"WHERE HELL Are YOU GOING?"

is the sermon subject next Sunday at the Methodist Church in Prestonsburg.

Of my town's 4,000 people, maybe 600 attended a Worship Service last Sunday. Deducting, only 8,000 of my county's 54,000 went to church to worship God. But these were "traveling heavenward" in the best way they knew. My county's other 46,000 weren't going to some moral "No-Man's Land!"

No Fair in Pine Mountain

8 Flynt Scout Troops Attend First Camporee Held at Dewey Camp Site

Approximately 150 Boy Scouts and leaders from eight Flynt troops last week-end participated in the first Camporee to be held at the new Scout camp on Dewey Lake. Scout officials said that this was the best attended of the Camporees held in several years.

Gold In The Hills...

Again we say there is gold in the hills and valleys of Floyd and adjoining counties. It is not the bright shiny metal we once knew, back in "the good old days," but rather in the form of medicinal roots and plants growing wild in this section, and well-known to the hill folks.

Now is the time to earn spending money for the whole family, and while our government is stockpiling material for defense, large quantities of drugs are also needed. These supplies are growing right here at home; you do not have to go to Michigan to find it, gold.

We especially need the following:

Slippery elm bark, May apple root, blood root (paleoseal), wild rose bark of root, wild ginger, wild hellebore, black cohosh or rattlesnake, angelica root, snake root and many others.

Prices on most of these items are much higher than last season, so why not get the children some "sang hoes" and let them make some money.

All roots and herbs must be thoroughly dry.

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

One place of geological research that ever held a fascination for this columnist is the difference between what, to use a self-coined term, is found in "geological patterns." In explanation and definition of this terminology let it be said that what is meant is the wide-spread variations in descendants and family ties found in the lists of people tracing back to a common ancestor.

There were men or women living just prior to 1800 who have thousands of descendants scattered all over America. There seemed to be a certain elon-vital connected with these descendants that made them vigorous, prolific, and vitalistic. They moved out over the lengthening frontier, ever-adaptable and always strong. The phase, elon-vital, is that of Henri Bergson, the philosopher and he defines it as something inherent in the very nature of life. It is conceivable that this elusive something, this elon-vital of the race, is found to a greater extent in certain families. Transmitted down from a common ancestor or ancestors, in their families we do not observe it. The descendants are not prolific, there is a perceptible ebbing of the essential vitality so needed to survive. These last two sentences savor of the theory of racial senescence, a much debated and abused theory, pulled over from use in the encompassing field of evaluation to serve as basis for a minor theory in genealogy.

However, be as it may, certain families as said, are vigorous and adaptable, others are headed for senility and extinction.

Some weeks ago there appeared in this column an article on Sallie Roark and her descendants. There must be thousands of her descendants now scattered over America. Nearly everywhere they are found, they are of that section of the people that bulwark the progress of the land. They are to be found in every walk of life. Whenever found, in them is the vigor of young America. Of such were the founders of this early country.

So intrigued by this family, this column has accumulated and is still accumulating data on the descendants of Sallie Roark and it is proposed now and in succeeding weeks to write of these that would interest Floyd countians and Big Sand-

Sallie Roark had married one Brewer and to this union had been born a son, Isaac. This Isaac had married Elizabeth Meade, daughter of William Bingham Meade, one of the early settlers at the station of Bethina, near the present Louisiana. This union of Isaac and Elizabeth were born eight sons and three daughters. Lewis, William, Isaac, Samuel, Calvin, James, Aaron and Anthony were the sons; Eliza, Evaline and Matilda, the daughters. We concern ourselves for the present with Isaac who married in Logan county, Alice Spaulding. Isaac had been born on Tug River, in the present Mingo county, in 1813 and died in 1898. Alice Spaulding Brewer died in 1918 at the age of 67. Isaac and Alice had moved soon after their marriage to the present Warfield, Martin county, Kentucky, where they lived out their natural lives. He engaged in the timber business on a large scale and in addition had several mercantile establishments, more or less connected with his timbering operations. The logs he rafted were floated down Tug to market at Cattedisburg. At the time he was engaging in the timbering business he bought considerable acreage of mountain mineral lands. It has been said of him that he was successful in everything he undertook.

