A DIS-HONOR ROLL! FLOYD COUNTEYS have for the last few weeks been contributing quite liberally to the fund being raised to finance construction of the Honor Roll of those serving here at home and the country in the armed services. They will continue to do so until all the money needed to subscribe to this newspaper, the publishing, each week, the names of those who do honor to Those Who Serve.

NOW THE TIMES wonders how much you folks who are buying War Bonds and Stamps to the fullest extent of your resources would like to subscribe to a family or another "board" bearing the names of those who are able to buy but who haven't bought any War Bonds? No, don't start sending money to that, it is just now, merely a theoretical matter. But we would like to have expressions of opinion from those who would like to have the names of these slackers emblazoned where the world could see who they are. Make those expressions short BUT SWEET, please.

ABOUT THE ADS There may not be a lot of news in the ads this newspaper publishes. But we hope you will read the advertisement in last week's TIMES of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company and this week--The Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company proves its patriotism by paying for an ad, to ask folks to use less of their products--"juice"--simply because it is better. It is a fact that a reduction in power consumption will mean a saving to the country as a whole in coal and other fuels necessary to power production. How many local advertisers would pay for an ad advising folks to buy fewer of the advertisers' wares? The call on the pocketbook is a real call for patriotism.

And don't forget those who help the local newspaper tell the War Bond story.

AN OLD TIMER And now the Associated Press bores up with a dispatch from Knoxville, Tenn., which the local papers printed as news, but which originated, so we heard 20 years ago, in this section. The yamp runs to the effect that a young man named Softshell, Ky., belonged to the office of his superior in the Hall of Representatives.

HI-HAT, KY. Incidentally, some of the folks in the vicinity of the postoffice formerly known as Fred don't like the new name given the place. It sounds too HI-HAT, they say.

MAKING IT GOOD NEWS What's the war news? That's the question that has taken the place of "Think it'll rain?" And the boys that are fighting that war are equally as anxious to hear from the Home Front. Let's make it good--buy more War Bonds than we've even asked to buy!

Mr. Hall does not let anything except sickness or death keep him from attending this meeting," he wrote. "Our finest young men and our closest relatives need our help. Our men in army camps and in the front, miss no make excuses! They are awaiting the rollcall with shot and shell ready for battle."

Full details of the work to be done through the teachers and others of the school system will be outlined at the meeting.

From Carroll Wade to FDR-- About Bonds and Prayer

A little boy at nearby Laneson, son of an American soldier in Sicily (perhaps now in Italy), is deeply interested in this matter of War Bonds and Stamps.

"Mr. Roosevelt, you made a good speech yesterday. Every penny I get I save it to make stamps and every dime I get I buy stamps to tell Japan we are here. I am 12 years old. I pray for my daddy to come home. I pray for you, Jesus died for the Jews too. My daddy is a private in Sicily. When I get a big man I will be a soldier like my daddy."

Soft Drink Dealers Asked To Assist Salvage Drive

County Attorney W. W. Burdett, chairman of the Floyd county salvage campaign said this week every store in the county selling soft drinks is being asked to serve as a collection center for salvaged tin cans and requested that those who wish to co-operate notify him at once.

The only offer required of these stores, Mr. Burdett pointed out, is that they be picked up by trucks of soft drink distributors or bottling companies.

Salvaging of tin cans, Mr. Burdett pointed out, is an important contribution to the war effort. Cans should be opened at both ends, washed and then flattened before being taken to collection centers.

Floyd Flyer Who Bombed Italy Is Victim of Cupid's Blitz

Mrs. William Edward Sturten, Jr., of Lanesville, the first American to bomb the Italian mainland, was a victim of Cupid's blitz here last week. He was married to Miss Evelyn Steffen, a girl from the Westminister Presbyterian Church, Cincinnati.

The ceremony followed a courtship of 10 days.

It all started when, among a score of telephone-calls, Miss Steffen inquired if he knew, or had seen, a certain officer--and here the girl was in North Africa. No, he didn't know him. Would he like to go to a ballgame? No, he couldn't, because he had to return to his mother at Lanesville.

When the Floyd county got back, however, he called Miss Steffen and asked her to see a game with him. That was the night of August 31.

