Wayland Wins Pike Invitational

Cops 3rd Straight Tourney With Win over Ashland Five

From the hornets' nest of red-hot basketball that is the Big Sandy valley, the Wasps of Wayland high school last week emerged as king-of-the-hill as they swept through the Pikeville invitational tournament and defeated the Ashland Tom Cats for their third tourney championship in a row and a season's record which still stands unblemished.

"Copper" John Campbell's Wasps defeated by a 17-point margin the Tom Cats in the title contest Friday night, a few hours after Ashland had eliminated Pikeville, the best team which had held the No. 1 rating in the state standings. In the semifinals, Wayland led 41-31, 51-38 and before they trounced Frankfort, 60 to 48.

LOOP TOURNEY IN 2 DIVISIONS Big Sandy Finals Play Scheduled at P'Burg, Beginning January 25

The Big Sandy Conference basketball tournament will be held in two divisions, Jan. 22-24—the Southern division to meet in Beary Lane and the Northern in Oil Springs. Winners and runner-up of two divisions then will meet for the finals in Prestonsburg, Jan. 25, 26 and 27.

The Northern division is composed of Martin, Wayne, Waverly, Meade Memorial, Paintsville, Prestonsburg, Flat Gap and Oil Springs. The Southern division includes Pikeville, Elkhorn City, Betty Jenkins, Virgie, Fleming-Neon, Whitesburg, Beary Lane and Pikeville College Academy. Pikeville and Whitesburg, however, did not schedule enough games to participate in the tourney, while Betty and Elkhorn City have other schedule difficulties.

Tournament schedule follows:
Southern Division—Jan. 22, Virgie vs. Pikeville College Academy; Jan. 23, Fleming-Neon vs. Betty Jenkins; Jan. 24, Whitesburg vs. Whitesburg. Northern Division—Martin vs. Waverly, Jan. 22; Whitesburg vs. Whitesburg, Jan. 23; Whitesburg vs. Whitesburg, Jan. 24.

Named to the all-tournament team at conclusion of the Pikeville invitational were Griffith, Hopper and Prasley, all of Wayland, Hunley of Prestonsburg, Preston of Whitesburg, Williams of Inez, Eggleston and Taylor of Ashland.

ence submitted to this office of the parole board) since his trial indicates that he may have been provoked into committing this crime by previous action of the victim and may, therefore, have been guilty of a lesser crime than murder.

Hancock laid the evidence that noted was in two statements, one by a witness who did not testify at the trial and one by a witness who did. The statements show River acted under extreme limits of provocation, Hancock added.

The parole officer who made the local inquiry reported that of 12 Maconfin county officials interviewed, 11 favored commutation and one had no comment. Last August 129 Maconfin citizens signed a petition in River's behalf.

modern industries, in times like these. "Nothing is more clear than the military need for the dispersal of industrial plants to the national security. Of special importance is the need of inland location. The chances for the interception of long-range bombers before they reach inland targets is far greater than their successful detection and interception before reaching coastal locations.

"In view of the unlimited amount of the high quality coal and other natural resources that this valley possesses (described both in the House and Senate hearings, 81st Congress) I am firmly convinced that not only the national interest but the interest of all Democracy-loving people throughout the world can be served by the development of projects of this type."

Palting no puns and asking no qualifications in his statements, Dr. Thompson categorically based on all of the reasons given by the government engineers for opposing canalization of the Big Sandy. "On a statement made by me, these are some of the things Dr. Thompson found wrong with the government report.

J. B. Benson, chief of the U. S. Bureau of Minerals, and Russell Shaw, Prestonsburg, inspector, U. S. Bureau of Mines, will conduct a half-day orientation course for Prestonsburg high school boys at the grade school auditorium, Wednesday afternoon, City Square.

The engineers said the cost of mining coal in the Big Sandy area has risen more than 200 percent in the last few years. They said the cost of coal in the competing fields.

Reply: There is no basis for such a statement. If there was, it would be a differential we wouldn't be loading any coal at all.

The engineers said the former brick demand on the product of the Big Sandy mines in the markets of the Middle West has been progressively affected to natural gas and fuel oil.