Isaac Brewer had four children. Tantha, who died when barely 21 years of age, was the wife of Lewis

James W. Va. He lived on the Kentucky side of the Tug River at South Williamson, Ky. Wallace J. Williamson was a near-legendary figure. He served under General Floyd, as a Confederate soldier, in the Civil War. His wife was America Slater (1849-1899), daughter of William and Martha Harrison Slater of Pike county. W. J. Williamson organized the Williamson Mining and Manufacturing Company of which he was president from 1890 to 1929. He had acquired a large estate before he died March 2, 1928.

Benjamin Williamson, Sr., son of Wallace J. Williamson, was born in Pike county, Ky., Oct. 16, 1864. He was educated in the schools of Pike county and at Bethany College, Bethany, W. Va. In 1888 he went to Cattedisburg and opened up a hardware business, styled Ben Williamson & Company. In 1912 he moved this wholesale hardware business to Ashland. He married, in 1887, Ceres Wellman, daughter of John B. Wellman, of Cattedisburg. There were three children—Wallace J., who died in 1933, Geraldine, wife of Davis E. Geiger, and Benjamin, Jr. Benjamin Williamson, Sr., was appointed United States Senator in November, 1930 to fill out the unexpired term of Senator Cheadler, of Louisville, who had died in office. In 1924, he had been appointed to the Kentucky Crippled Children's Commission, and in 1928 to 1930, he was a member of the State Board of Charities and Corrections.

A son, Benjamin Williamson, Jr., is carrying on in his father's steps, and is prominent in the affairs of his section of the state.

Dempsy and they had resided at Warfield. Walker and Anderson were two sons that did not live long—Anderson died in childhood and Walker at the age of 30.

Floyd Brewer, another son, was born at Warfield in 1876. He attended the local schools of Martin county and a private school at Ives. He attached himself early to his father's business and in later life became one of the substantial businessmen of Tug River. He was connected with numerous business enterprises, timber, coal and banking. Floyd Brewer married, in 1900, Jennie Parsley, a daughter of Jesse Parsley and Marcum Parsley. Floyd and Jennie Parsley Brewer had three children, Walter, Chasday and Paul, all born just after the turn of the Twentieth century.

In the article on Sallie Roark, mentioned above, it was noted that by her marriage to one Deskins this son was John, who married Rebecca Holt in 1815. John and Rebecca had a daughter, Esther, born in Martin county, in 1815. She married Benjamin Williamson, who was born in Pike county in 1808 and died in 1879. Benjamin Williamson was by trade a blacksmith and gunsmith. The guns turned out by the artistry of his hands were said to be the best in early Pike county. His wife, Esther, died in the year 1800. One son was Wallace J. Williamson, born in 1845 near the city of Will-

Pearl Harbor—1941, Korea—1951. Only ten years. But in that time the Bell System's capacity to serve the Nation has literally doubled!

And the Long Distance telephone network which ties America together has grown even more. In 1941, there was very little coaxial cable in use. Radio relay was still in an experimental stage. Yet today there are 8000 miles of coaxial cable in service—plus thousands of miles of radio relay. And Long Distance telephone circuits have increased in ten years from about 4,800,000 miles to 20,800,000.

In times like these, telephone lines are defense lines. For they are helping America rush its big production program. It's fortunate this nation-wide network has grown so big, so fast.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Surface bass-bug fishing is to warm water angling what dry-fly fishing is to the trout angler; and it isn't much different, although generally heavier gear is used. However, fly-rod fishing for bass and other warm water fish is not confined to the use of surface lures.

There are all kinds of semi-surface and underwater artificials to use with the fly-rod that will take anything from the willingest to the sneakiest; among them are feathered minnows, flies, streamers, bucktails, spinners, spoons, midge plugs, rubber and plastic imitations of insect and animal life, poppers and whatnots.

