CONTRIBUTION OF EMPLOYEES TO UNEMPLOYMENT FUND CEASES JUNE 30TH

Frankfort, Ky., June 15 (Sp.)—Many of the more important changes written into the Unemployment Compensation law at the last session of the Legislature will become effective July 1. Executive Director V. E. Barnes of the Unemployment Commission, announced today.

"As a result of one of these amendments employees will not be required to contribute to the Unemployment Insurance Fund on wages earned after June 30," the Commission director declared. "At present employees contribute 1 per cent of their taxable wages."

"Another change will enable the Commission to return to its former procedure of paying benefits upon a weekly basis. This, with the amendment reducing a claimant's waiting period from two weeks to one week, will make it possible for the Commission to issue the claimant's first benefit check shortly after his second week of unemployment. At present, because of the two-week waiting period requirement and the provision that checks be issued bi-weekly, the Commission cannot issue the claimant's first check until after his fourth week of unemployment."

"Other changes raise the minimum rate from $4 to $5 and the maximum weekly rate from $15 to $16. Benefits for total unemployment will, as at present, be paid for 16 weeks. This period, however, for claimants whose rate is reduced because of deductions for earnings or other remuneration will be extended beyond 16 weeks. In no case, however, will the claimant receiving partial benefits receive a greater benefit than that the claimant who is totally unemployed."

"These are the principal changes becoming effective July 1," Barnes explained. "Certain other provisions became effective the date the law was approved by Governor Johnson and other changes were retroactive to January 1 of this year."

"Effective as of the date the law was approved is a provision protecting the wage credits of those workers called into military service. These wage credits are now frozen and may be used by the service man in claiming benefits when he is released from the armed forces."

"The provision setting 27 per cent as the highest contribution rate the employer might be required to pay upon his quarterly payroll was retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year. The Gray Eagle led Cleveland to her last pennant—her only pennant in some 50 years and more.

The Gray Eagle is better known as Tris Speaker—one of the great ball players of all baseball time. The Gray Eagle was the flying hawk who prevented Ty Cobb from leading the American league 13 consecutive seasons. This was the ball hawk—especially ball hawk.

"I'd like to tell you something about this kid Lou Boudreau," Tris Speaker said.

"Not a bad manager," he suggested.

"Not a bad manager," the Eagle almost screamed. "If he has the chance to keep going—I'm talking about the war never—he'll be one of the best that baseball has ever known."

"Here's a 24-year-old kid who is smart, game, crafty, forceful, respectful and admired by every man on his club—and a corking ball player on the side."

"But the war is far more important than Boudreau or baseball. No one knows what will happen a little later on. I'm just trying to tell you what Boudreau might have been in normal times."

How It Happened

"When Alva Bradley, president of the club, was looking around for a new manager," Speaker continued, "he asked me about three or four possibilities. They were all good men."

"But I asked Alva, 'Why go away from your own club?'"

"Who would that be?" Mr. Bradley asked.

"I'd like to name Boudreau," I said. "How can you lead a better man than me?"

"'You're only 24,' Bradley said. 'In a year or two he'll be one of the best in baseball. Take him and give him a chance.'"

"At that time we were not at war. I figured then that Boudreau would need a year or two, or maybe three, to get up to speed. I'd picked them up, with the material he had."

"Lou took over a club that wasn't so hot last season—even with Bob Feller. I thought I'd give him a few games. Lou didn't have a Feller or a Knickerbocker. Cleveland, minus Bob Feller, looked to be one of the major-league clubs."

Feller meant Cleveland. Bob had won 24 games in 1939, 27 in 1940, and 25 games in 1941. When you lose a guy who can win 17 games for you in three years, you've lost more than your shirt.

Boudreau's Job

"When Boudreau took his Cleveland club this spring, he understood what Feller's absence meant. I don't think he understood the psychological effect of losing a star pitcher, but he knew that the Yankees have most of the good ball players. How can you be a club that has Joe Gordon, Bill Dickey, Joe DiMaggio, Charlie Keller, and such pitchers as Boham, Ruffing, Russo, Chandler, Brewer, Donald and a few more."

"But in this first year, with Feller missing, the Indians are still up there giving the Yankees a battle."

"And don't forget there are hardly any members of this Cleveland squad who could even make the Yankee team."

About the Eagle

We turned the pages back to 1908, only 34 years ago, when Tris was playing with Little Rock. That was our first meeting. The Gray Eagle was a great ball player then.

Time has taken nothing from him. He has been beyond all question the greatest fielding outfielder in the game's history—and I can give you Jimmy McAtee, Fred Clarke, Jimmie Sheppard (Ring Lardner's pick), Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Joe Jackson, and several others.

And normally Tris was better than a .350 hitter. Beyond this the Gray Eagle from Hubbard City, Texas, has had more brains than most of the tribe.

Speaker has had the personality that belongs only to a few around the top rung. He is now in his 40s, all gray and partly bald, but still more ready and willing to get in any form of war work where he might be useful. At present he is on a draft board in Cleveland "where he tells you, if you are playing no favorites. And he's not just saying that."

United States Marines go ashore in style—leaving a 37 man pack crew behind them. The leathernecks have at last found a car that will take all the knocks a Marine must take in fighting his way through the mud and mire of war.

CLEAR CREEK SCREENINGS

By SAND DAD

It's beyond the natural powers of man to tell whether or not a man can eat his way to glory, but it is very evident that a lot of sinners at Clear Creek have been trying to do so.

The ladies of the church at Clear Creek serve a mighty tasty meal at a reasonable price every two weeks. So eat, you sinners and sinners! It will make you strong, aside from the fact that the spiritual association might help you some.

Just how he found out, we don't know, but Wheeler Turner reports that the lady who served the hot soup was all wrong about that much-discussed "banty" rooster belonging to one Henry Campbell. Wheeler says that the rooster was not devoured at the time and place mentioned by Shike, but was served at the Tavern in the Sky or some such outlandish name or name, and that the guests were so many that they had to make "banty soup" so that all could have a taste of this rare dish. Water, please pass the banty soup—I'm about to cry in my pillow or was it Budweiser. Speak up, Wheeler. Were you there?

Evidently Johnnie Caudill has sent and dinner sections in his mine on the Clear Creek side. We came across Foreman Johnnie the other night at the mouth of star right entry trying to figure out some changes in the working places. "I hate like hell to send a good man to work in a place where he's not wanted. I know that gang up there will make a first-class bar out of it to send Foreman Johnnie to work. Puggy Joe Osborne had not climbed the spiritual ladder very high, because he sent him up there and Joe proceeded to get lost the second night. The boys there have a remedy for the matter. You see, they are going to put a bell on Kennel Hill. Foreman Johnnie can follow him to their places of work."

