FIVE MURDER CASES, LOW

For Floyd Court Docket; Grand Jury May Escape Work of Murder Probes

Five murder cases, an all-time low in the modern history of Floyd county, are docketed for trial at the April term of circuit court which convenes here Monday morning.

And establishing another record, if violence does not develop before Monday, is the fact that the grand jury will not have a murder case to investigate which it contemplates the beginning of the court term.

The crime list, as it appears on the docket for the term, is full enough, with several cases of shooting and wounding with intent to kill, but the matter of life-and-death is arranged for trial. In all, 261 cases are docketed for trial.

Of the total, 69 cases hinge upon use of deadly weapons and deeds of violence in which weapons figured—29 are backed for breaking and entering, and 34 for attacks on others with intent to kill by striking, cutting and shooting or by attempting to do so.

Twenty are named for trial on charges of child desertion, and 32 are backed for breaking and entering and grand larceny.

Murder trial defendants and dates set for their trials follow:

Dewey Gibson, April 12; Mrs. Betty Spence, April 14; Allen Stone, April 22; Ritter Hall and Beatrice Johnson, April 26; Harold Conn, April 27.

LEWIS DENIES HE PROMPTED COAL STRIKE

UMWA Leader Is Forced By Court Order To Make Appearance Before Board

Forced by a federal judge to appear Tuesday before a board investigating the coal strike, John L. Lewis denied in a letter that he caused the strike, a blanket denial that he caused the strike.

He declared that the soft coal miners left their jobs because they found out they had been gold-bricked by the operators.

The strike started March 15, three days after Lewis told his United Mine Workers in a letter that the operators had "gold-bricked" their contract by failing to arrange pension payments.

Lewis insisted the miners walked out on their own.

The UMWA president was compelled by the federal district court to answer questions before a presidential board investigating the strike.

The board will report its findings to President Truman. When it does, Mr. Truman can ask the Attorney General to seek a federal court injunction to stop the strike.

Lewis was forced before the board after he had ignored his own subpoena Monday. Promptly the three members turned to the federal court and in 10 minutes Tuesday morning an order was issued directing Lewis to appear at 2 p. m.

So "under compulsion," as he put it, the miners' chief gave his side of the pension dispute.

Congress was asked meanwhile to give the government power to take over and operate the coal mines.

Rep. Harrison (D-Va.) introduced a bill to give the president power to take over the coal mines.

Stony-faced, Lewis strode at the head of 20 aides into the hearing room. He sat in silence as the members turned to the federal court and in 10 minutes Tuesday morning an order was issued directing Lewis to appear at 2 p. m.

CIVIC GROUP, CITIZENS JOIN IN CAMPAIGN

Say $30,000 Needed For Playground Plot And Athletic Field

An idea born with the Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce and Citizens League Monday night, a large percentage of residents of Prestonsburg this week set interested persons on a canvass of the community for funds with which to establish here the Floyd County Playground Center.

A day after funds were first sought, $2,000 had been subscribed.

Solicitation of funds began after a public meeting at the courthouse Monday night when all angles of the enterprise were discussed. First public meeting in connection with the undertaking was held Friday night.

The plan, as explained by Dr. George P. Archer at Friday's meeting, is to take children off the streets, provide them an adequate playground, and supervision and at the same time provide for the schools here an athletic field which will be lighted.

The playground, it was emphasized, would serve not only the children and schools of Prestonsburg, County field meets and other public gatherings would be accommodated in the field, either by day or night, and softball and other sports could be played at night by church and civic groups.

The move follows years of talk pointing to the need of a supervised playground for children, in addition to the necessity of an established athletic field.

Two sites have already been given consideration, and any others that may be available will be studied before a definite location is made, it was said.

Archer in the campaign have set $30,000 for their goal.

The organization will be known as The Floyd County Playground Center, Inc., and will be such that contributions to it will be deductible from income tax returns. All contributions will be held in escrow until a suitable location is made for the field.

The lighting system already planned by the City Board for Education in the City Park at a football field will be transferred to the new field, it was said. The lighting system has been contracted by the board at a cost of around $10,000.

Explaining that the move looks to the future of youngsters now playing at Little Point, Dr. Archer pointed out that building development here of recent years has been such that playground sites are scarce, and that further development may occupy all such sites unless action is taken immediately. The schools here could conceivably be without a football or baseball field, it was stated.

