This Town... That World

All that Thanksgiving means to some of us: BUMP.

WE'RE THANKFUL ANYHOW

This Thanksgiving, last year and the year before that and back, back more and more years, finds as of The Times as ever. Our publication date, you see, includes what Thanksgiving, and neither will be a inch. Although the majority of our crew could be persuaded to admit they could think of numerous other things they might prefer on Thanksgiving to spending the day at work, there hasn't been a complaint. Nobody in our camp has ever said, "Gee, the profession and we have our holidays as we want them." By and large, even if they do work around a newspaper, they're pretty sound folks.

THE ELOQUENT PLEAS OF WOUNDED MEN

Those who have witnessed their loved ones in the military hospitals which send the blood of our folks here at home to the wounded in the most direct and most effective way, Edward R. Murphy's radio program on a recent occasion. They should have been there carried to the hospitals where the wounded from the fighting in Korea now are fighting for their lives. I heard the boys themselves tell in words that tones what had happened to them and what blood had meant for them when they themselves had given more than they could spare in death by combat with our common enemy.

It's a pity the written word cannot write and tell and show you, but you do not hear these young men's pleas might have been in print before you to make any of you who have decided to join the army or navy or air force, you do not hear these young men's pleas might have been in print before you to make any of you who have decided to join the army or navy or air force, you do not hear these young men's pleas might have been in print before you to make any of you who have decided to join the army or navy or air force.

LEGION CLUB IS HIT TWICE

First by the Lawless, Next by 'Law' As Beer Loss Totals 18 Cases

The American Legion Club at Estill was in trouble during the week from two quarters—first, from the school, and later from the "law".

To start with, three youths broke into the club, around midnight last week, and stole a quantity of beer, and two washes. They returned the washes but took the beer to Perry county, where they sold it, officers said.

Then, Wednesday morning of this week, Deputy Sheriff Frank Crum and John Hagan made the club on a search warrant and took all the remaining beer they could find—eight cases.

They arrested Hester Turner, who allegedly served the club as manager. Turner, however, was not at the clubhouse when the club was raided but left work at a coal pit to unlock the door for the deputies.

Crum and Hagan also arrested J. J. Murphy, of Gto, who was arrested for last Thursday night's break, and later signed a statement in which he admitted that he, Buelo Layne, and Jimmie Joe Gray entered the club by raising a window.

Layne and Gray were arrested Wednesday, and later tried under bond. Murphy was released under $1000 bond Thursday.

Turner, a fourth youth named in the Estill club case, was released Wednesday under bond. He also arrested elsewhere in the county during the week were:

Hargis Conley, drunk driver and possessing whiskey, arrested by Police; James Gray and Pie G. Hill, of Prestonsburg; German Salisbury and Arnold Salisbury, the former accused of selling whiskey.

SUIT ASSAILS G.O.P. WINNER

Election in Magoffin Of Former P'burg Man Attacked by Borden

Election of G. W. Collinsworth, formerly of Prestonsburg, as County Judge of Magoffin county at the November polls is being contested by P'bor Borden, his unsuccessful Democratic opponent.

In the contest action Borden alleged that the ballots which Circuit Judge John Chitt Cornett ordered changed after the previous suit, showed various headings over Collinsworth's name on the Republican ticket in different precincts, thus confusing the voters so that a fair election was not held.

Another allegation in the suit is that Collinsworth, as Collinsworth, used money "or other things of value" at the Cow Creek precinct, openly with which to influence the voters, and that Wiley J. Salyer, Republican challenger at Flat Fork precinct, marked the ballots for the voters.

Other allegations were that Borden was the only legal candidate, and that Collinsworth was not legally a voter, and that Wiley Collinsworth, who served one term a few years ago as Magoffin County Judge, at one time operated a furniture business in Prestonsburg.

WIFE-SLAYER DRAWS TERM OF 21 YEARS

Jury in Adkins Trial Quickly Votes Term Tuesday Afternoon

A jury of the Floyd circuit court rendered less than 20 minutes Tuesday afternoon to agree on the guilt of Lewis Adkins in the slaying of his wife, Talma Irene, in their restaurant here last June and to fix his sentence at 21 years in the penitentiary.

Both Adkins insisted in his testimony that he loved his wife, that she had threatened his life before the shooting and had thrown her hand to her dress bosom in which later was found a butcher knife, the knife which killed his wife. Undamaged School Cited as Example

AMOS AKERS

Built 16 years ago, the Lower Branch Creek school on Mud Creek is regarded by school authorities as Floyd county's outstanding example of a school building undamaged by vandalism.

Although in a rural section and in comparative isolation, where it might be an easy target for those destruction-bred, the school still has its original window panes and has never suffered any damage except that of normal wear.

"We cite this as a sharp contrast to some schools where many window panes are replaced each year and considerable damage is suffered from their vandalism," commented County Superintendent Palmer L. Hall. He added that the "rascals" patrons of the school and its teachers and pupils have joined in assuming the responsibility for care and preservation of the building.

The success of this 4th Christian school is the pioneer in Kentucky. Mrs. J. D. Mayo, R.M., has been the TB nurse since Jan. 1, 1950, and her work during the last year, as reviewed this week by the Association, includes:

Field visits to 1,589 persons; 509 skin tests made in which 85 per cent of those tested were found to have the TB germ; 4,240 follow-up x-rays made and those in whom TB activity was noted were advised to submit to a physician's care. 17 patients being admitted to the new

ASHLAND SANATORIUM, with many treated over the county by auto. The number of miles traveled about up hollows where automobiles cannot drive has been recorded.

The full-time TB nurse employed by the Floyd County Tuberculosis Association because of the county's population and the high incidence of TB in the county.

During the Christmas Seal sale beginning tomorrow more than 7,000 residents of this county will receive seals by mail. This is 250 more than the number of Seal recipients last year, and the County Tuberculosis Association is urging a prompt response in the drive for funds.

The returns from these Seals is explained, supply the total support of the intensive educational and early case-finding program begun this year.

