LOUISVILLE MAN 7TH KENTUCKIAN TO BE AMA HEAD

Dr. Henderson, M.D., Louisville, is installed as president of the American Medical Association at an annual meeting in San Francisco, June 27.

Kentucky will be the first state to have produced seven AMA presidents and this is the first time an inauguration ceremony will be carried on nationwide radio broadcasts, in 100 years of AMA history.

The Kentucky surgeon was born in Louisville, Ky., in 1885, and was graduated from the University of Louisville in 1909. He has been president of the Jefferson County Medical Society and the Kentucky State Medical Association, and in October will be inducted as president of the World Medical Association. He will be the first life a physician has led both the WMA and AMA at the same time.

ANTIQUES MAY BE IN ATTICS

Now is the time for all Floyd inhabitants to dig in and clear out their attics, suggested Mrs. E. R. Burke, chairman of the Window Decoration Committee this week.

People have been known to find priceless antiques, first editions, great great quilts, Emerson's wedding dress, and other precious and sundry unexpected family heirlooms of historical moment.

Discovery of chests filled in these stock-piles of once useful but now antiquated possessions comes on rare occasions, but perhaps there are old flintlock rifles, antique pocket watches, or an old legal document signed by one of Floyd county's early leaders that would not make up an interesting exhibit to be displayed in the coming Sequen-tennial celebration.

The Window Decoration Committee of the Sequen-tennial invites anyone who has clothes, furniture, heirlooms, or any other articles pertaining to the early period of Floyd county to exhibit them in one of the Prestonsburg store windows during the four-day period of the celebration.

Anyone interested in these exhibits may contact Mrs. W. C. Rimmer or Mrs. N. M. White, Jr., at their homes by phone or by letter.

Kentucky Asks Bids On Highway to Sandy Breaks

An improved road to the Breaks of Sandy on the Kentucky-Virginia border is in sight at last.

Kentucky called for bids Monday on its section of the route, local Pikeville has promised to have its part completed by December 1, about the time the Kentucky part is finished.

The route, leading to a mountain-top view of the gorge where Russell Falls of the Big Sandy river breaks through into Kentucky, is almost impassable now in rainy weather except by jeep or mule.

Leaders on both sides of the border have urged improvement as the first step in their plan to get the government to establish a national park there.

When Governor Clement visited Elkhorn City last September, the Farm-Teacher Association declared that the Kentucky section was so bad that children couldn't get to school. He told them he'd head that road in 1950 or "never come back to Pike county."

The work to be done under the long-sought Monday includes grading, draining and traffic-holding surface, plus 200 lookout spots and a small picnic area. The Highway Department said it soon will call for bids on the bridge that leads to the area out of Elkhorn City, and that after the new road has settled, probably by next year, a permanent surface will be laid.

Mountain Folk Prove That Movie Has Right Title

Healthy mountain folks do so have large families, revealed Bristol, Va. contest recently.

The contest started by the Bristol Virginia-Tennessee in connection with the movie "Cheaper by the Dozen," which was shown on the past week-end, revealed some amazing facts about the size of families in the mountain regions. In no time at all 39 families were entered in the contest, to find a family comparable, at least in numbers, to that of the movie. The 39 families included 500 children. The winner was Mrs. Lula Keeling, with 20 children.

Miss Thomas Is Graduate At University of Kansas

Lawrence, Kans., June 12 (Sp.)—Emma Alice Thomas, of Prestonsburg, Ky., was a candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Science in business from the University of Kansas at the 78th annual commencement exercises here, June 9.

Those who completed requirements for degrees belonged to the largest graduating class in KU's history. More than 1,200 students including candidates from the Graduate school, finished this June. The commencement program contained the names of about 2,500 persons who have earned degrees and certificates since June, 1949. KU holds its one commencement a year and 850 degrees were voted in August and February.

P'BURG'S WIN LOOP FEATURE

Prestonsburg's victory over Allen, 13-9, here Sunday provided the biggest surprise in Big Sandy baseball league play over the week-end.

Ed Hat, by virtue of Allen's loss and their own win over Drift, 10-9, moved into undisputed possession of first place in loop standings. Allen is the sole occupant of second place.

Martin gained ground on Indian Creek by thumping the Pike countyans, 12-5. Elk Horn City shares percentage-point rating with Prestonsburg after setting back Harold, 12-3. Although out-hit, 10-7, by Price, Henry clay edged the Left Beaver boys, 3-2.

Hustling Prestonsburg jumped onto the offerings of Dick, young Alton pitcher, and collected five runs on six hits in one and one-third innings. Bill Cobble, Jr., winning pitcher, contributed to his victory by knocking a round-trip clout in the third inning.

The game between Martin and Indian Creek was fairly close until the ninth inning when the "railroad town" boys routed the Indian Creekers out of their tepees with eight runs and full steam ahead to victory. Wilson was the winning pitcher.

I Smashed My "Glass Crutch"

Home of Dr. Ephraim McDowell in Danville where the pioneer surgeon performed the world's first ovariotomy on Christmas Day, 1809, was opened to the public on June 1, by the Women's Auxiliary of the Kentucky State Medical Association as a feature of the Kentucky Mid-Century Homecoming.

Louisville, Ky., June 20 (AP)—Completely furnished in authentic 1809 style, the famous old Danville home in furnishings of the 1790-1800 period which Dr. Ephraim McDowell performed the world's first ovariotomy on Christmas Day, 1809, was opened to the public on June 1, by the Women's Auxiliary of the Kentucky State Medical Association.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

Two men among 25 years old drove out from Henderson the other day and asked a farmer for work. The farmer didn't count the women and children in the jury, but he counted there were five. The farmer had no work for the men. Were they disheartened, demoralized? They were not. They seemed to be rather pleased.

Well, how does incident make newspaper "copy"? That's simple. The farmer didn't follow the car back to town, but he figured it out twenty-one to be that they would go straight to the state handout office for relief.

Our reworked handout law in Kentucky has topped the average pay to the jobless to $14. The maximum now is $24 a week for 28 weeks. How many will live on relief checks, side-stepping work as the handouts last? Your guess is as good as mine. Try guessing.

Veep Barnes, Commissioner of Economic Security, told the press the other day that Maryland and Louisiana, with a 25¢ handout, are the only Southern states that exceed Kentucky's maximum. At a public dinner three months ago I heard Commissioner Barnes tell the same thing pride how many people his bureau was dishing out cash to. And he predicted bigger things for his office. A large crowd of middle class Kentuckians cheered Mr. Barnes.

