they would like to ravish permitting such propaganda. If we were operating on the principles of totalitarian ideas, all that would be necessary would be to order the imprisonment of any individual or group some one might consider inimical to our government. Individually I believe every American citizen would like to see several concentration camps constructed and filled within the next 24 hours, but as a group we realize that if such a program were carried out we would no longer be America, that you and I would lose the freedom we love. It is necessary a few tracers escape the hands of the military and they may retain the only true democracy left upon the face of the earth, then we are so.

Some members of fifth-column groups are merely mis-guided fools, physically developed into men and women, but with the brain of a child still playing as members of neighborhood-Little Scorpion Club. They do not realize they are the puppets in a big show with the strings being pulled from Germany, Russia and Italy, a smoke screen which has been Germany's greatest ally. Eventually, we hope, they will all end up where they can do no harm. In the meantime, all true Americans have an opportunity to prove their appreciation of our democratic form of government by not lending their ears to propaganda meant to destroy us.

READ BETWEEN THE LINES

Each day it becomes increasingly important that we "read between the lines" the propaganda disseminated by radio newspapers and otherwise.

CHARM

Here are six specific rules that will help every girl to make herself more charming. These rules were given me by Dr. Joseph R. Sevier, president of the Fassifern School for Girls, in Hendersonville, North Carolina.

A course on how to be charming is among the regular curriculum. How sensible. In all the world is there anything more necessary for a girl?

If anybody should know the problems of girls, it's Joseph R. Sevier, for he's taught and managed them for 20 years. In addition to being president of Fassifern, he has a summer camp for girls, Camp Greystone, in the North Carolina mountains.

I asked Dr. Sevier if he taught a Southern drawl as a part of his course, and he said, "No, Charm is deeper than a manner of speech. Naturally many of our girls have what is called 'the Southern accent,' but we have Northern girls who haven't any at all, and they're equally pleasing as our Southern girls."

Here they are, girls, just as you would get them in the classroom at Fassifern.

1. Interest yourself in others instead of trying to interest others in you. The great secret of charm is in thinking of the other person.

2. Don't monopolize the conversation. Draw out other members of the company present. Remember, that every person has an ego he wishes to express.

3. Do not expect constant praise. The girl who invariably tries to draw praise soon grows tiresome. If she wishes to make a good impression, it would be far better to praise the other person. To be liberal with praise, if it is sincere, will lead toward making a dozen friends where the praise-seeker makes one.

4. Listen respectfully to the opinions of others. Do not make light of them because you do not agree with them. Besides, the other person may be right.

5. Cultivate a skill which will give pleasure to others. By "skill" is meant habits which will influence and serve other people. For example, the girl who can play the piano or tennis, or is clever in other entertaining ways, is likely to be considered more charming than the girl who does none of these things.

Singing, story telling, making quick caricatures of those present, and fortune telling, will add to the amusement of a group. In other words, the girl who "does something" is more charming than the girl who sits back, contributing nothing.

6. If you feel a person is lonely, talk to him, serve him tea. There are many ways in which you can give attention and create happiness.

Above all, says Dr. Sevier, give up the idea that charm consists of beautiful clothes, an accent, a smile. It's deeper and far more fundamental.

Since these qualifications are sometimes not stressed in the home, Dr. Sevier is providing Fassifern girls with an asset that will serve them long after their diplomas may have crumbled the book-learning that may come their way.

Board of Education Is Defendant In Suit

Alleging that the Floyd County Board of Education removed from her property a dwelling house which was rightfully hers, Mrs. Martha Hale, widow of the late Samuel Hale, of Goodie, this week in Floyd Circuit Court sought to recover from the board $500, the value of the building.

The suit was filed by Attorney Joe Hobson.

In 1910, the petition contents, Samuel Hale delivered a deed for a tract of land on Middle Creek to the board, which was to hold it as long as it was used for school purposes.

When the property ceased to be used for that purpose, it was to revert to Hale. In 1915 Hale deeded to Martha Hale a tract of land which included that which had been previously deeded to the board and she became owner of the land and improvements, subject to the right of the board to use the property in question.

Although for the past 15 years, the petition maintains, the Board of Education had ceased to use the property and had abandoned it, the board, "knowing that it had no right to the said property or any improvements thereon," entered the said tract into a deed for a dwelling house, valued at $500. At the time of the removal, the plaintiff contends, the dwelling was a part of the realty attached to the land and was removed without her consent.

