WARNING
Our feathered friends are hereby notified that again the windows of THE TIMES office have been smashed. N.B., beware, don't touch, etc.

This warning is given because last time such a thing happened to the windows, a sparrow, unaccounted to unobserved view of the interior of these premises, thought there was nothing there to keep him from perching raven-like above the door of the sanctum, and so took off in a power drive to wind up, spout against the spooling pane. The result was that the window had a spot and the sparrow limped off, apparently in some pain.

APOLOGIA
Vance Armentrout, Courier-Journal editorial writer, asks this column to convey his deepest regrets for calling the whole Big Sandy for calling the stream the Salvia Fork. The error, corrected in the next edition of the C.-J., suspected the name of one of the boys. Armentrout's name in that first edition we folks get up here.

He shouldn't mention such things. It brings back too vividly to me the time when I stated editorially that the Lincoln Memorial is at Harrodsburg.

THIS TOWN-THAT WORLD
hopes the poisoner of those dozen or more West Prestonsburg dogs is satisfied he or she has done a good job of it. The poison killed three dogs loved by as many boys of the community before they went overseas to fight for dog-lovers and dog-haters alike.

AND FURTHER SAYING NOT...
While others were slaying them and gnawing their necks following the flight of a plane "buzzing" the town recently, a young Prestonsburg housewife called her husband to inquire why the plane was doing that.

"Don't know, honey," hubby replied "because it's a friendly."

Friend husband had no more to say when the little woman came back with: "Lost—in a little town like this?"

Local Price Panel To Handle Minor Price Violations
Fred Caudill, Paintsville fruit and vegetable dealer, is well known in this setting, paid $2,029.77 in this settlement of alleged overcharges, the Lexington OPA office announced this week.

Alfred A. Natf, OPA food enforcement officer, said the sum represented one and one-half times the amount charged by the firm in excess of ceiling prices for cabbage, apples, lemons and lettuce sold to retail dealers in this section during May, June and July.

PATTON, MOUND STAR WHEN CHIPS DOWN

Floyd Righthander Hurls Louisville Into Play-Off; Shines Against St. Paul
Big Ray Patton, the Floyd county righthander who last spring was regarded too tall for American Association baseball, came back, a few days ago, to his parent club, the Louisville Colonels, and since that time has been an important factor in his team's victory over the American Association's play-offs.

First of all, Big Ray, the former Wayland-Prestonsburg righthander, defeated Toledo, 4-1, in a brilliant play-off for the right to meet the International League winner in the "Little World" series. And for eight innings Floyd county's Ray Patton, with his steaming fast which and sharp curve, permitted only two scratch hits in eight innings, at the end of which he had a 1-0 lead. In the ninth, Johnson, a left-hander, relieved him and made a 2-1 Louisville victory possible.

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Ky., under the act of March 3, 1879.

The Fiction of a Jury Verdict

UNLEARNED in the abstractions of the law, THE TIMES is unable to comprehend the reason, if any, for the Kentucky law to prescribe certain penalties for manslaughter or murder or any other felonious offense, then in another section provide that these penalties as fixed by trial juries mean only a fraction of their face value.

Examples of such legal double-talk are found in paroles granted from time to time to convicts; more particularly, a man given a life term by the jury but granted a parole in 10 years, another in six years, others sentenced to 21 years and paroled in five or six years.

Duration of the actual pen term in some of these instances was shortened by national emergency provisions. But under the law, in normal times, a life is ellgible to parole in eight years, one sentenced for 21 years is eligible in six years, and so on.

The part of the whole matter that to us passes understanding is the legalization of a parole timetable which makes of the jury verdict a farce.

Why not make the sentence lower, graduated to fit the seriousness of the crime, and have the prisoner stay out that sentence unless incontrovertible evidence is produced to show that he was unjustly accused and imprisoned?

What good is served by such double-talk in the criminal code? Why not a realistic law for felons, and not a law which in the courtroom says 21 years and in the parole board's office says six?

Many juries deadlock because their members cannot agree, not on the matter of guilt, but on the number of years the defendant shall be imprisoned. These "hung" juries require second trials at great expense. But the fact of the matter is, if all are agreed the defendant deserves a sentence, there is little reason for failure to agree on a verdict for between a life sentence and one of 21 years is a mere matter of two years, the gap between a 21-year pen term and one of 10 years, say, is only one year.

The parole system in Kentucky is not such a shining thing of justice, mercy and reform that it must be perpetuated in any manner such as this. If a life term for murder—a life term, no less—is too long, why not have the law say so in governing the trial jury's sentence?

