550,000 SUIT AGAINST CLAY IS DISMISSED

On Motion of Stephens, Granted On Defendant's 55th Birth Anniversary. The $500,000 libel suit of U.S. District Attorney Claude P. Stephens against Cassius M. Clay was dismissed Thursday afternoon on Clay's 55th birth anniversary. The dismissal was made on the federal officer's motion after Clay had signed a statement to the effect that his newspaper statements were not intended to reflect on Mr. Stephens' legal ability or integrity.

The decision was announced by Judge Edward F. Hill to the jury which had waited through the morning and into the afternoon while Hill had acted as intermediary between opposing counsel in an effort to reach an amicable settlement of the case.

The suit was a legal "affair of honor," and Stephens made clear his aim, that he was not interested in recovering money but that he sought vindication of his reputation. Clay stubbornly stood on his rights, and the settlement was reached only through cooperation of the court and attorneys for the two men. Both litigants agreed to defray their own costs of the case.

Stephens filed the suit against Clay after the latter had allegedly caused publication of statements which the district attorney considered injurious to his reputation and professional standing. The statements were made in connection with the 1848 vote-fraud case in Bourbon county which ultimately resulted in the conviction of Robert K. Ketchum, P. F. Richard, Jr., sometime New Deal favorite in Washington.

Announcing dismissal of the suit, Judge Hill said: "The litigants are honorable citizens who have spent a good many hours of their lives in work calculated to improve society and the state. Both men felt their honor and integrity were at stake. They have, I think, understood each other's position."

He then read a statement by Clay to the jury, which had not been informed during the day of the course of the proceedings. He said: "I have been sued in the Floyd Circuit court by the Honorable Claude P. Stephens, U. S. district attorney for Eastern Kentucky, on a statement of a statement I made as chairman of the Bourbon County Citizens Committee pertaining to the 1848 vote-fraud case. I am informed that Mr. Stephens is not interested in collecting money from me, but that he's only interested in showing that he performed his duty diligently, honestly, and fearlessly in the investigation of the Bourbon case... as well as in the prosecution of the case."

"My only interest in the whole affair was to see apprehended and see prosecuted the persons who committed the crime... and to correct the situation and thereby prevent conditions conducive to similar frauds in the future."

"In view of the information I now have, and the fact that he vigorously and fearlessly prosecuted the case, I now desire to clarify my position. Therefore, I now state that I did not intend by my statement as stated by the newspapers, to reflect in any way upon the legal ability or integrity of Mr. Stephens, and if any contrary impression was gained by any persons from such statements, I hope that this will clear it up."

The settlement followed an order of the court to Stephens to produce F.B.I. records on the Bourbon investigation which Clay had demanded. Stephens had declined, but reconsidered after the judge's order. The conferences were resumed last Thursday afternoon, with defense attorneys and Clay in one room and Stephens and his attorney in another. Judge Hill negotiated between the two groups.

TRANSY LIBRARY COMPLETION ASSURED BY GIFT OF $100,000

Lexington, Ky., March 1 (Sp.)—A gift of $100,000 under conditions that will make an early completion of Transylvania College's library building a certainty, was reported today by Dr. Raymond P. McLain, Transylvania president, at a meeting of the executive committee of the school's Board of Curators.

Members of Transylvania's board have themselves pledged $56,696 toward the structure of which amount $23,023 has been paid. Under the conditions of the present gift, the $23,023 paid by the curators has been matched. The remaining $56,976 will be forthcoming as the school raises a like amount by next January. Transylvania already is launching a campaign for these funds, plus additional money to furnish the structure.

This arrangement to insure that within a year Transylvania will have on hand $200,000 to complete the library building. The school's present building, which is to remain anonymous, Dr. McLain explained. Another anonymous donor has informed the school that he has put the "Old Library" in his will for a bequest of $100,000 to be a trust fund with the income used for upkeep of the building.

The new structure, fireproof, of brick, cement and steel, will cost approximately $250,000. The first unit of the stacks section already has been erected at a cost of $83,000 and paid for by the college.

Although it was recognized that the entire structure could not be erected at that time, ground was broken for the fireproof central portion in July, 1947, to protect the valuable "Old Library." Dr. McLain reminded the board members. Upon completion of this portion in 1948, all of the valuable old collection was moved to the new unit.