First showing of the new color film of Dewey Lake and the Junior County Extension team of Prestonsburg was made before the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club one of the TB groups which sponsored the movie, at its meeting Wednesday evening at the Victoria House.

The film, in color and with E. B. Burke, Seventh district supervisor, Division of Game & Fish, as narrator, adequately depicts the natural beauties of the lake and its surrounding hills. Shots of the creek casting team in action are designed to show sportsmen's group of learning to handle rods and reel correctly, and to stimulate interest in bait-casting.

William C. Goble was in charge of the program. An added feature was a demonstration by Glenn Reynolds, district supervisor of Junior Conservation work of duck calls.

Cost of the film, which will be used over a wide section to publicize the lake, was shared by the Kiwanis Club, the Floyd County Fish & Game Club and the Mountain Anglers.

Theatre Manager Here Burned in Explosion

W. B. Booth manager of the Strand Theatre here, was severely burned in an explosion in a gas station at the Theatre while he was lighting a furnace. He was burned about the face and eyes and on his right arm.

He has been returned to his home here from the Prestonsburg General hospital but will be unable to resume work for some time yet.

The furnace flame had gone out when the gas had come back on, accumulating and exploding at the touch of a match, it was said.

BOARD OKEHS OLD WORKERS

Temporary Action Taken In Special Meeting Here After Court's Decision

As a result of last week's Court of Appeals decision denying the Board of Education the right to employ non-instructional workers contrary to recommendations of the County Superintendent, the Floyd County Board of Education at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon authorized Superintendent Palmer L. Hall to employ temporarily the bus drivers, janitors and mechanics he deemed absolutely necessary.

Employment of these will continue until the December meeting of the Board when action of a permanent nature is expected.

Wednesday's action of the Board restored to employment Lee Owens, Scott Howell, Walter Porter, Jerry Lafferty, J. James Reynolds and Lawrence E. Hays, bus drivers. Will Reed and Harold Howell as Janitors, and Donald Hunt, as mechanic.

Hillard Meadows, who originally was nominated for employment was reported otherwise employed, and a substitute will be named, it was said.

At the same meeting the Board authorized payment of one month's salary to those it employed in the stead of employees recommended by the Superintendent.

45th Christmas Seal Sale Regarded Most Important

Tomorrow (Friday) the 45th annual Christmas Seal sale will begin in Floyd county, and the Floyd County Tuberculosis Association this week stressed the fact that never before has a previous sale contributed to the preservation of the building as much as this year's drive for funds which will fight tuberculosis.

The success of this 45th Christmas Seal sale, it is pointed out, lies in the fact that funds thus derived will permit the association to continue the work of a full-time TB nurse—a service in which Floyd county is the pioneer in Kentucky.

Mrs. J. D. Mayo, R.M., has been the TB nurse since Jan. 1, 1950, and her work during the last year, as reviewed this week by the Association, includes:

MEETING SET FOR FARMERS HERE MONDAY

Tobacco is Floyd Crop Sought by Farm Group; Fickle Market Offered

A move was initiated this week by prominent Floyd county farmers and growers to establish a tobacco growers' county, and to this end a meeting of all farmers interested in establishing a tobacco growers' county was called for next Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the office in the Postoffice building here of County Assessor Harold B. Rice.

Experience of farmers in neighboring counties, particularly those of Morristown and Madison, has created much interest in tobacco growing, but that first move has been established and it is to determine how many will join in the program and what the size of the available base is established that Monday's meeting was scheduled.

In Morristown county this year the tobacco crop was valued at approximately $2,500,000. Last year's crop approached the $2-million-dollar mark.

Heading the move for tobacco growing in this county are H. H. Pittpatrick, C. T. Hill, Miles Gibson and Homer Neely.

Fifteen Floyd farmers already are growing tobacco. Although the base they have established—65 acres in all—is small, the results have been highly encouraging. "The best tobacco I've seen in Kentucky is being grown in Floyd county," said County Assessor Rice in a discussion of the subject.

The 15 tobacco-growers who have established bases are: Lewis Burdette, James A. Prussing, G. W. Prussing, R. E. Prussing, C. M. Holbrook, Jake Holbrook, Bill Merritt, Ed Coleman, W. C. Hill, et al; Harold A. Grover, Keithley, Harold Edward P. Hill, Prestonsburg; Enoch Spears, Dewey T. R. Prater, Bonanza; Lonnie George, East Point; Jack Morrison, Aubrey; Frank Dresdett, Sloan.

Although the beginning tobacco crop is small, it is a possible one to get a tobacco base. County Assessor Rice said he can do that and yet realize a greater profit than the share-cropper who grows tobacco for the landowner on an established base.

While the move to a new cash crop for farmers was beginning another was under way in the county. This was the enrollment of farmers to grow cucumbers, with a guaranteed pickles market here. John Melton, who has been residing in Indiana, has been contacting farmers of the Middle Creek section in behalf of an Indiana pickle manufacturing company.

Next addition to the service offered by the Bureau is the Auxier Group Is Added

The Floyd County Artists' and Speakers Bureau, established a few months ago, is finding patrons in the larger schools of the county where speakers and entertainers at chapel programs are in demand.

Mrs. Arthur Bradbury, of Wheelwright, who is a native of England, recently spoke at Maytown high school, Nov. 18, on "Floyd County Journalism." Maytown also has scheduled Mrs. Harry Frazier, of the State Teachers' Association, Nov. 28. Mrs. Gertrude M. Hargard, Prestonsburg, who will speak Dec. 3 on "The Art of Alcohol on Family Life," and Mrs. Chalmers H. Frazier and Mrs. Chorus from the Junior Glee Club of the Prestonsburg.

The Prestonsburg and Wheelwright schools have notified Mrs. Lora C. Cook, of the Mountain Glee Club of the Chapel Program, that they will use during the school year about 30 programs the Bureau offers.

Next addition to the service offered by the Bureau is the Auxier quartet, a high school group led by Kenneth Wells. Mrs. Hill pointed out that all speakers and music groups of the Bureau are available to schools and community groups without charge, and asked suggestions for additional programs.