Story of Sgt. Martin Parallels the Story Of Allied Successes

A P-47 BASE IN CORSICA (Sp1)—A Wayland, Ky., boy, Sgt. Raymond Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Martin, is a member of the famous veteran Thunderbolt group which sent the first fighter-bombers over Corsica on D-Day. Five days later, the combat-hardened outfit completed its 25,000th operational sortie, adding another name to its long and distinguished list of war exploits and staggering array of records, started in the days of the blistering battles of the steaming Western Desert, when the crew's first assault on the Mareth positions of Field Marshal Rommel.

Martin is the administrative non-commissioned officer in charge of records and files in the group headquarters. The job is an important one as it controls the paper destinies of a group of men engaged in savage and continuous combat with the enemy.

The 20-year-old staff sergeant is one of the youngest men in the organization. His war experience enables him to swap yarns with any old, grizzled campaigner, for on his theater ribbon, Martin has five major campaigns—the Egyptian-Libyan, Tunisia, Sicilian, Italian and French. In addition, he is a member of the United States Unit Badge as the result of a citation by the President of the United States for outstanding performance of duty in support of the British Eighth Army forces in the North African theater.

Sgt. Martin enlisted in the army air corps in January, 1942, and has been overseas with the same outfit since October of that year. Prior to his entrance into military service he had attended Wayland high school.

The story of Martin's overseas life has been the story of Allied successes. The sergeant has been in the victory parade started when Gen. Robert L. Montgomery routed the Axis forces and sent the routing enemy into a retreat from which they were never to recover, and Martin has had a choice seat in all of the proceedings.

His fighter-bomber group, now flying in the Twelfth army air force, has many combat firsts to its credit with the P-40 and P-47 types of aircraft. They were the first to drop bombs on the island of Sicily, to sink a warship, turning the trick on an Axis destroyer off Cape Bon, Tunisia. They have flown over 200,000 miles of operational missions, have dropped 300,000 pounds of explosives on the enemy in a single day, and in an assault on the harbor of Genoa, fired the 20,000-ton aircraft carrier "Aquila," a converted luxury liner. Recently the group flew its specialty of bombing and strafing shows in record assaults on Nazi-held French airbases and created havoc with planes and installations.

Although Martin has been through all the fireworks, he contends his biggest thrill will be getting foot on United States soil again.

Garrett Infantryman Receives Bronze Star

Mrs. Romie Isbell, of Garrett, is in receipt of a letter from the 26th Infantry Division, concerning her son, Pvt. Merel Isbell. It reads:

"Under the provisions of army regulations as amended, your son, Pvt. Merel Isbell, is awarded a Bronze Star medal for heroic achievement in combat.

"Merel Isbell, private, engineers combat battalion, for heroic achievement in combat 8 June 1944 in Italy. While advancing in pursuit of the enemy Private Isbell, along with other men of his company, was subjected to an intensive barrage of enemy self-propelled gunfire, resulting in wounding of several of his comrades. Observing their distress, he unhesitatingly left his place of shelter and went to the aid of the wounded men. Although under heavy enemy shelling he calmly administered first aid treatment and assisted in moving the injured and wounded men to places of safety. By his remarkable display of gallantry, he was instrumental in the saving of his comrades' lives."

George Marshall, son of Mrs. Maggie Marshall formerly of Prestonsburg, now an army surgical technician, has within recent months met at least two Prestonsburg acquaintances in Oran he met Pfc. Jimmy Hatcher, son of Mrs. Maggie Hatcher, Prestonsburg, his former classmate here. In England he met an army chaplain. Both evaded the other in an attempt at recognition. Finally the chaplain spoke and Marshall immediately knew where he was. The chaplain was the Rev. Robert A. Potter, former pastor of the Presbyterian Church here.

Young Marshall is now on his sixth trip overseas on a hospital ship.

In Greensburg county, 80 4-H club boys are growing acre plots of hybrid corn which is showing up well against plots planted to home saved seed.

