Teenager Gets Appetite Back; Thanks Hadacol
HADACOL Supplies Vitamins B, B1, Nicotin and Iron Which Her System Lacked.

According to Sara Loraine Beck, Box 253, Coles, Alabama, when a person is only 15 years old and feels terrible, can't eat or sleep the way she should, it's mighty bad that is the way Loraine says she used to feel, but that was, of course, before she started taking HADACOL.

There is Loraine Beck's own statement: "I was run-down, sick and skinny, and weighed only 80 pounds. I would not eat and I had no appetite. Now I weigh 125 pounds and love to eat. I feel a lot better. I have been taking HADACOL for 10 months and am glad to say I am 15 years old. HADACOL has done me lots of good."

COAL MINING UP IN FIELD

Big Sandy Coal Increase For Last Year, 39 Pct.; Gain for Area Is Less

Pikeville, Ky., Jan. 18.—The five high-volatile fields of Southeastern West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky mined 31 per cent more coal in 1950 than they did the preceding year, according to figures released here today. These fields, which include the Big Sandy and Hazard fields of Kentucky, produced 78,495,702 tons last year, an increase of 17,453,942 tons over the 56,041,810 tons produced in 1949. And indications are that the upward trend will continue in 1951. The greatest percentage increase of the group was shown by the Hazard field, which mined 32 per cent more coal in 1950 than in 1949. The field produced 4,240,000 tons last year, an increase of 1,331,600 tons over the preceding year. Next, was the Big Sandy field, which produced 14,822,210 tons last year against 10,971,740 tons in 1949. The Logan field in West Virginia showed a 30 per cent increase with a 26 per cent increase for the West Virginia Kanawha field, and an increase of 20 per cent by the Williamson field in West Virginia. During the year 1950 these five adjacent fields produced 12.63 per cent of the nation's coal, a substantial increase over the 11.74 per cent produced in 1949. In the Big Sandy field, according to H. S. Roman, executive secretary of the Big Sandy-Eldorado Coal Operators Association, the new year started off with a slight increase over the 1949 level. In the Big Sandy field, according to H. S. Go See It.. For an Inspiration!

You ought to go see the new Cadillac. You ought to walk all around it and look at it from every angle—and you ought to open the door and get in and sit down. You ought to slide over behind the wheel and look out over that jewel-like dash into the exciting beyond. And you ought to do this, whatever the car you own today—and whatever the car you expect to own tomorrow.

You look at the flawless execution of every structural detail—and you have the comforting feeling that America's industrial craftsmanship is in a class by itself.

But your greatest inspiration is yet to come. You ask the price of the lowest-priced Cadillac model—and you find that it's easily within the means of hundreds of thousands of American families.

Where else, in all the world—do you ask yourself—could there be such a blending of luxury and practicality? And the answer, of course, is—"nowhere." It's strictly an American "monopoly."

Yes, here is the new standard for the automotive world. It is new in beauty, in comfort, in luxury and in performance. So come see it soon—and come with your hopes high.

Sheriff, Deputies To Watch As Slayer Baptized, Sunday

When Millard Cochran, accused slayer of his wife and son, is baptized Sunday by a minister of the Church of Christ, a large gathering will witness the rites from the banks of the Big Sandy, near Pikeville, and in that crowd will be Pike county Sheriff Esia Conway and all her deputies.

For the white-haired man who allegedly killed his wife and son because of their right-time church-going will not be handcuffed when he is led into the water.

"I think it's hardly fair to handcuff a man who's going to be baptized," said Mrs. Conway, who succeeded to the Sheriff's office her husband, Hoy Conway, victim of an assassin's bullet, a few months ago.

The 58-year-old Cochran, who keeps a Bible and a New Testament handy in his Pike county jail cell, denies that he "got religion" after the shooting in which he wounded a second son and a daughter.

He told Jailor Lacy Goodman that he's been a Christian nine years—just never got around to joining the church.