We hear a lot of discussion as we travel over the county of Floyd as to the fairness of the two Draft Boards. Board 45 serves the upper end of the county and we think they are doing a swell job serving the public at such a thankless task. Eye Sand Dad is saying, right out loud, that he thinks these three men—J. M. Turner, Henry Campbell and Harry Zimmerman—are all three gentlemen and scholars and all the good things that go with these titles.

It is reported that pretty soon at the old boarding house we will have individual sugar bowls to put our half pound in. Note to the cook: Please don't let anybody flich my sugar.

Frank Zimkiw is the "Mad Russian" of Clear Creek, only we have never seen him mad except when he reads his paper. The Voice of Russia, where the Nazis have made a new advance. We were talking the other day about the Russia of the old days under the regime of the Czar. Frank tells me that there were only two reasons to divorce a woman in that time—and one of them was, of all things, halfloos.

Well, well—here's the hoping you never did a bachelor but in your part of Black-eyed Susans. So long till next time.

WAYLAND HOT SHOTS

By E. H.

The news from Wayland is slightly improved. That darned tipple ran five straight days last week and did not break down.

According to the statistics of the United Nations, it costs the Japanese government $3,000 to kill an allied soldier. If the men in the good old U.S.A. will regular every day we'll get them damned shape down as low as three for a quarter. At that rate, if every man who is able to work would buy a twenty-five dollar bond each month, it would not be long until there would not be one of the monkeys left.

Wonder why Mr. Bussey don't like to be called "Old Man Bussey"? You can look at Otis and Bull Dawson, his sons, and tell he's no spring chicken.

Pete Opsell and Debert Webb got used to honky-tonking together so much that, as soon as Pete went to school, he'd go to Debert's. Debert just could not stay away. He had to go, too. Once a jitterbug, always one.

All the local officers of the Big Sandy-Richmond in District No. 30 attended a convention at the Martin high school auditorium last Friday night. Several good talks were made by representatives of the International Union, U.M.W.A., including two International Police commissioners. I did miss Shikepoke. I guess maybe his wife had him locked in the house, but we did have Eutler Turner, who can talk just about as much as Shike.

There must be something to this Wayland water. They say that J. M. (Morg) Turner still carries his water from Wayland—and he only lives about 300 yards out of town. Why not lay a pipe line, Morg?

Richard Vinson says his fever has gone up again and that he's longing for those defense jobs. He says he gets up every morning and it seems like he can hear the whistle of ships coming in to the docks. Remember, Richard, you tried it once. And so did I.

THE GARDEN

By JOHN S. GARDNER

Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics

HOME-SAVING OF GARDEN SEEDS

Whether or not last spring's high seed prices are a portent of high prices to stay, the old art of saving vegetable seed from the garden well bears reviving. It is not difficult to do and its advantages are many. For one, it is guaranty that fresh seed is had; much of that that came to the home gardeners this year was not. Besides, a gardener may thus have well suited sorts, whether he knows their seed catalogue names or not.

Happily, the easiest seed to save is of the most important vegetables—beans and tomatoes. Beans "mature almost at all, and tomatoes "come true" well over 85 per cent. To save tomato seed, one need not wait until the fruit has become dark red; but there is maturing seed in tomatoes only fairly well colored. Selection should be made in the first cluster, called the "crown" cluster, of fruits that please the eye. These are pulped into a non-metal container and set away, perhaps covered with cheesecloth to keep out the insects. After three days or so, fermenting starts, and this cuts loose the phlegm in which the seeds are enclosed, and the good seeds fall to the bottom. The waste is then poured off, the seed gathered and spread to dry but not in the sun, as intense light tends to kill germination of seed of all kinds.

Kale seed and that of all the cabbage genera is easy to save, and a half-dozen plants yield enough for an average garden. However, there is danger of mixing, for example, curly kale tends to become smooth, grown too close to rape. One hundred feet is reasonably far enough to separate them, though, for that matter, such mixing is of little importance, except possibly for looks.

BASKET DINNER

WILL BE HELD ALL DAY

Sunday, June 21

AT WEST PRESTONSBURG, KY.

Cancel other plans now and make ready to spend the entire day on this cool spot where you can relax and listen to good singing, good music and preaching throughout the day.

The Rev. Chas. Sheaffer, known as "The Boy Preacher", will be there. This is your chance to hear the boy God called at the age of 11—unusual, outstanding in message and song. It may be your last chance to see and hear him.

Many other ministers also will be present.

Again we will have a loud speaker to carry the program.

Bring your basket and spend the day. Plenty of good, cold drinking water on the grounds.

In case of rain—come, anyway. The service, in that event, will be continued from the church.

Uncle Sam has far more POWER for War Production than all these three together!

The full facilities of all these companies are dedicated today to making Uncle Sam so power-full that Axis aggressors will soon be nothing more than three busts in the Hall of Infamy! America can do it because America has the power to do it. Electric power multiplying tanks, planes, ships and guns. How much power has America? More than the three dictators and all their conquered countries combined. Five times more than we had in the last war. And this has been done almost entirely by electric companies owned by millions of Americans and managed by American business men.

THE HOME FRONT

HERE IS A RESUME OF IMPORTANT HAPPENINGS

Home front lines thicken. WPB cites workers. Lima plant breaks record. More shortages predicted. Fish, pork may be scarce. War styles may change. Travel to be restricted. Eastman issues warning. Milk delivery suspended. OPA checks merchants. WPB hints punitive action. Farm machinery supply gauged.

At home, there were no rumparts to make us appreciate the war. It is manpower mobilization, more work and more skimping. Yet, what Americans at home have accomplished in the months of humpdum plugging—finally exploded and made history and heroes at Midway. The privations which the Home Front will be called upon to accept in the next six months of the war will be many. For the most part, they will be the things to which civilian America has always been accustomed.

A few days ago, officials of the War Production Drive journeyed to Rochester, N. Y., for a ceremony which resembled that which accompanies a diaton on the battle front. They went to celebrate the victory won by workers in the war plant of a company, the Symington-Gould Corporation, which has produced for a hit program of production 14 percent in a single month.