The basic equipment for such fishing according to Bill Wolf, consists of a rod about nine feet long with enough extra backbone to overcome the wind resistance and/or slight weight of the lure, a level or torpedo-head fly line, and a strong but rather short leader of nylon or m.t. Lighter tackle is sometimes used.

Most important to the fish is the artificial tackle—the lure that so on the end of that leader. Their number is legion and obviously it's impossible to describe them here.

There is a standard way of fishing these bass and surface lures that is cast to the desired spot, usually in shallow water, and allowed to rest where it falls for seconds that often grow to as much as a minute. Then, the rod tip is raised slightly to make the lure twitch as though some animal or insect is moving feebly after falling in the water. In this manner the lure is retrieved almost to the side of the boat or bank, and a single cast will take many minutes.

This method can be varied with profit. I have seen surface lures skipped over the water with great success.

But lures are what you make them. Their success depends upon exactly the same factor that governs all fishing that is above the level of plain luck: The angler must know what the lure would look like naturally in the water and present it accordingly, and he must know where the fish he seeks would naturally expect that kind of food to appear.

Only about 100 of the state's 855 cities, counties and school districts have made agreements with the Division of Personnel Security to give Social Security benefits to their employees, Harry Fithian, director of the division, announced. Others may plan to come under the program but have not notified him, he said.

Fithian announced that county judges, mayors and school board chairmen will meet with him in Frankfort June 4-7 to discuss the program.

"Some day I'm going to own a Roadmaster"

ONE thing that interests us mightily is the fact that so many people are stepping up, when they buy automobiles.

We've been looking at surveys, and it seems that just about everyone wants a better car than the one he's now driving.

So we know how you feel, and we'd like to help you make your dreams come true.

We'd like you to discover how fine a fine car can be.

We'd like you to stretch out in the room of a ROADMASTER—feel the luxury of its double-depth cushions—stroke the fine texture of its fabrics.

We'd like you to know the proud levelness of its ride—and its gentle obedience to your hand on the wheel.

We'd like to show you the many extras this custom-built Buick provides—at no extra charge when we come to make out a bill of sale.

But above all, we'd like you to experience two thrills found exclusively in ROADMASTERS.

One is the smooth might of its Fireball Engine. The other is the supreme simplicity of Dynaflow Drive, which is, incidentally, one of the many features included in the price.

We try to hold down our enthusiasm in talking about this masterful beauty.

We might claim—you'll find more room—more comfort—more luxury—a smoother ride—more conveniences—more thrill in a ROADMASTER than in any other car in the fine-car field.

But why spoil the thrill of discovery? Come find out for yourself how completely a 1951 ROADMASTER fulfills the dreams of the car you hope sometime to own.

And let us whisper something to you: The cost of making this step to ROADMASTER ownership is less than most people believe.

Equipment, accessories, tires and models are subject to change without notice.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Surface bass fishing is to warm water angling what dry-fly fishing is to the trout angler, and it isn't much different although generally heavier gear is used. However, fly-rod fishing for bass and other warm water fish is not confined to the use of surface lures.

There are all kinds of semi-surface and underwater artificials to use with the fly rod that will take anything from the willing mouth to the snaky. Among them are feathered minnows, flies, streamers, bucketfish, spinners, spoon, midge plugs, rubber and plastic imitations of insect and animal life, poppers and whoppers.

The basic equipment for such fishing according to Bill Wolf, consists of a rod about nine feet long with enough extra backbone to overcome the wind-resistance and/or slight weight of the lures, a lead or torped-head fly line, and a stout but rather short leader of nylon or gut. Lighter tackle is sometimes used.

Most important to the fish is the terminal tackle—the lures that go on the end of that leader. Their number is legion and obviously it's impossible to describe them here.