But there was a not so notable guy there who kept his hands on the dinner table. This was because I have been studying handouts and its effects ever since the WPA started cooking up jobless plans in the low years of the depression and ruining hundreds of thousands of men who hitherto had been used to earning their living at honest jobs. Men willing to earn the pay they were getting were forced to become loafers, children in order to stay on the payroll. The worst hum in the west usually set the pace. And work bosses were known to allow men to stay home most of the time and rest only on pay days.

Since the depression politicians have used security from the cradle to the grave as a sweet got to catch votes. And they are doing right along with it. When handouts are going to slow down, nobody can figure it.

Our politicians can take the money from those who are doing right along, honestly, and buy votes with it. That they are lowering the morale of labor, degrading men, women and children who otherwise might make good citizens, does not seem to occur to our officials at Frankfort, and in Washington. And they don't seem to reckon where handouts will end.

Don't get me wrong. The worthy in distress should be given help. It should be made a felony. In my humble opinion, the reason Kentucky ranks very low among the 48 states is that we are low in productive work. Productive work produces practically all wealth. And the more money the state dishes out to men and women not attached to it 1949.

Interested $2,500 Worth?

EVERY twelve months or so, we are reminded that Prestonsburg has a vocational training school. Rest of the time, we, as do 99.9 per cent of the other residents of Floyd county, remain dismally unthinking, and so little caring, about the institution.

That's putting it bluntly, but it's true. Not that the Times isn't interested in every institution which teaches our people the way to a better life, or that all the Floyd counties of good sense and goodwill aren't interested, the school itself is partially to blame for its state of affairs, since it offers little in the way of publicity and has been so silent to the extent it hasn't demanded attention as it should.

Now, however, Mr. James Patton, head of the parent Mayo Vocational School at Prestonsburg, sets forth with a newsworthy statement. Said Mr. Patton:

"If sufficient local interest is shown, Prestonsburg could become unique among the high schools of America, since no other high school in the country would be offering the wide range of training which would be a part of the curriculum here."

Interested now? Would it be worthwhile for your county high school, or all the county's high schools jointly, to offer specialized vocational training such as no other school of the kind in the land can boast?

It would be worthwhile for your sons to leave high school in this mechanical age with a knowledge of how to do things instead of a mere theory about them.

The "sufficient local interest" Mr. Patton refers to is represented by five thousand dollars. Industry, it is certain, is ready to contribute half of that amount as its contribution to the technical education of Floyd County. The other half can be raised by the school board.

Are the school boards interested? Interested $1,250 worth? The price is low. The vocational training school here has $100,000 worth of equipment. It is educating perhaps 50 pupils in the high school here. It could serve 500 boys from all the counties of the state.

The price is low. But the price we shall pay, if the proposal is not accepted, may be high. It is the Department will not continue indefinitely to maintain the school here, in all the counties of the state.

The building and machinery here for the training of Floyd County youths will be moved away. The job which the county owns will remain, of course, but that will be of no benefit to the schools or the pupils of this and coming generations.

Free Music Clinics To Be Offered by UK

Two music clinics, one for string orchestras and ensembles and one for bands, will be held this summer at the University of Kentucky for the benefit of Kentucky school musicians and their teachers. The string clinic, scheduled for July 24-25, will be conducted by Miss Elizabeth Schreiner of the University of Michigan. Bernard Ferguson, principal of the University of Tennessee, will conduct the band clinic, July 31 to August 4. There will be no charge for either clinic and the University will provide housing for interested musicians and teachers. The programs are sponsored by the U.K. Department of Music.

A Manila glass plant, expected shortly to be producing 500,000 bottles a day.

It is not possible to know how many people listen to my voice as I go on the air thirteen times a week, but I can be certain. My mother listens intently, and I imagine she pictures the mischievous boy she raised—and silently wonders. My wife listens, and the warmth in her heart says that the years and hardship have not overthrown her long-suffering loyalty was not in vain. Radio friends listen and think, "He's back—I wonder where he was all those years?"

I know where I was, and the stark terror and shame wrapped up in every shattering memory kept my soul on its knees. God was patient with me. He knooed so long before I let Him have a go at saving me from myself. But then much of the time I did not even hear the knocks. I was too dead—drunk.

It was in 1924 that I entered radio and began to make friends of people I had never seen. Hunched over their crystal sets, attentive to every vibration of the earphones, these new friends heard a voice that told them, "Here is a fellow who loves life and enjoys every minute of it!"

I did love life. It was sweet, and I had been given a good start. My father was a minister. We lived in the manse of various churches in Canada and the United States. Those early religious impressions that I thought, when I went out into the world, had done me good. But then, one day I was drinking, and I could match out of the sea of despair.

As my popularity grew in radio, so did my working schedule and my responsibilities. My work usually started about 8:30 or 9:30 in the morning. I had a lot of things to do, and I had to be ready to handle the dance bands and other outside broadcasts. At 1:30 to 2:30 in the morning I'd sign the station off and go home. These were prohibition days, when the late night spots were the only place to be glorified speakers. In the early twenties, life in the big city took on a routine of flippers and flasks, jaw bands and jingling cash registers, and with a certain abandon that made the new generation look mighty hopeless to worried parents.

This was the setting in which I began to play a part that grew in splendor until, one sunny July afternoon in 1932, I was crowned "King of Amateurs" in Bryant Park grandstand. While thousands of cheering New Yorkers made hubbub and cameras clicked, Mayor James J. Walker placed the crown on my head and put the loving cup in my arm.

It was a great day—and yet, less than a year later, I was to disappear from big-time radio. No fanfare this time. Just a notice, "Your services are no longer required."

In those days the word "alcoholic" had not come into popular usage. A man who drank too much was a "drunk," and the man who led drinking interfered with his business was just a fool. And I was a fool.

As I look back upon it, I cannot say just what point I became an alcoholic. This I do know: drinking robbed me of almost all true happiness, even in the heights of my popularity, and went on to enter into me of a radio comedy. Month after month, my miserable days were spent in trying to run away from myself.