41 Draft Violators Convicted In Kentucky

JENKINS, Ky., June 11.—Louisville FBI Agent H. K. Moss today told 40 law enforcement officers from five Eastern Kentucky counties that 41 persons in Kentucky and 728 in the nation had been convicted of violating the selective service act. Moss was the principal speaker at the quarterly police conference attended by officers from Floyd, Letcher, Pike, Harlan and Knott counties.

Continued conversion of industrial plants from civilian to war manufacture will continue to cause shortages of many manufactured things for which materials might be theoretically plentiful. Crowding of four transportation systems, submarine sinkings on the high seas, will cause the same result. In the coming months, these scarcities will cause us to change our lives so that war industry may have first preference in the clothing we wear and the food we eat.

Clothing will not be rationed this year, but we can expect further changes in style to conserve textiles. As war traffic jams our railroads and taxes every bus and truck with their vanishing tires, traveling will be restricted to the bare bones of necessity, to day coaches and upper berths instead of parlors, lowers and compartments.

If people don't conserve their tires in business and pleasures, gasoline rationing may do it for them. There's no prospect of synthetic rubber for civilian use before 1944. Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, and chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the nation's foremost transportation authority, put the proposition before a meeting of Cleveland business men during the week: "If automobile operations are not restricted by some form of man-

Walter Winchell

Newspaper Men Staff: WHEN A REPORTER CRUSADES against dirty elements in a community or country there is very little glory connected with it, but he puts himself in great personal danger. Donald H. Miller of the London (Ohio) Daily News was killed by a sniper because he exposed their activities. In 1922, George Dole of the Minneapolis Tribune first fought the K. K. One night a few of them attacked him and almost killed him. He shot one of the fellows in the hand. Klansmen in high places laid their hands on him. In 1926 the State Supreme Court ruled in Dole's favor. For many years the Klan dominated the politics of the state. Because of his fight he has been offered a job in the city room—and every reporter had a gun lying beside his typewriter. He has never stopped firing his typewriter gun against the slimey members of the Klan. He is still in spite of all kinds of threats. Yet some people wonder why we write a J.B.

Innocent Bystander

It was a bad day for the Axis whippers when you get through. Churchill slapped a couple of chips off Adolf's shoulder, and Berlin cried its eyes out. "You ask for peace," taunted Winston, "and gas you'll get." The Berlin press whined next day. "Please, mister, you got to be fair." The press exchange between Oliver Liddleton and Donald Nelson, with Quentin Reynolds' encouragement, was an encouragement to Nazi swindlers. They talked great big production figures that won't make it an easy summer for the British. Another exciting bulletin was the item from Burma—how the Chinese tricked the Japs into over-running their second base. And putting the ball on them with a thump that just about told the skull open. "Byron is a clamp down on radio news," he said, would make the public suspicious of the war effort. This March of Time hubbed on the Malla episode. Bad timing more than anything—since the show went on the night before it really got going in Malla.

The Story Tellers: Gen. de Gaulle was in the doghouse with the brass hats before the war started. Elliot Paul, in his book, "The Last Time I Saw Paris," writes that de Gaulle was a pool-pooper of the Maginot Line, the darling of the army clique. He was a hit man in the eyes of Hitler and the end. Scott Feldman surprises you in "The Woman with a Plan to Get a Stage Job" in his troupe for a little theater. There's always a Schubert or two lurking there, he says, to lure you for a hit man. Scott Feldman goes TOWARD AN ACTOR! P. Flimster John Davis, according to Lupton Wilkinson in "This Week," "lives in a purple house with yellow knobs at the corners, sleeps in a Du Barry bed with mauve and lilac trimmings. The line in her bodor mirror is tinted peachblom." What's she looking for? Nightmares in technicolor?

Nazi propagandists keep repeating that they love peace. Every time Hitler and another Nazi makes a speech, they insist that they are peace. And the tragic part of this is that they are right. Hitler aimed at America was manufactured by an American press agent. When the Nazis first came to power they were stopped boasting to the outside world about their warlike attitude. But when this peace agent was Hitler, he told the Nazis to base their propaganda on disarmament and peace. You've probably guessed his name—By Lee. And so it was this tip by a press agent that made many Americans and people in other democracies believe Nazis really wanted peace. Strange as it seems, we might not have had a war if democracies weren't lulled to sleep by Nazi peace talk.

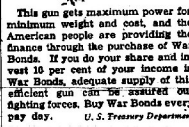

The Front Pages: The Herald-Tribune editorially declared war on Laval & Co. and advised the State Dept that Vichy has rattled on the USA from the start. It okayed Japs for attacks on China. The paper reminded, and cautioned Hull that Laval's word wasn't any better than a police court package. "If Vichy wants to be chummy, how come those undrained brats demonstrated in front of the U. S. embassy Monday?"

Barry Felt of INS once pointed out why reporters should not be permitted to publish their stories. He said: "Stories are like vegetables. Use them quickly or they spoil."

He was blind. . . But every day he had his secretary read every item in a newspaper. He wanted to know what page an item was printed on, how much space did it fill, how much was devoted to headlines, what were the cross-heads, were any boxes used, what about the illustrations. . . And that's the way one of America's greatest publishers guided one of the country's greatest newspapers for many years. . . His name: Joseph Pulitzer. The newspaper: The N. Y. World.

Kentucky 4-H Girl Is "All-American Junior Club Miss"

Announcement of the selection of Miss Iris Shannon of Oldham county as the most outstanding 4-H club girl in America, was made at the close of the annual Junior Week program at the University of Kentucky. This high honor was bestowed by The Country Gentleman, a national agricultural magazine published in Philadelphia. As a star of the magazine, Miss Shannon will spend a week in New York, and while there receive a complete outfit of clothes selected in one of the big department stores. Miss Shannon, who is 17 years old, was state champion 4-H club style revue girl last year and won a blue ribbon in a national style show in Chicago.

Elizabeth Gully of Garrard county is this year's style revue champion. Other winners at Junior Week include Edith Inez Rount, Lure county, clothing judging; Betty Burney, Ballard county, foods judging; Betty Jean McConnell, Shelby county, home furnishings judging; Betty Pihon, Pike county, individual home practice demonstrations; Robert S. Smith, Lure county, farm practice demonstrations; Graves county, dairy foods demonstrations; Madison county, farm practice demonstrations; Christian county, home practice demonstrations; McCracken county, terracing demonstrations.

Lucy May Criggs of Madison county was recognized as the outstanding 4-H club girl and Charles Hatcher, Campbell county, as the outstanding boy, of Junior Week.