"Don't know as you can call it lucky, Harold... we saw it coming with the war and we did something about it before it hit us. We gave our 'teen age youngsters the recreational facilities they needed and really wanted. Those familiar with this wartime problem know that young folks go to places they shouldn't only when the proper places are not provided for them. Young people always want to be with others of their own age... want their own type of entertainment. Town after town has found out that once these simple wants are met, the problem is well on its way to being licked." "Guess I didn't really know how far sighted our town really is, Judge. Floyd County Goes To War

Graduates As Gunner

Recent graduate of the Kingman Army Air Field flexible gunnery school was 20-year-old Pfc. Royce W. Mayo, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Mayo, of West Prestonsburg, Pfc. Mayo entered the army at Huntington, W. Va., July 21, 1943. He attended Prestonsburg high school. As a student-gunner at the Kingman school Pfc. Mayo went through a ground school course in which he was taught the principles of ballistics, sighting, turret maintenance, range estimation and aircraft machine guns. Following a protracted course on the gunnery range, where he shot the .22 rifle, shotgun and 30- and 50-caliber machine guns, he was given two weeks of air firing before being presented his gunnery wings. Pfc. Mayo is now stationed at Tampa, Florida.

Osborne Is Decorated For Battle Gallantry

WITH THE 4TH ARMORED DIVISION IN FRANCE—Fifteen officers and men of the Fourth Armored Division, including two chaplains, have been awarded the Silver Star medal for gallantry in action in France.

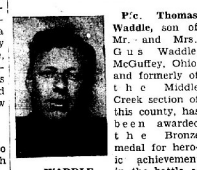

Staff Sgt. Herman L. Osborne, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie E. Osborne, Northern, Ky., was one of the 15 to receive the coveted decoration.

In Two Battles

Acting with a forward observer party for an armored field artillery battalion in action near Periers, Sgt. Osborne assumed command when his superior officer was killed in difficult terrain and under intense enemy shell fire, he continued to direct accurate and deadly artillery fire which inflicted heavy losses on the enemy. He is a graduate of Maytown high school, Maytown, Ky., and attended Gateway Junior College, Pippasippa, Ky. His wife resides at Northern.

Former Floyd Man Earns Bronze Medal

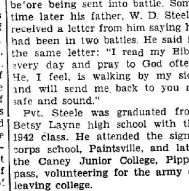

WADDIE

Pfc. Thomas Waddie, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Waddie, McCouffey, Ohio, and formerly of the Middle Creek section of this county, has been awarded the Bronze Medal for heroic achievement in the battle of Hill 700 at Bouafville Island of the northern Solomons.

The citation accompanying Pfc. Waddie's award said, "He acted as an automatic rifleman in a squad, ordered to support the attack in the left sector of Hill 700. He crawled up the hill and after crossing the crest, halted about three yards down the forward slope behind a slight rise in the ground.

"From this position he located a slit trench occupied by enemy riflemen. He quickly directed his automatic rifle upon them and delivered such intense fire that they all were killed. He continued to fire his assigned mission until he was severely wounded by a sniper's bullet."

Says Army Medical Work Overlooked

Corporal James J. Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carter, of Prestonsburg, best known to his many friends in and around Prestonsburg as "Muck," has been in the medical corps of the army for some 10 months. His father presents the following letter from his son, who is with the invasion forces:

"Today I hit the 'jack pot' by receiving three letters from you. Enclosed in one of them was some air mail stamps. Thanks.

"I'm getting along just fine considering I'm a long way from home. But I have a cheerful outlook, and don't think it will be very long before I return to the good old U.S.A. and home.

"There is very little said about the medical department in the papers, but we really do more to save lives than any other division of the army. We have the best physicians, the finest equipment, and efficient staff in the world. We men certainly do go through the roughest and toughest over here. I sometimes wonder if the people back home really appreciate what we are going through to make the world FREE for their families and children. We are away from our families sometimes for a month before we even get a letter.

"I realize what it means now to strike. If the strikers could only see why these men over here have to suffer and go through with, they would certainly change their ways. Actually, there are plenty of men in the States who drag more in one day than we do in a whole month; and the things that we men in the services are for the folks back home. Why these men over here have to be in a war, and it isn't won yet? So hold back the shouts until it is over, and we can all celebrate together, but until then it seems as though we should all work together toward that end.

"I am now in the operating room of the 188th General Hospital.

"Give all my friends my best regards, and tell them I'm looking forward to seeing them soon. Will write again soon."

Rode LST to Normandy

FRAZIER

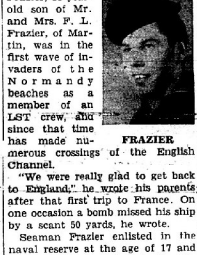

S 2/c Paul Frazier, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Frazier of Martin, was in the first wave of invaders of the Normandy beach as a member of an LST crew, and since that time has made numerous crossings of the English Channel.

"We were really glad to get back to England," he wrote his parents after that first trip to France. On one occasion a bomb missed his ship by a scant 50 yards, 9-21-24-44.