Reply: Ironroads have been made on all coal fields by oil and gas but other fields have suffered more than the Big Sandy. The fields producing domestic coals have been hurt worst.

Reply: Improved cleaning and grading practices also have been placed in operation in the Big Sandy fields, where are located some of the most highly mechanized mines and most modern cleaning and grading plants to be found anywhere.

Reply: This is true but only a few of these are available to Big Sandy operators. Most of these river-bank tipples take care of West Virginia coal, which already has a favorable freight-rate differential and also low-rate water transportation to the Chicago, Mid-west and Pittsburgh markets.

Eastern Kentucky, he added, will continue to decline without low-cost transportation such as that enjoyed by competing fields.

The cost of the Big Sandy project in 1945 was estimated by the Army engineers, according to Dr. Thompson, at $22,300,000, which included an item of 20 percent to cover possible increase of construction cost. Taking out this 20 percent the cost then would have been $18,500,000. The 1948 construction index, used by all construction people, Dr. Thompson said, for construction costs was 207. The construction index for November, 1950 was 257.

Well-Known Minister, J. M. Loferty, Dies At Emma, Dec. 26th

Funeral rites for the Rev. John Mearns Loferty, Floyd county veteran of the pulpit, who died at his home at Emma, Dec. 26 after a lingering illness, were conducted Thursday from the Trimble Chapel Methodist Church on Bull Creek.

Dying at the age of 80, the minister had been a member of the Methodist Church 53 years and for the last 45 years had been a preacher, ministering to various congregations in this county. His father was one of the first Methodist preachers in Floyd county.

A native of Bull Creek, the son of the Rev. James and Sarah Blinham Loferty, he spent all of his life in this county except for a few years when he operated a store at Millersburg, Ky. In this county he owned general merchandise stores at Bull Creek, Allen and Emma, and was one of the founders of the well-known firm of the late Mrs. Belle Ellis.

Four sons and six daughters of his 12 children survive. They are Jesse Loferty and Mrs. Belle Ellis, both of Prestonsburg; Misses Malinda and Josie Loferty, of Allen; J. B. Loferty, Hi Hat, Mrs. Lizzie Calhoun, Dr. Melvin Loferty, Mrs. Mary Loferty and Mrs. Alice Loferty, all of Sloan; He also leaves two brothers and three sisters: Hilary Loferty, of Ohio; Sam Loferty, of Sloan; Mrs. Frances Jarrell, of Martin; Mrs. Malinda Loferty and Mrs. Martha Hammonds, of Sloan; also 41 grandchildren, 50 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

The body was taken Tuesday of last week to the home of his daughters, Malinda and Josie Loferty, at Allen, and from there was taken Thursday for burial rites at the Emma Methodist Church prior to the final services on Bull Creek with the Revs. Floyd Loferty and J. C. Loferty officiating. Burial in the family cemetery on Bull Creek was directed by the Carter & Calhoun Funeral Home.

WHEN FIGURES ARE RIDICULOUS

THOSE self-appointed oracles of high finance and statecraft, the radio commentators who spend weeks every thing, have during recent months been assailing the worth of U. S. Savings Bonds. In this group was the well-known H. V. Kallenborn, a man whose respected reputation does U. S. Bonds and the country a particular good by such inveigling.

Mr. Kallenborn and these other have compared U. S. Savings Bonds and savings stock the investor might buy. One bitterly complained that the $1,000 he had invested in a U. S. Bond, back in 1939, had lost its buying power. He second-guessed, and had $1,000 would have earned for him had he invested it in General Motors common stock.

Mr. Fred F. Kompke, general manager of the Hutchinson, Kansas, brokerage firm that bears his name, recently wrote his views on this point, and so effectively answers Mr. Kallenborn and his radio clique that we re-print it here in part:

"What he did not tell his radio listeners was that General Motors common stock is not now, and never has been, a riskless investment. He did not tell his listeners that General Motors stock, the old shares before the recent split, sold at 91 in 1929, at 8 in 1932, at 56 in 1933, at 30 in 1934, at 66 in 1935, at 50 in 1936 and again at 51 in 1938. He did not tell his listeners that General Motors dividends have risen up and down with the business tides through the years as has the price of stock.