The church here, join is one of two in the Feds Creek community where he resided. It's the same church to which his murdered wife,

Cynthia, 51, and son, Chester, belonged.

But it's not the one that he objected to them attending.

"That church, he told Goodman, is a 'private pocket church.' 'They just let in so many people,' he explained. 'Then they close the door. That way, it wasn't open to all sinners. It wasn't right.' 'Why did he kill his wife?'

"He was always shoutin' in that church," he told the jailer. Then he quoted from 'First Corinthians 14.' 'And if they will learn anything, let them ask their husbands at home. For it is a shame for women to speak in the church.'"

Cochran said, he shot the children because "they was all in it with her—in the 'wrong' church with his wife."

Cochran will go on trial in Pike circuit court next Monday on two charges of murder. He's also accused of assault with intent to kill and malicious shooting and wounding charges—stemming from the wounding of Sturgill Cochran, 23, and Sarah, 14.

Sheriff Conway said Circuit Judge D. D. Stephenson approved Cochran's temporary release for baptism after it was requested by a sister.

here Tuesday on a charge of shooting into the automobile of James Allen, and was fined $50.

Trial of Leo Justice on a charge of obstructing justice by making a later-repudiated confession in the Mariel Baldrige murder mystery, was continued till Jan. 1. This was made necessary, it was said, by the absence of Commonwealth witnesses, Troy B. Sturgill, Sheriff, at the time of the investigation, and his chief deputy, Harold Crum.

Tom Parsons, who had through error gained respite from a pen term upon his conviction in a shooting and wounding charge, was sentenced to five years in the state reformatory Monday, and his removal to LaGrange was ordered.

Two were fined and jailed on liquor possession charges—Ella Blair, $50 and 30 days; James Boyd $40 and 30 days. Rudolph Lewis drew a $15 fine for reckless driving, and $10 was assessed of Luther Thornsbury for carelessly burning woods or fields of another.

The $50 fine and 30-day jail term of Virgil Conn, convicted Jan. 16, was set aside by motion of the Commonwealth. 4

Cases dismissed:

Vernon Blackburn, carrying concealed deadly weapon, insufficient proof; Ervin Salsbury, shooting at without wounding, lack of evidence; Toy Johnson, shooting and wounding, lack of evidence; Carl Green and Chester Wiley, storehouse breaking, insufficient evidence; Chester Wiley, grand larceny, insufficient evidence; Glad Stumbo, forgery, obtaining money under false pretense and cold check, lack of presentation; Johnny Warren, cold check, gone to Indiana; Hawley Stephens, selling mortgaged property, subject to be rechecked.

Social Security Law May Now Affect 100 Floyd Farm Workers

Regular farm workers—perhaps a hundred of them in this county—come under the federal social security law, beginning January 1, according to Horace Godbey, manager of the Ashland office.

Dairy farming will lead to old-age and survivors insurance protection for the largest number of farm people in this area, Mr. Godbey believes, with cattle farming next. He emphasizes that it is the regular farm worker who is paid cash wages who will come under the law—not the itinerant, seasonal or part-time worker.

A new leaflet, "Notice to Farmers with Regular Hired Help," explains how the farm operator can tell whether any of his employees are covered by the law. Issued by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the leaflet is available from the Collector of Internal Revenue at Louisville, the Social Security Administration at Ashland, or from offices of county agents or Production Promoting Administration. Many banks also have copies of the notice.

In addition to explaining just what workers are covered, the leaflet contains a tear-off slip, Form SS-4a, which the farm owner should complete and mail if he has employees who will be covered by the law. Further information about making the quarterly tax reports, and copies of the reporting blanks, will be sent to farmers who mail this form to the collector of internal revenue.

"Not all farm workers are covered by the new law," Mr. Godbey emphasizes. The farm operator himself does not receive the protection of old-age and survivors insurance, nor do farm workers who work less than five months for one employer.