This Is Important

THE Times, which has assisted these many years that the rut our people have got into by following the crowd to the exclusion of most other crops is one of our besetting sins, urges the county farmers to turn into the prospects of tobacco growing.

A meeting will be held here Monday morning at 11 o'clock in the County Agent's office to plan the growing of tobacco.

That tobacco is a cash crop, and a big one, is evident in the figures on Morgan county's crop this year. There, in a county whose soil is inferior to Floyd's, farmers this year grew tobacco which is being marketed for $2,255,000.

Floyd county can't jump into this phase of agriculture and immediately reap all the benefits received by counties where tobacco has been grown for years, and acreage allotments already established; but if it has enough farmers with the determination to get their acreage production, this county ultimately will be one of the leaders in tobacco growing. That is a prediction few, if any, will dispute.

This county needs tobacco and other farm crops which will make farming profitable. It is now depending on one industry, coal-mining, and so is at the mercy of the coal market, with alternate feasts and famines.

A sound agriculture is our greatest insurance against economic depression and loss of population to areas whose industry is more stabilized and varied.

So this coming meeting of farmers is one in which not only they but every Floyd county should be interested.

Floyd TB Nurse Leads Discussion at Meeting Of Tuberculosis Group

Mrs. J. D. Mayo, Floyd county TB nurse, led a panel discussion at the Tuberculosis Institute held at St. Joseph's Infirmary, Louisville, Monday through Thursday of last week under sponsorship of national, state and county Tuberculosis Associations.

The Floyd woman was selected to lead the discussion because of her experience in the pioneer TB nursing work in this county.

"Purpose of the four-day meeting was to promote knowledge and understanding of the TB problem, and costs in Kentucky and to outline ways and means of eradicating the disease: 1. through education of the public and the resultant response to facilities provided by doctors, hospitals and health agencies for early case findings and treatment; 2. through the interest and added skills on the part of nurses and social workers.

Homemakers' PRICE FACTS

Q. Is there any OPS regulation covering anti-freeze prices?
A. Yes. The OPS dollar-and-cents ceilings have been set on various types. Your dealer is required to label containers with the type, strength and retail ceiling prices fixed by regulation.
Q. I heard recent that OPS has a regulation setting ceiling prices on nursery charges. Is this true?
A. Yes. The OPS services regulation covers charges made nursery operators. Any person managing such an establishment must file for his ceilings and post that file for his clients.
Q. Can't dry cleaners raise their prices?
A. No. Dry cleaners and laundries are subject to the services regulation which sets their prices at the highest level charged during the period: Dec. 18, 1950, and Jan. 23, 1951.
Q. If you have any questions about price control, mail it to the Public Information Branch, Office of Price Stabilization, 307 South 5th Street, Louisville, Ky. Please sign your full name and address.

EXCISE TAXES
Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers are allowed to reflect recent changes in manufacturers' excise taxes under a series of amendments issued by OPS. These amendments also require manufacturers to reflect any reduction or elimination of levies.

The federal tax law, effective November 1, imposed excise levies, such as those on cigarettes, distilled spirits, beer, auto truck chassis and bodies, many auto parts, and on gasoline.

Excise levies were imposed on some items for the first time, including electric dishwashers, floor polishers, ice cream freezers, electric garbage and disposal units, and power lawn mowers. Taxes were dropped on a long list of sporting goods items and were also increased on some sporting goods items.

The new amendments require that manufacturers who have listed excise taxes separately in the past continue with that practice in the future.

By amendment to the GCFR, permit wholesalers and retailers to obtain their existing markups on their new costs (including excise taxes) resulting from changes in the manufacturing level, except in certain specified cases where it is established that it was the customary practice of the industry to pass through only the exact dollars and cents amount of an excise tax. This will result in increases in prices where new taxes are added or levies are reduced or eliminated.

Liquor and beer excise levies may be passed to the consumer. However, when sold for consumption on the premises the retailer must, under the restaurant regulation, CFR 11, not allow the ratio of their "food cost per dollar of sale" to exceed the ratio in effect during their base period. If restaurant keeps the cost of their beverages to reflect the added tax they must make comparable reductions in food items so that their markups cover their costs as a whole do not exceed their base period.

Grand Jury Fails To Indict On Stephenson's Instructions

The grand jury of the Pike circuit court wound up its session Saturday by failing to indict as instructed by Judge E. B. Stephenson those responsible for the publication and dissemination of certain election-handling handbills and newspaper articles, but it did affirm in its final report its confidence in Judge Stephenson and Commonwealth's Attorney J. A. Runyon, the two main targets of this campaign "literature."

The grand jury's report pointed to paper articles which were "slanders" in their nature on public officials who were then running for office.

"One of the handbills circulated during the recent election used a picture of the late Sheriff Roy Conway, who was assassinated several months ago.

It also contained pictures of Judge Stephenson and Commonwealth's Attorney J. A. Runyon, referring by innuendo that these officials by law enforcement might have contributed to the Sheriff's murder.

In the election Judge Stephenson, a Democrat, was defeated for reelection by Eugene Auster, a Republican, while officeholder James Conaway, his Republican opponent, Herman Dotson.

In his report on "election practices" the grand jury declared: "It has been called to our attention, and we have investigated that during the last general election there have been certain handbills and newspaper articles which were slanderous in their nature on public officials who were then running for office.

"If the statements put in these handbills were to be believed, it would materially discredit the candidates and officeholders' character and reputation.

"It is our belief that several persons were responsible for the authorship and the distribution of these handbills and statements.

"However, our investigation has not been able to determine all the persons responsible and we do not believe that it would be possible even under a prolonged investigation, to find out the truth and all of the persons responsible for the printing and distribution of this matter.

"The grand jury does believe that the statements contained in these handbills and newspaper articles were slanderous and ought to be false statements and we do not condemn the practice of using such fifth and malicious statements in a campaign.