"I have a high regard for big business and for General Motors in particular, but I do not like to see radio commentators present only one side of the picture to the disadvantage of United States Bonds.

"This commentator did not tell his listeners that while common stock moves up and down, United States Bonds can always be cashed at par.

"That's the financial answer to those who cry about profits when the country is struggling in the throes of inflation and facing the loss of the security of a war for survival.

"But, if this country of ours needs the high regard of people's dollars as well as the blood of its young men, all this talk of dollar devaluation, profits on stocks, and bonds and such—all this becomes dimly ignorant, selfish and unattractive.

Give Us Some Light!

AS critical year as the history of the world begins with the United States in the middle of things, the common, ordinary people of this nation are due certain information which would go a long way to sustain them in adversity and strengthen them for the supreme effort they must make if they are to preserve their free government and their way of life.

Among these people who should have the "facts of life" in a per-diddle 1951 to the United States, there are some who do not understand and yet so moving that all may feel the urgency of patriotic effort and sacrifice. It is the young men who will have to fight this war which seems inevitable; the parents of these young men who must face up to the stern duty of sending their sons to war on strange battlefields; the mothers and other women who are dependent upon their labor and their substance to support their all-out war for survival.

With the beginning of a new year, there possibly would be no great purpose served in enumerating those instances wherein our national leadership has erred. But the slate should be wiped clean with a plain, honest confession that mistakes were made, and that these mistakes will not be repeated. Those in high places inside this government should admit the credit grievously in deserting Chiang-Kai-Shek in China and leaving that vast land and all its resources in raw materials and manpower at the mercy of Communism. They should admit that Chamberlain doesn't stand alone with his umbrella as a symbol of appeasement.

They now should admit that the cause of freedom is no more valued in Korea than it was in China, only in circumstances have shown them the error of their way. Too, they should recognize that appeasement policy which causes them to keep Chiang's 800,000 veteran troops idle on great dining salutes, the East Room with its great chandeliers and plaits fresh and blooming; the dinner music the exquisite cuisine, and, finally, of meeting and talking with the secretary and delegates of the United Nations who were dressed in costumes of their native lands.

Whether all these matters can be explained effectively and when does it begin? We need to know these things. We hate Communism; we long have hated it. We are not an inebriated, leechlike press on men's minds and souls as much as it does on their minds and souls. But we need to know why things are, where lies our goal and what we shall do when the battle's over.

We must stop thinking overmuch in terms of dollars and three appropriations bills and three "revenue" bills. They are necessary, true, but the strength of the United States lies in its moral and Valley Forge, in the bright flame of freedom that burns in the hearts of every man, woman and child, even when resistance seems useless.

It gives us a rallying cry, a goal, a banner and a flag to follow. It gives us a light to march by, a steady, unshakable, stable backward almost as well as they can grope their way forward.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CHRISTMAS ON BEAVER CREEK

THE Christmas season in this State has been thousands of Christmas programs given from schools, churches and various other organizations. All of these have been a great help to our nation. It is the manner that all citizens in and about Washburn should be friendly with one another in the Christmas season. It is the manner that all citizens in and about Washburn should be friendly with one another in the Christmas season. It is the manner that all citizens in and about Washburn should be friendly with one another in the Christmas season.

It would be unfair to name personally any contributor for whose name we were not able to complete but glad to say they were able. Even those who were not able to do so were not to be discouraged. What was so impressive was that in spite of their busy schedules they were able to give to their neighbors who were very fortunate to have plenty of finance while the next in line may have been non-existent, or a child who is orphaned all going along to get their packages from Santa.

The various churches could learn a great lesson from this. Let all get in line together and fight off the evil of the Christmas season. Let us be friendly, love each other, do good, live peacefully among each other. Above all, talk about our churches and our neighbors on our knees before God. J. P. DIXON

David Youth Glee Club at Swank Greenbrier

Shown above are the 41 members of the David Youth Glee Club at their Christmas party held in the Presidents Parlor of the beautiful Greenbrier hotel, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where they sang carols and favorite hymns during a two-and-a-half-day Christmas stay at the renowned hotel.