At the ground-breaking ceremony in 1947, that first shovel of dirt was turned by Dr. L. R. Dingsus, well-known professor emeritus, in charge scholar and historian. Dr. Dingsus died shortly afterward, leaving a $5,000 scholarship to the school.

Transylvania library dates back to 1784, when the school's board of trustees agreed personally to donate funds with which to purchase books. The collection from Louisiana, Virginia, the "liberal gratuity" of the Rev. John Todd of that district. The minister had presented the school a "library" and philosophical apparatus for the encouragement of science in the institution.

It was Transylvania's first substantial gift, several volumes of which today stand on the library shelves.

In other parts of the library are books inscribed with the names of famous owners; there is a precious copy of a King James Bible printed in 1784.

Of special interest is a leather-bound volume, the gift in 1802 of Dr. William Charles Barringer of Danville, to the Rev. James Moore. Mr. Moore was the first president of Transylvania after it assumed university status and the first of the Christ Episcopal Church here. This book is one of the best examples of early type extant. It is in Greek, printed in 184 and dedicated to the scholar Erasmus.

Dr. Underwood Urges Yearly Examinations For Each Individual

"At some time during the year everyone should have a thorough examination by his physician," advises Dr. Bruce Underwood, State Commissioner of Health. "All of us know," he said, "that babies and children require periodic physical examinations, but not all of us remember that regular visits to the physician should remain a lifetime habit."

Dr. Underwood said that while medicine has made tremendous progress in recent years in the control of diseases formerly regarded as fatal, no physician can treat disease until it is found. Regular examinations are the best method of detecting such diseases.

"People past 30 should be especially sure to see a physician at least once a year, even when in good health, for it is during the middle years that such diseases as diabetes, cancer and various heart ailments frequently appear," Dr. Underwood pointed out. "Early diagnosis is of extreme importance in the treatment of all these ailments. If unusual symptoms are experienced between regularly scheduled visits, the physician should be seen at once. Periodic physical examinations are one kind of health insurance no one can afford to be without."

General Fund Taxes Up Over Last Year

FRANKFORT, Ky., Mar. 7.—Kentucky's general fund tax collections continue to run substantially ahead of last year's record make.

The Revenue Department reported a few days ago it has collected up to Jan. 31, a total of $29,512,287, which is $1,316,285 more than was taken in up to the same date last year.

A jump of $50,000 in individual income tax collections contributed chiefly to the upswing. Corporate taxes are $10,000 ahead of last year.

Road fund receipts for the same period total $25,215,56, an increase of $2,000,000 over collections for seven months last year.

Tourist Spending Hits New High in Kentucky During Preceding Year

Frankfort, Ky., Mar. 8.—Out-of-state tourists spent a total of $238,874,124 in Kentucky during the calendar year of 1949, according to a report compiled by the Kentucky Department of Highways.

The report shows an increase of $44,108,474 or 24.3 per cent over the 1948 figure of $184,765,650. The 1949 total income from tourist traffic was $121,774,322.

The state road fund reaped a harvest of $6,071,545 which is represented as the amount of state gasoline taxes paid by out-of-state motorists visiting Kentucky on pleasure jaunts. This is an increase of $2,379,887 over 1948 when a total of $3,691,655 was collected from same source.

These figures were reached by application of the formula which has been used in estimating tourist travel in Kentucky for the years of 1947 and 1948. Highway Commissioner John A. Keck said.

The totals are based upon a total travel as determined by gasoline consumption, percentage of tourist travel as determined by origin-and-destination traffic counts, and national estimates of individual tourist expenditures. The formula created in Kentucky has been adopted by other states to assist them in arriving at the total tourist income. We feel that it is reasonably accurate.

Gasoline receipts reveal the fact that sales of this commodity in Kentucky in 1949 exceeded the 1948 figure by a total of 25,691,617 gallons.

Licensee cars bearing out-of-state licenses traveled a total of 1,048,579,174 miles in the state during the year.