"We feel that neither Judge E. B. Stephenson nor Commonwealth's Attorney J. A. Runyon had anything to do with the death of Sheriff Roy Conway, and any statement of inference to that effect is false and has necessarily been known to be false by those who published such statements.

"We particularly would like to state that our association with the court is such that we believe Justice E. D. Stephenson and Commonwealth's Attorney J. A. Runyon are conscientious, honest officials and using all the resources the law will allow them in conducting their court in handling the criminal prosecutions."

When the grand jury was convened, Judge Stephenson charged that body to look into libel and election irregularities. He spoke of a handbill, printed in red ink containing pictures of himself, Runyon, and Conway, which was circulated just before the election.

Referring to the handbill as a "disobedient libel," Stephenson instructed the jurors to indict the responsible parties.

Name Elliott to Head Floyd March of Dimes For Polio Fight Fund

Jesse Elliott, of Betsy Lane, director of Floyd county school board, will head the 1952 March of Dimes in this county to raise funds for the fight on polio instances. A. Reed, of Drift, who was listed last week for the post.

Mr. Reed declined leadership of the march, explaining that he and other members of his family are already engaged in other fund-raising drives which made it impossible for him to give the polo fund campaign the time necessary to make it a success. He added that he would accept chairmanship of the drive in his community and would assist in every way possible.

Mr. Elliott was pledged the help of other civic and community leaders interested in the fight on polio. The March of Dimes will begin Jan. 1 and continue through the month. Half of all funds raised remain in Floyd county under the present county chapter organization.

HEALTH FOR ALL

Visiting the TB Patient

The following, prepared by the State Board of Health, echoes the suggestion made by Dr. Marvin Ransdell, director of the Floyd County Health Department, in a Times news story published several weeks ago.—Editor.

The friend or relative who visits a patient in a tuberculosis hospital can be a great help to the patient and to members of the hospital staff who are doing all they can to help the sick person regain his health.

There are several ways in which the visitor can be helpful. First of all, he should go to see the patient as often as possible on the proper days and during the hours set aside by the hospital for that purpose.

Frequent visits at the right time will assure the patient that he is not forgotten, help him while away the many hours of rest necessary for his cure, and counteract the loneliness he might feel in being away from home.

The wise visitor brings the patient the more heartening news from home, although he does not sacrifice truth just to make the patient feel better. The sick person is usually eager to notice consistency and a deceptive statement will make him imagine things worse than they really are. On the other hand, the visitor can stir conversation into cheerful channels, emphasizing the happy and humorous side of the life from home, the company of the job.

There are also diplomatic ways of helping the patient build his confidence in himself, his treatment, and the hospital staff. When the opportunity arises, the visitor can remind the patient that those at the hospital know what is best for him, whether it be in the matter of rest, privileges, food, special medicines, or anything else that pertains to his cure and his treatment.

On this score, the visitor sometimes has a chance to do the patient a great service by encouraging the sick person to stay at the hospital until the doctor says he is ready to leave.

There are times when his long hospital stay and prolonged separation from his family make the tuberculosis patient restless and eager to get back to routine living, before the doctor feels it is safe for him to do so. When this happens, a visitor who has the sick person's best interest at heart will urge the patient to complete his cure at the hospital in order to give himself the best chance of getting well and staying well.

In short, the visitor cannot only brighten the patient's day, but also help him realize that his treatment, his visitor should also bear in mind that hospital rules were made for the good of the patients, including the one he visits, and abide by them.

Kentucky's new Mineral Industry Building—built on the University of Kentucky campus at a cost of approximately $200,000—is to be dedicated to public use this week-end, according to an announcement from State Mine Inspector A. D. Sisk.

Gov. Lawrence Wetherby and U. S. Senator Earle C. Clements will speak at 11 a. m. on Tuesday, Oct. 23, at the building's opening. Others on the program include coal mining engineers, metallurgical engineers, geologists, insurance and labor representatives.

The building, according to Sisk, will be dedicated to "future up-building of one of Kentucky's principal mineral industries—and the continuing safety of those engaged in the industry." The new building replaces a structure which burned just three years ago.

State administrative heads and members of the 1952 Senate will meet at Cumberland Falls State Park November 29, 30 and 25 for a pre-session conference, while members of the 1952 House of Representatives and administrative heads of departments will gather at Kentucky Dam State Park, Gilbertsville November 29, 30 and December 1 for a discussion of matters of mutual concern. It was announced by Commissioner of Conservation Henry Ward. Similar pre-session meetings were held two years ago.

Commissioner of Alcoholic Beverage Control Guy C. Shearer announced today that a "future up-building of liquor licenses will be made, in conjunction with Department of Revenue officials, to determine if some licenses should be eliminated." He said he would be in charge of the program.

James I. Robinson, convicted for the sex slaying of three-year-old Joyce Ann Shouse a year ago, must file a $10,000 bond to secure his appeal. The appeal will be heard by the Jefferson county grand jury suggested a more thorough check of licenses.

Edwin C. Willis, commissioner of Industrial Relations, urged Kentuckians to make themselves familiar with the Kentucky apprenticeship program and to help promote it. The program is a means of keeping the state's labor force efficient and to fill jobs in an expanding economy, Willis said.

Mrs. Mattie Owens, 73 years old, widow of John Owens, died at the home here of Paris Brown last Wednesday after an illness of two years. Mrs. Owens was a native of Morgan county and was a member of the Free Will Baptist Church. She was first married to Miles Ross, and after his death to Mr. Owens. She leaves three sons, Woodford and Wheeler Ross and Ernest Owens, the latter of Williamson, W. Va., and two daughters, Mrs. Dora Sue Sublett, Cincinnati, and Mrs. Nanette Gore.

The funeral was conducted Friday from the Free Will Baptist Church on Corn Park of Brady Keg, the Rev. G. R. Fannin officiating and burial was made in the old Mayo cemetery at Lancer under direction of the Arnold Funeral Home.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Once again Jimmy Robinson has come up with some fine hunting tips, this time on shooting geese. He says the first thing to do is to locate where the geese are feeding. This is not hard to do with a good binocular and a car.