It would be easy to say that I, a preacher's son, brought up in the best possible fashion, acquired bad habits because I was thrown among bad company. But this is not so. I believe I was an alcoholic long before I took my first drink. It was one of a class of people who, mentally and physically are completely allergic to alcohol. And I am absolutely sure that the reason the disease called alcoholism is so difficult to diagnose and so hard to cure lies in the fact that it is a combination of mental and spiritual and physical illness. That is what makes it hard to explain to non-alcoholics.

I am not going to put down here the sorrowful episodes of years of disgrace and temptation—they are common to all alcoholics. If you have seen "Loose Week-End" or "Crack-Up," if you have read "The Glass Crutch" and other stories of drunkards, you can believe that they are not exaggerated. Rather, they do not tell the whole horror of the drugged mind and the exhausted body.

But perhaps I can give you some insight into the degrading cycle that repeats itself over and over again, a cycle which the alcoholic comes to know by heart, step by step, to the day, almost to the minute—and yet, over which he, for the time, has no control. Like myself, perhaps he has taken the Keeley Cure, been to Green Hill and other sanitariums where "cures" are given. Although he comes out healthy and hopeful, it is not long before he starts the same old routine. Slow and to a degree controlled at first, then faster and faster he whirls in the selfish spins of his own life. He may say he sinks down exhausted—in a daze, in a stupor, in a fit, or, if he is lucky, in his own bed.

Let's start a few days after he gets up and around again. He feels good, he has lost a few pounds, and thinks, "Fine . . . I was resting too much anyway." Now he'll go "on the wagon"—never take another drink. He'll make up for the awful things he's said and done, if they'll only give him this one more chance!

And he does feel pretty good—like a drowning man must feel when the water has been pumped out of his lungs and he has had time to realize that he has been saved. Long, patient days of nursing have given him a little added strength. And this strength he has used in the past, but this time he will be all right. They have covered up a lot of his deceptions, made excuses, and now he is on his feet. He still has the job, and a complete set of wonderful resolutions.

As the days pass and he finds that he is not so strong and that his new way of life is making no sense, he steps back into the old groove. He is high, but all too soon he is down. He has had some new resolutions, but they are just the old ones. The great resolutions don't seem to be necessary any more.

Then the day comes when he takes another drink. No alcoholic can tell you exactly why he takes it. Maybe he becomes very sad, maybe he's too happy. Perhaps he wants to prove that he is a normal man among men, and if John can take a cocktail before dinner, so can he. But that "allegory" remains.

It's at a dinner party, while the others are nursing their first cocktail, he's made an excuse to leave the table, and at a hidden bar or next door, he takes a couple of fast ones because he can't dawdle over a drink. Then, when the party breaks up, he doesn't call it a day like the rest, because now his world is bright. He no longer lives in reality. The first drink made the change, not only to leave the table, but to leave the world behind. He would stay away from liquor. He has broken his promise to himself and his friends. His conscience is bothering him. He must cover it up, quiet it. That's why the two extra drinks while his friends are talking and laughing. He knows they'll talk about him, too—"Hope we haven't started him off again," they'll say. But he'll show them. He knows what he's doing this time!

The party is over, the rest are on their way home. They have a big day tomorrow. This occurs to him, too, but like that first job of conscience, this also must be covered up. Let's forget about it—just a couple of more in a safe street bar where there's nobody to know. But he's not getting any more of an acquaintance. He's slipping him on the back—things are going great. He's increased when the bartender suggests he had enough. Even when this new-found friend sneaks away, he doesn't realize that his great glory and his great shame are there all right. Down the street there's a nice spot.

And somewhere during the night the curtain drops—blackout! Habit and reaction or a helpful taxi driver or maybe a policeman get him home. Now he can go to bed. He's got to get some rest for him die a little more each time.

After a heavy, restless sleep, he gets up, refusing to look back or hear. He has thought up a way to get out to where, without criticism, he can have just a couple of drinks to stop the cold sweat on his forehead and the trembling of his hands. Just a couple of drinks will fix him up—and they go. Now he can go to work. He can't go to work without some way, and maybe sit over at noon or two more to hold him through the afternoon. He makes it. Work is over and no one said anything. What a relief! Now he can have a few honest drinks, quietly, before he goes home. Just a few, and he'll be home in a goodly home so there won't be that awful morning again. But somehow or other, late that night, when he does go to bed, heavy in forgetfulness, the bottle is empty!

Each day is a little harder, a little more risky than the one before. Finally the body that has been nourished largely on alcohol for days cannot take any more. He's come to the end of another cycle. Like a lost person in the woods, he has cried to behold his own footprints.

It has all happened to me.

I think no state of mind can be darker than the days of remorse of the alcoholic, knowing that he is beating down all the things he loves and undermining his own health and sanity. But I know there is a light at the end of the tunnel, and a permanence to the brightness. The cycle can be stopped right side up. I have proved it.

After it became apparent to me that "cures" and sanitariums were only temporary respite in the wreckage of a life, I became "dry" while studying psychiatry for a year. I became "dry" while studying psychiatry for a year. I became "dry" while studying psychiatry for a year. I became "dry" while studying psychiatry for a year.

Here it was: the old religion, but used in a different way. Christ's fundamental method, "Go ye and preach the gospel."

Six years have slipped away since that night, six happy, redeemed, useful years. In the past two years my record has been that I have worked with and helped scores of people in and out of my profession to find an end to their heart-breaking search for normal, happy living. The "cures," the sanitariums and even the man who brought me the Peabody method, all overtook one big thing. A man made something powerful to help a man to find a way that the circumstances may be, in a crowd or alone. A.A. has it in that "Power greater than ourselves"—God.

During the war, in order to help in the all-out effort for armament, I took what was called a refresher course in engineering. For I had studied it in college. This refresher course enabled me to break up on a lot of knowledge that I had in a dormant in my mind for years, and through it I was to be of service later as chief inspector of the parts department in a great airplane factory.

For me, A.A. was a refresher course in fundamental Christianity, in those truths a boy had learned in a Sunday school and that a single, blistering young man had tried to forget.

To everyone who comes to A.A. or some other such organization, strength and progress are to be had in unselfish fellowship. Joined by faith in and reliance upon God, the individual and the group are tapping infinite resources for living victoriously.

