He executed a mortgage for the $20,000 borrowed, and his attorney, Joe Hobson, testified, Stephens had sought to borrow the money here.

The defense then called on Henry himself to testify. He was not asked to do a good deal.

"I never put a gun on Mr. Stephens or took a dollar of him in my life," he calmly stated.

Presented a check for $250 and asked to identify it, giving its date, he said it was a check for $250 dated Jan. 15 and signed by Stephens. This attempt to show connection of Stephens with Henry after date of the alleged robbery failed, however, when it was testified that this was one of two checks Stephens had made. Henry, each dated ahead, in payment of a $500 debt. He admitted under questioning that it was a "post-dated" check.

Henry contended that his first knowledge of the robbery claim was when Sheriff Charles Wilson, of Montgomery county, called him to say he held a robbery warrant for his arrest.

"I sent my attorney to Prestonburg to find out what was happening, and I told the Sheriff I was going to Kermit, W. Va., and that if he wanted me to call me," Henry said.

The night of Jan. 13 when the robbery was said to have been committed, the second man spent in the Liberty hotel at Kermit, he claims. He owns the hotel and its restaurant and poolroom, he said.

Henry testified that a business practice goes to his Kermit hotel every Friday night and plays poker through Sunday night. He added that he was not out of the hotel through the entire week-end of Jan. 13, leaving Kermit on Monday morning and arriving in Mt. Sterling about 10:30. He did not give the number of the room he occupied there but said it was "across from the address." He also named Kermit men with whom he played.

He said he bought six or seven steaks and ate Sunday night with Ken Kirk, a policeman, who is a "board member or postmaster," and others.

Henry testified he had passed through Prestonburg on several occasions en route to Pike county, had bought car here and was on the check which was issued to him on the Wednesday before his arrest in West Virginia.

Mrs. Dora Stevens, wife of D. C. Stephens, and Miss Hazel Green, bookkeeper-stenographer at the laboratory, testified that they were driving about town, the night of the robbery, and that they saw two men leave the laboratory about 10:30. Both identified one of the two men as Henry. Together they went to the laboratory, between 4 and 4:30 Monday morning, and found Mr. Stephens locked inside the vault, they stated.

Miss Green also testified she called the bank here and stopped payment on the check which was issued to Henry and dated ahead to Jan. 15.

Mrs. Stephens said she had seen Henry only on two occasions, once here and again at the Recreation Bowl football game in Mt. Sterling. Henry, called back for rebuttal testimony, declared he did not attend the game.

On conclusion of the hearing Monday, Judge Hill remarked, "Looks like an interesting case for the F.B.I."

Then he announced he would decide on the matter of bond at 9 a. m. Tuesday.

Henry executed the $20,000 bond, with R. G. Eubank, H. B. Ranier and Henry C. Hale as his sureties.

Stephens was represented at the hearings by Atty. Geo. Hobson, Edward L. Allen and Harry R. Burke, Commonwealth's Attorney Burris and County Attorney W. W. Burchett. Counsel for Henry included Tom P. Senn, Mt. Sterling, William Johnson, Paintsville, and Paul E. Hayes, Prestonburg.

UMW STARTS PLAN TO SPEED TO HELP VICTIMS' SURVIVORS

Washington, Feb. 9.—A special disaster service to speed benefits to families of miners killed in mine accidents was announced today by the United Mine Workers' Welfare and Retirement Fund.

The payments will be distributed with the help of the funds to medical officers at Louisville, Birmingham, Ala.; St. Louis; Johnston and Pittsburgh, Pa., and Denver.

Miners are killed at the rate of six nearly five every working day. Over the past 50 years, 119 miners have been killed every 17 working days—the same toll as in the recent explosion at West Frankfort Ill.

Payment of the special disaster aid is contingent on finding acute financial need.

For the first time, the payments were made a week ago to families of the six miners killed and three hospitalized in the explosion at the Carpentertown No. 2 mine near Greensburg, Pa.

Within 24 hours, $6,000 was paid in death benefits, $250 in widows' assistance and $250 in death benefits. These are in addition to $30,000 death benefits to each widow, $100 monthly cash payments of $30 to each widow and $10 for each dependent child.