"I can't say enough in praise of the idea," commented Chalmers Prizer, superintendent of Prestonsburg Schools, and W. V. Bunting, member of the Board of Education here, said, "speaking for myself, I can promise my full cooperation."

Circuit Judge E. P. Hill was quick to lend the undertaking. "I am sure that this task that has been set too far distant, with 18 clubs organized and 2700 youngsters enrolled under the guidance of 23 adult leaders."

In addition to these are five Homemakers clubs, with 134 women of good educational film strips for its own use. (The Board of Education has one of these film strip projectors and a fairly good film strip library which is loaned to rural teachers on request.) Considerable

MELVIN MAN LOSES $4,000

Lie Detector Exam For Three Delayed; $500 Reward Posted

An attempt to question three Floyd county men under the "scrutiny" of a lie detector in the loss by Hays Johnson, Melvin merchant, of approximately $4,000 in cash failed Wednesday morning, and Johnson posted $500 reward for the return of the money or for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who took it.

Melvin Johnson was removing tools from the car he had traded, the merchant's young son investigated contents of the car, put the fat roll in his pocket. Not until the following Wednesday did the merchant learn what had happened.

Then the boy told him he became frightened, lest Johnson see the bulging roll in his pocket, and so put the money in the car, at the end of a seat.

That night Johnson said the car was returned to North Carolina, before to her home Mrs. Merill Hall. Returning it left the Johnson merchant's son, according to the merchant, entered the car "to look it over."

Newsmen, Gilliam and Lester Tackett were questioned and all denied seeing the money. Mrs. Johnson said Gilliam told her he saw a woman pick up "something" near the car.

Johnson said he was not making a definite accusation against any certain individual but indicated he would ask a grand jury investigation next Monday. The three men, he said, had expressed willingness to submit to lie detector examination but failed to appear here Wednesday morning, the date set for the trip to Lexington for the test.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Correll are announcing the birth of their first child, a daughter, born March 27 at the Prestonsburg General Hospital. She has not been given a name. Mrs. Correll's former husband, Miss Madeline Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Boyd.

Modeling for those who are credited with being the architects in fashioning the future of children is the role of the teachers and pupils of two Floyd county schools.

The "model school" plan, instituted by Palmer L. Hall, Superintendent of Floyd county schools, and now concluding its second year, was born of necessity. Only two other counties in Kentucky have such a system, and Floyd's is the only plan of its kind in Eastern Kentucky.

Because of the loss of so many trained and qualified teachers since the beginning of the war period and the consequent use of a large number of "emergency" teachers, school administrators have had to do a lot of searching, substituting and experimenting in order to keep the schools going with the highest possible efficiency under existing handicaps.

The shortage of trained principals and supervisors was no less than that for classroom teachers, and so ways of bringing the greatest possible help to the teachers who had not had the advantage of the usual college training supervisory help had to be found.

One of the methods used to overcome this lack of training on the part of teachers and the lack of supervisory personnel was the setting up of two "model" schools, one at the Cliff school (District No. 3) and the other at the Dark Hollow Model School.

Roughly, these schools are situated in opposite sides of the county, choice of these schools being determined partly on account of their location in regard to the distribution of rural schools throughout the county, partly because of the availability of the proper teacher and principal, and partly because of the suitability of the school itself for the purpose.

The term "model school" is somewhat misleading to one who thinks of a model being an ideal example. From the physical standpoint, neither of these schools could be classed as ideal. Both buildings, in fact, are of the old type, with windows on both sides of the building providing cross ventilation and cross lighting. At the time the Dark Hollow school was selected it was hardly typical of the old type buildings in that it did not have cloak rooms. These were added by the Board of Education under the supervision of the teacher before the opening of the school in July, 1946.

In using the term "model" Superintendent Hall and his helpers were thinking of what was being done in the school with the equipment available rather than what could be done to make the physical aspects of the school ideal. It was to be a typical average one-room school building set on grounds with a better than average teaching program which any wide-awake teacher with initiative and enthusiasm could duplicate in whole or in part in her own school.

ARSON HINTED IN MINE FIRE

Thekla Tipple Razed Monday; $2,000 Reward Offered by North-East

Arson is suspected in the destruction of the North-East Coal Company mine at Thekla, near Paintsville, Monday, and the company Wednesday posted a reward of $2,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the fire.

Company officials, however, claimed they had no information of value that there was no insurance on the property. The insurance agent is pending a study of insurance adjusters, but one unofficial source said that there was no insurance on the mine when the current shut-down in the industry ends, the total might easily be $250,000.