No, there's no way of guessing how many people hear my voice on the thirteen broadcasts each week. But I can count the hundreds of letters, and I go, as I read the wonderful messages of "The Glass Crutch" and other stories of drunkards, that I have done some good. And I know that I have done some good. And I know that I have done some good. And I know that I have done some good.

unwanted apartment until it was taken, or who would bring me to my country place for a week-end because they knew I was hungry. As for financial help—maybe a dollar or two, no more. They knew what I would do. As for jobs in radio—well, I was a great guy, was I?

One day, as I was making the rounds of the agencies, I ran into a fellow I knew who had faced the same problem. He had drunk himself out of a good production job in radio, but once more he was happy and busy, directing in radio, better than ever. Perhaps this was what I needed; someone who really understood my problem. Someone who would not look upon me as an outcast, who would accept me as a man with a problem, and together we would try to work it out. He talked to me that way, and when he said he was going to a meeting where there were a lot of people just like us, I wanted to go along.

It was a meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous in Forest Hills, N.Y. As I sat there listening to other men and women speaking openly of the years they had lost, of the problems they had faced, I no longer felt alone. By concerted effort and with the help of a Power greater than themselves they had been able to stay away from alcohol twenty-four hours at a time, and I could have been happily sober for years, reestablished in society and back at their jobs with a new light in their eyes and a buoyancy in their steps.

I listened and watched, and I thought, I was happy here—happier than I could remember being for years, and when they got together afterward for coffee and cakes, I found myself among a group of people I could understand. Here there was no hush-hush. If you told of some awful thing you had done, they would talk to you by telling you of one of their experiences—and they could laugh about it! Here was a group of people who had been through the mill.

Three of these strangers offered a helping hand that night. One man who had been fired from an advertising agency and was making good now in a new job, told me he would try to make an appointment for me with his boss. Another said it was a bad thing to be alone, and didn't I want to come home with him and his wife? Still another gave me three addresses in New York where I could get part-time employment.

And all these had been drunk! What was this warmth? What was the well-spring from whence came these friendly smiles and helping hands?

I had a long talk with the fellow who had brought me. "It's simple," he said. "We join nothing, pay no dues, come and go as we wish, but there is a great deal that binds us. We use the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love."

Here it was again: the old-time religion. "What do I do?" I asked.

"It's simple. You want to stop drinking. Right here is a lot of people like you. First, we admit that our drinking is out of control, and that it is interfering with our lives. Then we admit that there is a Higher Power than ourselves who can help us in our struggle for freedom and happiness. We decide to do without drink for the next twenty-four hours. Then we go home and read the book that explains the whole thing. We talk to others who have made it work—and then we come back to the next meeting."

Later on when we have found our footing and are feeling stronger, maybe we'll tell the others some of our experiences. By this time we have learned to rectify the wrongs we have done, we hold no grudges and take a square look ahead. Then, when we have really accomplished something, comes the most important step of all—we call it the "Big Step." We use the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love.

Here it was: the old religion, but used in a different way. Christ's fundamental method, "Go ye and preach the gospel."

A man made something powerful to help a man to find a way that the circumstances may be, in a crowd or alone. A.A. has it in that "Power greater than ourselves"—God.

During the war, in order to help in the all-out effort for armament, I took what was called a refresher course in engineering. For I had studied it in college. This refresher course enabled me to break up on a lot of knowledge that I had in a dormant in my mind for years, and through it I was to be of service later as chief inspector of the parts department in a great airplane factory.

For me, A.A. was a refresher course in fundamental Christianity, in those truths a boy had learned in a Sunday school and that a single, blistering young man had tried to forget.

To everyone who comes to A.A. or some other such organization, strength and progress are to be had in unselfish fellowship. Joined by faith in and reliance upon God, the individual and the group are tapping infinite resources for living victoriously.

No, there's no way of guessing how many people hear my voice on the thirteen broadcasts each week. But I can count the hundreds of letters, and I go, as I read the wonderful messages of "The Glass Crutch" and other stories of drunkards, that I have done some good. And I know that I have done some good. And I know that I have done some good.

Kangaroo Court Sentences Beardless at First Session

"It's war!" roared the kangaroo court, "on beardless gent's and metec-wearing ladies found without proper credentials authorizing such."

So you better get your permits the kangaroo court will getcha if you don't watch out. This court-branch of the forthcoming Floyd county Sequenquental celebration saw its first action last Saturday when it set up a special session on the corner of Court street and First avenue. It detoured vendors with blatant speed, and at the adjournment of the first session, several leading citizens found themselves under penalty.

Dr. C. L. Hunsicker, one of the several offenders, was charged with "beardlessness" and "metecwearing." He was fined $5.00 and sent to jail for 24 hours.

Another offender, Jan G. Mosier, was charged with "beardlessness."
He was fined $5.00 and sent to jail for 24 hours.

Members of the court's "police-force" included Mayor Curtis Clark, businessman Bill Bingers, jeweler
Clifford Wright, and assistant City Chief Vernon Blackburn. Bingers was charged.

Judge Martin turned them loose without penalty with the remark:
"They're just too darned good looking."

Another case brought a delinquent judgment, Attorney Alex Spradlin, a Kentucky State parole officer, was picked up for having no beard. He was charged with carrying a gallows jug.

Upon sampling the contents of the jug, Judge Martin accepted it as evident evidence in the case and promised, "if able," to return a verdict
"sometime in the future."

3 GOLF CLUBS TO VIE SUNDAY

Estimated 60 Pikeville, Wheelwright and Beaver Valley Players to Meet

An estimated 60 golfers are scheduled to participate in the season's first three-club match for this section at the Beaver Valley Golf and Country club at Allen Sunday, officials of the host club announced Tuesday.

In addition to members of the host club, the match play will see action of representatives of the Wheelwright and Pikeville clubs. The Beaver Valley greens and approaches are reported to be in excellent shape for the match.

One club official told The Times that an unusual amount of interest is being shown already in the match set for Sunday and that this year has been more so than in the past.

Sunday's play will mark the second time Beaver Valley players have tangled in inter-club competition for the year. They recently lost to Wheelwright there in a two-club match.

Construction of the temple of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) church in Salt Lake City was begun in 1853 and completed 40 years later.

Lee P. Isaac Dies At Wheelwright Home After 4-Year Illness

Lee P. Isaac, 63, died last Thursday evening at his home in Wheelwright after a protracted illness. Mr.
Isaac, a retired coal miner, had resided there for the past 40 years. A son of Bunney and Sis Cook Isaac, he was born in 1886 in Knott county.