After you fix the feeding place, watch them carefully. They won't feed very long, and after they have left for their lake roosting place, walk over and inspect the grounds. Then ask permission from the farmer to dig your pits.

If you want to be a goose hunter you must know the lay of the land. Watch every field every day and you will know when new flocks come in. If you have plenty of time to hunt, it is Jimmy's advice to leave the flock alone for a couple of days. Then you will get your best shot.

It is best not to shoot a few two days in a row, even if the geese do return. Be sure you fill your pits after you have finished hunting a field. Open pits are dangerous to livestock and trappers.

Don't shoot with more than two hunters to a pit, if possible. Scatter a few times several pits, one per gunner, about 15 yards apart. Don't make your pits too deep. Usually it will rain about waist-high. It should be as narrow as possible, giving you just enough room to stand up and shoot.

After you have dug the pit, carry away all the fresh dirt. Scatter a little hay around the pit. You can make a couple of decoys from the field. Open pits are dangerous to livestock and trappers.

Bellevue Downs Black Cats In Recreation Bowl, 39 to 0

Outmanned and outwitted, Floyd County's Black Cats, led by Coach Conference champion, had no chance in the State's Recreation Bowl last Thursday night when they were defeated by the Big Sandy High School football team.

In their 39-0 loss to Bellevue the Cats were admittedly out of their class. But they were proud to have fought. They made a last-minute drive through four full quarters of a game made more and more of a cold driving rainstorm.

Power of the Bellevue line opened the big difference between the two teams. That big forward wall opened yawning gaps in the Black Cats' defense for the Big Sandy backs, and when the Cats failed to stop them, the Big Sandy forwards were through to break. The Black Cats were through to break. The Black Cats were through to break.

Pat Eubel, a halfback, scored four touchdowns for his team. Tom Pikeville led in rushing with 100 yards. In the previous Recreation Bowl, the Black Cats defeated the Big Sandy team 19-0 in 1941. The Black Cats were through to break.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
Western Kentucky Teachers College, Bowling Green, Ky.

In recent months I have had several experiences that have convinced me that it is nearly impossible for any one, no matter how far he may travel, how much he may learn, how eager he is to be cosmopolitan, to escape from some folk limitations. I suppose that it would be as difficult to avoid all folk thinking as it would be for the proverbial leopard to escape his spots.

Contact with a well-educated person who is remarkably alive on most scientific matters a few weeks ago gave me an insight into some folk-overs thinking that he still has about snakes and hawks. Though most of his education has been up-to-the-minute, he still holds that these two groups of animals are to be regarded as dangerous and therefore, to be killed at sight. In some matters he sees the usefulness of certain species of animals and birds, even those that are persecuted by hunters; but at the mere mention of snakes and hawks, he reverts to the primitive thinking that he and others did in the remote place where he spent his childhood. He and others have naively asked me sometimes what I counted hawks as birds on the lists that I constantly keep. He seemed surprised to know that crows, hawks and would like to know more of them better. I could imagine the strange feeling he would have if he were to engage in the usual counting of migrant hawks that so many enthusiasts practice in late September. I suppose that from motives of vanity and to the party he might count hawks, too, but he would be thinking of what good such counting would make rather than of any consideration of the value of the hawks, in general, to agriculture.

Another well-educated person startled me recently by a narrow religious point of view that I had supposed left behind with the ignorant days that both he and I grew up in. So long have I, and many others, too, believed in tolerance that it came as a surprise to find that this gentleman really distinguished in his profession, used the same phraseology that I always associated with preachers whose ardent denominationalism somewhat overshadowed their zeal for real religion. It is hard, it seems, to get away from folk prejudices and folk thinking.

Annually we see people of really big caliber proclaiming a narrow political philosophy that seems not to have learned anything in the past two centuries. Republicans are

By Lichty

Republicans, and Democrats are Democrats, and there you are! You should stick, though the heavens fall! If your father voted a straight ticket, of course you must do so, too, to keep the family honor! How much like remote Fidelity days do such oratorical flights and non-sensical philosophies sound! A little, a very little, knowledge of history would show many of these consistent gentlemen that political names and principals have so often changed and have so often faded about that what is sound Democratic doctrine now was once the ammunition of the Republicans, and vice versa.

Probably the best evidence of the folk thinking in well-educated minds is in the realm of medicine and surgery. The same person who has his children immunized against all the diseases for which there is an anti-toxin sometimes resorts to the most obvious quackery in medicines and practices. Many of Granny's best teas are still taken by people who would laugh at Granny's ignorance and would also strut their achievements and wealth. It is an obvious fact that quackery appeals to the people who have money; else it would not thrive so much; it could not live on the contributions of the very poor.

There is no especial disgrace in thinking like the folk, but the high and mighty need to be reminded occasionally that they are not so far from the lowliest in their ways of adapting themselves to changing times and customs. None of us should any call to feel too superior to the so-called rabble.

while the husband and wife were quarreling over where Mrs. Adams had spent the preceding night and that when she asked him to accompany her, that she would show him where she stayed, he told her he would kill her if she left the room. This testimony said the woman was unprovoked and offering no offense when she was twice shot.

At that time the children said that they saw a butcher knife lying on the table where Mrs. Adams had used it in preparing a sandwich. The knife was found in the bosom of Mrs. Adams' dress when the body was taken to the Arnold Funeral Home here.

The girls sought to discredit their statement, claiming in their testimony at the trial that they were playing outside the building when the shots were fired.

The trial jury was composed of four women and eight men. The trial was the first murder case for Burns Martin as Commonwealth's Attorney. He was opposed by Edward L. Allen, veteran criminal trial lawyer.

Otherwise, in the court during the week:

The trouble between Scott Prazier and Bill Arnett's wife, Lisa, after a lengthy trial, was settled peacefully. Several days ago, the damage suit filed by Arnett against Prazier for shooting and wounding the former was settled out of court. Then, this week, the murder charge filed in the death of Al Abbott, Creek of Elmer Prazier, brother of Scott, was dismissed. And, Wednesday, Scott Prazier was fined $50 for shooting in sudden affray, this charge growing out of the serious wounding, a few months ago, of Arnett's wife.