There is a standard way of fishing bass lures and surface lures that seems to give best results. The lure is cast to the desired spot, usually in shallow water, and allowed to rest where it falls for seconds that often grow to as much as a minute. Then, the rod tip is raised slightly to make the lure twitch as though some animal or insect is moving behind after falling to the water. In this manner the lure is retrieved almost to the side of the boat or bank, and a single cast will take many minutes.

This method can be varied with profit. I have seen surface lures skipped over the water with great success.

But lures are what you make them. Their success depends upon an exactly the same factor that governs all fishing that is above the level of plain luck: The angler must know what the lure would look like naturally in the water and present it accordingly, and he must know where the fish he seeks would naturally expect that kind of food to appear.

Jest Among Us...

By Jack Wm

Larry Mettler is the only person I know who has been in "Believe It or Not." He got into the celebrated collection of things both odd and true because of the way he hopped about from school to school, some 60 schools attended over a period of 10 years. But that's not the only interesting thing about this 21-year-old graduate student at the University of Kentucky.

Laurance Eugene Mettler—better known to circus and rodeo fans as "Goober" or "Gnat"—was born in Ohio. His father ran the Harrison Press, and on the side raised ponies, dogs and pets. The Mettlers were a circus family, all seven members playing musical instruments. Larry beat the drums and tooted the baritone horn. When Mr. Mettler's health began to fail, he looked about for work that would keep him out of doors, and, happily, Key Brothers Circus hired the musical Mettlers. For the next ten years the family traveled with such shows as Cole Brothers, Ringling, and Clyde Blythe.

When he was 41 Larry started to learn roping. He was riding in the circus "after show" at 5, and doing truck riding at 8. Ken Maynard and Tom Mix were among his teachers. Hardest of the stunts to learn was Australian bullocky manipulation, and it was ten years before Larry could flunk the long whip with pinpoint accuracy at the cigarette held between his partner's lips.

For a time Larry's family had their own show and they were traveling through Georgia when the depression caught up with them. Eight years ago the Mettlers gave up circus life and Larry's father now works for the Hamilton (O.) Journal-News. As a boy, Larry had the prime ambition to marry an Indian girl and to be a veterinarian. Maybe that's why he enrolled for a time at the Rocky Mountain Biological Laboratory in Crested Butte, Colo. Later he returned to Ohio and entered Miami University. As a student there he was inspired by a textbook written by Dr. Herbert P. Riley and by reports of work being done in horse genetics by Dr. Denny G. Sucke. Both are University of Kentucky faculty faculty members, and he came to Kentucky to do graduate work under them.

Larry has decided not to marry an Indian girl after all. In fact, he's engaged to another U.K. student, Anne Brown, who helps him in the bullwhip and roping set he still does occasionally. (He has a horse that he calls Mare because she is one.) Larry also has abandoned the idea of becoming a veterinarian. He's going to be a teacher, and that, he says, will suit him just fine. He's tired of traveling and is ready to settle down for a while.

Clifford Murphy has as his guests his two little sisters who are students at the Mountain Mission School in Grundy, Va.

Pvt. Henry Slusher has spent a fortnight here visiting relatives and friends.

Pvt. J. C. Skeans spent the week-end here with his wife, Millie, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Skeans. He brought as guests Pvt. George Ritter and Pvt. Swane, of Pennsylvania, and Pvt. Boyd Eugene Threms of Grundy, Va. All four boys are stationed at Fort Knox, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Beverly were visiting her mother, Mrs. Doug Hobson of Cracker, Sunday.

Oscar Goodin has been very ill at his home here for several days. He is recovering.

Pvt. J. C. Skeans and James K. Crisp motored to Bull Creek Sunday to visit their uncle, John Stephens.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Vincent and children, of Charleston, W. Va. were the Sunday dinner guests of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pison.

Sonora Donald E. Adams and Mae Helen June Hunter were united in marriage last Saturday. The bride was dressed in a street length dress of tans, with white accents. They left immediately on their honeymoon for Cleveland, O., and other points.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Clarke, of Russell, were here for Memorial Day to decorate graves.

