THESE THINGS AFFECTED YOUR HOUSEHOLD Scrap or Less. Pupils to Help. Fats for Builders. Warning to Farmers. Lumber is Scarce. Cigarette Change. Shoe Styles Curbed. Six Shoe Colors. Steel for War. Tire Dealers Hit. Zoot Suits Eyed.

SCRAP METAL MUST BE OBTAINED OR THE STEEL MILLS WILL CLOSE. Barely two weeks' supply on hand—and yet enough must be piled up to last through the winter.

The need is urgent as the materials are scarce. Our enemies don't wait, so we must have war goods in great volume than ever—in a shorter time.

The steel mills, eating up almost 5,000,000 tons of scrap metal a month, are running on an almost day-to-day basis. We are dangerously short of copper, tin, and other non-ferrous metals.

That's why our school children—30,000,000 of them—are being enlisted to comb our homes, backyards, and farmyards for scrap. That's why our kitchens must shower down old tin cans by the millions so that we can reach our goal of 5,000 tons of household tin a year recovered.

That's why we must save waste fats and greases and turn in the half billion pounds we have been asked to salvage. These fats would help make enough bombs to cripple the German war machine or enough explosive to fire 1,250,000 anti-aircraft shells.

Don't wait for someone else to do the salvage—You do it—and so make sure we aren't conquered.

Last year our production of wire coat hangers, if made into military barbed wire, would have circled the earth six and one-half times. We shall not be making wire hangers this year.

Farmers, on the whole, haven't found the going very tough so far—except for a shortage of labor. They are buying more goods and making more property improvements than at any time since the unucky boom days of the last war. Yet that very fact should give them pause. Inflated war prices not only handicap the whole war program, but endanger post-war security.

Building lumber is so scarce that we shall be using brick and tile for every temporary structure.

Cigarettes may be drier, Glycol—their moistening agent—is going to cool military engines. Among other products recently taken out of general circulation is caffeine, which goes into many of the "cola" drinks.

FOUR INDICTED IN PIKE CASE

Named in Wounding Floyd County Man On Line Strike

Pikeville, Ky., Sept. 12—The Pike circuit court grand jury indicted four men today on charges of conspiracy and malice and malicious wounding with intent to kill, as a result of the suspension of work on a gas pipeline construction project last May.

Named in the indictments in the jury's final report for the September court term were Lee Chapman, 35, and his cousin, Ray Chapman, 23, both of Kinper; Ira Daniels, 30, and Marvin McKinney, 25, both of Pikeville.

Under the malicious wounding count, the four men were accused specifically of inflicting bodily harm upon Sol Hubbard, of Floyd county, and Sol Robinson, of Pikeville, two of some 800 employees on the project.

The Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, which was constructing the line across Floyd and Pike counties as a connecting link in its distribution system, made no statement on the trouble at the time of the suspension.

However, employees said that differences between the management and male owners, whose animals were replaced by bulldozers on the job, and jealousy between employees from Pike and Floyd counties were contributing factors in the shutdown.

Work since has been resumed. The jury returned two murder indictments, one accusing Mrs. Addie Kestler, 53, Pikeville, in connection with the slaying of John E. Moore, 50, at their home last May; the other charging Raymond Coleman, 32, with the slaying of Taylor Dossom, 23, in July.

Circuit Judge R. Monroe Fields will set the trial dates Monday.

Ashland Refining Plants High Octane Plant

Paul Blazer, president of the Ashland Oil & Refining Company, announced recently that his company is preparing to start construction of a new refinery for producing high octane gasoline.

The plant will produce aviation fuel in huge quantities and be an important factor in the nation's war effort. Located near Catlettsburg, its construction will soon employ a large number of men, many of whom may come from Floyd county.

It is conservatively estimated that this new refinery will cost over $6,000,000 and require about a year for construction. While the financing is being handled through the Defense Plant Corporation, a governmental agency, the Ashland Oil & Refining Company will handle the entire contract for its design, erection and operation.

New Idle Pay Ruling Becomes Effective On October 1st

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 14 (Sp.)—Workers, unemployed through no fault of their own, during the period from July 1, 1941, through July 30, 1942, earned as much as $200 in wages from employers subject to the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Law will become eligible on or after October 1 to claim unemployment benefits if they have not previously filed such a claim or provided a 12-month period has elapsed from the date a preceding claim was first filed. It was announced today by Director V. E. Barnes, of the Kentucky Unemployment Compensation Commission.