McKinley Turner, Jr., was fined $100 for aiding a prisoner to escape, and Mrs. Sonia Burchett was fined $50 and given a 30-day jail term for possessing alcoholic beverages. The sentence of Mrs. Burchett, however, was probated by Judge Hill.

Dismissed were these cases: Thos. Akers, indifferent and immoral practice with a child under 15, for lack of prosecution; Frank Dixon, sold check, and Elizabeth Webb, grand larceny, both for lack of prosecution; Loren Stumbo, child desertion, and S. D. Hughes, carrying a concealed deadly weapon, lack of evidence; Wade Little, Dora Johnson and Fred Johnson, selling liquor, dismissed, subject to re-doctoring.

The order dismissing the child desertion case of Fred Miller was set aside and the case continued. Wiley Nelson won an acquittal in his trial on a charge of resisting arrest.

Pike Hospital Annex Work Scheduled Soon To Provide 64 Beds

Special to The Times

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 15—Construction to complete an unfinished addition to the Methodist hospital of Kentucky, Pikeville, will begin immediately. It was announced today by Dr. Thomas B. Ashby, hospital superintendent.

When completed, the annex will provide 64 additional beds, making the total capacity of the hospital 154 beds. Work on the annex was halted two years ago for lack of funds. Decision to resume construction was made after Methodist churches of the Kentucky conference had raised $20,000 for the installation. The churches will seek to raise a total of $150,000 in their campaign.

The Methodist hospital, which serves a wide area in Eastern Kentucky, took care of 8,764 patients last year. In the territory served by it, there is about one hospital bed for every 2,200 persons. The ratio in the United States is more than seven for every 1,000 people.

The hospital's general area of service includes Pike, Knott, Martin, Johnson, Magoffin, Breathitt, Letcher and Floyd counties in Kentucky, and Buchanan, Dickson and Wise counties in Virginia.

The extent of black shank damage is shown by the fact that there were 300 acres of tobacco in Marion county that they didn't cut a stalk from this year because of black shank.

So far as the County Agent knows, there has not been any black shank in Floyd county, and he expressed the hope that the growers will keep it out.

SALARY RAISE IS SOUGHT FOR KY. APPELLATE COURT

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 15 — The Judicial Conference today approved recommendations of the 1952 Legislative Committee on the Appellate Court of Appeals, and to create retirement benefits for circuit judges.

The conference, composed of appellate and circuit judges, will ask the Legislature to:

1. Raise salaries of the seven appellate judges from $9,000 a year to the constitutional maximum of $12,000 a year.
2. Raise salaries of the seven circuit judges from $7,500 a year to $8,500 a year, effective January 1, 1953, and to $10,000 a year, effective January 1, 1959.
3. Allow circuit judges to retire at 70 and become judicial consultants at annual retirement pay ranging from $1,500 to $4,000 a year.

The proposed raise for judges of the Court of Appeals would not become effective for any judge in his present term. The first judge to draw the higher salary would be the one elected in the Sixth Appellate District next year. This district now is represented by Chief Justice James W. Cammack, Frankfort.

Twelve other judges elected to a full term of eight years would begin to draw the new salary at the expiration of their terms. The six judges' terms in this order: Judge C. B. Latimer, Glasgow, 1954.

Judge Bert T. Combs, Prestonsburg, 1955.

Judges Brady Stewart, Paducah; Porter Sims, Bowling Green; John Macemon, Louisville; and James B. Milliken, Cold Spring, 1958.

The reason for the proposal to stagger the effective dates is a bar in the State Constitution against changing the salary of an official during his term of office.

The plan is to have the four commissioners wait until January 1, 1958, for the proposed raise to take effect. At the time of the court would become eligible for $12,000 a year.

The proposal to retire circuit judges at age 70, if enacted into law, would be permissive, not mandatory. The bill will provide that any circuit judge upon reaching 70, may apply to the Court of Appeals for appointment as judicial consultant.

The high court then would assign these consultants as special judges when and where the occasion demanded. For this service the consultants would be paid according to this scale:

Three per cent of the annual state salary of circuit judges, ($7,500 a year) for each year of service on the bench before age 70, not less than six years nor more than 24 years.

This formula means a judge with six years' prior service would draw $225 multiplied by six, or $1,350 a year. A judge with prior service of 24 years would draw $924 multiplied by 24, or $24,400 a year.

No retired judge drawing pay under this plan would be allowed to practice law. In addition to his salary as consultant he would be allowed actual expenses for sitting as special judge away from the town where he lives.

The Court of Appeals already has a retirement plan somewhat similar to the one proposed for circuit judges. Any appellate judge who serves more than ten terms (eight years) is eligible upon leaving the bench to be appointed a special commissioner of the court at $4,000 a year. This class of commissioner is apart from the four commissioners, however, are subject to assignments of work by the court, depending upon their health.

The Judicial Conference also approved a recommendation to the Legislature to increase the number of appellate law clerks from six to 11. The aim here is to provide a law clerk for each of the seven judges and the first four commissioners.

OPS NOTES

HOME MAKERS' PRICE QUIZ

Q. I've been thinking record albums might make good Christmas gifts. I've checked up on them and they are not so good. Can you tell me what the dealers might raise their prices because of the holiday demand?

A. No record might be raised because of the holiday demand. The selling prices are either frozen by the General Ceiling Price Regulation for small dealers, or controlled by the Federal Reserve Board's investigation through the Kentucky OPS.

Q. As I am planning to bake holiday fruit cakes, I wonder if whether the ingredients are covered by price controls.

A. The ceiling prices on items such as candied nuts, dried prunes and dates, are based on percentage markups on store costs, which vary with groups of products. The prices of nuts sold in bulk are frozen at the highest charge made in the last December-January period.

Q. When our plumber came in this week to check our kitchen drain, I thought he over-charged us. Are there any ceiling prices on plumbers?