The Department formula showed that $72,814,219, or 25 per cent, of the total 1949 tourist expenditure for merchandising purchases in retail stores. Further breakdown showed tourist expenditures of $39,592,238, or 17.3 per cent, for hotel or tourist court accommodations; $14,515,628, or 20.5 per cent, for meals; $19,452,834, or 8.3 per cent, for amusements; and $63,681,523, or 24.7 per cent, for automobile expenses, including gasoline, accessories and garage work.

"These figures show a steady climb in the value of Kentucky's tourist trade for the past two years," Commissioner Keck said. "Part of this is due of course to increased post-war travel. At the same time, the advertising part of Kentucky's recent nation-wide advertising program through which our Division of Public Information has handled over 1,000 requests for information on Kentucky as a vacation land."

Mrs. Carlton Wrightson, governor of seventh district, opened the meeting with the reading of the original and complete history of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. M. M. Collins, a charter member of the Lackey-Garrett Women's Club, gave a splendid report on the Mothers' Club of Lackey which became federated in 1948, as the many benefits derived from such a club to a community and the national estimates derived from such an organization.

Mrs. Richard P. Vinson, vice-president of Lackey-Garrett Women's Club, gave a detailed report on the department and committees, stressing the duties of each.

Mrs. J. C. Wells, who was appointed temporary chairman of elections by the department, then conducted the election of officers. Those elected were:

President, Mrs. William Stinette; vice-president, Mrs. Boone Hall; recording secretary, Mrs. Marie Reed; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Myrtle Dingus; treasurer, Mrs. Maurice Mitchell; parliamentarian, Mrs. Ben Short.

It was decided that the new club will be called The Allen-Martin Woman's Club and will meet the first and third Monday of each month at the Christian Church. Do You Want Personality? Interest Yourself in Others

(From The Reader's Digest for March, 1950)

Personality, once regarded as an indefinite something which certain people had and others lacked, can be developed by training just as the mind can. Its development depends on doing an increasing number of things, with and for other people. So counsels Dr. Henry C. Link, eminent psychologist and author, in "The Reader's Digest for March."

Defining personality as the extent which one is able to interest and serve other people, Dr. Link says this ability is made up of habits and skill acquired by practice. As an individual's personality grows, his happiness grows with it. But his efforts for others cannot be made on a "cash and carry basis." Only as he serves his neighbors and exercises his happiness to others, regardless of reward, may he achieve happiness himself.

"Many of us are afraid to venture any unusual attention to another," Dr. Link notes, "for fear of being misunderstood or rebuffed. But the person who is generous and cheerful, trying new approaches to other people will never expand his understanding of them, and his own happiness will shrink."

Dale Carnegie said, "The sweetest music to another person is the sound of his own name." Yet how often we see the postman, the electrician, the doctor, the clerk, directing their name. Omitting such small attentions to those beyond our limited circle of friends, we lose touch with men at man.

We pay taxes to support the needy but harden our hearts toward individuals in need, Dr. Link observes. We go to church, profess to believe in commitment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," but there is no love in our hearts. Even in our own families we often fall into a routine attitude about each other. How many times is the father, on his arrival, greeted with greater affection by the dog than by his children.

The new social consciousness developed in recent years, we favor grand schemes to give the average man a better deal, yet we remain indifferent toward the people around us. Our ideas may have changed but our personality has remained stationary.

Whether our kindness to others is large or small, the principle is the same: happiness is to be had for the giving. "Here is the human road," Link says, "probably the only road to that abundant life which all desire."

Alert Neighbors Race To Save Men Imperiled By Approaching Train

Whitesburg, Ky., March 4—Two coal-company employes owe their lives today to the alertness of neighbors who raced time to beat an approaching train it is said here.

Chester Hogg, 48, and Paul Hogg, 18, both of Rozana, Ky., were driving a coal truck Thursday night of last week along a country road near Frentham, 18 miles south of Whitesburg.

Something dropped out of the steering gear and Hogg lost control of the truck. It plunged over a deep cut embankment and landed upside down on the Louisville & Nashville railroad tracks.

Neighbors, attracted by the noise, found Hogg sprawled unconscious across the tracks, and Hogg pinned in the wreckage.

One remembered that L. & N. Train No. 50 was due. While he went down the tracks to flag the train, the others dragged Hogg to the roadside and worked with crowbars to free Hogg.