To be fully eligible for benefits, however, Barnes added, the claimant must not only meet the minimum wage requirement but in addition to unemployed through no fault of his own, be physically and mentally able to work, available for work and willing to accept suitable employment.

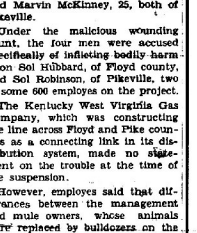

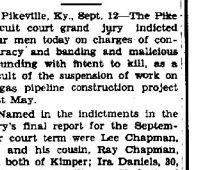

Claimants who voluntarily quit their jobs without good cause, who are discharged for misconduct in connection with their work or who refuse suitable employment may be totally disqualified from benefits while those claimants who are unable to work or accept work for any reason or who are self-employed may be disqualified from receiving benefits as long as their incapacity or unavailability for work continues.

After a worker has received benefits, Barnes explained, he must wait 12 months from the date of his initial claim before becoming eligible to file a new claim.

"The present wage requirement," Barnes said, "is for earnings of at least $200 during the calendar year 1941. Many workers who cannot now qualify for benefits under this provision do have earnings of as much as $200 during the period from July 1, 1941, through June 30, 1942, and will, therefore, become eligible for benefits by filing claim on or after October 1." The one-year qualifying period, Barnes explained, moves forward six months on October 1 and April 1 of each year.

FORMER FLOYD COUNTY, CONNECTICUT GIRL WED

Miss Helen Davis, of Hartford, Conn., and Mr. Cecil Sublett, of Manchester, Conn. and Lackey, Ky., were married Aug. 20 at the Episcopal Church by the Rev. Chester R. Cooper, brother-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Chester Cooper, the bride's sister, was matron of honor, and Joe Bejley was best man.

Miss Davis attended the University of Maine and the American International College from which she was graduated. Mr. Sublett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tandy E. Sublett, of Lackey, Ky. He attended Western State Teachers' College at Bowling Green, Ky., and the Mayo Vocational School, Paintsville, Ky. Both are employed at the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Company plant in Hartford.

Immediately after the wedding, a reception was given by Mrs. Cooper at her home.

FLOYD STUDENTS ENTER C. N. I. AT GRAYSON

Grayson, Ky., Sept. 14 (Sp.)—Miss Virginia Lee Keen, of Garrett, Ky., and Ernest Adams, of Glo, entered the Christian Normal Institute here Sept. 8.

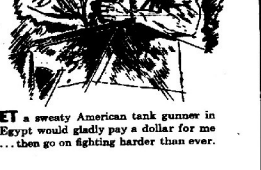

Christian Normal Institute is located at Grayson, in Eastern Kentucky, and was especially founded in December, 1918, to educate young men and women for lives in civilian service. J. Lowell Lashby, son of the first president and co-founder of the institute, is now president of the college.

Miss Keen attended Alken Hall at Olive Hill last year, and is enrolled in Christian Normal as a freshman. Mr. Adams attended Caney Junior College last year, and is enrolled here as a junior.

A good many farmers in Russell county are planning to grow Pulwin cola.

TO KEEP OUR FLAG FLYING!

The flower of American manhood has fought and died on far-off battlefields to keep this flag of ours aloft, since the day Betsy Ross fashioned this emblem of American freedom.

The least, then, you and all of us can do is to buy War Bonds and Stamps, to buy the boys the tools they need to do this job right—to build a stronger America and to keep the nation free of the dictator's heel.

If they can afford to make the Supreme Sacrifice, away from home where death rides on every wind—surely we here at home can make sacrifices in money and ordinary comforts to prove to them that they are not fighting and sacrificing in vain.

Valley Forge and Yorktown and Bull Run, San Juan and the Marne are but memories. But Pearl Harbor remains with us as a still-bleeding wound which only victory and revenge can heal.

Japs, a Determined, Inhuman Foe, Says Grew in Speech

Washington, August 15.—A solemn warning that the Japanese will fight "with all the force and power at their command until they are utterly crushed" and that they are determined to avoid a stalemate was delivered tonight by white-haired Joseph C. Grew, the former ambassador newly returned from Tokyo.

