This Town-- That World

PEACE--IT'S WONDERFUL!

We have survived another election, and so, thank you, the rest of you. And, further, I claim that's an achievement.

There are some funny things about elections. I mean, that you vote for the man who is the best. You see the whole thing. The only trouble is, everybody's so bent on committing political mishaps on the other fellow, you can't tell who nobody sees anything for a laugh.

One thing I'm thankful for: Now, if a man meets a crowd on the street, stop and chat, or even go into private conferences with him, without feeling some odd, ready-to-achieve "let 'em see" that individual and "right somebody else."

LAMENT

I am not one to rail against fate, but my last 79-day vote that everything, the elements included, took me with a little more than I expected. I'm reminded that that's nothing is only a couple of football games or so, by and large.

But, down in it I must probe my innermost feelings. I have a feeling we've been knocked out of some mighty good fishing by the long-ago cold spell. Just when they started hitting at the surface--it's not it came.

Now we sit and pine and hark ahead five whole months till, let it spring again. Think it shall tune up the old voice, does that and day ever come, and give forth with a joyous trill.

Meanwhile, anybody got any fishing magazines or books? I haven't read?

WE'VE TROUBLE ENOUGH

The newspaper report that London students, celebrating the 4th of the United States, Nov. 1, say that's going to a little too stiff, wasn't it? We don't want the old-time in the shape she's in, and if things don't improve we might give her a little more. We don't want to see you we acquired, one upon a time, by hook or crook, since the Indians don't want it.

MATTERS CLINICAL

Between the editorial page and the comics in another of our newspapers we read that you can make a whopper good out of a whole, or whole, or whole, if you'll add a dash of garlic.

One of the years to convert me, I'm afraid. The general idea is to mix the stuff with so many other kinds of strong-tasting vittles that you can't taste what you started out to taste in the first place.

I'll take mine in a pill, thank you.

REA SERVICE OUT 36 HOURS

Disgruntled Workmen
Refuse To Clear Line
After Employee Fired

Resentment of line-men growing out of the discharge of a fellow employee resulted in a 36-hour suspension of electric power services to REA members in the line work section of this county, beginning with last Wednesday night.

Not only homes were without power, some truck units dependent on REA were idled, it was said.

It was reported here that a tree had been felled across a line of the company and the men, disgruntled because of the discharge of a worker, refused to repair the damage. The tree in the line was described to Halloween celebrants.

The Dewey Dam is served by REA, but an auxiliary unit installed there to meet emergencies was available.

HEARING SET FOR SATURDAY

Slayer of Salisbury
Jailed Here; Victim's
Kin Demand Hearing

Examination trial for Mill Hunt, 36, who last Saturday morning shot and instantly killed his father-in-law, Jake Salisbury, 48, at Harold, will be held here Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, it was announced Wednesday.

Relative of the slain man refused to agree on bond for Hunt without a hearing.

The shooting of Salisbury took place in his home, around 5:30 Saturday morning. Five bullets from a revolver entered the left side of his head and neck, all covering a space little more than that of a hand.

Mrs. Hazel Salisbury, widow of the victim, was quoted by a relative as saying she was in the kitchen when the shooting was fired. She claimed Hunt fired three shots into her husband after she reached the door. Salisbury died without falling from his chair. The widow claimed Salisbury was unarmed and that he had sold his revolver.

Dr. John Newberry was dispatched here, the two men had had some minor trouble, a few days earlier.

Hunt was quoted by a kinsman as saying he had worked in the mine of the Harold Fuel Company Friday night and on arriving at his home in Harold, he was told by his wife that her father (Salisbury) had left word for him to be sure to come to his home.

He said he and Martin Yates went to the Salisbury home. His claim was that he was threatened and that he was forced to shoot Salisbury in defense of his life.

Authorities said no charge has yet been filed against Yates. Hunt surrendered shortly after the shooting, and was brought to jail here.

Floyd County Times

SPREADING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY
PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

Democratic Slate Sweeps County

Combs-Willis Race Commands Interest

With the election of Governor Wetherby conceded by practically everybody except his opponent, Judge Siler, and local races decided, remaining Floyd county election centered on the race for Judge of the Court of Appeals between Judge Bert T. Combs, Prestonsburg Democrat, and Former Governor Simon S. Willis, Republican, of Ashland.

The race promises to be one of the state's closest but friends here of Judge Combs predicted this morning (Thursday) that he will win by a majority ranging between 3,000 and 4,000 votes.

In every county of the district, except Lawrence and Boyd, Willis' home, Judge Combs was running ahead of the Democratic ticket. But he was running in Republican territory over much of the district.