WHITLEY COUNTY BAR ASSOCIATION ENDORSES SILER FOR APPELLATE JUDGE

Eugene E. Siler, candidate for the Republican nomination for Judge of the Court of Appeals, recently received the endorsement of members of the Whitley County Bar Association, an organization made up of the County's leading lawyers.

Since Mr. Siler has been a practicing attorney for sixteen years and has conducted himself in strict keeping with the highest precepts of his profession, it is only natural that his fellow lawyers should be ready and willing to recommend him for a position on the bench of Kentucky's highest tribunal.

The Bar Association's endorsement is as follows: The Whitley County Bar Association and the members of the Whitley County Bar do hereby endorse the candidacy of Eugene E. Siler for Judge of the Court of Appeals.

"Mr. Siler is a graduate of Cumberland College and the University of Kentucky, and has been practicing law for sixteen years and is a good lawyer, rich and poor alike. We know him and will serve with fairness to all, and he is a deserving Christian gentleman, and not only a leader at the Bar, but also a leader in civic and community work. We recommend him to the voters of the Seventh Appellate District."

MOONSHINE STILL IS CAPTURED

Though the operators were not found, their scene of operations was located Friday afternoon on Wolf Branch, at Buckingham by Deputy Sheriffs Lacey Salsbury and Dewey Hicks who immediately put out of operation a moonshine still that apparently had been giving somebody plenty of employment. Approximately 150 gallons of mash were destroyed. Worm of the still was brought here.

HEALTH NEWS

Director, Floyd County Health Dept.

WHOOPING COUGH

Whooping cough is a dangerous and highly contagious disease, and particularly among infants and young children. It is "catching" from its earliest stages even before the "whoop" has begun, until the victim is practically well.

Whooping cough starts with symptoms not unlike the common cold, with slight fever, discharging nose and a cough. It is often impossible to make a positive diagnosis before the end of the first week. If it is a common cold the patient will usually be better or well by the end of the first week and if whooping cough they will usually be worse.

The cough from whooping cough comes in paroxysms and is usually worse at night. In mild cases it may not be more than five or six paroxysms or coughing during the night; in severe cases the paroxysms may reach a dozen or more. The progress of the disease may be watched by keeping count of the paroxysms or coughing during the night, the number decreasing as the child improves.

What to Do for Whooping Cough
When your child shows the first signs of whooping cough, call your doctor, and follow his directions absolutely. He can do much to relieve the child's distress and to prevent complications.

Good nursing care and careful feeding are very important in keeping the child in best physical condition. Give foods that are easily digested. See that he gets plenty of fresh air. Keep the room well aired night and day, but avoid draughts.

Many children lose weight and become very weak from whooping cough. In this condition they are liable to pneumonia which is the most common complication. Whooping cough may also cause heart strains.

How to Protect Your Family and Neighbors
If your child has been exposed to whooping cough, or has what you think is a slight cold, keep it at home until it is well or has passed the time for developing it. This is usually about two weeks. Never take a child that has been exposed to whooping cough to Sunday School, church, picture show or other places where it may expose other children to the disease. If the child is of school age and has been exposed to whooping cough, keep it at home until you see if it is going to take it, or has recovered from the disease. Don't get the idea that all children have to have whooping cough, or any other contagious disease, and that because your children have it the other children in the neighborhood are no better than your children, and should have it also. Carelessness and indifference on the part of parents are the two factors that keep contagious diseases spreading.

Whooping Cough in Floyd County

Whooping cough is running rampant in a number of communities in this county at the present time and is furnishing a good cause for headaches in several cases. The school authorities reach a dozen or more. The progress of the disease may be watched by keeping count of the paroxysms or coughing during the night, the number decreasing as the child improves.

The rural schools opened this week and a number of teachers have reported whooping cough in their communities. Some parents are refusing to send their children to school on that account. Some are sincere, no doubt, but others are looking for excuses to keep their children out of school. This kind of attitude is to the county attendance officers whose duties are to see that the children attend school.

My advice to the teachers is that they use their best judgment in handling the situation in their communities as every community may present a different problem and it is better, qualified to handle the situation as they are on the ground and know local conditions. My suggestions are that they exclude every child from school that has the disease or has been exposed until they have recovered from the disease or have passed the time for developing it, and report to the attendance officer all children that are staying out of school for fear of taking the disease.

time it is out to the moment it goes into a new house will be detailed. During the coal mine broadcast, sounds to be heard will be the cutting machinery at the coal face, the shooting down of the coal bringing it out on the mine cars, and the sound of the tipples.