From the background of his 10 years' service in Japan, Grew broadcast that "we are up against a powerful fighting machine, a people whose morale cannot and will not be broken even by successive defeats, who will certainly not be broken by economic hardships, a people who individually and collectively will gladly sacrifice their lives for their Emperor and their nation, and who can be brought to such only by complete defeat in battle."

This ominous report, Grew's first public utterance since his return on the Grisholm last week, was lightened only by a declaration that we could win the conflict through "the exertion of our maximum capacities, individually and collectively, in a war of attrition."

CITES ATROCITIES, DECEIT
Grew gave his official confirmation to the accounts of atrocities reported by returning newspapermen and others, including a detailed account of the "water cure" administered to three elderly American missionaries and their captives, which brought to death of six captured soldiers.

The diplomat also recounted the difficult struggle which President Franklin D. Roosevelt's eleventh hour message to Emperor Hirohito, keeping Grew in "the grip of the attack on Pearl Harbor even as conversations took place.

The atrocities, Grew said, represented "the ugly side of the Japanese people—their cruelty, brutality, and utter bestiality, the ruthlessness and rapaciousness of the Japanese military machine which brought on this war."

FRIENDS BUT PATRIOTS
Personal friends of long standing, he related, tried to ease his days of imprisonment after December 7 with gifts of food, "sometimes a piece of meat, which was the most precious gift they could confer because they themselves could seldom get meat. They were personally loyal to me to the end."

But as patriots, he continued, even the Japanese "will fight for their Emperor and country, to the last ditch if necessary.

"The idea should not for a moment be entertained that the failure of the Japanese forces in China has discouraged the Japanese people," Grew said. "It has inspired them to steel themselves for still greater sacrifices and to prepare them better for the war of deadly purpose to conquer upon which they flintly are bent."

Spreading of an offensive spirit which permeates all classes of Japanese people, the envoy reported that the Japanese command has counted heavily upon the advantage this would give them over less aggressive enemies.

"They have had great store in what they consider to be the white man's 'habness,'" he declared. "They look upon us Americans as constitutional weaklings, demanding our daily comforts and unwilling to make the sacrifices demanded for victory in a war against a military machine which has prepared and trained itself in Spartan simplicity and the hardness and toughness demanded by war."

HELPING ON HEAD START
"They attach great importance to the former disunity in the United States over the war issue and they still count on an appreciable interval before an aroused nation can find itself and develop a fighting spirit of its own. By that time, they feel, Japan will be in complete control of all East Asia.

"When they struck, they made no provision for failure: they left no room for retreat. They struck with all the force and power at their command. And they will continue to fight in the same manner until they are utterly crushed."

Grew said there was no question in his mind but that Japan would eventually be crushed, but warned that if Americans think "we can continue to lead our normal lives, leaving the spirit of self-sacrifice to our soldiers and sailors, letting the incineration of our production program take care of itself, we shall unquestionably risk the danger of a stalemate in this war of ours with Japan."

2,715 Fingering Bass Released in Streams Of Floyd County

The Big Sandy river, Johns Creek and Beaver Creek were restocked Wednesday with 2,715 fingering bass.

Of the bass distributed, 1,800 are smallmouth, Mr. Hayes said. All were reared in the state ponds in Pike county.

Hayes said that citizens who have been sharpening their eyes for the "water-cure" torture which has been inflicted upon them by the Japanese. Another told of being kicked until a rib was smashed, and then how one of the Japanese pointed the broken bone as a punishment as hard as he could, Grew said.

He mentioned an American, apparently J. B. Powell, editor of the Chicago Weekly Review, "seriously maimed as a result of the gangrene which was caused by the ill treatment that he received in his prison cell."

He said that they had on shipboard direct evidence of "the horrible atrocities perpetrated in the rape of Nanking and at Hong Kong, and that soldiers who were bayoneted to death."

The dying shrieks of those soldiers heard by a woman, a fellow-passenger of ours, who herself told me the terrible story," he said.

Grew told of one of the Chinese who, on June 25, he awoke to realize the Grisholm was sailing out of Yokohama and how 18,000 miles and 70 days later he awoke to realize that he was passing the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor.