After the pre-Christmas explosion at West Frankfort, fund officials flew to the scene and distributed $100,000 in death benefits and $4,820 in maintenance aid checks.

Assistance from the newly authorized disaster benefits also will be made to these families if acute financial distress is found.

Wind-Set Planes Land At Dusk on Johns Creek; Pilots Escape Uninjured

Last Friday evening two storm-swept single passenger planes flown by Harlan, Ky., men were forced down on Johns Creek east of the Boy Scout campsite. The two, in separate planes, were Jarvis Noye, an ex-army pilot, and Henry Farris. They had left Welch, W. Va., a short time before for Harlan, but when they approached the Dewey Lake section they were forced to battle a strong head wind. Dusk was coming on and seeing their gun running low they put their planes down, without injury, in the water-logged bottom.

Last-Ditch Rallies Fail Black Cat Five
in Recent Net Games

Bill Damon's Prestonsburg Black Cats are beginning to put another quarter or so to go to get their last-quarter finishes. They will be winning more all games.

This became more apparent within the week as they staged a last-quarter Carson finishings. They were within a few points of going to net, only to lose because they lagged too far behind in the contests or lacked the stamina to maintain their closing.

Just McDowell in their last game last Friday night, they were behind 32-22 at halftime, by midway the third period trailing by 17 points. "Walt" Caudill at that juncture began banging the nets to score 12 points, and in the last quarter Hughes and Pike continued the scoring spree for the Cats to knot the tie at 52-41. But the last three quarters of the game saw McDowell's clutch and Stephens connect with goals to win.

Against Maytown Tuesday night Maytown, the Cats again netted, scoring only 17 points in a half while the Wildcats were doing 42. They scored 20 in the third quarter and 19 in the fourth, but fell short 68 to 42.

ONG KONG - Naval sources cited the steamer Winona as having been captured by pirates and paid up to $500 ransom to free its captain and an American diplomat who was held as hostages. The diplomat was identified as Edward L. Stansbury, Waterbury, Conn. press attaché at the U. S. Embassy at Taipei, China.

AT LAST I LOOK FORWARD TO LIFE

I suffered for nine long years in conditions in my life that brought me down to a mere skeleton. I had most nearly gained oblivion and hospitals diagnosed my trouble as an advanced vertebrae, rheumatism, arthritis or "shit" have I had my teeth pulled, my tonsils removed, and was condemned to wear a brace in which I could not walk, and could not bear to wear it. I had my teeth pulled, my tonsils removed, and was condemned to wear a brace in which I could not walk, and could not bear to wear it.

The Light of Publicity Is Needed

It is just such situations as Clay county that causes this newspaper and some officials and citizens to reiterate the demands for relief rolls of Kentucky be given full publicity.

Circuit Judge Ray C. Lewis, of Clay county, is authority for the statement that the State is making no effort to investigate child-desertion cases before giving aid.

There in Clay county, it appears, all that is necessary for a woman to get her children on the dependent children relief roll is to indict her husband for child desertion. Welfare workers, Judge Lewis told the grand jury this week, force mothers who apply for such aid to go before the grand jury and get indictments against their husbands as proof of eligibility for aid from the State.

Judge Lewis rightly claims the job of investigating is the welfare worker's and that the courts have other duties. But he did not do a bit of probing, he says, and he found, for instance, one woman who had left her husband to live with another man and who, it was, drawing $51 a month from the State by getting $215 a month from the deserted husband.

In Laurel county, he found, news dispatches state, an expectant mother, the husband being six children already in the family. For weeks before the husband's death the woman sought state help in vain. The husband died in the State, the child is in the hands of a needy mother. But she still is waiting for state aid.

These are isolated instances, it is true, and the entire welfare system cannot be indicted for scattered injustices. But human misery and need is a serious business. More serious is any system under which those not in need get help while the truly needy are neglected.

The searchlight of publicity would cure a lot of these ills. Let the names of beneficiaries of the dependent children, needy aged and blind funds be published, and the papers will inform welfare workers information which they do not now have.

Nobody wants to humiliate the unfortunate. The fact that a man or a woman or a child is poor and must have public aid is in itself no disgrace, and such publicity would not create humiliation. Those who would be disgraced, and rightly so, would be those parasites who are living at the expense of the public when in truth are able to support themselves or their children.