A group of friends gave a wedding shower here recently for Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scalos, Jr., who were married recently in Richmond, Ky., where they both attended school. She is the former Miss Jean Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glover Spencer.

Donald Ray Martin spent Saturday night as guest of his grandmother, Mrs. M. McGlothen, of Salisbury.

Set. J. J. Hordel, son of Mrs. Midge Hordel, has graduated from high school and now is going to start his college course. Set. Hordel is with the air force and has been in the service three years. He is stationed at Eglin Air Force Base, Florida.

NATIONAL EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Ky., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Where Do We Go From Here?

THE TIMES trusts Congressman Carl D. Perkins wins his fight with TVA officials in behalf of coal. Making a sincere effort to represent this coal-producing district where all is most certainly not well economically, the Congressman has not offered an effective argument.

All arguments to the contrary, TVA, however, may stick to the use of natural gas in its power-producing plants if that fuel makes operation less costly. That governmental agency will excuse itself for so doing on the grounds that it must answer for its use of the taxpayers' money.

Whatever the outcome of Mr. Perkins' work in behalf of the industry on this score, more will be needed, more is needed now. Cheaper transportation to make competition with other fields possible is the one big hope of this section. The stifling eight differential remains the ancient enemy of Eastern Kentucky coal. River transportation remains its dream of old. Elimination of the one or realization of the other would save this section of the United States, a section of the importance of which to the national security apparently is not so widely recognized in official Washington.

The Kentucky Employment Service in a recent bulletin noted that mine employment continues to drop. The coal mines dropped 1,700 more men in April. Last month's figures are not in, but they will be no more encouraging. In a year's time, 5,000 men formerly employed in or around coal mines in Kentucky were not offered those positions. That means, almost 5,000 men from Eastern Kentucky coal mines were idled, for Western Kentucky coal has not offered so many jobs.

It must soon become apparent to the national Congress and federal planners that something must be done for this section and its main industry. Eastern Kentucky will face a depression beside which the early '30's were days of plenty.

Mr. B. F. Reed, secretary-treasurer of the Turner Elk-horn Mining Company, in a letter in a recent issue of this newspaper, mentions another solution to this economic problem. Mr. Reed wrote, in part:

"The best thing I can think of is a plant to make synthetic gasoline from coal. The insecurity of our oil supply—a great part of which is coming from the Near East—makes these plants very important to our national defense. Lack of an adequate supply of gasoline could very well be fatal to our security. I have heard it said that the government plans to build or finance plants in various localities, but they are not enthusiastic about the Big Sandy because they tell us our coal is too good to be used for that purpose. We have a vast supply of coal that is not too good and I wish we could do something to get one of these plants in the Big Sandy. It would use about 5,000 tons of coal per day, and that would mean an income of around $200,000 per day in the Big Sandy field. One such plant would solve a lot of problems.

"Of course I would like to see other industry in the Big Sandy, principally some that would promote the use of coal. Such industry would kill two birds with one stone: it would increase mine pay rolls and give those pay rolls more security; at the same time the industry would have its own pay roll, which would help our community."

As is here pointed out, Eastern Kentucky—Floyd county, Kentucky—has an abundance of coal which is not "too good" to be used for hydrogenation purposes. But talk of such a plant returns us to that ancient enemy of ours, the high cost of transportation of coal from the mines to where it would be converted into gasoline.

Where do we go from here? Any suggestions?

Abolish This Office!

THE Kefauver committee has made the nation conscious of the need for a moral awakening to combat the insidious invasion of criminal influences in high places. One of its recommendations, though not of a sensational nature, may eventually reform which has, generally speaking, escaped the public attention.

This recommendation is to abolish the office of Coroner and replace that antiquated and almost useless office with a medical examiner.

The people of Kentucky, and certainly those of Floyd county, should appreciate that proposal as deeply as any in these United States.