PULASKI AND FLOYD

PULASKI COUNTY has made the lethal mistake of returning to the sub-district trustee election. It is a lethal mistake because election of those sub-district trustees—friends and neighbors opposing each other, and most of them eventually coming bitter enemies—has in the past resulted in bloodshed and surely in the future, unless immutable human nature changes, will result in more bloodshed, all for no good reason whatever.

Floyd county has but to remember the Prater Creek affair in which men of good families of good repute in the community fought out one of these pitifully "little" affairs in the narrow confines of a one-room school, a few years ago. This county cannot forget that elimination of such neighborhood rivalry over an inconsequential thing like a rural school has, since that time, saved other good citizens from killing others or from dying in a trivial cause.

This newspaper does not carry the political torch for County Superintendent Town Hall or any other official, and it reiterates the infamy of the fact that they all depend upon political torch-bearers. Yet it cannot, with any degree of honesty or sincerity, deny the fact that one of the finest things ever achieved in Floyd county was that one strove for Town Hall's by which he eliminated the little, old sub-district school election.

BAD SHOW BUSINESS

THE carnivals are coming! Buy your war stamps and bonds now. If you don't you'll spend your money foolishly when you should invest it wisely for the salvation of your country and humanity.

And the carnivals will take that money in one direction only—out. Away, forever, from your community. The nomads of the alleged "entertainment world" are bringing into your community—point out to us even one good thing these carnivals supply, and we'll list you a dozen bad things.

This is no argument to deprive children of the fun they might have at a carnival. But the fact is, it's not the children who are robbed of their fun when the carnivals stay away—it's those grown-ups who have no fondness for childish pleasures.

Some carnivals, it goes without saying, are not as bad as others; but, usually, the carnivals follow them—usually, the health department is authority for that statement—open gambling is the rule rather than the exception, and vice is promoted by word of mouth and exhibitions behind tent-flaps.

Finally, practically every home-town business is affected for weeks after the peripatetic "hot spot" is far away. Rob the piggy-bank for a war stamp; don't waste the money while your family and country need it.

STATESMANLY CREED

HISTORY has not recorded a more bitter personal political feud than that existing between Andrew Jackson and Daniel Webster when the former occupied the White House and the latter was an outstanding member of the Senate from Massachusetts.

Floyd Counties Hurt In Ohio Auto Wreck

Mrs. Sherman May, of Garrett, sustained two broken ribs Sunday morning when the auto in which her husband sat died on a brick highway at Sciotoville, O., which had been rendered slippery by recent rainfall. The auto crashed into a telephone pole and Mr. May and Mrs. May and Mrs. James E. Goble, of Prestonsburg, suffered cuts and bruises. Mr. May and Mrs. Goble returned here Sunday night. The party was en route to Portsmouth, O., to visit Mr. and Mrs. James Prater and other relatives.

GUESTS OF RELATIVES

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Salisbury and daughters, Marian and Charlotte, of Cave City, Ky., are guests here of Mrs. Salisbury's mother, Mrs. Laine Maso, and of other relatives.

In view of the fact that so many of our public men, highly placed in the government affairs, today are too frequently influenced in their official acts by personal animus and hate, the following quotation from one of Webster's speeches is timely and should prove helpful:

"I intend, here, to stigmatize my commendation of the conduct of the President in regard to the proclamation and the subsequent measures. I have differed with the President, as all know who know anything of so humble an individual as myself, on many questions of great general interest and importance. . . . But all these differences afforded, in my judgment, not the slightest reason for opposing him in a measure of paramount importance, and at a moment of great public exigency. I sought to take counsel of nothing but patriotism; to feel no impulse but that of duty, and to yield not a lame and hesitating, but a vigorous and cordial support to measures, which, in my conscience, I believed essential to the preservation of the Constitution. It is true, doubtless, that if myself and others had surrendered ourselves to a spirit of opposition, we might have embarrassed, and probably defeated, the measures of the administration. But in so doing, we should, in my opinion, have been false to our own characters, false to our duty, and false to our country."

Webster so spoke in a speech at Pittsburgh in 1853, but his creed is as sound today as it was then, and the country will benefit from patriotic statesmen respecting it and following it.—Herald-Dispatch (Huntington, W. Va.)

LIDICE CAN NEVER BE WIPED OUT

THE mad dogs of the Gestapo are in full cry in Europe now. That loathsome, inhuman cry reminds us of several things. It reminds us that we are fighting against—the spirit of bestiality that can murder the males and drive away all the women and children of a village because it is "suspected" of harboring Czech patriots. It reminds us that this war is not, as a few muddled minds still affect to believe, a war for living space, for empire, but a war against the complete degradation of the human spirit. The Gestapo's inhuman cry reminds us that the bombing of cities (have we become accustomed to that so soon, and begun to take it for granted?) began only a few years ago, when the Axis held its war games in Spain.

Yes, the vengeance squads now roaming the stricken lands of Europe may bring things to mind. There is no dignity in what we see and hear, only the savage use of armed power to crush the little folk, to slaughter the innocents. There is no dignity in wrangling over the count of the dead. Germany officially admits some 5,500 executions. Allied governments in exile, with all their sources of secret information, estimate nearly 450,000. The Yugoslav government estimates 350,000 slain in that country alone—sufficient evidence of the flaming spirit of the conquered people. The Nazis do not deny, but rather boast, of their shootings and their bayoneting and their hangings. The principle of rule by terror they find congenial. We should keep reminded of that. A state which will murder 5,500 will murder 6,500,000.

German vengeance squads, reports The Associated Press, "utterly wiped out Lidice, a Czech village of 1,200 persons." We must begin to doubt it. Lidice can never be wiped out. What of Bataan and Midway? Is Rotterdam wiped out? Did Norway disappear? Lidice cannot be wiped out of memory. It will be restored. The women and the children will come back and Lidice will live again. It will live as a symbol of why this war was fought by peoples throughout the world to whom war is abhorrent.

Josh Quincy wrote, nearly 170 years ago: "Blandishments will not fascinate us, nor will threats of a halber intimidate. For, under God, we are determined that where-so-ever, whenever, or howsoever we shall be called to make our exit, we will die free men."

That is the epitaph of the men of Lidice, of all the butchered thousands of conquered Europe. What, we wonder, will be the epitaph of the Gestapo?—The Courier-Journal.

MY BIRTHDAY SONNET

Land of my birth 'Till ever adored, Love will still call me and more; The years may come and pass away, But my childhood days will stay. My boyhood memories linger with me. They are among the happiest that be. They have been, too, so fond and gay. So near, they are still far away. Now eighty-three years have gone, I haven't passed since I was born; I haven't forgot my native habitat, Or the emigrant father's plan.