Returning home, they regaled their parents with descriptions of the beauty and magnificence of the Greenbrier and its three salons; the Trellis Room all green and white with tropical trees and plaits fresh and blooming; the richly tapestried main lobby and its famous paintings; the dinner music the exquisite cuisine, and, finally, of meeting and talking with the secretary and delegates of the United Nations who were dressed in costumes of their native lands.

"We didn't starve," said one of the youngsters, "but we did peek now and then."

But the delight they found in these luxurious and strange surroundings was no less than that the management and guests of the Greenbrier found in them. When Sue Thompson and Johnny Zwery, two members of the David group, were the prizes offered for the most correct answers given to two questionnaires received by all the guests. UN delegates were amazed to learn that others of the group had not received special training beyond that of a public school. And when the youngsters impressed lifeguards at the Greenbrier's swimming pool with their ability to swim and dive, it surprised their new acquaintances to learn the boys and girls had had the facilities of a splendid pool back home at David.

Bells, Like Daughters Of Leech-Doctor, Sound Old Cry of Give!

The following from Allan M. Trout, "Journalist," The Courier-Journal is in many respects, the best thing Trout has ever written—Editor:

Silver tinsel glitters and red paper curls ring out the old, old story of "Give! Give! Give!" It started before Christmas. The cruel pressure of Christmas is upon us in full fury. Carol runs through the radio from morning till night. The old yuletide waltz "Rock-a-bye-baby" thrills like toothpaste from a tube. The milk but not in its cans, and artificial snow drifts higher and higher in the show windows. There is a Star of Bethlehem at every corner of the compass.

The advertisements gloriously present, the pictures that illustrate the ads all show ultramodern, brightly lit, elegant, joy to an ultrahappy family. The Adonis-husband is shown slipping, dozing and piped his adoring Venusian wife in the dock and approved. The cherub son is all-American, and his little angel-sister is a blessing from On High.

The blunt message in the ads is "Give! Give! Give!" in so many words. We are led to believe, by the picture, that the ultramodern, brightly lit, elegant, joy to an ultrahappy family. The Adonis-husband is shown slipping, dozing and piped his adoring Venusian wife in the dock and approved. The cherub son is all-American, and his little angel-sister is a blessing from On High.

It is to be a lawyer. Any civic organization in the state that does not have a lawyer participating in all its campaigns should get one and appoint for not asking him to join up.

While I'm on the subject of lawyers let me run the risk of being called a lawyer. In the education of the legal profession by offering a suggestion to people with all kinds of interests. KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

"The profession of law is the only aristocratic element which can be amalgamated with the masses by the natural elements of democracy, and which can be advantageously and permanently combined with the masses."

De Toqueville, famous French scholar and statesman, wrote the above in a splendid, filled and approved. The cherub son is all-American, and his little angel-sister is a blessing from On High.

All my life I have heard people sneer at lawyers, saying they serve the public only when they have something to gain, and most of my life I have found the contrary to be true.

There is not a community better-rotted in Kentucky in this good year 1951, that cannot get the best service of a lawyer for the asking. And every civic organization can use the sound advice of a good lawyer.

Not long ago a man in an equity bought a farm for $10,000. Several months later he dug up his deed and re-read it. He had paid his good money for the life interest in the farm. The man 79 years old and nothing more. For a nominal fee a lawyer would have saved the man a $10,000 headache.

He had paid $14,000 for the real estate and equipment and $4,000 for "good will." Later he got to wondering if he had been sold out.

As by inflexible instinct, great men of all ages have turned to God for help. Our saint, Louis, called on God to help him in many difficult decisions. "I should be the very best and self-denying man of my time," Lincoln once remarked. "If I should hope to get ahead without the wisdom that comes from God, I am not from man."

The Power of Prayer—When You're Fit To Pray

"If his prayers are to be answered, a man has to meet his Maker half way," states Fulton Oursler in the January Reader's Digest. "When we ask help from God, we need to take a look at ourselves; we may be in a condition to ask Him for anything."

Mr. Oursler, well-known writer on religious subjects is author of "The Greatest Story Ever Told." His Digest article is condensed from Outlook.

Believers admit no limit to what the power of prayer can do, and even skeptics who study the results of prayer become impressed with the potency of faith. But the trouble with all this is that they do not "chooses to pray."