Unofficial returns from 2,469 of Kentucky's 4,121 election precincts gave: Wetherby 29,149; Siler 23,524.

The old Eleventh Congressional district was being closely watched by Combs supporters. There, they say, lies his only danger, though a heated Circuit Judge's campaign in Perry and Letcher still in his vote in those counties.

On the face of returns which, in several counties, are incomplete and in most cases unofficial, this was the picture Thursday morning:

Counties for Combs in terms of majority:

Floyd 5,099; Marion 5,409; Knott 2,800; county incomplete and a lead of 3,000 expected for Judge Combs; Pike and the heavily Democratic Sixth and Seventh districts still yet to be tallied. 70 Democratic votes in the county (majority of 2,469); Harlan, majority slightly less; Letcher, 2,000; Morgan, 1,900; Mingo, 1,800; Wayne, 1,700; Wolfe, 1,622; Powell, 225; Mercer, 100.

Judge Combs was leading in Perry where the tabulation was still going on, but may lose the county by a small margin.

Willis counties: Owensley, between 500 and 1,000; Lee, 300; Bell, incomplete, expected Willis lead of 2,000; Johnson, 387; Martin, 212; Lawrence, 61; Boyd, Willis 200 ahead with the vote count three-fourths complete; Knox, 1,572; Whitley, 2,200; Leslie, 2,200; Estill, 300; Laurel, 2,000.

Three Counties of Section Represented in High Posts

Three counties of this section are represented in government posts which are of great importance in the country's international affairs.

Floyd county has its Green Hook worth, authority on international law who now is a justice on the World Court.

Knott has its Troy L. Perkins for a time before going to China.

He became Chinese language officer in China and has been in and out of that country ever since. Perkins estimates he has spent 12 years in China, but he has been stationed in Washington since returning from Nanking in 1948. He was first secretary of the American Embassy when he left Nanking.

Perkins says his service with the State Department has been generally uneventful, but his friends in the State Department say he did his share of bomb dodging before leaving China the last time.

While a student at the University of Kentucky, Perkins was active in left-theatre affairs. He did some writing, acting and directing for Roman Theatre, forerunner of the present-day Gulch Theatre. His song, "On, Oh, U. of K.," remains popular.

"My office in the affairs of China are vast and complicated, but he is anxious to discuss them.

Perkins, now 49, joined the State Department's foreign service in 1931, a little more than five years after

Particularly significant, the fund management said, in the development of improved medical services in these areas is to plan to group several small hospitals around a larger central hospital such as those at Beckley and Cumberland.

It will make it possible for patients to be treated in-home communities.

SCF NATIONAL PRESIDENT TELLS GROUP'S PURPOSES

Dr. E. F. Saunders, national president of the Save the Children Federation, and former Eastern educator, told local SCF committees here last Thursday night in a meeting at the Presbyterian Church that the Federation is not a charitable organization but is one which plans and works to help people help themselves.

Dr. Saunders, who was accompanied here on an Eastern Kentucky tour by Mrs. Mace Corbett, Harriet SCF area supervisor, and her assistant, Mrs. Sophia Holliday, stressed the importance of the group's committees working with civic and charitable groups, seeking always to be helpful but to avoid overlapping into the work of other groups or taking over work already under way.

The speaker explained that the Federation is deeply concerned with helping with education in rural communities and especially with the education and help of underprivileged children. He cited as one project which may be undertaken soon the installation of a testing device to ascertain what children are handicapped by defective hearing. He expressed the hope that interested and competent persons will be trained in operation of the device, so that the service could be expanded to cover a wide area and bring to the attention of school authorities and parents those children who are so handicapped.

"We want to get such work begun, then if its merits are important enough the work will be carried on, perhaps by school and health agencies," he said.

One school which already has benefited from SCF assistance is that at Buckeye where a radio for the reception of religious, educational and music programs has been installed.

The Arkansas school is being studied for a lunch program, and those children who because of illness or for some other reason are restricted to their homes are being considered.

Next week, the SCF committees are engaged in the Christmas benefit program, with practically all groups in Prestonsburg cooperating.

IMAGINE THIS . . .
TOLEDO, Ohio — Toledoans lined up three deep at the Tack Truck Restaurant to eat a club steak dinner for 85 cents, or a broiled pork chop dinner for the same amount. The occasion was the 12th anniversary of the downtown restaurant. To mark the event, the management dug out the menu served on Nov. 8, 1939, prices and all, for just one day. Twelve hundred persons slogged through snow and wind for lunch and a crust of the dinner guests was still not complete last night.