MY CRADLE IS FAR, MY GRAVE IS SO NEAR

Soon I'll have to leave you here; Be not dismayed by grief or fear. When you come, I'll meet you my dear. The waves may be high and very dark. But you'll be safe in the bark. You'll still call me the same old name. Stars will shine to lift the veil. A. T. PATRICK

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D. Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

ROSE-COLORED SPECTACLES

"AND were all the experiences of other days delightful?" some people ask me now. No, very frankly, life was not even so pleasant for us then as now, in spite of the rosy hues that are often cast over things that are already receding into the distance. Many of the things we did were almost pure joy; others had about an equal portion of the good and the bad, but there were decidedly too many that caused sorrow and fear. We did more later, some of it through my silly, but they were real enough to children and to many an older person.

Fear was our worst enemy. We feared our parents, rather mild people they seem now. Always there was the tradition that other's parents had power over us; the church and the school never let us forget that we were subjects and not masters. We feared the government, a summons to appear before court made brave men turn pale, though the court was made up of people we knew and respected. I can recall when everything connected with a church had a fear attached; however crude the building was, I could never regard it as just another building. Many of my neighbors were afraid to pass a church at night, almost as afraid as when they passed a cemetery. None of the churches in my immediate neighborhood had a graveyard attached, hence the fear could not have been founded on this. We feared thunderstorms and sought a feathered when the lightning got too bright. And the woods were full of things, visible and invisible, that we knew would set us up, though most of the wild animals were no larger and fiercer than cotton-tails and raccoons. But there were left over the wild stories of panthers and other varmints, stories that I believed as implicitly as I believed the Bible. Nearly every section had its haunted house, the cause of many a chilly backbone. We lived in a world of fear and often had to resort to big talk or loud whistling to keep our courage up.

Death was all around us. The necessary killing of farm animals never became matter of course to us. I have seen grown men, men who were a hog was struck or a mule bled for blind staggers. Hens and hawks were made especially to kill, we seemed to think; there was a fiendish delight in taking life. Since so little was known about sanitation and the germ theory of disease, we saw people die unnecessarily and shivered with fear of what would be next. The only time in recent years that I have seen a form of death comparable with that which we lived under long ago was the period of the first influenza attack in 1918, when the best doctors did not know what to do and when strong, large men died like stricken animals. Sensationalists in our time, and there were plenty of them, lost no opportunity to hold death before us as something horrible, even when they were telling us of the joys of the hereafter.

Injustice hurt then as now. We learned plently that the good is always rewarded, and we saw, often, the worst people getting the best rewards. Thought to fear as one might fear fire and brimstone, we saw bars get by early punishment and laugh at the rest of us who refused to lie to save our skins. Children then as now could not always get a long-headed view of things; thus they cried themselves to sleep because of the injustice of the good puzzling world.

No, it was not all rosy. Our joys seemed at best soiled. We were constantly reminded by bearded wisdom that we had better laugh while we could, for we would be incapable of laughing later in life. No one stood up a model of hope to face life and enjoy it; the emphasis was on defeatism. To have survived this philosophy makes most of us a bit older than our chronological age.

MONEY TALKS

By FREDERICK W. STAMM, Economist and Director of Adult Education University of Louisville

THE purchase of Defense Bonds and Stamps is making it possible for our government to engage in the greatest war production effort ever attempted by any nation. Recent figures on war production are not only encouraging—they are startling! Instead of the 40 billion dollar estimate, which seemed high when it was made, our total war production for this year will undoubtedly reach the 50 billion dollar mark.

The magnitude of the United Nations' war production program is well illustrated in the case of airplanes. The British insure us they are now producing as many planes as Germany and by July 1 the United States will be producing as many fighter and bomber planes as Germany, Italy and Japan combined. And Russia is also producing many more.

Our airplanes have already reached the fighting fronts as is indicated by the steady flow of British and American planes over Germany and German-held industrial areas. These mass raids are carried out regularly night after night and are inflicting heavy damage on the mighty German industrial war machine.

Many of our war materials are not reaching the battlefields as quickly as planes. The tanks completed in Detroit and Cleveland had not had much effect on the battles of North Africa and Burma as yet. The lack of shipping space has slowed up the movement of materials to foreign shores. But we are gaining momentum on every front—production, shipping, and war experience. Our shipyards are producing more ships than ever before in our history and within a few months we will be shipping tanks, guns, and other war materials in an ever-increasing stream to all the war fronts.

With our war production reaching new heights each month, the outlook for victory grows much brighter. But we must remember that all this war effort takes money. We must continue to buy bonds and stamps in larger and larger amounts. They are our best investment today!

Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

Washington, D. C. WAAC ENLISTMENTS

Thousands of determined women, eager to join the WAAC uniforms, are driving WAAC officials wild today.

The campaign for enlistments in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps has succeeded too well. Maj. Ovelia Culp, chief of the WAAC recruiting office, says that there are more than 500 WAAC officer-candidates taken in now. No "auxiliaries," that is, non-commissioned officers have been trained, possibly around September 15.

Toughest job of all falls upon the chief recruiting officers in the nine army corps areas. It is their job to sort out the WAAC registrants and select the lucky women. Those chosen then must face a series of very stiff aptitude tests.

BOND LOTTERY

Rep. Adolph Sabath of Illinois, general chairman of the bond rules committee, wasn't able to sell the President on government-sponsored lotteries when he called at the White House. However, he was given a novel idea on how to use the lottery principle in the sale of war bonds.

Sabath contended that a legalized lottery, conducted monthly by the treasury, would greatly aid in relieving taxation and raise billions in revenue for the war effort.

Under a bill he is sponsoring, the Illinoisian said, the government would realize approximately $55,000,000 from the sale of a billion $1 tickets, whereas if it borrowed this amount at 3 per cent for 20 years the interest alone would total $25,000,000.

"It wouldn't be the first time our government has held a lottery," argued Sabath. "We did it in 1778 to help finance the Revolutionary war."

"Yes, I know," said the President, adding that he doubted the advisability of lotteries at this time because of the strong opposition of religious groups. Instead, he proposed a compromise.

"Why not apply your lottery ideas to the sale of war bonds," he suggested. "The balance of money held in bond lotteries for a number of years."

SHAKY CHINA

Chinese leaders in Washington are not shouting it from the housetops, but behind closed doors they are doing some tough talking to the effect that an increasing number of Chinese are getting discouraged about the war.