Before he can be covered by the law, a farm worker must work for an employer during a qualifying period of one full calendar quarter. This may be the last calendar quarter of 1950—October, November, and December.

Barnes Asks Recipients Of Public Aid Volunteer Services in Emergency

In an all-out attempt to marshal the available manpower of Kentucky for the national defense program, Vege E. Barnes, commissioner, Department of Economic Security, has called recipients of public assistance who might be qualified for employment to volunteer their services to help in the present emergency. A letter to this effect from the department's Division of Public Assistance was sent to each recipient along with the January public assistance checks.

"The President has declared a state of emergency," the letter to recipients said, "and additional manpower will be needed to carry on the expanding defense program. The department's Division of Employment Services is the official agency for supplying manpower to defense industries in Kentucky. That division is making a special effort to utilize all available manpower skills."

"The employment service has offered its specialized skills in cooperation with the Division of Public Assistance, to get jobs for the aged, the blind, and the otherwise handicapped who want to help our country and at the same time increase their income," Commissioner Barnes declared.

He pointed out that in December, there were 67,751 persons receiving old age assistance, at least 24,007 adults drawing aid for their dependent children, and 3,444 recipients of aid to the needy blind. "While there is no immediate manpower shortage and there are still many active job seekers registered with the employment service," Barnes said, "undoubtedly many of these public assistance recipients possess useful skills which, if given the right direction, will constitute a great reservoir of manpower for Kentucky employers to draw upon."

"There are indications that many public assistance recipients have already been absorbed by expanding defense industries," he continued. "The Division of Public Assistance reported that December brought a major drop in application intake, undoubtedly resulting from the improved employment situation following the start of the Korean conflict." He noted that there were 661 applications for old age assistance in December as compared to 1,427 in October, and 523 applications for aid to dependent children last month against 941 in October.

All employment service offices were alerted by the department to give special consideration to the placement of recipients of public assistance. The letter to recipients also reminded those who received employment to report the fact to the division at once. According to the letter, those who are granted assistance is discontinued, that persons re-application will receive priority consideration at the end of the employment period.

Barnes emphasized that by accepting employment during the mobilization period, many aged persons can acquire wage credits under the amended Old Age and Survivors Insurance law. The new Social Security law provides that persons 65 years of age and over who have worked at least a year and a half in an industry covered by OASI and have earned at least $50 in each six months are eligible for retirement benefits. The old age assistance recipient can't lose, Barnes said. In cases where OASI benefits do not meet the minimum budget established by the Division of Public Assistance, supplemental assistance checks will be issued to maintain the standard of living.

RAPS PHONE FIRM'S RATES

Discrepancy in Rates Within State and Out, Cited by PSC Figures

The staff of the Public Service Commission this week took issue with accounting practices of Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company which is seeking a rate increase of $2,725,539 a year in Kentucky.

Written testimony filed by James M. Honaker, special consultant, and six members of the P.S.C. staff, became the public's case in that rate-increase application that has been pending since June 12, 1950.

Southern Bell presented its case August 13.

P.S.C. witnesses will be cross-examined by Southern Bell counsel February 1.

The higher rates have been in effect since July 6. Southern Bell has posted bond of $1,800,000 to insure refunds in event the commission decides not to grant the increase. Kentucky law restricts this temporary arrangement to 240 days. The time limit will expire March 20.

Honaker's testimony criticized Southern Bell's distribution of costs between interstate and intrastate business and that 26 per cent of revenue is derived from this source.

But, he added, operation costs charged to interstate business fall as low as 2.55 per cent.

The economy of interstate toll rates, as compared with the high cost of long-distance calls inside Kentucky, was shown in the testimony of Robert C. Wenderhoff, P.S.C. statistician.