Mr. Isaac is survived by his widow,
Mrs. Fernie Hall Isaac, six sons, Edwin, Howell, Ar, Arthur, Luther, and Lee Isaac Jr., all of Wheelwright, and four daughters, Mrs.
Mary Hall, Mrs. Birdie Lee, both of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Gladis Burke of Wheelwright, and Mrs. Nettie Whitlow, of Chicago, Ill. Also surviving are one brother, Walter Isaac, Salisburyville, and four sisters, Mrs.
Dula Meade, Ohio, Mrs. Dinah Batts, Mrs. Fanny Sargent, Mrs. Nettie Le-master, all of Jenkins.

Funeral rites were held Sunday morning at the Isaac home, and burial was made in the family cemetry at Wheelwright, under direction of the Call Funeral Home.

REPORTS OF LAMPREY
EELS ARE UNVERIFIED
Paducah, Ky., June 21—Although numerous catches of lamprey eels have been reported in the Tennessee Valley, none of the eels investigated so far have been anything more than harmless fresh water eels, W.
Sturtevant, TVA director of information, said here last night.
Sturtevant said the fresh water eel, which sometimes attaches itself to but does not harm fish, is difficult to distinguish from the deadly lamprey eel, so much in fact that only a biologist can tell them apart.

THIS IS CUTTING IT TOO FINE
I sometimes wonder what they're trying to do to this institution of marriage.

Time was when a Kentuckian could be seduced by a girl with charms, attempt to make an impression on her, succeed, pop the question, be accepted, hustle off and get a license, then he her way to the preacher, justice of the peace or somebody, and get hitched—all in the matter of an afternoon, without time to milk the cows and maybe lay the cornpone for their dream house.

But, said to relate times are not what they used to be in old Kentucky.

It isn't tough nowadays for the guy to be one and lead her poor, before getting married. No, now, even after she has got around to saying "yes" as she intended to, all along forgoing a long engagement and dispensing with the business of announcing the betrothal don't help much.

There is the matter of blood tests.
And there are those three days for the marriage to be in application to be exposed to the public gaze before the necessary papers are issued.

And, let me the Attorney General's office comes forth with more bad news. Sundays and holidays, it says here, don't count at all in that three-day waiting period.

And that, I maintain, is drawing it pretty darned fine. As if three days —any three days, dog days, Sundays, holidays or even ember days—weren't long enough to wait at a time like that when the parties concerned are willing—yes, anxious—and in a day like this when all is uncertainty.
The Japs bombed Pearl Harbor on a Sunday, and there were a lot of other things during the recent war on holidays which upset the plans of thousands and perhaps the destination of millions.

Sundays and holidays not to count? It's just putting the custom of getting married under too much of a handicap. Especially when you consider that, right here in Kentucky, if all parties were agreed and court officials didn't mind extending themselves as a favor to those concerned, a divorce suit could be filed and disposed of in an hour or so, with time out for a brand of canasta.

Friday after trial of her damage suit growing out of an auto wreck on Left Beaver Creek, last year.

Both parties to the suit pleaded negligence on the part of the other as having contributed to the wreck.
Allen will appeal the decision, it was said.

Sturgill, State's First As Collector of Taxes Seven Years in a Row

The Kentucky Department of Revenue noted recently when Ex-Sheriff Troy B. Sturgill, Prestonsburg, was given his quietus on collection of taxes for last year that he was the first Kentucky Sheriff to receive seven consecutive tax quietuses since state law prohibited a Sheriff from succeeding himself.

Mr. Sturgill's seven years in a row as tax collector came about through his election to fill the unexpired term of the late Dr. W. L. Stumbo in 1943, and his subsequent election to fill the four-year term.

WEST GARRETT

Miss Anna Lee Collins had a birthday party last Thursday evening. Those who attended were Brooking Chaffins, Charles Chaffins, Lorraine Rice, Vertie Von Rice, Ronald Sparks, Vonda Jewel Sparks, Linda Wallace, Pete Wallace, Caroy Rice, Harold Gray, Denver Coburn, Eugene Collins, Jerry Triplett, Eddie Triplett, James Leo Collins, Cherrita Sonton, Regina Basting, Bonnie Easterling, Emma Easterling, Brenda Wallace, James Oney, Gregory Napier, Kenneth Watson, Shirley Watson, Carol Collins, Joy Lafferty, Mr. and Mrs. Perry B. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Collins and Anna Lee Collins. Dottie H. Conley, unable to attend, sent a gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Howard and children were dinner guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Howard and Sidney Stone who was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Howard.

A large crowd from West Garrett visited Dewey Lake Sunday.

A number of people have moved away from Garrett. They are missed greatly by their friends.

Former Printer Man Dies Monday in Ohio; Was Last of Family

Ex-Sheriff B. L. Sturgill was notified here this week that his uncle, Van Allen, a former resident of this county, had died Monday morning at his home in Kitts Hill, Ohio.

A retired farmer, Mr. Allen last year was about 80 years old. Born and reared in the vicinity of Printer, he was the last of the family of Joni and Florence Allen. He was a member of the Mormon Church and had a wide circle of relatives and friends in this county. His wife, Martha Roberts Allen, died three years ago.

Surviving are several children, none of whom reside in this county. Funeral rites were conducted at Kitts Hill and burial made there, Wednesday.

LOAN TO AID CO-OP'S PLANS

Grant of $210,000 To Make Possible Office Structure

Approval of a loan for $210,000 by the Big Sandy Rural Electric Co-Op was announced last week by the Rural Electrification Administration.

County Attorney W. W. Burchett said here this week one of the main projects to be made possible by the appropriation will be the construction of Paintsville of an office building for the Big Sandy co-op.

Other items to be covered by the loan are two-way radio facilities to expedite service, a sub-station site which has not yet been located, and various short extensions from existing REA lines.

The office building, it was said, will be in the Stafford Addition to Paintsville.

WAYLND CLUB TO COOPERATE

With Sequai by Sending Beauty Princess, Giving Away Automobile Here

The Lions Club of Wayland has announced its full cooperation with all those others who are working to make of the Floyd County Sesqui-centennial celebration a success. It is not only sponsoring a beauty contest in its community to select a princess to send here for the Sesqui-centennial beauty contest but also will add to the Sequai crowd on July 4 by giving away a new Chevrolet sedan here. The club originally planned to give the prize away at Lions Field, Wayland, but made the change to Prestonsburg in deference to the Sesqui-centennial celebration. New officers, elected by the Wayland club last Thursday, will be installed at the last meeting this month. These are:

The board of directors: G. E. Evans, Jr., and Edwin Gibson, current holders; Tom Wallace and Ray Long, for two-year terms.