The Chinese don't mind the fact that the Chinese are worse off now, with Allies, than they were before, fighting alone. The Chinese were delighted after Pearl Harbor because it meant they had a powerful ally against Japan. But after six months of it, they almost wish they had been left to hold out alone.

That is why recent reverses in Burma and along the China coast have shaken Chinese determination down to the foundation.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is not weakening. But many Chinese are, especially the well-to-do class, the people who yearn for restoration to normal business conditions who would rather have a chance to make money and live peacefully even under the Japanese than to pay the frightful cost of continued war.

Mrs. Ernest Langley In Cancer Victim On Long Island

Mrs. Ernest S. Langley, native of West Prestonsburg, succumbed at her home at Valley Stream, Long Island, N. Y., Tuesday, June 9, a victim of cancer.

Mrs. Langley, the daughter of the late Robert Walker and Agnes Fitzpatrick Harris, was born February 6, 1879. She received her education in the schools of Prestonsburg and was graduated from the Bowling Green School of Business.

After her marriage to E. S. Langley, who was with the United States Department of Internal Revenue, several years, later being transferred to New York City where they have lived for the past 25 years.

Mrs. Langley was survived by her husband, three sons, Theodore Robert, of Huntington, N. Y., and Ernest S. Langley, Jr., of Port Washington, N. Y., and three grandchildren, Helen, Dennis, and Janet.

Funeral services were conducted from the Meserve Funeral Home at 905 Rockaway ave., Valley Stream, Long Island, N. Y., on Thursday evening, June 11, with the Rev. Kenneth G. Richards, of the Grace Methodist Church, Valley Stream, officiating. Interment was made at Greenfield cemetery, Hempstead, New York.

REWARD

I hereby offer a reward of $25 for each arrest and conviction of any person or persons giving or selling whiskey, wine, beer or gin to my son, Edgar Stephens, on credit or otherwise. It is a severe penalty to give or sell liquor to another, who has been convicted for drunkenness more than three times. Liquor sold on credit, the amount is illegal and cannot be collected.

I have had so much trouble since this law. I will appreciate the help of anyone I think if we women and others who are interested in doing an everlasting good for our county and children, would go to work and circulate a petition and get the required number of legal voters to sign it, and submit the liquor question to the people of this county. We could vote this county dry. If the election was not held, as has been done in Harlan county. The elimination of inebriants would be a large extent eliminate road houses and save the life of many a boy and prevent ruining the character of many a poor girl and thereby save her from disgrace and shame. It would also prevent and stop a lot of cheap constables and deputies from holding up and robbing people of a few dollars and also be a great saving to the county in jail fees which the taxpayers are compelled to pay. This would save thousands of dollars to the county alone, not counting the loss in time in preventing laborers from their work, and furnishing things in their homes, which they may need.

I will take the time and secure the number of petitioners and we will submit this question to the people of this county. I can get the operation and assistance of the citizens and different organizations of our county interested in this move. I hope I may have an encouraging word from people who are interested in the disgraced calamity now existing in our county and state. This letter and request is written by a heart-broken mother, bought again by the liquor business.

I am yours for a better, healthier Floyd county and state.

GASOLINE RATIONING IN CANADA

FOR motorists who are interested in vacation trips to Canada, before they are planned, consideration must be given to the gas rationing regulations. In view of the increasing gravity of the gasoline shortage due to the exigencies of the war, gasoline rationing for tourists in Canada has been drastically reduced.

If a United States tourist proposes to stay in Canada long enough to need more gasoline than he has in his tank at the time he enters, he will be given, at the point of entry, a ration book permitting the purchase of only four units of gasoline. As present, a unit represents five (5) imperial gallons, but its value may be changed at any time as circumstances require.

No more than one of these four-unit coupon books will be issued for any one car in any one year, and the Canadian customs officer will stamp the vehicle license to show that a coupon book has been issued. The responsibility for not running short of gasoline is up to the tourist himself. If he were to run out of coupons he will be given no more, and would have to arrange some other method of transporting his car back to the United States.

The Once Over by K.L. Phillips

ANOTHER TAX IDEA! It's all done by auction pump! The treasury department has pronounced that congress require that 10 per cent of your wages and other income be deducted at the source and paid to Uncle Sam for income taxes!

No pains! No sleepless nights! No complicated mathematical problems! No troublesome mistakes! No blanks. (Just come in and bring a gallon of blood.)

Randolph Paul, the treasury expert behind the latest idea, says there will be 28,000,000 novice taxpayers under our new laws, all in the lower brackets, and that as few as possible can save any money for taxes, the only way to collect is to take it at the source. It's a perfect collection plan. Saltbeater, high-speed and frictionless, it picks up the lint of the rags and the dandruff off your shoulders.

A baby can use it as well as an adult. You pay through the nose. Under federal nose control.

It makes it easier for everybody except the boss and the bookkeeping department. Well, they're too groggy to notice a little extra work anyhow.

Under Mr. Paul's proposal the boss handles the whole business. He signs the deducting orders, your squawks, tries to smooth your wounded feelings and then prepares certificates, affidavits and miscellaneous papers to be filed and forwarded to all necessary addresses.

The employer gets carbon copies while the glee club softly sings "Among My Souvenirs."

Not that you don't have to bother to make out a tax blank. You have to do that just the same as ever. The new plan makes it more exciting. When you figure up what you owe Uncle Sam, you find the 10 per cent slice of your salary has overpaid the tax, you apply for a refund. If you find you're still shy a few dollars you send 'em in.

It probably never will be passed. But if it is, the folks will take it without undue lamentations. War is war and it costs money. "Bus Lines Pooled"—Headline. All the road hogging is to be done under one head now.

The government again—this time through Donald M. Nelson—warns that autos may be seized unless every driver cuts down his speed and uses his tires as little as possible. How about having the cops stop and take the names of all those drivers who still ignore all the warnings? And then, beginning the seizures from that list?

Uniforms for the women's army have been chosen and it is a relief to know that they will be standardized so that no lady will refuse to sign out on the ground some other member of the unit looks smarter.

MYSTERY I'm full of curiosity. When nothing ever troubles, Why wonder think, for charm, they need. So many jars and bottles. —PIER.

All work on theaters and ball parks must be stopped, it is announced by the W.P.B. Skinny Gray, captain of the grammar school nine, says he hopes it doesn't mean that his team can't complete that new backstop made of rusty wire.

Add similes. He was as exhausted as a man who just cut his lawn with a power mower.