"People have the ungracious audacity to ask for things which they do not intend to put on speaking terms with their next-door neighbors; they have forbidden relatives their houses; they are enemies of good and virtuous detractors of their best friends."

Prayer is infinitely more than an appeal for personal favors. Our prayers are for the greatest of all gifts: an ever-richer experience, a continuous feeling of being in harmony with the cosmic forces of the universe. It brings the workers of "visiting with God" to the life of the humblest man. And his sense of unity, companionship, and powerfully influences his thoughts.

One evening James McCall got to wondering about the whippersnappers that have been hauled from North to South in the last half century. What were the biggest fresh water fish that had ever been caught, regardless of the number and their game status?

So he wrote hundreds of letters. What he found is astonishing. There are no less than eight different species that have been taken in weight exceeding 100 pounds! Here are a few of the records he uncovered:

That 67-pound 11 ounces musky had the biggest ever. Back in 1929 two Wisconsin fishery biologists disintegrated a dangerously large musky from their net and removed its jaws and returned the fish to the water. It was a 102-pound female that was never taken again.

The year 1928 produced two records. One came to light by the unguarded process of being in Lake Lawtonka, Oklahoma, when it was drained—a 110-pound catfish. The other was a 125-pound Chinook salmon caught in a fish trap near Petersburg, Alaska.

As to the largest fish caught in fresh water—that was the Oregon Pacific or white tarragon which spawns far inland in the western rivers, drops down to the ocean and later returns to complete its life cycle.

Most of the large ones were caught some 40 years ago, so records are sketchy. Many were taken by hand, and while tarragon whole spawns far inland in the western rivers, drops down to the ocean and later returns to complete its life cycle.

A different method was used by Keph Purcell, who in 1911 landed the heaviest Oregon sturgeon of which we can find positive record. It came from the Snake River in Idaho. Purcell used a large hook about seven inches long, 7/16-inch diameter. The setting, a hatched musky, was double barbed, hooked in the gills. The fish was weighed with rocks and tied to the line with a 22-foot line. Loaded with a 100-foot drag, its tail dragged on the ground. They weighed it at the town lumberyard. The verdict—150 pounds.

ON SECOND THOUGHT
A man entered a shop in Jacksonville, Fla., picked up a suitcase and called a cop. They man ran down the street. "I don't know what I've done," the man cried, "I only won't arrest me, I'll be glad to pay for it."

The man's friend, so they reported to the shop to complete the transaction. The customer grew cautious. "As a matter of fact," he said, "I've never seen this before. I had in mind. I wonder if you would show me something cheaper?"—Reader's Digest.

Floyd County Times, January 4, 1951—Sec. 1, Page 5

By HAROLD R. RICE, Floyd County Agent

Every year recommendations are made stating that early chicks are the best. That's what makes the market. This means getting your chicks in December or January. This may mean more work and worry to you but the increase in income per hen will more than offset these. Every spring we find the market flooded with eggs. This means that very few people are getting chicks seriously. They go ahead and get their chicks in April, May and even June and have their pullets in production at the time of the surplus egg season and thus reap the lowest prices of the year.

One of the reasons why early chicks are better is that they are in the market earlier in the year. The brood hen work comes at a slack time in the spring or early in the year. The hen and feeding can be checked more closely, producing healthy pullets; early chicks are healthier because most of the contaminants and parasites are dormant at this time of the year.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

BY WILMAY

Thrilling to note the recent hour achieved by Carl Woods, the youngest man to have won twenty years ago when he was an eighth-grader at Allen, and then a man with a college diploma for a year will go ahead!

It's hard to tell which town had the harder time recovering from the shock of this Maytown victory over Prestonsburg.

Dr. Claude Allen is the Bible for so many families, specially speaking in the case of the young people. He has recently seen his first case of mumps with swelling that went down one day and up the next, for a week.

Karen and Dinah, baby daughters of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Martin, Jr., of Prestonsburg, practically ignored their wavy toys and gifts on Christmas morning, to fight over the one rag doll their mother had made at the last minute.

Whoever said the personalities come in small bundles undoubtedly referred to Len Cook, who has heard her tell of the invalid brother who leads a successful and happy life as a stockman.