Brant's coffee exports are continuing at a high level, Rio de Janeiro reports.

Ham Wallen, 81, Dies At Millard Saturday, At Home of Daughter

Ham Wallen, 81, well-known resident of this area, died at 4:30 p.m. Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Chaney, of Millard, after an illness of six weeks. Mr. Wallen had resided here for approximately 15 years, and was known to hundreds of people throughout this section as an opinion.

After suffering a partial stroke some four months ago, he moved to Pike county. Born in Floyd county in 1868, Mr. Wallen was the son of Baxter and Lydia Montgomery Wallen, and was a member of the Regular Baptist Church.

His wife, Dora Collins Wallen, preceded him in death on September 26, 1948. Surviving are two sons, Willie Wallen, Pikeville, and Chester Wallen, Chillicothe, Ohio; and two daughters, Mrs. Virg. Packett, Chillicothe, and Mrs. Dewey Chaney, Pikeville.

Funeral services were held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. C. Chaney, at Millard, Monday, with the Reverend John Justice officiating. Burial was made in the Collins cemetery at Wayland, under direction of the Baker Funeral Home.

Flying Saucers Are Real
And Good News for U.S., Commentator Claims

The flying saucers are real; they are not in Russia or in Mars but in the United States; and when the U.S. Air Force sees fit to release information on them it will be good news for Americans.

So declares Henry J. Taylor, well-known journalist and radio commentator, in the July Reader's Digest. The article is condensed from a broadcast.

The saucers development is "a big says, from small white disks 20 inches wide to big ones 250 feet across. Nearly all are round; some are flat and edged up like saucers, others are ridged in the center like a pie. Some are gullied, others are not. They can't stream or light or smoke, have no indication of a propelling mechanism and no sound. They can stand still in the air, then dash out to right or left with increasing speed. This function is an important military secret.

Nine out of ten reports of flying saucers are due to imagination or confusion, Taylor states. But seven have been substantiated. Nine flying disks, sighted flying over the West Coast by United Airlines Captain F. J. Smith, were real. Five seen over the Cascade Mountains of Oregon; were real. So were a 100-foot saucer observed over New Mexico in April, 1948, and a 20-foot saucer sighted over Madisonville, Ky., on January 7, but there may be as many as nine.

The saucers development is "a big and expanding experimental project which has been progressing in the United States for three years," Taylor says. It has gone through three phases, receiving peaks in public observation in July, 1947, January, 1948 and April, 1950.

"A flaming, cigar-shaped object about a hundred feet long," reported by Burtner Altrines pilots, was real, the author states. But it was not a saucer, nor was it a "flying saucer." It was a U.S. Navy experimental fighter, "a great jet airplane of incredible speed." Though nearly all military secrets made it appear elongated and cigar-shaped to the human eye.

Chances of finding a flying saucer are slight, because most are made of material which disintegrates in the air. If you should find one, however, you will read the following message stenciled on it:

"Military secret of the United States of America (and a number). Any disclosure or revealing description or whereabouts of this missile is subject to prosecution by the United States Government. Call collect at once. (Telephone number and address of a U.S. Air Base.) Non-explosive."

To Whom It May Concern:

Notice is hereby given to the public that the ownership of the Reapprop Department of the Sandy Valley Fire Service, located on the Mayo Trail, Prestonsburg, Ky., has this 13th day of June, 1950, been transferred from Franklin W. Moore to N. M. White, Jr., and that said business will now be conducted by N. M. White, Jr., as owner, in the building located on and south of the present location of the Sandy Valley Fire Service. This business will be moved to the new location as soon as possible.

Notice is further given that all debts and other obligations of the Sandy Valley Fire Service prior to June 13, 1950, will be assumed by Franklin W. Moore, and that all accounts receivable due the Sandy Valley Fire Service prior to June 13, 1950 are to be settled with Franklin W. Moore.

Notice is given that all debts and other obligations of the Reapprop Department of the Sandy Valley Fire Service subsequent to and including June 13, 1950 are to be assumed by N. M. SPORTS AFIELD

The ability to recognize and read the sign of the fox is the most effective method of learning about the elusive animal, and it's exciting sport.

Outdoor hawkhunts when the snow is gone. Tracks may appear on most any ground surface free of vegetation, especially when the soil has been softened by rains or thaws.

The oval shape and the unusually small toe pads are distinctive characteristics reflected in the track. The mark of the heel pad does not project forward between the outermost toes, as in the dog track; and the curly nature of the foot may be seen on good tracking surface.

The track of a forefoot that has been measured 1 1/2 inches long and 1/2 inches wide. The track of a hind foot is always smaller and the mark of the heel pad is about half as wide as that of a forefoot.

The track arrangements for the different galls are similar to those of the domestic dog, except in walking or trotting the tracks of the fox are an almost straight line.

Naturalist Tom Scott suggests that the domestic dog, except in walking, has a sharper leading leg, about 1/2 inches in diameter.

Those who have preconceived ideas as to the great quantities of game taken by foxes will be disappointed at finding so few "kills" on the trail, about a hundred feet long, reported by Burtner Altrines pilots, was real, the author states. But it was not a saucer, nor was it a "flying saucer." It was a U.S. Navy experimental fighter, "a great jet airplane of incredible speed." Though nearly all military secrets made it appear elongated and cigar-shaped to the human eye.

A single family may use five or more rounds, dens during the denning period from March through June. Except during breeding seasons, dens are only rarely used.

USED PETROLEUM

Farmers in the United States used an estimated 83 billion gallons of petroleum fuels during 1948, an increase of 9 per cent over the 1947 figure of 75 billion gallons, according to the Department of Agriculture. Consumption was broken down as follows in millions of gallons: tractors, 3,87; automobiles, 3,6; motor trucks, 925; internal combustion motors, 200; household and miscellaneous farm equipment, 1,600.

Good Telephone Service Requires Increased Rates

Meeting Kentucky's needs for good telephone service is important to everybody in the state. That's why the following facts are important to you.