The industrial broadcasts constitute an effort of University of Kentucky's radio department to present vital educational material based on living Kentucky institutions. Other industries in the state include railroads (from Illinois Central Shops, Paducah), touring (Mammoth Cave), quarrying (Central Rock Company, Lexington), and many others.

Kentucky Industries To Be Featured On Radio

Two southeastern Kentucky industries will be featured on University of Kentucky radio program over WLSB (Cincinnati, on Sundays, July 21, and July 28, respectively, 3:30 to 4:00 p. m. Central Standard Time. The industries are the McCracken and McCall lumber mill near Pineville, and the Crech Coal Mine in Harlan County.

These broadcasts will form units of the "Visiting Kentucky Industries" series during which a dozen of Kentucky's leading industries are being portrayed. The broadcasts are all being made from the actual scenes of industrial activity, and sounds of the various processes, interviews with executives and workers, and tidbits, constitute the program material.

Drift Splits Twin Bill With Melvin Sunday, 14-0 and 2-3

In the first game of a doubleheader at Drift Sunday the Turner-Elkhorn team of Drift defeated their opponents by seven straight by taking the Melvin Tigers, 14-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Jim McDowell. In this game the Drift hitters drove out 21 hits to score at will.

In the nightcap the Melvin team combined a walk, error and two hits on Fred McSurley for two runs to break a 1-0 deadlock in the sixth inning and sew up the ball game. Newsome pitched good in the pinches to gain a decision over McSurley, although Drift outhit the Melvin boys. Drift scored one in the fifth and one in the ninth and had base-running cost them at least a tie.

Jim McDowell came back in the sixth inning of the second game to relieve McSurley and pitched airtight ball—not allowing a hit and striking out six men in the three innings.

Sunday afternoon the Drift team takes on the league-leading Coal Run Colts at Drift.

ALONG THE BIG SANDY

KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Robert J. Hill, 43, was instantly killed in the mines of the Consolidation Coal Company Monday morning, July 1.

He died instantly following a premature explosion of monel which he was shooting coal. No one knows just how the accident occurred as he was working alone at the time.

The body was badly mangled. Evidently he had the monel in his hands as the main force of the blast hit him in the breast.

Funeral services were held at Van Lear July 4.

FEDERAL COURTHOUSE FOR PIKEVILLE IS ASSURED

Pikeville's $155,000 federal building project—a new federal courthouse—is back on the active list at the Public Building Administration since Congress approved an increase in its authorized cost.

It was one of 33 federal building projects, part authorized as long ago as June, 1936, which never were started because the administration learned the cost limitation originally approved was not enough. The limitations were raised by the second deficiency appropriation bill, signed by President Roosevelt the first week in June, and the administration now can proceed with its plans.

A federal courthouse for Pikeville was authorized in August, 1937, with the cost limited to $135,000. The administration allotted $8,000 for a site, but had to pay $18,000. In addition, a connecting walk between the new building and the postoffice was planned, and Congress approved a $20,000 increase in the cost limit to cover these additional costs. The site has been acquired, working drawings completed, and bids were advertised July 3, which means the building construction should start within a few weeks.

SHIKE'S POKES

(Views expressed in this column are those of the writer and not necessarily those of The Times.)

So the Russell Times says that the "FDR on the locusts" wings are for Willie—We knew it was some kind of a plague—and he will last about as long as the locusts—40 days. Then we will hear no more about him for 17 years.

After a bout with FDR, we imagine Willie will be glad to be buried for 17 years.

Hey Doug Hays, you seemed mad about the way the state convention was organized. Remember, Doug, that was a Roosevelt delegation and we didn't want those fellows that fought FDR and Barkley in this district two years ago—and the Seventh is one district where Roosevelt strength is predominant. Wasn't Oldiron an original Barkley man? No, Doug, I'm like you—I don't believe in the "Fifth Column" in this district, but we had it two years ago.

