THREE ARE CATS AND CATS
Lewis county's wildcat story is a good one. The only way to insure a way for Floyd county to go 'em one better is to have somebody's children afraid to sleep. And politics the polecat. Only, I'm afraid the yarn would smell.

JUST GETTING MORE DEVILISH
Allied authorities are doubting the authenticity of a recent photograph claimed to be that of Hitler. They say they have measured his ear as photographed and that it's too large. They are hereby reminded that there was a time when Lucifers' ears were not so long and pointed.

ALL HE WANTED TO KNOW
Conservation Officer Duff, of the Perry-Knot district, has by this time probably changed Judge Mulligan's famed line to read "Politics the damnest in Knott county." A few months ago he caught two or three members of a Knott county family leaving Troublesome Creek with fish under the limit which they had caught in a net. Anybody did not have fishing license. And, moreover, they did not deny his charge, so we are told. Anybody when the case was called in county court at Hindman somebody had got together 12 good men and true. Democracy—a feat not difficult to perform in Knott.

The evidence was heard, the defendant's guilt was established. Then, according to the story told here, there arose from the jury Donnan Sturgill, editor of the Hindman Herald. He asked and was granted permission to ask the other a question. "By what authority do you arrest these defendants?" he asked. "By authority of the Governor of Kentucky," was the reply. "You mean . . . Governor Simon S. Willis?"

"Ye-ah."
"Well, all I wanted to know," the juror concluded. But the "not guilty" verdict that quickly followed wasn't all that happened to this Republican appointee. He was indicted on a charge of drunkenness while acting in the capacity of an officer and at the recent circuit court session was fined $100.

SAVE AMERICAN BOYS
This is not expected to change the entire course of war strategy, but we're going to say it anyway. We want that money that those planes are building for the manufacture of robot bombs to get built in a hurry. We want to see those robots lose on the Japs.

There is no need to waste the lives of fine American boys on the Nips if they can be subjugated by ships and planes far out at sea firing these robot bombs. Why not throw the robots on the Japs? Ten thousand, fifty thousand a day, if possible.

Sure, some women and children would be killed by this pro-courtesy bombing. But aren't women and children being killed by the bombs dropped through our borders and by the British in their "saturation" bombing by night? Those bombs are true, all the finest, noblest intentions in the world—to kill only German fighting men, to destroy only German factories by the day. But they go "aglee" as to the best laid plans of mice and men. Some of them will kill our own soldiers. General MacNeil, for instance.

Let us be noble and brave and chivalrous. Let us preach and practise the humanities. God forbid that we stoop in spirit to the tactics of the brute who fights us with every fiendish engine of destruction human ingenuity can devise. But let us be noble and brave and let us consider the lives of our own boys.

It will be no sign of weakness for us to shiver the Japanese mainland with robot bombs. It will simply prove that our charity toward human life begins with our households.

Say Casualty Reports
From Battlefronts;
Deal Is Prisoner

The list of Floyd county casualties, as reported this week while American fighting men dug it out at the gateway, a hillside, and on the island approaches to Japan, includes one killed, one missing and five or three members of a Knott county family leaving Troublesome Creek with fish under the limit which they had caught in a net. Anybody did not have fishing license. And, moreover, they did not deny his charge, so we are told. Anybody when the case was called in county court at Hindman somebody had got together 12 good men and true. Democracy—a feat not difficult to perform in Knott.

Reforestation—by a Floyd Countian!
WHILE Floyd county folks go ahead with the generations-old folly of setting out forest fires, cutting away progressively at their woodland and forgetting every to restore to their hills the trees they have taken away, a native of this county, now residing in the Blue-grass, ironically enough wins the Tom Wallace Forestry Award.
It is a bitter irony, this story of Dr. J. F. Hall, a native of Left Beaver Creek turning his time and hands to the great work of culling his woodland, of scientifically providing for its better growth and of adding new trees to it in a section of the state where erosion is not an urgent and serious matter; while, here in his native hills, his kinsmen and the rest of us thoughtlessly cut away and permit to be burned away, with never a move toward reforestation, the timber that remains after the first great massacre of the trees, back in the days of rafting along the Big Sandy.
THE TIMES would express the wish that he had remained here to show the way to others, and we not fear that, had he remained in Floyd county, reforestation would not have caught his interest.

In that case, the doctor himself would have been the loser and his native county would not have benefited.
As it is, he has begun, away from "home," a job we here at home cannot too long postpone. If we cannot now begin reforestation, we can at least stop the wanton destruction of the trees. We can stop the forest fires and permit those trees left to live and grow. It is a sad reflection on a people to see hills whose beauty lies in their verdure become denuded and gullied like the face of a wrinkled crone.
All this brings THE TIMES back to its argument that if this section is not to become a wasteland some day, once our mineral resources are exhausted, conservation must be practiced.
The "new grounds" today hacked out of the woodlands—they cannot be graded by the word, "forests," any longer—are the soil of rich bottom lands, miles away, tomorrow. Treeless hillsides, bare even of grass, are veritable chutes down which every rain sends the remaining topsoil. The streams are filled with sand (all any rainfall of consequence sends them out of their banks, inundating lowlands, covering the fields with white sand.
These streams must be cleared, possibly by dredging, to provide a channel for the water. But the communities in which such waterway improvement is to be made, if at all, must restore to their hills the trees and grass; otherwise, the streams would quickly refill with sand instead of water.
When the federal government undertakes its post-war program of waterways improvement, the up-the-creek communities must not be forgotten. The immediate effect will not be so striking as a great dam or super-highway, but the permanent benefits will be greater.

News From Floyd Communities

Warm—but not fair!

JOE'S got the house too hot by careless firing of the furnace, so he's trying to heat all outdoors by opening the windows. Through wasteful practices, he isn't being fair to his own family—or to other families using coal. He isn't helping America.

This winter it's vital to conserve coal as never before. This isn't because less coal is being produced. Actually, millions more tons are being mined this year than last—but by fewer mines. Quite a tribute to mine owners and miners alike!

There are adequate facilities for hauling coal to your city. But certain grades and sizes of coal are needed for war production. And, in addition, your local coal dealer is handicapped by a shortage of manpower, trucks and ties. So be patient with him. Order before you're down to your last shovelful.

And conserve the coal he is able to deliver to you through firing carefully, closing off unused rooms, pulling down shades at night and through other simple precautions. For other suggestions see your coal dealer.

One of the biggest jobs of the C & O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal is these days.