The examples he cited were based on person-to-person day calls from Louisville. A few of his examples are:

1. It costs the same to call Atlanta, Ga., as it does to call Louisville, Ky., two fifths of the distance.
2. It costs 45 per cent more to call Louisville than Jeffersonville, Ind., one airline mile apart.
3. It costs 50 per cent more to call Middlesboro than Cumberland Gap, just across the two air-line miles farther.
4. It costs $1.25 to call Catlettsburg, and only 90 cents to call Kenova, W. Va., right across the state line.
5. It costs $1.25 to call Albany, and only 85 cents to call Hydrusdon, Tenn., over the state line.
6. It costs $1.40 to call Henderson, and only 95 cents to call Evansville, Ind., right across the Ohio River.
7. It costs $1.70 to call Hickman, and only $1.20 to call Dorena, Mo., just across the Mississippi River.

Honaker made this comment on the disparity of interstate and intrastate rates:

"In my opinion, such disparity is detrimental to the best interests of Kentucky. The Department of Motor Transportation is attempting to eliminate such disparity in motor-truck rates, due to the fact that high intrastate rates put Kentucky industry at a disadvantage within the State."

Community Meetings

Most of the time it is hard for you to know what the future holds for you. Now I don't claim to be a fortune teller but I think you will all agree that we will have tomato blight and bugs next year. This means that you gardeners will have to be smarter than the bugs if you raise any beans. The blight hit suddenly last year and wiped out the tomatoes. It may do it again this year.

You need to be ready to fight the bugs and blight this year. Several meetings have been scheduled for communities in the county to consider sprays and dusts that will help control these things. One of these may be in your community, so plan now to attend it. If one is not scheduled for your community and you think it would help your neighbors, contact the county agent. You can help a lot and help the county agent get acquainted in your community.

Community meetings have already been held at Bonanza, Little Falls, Cow Creek and Prater Creek. More meetings are scheduled for Haysville, Jan. 29; Allen, Jan. 30; Maytown, Jan. 31; Big Mud Creek, Feb. 5; Little Mud Creek, Feb. 6; Branham's Creek, Feb. 7 and Prestonburg, Feb. 12. All meetings will be held at 7 p.m. They are usually held in the schoolhouse. If we work together we can be more successful in controlling blight and insects.

She is the atmosphere is 80 per cent nitrogen there is an unlimited supply available to farmers if they have a good stock of lepedena or other legumes in their pastures and meadows. Korean lepedena is widely adapted and should be included in nearly all pasture mixtures for Floyd county.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

Maytown was overjoyed to help Mary Jo and Herman Habert by shower and gifts, because the Haberts have been so generous themselves.
Nursery catalogs arrive in every mail, and these warm days make us yearn to putter in the garden on flowers. Gardening on paper is a peek of fun, and easy on the pocket-book, too.

The reference last week to teachers made the "Better Half" insist his favorite is still his first—Floyd county's beloved "Miss Sallee" of yesterday, now Mrs. O. J. Webb, of Laakee. At the last Maytown Homecoming more than one who had journeyed from afar recalled the times he or she had had tears dried while perched on Miss Sallee's lap in McDuffey reader cars.

Miss Biddie is another everybody loves. She is the wife of Dr. M. M. Collins, Laakee, who is the oldest practicing physician in Kentucky. Besides rearing three strapping sons, they adopted one son and two daughters, to whom they gave every advantage.

A friend from the city and her small son were our houseguests. The child was familiar with urban life only. His mother decided to walk to town and school if we wished to go, too. We replied we would stay and dress a chicken. "Do you want to go, Charles?" his mother called. "No, ma'am. I'm going to stay and watch Mrs. May put the dress on the chicken," he replied.

"The Courier-Journal" editorial on Paintsville was "swell." It shows what one individual can do when others will cooperate. A youthful mayor with vision started the ball rolling. Power and progress are found in cooperation. "People without vision perish."

Be sure to remember Dr. Gordon Seagrave, the Burma surgeon, just sentenced to six years in prison. He is the fourth generation in his family who have done mission work for Baptists in Burma. Dr. Seagrave, who suffers from anachiasia, plans to appeal, and asks that Americans not judge all Burmese by those who tried him.