Hands was removed from the wreckage seconds before the train smashed into the truck and carried it about 200 feet. The engineer had seen the flagman's warning but had been unable to stop in time.

Today, Hogg and Hogg were reported in good condition at a hospital at Fleming. Hands was being treated for neck injury, and Hogg for cuts and bruises.

The truck, owned by Boyd Boggs, Harlan, was demolished.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

BY EWING GALLOWAY

A lot of diagnosticians have been telling the world what ails the South since there is a fairly good job of diagnosing. Some depend on what they read in newspapers and magazines, without making a personal examination of the patient. The latest report on what's the matter with us comes from the National Planning Association's Committee of the South, in 154 pages.

Here are some of the more important findings and recommendations:

Mechanization of agriculture and industrial growth in the last five years has been phenomenal.

The South has a great reservoir of undeveloped resources, untapped markets, and manpower available for new industries and businesses.

The most important phase of the South's problem with which Federal policy must deal is that of raising per capita wealth and income in the South.

The committee would have the Government help the public schools with Federal funds for books and didn't become a huge burden to the national treasury and did not invite the abolition of racial segregation.

The South of course is far behind the Northern states in industrial production. The committee's report suggests that in a boom year like in 1949, when both prices and physical expansion were at their peak in the South, the investment would be necessary to overcome the South's economic lag.

Farm tenancy is disappearing. Modernization has hardly begun. There are too many people living on the land.

In the last four years old Doctor Galloway has been president of the South, many trips lasting six to ten days into Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri to see as much as possible of what the South is doing. And little tours through Kentucky, which economically is not geographically a part of the South. I have always looked upon the state of my birth as Southern. Our place is only three miles below what a Tennessee humorist calls Smith & Wesson's Line, which puts me far enough in the South to qualify me as a Southerner.

Well, my diagnosis at least is simple and understandable. The patient is getting no healthier and stronger day by day.

The states south of Mason & Dixon Line are prospering as they never prospered before. I mean to date. Nobody knows what may happen to the country's economy in the next few years.

The causes of industrial growth and agricultural gains are too many for me to list, even if I knew them all. But high prices for stuff Southerners themselves have been producing, the advent of much outside capital, big advances in technology, and a general awakening among Southerners themselves.

Behind other regions? Yes, but we are catching up faster than ever before.

With an even break in freight rates and in the markets of this country and of the world the Old South will keep right on gaining.

An 'Affair of Honor' Settled with Honor

MAN is becoming a more civilized animal, scattered evidences of departure from the law of fang and claw would indicate.

The method U.S. District Attorney Claude P. Stephens, of Prestonsburg, took to settle an 'affair of honor' between Paris, Ky., men who published statements allegedly reflecting on Mr. Stephens' integrity, lived little more than a century ago, their differences would never have reached the courtroom and amicable, sensible settlement.

The civil code would have given way to the code duello. Valuable lives would have been at stake under silly code which demanded that honor could be upheld only through murder, or attempted murder.

Mr. Stephens had a perfect right to defend his integrity in the courts. The Times congratulates him for his acceptance of Mr. Clay's statement removing any question of Clay's part of the official's honor as representative of the federal government and as a professional man and citizen.

Perhaps Clay was over-impulsive, over-impetuous. His zeal for a thorough investigation and unremitting prosecution of the scandalous Bourbon county vote fraud which involved men of high repute and talent caused him to lose patience as the federal government moved nonchalantly in its investigation. He singled out Stephens for attack. And Stephens' able, conscientious prosecution of the case made that attack seem altogether unjustified.

Yet, whatever blame may be laid to the Paris man for his statements, his nerves to him may no penalty other than that he paid—to clear away, as completely as he could, any taint of suspicion he planted against the district attorney's honesty of purpose in the case.

Mr. Clay deserved to escape payment of any harsh penalty, because good citizens of his type are all too few, impulsive as prompted by the instincts of a good citizen scandalized by fraud in his place should not be benighted. We need more like Cassius M. Clay in a state where the "best people" hold a hold-on-thou attitude in the face of common, ordinary sin or wrong-doing but close their eyes and, like the Three Monkeys, see no evil, speak no evil and hear no evil when matters of high importance and concern are to be faced.