When the little Stone girl in Martin died from burns early in December's not very cold weather, her mother, Mrs. M. J. Stone, said it was wonderful how big-hearted our business folks are.

There is a real little Miss Pamela Hall, do so. She already shows signs of precociousness, and she says her daddy says she is sweet as a barrel of molasses.

Charlie Tingles' family from New York have just returned home. Everybody agrees there is only one word for whatever they are: beautiful! Friends who called for the tea there on Thursday afternoon were fascinated by the transformation. Grandma had made in Sandy's room, which includes her personal bulletin board, holds her favorite souvenirs, plain and fancy, and a few other things.

Elizabeth Hayes, of Northern, often ticks framed poems in with other gifts. The tributes may be in verse, but they do provide high or goals worth striving for.

The Nursery "Mother's" Sunday school class, conducted by Mrs. J. O. Best, will be in charge today, 1950, 1951, 1952, Peggy Vaughn was right; perhaps not in 1950 or 1951 years old, if alive now.

Dr. Herbert Salisbury, popular Prestonsburg dentist, is being honored by the town on Monday, Jan. 4, for service. It is sad to see him go but never to know he is needed for whatever he has done. The town even found time to teach a Sunday School class.

Thomas and Elita Patrick, of Maytown, make a point to entertain the two local blind women to dinner now and then. Kind word if all of us perceived take 14-13.

Those who packed baskets for Christmas were in the Maytown personnel basement enjoyed that more than anything else they did during the holidays. They felt more blessed to give than to receive.

When Purcell finally got the big sturgeon in near shore after two or three tries, he waded in waist-deep and shot it with a 22 rifle. Loaded with a 100-foot drag, its tail dragged on the ground. They weighed it at the town lumberyard. The verdict—150 pounds.

Jest Among Us... By Jack Wild

Have you ever wondered, as I have, who this person Dick was for whom our Kentucky riverman named? Dr. Tom Clark, head of the University of Kentucky history department, mentioning "Dick" in his book, "A History of Kentucky."

It seems that a group of 40 North Carolina "Long Hunters," so called because of their long stay in the western part of the state in the 1770's, established a semi-permanent camp in the neighborhood of what is now Morehead, in Wayne county. Some of the men were killed by Indians, others returned home and at the last of the group were left under the leadership of James Knox.

"While hunting one day," Dr. Clark writes, "they encountered a band of Cherokee led by a crippled chief in whom the whites gave the name 'Captain Dick.' Pleased with his new name 'Captain Dick,' he and the whites to him. Dick's War and band then hunt at will." Thus the Dick River was named.

THOUGHTS AND THINGS—Geologists say the climate of Western Kentucky is "mild, humid and somewhat tropical," much more so than that on occasion it gets all right hot down that way. . . . My teacher, Sam a sixth-grader, came in the excitement of his report that they were studying a new kind of arithmetic—"algebra."

The national debt is now $237,000,000,000. It is the highest in this country's history.