They say it is still true, that old maids know more about "raising children than anybody else in the world."

According to report, when Savage Cooley discovered some guy had helped himself to his spare tire and wheel, plus everything else valuable in the rear compartment of his car, Savage did not utter Sunday School words. It did not take him long to get on the trail of the right one, however.

"Uncle" John Allen, here at Warco, passes his eighty-first birthday Monday, the 22nd. He is a familiar figure, who still gets around rather well, despite the infirmities of age and high blood pressure. Friends and relatives remembered the eccentric in various ways. A visit with him always reveals the good, homespun philosophy that has motivated his life.

11 VICTIMS IN EXPLOSION

Kermit, W. Va., Scene Of Mine Blast; Gas Blamed For Tragedy

Kermit, W. Va., Jan. 18.—Eleven men were killed today by an explosion in the Burning Springs Colliery Co. coal mine just outside the state limits of this West Virginia-Kentucky border town.

It was originally reported that eight men were killed but rescue teams located three more bodies, confirming reports that 11 men had been trapped.

Two others caught in the blast 4,000 feet back in the mine, were injured, one of them critically.

State Mines Chief Arch Alexander, who hurried to the scene from Charleston, said the explosion was caused by a "gaseous condition" in the mine.

Although state mine inspectors earlier this month reported the mine in good condition, Alexander said, federal inspectors had reported the gaseous condition, just this week.

The known victims were: Sherman Fields.

Lastly mentioned an electrician, Charlie Porter.

John Chafin, a section boss, of near Kermit.

Conrad Dalton and his brother, Delbert Dalton, both of Inez, Ky.

Tom Moore and his son, Tom Jr., of Kermit.

Walter Johnson, of near Inez, Ky. Charles Sparks and his son, Proctor Sparks, both of Kermit.

William Bowen, of Steptown, W. Va., and Joseph Hinkle of Warfield, Ky.

Bowens suffered burns, concussion and possible skull fracture, and a back injury.

Hinkle, knocked unconscious by the blast and removed from the mine in a dazed condition, was not believed to be seriously hurt and may be released from Williamson, W. Va., hospital, tomorrow, a spokesman said. Hinkle said he could not tell what happened.

"I just don't remember," he told a spokesman.

Knocked out by the blast, the 34-year-old miner said the first he knew "they were carryin' me out."

He had been an employee of the Burning Springs Co. about six years.

Company officials kept a tight ring around the mine while the rescue operations were under way.

At first word of the blast, guards have not been paid are now delinquent. Unless same is paid on or before January 21, 1951, there will be a 6 per cent penalty and a 12 per cent interest added. Please avoid this extra cost by calling at my office and paying same at once.

Jest Among Us
By Jack Wold

I don't know why I find it so utterly easy to doze off in a barber's chair. Maybe it's the dry drone of words and words, or the no-hum-hum and enjoy-ship of slipper and shears, or maybe it's just a case of hinky-eye in the hairy air of the shop. But doze I do. And then the shears again is whisked away and I'm startled awake and the white-necked figure is bowing and saying, "Yes, sir!" and "Next!" and I have a pang of remorse for I know I have slept through another learned discourse on the intricacies of fly casting, the peculiarities of woman and what's wrong with the world.

This sleepytime lament brings to mind the story of the old clerk who was asked why he never seemed to have a worry. "Well, suh," Sam replied, "reckin' it's 'cause evah time Ah sets down an' starts thinkin' 'bout troubles, Ah goes to sleep."

Which might be a good thing for all of us worriers to do now and then.

SAWING WOOD—Down in Eastern Kentucky there are over 4,000,000 acres of forest land and about 15,000 handowners with lumber interests. Many of the small mill owners are trying to get along with an automobile engine for power.