GANGWAY Elmer Tuttlethill is all upset over a rumor he just heard in connection with the ban on cuffs on men's trousers. He hears that Mr. Henderson may order the seizure of all men's pants this summer if the situation gets worse.

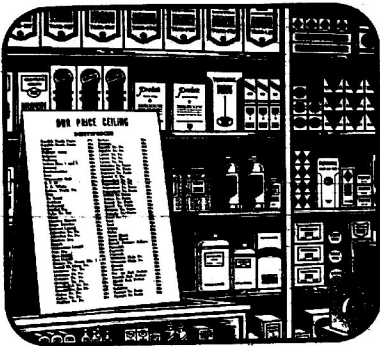

A German U-boat commander, judging from his radio message, is worried because American girls insist on bathing beaches. Is it possible that Schickelgruber is to declare war on Miss America?

As we understand it Washington is now pessimistic because of all the optimism.

Patriot No. 345: The fellow who reading that Uncle Sam must ban cuffs on trousers to conserve cloth goes down and orders six new suits before the call order takes effect.

Wooden tires have been successfully used in St. Louis. But it must seem funny to call up a carpenter to fix a flat.

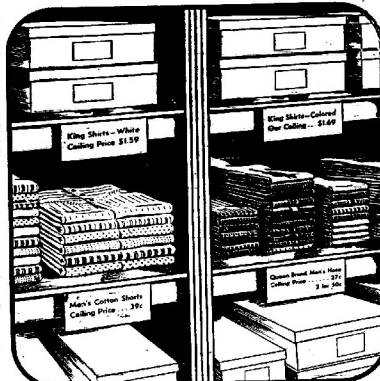

How To Display Ceiling Prices

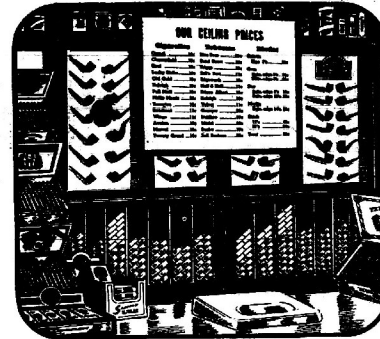

A single poster may show the ceiling prices for a group of related items—such as dentifrices. The list should be located near the place where the merchandise is sold and should be printed in letters large enough to be clearly readable from the point of purchase.

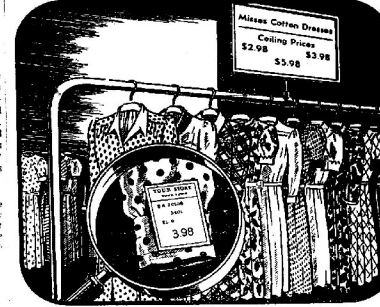

A single poster may show the ceiling prices for a group of related items—such as meat. The list should be printed in letters large enough to be clearly readable from the point of purchase.

Ceiling Prices may be shown for a group of related items, such as shirts, having the same maximum price and stocked in one place in the store.

A single poster may show the ceiling prices for a group of related items—such as cigarettes, tobacco and razor blades. The list should be located near the place where the merchandise is sold and should be printed in letters large enough to be clearly readable from the point of purchase.

Where articles in different price-lines are physically mixed, ceiling prices may be displayed by price-lines if article is marked by asterisk in Appendix B of Regulation. In addition, the selling price must be shown on each individual item. This applies, for example, to dresses, suits, coats, shoes and shirts.

Ceiling Price may be shown for a group of identical items on the same shelf—such as canned tomatoes.

Robert Newsom, 39, Dies In Pikeville

Robert C. Newsom, formerly of Teaberry, this county, died at his home in Pikeville Wednesday, last week, following a heart attack. He was 39 years old.

Mr. Newsom was born at Teaberry, the son of William and Phenia Mitchell Newsom. He had been a barber.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary Belle Tackett Newsom, three sons, Donald Ray, Larry Douglas and Bobby Gene Newsom, the brothers, Halter Newsom of Pikeville, Johnnie of Melvin, and Monroe, Walter and Andy Newsom, of Teaberry; three sisters, Mrs. Laura Belle of Beaver; Mrs. Ella Newsom, of Grethel, and Mrs. Corsetta Osborne, of Dony.

Funeral services were conducted at Teaberry Friday and burial was made in the family cemetery there.

Now Till August 1, Period for Buying Drivers' Licenses

Frankfort, Ky., June 13—Holders of Kentucky automobile drivers' licenses may purchase their 1942-43 licenses between now and August 1, when current licenses expire, to the Revenue Department announced today.

The new licenses have been mailed to circuit court clerks and may be obtained in advance. L. O. Triplett of the auto drivers' license division said, pointing out that this would be of interest to persons going into the armed forces or on vacations. Although applicants are required to surrender their new licenses, they will be protected fully for the remainder of the present license period, because no new licenses will be issued unless the applicant holds this year's license, Triplett said.

Martin Joins Marines; Recruiting Officers To Be Here June 23

Darwin Joseph Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Martin, Wayland, was enlisted recently at Louisville in the U. S. Marine Corps.

Martin graduated from high school at Lexington, Ky., and later attended the University of Kentucky for two years. He, along with several other newly-enlisted men, left Louisville the same day he was enlisted, for the Marine Training Base at San Diego, California.

Two representatives of the United States Marine Corps recruiting service will be at the postoffice in Prestonsburg Tuesday, June 23, for the purpose of interviewing and enlisting young men who are interested in immediate enlistment in the U. S. Marines. Accepted volunteers will be transferred from Prestonsburg to Louisville at government expense, for final examination, enlistment and immediate transfer to the Marine training base.

Urgently in need of more young men for service on land, at sea and in the air, the Marines may enlist an unlimited quota of men during the month of June from the state of Kentucky. Men accepted can be sent on their way to the training station within 48 hours. Requirements for ordinary enlistments provide simply that a man be between 17 and 30 years of age, be in normal health and have normal intelligence. Men under 21 must have their parents' consent.

PIKE HIGHWAY CONTRACTED

Floyd Not Included In Road Projects Let to Contract

Frankfort, Ky., June 11—Contracts for improving seven highways at a total cost of $579,740.71 were awarded by the State Highway Department today.

Biggest jobs were those for widening to 20 feet and laying a bituminous surface on 15 miles of the Georgetown-Williamstown road in Scott county and for a limestone or gravel aggregate surface on 14.6 miles of the Pikeville-Jenkins road in Pike and Letcher counties.

The Scott county job went to Almond-Dezell Company, Winchester, for $107,220.21, and the other to Clay-Coleman Construction Company, Lexington, for $146,811.13.