Ten states already have the medical examiner system, and eight of those ten have the system set up in this way:

A state commission comprised of representatives of the law and medical and enforcement experts, with a State Medical Examiner at the head; a chief investigator, trained and qualified in both law and medicine, employed by the Commission; this chief investigator, having one or more assistants, including a toxicologist, and a system of district medical examiners who know how to observe and present evidence and who can quickly call in expert aid when needed; the entire staff, from top to bottom, to work in close cooperation with photographers, fingerprint ballistics and firearms experts of the State Police.

This is dispensed with that elective office in which none takes pride unless, perchance, it sometimes is the person least qualified to hold it. So would it be the people of a murder mystery, say, to those of some unlettered Coroner who, endowed by authority of the law, does no more than impede modern investigative methods while a murder mystery, say, to be a verdict to the effect that So-and-so came to his death at the hands of a person or persons to the jury unknown.

Criminology is a science, an exact science. But many crimes are committed in its name, and one of these is the office of Coroner.

Let us have the State Constitution amended so that this relic in our official life can be supplanted by a qualified medical examiner working in conjunction with other trained men.

Perhaps, that way, we too can also eliminate this position of obsolescence which is euphemistically known as "district detective."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EXPLAINS HIS STAND

Editor, The Times: I wish to explain my position in the proposal of Floyd Post, American Legion, to donate its lot in Prestonsburg as a site for a community swimming pool and to give $7,000 as a cash contribution toward construction of the pool.

I am not opposed to this public improvement, nor am I opposed to the Post supporting the project. Like a large number of other members of the Post, I favor giving the lot the Post owns for a site for the pool, but I do not think we should appropriate ourselves by giving every cent in the treasury toward building it.

At this time we have no Legion hall or meeting-places of our own. The American flag, our Post colors and our records now are scattered in various parts of Prestonsburg—because we own no place to put them.

I think we owe it to the future of the American Legion in Prestonsburg and vicinity to provide for some permanent Legion home. I also propose that when and if this sort of building is built or acquired, we plan a public library in connection with it.

I am not a mossaick—I simply do not want to go farther than we should while our own needs remain so apparent.

OPS NOTES

With the majority of commodities and services thinned from the general freeze and now under "tailor-made" regulations, John W. Manning, Chief of Kentucky Office of Price Stabilization today issued a price-control calendar.

Even though many of these dates are now passed thousands of Kentucky business people have not yet complied with the law in regard to them, he pointed out.

Whether the delinquents are deliberately ignoring price control regulations or are not aware of them, a preliminary survey reveals that the number of persons who have filed charts of their commodities and prices or other required data is only a fraction of the total in our state having this legal responsibility," Manning said.

He offered the following schedule of deadlines as a reminder to merchants who through oversight have failed to observe them.

By April 30—Under Ceiling Price Regulations 14, 15, and 16, all required to file statements of operations using OPS Form 5.

By April 30—Under Ceiling Price Regulation 11, restaurants must submit statement of their "food cost per dollar of sales." Also covered by CPR 11 are taverns, cafes, boarding houses, delicatessens, truck wagons and drug store food counters.

By May 31—Under Ceiling Price Regulation 10, establishments handling soft goods, appliances, hardware, jewelry, and other department store items, must file pricing chart on their merchandise in accordance with a formula based on pre-Korean margins. Under a recent amendment (S) broad exceptions are allowed certain groups of small merchants.

By June 14—Under Ceiling Price Regulations 23, 24, and 25, which establish prices for live cattle, wholesale and retail beef prices, packers and beef vendors must file report on gross volume of their business and other information on OPS Form 5. However, if a grocer handling meat has previously submitted this data he is not required to file it again.

By June 15—Under Ceiling Price Regulation 34, all service establishments must file statement of the services they perform and rates they charge. Approximately 10,000 Kentuckians whose remuneration is derived from a fee or charge are covered by this regulation. It does not cover employees, doctors and lawyers are exempted.

By July 2—Under Ceiling Price Regulations 22, 30 and 37, covering manufactured items, machinery and other operators must file a report on production and prices, using OPS Form 8.

With the exception of the manufacturers' reports, which must be sent to the Washington Office of Price Stabilization, all required reports should be filed with the Louisville OPS, 307 South 5th Street, Manning said.