A. Yes. A plumber's work is covered by the price regulation, C.P.R. 34. His ceiling prices are those he charged in the last December-January period.

Q. What does it mean when you say you are "investigating" a company suspected of violations?

A. The enforcement branch of OPS has been given broad powers of investigation. OPS is authorized to require establishment and maintenance of books and records, to issue subpoenas to require attendance and testimony of witnesses as well as the production of records.

Q. Can a business firm which has branch stores throughout the country set its ceiling prices on the basis of the highest rate for one area and charge them at all other stores?

A. No. In such cases, the price must be determined by each business which is usually operated as an individual selling unit. If you have a question about price controls, mail it to the public information branch Office of Price Stabilization, 307 South 3rd Street, Louisville, Ky. Please use your full name and address.

DOLLAR-AND-CENT PRICES GO ON USED CARS

New dollar-and-cent ceiling prices regulations covering sales of used passenger automobiles became effective November 20.

The new ceilings are to be reduced at the rate of two per cent each calendar quarter beginning January 1, 1952. They are based on the leveling and harmonizing of prices listed in the several recognized used car guide books and other economic data. OPS announced.

The guide books as a basis for price ceilings have not been found satisfactory as a permanent measure because different prices for the same car and give an advantage to dealers using guide books with higher prices, the agency said.

The new ceilings are to be effective on January 1, 1952, and are based on the leveling and harmonizing of prices listed in the several recognized used car guide books and other economic data. OPS announced.

The new prices do not become effective until thirty days after the effective date of the regulation, copies of which, upon arrival from Washington, will be mailed by the Kentucky OPS to used car dealers.

Former Floyd Contian To Sing at Bowling Green With All-State Chorus

All six are members of the boys' and girls' glee clubs of the Academy. Forrest E. Albert, head of the Pikeville Junior College music department and director of the college and academy glee clubs, said today.

HOG KILLING

If you would like to have more information about cutting and curing meat with the County Agent, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

4-H COUNCIL
 Floyd county 4-H Club leaders and other community representatives will hold a meeting at the Prestonburg hotel here, November 30, at 6:30 p.m. to organize a 4-H Club Council.

At a previous meeting, held at the Prestonburg high school, it was decided that the council should be composed of one 4-H Club leader and one other representative from each community and a representative from each civic club. This meeting was attended by Mrs. W. A. Rose and Richard Sparlock, Prestonsburg; Russell Harman, David; and W. D. Steles, Betsy Layne.

The purpose of the Council is to help plan and carry through a bigger and better 4-H program in Floyd county. For 4-H Club work provides opportunities for farm boys and girls to develop themselves to meet successfully and improve the economic and social conditions on the farm and in the community, and an active 4-H Club Council can do more to promote 4-H Club work than any other organization or individual. County Agent Harold B. Rice pointed out in announcing the meeting.

Dinner will be served to the delegates and will be furnished by the Kentucky Chain Stores Council.

You should greatly reduce the hog's feet at least 24 hours before killing, but keep plenty of fresh water by it. Water will keep the hog quiet and at the same time reduce the contents of the entrails. Avoid chasing the hog. Since this causes it to become overheated. An overheated hog is more difficult to kill and this may cause the meat to spoil.

Shooting is not the best way to kill a hog, but if you practice shooting use a small-caliber gun and shoot immediately. The best way to kill a hog is to stick it. Bleeding is more thorough if the hog is hung up. Sticking is the least painful way to kill a hog because as long as a wound is bleeding it doesn't hurt. A narrow, sharp-pointed knife is excellent for sticking.

If you use a barrel to scald hogs, the temperature of the water should be 135 to 160 degrees Fahrenheit. Higher temperatures may scald the hide and cause the hair to set. A hissing hissopson of lye to each barrel of water will make it easier to remove the scruff.

The carcass will be easier to cut if it is chilled first. Split the carcass and hang it in the smoke-house. If temperature is unusually low, it may be necessary to wrap the carcass in heavy cloth to keep it from freezing. Frozen meat is hard to handle and will not take cure.

Salt, saltpeter, and sugar in some form are the preservatives generally used in curing pork. Salt draws water from the meat and when used alone tends to harden the muscle fibers. Sugar has the opposite effect in that it preserves the juiciness and helps keep muscle fibers soft. Only enough saltpeter should be used to maintain the rich, red color of the meat. A good dry sugar-cure can be made of 1½ pounds of salt, 2½ pounds of sugar, and 2 ounces of saltpeter, this being the amount of mixture for 100 pounds of meat.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD BY WILMA Y

(Opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect those of The Times.)

The annual "key" shoot of the Floyd County Fish and Game Club was held Sunday at Allen. "Looks as if you are going to have another gloomy day," a friend remarked to a member of the organization.

"Yes, we had a bad day last year," and have several other times," remarked the member. "I think it's because we held the matches on Sunday, and that's wrong. I've tried to get it changed to a week-day but have failed so far."

"This young man is not a church member. He does not profess to be a Christian, but he believes Sunday should be treated as a Holy Day. Many fine young men are on the rolls of this great organization. We fully agree with this young man."

Christmas toys are on display. According to the papers, more of the newer ones cater to gambling apparatus of all types. Then we wonder why youngsters from good homes will grow up and take money to "tin" ball games. In an editorial our Times editor recently stated that small-time gambling grows into great scandals. He placed the blame for the failure of youth today upon the adults who set examples that encourage such behavior. How can we expect our children to resist temptation in later years when they are surrounded by betting, gambling, etc., in various forms at home, school, stores, and practically everywhere they go nowadays.

In Michigan five high school teachers crashed into another car. Only one lived to tell the tale. They had been drinking beer. The driver did not like it when an approaching car failed to dim its lights, so he said he would teach its driver a lesson, and drove straight into the oncoming automobile.

The man and his wife, in the second car, were killed, leaving orphaned children. And still some folks surround their children with beer, while others will vote for all kinds of liquor.