Ohio Columnist Writes of 'Miracle That Prevented' Planned Mercy Killing of His Cancer-Stricken Wife

Columbus, O., Nov. 3—A small-town columnist revealed today that he planned the mercy killing of his wife, who was suffering from cancer, but gave up the idea because of the "miracle" worked by her own courage.

Chamberlain, Marietta, O., told in his column that his experience taught him that mercy killings are never justified.

Tortured by watching the agony of his wife, Julia Chamberlain, 65-year-old mother of his three children, he decided after eight months to end her anguish. But at the moment he made up his mind, she whispered:

"Wait, wait, Dudley, until I tell you."

After that came "the miracle that passeth all understanding," he said, and he could not go through with the act.

Julia died Tuesday in a rest home in Columbus. Her cancer, which was of the chest and spine.

In his column, Chamberlain wrote that his wife first was stricken in mid-March. She was paralyzed from the waist down. Doctors in Columbus severed the sensory nerves in her spine to ease her pain, but said the case was hopeless.

In August she was taken back to Columbus to await death.

Chamberlain wrote:

"We were sure she would die before May 1, June 1, July 1 . . .

"The worst of her agony last spring I had planned deliberately to kill her. In my own selfish viewpoint she was no novelty or commandment was involved.

"I was prepared physically and spiritually to do it. And with neither apology nor regret.

"For a few minutes one terrible afternoon she asked me to help her, as I had promised. But, thank God, I was waiting for the moment. And then she whispered: "Wait, wait, Dudley, until I tell you . . .

"At White Cross hospital in Columbus came the miracle that passeth all understanding. A calm, serene peace came with tremendous strength that touched all who knew her . . .

Chamberlain said their three children had felt it, too.

"Each had sat by her bed and from that tiny woman had drawn infinite peace, strengthened by a miraculous new faith . . . It has smoothed my remaining years beyond any dreams I ever had, but I do not have many lonely miles to go.

"All that greatness and no one can know its infinity, would have been lost to the world had I taken the law into my own sure hands and killed Julia last April.

"I mention this only in passing to warn others who may be tempted. As one time, just last spring, no one could have been more sure that I was right. No one could have been more wrong . . ."

Homemakers' PRICE FACTS

Q. When I rent a frozen food locker, am I protected by price controls on the rental charges?

A. Yes. Frozen food lockers are one of the many types of services whose charges were frozen last January at the highest level between Dec. 19, 1950 and Jan. 25, 1951.

Q. Why aren't there any lists of ceiling prices in my butcher shop.

A. Your butcher will be required to post a list of his ceiling prices as soon as OPS can get lists printed and distributed. Watch your local newspaper for the date.

Q. I heard that coal prices may go up. Why is that?

A. The OPS has allowed retail coal dealers to pass on the increase in the freight rate which was granted last August by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The maximum increase will go 20 cents a net ton. The increase is based entirely on the hike in freight charges and the retailer will not make any new profit out of it.

Q. When going to my optometrist, am I protected from price gouging?

A. Yes. The services of an optometrist are subject to price control under Ceiling Price Regulation 34.

Q. Can OPS order a store to increase prices?

A. No. OPS cannot order increases. Its responsibility is to set ceilings and to see that no sale violates these maximum charges. It is sometimes necessary for OPS to permit increases, according to law, but its chief aim is to keep prices to the consumer as low as possible.

If you have a question about price controls mail it to the Public Information Branch, Office of Price Stabilization, 307 South 34th Street, Louisville, Ky. Please sign your full name and address.

POMEROY, Ohio — Delmar Canaday, who was ousted as mayor of Pomroy in 1948, was voted back into office yesterday 588 to 329 for incumbent mayor Spencer. Gov. THE STATE PROPERTY AND BUILDINGS COMMISSION awarded more than $200,000 in contracts for major improvements and repairs—$12,234 to Coupe Construction Company, Louisville, for work at Lincoln Institute and $42,849 to Cutter & Electric Company, Lexington, for rewiring the State Capitol Building.

Assistant Attorney General H. B. Hostetler said that the post of Master Commissioner is not in conflict with the position of district parole agent for the Division of Probation and Parole of the Department of Welfare.

An Economic Atlas of Kentucky will be off the press early in December. It was announced by George W. Hubley, Jr., executive director of the Kentucky Industrial Development Board. The volume will cover general subjects of Government and Taxation, Transportation, Power and Communications in Kentucky. It will carry text and statistical information and a number of maps.

The three-year-old fight of the East Kentucky Rural Electric Cooperative Association for the right to construct its own $30,000,000 power generating and transmission facilities at Clark county, crossed another hurdle in Franklin Circuit court when Circuit Judge William B. Ardery dismissed a legal action brought against the proposal by Kentucky Utilities Company.