"Our workers tried to find out what needs existed in each family affected by the flood and meet these needs," said Mr. Jones. "In some cases this meant a new home or repairs for one damaged, in other cases it was household goods, in others, it was food or clothing of both. We cannot act as an insurance agency or replace losses incurred but we guarantee against loss of crops and gardens. But when the harvest has come from the fields, we have the family food needs met. Our workers have helped."

The entire relief fund came from eastern area headquarters of the National Red Cross. No campaign was conducted locally and the funds came from the funds sent to the National Red Cross by call throughout the nation by all call and special appeals.

"People of this county and all sections should be grateful that we have a Red Cross strong enough to come to our rescue when disaster occurs," said J. B. Clarke, Prestonsburg, Eastern Area chairman. "Every community should be willing to support the Red Cross in these days of war and of disasters and to be glad we have such an organization."

That's a timely example of twice as much for your money. But there's another example that you enjoy every day—if yours is an average household. It's the fact that you get twice as much electric service for the same money as you did 10 or 15 years ago.

You probably never realized it, because you were adding more electric appliances and using more electricity, all the time the rates were going down. Actually, the electric bill of two-thirds of all American families is about a dime a day.

That's just about the biggest thing's worth in the world—and worth remembering right now when the war is giving us a new sense of value.

Such a bargain is possible only because of the American system for which we're all fighting—a system of business management under public regulation, where free men are rewarded for their initiative and ability, and an ambitious office boy is a potential boss.

2,000 of Kentucky's Best Students Fail To Go to College Each Year

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 15—Approximately 2,000 of Kentucky's best college prospects—one half of the best students from a scholastic standpoint—fail to go to college every year.

Of the total number of high school graduates—approximately 18,000 each year—only 30 per cent go to college.

Nearly 14 per cent, or 2,500 Kentucky high school graduates possessing the least amount of ability to do college work, enrolled, and thus became a burden on the colleges.

These, and many other facts described as disturbing by Kentucky educators, were discovered by Dr. H. L. Davis, Lexington teacher and this graduate student at the University of Kentucky, as the result of a study completed recently.

An analysis of recent senior classes at the University reveals that the loss of 2,000 of its ablest students each year means to the Commonwealth.

Among the last 1,993 students at the University, 241 have been trained in agriculture, 173 as engineers.

The importance of guidance during high school was emphasized in the report. More than 90 per cent of the best and of the poorest risks, who enrolled in college, had planned on so doing while they were high school seniors. It was noted that among the ablest students who did not attend college there were on the average between 200 and 400 who were from families financially able to have sent them to college, indicating that guidance must have been weak.

The report suggested that annually there are perhaps 1,000 superior students who would attend college if funds were available. The conservation and training of these human resources of the state awaits the realization of the public that it is of paramount importance "to seek out intelligence wherever it is found and train it to the limit of its abilities for leadership in all walks of our national life." Dr. Davis wrote.

"Perhaps in the future," the report continued, "the public could be made to see that money spent for such a worthy purpose would have more lasting values than its use for even such worthy things as roads, soil conservation, and the host of other things for which public funds are spent. It may be that the key to this problem lies in the fact that so few of our citizens realize that in our able youth we have our greatest resource, a resource more vital than the soil, than our petroleum, than our water power.

"The ultimate welfare of all depends on the extent to which the greatest of human resources of each generation are utilized," Dr. Davis said in conclusion.

SHIKE'S POKES

(The views expressed herein are those of the writer and not necessarily those of this newspaper.—Editor.)

Well—Drift and Prestonsburg are right back where they started from Sunday's game going to Prestonsburg, 6-5, in 11 innings tied it up at two games each. After three great pitchers' battles, the fourth game was a slugfest match. Both pitchers were on the ropes and barely staggered through—thanks to some wooden Indian coaching on Pburg's part—2 runs by Drift in the 9th tied it up.

Drift was the victim of two decisions that probably cost them the ball game. Most of Prestonsburg fans said that at least one of the runners was safe at home.

The sweetest shortage is about over for Floyd county. Practically every holler has a sorghum crop this year and it's getting close to making time. There'll be a huge glut in a few more weeks.

