When Buffaloes Stopped the Iron Horse ... TRAVELERS WERE PATIENT

Remembering the hardships of the stagecoach and covered wagon days, travelers once looked upon the new woodburner trains as solid luxury... despite choking smoke, bumpy roadbeds, no electric lights, no berths or dining cars... despite delays of hours on end when great herds of migrating buffaloes marooned them in the middle of an endless prairie. Today, if the train, plane or bus is late, if reservations are hard to get or we can't squeeze into the dining car, we can still take comfort in the fact that America is moving at a pace that has astounded the world. When this war is won, the transportation facilities of our country will have hung up an incredible record for efficient movement of fighting men and freight—and civilians, too. Meanwhile, public opinion is agreed that we should not travel unless absolutely necessary and, if we must go, take inconveniences cheerfully and patiently—like good soldiers.

had been sent to Miami, Florida. Also returned to this country for medical treatment was Pfc. Hicks, his father said this week.

Pvt. Shepherd, who was wounded in France, is a veteran of the Italian campaign during which he suffered shell-shock. During the week two more decorations of war were made—Russia on Bulgaria, Hungary on Roumania. Meanwhile, American forces were snatching at the German border proximity to an all-out offensive on the Reich itself. The British captured Antwerp and Brussels and had pinned against the "rocket" coast a sizeable Nazi army. The Russians this morning were reported to have checked a puncture with 7000 Parkians in Yugoslavia. In the Pacific American bombers increased their assault on the Japs and by plane and submarine took a heavy toll of Jap shipping.

Mrs. E. P. Hill, Jr. and daughter, Sarah Noel, returned Monday to their home here after a four weeks' visit with her sister, Miss Luez Doss, in Canton, Ga. Her daughter, Carolyn, remained there to enter school.

Mr. Riggs goes to Washington

Capitol Hill to Kentuckiana homefolks.

ROBERT L. RIGGS... The Courier-Journal's Washington correspondent legs his way through legislative sessions, chronicling affairs that affect the blue-grass belt.

From three generations of Kentucky stock, on both sides of the family, Riggs, through some accident of fate, was born in Missouri, and graduated with scholastic distinction from that state's University.

With an ear firmly glued to committee room keyholes, Riggs rambles through capitol hill's cabbage patch, assiduously thumping heads.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Did you hear that Tom is going to be inducted into the Army next week, Judge?" "Yes, Frank told me this morning down at the barber shop. Our town's got a lot of men in the service now, Jim. In fact, all towns here. I was just reading in the paper where there are more than 10,000,000 men away from their homes in the armed forces.

well fed. We've got to keep them supplied with the ammunition and equipment they need to finish their job. We've got to help the Government pay for all these supplies our men need by buying more and more War Bonds. We'll have another big chance to do that by helping to put the next War Loan drive over the top, Jim.

"And, in addition, we must be sure that while they're away and can't express their opinions, we don't go voting on and deciding any things that will displease them when they come back."

First Inning 'Comedy Of Errors' Loses Game

But for the tragic first inning when he and three of his teammates erred and permitted five runs to score on a lone hit, young Ballard Brannan would have scored a handsome 3-1 victory here Sunday afternoon in Prestonsburg's third meeting of the season with Drift.

The 16-year-old Brannan walked two, himself committed an error, saw his teammates, Chaffin, Miller and Bradley err, then came a hit, all in that opening round—and there went the ball game. After that, Brannan held the visitors to five bingles and one run.

SHIKE'S POKES

(The views expressed herein are those of the writer and not necessarily those of this newspaper.—Editor.)

Martin Hunter is looking for some fall seed that won't grow so rank. The ones he had choked his corn to death and almost tore the fence down.

And while on the subject of gardens, I inspected Walter Hornsby's tomato crop. I feel he will realize a good profit on his crop—if he will whitewash them and sell them to some doctor for aspirin. And I want some seed of that dwarf corn Walter is raising. It's easy to gather the ears, for the corn grows less than knee high.

Os—the OPA Man. Facts in your hat-band: FDR will get a minimum of 331 electoral votes. Give Dewey all the doubtful states and include Texas, Mississippi and Louisiana and he will lack 82. Dewey is in for a worse licking than Willie.

Feeling as deep that the GOP is behind the scenes, a party of rich, old men. Hoover remains the boss. Kemper, chairman of the Republican Finance committee, is a close friend of McCormick, Gen. Wood and Sewell Avery. Edwin F. Jackie's law firm incorporated the German-American Bund. Lewis J. Tobin is an America Firster. We all know that control of the Republican party is in the hands of Hoover, Ganrett, Rockefeller, McCormick, Avery and the Pews. Kinds hard for Dewey to sell this bunch as "crusading youth."

Sammy Hughes is still having trouble with "that mule."