The Public Service Commission set for hearing November 21 the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company's request for higher telephone rates—which have been collected since July 1950—after the case was returned by Franklin Circuit court for additional evidence as to increased operating costs.

Railroads are under no obligation to transport passengers and baggage from its depot and may make exclusive-service contracts with taxicab firms for use of its premises for return of money from a former official of the county, but that request must first be made of the fiscal court to initiate such a suit. The decision held that a taxpayer could not sue former County Judge Morten Bennett for $1,200 which, it was claimed, he drew illegally without the fiscal court first being asked to bring the action.

Findings of Thesis Show Polio Hits Richer Areas More than Poor Sections

Polio strikes more often in well-to-do sections than in poorer areas, a thesis submitted at the University of Louisville shows.

This finding is the result of a survey of Louisville and Jefferson county covering 1940-50 by Robert W. Jones, Jr., while studying for his master's degree.

Jones found that the polio rate for Upper River Road, for example, was about twice as high as in the Haymarket area. A possible explanation, he said, is that children in poorer sections—where sanitation is inferior—acquire mild, undiagnosed cases of polio which makes them immune.

Dr. A. J. Steigman, professor of child health at the University of Louisville, said similar studies have shown that polio is more serious in southern California than in Mexico's spidier Lower California and among whites in the South than among negroes.

Floyd County Truck Figures in Collision Claiming Life of One

John Craft, 23 years old, Mansfield, O., was fatally hurt Saturday morning when his auto collided with a truck driven by H. B. Flack of Printer, this county, on U. S. 23, near the mouth of Georges Creek. He died of a skull injury at Echo, W. Va., while an ambulance was transporting him to a Huntington hospital.

G. R. Martin, Jr., Prestonsburg, owner of the truck, said slippery surface of the highway caused the wreck. The car began weaving as it approached the truck, he said, and Mr. Flack's efforts to avoid a collision were in vain. Flack was unhurt.

The victim, an employee of the Westinghouse Electric Co. at Mansfield, was enroute to the home at Gauge, Ky., of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Craft.

Two weeks earlier, a new Buick from the highway just outside Louisville by another car and was reduced to wreckage. From this wreck, the Prestonsburg man escaped without injury.

Use Planes To Spot Pre-Season Hunters Violating Game Laws

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 5 (SP)—An early outbreak of pre-season hunting has been reported to the Division of Game and Fish, Earl Wallace, director, announced today. Already a number of arrests have been made and Conservation Officers' forces have been alerted to be on the lookout for all such violators. To cope with this outbreak, the Director said, additional assistance has been given to the law enforcement section and Conservation Officers have been instructed to patrol their counties in all efforts for the lookout for all such violators. Wallace pointed out that airplanes are being used to spot violators. When such violators are spotted, they are given the location and are rushed to the section to make the arrest. The hunting season on quail and rabbits opens on Nov. 20. Right now there is no open season on any type of game and an emergency regulation is now in effect throughout the state that bars the carrying of shotguns in the fields.

Kentucky courts have been most cooperative in punishing those arrested for out-of-season hunting, and it is estimated that in the past 10 days at least 50 persons have been arrested and fined for such violations. The Director stated that the violator is not only being hunted but is actually being stalked by the hunter who obeys the laws. He urges, for that reason, that law-abiding hunters get a sharp lookout for the violators and report such violations to his conservation officer.

Trapping season for Kentucky fur-bearing animals opens on December 1 and continues through January 31. The Division of Game and Fish announced this week. Trappers are required to have a trapper's license which costs $1 for a state resident but $10.50 for a non-resident. Also, it is pointed out, each trap must be tagged with identification and residence of the operator. These tags are available from the Division of Game and Fish at cost, which is less than the trapper also is required to inform the conservation officer of his county the location of his line and traps must be run at least every 24 hours. Only single spring steel traps, with smooth jaws not more than 5/8 inches in length may be used.

OPS NOTES

A drive against service establishments which fail to comply with OPS regulations provided at the current investigation of the meat packing industry, is in the offing. District OPS Director John W. Manning was informed.

The informant, Fred P. Moran, OPS Enforcement Director, Washington, declared, "We have refrained a long time from taking strong action against those who are ignoring ceiling price regulations in order to give business time to get acquainted with the law. But the time has come in many areas to apply sanctions against those who have failed to comply."

Only 30 per cent of the 10,000 establishments in Kentucky, such as radio and shoe repair shops, parking lots, garages, laundries, etc., have complied with the law by filing the required reports with the district office, Manning said.