I have repeatedly warned the state administration to put its house in order in this district, but, as you say, they still hang on to the "Culls." The real stronghold of the anti-administration is in Pike county—yet, Doug, they even have hard-surfaced roads to their out-houses, while on Left Beaver, an administration stronghold, we have nothing but mud. This is brought about by administration men giving their enemies all the grapes, while the administration's friends are "sold down the river" by a weak-kneed bunch of administration bosses. Will continue to be fast, too, Doug, until we quit electing a bunch that gives us the run-around at every opportunity.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you, snore and you sleep by yourself, seems to hold good—as far as Floyd county and the state administration are concerned, we may just as well laugh as to belly-ache—cause we have three more years of it.

That's a great idea—to establish an air base in this county. Even if Hitler got over here, he'd have one h— of a time finding an airport away from here.

Wheeler yelling about a third party all the bunches' going to support the nominee—FDR.

To "This Town-That World"—and if your cows are cowards, why wouldn't young bulls be "bull-ets"? (Editor's note: Yes, IP...)

David Lawrence, Frank Kent and a bunch of these communists are all agreeing with HITLER when they want to get rid of ROOSEVELT.

The Republican Bible, the Literary

Digest, has disappeared—but they have another one now—Portune Magazine.

Lum said that he knew something was wrong when Dewey L. bought a red tie and a box of cigars. Yep, he is the new night boss at Turner-Elkhorn.

The CIO and the AFL will have to agree now—we all know that no Labor organization will support a Utilities Magnate, Liberty Leaguer, etc.

Howard Henderson says that the state has started a half-million dollar state highway purge. Seems as though weed-cutters will be scarce this summer.

Murah for the Hatch Act! A bunch of cheap politicians who come under this act will have to stay out or be prosecuted.

A few words should be added to Triv-berlin's song that the Republicans have adopted—"God Bless America—and the Power Plants."

Well, we have our headache shop back in Drift—a liquor store opened up Saturday afternoon.

Weeks-bury, McDowell, Drift, Martin, through his business association and other communities will be asked to organize committees for the purpose of marshaling the forces of their civic-minded citizens to join the motorcade to Frankfort.

Presenting the head of Left Beaver's case in the need for a completed highway, Dr. Arnett assured the Prestonsburg business men that he felt "safe in saying that the miners as well as company officials of our section want to come to Prestonsburg, the county seat of the county in which they live and work, instead of going to Pikeville."

Only other business of importance transacted at the meeting was the appointment of Reuben Taylor, Charles Osborne and W. F. Clarke as supervisors to "equalize" the city tax assessment for 1940.

A. J. MAY OF PRESTONSBURG, KY. 1. He has made an excellent record as a Representative of our District during the years of his service in the Congress of the United States. 2. His many years' service at the bar as one of the leading lawyers of his state and his ten years faithful service in Congress has developed him into a wise, experienced and recognized legislator of ability, and by reason of that experience, he is now capable of rendering still greater service to all our people. 3. He is now and for several years has been chairman of one of the leading and most powerful committees of the United States House of Representatives, that of Military Affairs, which gives him a prominent position of leadership where he ranks high as one of the leaders of the House. 4. He is strongly opposed to involving our country in a foreign war, and as head of the Committee on Military Affairs he is in position to exert great influence in the building of a powerful defense of America against aggression by any foreign foe. While he remains in Washington to strive for our freedom and for the liberties of all our people, let us go to the polls and show our appreciation by voting for him. 5. He is indorsed by all labor groups on his perfect record of support of labor legislation. 6. When he came into office ten years ago there was not a single government-owned building in the district, but today we see new postoffices, many magnificent schools and other public buildings, and more than fifteen million dollars have been spent in building roads to rural sections. 7. Actual practical service in Congress is admitted by all well-informed persons to be a controlling influence in the equipment of one for real service to his district, and it would be unwise, we believe, to retire an experienced legislator for one without such valuable experience. This was just recently emphasized by unqualified endorsement of Congressman May's record of support of the National Administration by Democratic county, district and state conventions. 8. Finally, we should listen to the voice of experience and not "swamp hoes in the middle of the stream," especially when the stream is fraught with great perils. CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE Candidate for Re-Nomination to the Office of Representative IN CONGRESS FROM THE 7th District OF KENTUCKY We are authorized to announce A. J. MAY, of Prestonsburg, as a candidate for re-nomination to the office of Representative in Congress from the Seventh District of Kentucky, and urge all Democrats to go to the polls on August 3rd and cast their ballots for him for the following reasons:
