factory where jobs are made

Some say a power plant makes power. Others call it product electricity. But we like to think of a power plant as a factory where JOBS are made—and probably your job among them.

Some jobs are made here completely. They just wouldn't exist if electricity didn't exist, too. The job of an electric appliance salesman, a radio comedian, an elevator man, a welder...

And just about all jobs are made here in part. That is, electricity makes them easier or more profitable. Can you imagine a shoemaker competing today without electric aids? Or a butcher, doctor, printer, beautician, steel man, dentist, textile weaver, or farmer? In other highly specialized ways electricity helps, too, the teacher, the housewife, the clergyman, the accountant...

Most gratifying of all, the more electricity there is, the more jobs there are, and the more productive they become. That's why this company and its business-managed affiliates of the American Gas and Electric System have doubled their generating capacity since 1941. That's why these companies are now building still more plants to make still more power available in the communities we serve.

Cats Prep for Williamsburg Game; Win First Tilt, 27-7

With their annual season-opening against Whitesburg high school postponed, the Cats prepared only then and chucked up as a 27-7 victory. Coach Doc Perrell's Prestonsburg Black Cats were training hard this week for their engagement at home next Friday evening.

Through both teams looked ragged in spots, Prestonsburg fumbled only twice. The losers lost the ball on fumbles five times. The Cats recovered five fumbles while Whitesburg was covering only one.

Games Isabel and Goble and Caullid and Mayo in the backfield contributed heavily to the Prestonsburg defense. The team emerged from the game in good condition, with the exception of Patton, regular end, who suffered a badly injured ankle. It is feared he will not be ready for the Williamsburg game.

Playing the consistently strong Whitesburg team on its home field, the Cats were not picked to win as handily as they did, but Delmer Hughes, Cat quarterback, looked up right where he put last season with his passing, and his receivers were hanging on to the ball to jump into an early lead.

Attempting 10 passes in 21 plays, Hughes completed six for three touchdowns, all in the first half. Two of his losses fell incomplete, and two were intercepted.

He first hit Caullid for 10 yards and a touchdown in the opening stanza, then in the second shot a touchdown pass to Mayo that was good for 50 yards. Whitesburg's Tulliver passed for a marker in this quarter to make the score 14 to 7.

But again Hughes judged, this time to Hill at end for a 30-yard gain. The final Prestonsburg score came in the final period when Carver intercepted Tulliver's pass and hit back 45 yards into the end zone.

Mayo led in the ball-carrying department with an average of 7.7 yards per try. Pennington at full-back bettered five yards for each time he carried the ball. The Prestonsburg attack was so effective that Mayo kicked only twice. He averaged a luring 47.5 yards per kick. Whitesburg failed to return either kick a foot.

TALKS SLATED ON EDUCATION To Vie at State Fair

Pikeville Meet, Oct. 5, Scheduled for Study Of Schools Program

What should be Kentucky's educational program? This and many such questions will be answered in the 13 Study and Discussion Conferences scheduled throughout the state by the Kentucky Council for Education as announced this week by Walter H. Girdler, Jr., president.

The first conference is scheduled for Sept. 1 at Barcoeville and will be followed an another at Murray and later at Jackson, Pikeville, Oct. 5, Richmond, Morehead, Ashland, Columbia, Bowling Green, Hopkinsville, Paducah, Louisville and Covington. Two other conferences will be held, one at Lexington and another at Covington under the leadership of the University of Kentucky.

Among the subjects to be discussed at these conferences will be: Financing Public Schools; Building, Grounds, Equipment and Supplies; Public School Personnel; School Districts; Distribution of School Funds, and Rules and Regulations Concerning Public Schools.

What should constitute a Minimum Foundation Program for Kentucky Schools is another subject which should receive considerable attention.

Those attending will be invited to discuss what is the proper community relationship and whether or not Kentuckians are doing the best possible, or where improvements can be made.

The Kentucky Council has encouraged the organization of local Citizens' Councils for Education throughout the state, having been successful in establishing more than 80 such councils since its organization in 1950. The proper form or organization of such councils is another subject to be studied during the conferences.

There will not be a "historian" conference, since every person in attendance will participate in a discussion group of his choice.

The conferences are planned to be informal, covering one full day with group work taking most of the time. A participant will be selected from each group to summarize discussion and recommendations at the close of the day.

These seminars will be recorded and when all conferences have been held they will be analyzed by committees of the Kentucky Council for Education to determine what Kentucky citizens want for educational program to be.