This business of having local committees take what amounts to a cursory look at the records at stated intervals, without permission to make a check on one of the names they see or to make public investigation, falls within the category of the farce, and already some of these Committee members are talking as if they were to be a system of quasi-investigation to controvert a rising sentiment for full knowledge of the whole affair.

It is time for the Legislature to act!

So, if in 1953 you grew one acre of tobacco and had 20 acres of cropland, to arrive at your 1953 tobacco base multiply 20 acres by the crop land factor of .005 and you have a base of tobacco base for 1953. That is the minimum acreage the government allows in the matter of allotment.

There is another factor, too, that enters into this matter, making it a bureau-cratic nightmare. If Floyd county farmers increase their tobacco acreage slightly for next year and there is no possibility they will increase it to any great extent, they will also increase the acreage of cropland going into the calculations. This increased acreage of cropland serves to increase the size of the divisor to a much larger extent while the amount of tobacco acreage is increased only slightly so the quotient or "crop land factor" is much reduced, possibly below the figure of .005.

With a "cropland factor" so low, very few could qualify for a large tobacco base in 1953 and tobacco would be the minimum 1 acre, as any fractional acre below 1 is set up as 1.

With those, County Agent Harold B. Rice disagrees and states that the outlook is not as gloomy as it is pictured. He contends that the law sets up a method called "justification" and that by its application a farmer may be entitled to an "adjusted" or "larger" base than the crop land factor will allow. This matter of "justification" operates in Johnson county on a community basis to allentiate justices and can very well be applied here.

A few years ago, farmers desiring to get into tobacco culture in a large enough way to make it profitable would plant a number of acres, pay the penalty which was 20 per cent of the preceding year's average, and if they had a very large number of crop land acres by multiplying these acres by the "crop land factor" they would have a tobacco base of several acres. But this loophole was plugged in a new regulation. Now you cannot afford to attempt a large acreage, for if you fail to come up to last year's average in quantity, then the government will penalize you to the same extent you failed to grow up to the average.

One landowner in Floyd county has 199 acres of cropland. He grows 6 acres of tobacco. By multiplying 199 acres by the crop land factor of .005 he can get a tobacco base of 995 or 1 acre. But if the crop land factor drops, this base may be reduced below his present 6 acres. At the present time the picture in this county is so discouraging and confused that predictions are impossible in the matter of how much tobacco will be grown. The law and regulations are highly favorable to counties with old and established tobacco. But they are almost prohibitive for new tobacco growing communities like Floyd.

Industries in Jefferson county in 1951 took over approximately 2,000 acres, said to be some of the best garden land in the county.

Hays' Liquor Bill Again Introduced

Frankfort, Ky. - The state liquor monopoly measure which was made a regular appearance in legislative halls since 1948 is back again under the same sponsorship—that of Senator Doug Hays, Democrat, McDowell, who represents the Fayette-Knox-Martin district in the Senate. In addition, Hays obtained approval of a resolution calling on the Congress to provide funds for canalization of the Big Sandy River. The new liquor monopoly bill would be limited to the package field only, allowing private vendors to continue the sale of liquor by the drink.

Hall discussed with officials, Monday morning, the date for examining trial. He sat in the County Judge's office with his shoes off, complaining that his feet are "bothering him a lot." He limped when he walked.

Hall's whereabouts became known to Sheriff Menard and also to Commonwealth's Attorney Burns Martin and Commonwealth's Detective Davidson last week. Officers said Hall's kinsman readily admitted the fugitive was in his home and made no effort to conceal his whereabouts when inquiry was made.

Dr. Sirkle, of the Beaver Valley hospital, said Tuesday that although the girl is physically able to leave the hospital, he has no assurance of a place for her to go where she will receive proper treatment. Friday Night Blasts In West Prestonsburg Cause Slight Damage

Prestonsburg police and Commonwealth Detective Alex L. Davidson investigated over the week-end explosions set off in the yards of Prestonsburg homes last Friday night but said they had not learned the identity of those guilty of the blasts.