Perry said that the drought hit Will Jarrell's corn crop so hard he had to sell half his livestock. Yep, he had a cow and calf—he sold the calf.

CLIFF

John Henry Ramey, of East Point, was business visitor here Sunday and Monday. Mr. and Mrs. John Horn, of Ligon, visited Mr. Horn's mother, Mrs. Walker Horn, here Sunday. Mrs. Frances Best, and Mrs. Golda Short, rural school helping teachers, were business visitors in Pikeville Tuesday.

Milk Ceiling Prices Boosted in County By Order of OPA

An increase in the ceiling price of fluid milk sold at wholesale and retail for Floyd county has been announced by the Lexington District office of the Office of Price Administration.

New retail ceiling prices will be 17 cents for quarts and 9 cents for half pints. Dairies here, however, continue to sell at 16 cents per quart. The new ceiling price, at wholesale sale will be 15 cents for quarts and 8 1/2 cents for half pints. Locally, wholesale prices remain at 14 cents a quart and 4 cents a half-pint. Retailers may charge even cents when a fractional part of a cent is involved in the sale of a single bottle, but in multiple sales the price must be computed on the fractional basis.

Prices on special milks such as buttermilk are increased on the same basis as regular milk. Under the new regulation milk distributors may increase the price paid to producers by 23 cents a 100 pounds for each half-cent increase granted per quart at the wholesale and retail levels. Milk dealers, other than retail outlets, adjusting prices under the provisions of the new order, are required within five days after such adjustment to notify the regional office of the Office of Price Administration, Union Commerce Building, Cleveland, O., by letter, of his maximum prices established together with a statement of his previous maximum prices.

Sione also appeared here Wednesday to offer to the grand jury evidence in the near-fatal shooting at David of Sreotal Officer Edson Kendrick. Wley Nelson, brother of the man Sione is charged with slaying, was arrested in connection with the shooting of Kendrick. Although Kendrick has been returned to his home at David from the Paintsville hospital and is recovering, it was held doubtful this week if he would be called to testify before the grand jury.

Trial were few as the term entered 12 third day Wednesday. When court adjourned Tuesday afternoon, one conviction had been effected—Ed Stanley, charged with drunk driving, fine $100. He filed motion and grounds for a new trial. As of that date, 17 cases, eight of which were on pistol charges, had been dismissed.

Walter Short, of Abbott Creek, was named forster of the grand jury.

Major indictments reported at Tuesday noon by the grand jury, in addition to the two murder bills, follow:

Charlie Buchanan, cutting and wounding, executed $1,000 bond; Casey Newsome and Marie Goodman, contributing to delinquency of a minor, executed $500 bond each; Carl Adkins, destroying and damaging a fence; Opal Young and Dempsey Adams, grand larceny; George King, striking and wounding; Enos Tackett, breaking and entering a dwelling; Guy Earl Davis, child desertion; William Hamilton, child desertion; Delmas Pennington and Luttrell Coon, breaking and entering storehouse; Enos Tackett, grand larceny; Charles Reed, Junior Ruliff and Bob Dials, grand larceny; Estill Patton, detaining a woman against her will, executed $500 bond; Dan Goodman, child desertion; Harold Caudill, deserting from military service.

Bill Cantill, child desertion; Clifford Stacey, child desertion; Walker Howell, carrying concealed deadly weapon; Gus Carlos and Nancy Benf, selling liquor to habitual drunkard; Leonard Outley, seduction under promise of marriage; Oscar Hamilton, child desertion.

"Personally, I would like to see Floyd county receive full consideration, particularly in view of the fact that Mr. Rogers, co-author of the bill setting up this program, represents your county, but as matters now stand you folks are far from meeting the competition being offered from other parts of the district." Mr. Everett said.

The Floyd county proposal for sites is lacking in detail, Mr. Everett continued, especially in the matter of price and availability of title to a hospital location. He also said the formal application filed by the county committee should have set out the distance from other county seats of counties in the district.

Only one site, a 15-acre tract owned by Bob Kramer on Brush Creek, was offered gratis, and it is in a rural section where no municipal water supply is available.

First of the sites listed by the county committee, consisting of approximately 80 acres at Allen, owned by the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company, would be acceptable if available without cost to the Commission and if a water plant now proposed by Herman Porter, of Allen, is completed.

The second site of six acres, little more than a mile north of here, was declared by Mr. Everett to be too small. A 50-acre tract on Abbott Creek was held unacceptable because of no municipal water supply.

calls began arriving at police headquarters from terrified citizens.

Howard was trailed by officers to the northeastern side of Rotary park and was discovered hiding behind a tree by Patrolman Jim Triplett, who shouted to Patrolman W. R. Byrd, "Look out, Bill!"

Patrolman Byrd and C. B. Neff, labor prison guard, were closest to Howard and Patrolman Byrd warned him to "put that thing (the sword) down."