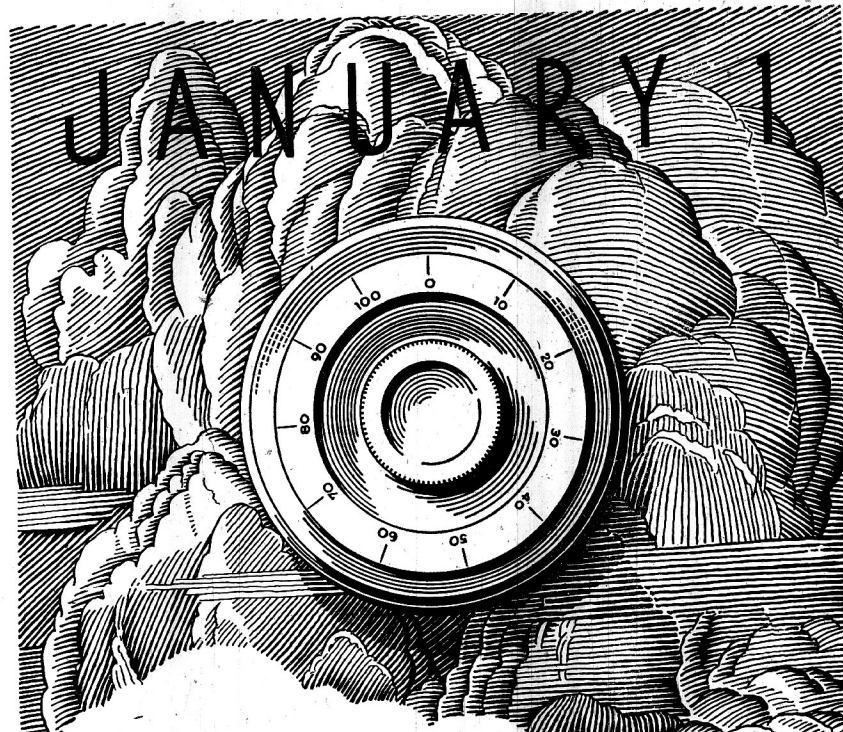

Bus drivers have to put up with a lot from their many passengers. The other night I was out on a "scavenger hunt" with the preacher, and one of the items on our list was a bus transfer. We drove up alongside a city bus and I hopped aboard. I gave the driver a dime and the driver gave me a bus transfer. I gave the driver a dime and the driver gave me a bus transfer. I gave the driver a dime and the driver gave me a bus transfer.

During the horse-racing season at Golden Gate Fields, buses leave from our nearby town every half hour on the first bus. One day a man and his wife were taken on the passengers bound for the races to make a "killin'."

Arriving at the track, the bus driver opened the door, but before the passengers bound for the races to make a "killin'."

HAVE YOU THE COMBINATION?

One by one, over the centuries, men and women have been opening the door to life's richest treasure.

This New Year thousands more will learn the combination that unlocks our God-given destiny.

The joy of purposeful living, the confidence of courageous believing, the power of divine help, belong to every man who can rightly turn the dial of life to its appointed goal.

And the combination has been ours through twenty centuries, ever since the day of Jesus Christ!

Turn first to faith—the hunger of the heart for spiritual truth. Then to love—the capacity for unselfish devotion to one another. Then to God—the Source of All that is eternally real.

The Church helps us master the combination. Its worship and instruction help us to turn the course of our lives.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Union Students Name Former Floyd Countian 'Mr. Union' for 1950-51

Two seniors, Carolyn Carico, Coeburn, Va., and Floyd County, Jen. Ky., formerly of Woodie Crum, have been elected by the student body of the University of Kentucky, as Mr. and Miss Union for the college year 1950-51.

The honor is conferred annually on the man and woman student the students think are most typical of Union College.

Miss Carico, an honor student, is very active in campus activities. She is vice-president of the Student Council, secretary of Future Teachers of America, and a member of Beta Chi Alpha social society. She was an attendant last year to the basketball game.

Mr. Union is a physical education major and plans to coach after graduation. A former president of the sophomore class, he is also president of the U. Club. He was selected on the All-Smokey Mountain Conference basketball team last year, and during school vacation was a pitcher in the Mountain States League.

Mr. Crum is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodson Crum.

What makes a Gasoline Better?

THE word "gasoline" is a broad word, as broad as the word "clothes," because gasolines, like clothes, vary in quality and make-up.

A suit of clothes, regardless of its tailoring, is no better than the cloth it is made of; so also is gasoline no better than the base-stock of which it is made, regardless of how it is trimmed... verbally or otherwise.

A really better gasoline—a balanced motor fuel that will give the best all-round performance in your car—must possess ALL of five important qualities:

- 1 Good distillation range, to assure easy starting, proper acceleration, ample power.
2 Freedom from the unstable fractions which cause vapor-lock and loss of mileage.
3 Low gum-content, to prevent sticking valves.
4 Correct seasonal grade, to give best performance in summer or winter.
5 Proper octane-number, for prevention of knock.

Selection of proper crudes and the most advanced refining techniques result in outstanding performance and the unquestioned leadership of Crown and Crown Extra. The quality cloth is cut to fit the pattern—tailored to measurements.

Honor System 'Freeze' To Be Put on Trial To Put Anti-Inflation to Work An honor-system "freeze" on all prices and wages has been issued by the economic stabilization agency. This may be followed fairly soon by compulsory ceilings on some meats, possibly beef, veal and lamb. The ESA has called executives of the meat industry into a price parity.