Seaman Frazier enlisted in the naval reserve at the age of 17 and sailed for England last April. His brother, James, a paratrooper, was wounded in the air invasion of the Markham valley in New Guinea, and is now in Brisbane, Australia.

Telephone Lines to the Front

Keeping step with the fast advancing war fronts all over the world are the telephone lines of communication. These lines are vital to military and naval operations and as the war fronts expand, vast amounts of additional wires, cables, switchboards and telephones are urgently needed.

Even when an invasion force wins, it loses vast stores of additional communication equipment. That is one price of victory. This is why there are shortages of all kinds of telephone equipment over here and why so many people are waiting for telephone service.

The best possible use is being made of the equipment we have, but there will necessarily continue to be waiting lists for service until the war is won and manufacturing plants have time to convert from war production and catch up with the backed-up demands for equipment.

We'd like those who must wait for a telephone to know that we shall continue to do everything possible to shorten that time.

Special Prayers Offered For Men in Service

The Pilgrim Holiness Church at Prestonsburg has special prayer each Wednesday evening for the boys in service. We draw names from a box and write each a letter. These are some of the answers received:

U. S. Naval Torpedo Testing Range, Pines Point, Md.
Dear Pastor:
I received your letter today and I did appreciate hearing from you. My ship was sent to Annapolis and the distance the letter had traveled. Since I lost my ship, my address has changed. The letter was first sent to New York City. I had not there a few days before it arrived. It was then forwarded to Washington, D. C. I had left there a couple of days, then it was sent to Annapolis, D. C. I had left there at Alexandria, Va. I received it here at Pines Point, Md.

Yes, I do believe your prayers for the boys help, because on May 8th my ship was torpedoed and 30 of my shipmates lost their lives. I'm now in North Africa, where I received a letter from your church stating that Mr. Frisby had drawn my name and had prayed for my safety. Please thank her for me, also. Mrs. Crum.

Sincerely yours,
RADFORD HALL
Camp Atterbury, Ind.
Rev. Weedman:

I was very much surprised with the cards received, and after reading them, a stronger realization arose within me as to the importance of praying in this war. If every man would spend even a few minutes of his time in meditation, praying, and I mean I mean, I have many of them do despite their actions, victory would be hastened and with less cost.

I read this quotation several times:
"The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."—James 5:16. Much as I hate to admit it, I had never read that before.

Thanks a lot, Rev. Weedman, I shall try to remember the reading on that card throughout the conflict.

Sincerely yours,
PVE. HERBERT PRATER
APO No. 957
Prestonsburg, Ky.

Dear Friends:
Thomas in his name, I have just recently received the second of the two letters that you sent me, assuring me of your prayers. I'm glad that I will be able to express to you my appreciation in the course of this letter. However, in my humility, I wish to thank you not only for your prayers, but your thoughtfulness in informing me of your prayers. I realize that other churches are holding their own prayer services, unfortunately, they neglect to write and inform the fellows thereof. The boys are often tempted to believe the church is forsaken when they are in the field as it often does, the one that is forgotten becomes very discouraged. I know this to be a fact.

Perhaps you are interested in learning some of our activities, and our spiritual conditions. If so, this is an opportunity for a word of testimony. I wish to testify to the fact that God can, and does, keep us here in the army. His power is just as real here as it is there. I have had the privilege of seeing tough soldiers bowing humbly before the Lord in earnest prayer, crying out to God for mercy. Fourth rank, I have seen many of these boys, their knees praying. God for His wonderful power. Moreover, I have seen men, both officers and privates, who would not admit that they were praying. I know of a 3rd prayer meeting that is continuing on by the way of the month. When I took on these boys, I am and have some of our victories will be ours. It is by the grace of our Lord that we are here today.

As you know, I have just finished up my prayers. I have a letter to you in the mail, and I would like to see you. If you would, my request desires as to be as glad in the Master's hand. I want to see you, and I want to see you. I will appreciate your prayers in this behalf.

May God continue to bless you in His most merciful prayer.

In His service,
(Adv.) MACK WILLIAMS

Old Job Crowell Is Just Too Modest

Job Crowell has a son overseas, too. We were talking about him.

"Down in my heart," Job said, "I still do not know if I was glad he was in it and that I'm proud."

"And I reckon he's been proud upon some mighty fine rounds, too."

"Yes," said Job, thoughtfully, "and here I am, enjoying all the comforts of home while our youngsters are doing 'the dirty work.' I wish there was something I could do."