The Courier-Journal said Sunday, that Lyter Donaldson was Keen's choice for next Governor. No wonder the letters were allowed to go to seed this year—but I'll bet next year's "weed army" will be a motley crew. The armed forces and industry will have all the good men. Personally, I've always figured anything Donaldson had anything to do with was a f' job.

Who's all this I hear about Floyd county to have a wet and dry vote? Surely people haven't forgotten the "double experiment" after World War I. The honky-tonk might be an evil but nothing like the speek-and-ale and the blind tiger. Even if the county should vote dry, there'd be as much whiskey as there is now. We all know there was no shortage during prohibition and no one will get any drunker out of our best citizens, and any fellow in high school during the '20's who wasn't admitted to three or four speakeasies was a sissy. We tried prohibition in the U. S. A. and it didn't work. Let's not make the same mistake twice.

(From Last Week)

Dick—our red-headed, hard drinking, cousin, tobacco-chewin' Irish machine man, will live up to his toughness at home. Nope—he's caught asleep in a green satin nightgown. Whatna man!

Ray Salyers seems to have taken a job as photographer. He's up around the bathroom, takin' pictures for the paper. I guess.

Lyns Cox, a veteran of World War I and a member of the "Lost Battalion," was badly wounded in World War I and he's better now.

For the second time in the Big Sandy series Pburg played at Drift—and it was another shutout for Drift—1-0. What a ball game! Rimmer has exceeded itself in two games at Drift and he has failed to get a runner home in either. Two of his runners were torpedoes at the plate Sunday on perfect throws by Rimmer. Rimmer will just have to convoy his runners.

George was present, but must have lost his voice.

Buck Stumbo and "Big" Patton were really blown that ball in. I was a tough one for Patton to lose and a sweet one for Buck to win.

It's now 2-1 in favor of Drift, with the fourth game Sunday at Prestonsburg.

Floyd County Goes To War

Where Floyd Countians in Armed Forces Are, What They're Doing Told

A few months ago, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Walters of Frankfort received a message from the Navy Department stating that their son, Wyman Walters, was missing. Recently, a parcel arrived at the home. It contained their son's effects. Among his clothing was found this letter to his brother, Tom Walters, Jr., that fate had prevented him from mailing.

"U. S. S. Canopus
"Manila, P. I.
"Dear Brother:
"Just a short letter to let you know I am doing just the money ball game. Most of Prestonsburg fans said that at least one of the runners was safe at home.

Dove Season Opens September 16

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 14 (Sp)—The season for shooting doves in Kentucky opened on Wednesday and will continue through Thursday, October 15.

According to information received by officials of the division from various parts of the state, the dove crop is exceptionally heavy but a successful season will depend to a large part on the weather. If fall sets in early, the doves will begin to leave for the south, but if the warm weather holds out for two or three more weeks, dove hunters may expect some good shooting. The dove crop this year in Kentucky has been an indication for countless thousands of doves to stay here to feed and rear their young.

While the open seasons and bag limits on doves are controlled by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Washington, D. C., only a Kentucky hunting license is required—usually license of $1 for any one season. The license is valid in all counties. The idea that a federal duck stamp is required to hunt doves is not true. S. A. Washburn, director of the Division of Game and Fish, said. The duck stamp is needed only for ducks, geese and other migratory waterfowl.

The daily bag limit on doves is 10 per day with possession limit of 150 also.

Higher Profits in Poultry Business

An 11-year summary of the records of demonstration poultry flocks in Kentucky show a profit of 19c per hen in July, 1932, and 31 cents in July of this year. Owners cooperated with the College of Agriculture and Home Economics and the Kentucky Poultry Improvement Association in demonstrating the records of certain chickens and giving them good care.

In July of both 1932 and 1934, profits per hen dropped to 84c cents, and then jumped to 31 cents in July 1935. Other July profits were: 1936, 20c; 1937, 9 cents; 1938, 19 cents; 1939, 14 cents; 1941, 26 cents, and 1942, 31 cents.

The report shows that the highest 10 demonstration flocks produced an average of 39 eggs per hen in July, while the lowest 10 flocks produced less than 12 eggs per hen.

Mrs. H. C. Fields, of Lost Creek, Breathitt county, owned a flock of 83 White Leghorns that had an average of 26 eggs each in July on another flock of 125 white Leghorns, owned by H. B. Rappole, of Stone land, and an average of 22 eggs each in July.