Howard was quoted as saying to Patrolman Byrd, "I'm going to kill you." He then jabbed the sword at the men and swung it at Mr. Neff, who stumbled, barely avoiding the blow.

Police said Howard apparently thought he had struck Mr. Neff and then, wheeled on Patrolman Byrd. The policeman continued to plead with Howard to throw down the sword.

While the policeman warned Howard, Patrolman Byrd was backing away, dodging as Howard swung the weapon.

When Howard came within a few feet of the officer, Howard came here fired at Howard's feet in an attempt to stop him without seriously wounding him.

The shot failed to strike the man, who was then within four feet of the officer. It was then that Patrolman Byrd shot Howard in the head in self-defense, witnesses said.

Howard, who with his wife had been rooming for the last week at T. E. Newley's here, was described by acquaintances as a "nice, friendly man." He had been employed in the Right Beaver Creek mines, at Wayland and elsewhere, till a lung condition forced a change of occupation. He and Mrs. Howard came here from Newport News, Va., and was said to have left here Tuesday to seek work in a California shipyard. He was a native of Breathitt county.

The body was taken to Martin by the Ryan Funeral Home and may be removed from there to Hazard for burial.

"These men I observed in battle. They did not show false bravado. They spoke little, one might say they only muttered. They went along cigarette between their lips or chewing their gum, hugging the walls, yet going along upright and quietly, under the ceaseless shelling from the batteries of Asheville and Saint Martin..."

The mayor concludes: "Forty-eight hours after their arrival, the magnificent work was accomplished. In the north, two battalions; in the south, one battalion and anti-aircraft units; in the west two companies of Georgians whose remnants barricaded themselves in a chateau at Bouzeville au Plain." They had destroyed eight tanks, some cannon and had taken 364 prisoners. Their losses were heavy."

Men of the regiment landed mostly around Ste. Mere Eglise. Many met machinegun fire as they hit the ground. There was some mortar fire as well. Snipers were all about. Almost every man found himself forced to fight the enemy immediately.

To stop the rush of German reserves the glider troops reserved the capture of Ste. Mere Eglise and fought for and held four bridges over the Merderet river at La Fiere and at Chef du Pont and over the Douve river at Port l'Abbe and at Beuzeville la Bastille.

In successfully completing their assignment in the plan for the invasion of the Continent, the members of the division, many of them veterans of landings in Sicily and Italy, then fought some of the greatest battles in the history of the war. One-fourth of the members of one regiment of the division were awarded Bronze Stars for individual acts of bravery.

The unit fought for 32 days without rest or replacements; they accomplished every mission assigned them and no ground they gained was ever relinquished. Though casualties were heavy, nothing could stop their relentless drive or break their tenacious hold.

The regiment landed south of Ste. Mere Eglise in the midst of heavy machinegun fire. Several of their gliders crashed into trees and hedge-rows, bordering the narrow French fields. Some fell into water and swamps. Many of the men were engaged in hand-to-hand fighting immediately, yet within five hours most of the regiment had assembled and forced crossings of both rivers.

The regiment was part of the force which drove the enemy northwest of Ste. Mere Eglise. After joining in the coordinated crossing of the Douve river at Port l'Abbe, the regiment became part of the mighty drive toward La Haye du Puits, called the "Battle of the Hills and Ridge" and including the heavy fighting for Hill 131.

Versatile, as well as tough and brave, was definitely the word for an airborne anti-aircraft unit of the 82nd Airborne Division during the opening of the Normandy campaign. Trained as coast artillerymen, these gunners were a utility fire-power unit available for all kinds of jobs during the initial landing. They were anti-tank gunners, accounting for 15 German tanks, and they manned machine guns, fighting as infantrymen.

The unit went in by glider two and one-half hours before H-hour and experienced the same difficulties as the airborne infantry. They often landed in a hall of fire and many were forced to fight immediately, before equipment could be assembled.

The men had a sizeable battery in operation before dawn, working incessantly under heavy fire and aided the paratroops who had established pockets of resistance.

During the next few days as other elements of the unit came in, the gunners had a rough time. In one battery, every officer was a casualty, but the unit continued with their operations, supporting infantry regiments wherever needed most.

The anti-aircraft unit was particularly valuable during the crossing of the Merderet river at La Fiere and Chef du Pont and the Douve river at Port l'Abbe and Bouzeville la Bastille, assisting with plunking fire.

Paratroopers from this county taking part in the airborne invasion are: Pfc. Robert Bunting, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Bunting, Prestonsburg; Pvt. Maas E. Gray, who was wounded, brother of Henry Gray, West Prestonsburg; Pfc. Ed Hurt, Wayland.

Glider-borne troops included Pfc. James C. Roseberry, Garrett, and Pvt. John Alley, Grethel.

cluded 340 students. Approximately 500 were enrolled Tuesday at the grade school.