As a protection to buyers of new automobiles OPS has ordered all retail dealers to post in a conspicuous place the ceiling prices of automobiles they offer for sale. The order is effective Nov. 5. It requires the dealer to state on an 18x24-inch sign the make, body style, line or series and model along with the ceiling price. The public notice must also include the charges for transportation, federal excise tax, state or local taxes, handling and delivery, as well as the total price.

Christmas trees have been exempted from price controls under a Department of Agriculture OPS regulation. Alternative measures to strengthen the beef price control program are being studied. Michael DiSalle, OPS Director said in a statement emphatically denying that removal of controls was imminent, "since Congress adjourned without restoring the authority to OPS to allocate available cattle for slaughtering among the various regulated packers, I have been asked several times if we plan to remove price controls from beef," DiSalle declared.

"We most emphatically do not!" "Beef comprises a very important part of the American family diet, and we feel it is a major responsibility of ours to do all in our power to see that it costs the housewife no more than it does already," he continued.

"I have said several times that enforcement of the beef control program would be much more difficult without the power to apportion the slaughter of cattle coming to market equally among all packers, and that opinion I have not changed. However, the lack of slaughter quota authority does not mean we are going to give up the attempt."

"We are encouraged by the enforcement drive now under way, and believe that the violations already uncovered and halted will greatly improve the general marketing situation. Also, we are considering several alternate price control measures which should keep cattle and beef prices down."

"Whatever proposals seem feasible and required we will try, for we are determined that the American housewife must not be forced to pay more for a steak or beef roast than she already does."

Regardless of the pressures and limitations under which OPS must operate controls on beef will not be removed, any more than they will be on any other essential items in the cost of living, as long as the mobilization emergency exists, DiSalle added.

Kentucky Farmers Meet November 30 To Nominate PMA Community Chairmen

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 6 — Farmers throughout Kentucky will hold meetings within their counties November 30 to nominate Production and Marketing Administration community committeemen to serve during 1952. It was announced here today.

Committee elections will be held Friday, December 7. Each county in the state is divided into three or more P.M.A. communities. R. O. Wilson, chairman of the P.M.A. State committee, explained. There are 745 of these units, corresponding generally to county magisterial districts, in Kentucky. Farmers in each community elect a P.M.A. committee of three members and two alternates.

Farmers in each of the localities also select a delegate and alternate delegate to a county committee, which meets the P.M.A. County Committee for 1952. Convention delegates elected December 7 will meet Saturday, December 8, to elect P.M.A. county committees.

Places and hours for the nomination meetings November 30 will be announced in each county by present county committees. Polling places for the elections December 7 also will be announced locally. Polls will remain open at least 6 hours on election day and hours of opening and closing will be announced in each county.

All farmers participating in programs administered by the Production and Marketing Administration are eligible to take part in nomination meetings and to vote in community committee elections. These programs include the agricultural conservation program, acreage allotments, marketing quotas farm price-support programs and the federal crop-insurance program in counties where this program is in operation.

To be eligible to serve as P.M.A. community committeemen and delegates to conventions, farmers are required to be participants in programs administered by P.M.A. and residents of the communities they serve. Present members of P.M.A. county committees may not serve as delegates to the county convention.

In addition to these committee chairmen, the meeting was attended by county chairmen for a majority of the 15 counties of Eastern Kentucky and Virginia which are included within the 6,711 square miles of territory of the Lonesome Pine Council. The Council is the largest of any in the region including Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky, and serves a larger population than any other council, with the exception of Cleveland. When completed, the Council will accommodate a membership of approximately 4,000 Scouts.

They were authorized for the fourth quarter of 1951 and the first quarter of 1952. Administrator Charles W. Connor said some applications for controlled materials have been denied or reduced because of allotment limitations announced recently by the Defense Production Administration.

He added that essential needs for controlled materials have been being met and reductions committee a small percentage of requests received.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

"THE GREAT LOVER"

Rupert Brooke whose sonnet, "The Soldier," was one of the best-known poems of World War I. It has written another poem, no well-known, called "The Great Lover." This highly-favored young Englishman, educated at quaint old Rugby, was his father, was assistant master, somehow seems to have enjoyed a lot of things enjoyed by another boy born at Rugby and educated in Rugby. In these days, the best of all being an institution of higher learning known as the College of Rugby. There is a sort of aesthetic joy in finding that boys are pretty much alike at Rugby or Fidelity. Why, this brilliant boy killed so young in the Dardanelles Campaign, likes things like these (his very words): "rainbows; and the blue sifter smoke of woods; and radiant handprints couched in cool flowers; . . . grainy wood; . . . blue-masung clouds; . . . footprints in the mud; and chestnuts, glossy new; and new peeled sticks." And on and on he goes, making one's mouth water, gather before eyes that have seen similar things on this side of the water.