"There's," I said, reassuringly, "you'd be doing it and you're still doing it. You've bought War Bonds to the limit. You've given blood to save the lives of our wounded soldiers. You've written every letter to every boy you know in the service and you've fought like a lion to protect the president of the United States. I think you've done more than most. You've given more than your share to this country."

"From where I sit, Job Crowell, who's proud of you. You're a true American!"

Foul weather and a "stand-and-aidie" defense on the part of the Germans made the going slow this week along the German border. Advances were measured in yards and in a few instances Allied soldiers lost advanced positions. Supreme Allied headquarters announced this morning that of an original force of 8,000 British and Polish paratroopers entrapped at Arnhem less than 2,000 had fought their way back to their comrades south of the Neder Rhine. They expected a total, however, of from 12,000 to 15,000 German dead. On the other side of Europe the Russians cleared Estonia of Germans and made a 10-mile push into Hungary. In a move to trap large German forces in the Balkans and a term Mediterranean, Allied sea-borne and airborne forces have landed in Albania and on islands off Yugoslavia. It is announced. In the Pacific American air power continued to deal the Japs heavy blows and land forces had split politics island in two.

take a post graduate course to fit himself for a teaching job in Prestonsburg or elsewhere in Floyd county. It is said he is ready to start. Yores, JOE. HELP "OUR SIDES" Mike Psaros, Prestonsburg restaurateur, a native of Greece, asks THE TIMES to remind Floyd county citizens he has arranged through a Greek Relief Agency to send wearing apparel direct to his homeland for the aid of his countrymen who are in dire need. He seeks any kind of clothing—a dress or shoes for a baby, a garment for an adult—anything. These Greeks have been heroically starving, almost naked, after the Germans came to the aid of Mussolini in defeating them on the field of battle. But even Hitler and his legions failed to convert Greece into a satellite nation. The only fighting done by Greeks has been done on "our side"—resistance of German power and Nazi threats. Mike Psaros, before he came to America, lived on Khios, a Grecian isle. He would like to send the natives, starving folk on his native islet some clothing, at least.

WOULD YOU CARE TO HELP HIM? If so, bring or send whatever you have to offer to his restaurant here.

FBI To Conduct Meet at Paintsville

M. W. McFarlan, special agent in charge of the Louisville office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced this week that arrangements have been made to hold an FBI law enforcement conference at Paintsville, Oct. 19, between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m., Eastern War Time, at the Paintsville Country Club. This conference will be sponsored by the Paintsville police department and the Johnson county sheriff's office in co-operation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Law enforcement officers and public officials whose work is closely related to law enforcement from the following counties will attend: Floyd, Pike, Martin, Johnson, Magoffin and Morgan. McFarlan states that this should be the finest and best attended conference ever held in this section of Kentucky. Included in the program will be a demonstration on "Defensive Tactics," a portion of which will be devoted to justice. Following this will be a lecture on "The Use and Care of Firearms" and an outdoor firearms demonstration which will include a trick shooting exhibition. The lecture and demonstrations will be given by FBI experts who have been specifically designated for this purpose by the Washington headquarters of the FBI. This will be the last of a series of three such conferences held during 1944 for law enforcement officers in this section of the state.

the price-control law. Chester Bowler, OPA Administrator, has directed Price Panels to negotiate with retailers for a voluntary settlement involving payments to the United States Treasury or to customers in case of overcharges. The amount of payment may vary from the actual overcharge to a penalty three times the overcharge, or $50, whichever is greater. The new procedure will give Price Panels the additional means they have frequently asked in handling retail violations. In announcing the new plan, OPA said in cases of unintentional violation the Price Panels may, if they believe the circumstances warrant, close the case with an agreement from the retailer to comply in future sales. In more serious cases, they may require settlements at amounts up to three times the overcharge, or $50, whichever is greater. If it is found that records were falsified, payments were made on the side or the violations were repeated after a warning from OPA, the panel is to send the case directly to the district office for handling. If the overcharged customer can be identified, the money must be returned to him, but if he is not known, the payment is to be made to the United States Treasury. In no case will OPA obtain a refund for the customer in excess of the overcharge to him and in any case where payment is to be made to the Treasury, a district OPA office must approve the settlement before the payment is completed and the case closed. If the customer wishes to sue for treble damages he must do so before OPA takes action. Negotiations with the Price Panel as part of the retailer is voluntary throughout, OPA said. If the retailer is unwilling to agree to a voluntary settlement in place of formal action the Price Panel will send the case to district enforcement officials for handling. Price panels are made up of unpaid volunteers, working with retailers and consumers in an effort to obtain understanding and of compliance with wartime price ceilings.