The wood and steel tipple, which has been in operation since Thekla mine opened 35 years ago, was equipped to grade the coal into five sizes for use in the mines.

Thekla has no fire department and the mine miners and their families watched helplessly as the blaze destroyed the structure.

ORDERS DOGS QUARANTINED

Rabies Spread Results In 90-Day Confinement Order; 14 Are Treated

With upwards of 50 persons given anti-rabies treatment in the last 30 days and several head of livestock lost to hydrophobia, a 90-day county-wide quarantine on all dogs was ordered by the state veterinarian Wednesday.

The quarantine was ordered on request of Dr. Marvin Randall, director of the Floyd County Health Department, and County Attorney W. W. Burchett. The sheriff is responsible for enforcement of the quarantine, the order stated.

This means, Dr. Randall said, that all dogs must be kept tied or confined.

A new group of persons who have either been bitten by rabid dogs or who fear contact with hydrophobia, numbering 14 in all, are receiving anti-rabies treatment. Dr. Randall said. These include two children of Sammy Bayes, of Middle Creek, five children of Gail Music, of the Auxler road, Betty Jean Spradlin, 8, of the farm here, Miss Evelyn Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle Moore, of Prestonsburg, and she was singled out for introduction to the big audience. From here the colleagues went to Martin high school for an appearance at 10 this morning (Thursday), and at Wayland high school at 2 p. m. Friday morning at 10 they went to Wheelwright high school.

The program rendered here follows: Joyce's 71st N.Y. Regiment, Boyer, Lake; Poet and Peasant Overture, Fr. von Suppe; Beginn die Begone, Cole Porter; The Three Ladies (regiment trio) H. L. Walters; Cowboy Rhapsody, Morton Gould; Symphony in B Minor (first movement) Franz Schubert; Salsena, Aram Khachaturian; Malagena, Ernest Lecocq; Fascinating Rhythm, George Gershwin; Cypress Silhouettes, David Barnett; Gloria, March P. ME 'N' MY DAWG
I have a cocker spaniel who has set a rather generous hood down on this business of doing tricks or showing the intelligence with which his breed is supposed to be endowed. I start the handshaking routine, and he takes on the men that surely gave root to the expression, "A hanging air." His head droops, his stub of a tail drops, mournful eyes may glance at you but for the most part they study a spot on the floor between his front feet, and his whole body begins to collapse.
But I don't blame the poor pooch. I know how he feels.
Last week, my daughter blew in with two 5 y.o.s., classmates of hers, and one of 'em announced that she wanted to see the guy who writes The Floyd County Times.
He it said with my everlasting credit that I stayed down under the table.

AND OTHER FOLKS' DOGS
Speaking of dogs, there was no big limit on the canine tribe in Prestonsburg last year and the year before that. The city auditors published in The Times this week, shows that Starlin Sweeney, street cleaner, was paid for burying 124 dogs, those two years.

FEAR OF A SOLDIER
It concerns a recent meeting of Demra Taylor, Martin, and Virgil Wheatley, who did some soldering together if you want to be exact about it. The watches ticked away, ominously. Things out there were going to be good. The city auditors published in The Times this week, shows that Starlin Sweeney, street cleaner, was paid for burying 124 dogs, those two years.

Fingerprints Studied After Breaks Made
Last week saw a new outbreak of burglaries here, and police this week were having a study of fingerprints made in an effort to identify the culprits.
First of all, Arrowwood's Hardware was entered, Monday night of last week. The second night during March, Thursday and Friday nights, the Home & Auto Store, Adams' Newstead, and three service stations were entered. The loss in each case was light and articles taken indicated that the burglars were youths.

Mandi Named Head Of Beaver Golf Club
A. H. Mandt, of Mantion, was elected president of the Beaver Valley Golf and Country Club Monday evening at a meeting of the members at the Brown hotel here. H. D. Francis, of Prestonsburg, was named secretary-treasurer.
Directors named at the same meeting are C. H. Corbin, A. H. Mandt, Mark Reed, Marshall Hammett, E. D. Francis, Ray Friley and W. A. Malone.
Work on greens will begin this week and official opening of the course for the 1948 season has tentatively been set for May 1. Membership fees were increased to $8 including tax.