This meeting probably will be exploratory because it is uncertain whether the economic stabilization agency would be able yet to impose and enforce livestock price ceilings. Ceilings for this scattered industry would be harder to administer than for the automobile industry, for instance, which has only 10 major companies.

Having set the anti-inflation machinery in motion with yesterday's freeze and rollback of new car prices, ESA administrator Alan Venable gave every sign he will keep it rolling.

His next major move, officials said privately, will be to issue a general, nation-wide, voluntary ceiling on price tags and pay-chicks. Adherence to this price-wage standard—probably fixed at the level of December 1 or some other recent date—will be asked of business, unions and the public.

"This freeze" will last only until March. By that time, ESA believes, it will be ready to administer an effective control system, either on selected goods or on the whole economy.

Resolutions of Respect In Memory of Brother T. J. Mast, who died December 4, 1950. Once again death has summoned a Brother Old Fellow and the golden gateway to the Eternal City has opened to welcome him home. He has completed his work in administering to the wants of the afflicted, shedding light into darkened souls and bringing joy into the places of misery, and as his reward has received the placid "well done" from the Supreme Master.

And whereas, the all-wise and merciful Master of the universe has truly loved and respected Brother Mast, and he having been a true and faithful member of our beloved Order, therefore be it Resolved, That the charter of Prestonsburg Lodge No. 293, I.O.O.F. of Prestonsburg, Ky., in testimony of her loss, be draped in mourning for 30 days and that tender to the family of our deceased Brother our sincere condolence in their deep affliction and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
Western Kentucky Teachers College Bowling Green, Ky.

REPEATING

Did his discovery ruin our later discoveries? Should all the honor be long to the first man who saw a great sunset or sunrise, a waterfall or a mountain? Fortunately, some few in every great age leave records of what they saw or experienced; many times you and I can begin soon to see things where other observers left off. In this way we advance, but even the discoverer who saw but did not record must have experienced things that are not only guess at because he was of our kindred.

Some of the teachers I have had tried to tell us that only the poet could see things in their true relationship. I will agree with this only by widening the number of poets. Nature poets have taught me a greater reverence for the trees and streams and plants and animals around me. I love to quote to trace what some poet has already said. Fall becomes more attractive through the eyes of poets who chanted about colors and abundance of the season. But I must not forget the plain men, not writers, like my father, who loved the out-of-doors with a passion that made him seem queer to hundreds of his neighbors who loved him and depended upon him for health. He did not quote poetry to me or to anybody else; he took me up behind him when he went fishing; he cut me a pole on the creek bank; he instructed me how to put a worm on a hook to catch a sunfish or a sucker. And many another plain person is to be thanked for "unconsciously opening the doors that remain open."

Each year, at the glorious days of October when I am not merely pining for come and go, I find myself tempted to say things that I said last year or still longer ago. Nature is now twenty-two years farther than she was when I made my after-dinner speech about her, a speech that later grew into my essay. I am afraid to open up this subject again, for I know that I have no further knowledge, only dimmer memories. A homecoming year stocking seems even more distant.

Human customs go on in the same seemingly aimless manner that give a suggestion of direction or distance. Witness the millions of acorns that a single oak will produce in its lifetime, each one filled with its own life. I have tried to open up this subject again, for I know that I have no further knowledge, only dimmer memories. A homecoming year stocking seems even more distant.

Martin Man Receives Air Force Commission

James E. Cam, of Martin, Ky., was graduated from the USAP Officer Candidate School, Class 80-C, and received a commission as second lieutenant in the Air Force Reserve December 16.

Ceremonies of graduation and awarding of officer commissions were held at Lackland Air Force base, San Antonio, Texas. Diplomats were presented to 138 members of the officer candidate class by Major Gen. Chas. W. Lawrence, Lackland, and OCS commandant.

The class included 17 women of the Air Force who successfully completed the intensive six months course of training at Lackland. All of the new second lieutenants will receive several months of 45-day duty training at the San Antonio base before departing for assignment at another station.

Each of the new officers will receive 15 days leave beginning immediately after graduation.