CAPITAL Roundup

The Public Service Commission gave the go-ahead signal to the Kentucky Utilities Company for an $11,225,000 expansion program, calling for doubling the present capacity of the K. U.'s plant at Tyrone, Anderson county. It overruled protests of the East Kentucky Rural Electric Co-operative Corporation that the private utility expansion program would be unnecessary if the Co-operative is permitted to build its own generating plant at Ford, Kentucky, on the Tennessee River.

Commissioner of Motor Transportation John M. Kennard announced establishment of three new weighing stations at London, Pikeville and Georgetown, to check trucks that may be overweight. Thirteen additional stations are scheduled to be set up during the year at Clinton, Paducah, Elizabethtown, Morehead, Whitley City, Mayeville, Painsouth, Franklin, Bedford, Shelbyville, Owensboro, Glasgow, and Hopkinsville.

Non-profit summer camps—such as those operated by religious groups, FFA Chapters and 4-H Clubs, Scout Troops—are eligible to participate in the Federal Government's surplus food program, according to State Commodity Distribution Director Thomas A. Lewis.

State Civil Defense Director Roscoe B. Anderson announced that fifty cities of the State have named local civil defense directors—about one-third of the cities whose such action has been urged. Training programs are under way in Washington for some of the local directors.

The Kentucky Judicial Council is sponsoring a handbook for jurors— one to acquaint grand and petit jurors with their duties and with the facets of court procedure. The Council named four circuit judges—Chester D. Adams, Lexington; Kenneth S. Alcorn, Stanford; James C. Carter, Jr., and Watt M. Pritchard, Ashland,—to prepare such a booklet.

Whiskey and beer licensees were requested by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board to file their renewal applications early to prevent last-minute congestion and to assure delivery of the new licenses by July 1—beginning of the new license period. There are approximately 1,000 whiskey licensees and 5,000 beer dealers.

The drive to collect scrap iron and steel was given added impetus with Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby asking State employees to keep an eye open for the scrap. He urged county judges and mayors to make similar drives at the local level.

Cherokee Park, the first state park to designate was dedicated in ceremonies at Kentucky Lake. Commissioner of Conservation Henry Ward was the main speaker at the 400-acre reservation.

Employment in Kentucky coal mines reached its lowest level since September 1949 during April, the Department of Economic Security announced. The department reported 82,000 were employed in mines in April, compared to 83,700 in March. The decline was attributed to the slackening need for coal in the spring and summer months.

Pledges a Progressive Legislative Program

I am fully aware of a fact which the people have learned through experience with political promises—and that is this: One man, one Representative in our State Legislature, cannot correct all bad legislation and set enacted all the good laws we need.

And so, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from the 56th District, (Magisterial Districts 1 and 2 of Floyd county), I promise only the things I can do and work for in an earnest, energetic and intelligent way. This work we need, on the county level as well as the state, and I submit it as my program:

1. A progressive school system, with higher salaries for the teachers and school administration personnel, which is not only justice for the teachers but also necessary in order to keep in Kentucky the best of women and men needed as teachers.
2. A vital road program—not only maintenance and improvement of existing roads but also new roads to serve neglected communities.
3. A constructive health and welfare program.
4. Legislation for the benefit of those who work in one of the most dangerous of all occupations—coal mining.
5. An increase in pay for the aged and dependent children. A mere pittance is not enough for these helpless people in times such as these when living costs are doubled.
6. Full support of all legislation to better the lot of the farmer.
7. As Representative I will work and vote for constructive legislation in the interest of the people, not in any special interest to the detriment of the public. I will study all bills carefully, consider what they mean to the taxpayer and the ordinary citizen, act strictly on my judgment and refuse to be dictated to by selfish interests.
8. Aggressive, intelligent effort on the part of your Representative can be of real help to Floyd county as well as to Kentucky. I pledge my best, and on that platform solicit your support.

Sincerely,
Clyde B. Allen