Mrs. Perkins Victim Of Paralytic Stroke

She is survived by one son, Troy Lawson, Perkins, U.S. consul at Hanoi, China. The funeral was conducted Sunday afternoon at Hazard, and the body was taken to Davenport, Oka., for burial beside her husband.
Attending the funeral from Prestonsburg were Mrs. B. F. Combs, Sheriff Troy B. Sturgill and Leroy Combs.

County Barely Past Halfway Mark to Goal In Last Week of Drive

Final week of the 1948 fund drive found Red Cross contributions little more than across the halfway mark at $4,859.50, and Red Cross officials called for added help in the drive.

"Now is the only time you can help the Red Cross, an organization always ready to help you in time of emergency, and now is the time that it needs your help," local Red Cross workers said. "The future of the national blood bank program and other worthy Red Cross endeavors depend solely on your efforts and donations. Give generously and give now."

This spring, aside from the routine task of guiding veterans and their families through a maze of red tape, the local chapter has aided six destitute families whose belongings were washed away by the Volentine Day floods at Garrett and Lackey. It has also aided six families whose homes were destroyed by fire at Drift, Bevisville and Bolman.

pride has been developed in the children in the appearance of their schoolroom and grounds and keeping things neat and attractive and in adding things to the school. Such things have been projects for the entire school and not just things the teacher wants. The entire program of the school leans toward the activity program, yet the block-type daily schedule provided for all rural teachers is not overlooked.

These model schools help other teachers of the county in this way. They have been described as an ordinary rural school with a better than ordinary teacher, who conducts a better than average school program. The teachers in these model schools do no supervising of other teachers, but their schools serve as an example which other teachers may observe. All new and emergency teachers are requested to spend at least one day at one of these schools and experienced teachers are invited and permitted to do so on request. Tuesdays and Thursdays are reserved for visiting teachers and a schedule is prepared by the supervisors so that approximately the same number of teachers visit on each of these days. In making the schedule the supervisor attempts to adjust the time of the visits to the needs of the visiting teachers as nearly as possible. But they are invited to take part in the socialized lunch and in the play periods. Most of the visits are in the afternoon and the visiting teachers simply sit in observation. The teacher may explain at the beginning of the day, if she deems it special exercises what the plans or assignments had been. On these days the children are dismissed an hour early and this last hour is spent in conference with the visiting teachers. The teacher then makes whatever explanation she deems necessary of the day's activities and permits the visiting teacher to ask any questions about any specific things she has observed or about any problems which she may feel could be profitably discussed by the group.

As in the case of the school plant, neither of the teachers chosen for these visits are "model" as far as having a number of degrees or a lot of special training go. Mrs. Frankie Stephens, best teacher of the Cliff school, has finished over three years of college at the Eastern State Teachers College, had taught five years and had served as helping teacher in one of the county's rural schools. Mrs. Betty's hobby is art and she is credited with a remarkable job of correlating much of her school work with art in a number of her pupils. Her enthusiasm and interest in her work has served to buy up disinterested teachers who visit her school. Mrs. Kelsa O'neheart Elliott, teacher in the Dark Hollow school, has approximately three years of college work earned in several different colleges, with 20 years' experience in Floyd county's rural and consolidated schools. Mrs. Elliott's wide experience in the schools, her patience and perseverance, and conscientious devotion to her work has established her as one of the outstanding teachers of the county.

The results of the "model school" plan and the examples set for other teachers and schools? Says Henry Martin, rural school supervisor: "After visits of young teachers to these model schools, I can see little effect spread, just like a kindly contagion, into other schools. Bookkeepers built here, art 'appearance corner' here, increased enthusiasm for the work on the part of the teacher and that communicated to pupils and patrons, pie suppers sponsored to raise funds for the purchase of needed items, better teaching schedules and methods. The effect of these model schools is particularly strong on young emergency teachers who have never seen classes taught except as pupils themselves. I wish we could be sure any other new idea we may have for the schools would work as well!"

Bus Workers, Company In Preliminary Talk Fail of Agreement

Members of Local Union 547, United Construction Workers, said here this week that preliminary negotiations for a new contract between employees and the Sparks Brothers Bus Company here were unsatisfactory to the union and a disagreement appears imminent.

The old contract expires April 15. Company officials met Friday with Bill Allen, president of the local, Chas. A. Neal, field representative, and Jesse Wallen, Jole Maynard and James Lasterly, members of the negotiating committee. A member of the committee said the company offered only a 25-cent raise for tire changes while on the road and to reduce to three years from five the duration of service of an employee eligible for two-week vacation.