For years I have wanted to list the things that an old-fashioned boy likes me once liked, but I have feared that it might be a sort of city directory, rather bare and bleak except to some one else who has had similar experiences. Boys are not fashions that some of us would have a different list, but this one is made for those who lived in a simple house, went to a one-roomed school, rode stick horses, made and blew bark whistles, owned a little wagon and rode on the farm, and broke calves to the yoke, and rode a mule bare-backed. What is closer to a boy's heart than food? I have loved fried pie and turnip greens and hog's jaw and plain hockeys and sassed, smoked sausage. I have loved sweet muffins and green-apple pie and fried ham and sweet potatoes baked in an oven on the hearth. I have loved between-meals snacks of jam and bread and cold biscuits and left-over fried chicken and plain sugar-butter-bread, a sort of last

U. of K. Speakers Tell Old Grads and Friends Here University's Needs

Approximately 75 people attended the University of Kentucky Alumni Banquet last Thursday evening at the grade school cafeteria. Following the banquet, Hamilton Tapp, assistant to President Deane, spoke briefly and introduced Dean Terrell, of the engineering college of the university, who was the chief speaker. Both Mr. Tapp and Dean Terrell urged friends of the university to work for the approval of the proposed appropriation to be voted on by the legislature this session.

As the conclusion of the meeting, movies were shown of the 1950 championship basketball game at Madison Square Garden between Illinois and Kentucky, and of the Georgia Tech-Kentucky football game. Those left behind continue their everyday work of handling studies and reports for a dozen U.N. programs and for the Social Councils, the Economic and the Educational.

Win Over Wayland May Cost Cats Loss of Mayo's Services

While the shivering faithful peered through the season's first snowstorm here last Friday night to watch the action, the Prestonsburg Black Cats slipped and slid through an inexperienced Wayland high school eleven for their eighth victory of the season.

Although the 30-0 conquest of Wayland, a team which last year extended the Cats to the limit, was comparatively easy, it may have been the costliest of the season for the team. For injuries sustained in the mud and snow has Jimmy Mayo, the Cats' brilliant running back and punter, in bed this week, with his recovery in time for the game Friday night against Paintsville is in doubt.

Wayland failed to mount a sustained offensive at any stage of the game. Prestonsburg scored twice in the first quarter—first, on Mayo's 8-yard dash off-tackle, and again on Caudill's 5-yard plunge. In the second quarter Cottle intercepted a Wayland pass in mid-field and ran 50 yards for the third touchdown.

The third quarter was scoreless, but the Hughes boys got going in the final period. Delmar, regular cat quarterback and the team's passing and kicking specialist, twice ran 20 yards to score, and toward the close of the contest his younger brother, Lowell, circled end for five yards and a touchdown.

Delmar Hughes failed on three of his kicks for extra points and Alexander played across for the conversion after the last touchdown.

Both Melvin Pennington and Tom Spadlin, line snafuwarts did not play in the game against Wayland because of illness.

Although he scored only one marker Friday night, Jimmy Mayo holds onto the lead in Eastern Kentucky scoring with 19 touchdowns and a total of 114 points. Moving into second place was the sharp-shooting Hughes with two touchdowns to run his total to nine touchdowns which, with 38 extra points, brought his season point total to 80. Hughes has nurlid 22 touchdowns pages this season.

The miserable condition of the playing field cost Prestonsburg the leadership in team scoring as Bellevue, the Cats' scheduled foe for the Recreational Bowl at Mt. Sterling, Thursday night, Nov. 15, took the lead over Prestonsburg by a scant four points. Bellevue postponed its game with Ludlow from last Friday night till Monday night when playing conditions were much improved.

That Paintsville - Prestonsburg game is the big one of the year, any year, for either team, and the eyes of football fans throughout Eastern Kentucky will be focused on tomorrow night's Cat-Tiger struggle at Paintsville.

Since the start of the grid rivalry between the two schools, dating back to 1923, Prestonsburg has won 12 games to Paintsville's eight. Five of these classics have ended in a tie.

National Foxhunters' Meet Slated at Dawson Springs

Dawson Springs, Ky. — For the second year in a row Kentucky will be host to hundreds of foxhunters and sportsmen who will assemble here on Sunday, November 11 for the 58th annual foxhunt and bench show of the National Foxhunters' Association. One of the best meetings in the history of the Association was held here last year and so well pleased were the participants that they almost unanimously voted to hold the 1951 meeting at the same site. The meeting is again sponsored by the Dawson Springs Chamber of Commerce.