All persons interested in the advancement of education in Kentucky are invited to attend as many conferences as they wish. If further information is desired, write the Council office at 811 Republic Bldg., Louisville.

The Kentucky Council for Education was organized in July, 1950 for the purpose of promoting better and equal education for every person in Kentucky regardless of geographic or financial handicap.

The organization consists of representatives of all state-wide organizations interested in education. Other state officers, in addition to Mr. Girdler, are: Louis J. Basse, W. E. Howard, Mrs. James C. Sheehan, Dr. Robert L. Hopper, Jr., A. B. Austin, Thomas A. Ballantine, John L. Davis, Ralph Fontaine, Fred Ross, Miss Chloe Gifford, J. Lewis Hartman, Jr., Ivan Scott, C. D. Redding and Miss Margaret Walker.

BARUM SULPHIDE
MERCUROUS CHLORIDE
MERCURIC CHLORIDE

Can you guess which are poisons?

As you can see, the drugs in each pair have confusingly similar names. But in each pair, there is one poisonous drug and one that is relatively harmless.

Barium Sulphide is fatally poisonous when taken internally. Its principal use is in certain external applications.

Barium Sulfate is harmless. An insoluble, white substance, it is used as an aid in x-raying and fluoroscopying the digestive system.

Mercurous Chloride is the relatively safe compound of the other pair. It is occasionally prescribed in small doses as a laxative.

Mercuric Chloride is a violent poison if taken internally. It is used externally as a skin disinfectant.

Your pharmacist knows the actions, uses, and dosages of every drug he compounds on your doctor's prescriptions. For he is the legal custodian and dispenser of all drugs, including the most dangerous poisons and the most potent narcotics.

He comes by this public trust by virtue of his training and experience. Thoroughly trained in his profession, thoroughly interested in you and in your community, your pharmacist is a man you can rely on.

Best way to get a move on

Ask any GMC owner about hauling performance. For when it comes to packing home a pay load — he's got a lot of solid experience.

He knows what the right kind of horsepower can do for trucking profits. Whether he powers his load with a gasoline pickup model — or requires one of the sensational new GM-Diesel "Million-Milers" — he's right in the driver's seat for performance unexcelled by any other carrier in its class.

But he's not just "riding an engine." He'll tell you the way his GMC shoulders the load, year after year, is proof of perfect teamwork of axle, chassis and frame — truck-engineered to outlast anything on the roads today.

Want to profit by the same long-life benefits of GMC's truck-building experience? Let us recommend the right combination of hauling performance to fit your particular needs.

Auto and Home Show Is Feature of Opening Of New Hazard Gym

The opinion overruled Judge Ardery, who had dismissed Hatchery's recent request on the ground the law gave him no authority to order a partial recount of votes in the race.

The Appellate Court issued a writ of mandamus directing Ardery to fix bond sufficient to cover all costs incurred if the recount proceeding should be expanded to include more than the 16 counties requested by Hatchery.

The judge set a $500 bond for the recount of votes in a legislative race in Bourbon and Nicholas counties.

The court's opinion, written by Commissioner Robert K. Culler, declared the primary recount law is "confusing, ambiguous, and inadequate." As a result, the question of a partial recount cannot be answered by the words of the statute.

Kentucky has had a recount law since 1930, the opinion continued, although it has provided for certain conditions for a longer period. The contest laws make it clear that a candidate in a state-wide race may attack returns in individual counties.

But the recount procedure is a special one, authorized in order to ascertain the numerical correctness of the results certified by the election commissioners, the opinion said.

The legislature set up machinery for the recounting of votes when candidates are dissatisfied with the results certified by the election commissioners.

"This machinery is put in operation by the filing of a petition for a recount. Once the machinery has been set in motion, it is available for the benefit of all candidates in a particular race," Cullen wrote.

Although the law does not expressly authorize a partial recount, the Appellate Court has recognized that once recount proceedings have been commenced, it is not necessary that all the votes in all the counties be recounted, the opinion declared.

Since the scope of the recount will depend upon the demands of the parties and on the establishment of the ballots, the court said it would be "unreasonable" to require that the initial request ask a recount of all the votes.