AN APPEAL FOR CONSERVATION

"Every pound of coal, every gallon of oil, every cubic foot of gas that can be saved means that our National Energy pool is Strengthened"

The War Production Board has proclaimed that maximum war production requires the greatest possible conservation of manpower, materials, fuel, equipment, and energy. It has urged that every citizen be mobilized to conserve these resources. It has urged that every citizen be mobilized to conserve these resources. It has urged that every citizen be mobilized to conserve these resources.

CONSERVATION OF fuel, manpower, equipment and materials is a must for the United States if we are to achieve the maximum war production every American wants. This is the theme of a joint statement by Harold Ickes, Joseph Eastman and Donald Nelson. In order to accomplish this result, it becomes necessary for all citizens to voluntarily cooperate by avoiding waste of coal, petroleum, water, gas, electricity, transportation and communications. At the Government's request, therefore, we urge all our customers to cooperate in this voluntary conservation program.

There is no shortage of electricity as such, either for war needs or for essential civilian use, but electricity is made largely from fuel and certain critical materials are required in connection with its production and use. No effort should be made to curtail uses of electricity necessary for public safety and health, including eyesight conservation or for production purposes. You will be obeying the plea of your Government if you simply avoid waste of electricity.

The joint statement referred to concludes with these words: "The campaign will be voluntary. Cooperation of these industries in asking the public to use their services only as absolutely necessary represents a real sacrifice by them. We ask the American public to appreciate that sacrifice and to give them and the war effort enthusiastic and unstinting cooperation as this campaign develops."

Sam Abernethy always said: "Curiosity may kill 't cat—but I'm no cat." Which is Sam's way of saying that when he's curious about something he goes out and sets the facts.

The government found out our Army's the best behaved in history. More'n half of 'em drink beer—nothing stronger. And the government fonder that selling 32 beer in Army camps is one reason why our Army is so temperate.

From where I sit, there isn't much cause to worry about our men in the Army. Looks like they can take care of themselves—and take care of the Nazis and the Japs, too.

SAVE POWER, WPB URGES

Saving of Electricity Sought To Economize On Fuel Resources

The War Production Board, thru its Director of Utilities, has asked the Kentucky and West Virginia Power Companies to cooperate in a voluntary program to conserve fuel, manpower, equipment, and critical materials. R. E. Doyle, Jr., manager of the electric company, announced this week.

"This program is not necessitated by any shortage in the electric supply, but it is to waste electrically, the WPB states that in the electric industry the installed generating capacity, together with capacity now under construction, is ample to meet foreseeable electric needs. But, they point out, it is essential to save the electricity so produced directly or indirectly the demands for fuel, materials, transportation, and manpower. Mr. Doyle continued.

"The program is entirely voluntary and depends for its success upon the public's patriotic co-operation in the plan to achieve maximum conservation of war. The function of the Kentucky and West Virginia Power Company's management is simply to disseminate the program to its customers. Mr. Doyle continued.

The War Production Board reported that conservation may impede the war effort if not applied within reason. The report on the program contains the following statement: "It is urged that conservation be applied to the use of power by industries. In fact, the trend is toward the use of electricity both for lighting and power by manufacturing plants so as to maintain or improve maximum production levels."

The principal burden in the conservation program falls upon the commercial class of customers, who are asked to make substantial cuts in their use of electricity. A report on the whole conservation program which carries the endorsement of the WPB states that "It should be made clear to customers that the desired savings in lighting should be obtained primarily by turning off lights which are not necessary and by replacement at renewal time with lower watt lamps."

Specific recommendations of the WPB for co-operation in this program are being mailed to commercial customers by the power company. Industries other than electric that are asked to co-operate in the voluntary conservation program include petroleum, coal, gas, water, communication, and transportation. A joint statement by the Federal Government and the National calling on all of these industries to co-operate concludes: "The campaign will be voluntary. Cooperation of these industries in asking the public to use their services only as absolutely necessary represents a real sacrifice by the public and the war effort enthusiastically and assisting co-operation as this campaign develops."

REVIVAL IN PROGRESS The Rev. Dr. O. W. Martin, of Martin, is conducting a revival at the Martin high school auditorium. The public is invited to attend each service, a number of all churches are particularly invited to lend their support to the success of the revival.