- Southern Bell's Kentucky rates based on costs of two years ago Present rates are based on costs of providing service as of March 31, 1948. More than two years' experience has proved these rates too low to provide the good, improved and expanded service that Kentucky requires today.
- Costs of providing service have risen sharply in past two years
 A general wage increase in February 1949 added $926,000 a year to our wage costs in Kentucky. Depreciation costs also went up. Employee pension costs went up. Social Security tax rates went up. Other costs also went up—and wage costs are going up further as a result of a shortening of wage schedules in May 1950. Speaking of wages—from 1939 through 1949, wage increases added $6,900,000 a year to our wage costs in Kentucky. The annual revenue from rate increases since 1939 is falling by $2,700,000 to cover this one item alone—to say nothing of all the other cost increases.
- Telephone facilities cost a great deal more today
 One of the biggest reasons why revised rates are needed is the increased cost of new facilities required to provide good, improved and expanding service. To illustrate—present subscriber rates are based on our investment on March 31, 1948, when that investment averaged $204 per telephone, but facilities for each telephone added since that date have cost $325. Subscriber rates intended to provide only a reasonable return for a $204 telephone are, of course, too low for a $325 telephone—leaving an investment of $121 per telephone for which present rates provide no return at all.
- Good telephone service calls for additional new facilities Added telephones increase the value of service for existing subscribers because they can reach and be reached by more people. Since 1945, we have added 116,000 telephones in Kentucky. Adding them, and improving the service in other ways, has cost $51,000,000 in new facilities. Further progress and development in Kentucky requires a further improved and expanded telephone service, which in turn calls for large quantities of new facilities—$10,000,000 in 1950 alone, with continued heavy construction also needed for the next several years.
- New facilities require adequate earnings to attract capital
 The money to pay for new facilities does not come from subscribers' payment of their bills, because this money covers only wages, taxes, maintenance and other day-to-day costs. Capital for new facilities must come from people who can be persuaded to invest their money in the telephone business in the hope of adequate earnings.
- Earnings in Kentucky are too low to attract needed capital
 Our earnings in Kentucky today are too low to attract the additional capital needed in the postwar period of insufficient earnings, we have been able to attract needed construction capital because of investors' faith in the soundness and fairness of Kentucky and its institutions. However, actual earnings and not hoped-for earnings must of necessity be the basis of raising capital for future construction. Present rates must be revised in order to provide earnings that are adequate for the good, improved and expanding telephone service that Kentucky needs and that we are eager to furnish.

NOTICE

BULL CREEK

The Trumble Chapel Young People's Christian Association basketball team played Bonanza basketball team Monday night. Bonanza won, 29-21. Antier and Dwyale played a second game, which Dwyale won by two points.

Lucille Derocsett spent the first part of the week visiting a friend, Mrs. Betty Ramey, of East Point. The Young People's Christian Association now has organized a boys' softball team. It is composed of members of our young people.

Lucille Derocsett, and Allen Derocsett visited their parents over the week-end. They are attending Pikeville College.

Lucille Derocsett had as her week-end guest Miss Betty Ramey, of East Point.

The Young People's Christian Association of Trumble Chapel visited the Dwyale Young People's Christian Association Friday night.

County Far Below Bond Sale Quota

Floyd county lags behind its set quota of $44,000 for the Series E Savings Bond Independence Drive by 84.4 pct. Bond sales in this county total $9,843.75, or 21.6 pct. of the expected sale.

Only three counties in Kentucky have reached or exceeded the quota set for them. It was announced this week by N. L. Buckley, State Director for Kentucky of the Independence Drive. Clay county exceeded its goal of $7,000 by $690; Leslie county surpassed its quota of $3,000 with a sale of $3,750; and Meade county went over its $9,000 quota with a total of $12,037.

Two from Wechsbery Receive M.A. Degrees

Among those who received the Master of Arts degree at the recent commencement exercises at Western Kentucky State College at Bowling Green, June 1, were Irene and James Vicary of Wechsbery, Ky. The 1950 graduating class of 240 is the largest to be graduated from the college since before the war. Dr. Hardin Craig, professor of English at the University of Missouri and one of the nation's leading Shakespearean scholars, delivered the commencement address.

Betsy Layne Minister Lonesome Pine Leader To National Jamboree

The National Jamboree Troop of the Boy Scouts of America, Lonesome Pine Council, will hold their Pre-Jamboree Training Course at Camp Arrowwood on June 26, 27, and 28, when they will take part in a training course to prepare them for the Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa. At 3:27 p.m. they will board the train which they will take to Ashland where they will become a part of a special train spending continents from Cincinnati, Huntington and Pikeville to the Jamboree.
There will be a total of 50 Scouts and leaders leaving Pikeville on June 27. These include Scouts from all parts of the Lonesome Pine Council. They will be under the leadership of Scoutmaster Richard Wampler, Coeburn, Va., and the Rev. Robert Anderson, of Betsy Layne, Ky. Assistant Scoutmasters are Earl Acuff, Philadelphia, and Frank Coeburn, Va., and Edward Dillon, field executive of Big Stone Gap, Va. In addition to the boys leaving from Pikeville, five Scouts under the leadership of Arthur Grimes, Council commissioner of Lonesome Pine Council, will take their Pre-Jamboree Training at Akron, Ohio, starting on June 24, and will be a part of the Region Four band.
There will be approximately 42,000 Scouts and leaders at the Jamboree at Valley Forge, which will run from June 30 to July 7. On the return trip from the Jamboree, Pine Council will have an opportunity to tour the city of Washington and return home on July 7.
The National Jamboree is held approximately once every 15 years under the auspices of the National Boy Scouts of America. The Council, Boy Scouts of America, this year Jamboree was held in Washington in 1937. The war prevented any such activity until the present year. Many important visitors, including President Truman and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, will be guests at the Jamboree and will take part in the activities. Also, a feature of the Jamboree will be a visit by the National Executive Board of the Boy Scouts of America, the following year to be held in Philadelphia.

Business Outlook Good, Says University Dean

The nation's immediate business outlook is bright, Dr. C. G. Carpenter, dean of the University of Kentucky College of Commerce, said last week in an address before an audience of bankers attending the third annual Kentucky School of Banking at Lexington. Present conditions which lessen the hazards of severe future depressions, he said, are more efficient credit controls, more cautious in business itself, a government policy committed to stabilizing employment, and slowly accumulating eligibility benefits under Social Security.