In Floyd county such citizens as this man Clay are few, and of citizens with a flaming spirit such as Clay's there are none. We have had many vote frauds. Floyd county has repeatedly been disgraced. But whatever public resentment has flamed up as a result has burned out for lack of moral energy or has been quickly extinguished by those ready firemen, politics and favoritism.

In neighboring Knott county, recently, three men were fined $150 each for closing the polls at lower Quicksand precinct before the voters had had an opportunity to express their sentiments. Did Knott county rejoice that men who would deprive American citizens of their traditional right as free men had been penalized even though lightly? It did not. Instead, Knott county citizens—so-called "good" citizens—made up a "good" and paid the men's fines, we are told. Then they loaded the defendants into cars and furnished them free transportation home, even as conquering heroes.

Floyd and Knott county could do with some Cassius M. Clays. And the state of Kentucky needs more of same.

Blood Will Be Needed

The Times does not subscribe to the theory that folks should be frightened into joining the church, the Red Cross or any other worthwhile movement.

So this newspaper doesn't you that this wide-scale move on the part of the American Red Cross to establish blood centers and store up against future need blood and blood derivatives in a certain sign of approaching world conflict.

We do say, however, that there is, or will be, an urgent need for every drop of blood stored by the Red Cross to be made available to the doctors of the nation for use in the treatment of American citizens. Otherwise, there would not already be 40 large blood centers ready for use this year, and 50 to be installed by the end of 1951. This need may be in peace, or it may be in war.

Under whatever conditions now exist, or later will exist, the Red Cross plans the expenditure of almost ten millions of dollars in its huge blood program for the fiscal year 1950-51.

Blood will be given by donors and kept at these centers (in this section, in Huntington (W. Va.) and any Floyd county resident in need of blood or any derivative thereof will be given this service, free of charge.

Around the country this will be the story as the mercenary and self-serving donors of the Red Cross includes in its budget for the fiscal year 1950-51 the heading: "Fifty Pendered Homeless at McVeigh, Ky." "Homes Destroyed by Tornado." "Floods Threaten Thousands."

Then read the stories below those headlines. In each you will read that the Red Cross was at the scene of disaster and suffering, wherever and whenever it happened.

Add to these the services to the armed forces and veterans, nursing and safety services, the countless volunteer work in preparation of wearing apparel, bayonets for infants, gift boxes shipped overseas—total the score and you have a national program reaching down to the lowest level which is of tremendous importance in peace as well as in war.

The Red Cross now has as its head the calm, humanitarian genius of General George C. Marshall who, as a citizen through its greatest war and who would devote his time and talents to preservation of peace but who realistically would prepare for any eventuality.

Speaking of "an unforeseen national emergency" in Boston recently, General Marshall said, "Such an emergency might . . . require more . . . blood in a single week than all our requirements for a full year during the war. It is important that we have the machine ready immediately available which can be thrown quickly into high gear when tremendous quantities of blood are needed suddenly. I think you will agree with me that it would not be prudent for the Red Cross and death to be left to chance."

And there are a few of the reasons why each of us should give to the current drive for Red Cross funds.

To Whom Belongs the Blame?

The Courier-Journal last week branded the record of the General Assembly now in session as "the poorest . . . ever written by a Kentucky legislature." And immediately Representative Roy Seary, Carroll county Democrat, concurred with his allegations and asked by House resolution that the newspaper point out those individuals responsible for the failure.

The Courier-Journal lashed out at the merit system bill and the strip-mine act watered-down versions of legislation which could have been of real value to Kentucky. It cited the Legislature's dalliance at trivial tasks while ignoring the big work at hand.

Wrote Seary in the resolution he offered: "Many members have found their zeal for service and desire for work curtailed at every turn by members who have previously served in this House and who have constantly monopolized the floor with bombastic utterances, lengthy and autocratic speeches and clever maneuverings for confusion as they flouted their political grudges in thinly veiled guises of virtue."

Many new members of this body feel that censure should be placed squarely on the shoulders of the few who deserve it, and not upon this body as a whole.

This newspaper is not as near the Frankfort story as either the Courier-Journal or the gentleman from Carroll county. But it appears from this distance that this General Assembly is dominated by Governor Earle C. Clements. Then it should follow that whatever successes of failures attributed to the legislature rightly belong to the Governor.