Thanksgiving has come again. We give thanks for the great gift of living in a free land, for having the protection of a good government, for the right to worship as each one wishes; for good neighbors, kind friends; for health, food, raiment and shelter; for good churches, schools and communities; for progressive people, for all America signifies and means to each of us.

While I shone so, may we look back to that first Thanksgiving when our Pilgrim forefathers knelt to praise God for His blessings in the midst of hardships, dangers and want? In a material sense they had so much less than we have, but they had so much more in many respects. May we seek again their humility, their labling faith, their high resolve to make a new home for freedom-loving men, whose oppression and tyranny might have no nesting spot.

May we especially seek the beacon of light they brought with them to these strange shores, the Gospel of Christ, which, more than anything else, has enabled America to become the focal point of the world. May we pledge ourselves anew to uphold it for humanity everywhere?

And as further details of the Korean War atrocities reach us, may we not retaliate in kind, regardless of how great the temptation. May we rather see the need for spreading the glad tidings all over the entire world now?

John Adams, our second President, said the destiny of America is to carry the Gospel to all mankind. We cannot do this so long as we spend twice as much on tobacco annually as for the spread of the Word at home and abroad. We cannot do it while we spend five times as much for liquor as for all religious purposes combined. We can never do it till we decide as a nation to put God first in everything every day. If we fail, our children may live to see the destruction of civilization itself.

NEW YORK—Two Czech railroad men who commanded their own "Freedom Train" to get out of Red-riddled Czechoslovakia arrived at their destination—America, Jaroslav Kovalinka, Czech engineer, and Karol Truska, train dispatcher, who last September 11 escaped a shoddy train loaded with 108 passengers into free Western Germany, came by plane from Frankfurt.

Keeping today's little schoolhouse out of the Red!

It takes a heap of taxes to educate a child. Schools, teachers, books, and buses run into a lot of money. As a taxpayer you'll be interested to know that the railroad paid in Kentucky last year a total of $7,191,890 taxes—of which $3,660,047 went to support public schools... including those in your community.

And there's another fact about the railroad which is even more important to you, as a taxpayer. The railroad pays their own way in every way. They pay every nickel of the cost of everything they use.

And in addition to sending three-quarters of a million children to school every year, railroad taxes do a lot more. Parks, fire and police departments, sewage disposal—name a public project, and railroad taxes helped pay for it. Your community benefits right now from taxes paid by the railroad.

What's so extraordinary about this? Just that it's true of no other form of public transportation! All the others depend on your tax dollars for support.

The railroad pays their own way in every way. They pay a billion dollars in taxes besides.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

Offhand, you may not see a connection between a rabbit hunter's site and the potholes and breakers trenches in the streets of Kentucky cities and towns. But there is. For instance, much hunting of rabbits in the wood fields and thickets of Henderson county in my youth developed keen sight for hazardous things on the ground which gives me an advantage over the general run of motorists when navigating streets full of potholes or deep trenches by cross laying or gas lines. But my car's training does not enable me to see them all. An average of one a day, the steel in my axles of the supreme test. Last week I pulled a wheel.

Let's get on with our essay. This is inspired by the adoption law by the commissioners of labor erecting a lot of $33 plumbers for digging ditches (preparing the damage. The city payment of streets digs the holes, then is supposed to make payment as good as new. Why let $35 fee when ditches might three feet long or fifty feet long be explained in the newspaper? I read, maybe the commissioner struck a general average.

The motorist public will not be satisfied until the Government authorities prove their good doing a first-class patching. If they resurface all the holes into the potholes, some cities like the State Chamber of Commerce ought to give the authorities a banquet for each of them with an achievement would in Kentucky—or in any other State, for that matter.

Members of commissioners have an ordinance compelling, when obtaining permits up streets, to post adequate to back up promises to be made. That probably have been a better law than adopted. Holes in streets cause more accidents to take the name of Lord in vain than any other annoyance. And there never was an excuse for them. I have heard people say they judged a city or town by the number of holes in its respective streets. I think they are right.

COOKED FINE DINNER; THREW IT TO DOG!
One lady used to throw her own dinner to the dog most of the time. It made her sick to look at food. She was swollen with gas, full of blood, felt weak-out.
Finally she got CERTA-VIN and says she now eats everything in sight and digests it perfectly. This is the new medicine that is helping so many stomach "victims" here in Prestonburg. It helps you digest food faster and better. Taken before meals, it works with your food. Gas pains go! Inches of blood vanish. Contains herbs and Vitamin B-1 with Iron to enrich the blood and make nerves stronger. Weak, miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on an suffering diet. CERTA-VIN—W. A. CAPITAL Bonding
Warning that the 1952 General Assembly will have before it many tax proposals came from Dr. Arthur V. Lloyd, director of the Kentucky Legislative Research Commission, and that, if certain demands are met, some tax measure undoubtedly will have to be enacted.
He revealed that educators have suggested an appropriation of $40,000,000 a year for common schools compared with the current year's allocation of $30,500,000. The school demands call for "Kentucky appropriations in line with the national average."
The State Department of Education asked for $50,000,000 a year in the budget.
Lloyd cited the fact that Kentucky's per capita income is sixty-five per cent of the national average, and that while nationally there are twenty and one-half children of school age for each 100 population, Kentucky's figure includes twenty-five and one-half children of school age for each 100 population.
Meanwhile Kentucky Education Association President C. D. Redding called for enlarged school appropriations and pointed out, too, that 600 more school teachers were needed for the year to meet the growing needs of Kentucky schools.
"Salaries of Kentucky teachers are now four per cent under the average for other occupations," said Redding. "In 1939 these salaries were twelve per cent above. In 1950, Kentucky appropriated forty-five cents of each $1 for schools now it is twenty-five cents. You can't have average citizens unless you make an average investment."

The public generally was invited by Chairman James W. Sittes of the Constitution Review Commission to make known its desires on proposed constitutional changes following defeat of a proposal that would have removed all limitations on the number amendments that might be submitted at a given time.
The Commission recommended that the proposal be defeated in all 120 counties of Kentucky.