RARE IS VICTIM James Glenn Ratliff, 21-day-old son of Jimmie and Ellen Clark Ratliff, of Manton, died Tuesday night at St. Mary's hospital, Huntington. Funeral services were held at the home at 1 p. m., Thursday. Burial was made in the Clark cemetery at Manton under direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Hazard's beautiful new Memorial Gymnasium will be officially opened on Sept. 12 with an automobile and home show which will continue through remainder of the week. Memorial Gymnasium was built at a cost of more than $200,000, most of which was raised through contributions from individuals and business firms of the Hazard coal field. The first gift of $10,000 was received from the Perry County Civilian Defense Council which raised the money on scrap drives during World War II. The money had been held by a group of trustees since the war to be used in starting a fitting memorial for Perry county boys who lost their lives in World War II.

L. O. Davis, Hazard businessman and philanthropist, has devoted most of the last 22 months to the active supervising of the construction work in addition to making sizeable financial contributions to the project. Engineering and architectural services were provided by H. A. Spaulding and Alfred Marcum at no cost to the project.

Hazard citizens look upon the project as one of the greatest patriotic endeavors ever undertaken in this section of Eastern Kentucky.

The building is spacious and beautiful in every respect. Modern ticket offices, lounges, concession stands, four complete dressing rooms, and seating space for approximately 3,000 people are incorporated in the structure. In addition, a small auditorium was built to provide the practice room for the Hazard high school band as well as a meeting place for groups of about 200 people.

Funeral services were held at the Freewill Baptist Church, Wednesday, at 10 a. m. the Rev. Randall Gibson officiating. Burial was under direction of the Baker Funeral Home.

DUCK SEASON OPENS EARLY

State Hunters Given An Additional 10 Days, Starting November 22

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 10 (AP)—Kentucky's hunters this season were given an additional 10 days in which to hunt waterfowl, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has announced in making known the opening season and bag limits for this year.

The season for geese, coot and ducks opens on Nov. 22 and extends through Jan. 4. Last year the opening season was from Dec. 1 through Jan. 4. In addition to an extended hunting season the Wildlife Service also announced that the late and possession limit on geese will be for this year in comparison to four last year. However, in this category, the limit must not contain more than two Canadian or its subspecies or two white-fronted geese or one of each. The duck bag limit this season is again four with a possession limit of eight; but no more than one water duck may be included. For coots the bag and possession limit is again four, while 25 redegreted and American mergansers may be killed a day, with no possession limit except on opening day.

Shooting hours will be from one-half hour before sunrise to one hour before sunset. Central Standard Time except on the opening day of the season when shooting may be started at 12 noon and continue until one hour before sunset. PIKOVILLE Jr. College Campus Romance

Pikeville, Ky., Aug. 21—A campus romance with a May-ard December angle came to light here recently when a Pikeville Junior College graduate, with his diploma under his arm re-entered the school for the summer session.

They had met in December, commencement was the last day of May. She had completed one year at the school, and was continuing her studies through the summer.

After they had been in the same classes a few weeks, Elytis Blackburn, Thomas, Ky., converted to become Mrs. Gordon L. Thomas of Robinson Creek.

From 75 to 80 percent of the tobacco in Boyle county was sprayed from airplanes for bad worms and horn worms.

Seventy-four Pendleton county homemakers chartered two buses to visit museums and industrial plants in Cincinnati.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD
BY WILMAY

(Opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect those of THE TIMES.)

At the recent meeting of consolidated school teachers, Jim Patton, of the Vocational School at Paintsville, surprised his listeners by saying even high school graduates may be illiterate. He explained this is true when an individual does not use his education to assist in community development and progress.

His splendid address brought to mind the P-T-A president who said there seemed little use in trying to have the organization in his community since less than half the teachers ever attended. In another locale the school head sadly remarked that it was impossible to have one in that town, for too few parents were interested to make the organization possible.

Such conditions do exist, even where many have a vision of what our community can become. Every parent and each community faces obstacles. Progressive citizens are always in the minority, in urban or rural sections. There is a giant barrier. It is not easy to encourage people. It is particularly difficult to help the underprivileged, who usually are a handicap to advancement.

The poor are always present. Some of them are the most gifted, in heart, the humblest and best. In teaching and training, they need friendship and love. Adults who are illiterate in the usual interpretation may never have the chance to attend night school, but they will learn much by other methods. If only persons more fortunate in life recognize their obligation to them and become the type of citizens Mr. Patton described to his audience in Martin.

Presently what appears to be poverty is only poor management. The words budget, vitamins, etc., are unknown in common vocabulary. When adult education is limited to classwork, defeat is inevitable for night schools constitute just one phase of the program. One seeks to reach all classes of citizens. Demonstrating lectures, organizations for the underprivileged are a few methods that make further improvement possible.