In Hickman county, eight upright stils have been built and about 30 trench slogs dug this year, grain being commonly used for enilage.

Porter, Thrice Hart, Plays Greatest Game The Losing to Eastern

Although the Morehead State College Eagles lost their game to Eastern for possession of the coveted "hawg rifle" recently, 6 to 0, the Eagles' passing sensation at the quarterback post, Charles "Izzy" Porter, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Porter, Prestonsburg, is credited with playing in that contest his greatest game.

In the very first quarter as fists flew Porter's nose was broken. But he stayed in there—pitching later in the game, his nose was broken by another enemy swing, and yet he continued to play. A third swipe at the plucky quarterback's nose in the closing period forced him from the game and precipitated a near riot.

Between parrying Eastern blows, Porter contrived to complete 19 of 34 passes, one of which was for a touchdown, but the score was nullified by a holding penalty.

The attacks on Porter were described as "deliberate" and Morehead Coach Ellis Johnson openly declared, "This was the poorest of feinting I've ever seen."

Taylor county farmers sold more than $100,000 worth of fence seed this year.

It has a Way with Women

SOMETIMES we think that too little attention is given to the fair sex in automobile advertising.

After all, it's the woman of the house who has to do most of the shopping, which involves getting into tight places at the curb. And it's surprising what tight spots a Buick can fit into at a turn of the wheel.

It's the woman who likes complete freedom from things that it takes an engineer to operate—and a complete utter freedom from mechanical complications is exactly what makes Dynaford Drive® such a joy.

It's the woman who has an eye for style and fine fabrics—and a nose for economy. On both counts, a Buick is tops.

But we suspect something else. We suspect that a woman gets just as great a lift as a man from commanding this great-powered and trigger-quick bundle of vitality to bow to her will.

Here's a car to win any woman's heart—by its level-gaited stride—its willing response to her hand on the wheel—its smart style and its smart performance—its spaciousness and comfort—and its thrift.

How about taking time off, some afternoon, to boss around a Buick? It's a date that's bound to thrill you.

How the Railroads Contribute to Kentucky's Prosperity and Progress

FOR 121 YEARS Kentucky's railroads have been good citizens, making a major contribution to the progress and prosperity of the Commonwealth and performing a variety of services to advance the interests of agriculture, industry, commerce and culture in the State.

Improvements, expansion and upkeep took $94,000,000 in the operation of 3,860.42 miles of first main tracks in Kentucky—of which $23,690,846 went for new equipment, road and right-of-way improvements. In addition, $77,133,418 was authorized, or planned, for new lines, equipment, and further improvements.

Salaries and wages paid to 29,876 Kentucky railroad employees amounted to $105,243,120—most of which was spent locally all over the State for food, clothing, fuel, housing, medical services, etc.

Purchase of goods and materials took $32,066,473—much of which was spent with Kentucky suppliers.

Yes—for more than a century Kentucky's railroads have been among the State's principal contributors to its progress and prosperity. And today these railroads are more alert than ever to their responsibilities to the people and to the State's needs.

Last Year's Record
In 1950—the railroads spent in Kentucky a total of $238,535,390—nearly a quarter of a billion dollars. Here are the details:

State, county and city taxes took $7,191,890—of which $7,660,047 went to support Kentucky's schools and the education of her future citizens.

The Floyd County Times

Official Organ for Floyd County, Ky.

Published Every Thursday by Prestonsburg Publishing Co.

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Ky., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Four Years Is Often Enough

INsofar as it has the power, the Kentucky General Assembly should act to reduce the frequency of these elections which do much to disturb the equanimity of the individual voters and the normal functions of government.

Election of school boards should not take place every two years, to create new ill-feeling before the scars from the previous biennial election have healed. They should be held, county-wide, every four years, to let the terms of board members expire concurrently with the term of the Superintendent they employed (if this "board system" of naming a Superintendent of Schools is the only method those in power will accept). Every board race is strengthened by the confidence of some individual to become head of the school system, anyway, and for the whole administration to be at stake at one time would hurt nothing.

Like-wise, these city council elections should be no oftener than once in four years. The mayor of Prestonsburg, for instance, is elected for a four-year term. Why not, then, elect a Council at the same time for the same period, so that he can put into effect his program for his full term? At the end of those four years would come a new election, either a new mayor and a new council or a vote of confidence in the old. Meanwhile, the tranquillity of these communities now afflicted by the neighborhood dogfights which are city elections would be undisturbed.