The trouble is, either the engine runs too fast and something goes wrong or it doesn't put out enough power to run the saw properly. In the engineering research laboratories at the University of Kentucky, a dual power plant has been developed and tested. Two rebuilt Plymouth engines were hooked up with belts and pulleys, and in 18 gallons of gasoline the unit will cut 12,000 board feet of lumber in an eight-hour day. That adds up to a heap of sawdust, it seems to this amateur wood chopper.

Garrett, Ky., Jan. 16 (Sp.)—The Lackey-Garrett Woman's Club met in the home here of Mrs. Frank Rasmick, Jan. 11. Mrs. R. P. Vinson, president, opened the meeting with prayer. A safety committee was appointed by Mrs. Vinson, as follows: Mesdames Willard Castle, Bert Stapleton, Ellsworth Coburn and Thomas Hatcher.

This committee will investigate the need for safety signs, etc. for the Wayland and Garrett schools.

Mrs. Ervin Mullins, Waynes and Means chairman, announced that the club would sponsor a rummage sale at the Ball stockmarket soon.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED RESTING

Keeping warm is the No. 1 winter problem of most outdoorsmen in this country. So let's consider how it can best be done without carrying along some heated backs.

We can start by disposing of two fallacies. One, drink is a fine social practice but it is of no value in keeping a person comfortable outdoors. Two, a small fire will not keep you as warm as a big one. If I want to get warm quickly in cold weather, I increase the size of the fire as quickly as possible.

Now one thing sportsmen often overlook is the importance of food in heating the body. I have seen deer hunters take with a good supply of coffee for breakfast and then wonder later why they were so chilly even in moderate weather. The reason was plain; they hadn't stacked the furnace, they had failed to put fuel in the stomach.

To keep moving also means to keep warm. Certainly no one has ever frozen to death in our temperate zone while moving. Therefore, all winter clothing should be worn with one purpose in mind—keeping warm when not on the go.

Next most important is dressing in layers. That is, it is warmer to put on two or three light shirts and a light hunting coat than it is to don one heavy shirt and one heavy hunting jacket, even though these weigh more than several light garments.

As for socks, I don't agree with those who advise wearing a pair of silk or cotton under woolen hunting stockings. I much prefer soft wool athletic socks. Wear a clean pair daily if possible; clean wool is warmer. Follow the insulating-by-layers principle here too, by using two or more pair of socks. As for the outer sock, leather is warmer than rubber. But in wet country or when snow is on the ground, wear rubber-bottomed shoes or all-terrain pacs.

If you use down bags or blankets, get down to earth when sleeping outdoors in winter. Cans, or anything that raises you above the ground admits air underneath and this can chill the marrow in your spine and associated regions.

Betsy Layne Defeats Gate City Quint, But Loses to PCA, 60 to 59

Prestonsburg, Ky., Jan. 22 (Sp.)—After distinguishing themselves by defeating the Cateleburg Wildcats on the Boyd county team's floor, 48-30, the five girls of Betsy Layne ran into trouble Saturday night at Pikeville, and there saw the end of the winning streak, the Pikeville Academy Cubs defeating them, 59-58.

Cateleburg, a team which recently posted Pikeville's high-ranking Panthers to the limit, left far back as Betsy Layne put on great second-half scoring show. Frankie Crum led both teams in scoring with 32 points.

Returning home, the Bob Cats defeated Old Springs here, 60 to 46, with Crum tossing in 27 points. The following night's defeat was committed by a recalcitrant time-waiter, which had the extra playing time in doubt for several minutes. Wallace and Crum led the Betsy Layne attack with 16 and 19, respectively. Crum's 23 points was only for both teams, and S. Carter was high for three behind him.

Aureomycin Highly Effective Against Boils, Carbuncles

Sufferers from eruptive skin boils and carbuncles are offered new hope for relatively quick, safe relief by the use of aureomycin, the "golden wonder drug."

Reilly tests with this versatile antibiotic drug indicate that it is the most effective agent yet developed for combating these types of skin infection.