The other contracts let, all to the low bidders, were:

McCracken county—Bituminous concrete reconstruction, 6.4 miles, Paducah-Maysfield road, Carey Construction Company, Lexington, $89,613.70.

Hardy—Overhead and approach on U. S. 31 W. at Radcliff, 1.26 miles, bituminous concrete, Tyre & Wells, Carrollton, $84,051.98.

Bourbon—Bituminous coating of two rural highways, the Auxterville road, 1.8 miles, and the Paris-Clinchville road, 9.2 miles, H. C. Adams, Lexington, $28,947.60.

Letcher—Rock asphalt seal, 2.7 miles, Madisonville-Sacramento road, Lehman-Roberts Company, Lexington, $21,588.20.

Campbell—Bituminous treatment, 3.8 miles, Newport-Maysville road, near C. & O. Williams to near Kent, H. K. Underpass, Louisville, $19,710.25.

Two More From Floyd On War Production

Two Floyd county youths, Odes Collins and Clinton Collins, both of Waynesburg, trained in the NYA War Production shop at Prestonsburg and transferred East a few weeks ago have war production jobs, according to a U. S. Employment Service report.

Odes is working for the Electric Blast Company, Clinton, Tenn., and Clinton is employed by the Glenn L. Martin Company in Baltimore, Md.

After receiving training in the NYA shop, these youths were sent to the Kentucky NYA to NYA resident centers in Connecticut and Maryland where they worked for about two weeks before being placed in jobs. While at the center, the youths were interviewed by industrial men from nearby war industries.

In addition to the young men named above, 29 other Floyd county youths have been trained and placed in war jobs in Eastern states.

AT CUMBERLAND FALLS—Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smith and children are vacationing at Cumberland Falls.

IN CINCINNATI—Mrs. F. H. Cottrell spent last week in Cincinnati.

READING and WRITING

THROUGHOUT the western hemisphere today, in the United States and in Mexico, and in South America, you will find many of the greatest European writers of our times.

It was just about two years ago that the British radio mistakenly announced that Werfel had been murdered by the Nazis. Hitler was overruling France, and Werfel was one of the more important anti-fascists living there whom the Gestapo wanted.

Eventually Werfel made his way to the United States. But he did not forget the vow he had taken at Lourdes—that if he ever escaped from this desperate situation he would write a novel about the peasant girl Bernadette Soubirous who had made the name of Lourdes famous.

This novel is "The Song of Bernadette," which the Book-of-the-Month Club has selected as its June book, and which enjoys everywhere are practicing for its power and its beauty.

"I have dared to sing the song of Bernadette, although I am not a Catholic but a Jew," Werfel writes in his preface. "And I drew courage for this understanding from a far older vow of mine. Even in the days when I wrote my first verses, I vowed that I would ever more and everywhere in all I wrote magnify the divine mystery and holiness of man."

If you like Chinese food, you may be interested to know that practically all the Chinese dishes served in the United States have their origin in a single city, Canton. We learned this from Helena Kuo, the beautiful young Chinese author of "I've Come a Long Way," an autobiography. In fact, there's an old saying in China, according to Miss Kuo: "If you want food, go to Canton. If you want girls, go to Suchow. If you want to die, go to Lu-chow." Suchow is the most beautiful girls in China. Miss Kuo explained: Canton has the best cooks; and Lu-chow has the best wood for coffins.

John Marquand's stories about Mr. Moto, the Japanese spy, are so widely known in magazine, serial, novel, and movie form that American readers refer to the Japanese, and particularly to Japanese planes, as "Mr. Moto." Marquand wrote his popular Mr. Moto stories between times, while he was throwing off such serious—and highly entertaining—works as his Pulitzer Prize winner, "The Late George Apley," and his book-of-the-Month Club selection, "H. M. Pulham, Esquire."

Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings writes that she gave a copy of her new book, "Cross Creek," to Idella, the "perfect maid," suggesting she read about the problems that will appear in the book. Idella read one night until two o'clock in the morning and said to Marjorie, "You know, she has you all through the book." Marjorie said, "Baby, you don't know what me and her has been through. I been with that woman through thick and thin. She ain't got me in the book enough."

Action Filed

(Continued from page one) is the basis of the claim that the Board of Education election this year does not embrace all of Floyd county.

On the other hand, those who hold that the election is legal point to the fact that county board of education members have been adjudged by the appellate court as state officials.

Weeksbury Girl, 16, Is Victim of Burns Sustained Mar. 28

Burns sustained March 28, last, when her dress was ignited from an open grate at the home of her parents at Weeksbury resulted in the death Monday at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, of 16-year-old Margaret Ruth Scarborough.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scarborough, and seven brothers and sisters.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday at Weeksbury, the Rev. O. W. Youngblood officiating. Burial was made under direction of the Ryan Funeral Home.

GUEST OF SPREADS—Mrs. Johnnie Pansinger, of Lexington, is the guest here of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Spauldin.

TOWN-WORLD

IT'S NOT ALL PLAY

Prestonsburg's "Maui" Joe D. Harkins is not doing badly at all with a hobby that she started, years ago with the birth of her first grandchild. She crocheted an afghan for young Joe, Jr., and since that time has made 33 others; last was starting on her 34th, this last one being only great-grandchildren. But what makes the hobby not a bad one is the demand for her product. Last winter while in Miami, Fla., she made three—and one was sold for $50 which she gave to the Methodist Church here.

In the event that somebody gets ambitious and wants to have a thing at the same work, she advises that the making of an afghan is for her a six-week job. But she makes them 24 to 30 squares each, and they are works of art.

Caullid Jailed Here After Osborne Dies On Railway Tracks

A sequel to the death of Jeff Osborne, 40-year-old miner, on the railway tracks on the night of June 10 at Prestonsburg, was reported this street after William Caullid, of Bypro, was jailed here on a charge of assault and battery.

A warrant for Caullid's arrest was sworn out by Justice Johnson, 17, who said she was at the Caullid home when Osborne and Caullid had a fight during which the latter struck the other with a poker and chair and three rocks at him. She added, however, according to Constable Willie Johnson, that Caullid did not leave his home after the departure of Osborne.

Caullid admitted fighting with Osborne and turning him away from the Caullid home, but denied that he inflicted any fatal injuries on the other.

Osborne, it is claimed, was not seen after leaving Caullid's residence until he was struck by the train, more than a mile from the Caullid home.

Caullid was released from jail under $1,000 bond.