For that matter, The Times can see no reason for state representatives to stand for election twice during a Governor's term of office. Or for members of the House in the national Congress being required to run for office every two years. Why not elect an entire executive and legislative administration at the same election? Constitutional changes, of course, are necessary in such cases.

And while we're about this business of cogitating on the matter of elections, this election, why not all elections under federal supervision? We have an idea this would eliminate much of the crookedness in elections which has plagued every hamlet in the United States at every election when there was only state law to stay the hand of the crook.

Publicity Would Help, Not Hurt

FOR the last several weeks, ever since the discussion of the advisability of making public the names of persons receiving public assistance was heightened by the Indiana case and subsequent Congressional action, The Times has been trying to ascertain if such publicity would have any harmful effect.

And we report that we cannot find, or even imagine, how the public or the recipients of public aid would suffer from such publicity.

Certainly it is no disgrace to receive this assistance if you are deserving. The needy aged and blind and the children who are at the public mercy through no fault of their own are not put to shame among those who know them, in their own neighborhoods, where their identity usually is common knowledge already.

And those who are undeserving—it matters not how or to what degree they are marked for what they are, they, and those who might conspire with them to see that they receive unmerited assistance.

As for publicity reaching those who do not know these people, what possible effect could that have?

The public has a right to know who is being paid. Full publicity would strengthen the confidence in the whole program of the taxpayers who foot the bill. If a good job is being done, it is to the benefit of the program and those administering it that the public know the story, down to the last detail. And if a good job isn't being done, it is to the benefit of the public that the people know it.

Some farmers in Bath county who harvested drought-stricken tobacco early, stripped it out to use barn room the second time for late housing of tobacco.

PRaises UNION WELFARE

Editor, The Times
Just a few lines for the miners' families telling what the Welfare does for the Union men. They have good miners here in Christ hospital at Jersey City, N. J., and I also have Paul here, who has been well taken care of by the nurses.

Dr. Kessler and Dr. Simonsen are fine doctors for the Union. The miners are treated well and get the best to eat. Mr. Louis Harris is a fine man here for the Union. He sees about the men most every day.

The superintendent, Mr. Hargreaves, certainly is a fine man. I think the Union men should appreciate John L. Lewis for the men he has got in Jersey City taking care of the miners.

Little Paul Richie has been here three months and has been well taken care of, and had a successful operation. I think Dr. Kessler and Dr. Simonsen and Mr. Harris and Mr. Hargreaves deserve the best of credit for their fine work in Christ hospital. This is from a Union man's wife, Mrs. Robert Richie from Wayland, Ky. I have been here three months and could be by all nurses and bosses.

MRS. ROBERT RICHIE
In Appreciation

I wish to thank all the people who voted for me as Mayor and for the Bee Hive Ticket. We hold no malice toward any person, and ask those who voted against us to join in and help make Martin a better town.

Rules the Road but not Your Budget

1. Road Test a Mercury for proof of performance!

Watch a Mercury show its stuff when the light goes green. Feel that comforting reservoir of surplus power for safe passing on the open road. No doubt about it, you're the boss when you drive a Mercury. For here's a performer that never wavers when the going gets tough. Mountains are cut down to size by eight cylinders of high-compression V-type 8 power. Traffic tangles unravel before its sure-footed gait. Byways become highways as its synchronized springing and foam-rubber cushioning snub out the bounce and jounce. Little wonder that Mercury is such a fast-growing star in popularity; you just can't beat its combination of performance, value, and prize-winning economy. Stop around for a road test and see.

2. Budget Test a Mercury for proof of value!

- Does it have a down-to-earth first price? Mercury's price tag you can easily understand—a big dollar's worth for every dollar invested.
- Will it keep you low? You save money year after year. Mercury's famous stamina keeps repair bills at a rock-bottom low.
- Is it famous for long life? It is indeed! 92% of all Mercurys built for use in this country are still on the road, according to latest annual official registration figures.
- Will trade-in value stay high? Mercury keeps their value; used car market reports consistently prove it.
- Will you be sure of good gasoline mileage? Mercury has proved its more-miles-per-gallon by winning officially sponsored economy tests.
- Does it represent solid value? Mercury owners say YES! So will you when you get the story from your Mercury dealer. See him soon.

3-WAY CHOICE!

For "the drive of your life" Mercury offers a triple choice in dependable transmissions. Mercury's Multi-Drive, the new simpler, smoother, more efficient automatic transmission—or Thrifty Touch-O-Matic Overdrive are optional at extra cost. There's also silent-see standard transmission.

Standard equipment, accessories, and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.