Most of these carbuncles are caused by staphylococci and streptococci germs, which enter the skin through the hair opening or through a very small scratch. While these infections are almost always localized, there is a strong chance that low resistance or amateurish tampering will push the germs into the blood stream and cause serious illness, possibly death.

Such suffering and possible complications can be avoided if the infected person visits his doctor as soon as local inflammation is detected. Advanced cases of boils and carbuncles require surgical treatment.

Aureomycin has proved vastly superior to penicillin and the sulfa drugs in treating these particular infections. In addition, there is no evidence that germ organisms build up a resistance to aureomycin, as they do to many other drugs.

Mayo School Five Wins Over Favored Marshall Freshman Team, 93-83

The Mayo Vocational School Pirates defeated a highly rated Marshall College freshman five, 93-83. The score does not indicate the facts of the game. It was a nip-and-tuck, dog-eat-dog affair until the final whistle blew.

This was the seventh straight win for the Pirates which holds a 9-3 record against strong junior colleges and independent opposition.

Mayo played without the services of its coach, Grover Salyer, who was called to Louisville on account of illness in family. Junice White, of Williamsport, led the scoring parade for both teams by amassing 54 points. D. Butcher and D. Martin led the nets for 16 and 15 points, respectively. Morris led the Little Green attack with 23 points followed closely by Georgetown who zipped the cords for 22. Bolden, the big six-foot-nine center, hit for 17 points. Mayo will play the strong Cumberland Junior College in the Paintsville high school gymnasium, Friday night at 8.

Our Weakness Is Not Heartlessness

UNEDUCATED, his tongue untrained to facile expression, Allen Prater, the father of the two children whose deaths here last week resulted in widespread publicity of the unheavily sort for the community and Floyd county, said:

"My children did not starve... God put too many good people in these mountains for anybody to starve to death if they knew they needed something to eat.

And so was given effective answer by one of the two persons qualified to speak in the matter to all those calumniators of Eastern Kentucky.

Of course, every thinking man and woman in this community feels a sense of guilt. Medical aid should have been made available, earlier. This tragedy should not have occurred. Had we but good people in these mountains who would have been at fault because we did not know. But how could we know?

Those are some of the things we are thinking about this week.

But it is not given to humans to be omniscient, and it was a wise God who made them so. Knowledge of all the tragedies and heartaches of the world would be a burden so crushing that the human mind would sink into madness.

Those who would pick out this isolated tragedy and indict a whole people for it are of a type of the Communist, who search for and find such instances and brand this nation with heartlessness.

Those who would rail against the churches for their work of foreign missions—while, they say, our own are suffering—are usually the very who never gave either to foreign or home missions.

Those who would lay the blame at the feet of this or that charitable organization are, in all probability, those who have given least to the work of charity.

Let us all realize that these heart-sickening tragedies are taking place all over the world—in New York and Detroit and cities of other lands as well as in these hills. Let us accept our part of the blame in that we failed, as humans, to foresee and meet the needs of all.

But never accept for the people of Prestonsburg, Floyd county or any other county of this section the stigma of heartlessness which some would apparently like to place on us.

Let the Chips Fall...

JUDGE Charles I. Dawson appeared to the ordinary person during the recent Senatorial campaign as something of a curmudgeon, with a hint of the cantankerous about him, and at first his charges against State Highway Administration officials were widely regarded as ruminations of "pure political" cussedness.

But he has gone ahead with the election over and his defeat admitted, with his charges still now depositions are being taken. And two deponents have testified that none other than Highway Commissioner John B. Keck and Rural Highway Commissioner Emerson "Doc" Beachamp saw $6,000 change hands under highly questionable circumstances.

And so we are all for Kentucky's "old curmudgeon," regardless of his motives. Even if he should be devoting his time and energies to the less-than-noble task of getting even with somebody, a full and complete investigation should be made.

If state officials are innocent of wrongdoing, they should be proved so by an honest investigation. And if they are guilty, they should be so branded, as known to all Kentucky and by Kentucky made to suffer the consequences.