Two Offices in County Can't Be Held By One Man At One Time, Says Opinion

Frankfort, Ky., June 14—Assistant Attorney General M. B. Hoffield said yesterday a person can't hold office as magistrate and assistant county attorney at the same time. Hoffield wrote Louis William Gorman, a Covington attorney, that Kentucky statutes forbid anyone filling two county offices at once.

another reason why millions of women are changing to Electric cooking...

ELECTRIC COOKING IS the choice of EXPERTS!

FAMOUS HOTELS, SHIPS, RESTAURANTS, CLUBS & TRAINS FEATURE ELECTRIC COOKING

Why do so many smart eating places cook food electrically? Because serving food's their business, they must watch costs... and electric cooking has proved thrifty. Because they've found that electric cooking retains food values and flavor. Because cleanliness, speed and safety are vital to their success. To millions of homemakers these factors are just as important... and millions of women are changing to electric cooking. Have you seen the low-cost, fully automatic electric ranges your dealer is showing right now? Be sure you do.

Kentucky and West Virginia POWER COMPANY

COSTS LESS THAN YOU THINK!
At our low electric rate, about $2 worth of electricity cooks food for the average family for a whole month!

Vets Must Buy Licenses To Sell, Attorney General Tells P'burg Attorney

There's nothing in Kentucky statutes that exempt World War II veterans from having to buy licenses to sell things. Assistant Attorney General John B. Krenning says that opinion this week to Edmond H. Tackett, a Prestonsburg attorney. Tackett asked if he could camp a World War II veteran to take out a license to sell fruits and vegetables. Any specific or proposed instance was not mentioned.

Mayo Receives Degree From U. of Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich.—The University of Michigan's 100th commencement was held Saturday in the Michigan Stadium, with Sir Oliver Franks, British ambassador to the United States, giving the address. There are 4,388 candidates for degrees at this June commencement and it will bring the total for the year to more than 7,000. Among those graduating Friday was Walker Mayo, son of Mrs. W. F. Mayo, Prestonsburg, who received the Master of Science degree.

Sketches History of P'burg, Sesquicentennial Host City

Ten days more and Prestonsburg will be host to the 150th birthday party of the original Floyd county, to all the thousands of the present Floyd and those of the other counties of the mountain empire from which we were taken out of the original county. People who are not progressive and commercial? Why they are not? It is like the Promised Land. God has smiled on it for five generations. He gave them the land and the water they needed for the soil and the land they needed for the soil. He gave them the land and the water they needed for the soil and the land they needed for the soil. He gave them the land and the water they needed for the soil and the land they needed for the soil.

DAVID Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bolen and children, of Larklane, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Patton, here last week-end. Mrs. Howard Hamilton had a guest last week-end her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fair Shepherd. Mrs. Dorothy Whitaker and children, of Prestonsburg, who have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carver, here, have returned to their home in Prestonsburg. Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Thompson and son, Dale, spent last Sunday afternoon at Devey lake. Miss Grace Moore is visiting her sister in Willard, Ohio. Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Durham have returned on Monday, June 18, a son, born to Mr. and Mrs. Ashland known offstage of opera-hunting out of season were Pauline, G. W. Walk and Gerard Devoet, all of their guests this week their daughter, Mrs. and Mrs. Jim Durham and their two-week-old daughter, Mary 10-year-old Gertrude Devoet, were visiting his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Durham, here last Sunday.

IN CASE YOU DIDN'T KNOW— It's Against the Law To Join in Fox Chase Sane Hunting License It is against the law to fox-hunt without hunting license, and eight Floyd county men became painfully aware of that fact last week. They were arrested this week on warrants issued by a Mud Creek man and will be given trial, June 26, in county court. The defendants are Ray Allen and Columbus Lawson, of Harold; Willie Tackett, Rufus Reynolds, Ernest Jones, Milford Jones, Perry Tackett and Perry Jones, all of Teaberry and vicinity. Arrested by Conservation Officer Bernard Baldridge on the location of season were Pauline, G. W. Walk and Gerard Devoet, all of their guests this week their daughter, Mrs. and Mrs. Jim Durham and their two-week-old daughter, Mary 10-year-old Gertrude Devoet, were visiting his parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Durham, here last Sunday. The law provides it was pointed out in connection with the fox-hunting case, that a license is necessary in purchase season as it is necessary to hunting and killing it.

MUSIC MOTOR CO. "YOUR FRIENDLY CHRYSLER-PLYMOUTH DEALER" PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY LOCATED ON MAYO TRAIL PHONE 4961

So you need have no apprehension to sample and to make you are their cousins and, God smiled on it when He smiled on Kentucky and then rested. So what is the matter with Prestonsburg? Nothing. God is taking care of it, underneath his surface. He is taking care of it, underneath his surface. He is taking care of it, underneath his surface. He is taking care of it, underneath his surface. He is taking care of it, underneath his surface.

The courthouse square was abandoned in about the year 1800 and done in about the year 1800 and done in about the year 1800. The railroad was extended to Prestonsburg about the year 1902. From that time it became a center of activity in the coal business, and at one time within the corporate limits there were four coal mines giving employment to a large number of men, with payrolls running into millions of dollars. It is a fact that more miners owned their homes which they acquired from their work in the mines than any other section of the country. But, unfortunately, due to the over-production of coal in Northern fields, these mines have all been abandoned. But Prestonsburg by being strategically located and the county seat, is the hamlet and the county seat, is the hamlet and the county seat, is the hamlet and the county seat.

Added resale value in luxurious wood-trimmed interior with optional, soft-focus dual-lens. Quiet, steady going in an all-weather, single and double body and frame with exclusive torsion bar. Hudson's traditionally brilliant performance with oversized, high-compression engine. Marvelously smooth power from the only engine precisely balanced as a unit. Increased economy and lengthened engine life from the industry's widely-touted location piston rings. Minimum wear and repair over long engine life because of chrome-alloy engine block—lightest in the industry! Exceptional protection with built-in rust-preventive, salt-seger compartment—a Hudson exclusive. "The new" performance over thousands of miles because of Hudson's new more costly metal alloy. Low upkeep costs and longer car life due to extra-duty construction that protects against road shock and vibration. Usual safety from the only mechanical system on same panel.