Many believe the only solution and hope rest with future generations. This is a layman's viewpoint. True, these children need to be fired with ambition, to be inspired to achieve high standards of living, to be encouraged to seek a better education. But further re-education is about all a community gains by waiting to see another generation learn what their parents might learn if given half a chance.

One town took vast strides in solving this problem by making the poor a part of it. Leaders went into their homes, made them welcome at public gatherings. Outstanding families adopted an underprivileged one each, quietly, but surely, doing much for them in terms of friendship for a whole year. When newcomers moved there a car pulled up to the door the following Sunday to take any and all to church. Someone came to take them driving on an afternoon. All were made welcome. The community spirit was so enthusiastic it was contagious.

A sample of what can be done of, by and for indigent homes is being shown in Floyd county by our own Public Health Nurse, Mrs. J. D. Mayo, who is in charge of the T.B. program. She goes into every home, regardless of type or kind and finds that even the lowliest respond and cooperate to some extent in accepting the educational program, which is just one phase of her work. She adopts her material to the level of the family.

More time and funds need to be spent in reaching the poorer ones in connection with any program. So little is done in most schools of every state for the backward, underprivileged children. Generally it is the poorest who intermarry to the point of danger, but who ever tells them the risk of marrying a first cousin? If part of our time devoted to personal pleasure were spent in constructive work for helping this group the lines of class distinction would be slowly erased instead of underscored. All of us recall individuals who helped us along life's journey. When we in turn meet our responsibility to the masses we will contribute much to community development and progress.

In Garrard county, members of 14 homemakers clubs made $33 baskets.

John Fred Williams Named Defense Fund Chairman of State

John Fred Williams, of Ashland, personnel director of the Ashland Oil Refining Company, has been appointed Kentucky state chairman of the United Defense Fund, it was announced by Robert T. "Bobby" Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., former national golf champion, who is regional chairman for the fund.

Before joining Ashland Oil in January, 1948, Mr. Williams was Superintendent of Public Instruction for the state of Kentucky from 1944 to 1948. He is president of the Boys' Service Community Chest.

In accepting the chairmanship Williams stated that, in his opinion the work of the United Defense Fund-USO is daily becoming more vital. "As more and more of our sons, daughters, and other relatives go into the armed forces," he said, "this service will become increasingly important to the people of Kentucky and the nation."

The United Defense Fund is a nationwide federated organization which will carry on the appeal for thirty voluntary agencies engaged in providing essential emergency services for members of the nation's armed forces, defense-affected communities, and American Relief for Korea. A major part of the fund's budget, 73 1/2 per cent, goes to the USO.

The United Defense Fund's goal for Kentucky is $141,140, a part of the total national goal of $13,621,854.

Miss Natalie Tackett Is Bride of Mr. Martin

The marriage of Miss Natalie Tackett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Tackett, of Wales, Ky., to Mr. Gregory Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Martin, of Hueysville, Ky., was solemnized Aug. 18 at Jenkins, Ky. The double ring ceremony was performed at the Methodist Church by the Rev. J. S. Hale.

For her wedding the bride chose pink suit with pink and navy accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of white rosebuds.

The wedding attendants were Ponsa Green and Wynona Hamilton, Paul Dean Tackett, brother of the bride, and Buford Newsome.

The bride is a graduate of Virginia high school, and the groom attended the University of Kentucky. Mr. Martin is employed by the state as teacher-coordinator at the Belky mining school.

The newlyweds toured the Smoky Mountains and other points of interest while on their honeymoon. They plan to make their home at Belky.

Pikeville VA Office To Close, October 10

The Pikeville office of the Veterans Administration will be closed effective October 10, Roy E. Alexander, officer in charge, announced last week. The reason for this action, Mr. Alexander said, was that during the past four months visitors seeking assistance from the local office were not sufficient in number, in accordance with a standard established by the VA, to justify continuing contact service in this area.

After October 10, servicemen and veterans of wartime and peacetime service, and their dependents in this area-seeking information in all matters under the jurisdiction of the Veterans Administration may obtain advice or assistance from the executive secretary, American Red Cross, located in the Court-house Square, Pikeville. Persons in the Pikeville area desiring to make a direct inquiry to the VA should address their communication to the Veterans Administration, Regional Office, 1405 West Broadway, Louisville 3, Kentucky.