One charge was set off in the yard of Mary Wallen, another in the yard of an adjoining home which is vacant. No damage was done beyond two cracked windows, police said. Chief of Police Leo Lafferty issued the theory that dynamite was used. He expressed the belief the blasts were caused by powder sticks and a fuse.

Will Johnson, 56, Farmer, Dies at Beinsville Home Victim of Tuberculosis

Funeral rites were held for Will Johnson, 56, of Beinsville, Ky., Wednesday, Feb. 13, at the home, Mr. Johnson, whose occupation was that of farmer, died Feb. 12 at his home of tuberculosis.

The Rev. was son of David and Linda Hall Johnson and was born on Dry Creek in Knott county. He was a member of the Regular Baptist Church. His wife, Dona, preceded him in death in 1918.

He is survived by one son, A. J. Johnson, of Beinsville, and four daughters: Mrs. Minnie Alshon, Logan, W. Va., and Delois, Virginia and Edna Johnson, at home.

The Rev. Lee Moore officiated at the funeral, and burial was in the Johnson cemetery at Beinsville, under direction of the Arnold Funeral Home.

PEACE OFFER REJECTED, FEUD SPIRIT FLAMED INTO OPEN WAR

There is a branch coming into Johns Creek from the east side which its headwaters gap leading into Brushy Creek. That Peyton used this pass in his contrived treachery the Jackson side knew. On Brushy Creek Peyton had his enemies, too. He had killed Edson Adams, it was said, and when he went to that creek he took a friend or two along. One day, a Blackburn adherent or two disappeared from their homes and Dr. Bob deduced that Peyton had come to Brushy Creek and had taken them alone. And if he went to Brushy he would go through the Pettit Gap of the creek now known as the Columbus Rock Branch.

It has been said that Peyton Blackburn had a small camp near the gap and that the doctor and his men came into it and disturbed some of the camp paraphernalia. When Peyton came back to the small camp site, he quickly noticed a displaced object or two and said to his friends, "I smell Rebel!" At that moment Dr. Bob and others fired. Peyton was struck in the shoulder and other places. Mortally wounded, he fled down the hill on the Johns Creek side while his brother Hiram and "Monkey" will escaped to Brushy. Will's thumb and cartridge bag had been shot away. The bag was recovered by a Jackson lieutenant, who kept it for years.

One of the doctor's men purposed to return to the wounded man in flight had turned an ankle under the turned-up stump of a walnut tree where he had sought refuge. This member of the doctor's party who found him there administered the coup-de-grace with the butt of his rifle. Just who pursued the wounded man cannot be said, for accusations and denials persisted for years. That Peyton's brains were beaten out, to be later gathered up in a silk handkerchief and interred with him, is also denied. It may be just one of the many stories that are retold by the old men of West Prestonsburg.

With Blackburn's death, the return of peace brought calm to distracted Johns Creek. For years the participants watched each other, but no overt act was committed. Dr. Robert Jackson, son of Isaac and Elizabeth Leslie Jackson, was born Sept. 7, 1872, and married Lorena Shelton (1847-1913) of West Hamlin, W. Va. When his wife died he went to live with his son, Robert L. Jackson, a teacher. His other son, Dr. John Jackson, inherited the home place and died there. Death claimed the old doctor on Aug. 10, 1916, in the home of his leecher son. It has been said of him that he was a kind man, and very benevolent in his old age. For long years he was a patriarchal figure beside his horse, sitting upon a great sheepskin saddle, visiting the neighborhood.

He is buried in the Jackson cemetery, within a distance of 100 yards, where John McGuire fell.

Long after, when the trees were cut away and grass grew on the point, the old folks would point out a bare place where they said John McGuire had fallen. Grass will not grow where blood flowed, they said. Of such is mountains lore.

This drawing of first blood in the Jackson faction, and none but felt that the end must be the death of Dr. Bob or Perry. To say that the watch, the stalk and the scouting was increased on both sides to see what oldsters say and what we must infer as true, for the warring factions lived in a close community, none of the participants separated

News Service Says Man Who Abandoned Corpse, from Floyd

One of two young men sought since they abandoned a corpse at a doctor's office and disappeared was arrested Feb. 6.

Deputy Sheriff Irving Paulson on a robbery charge as he stepped off a bus at Fullerton, near Greenup, where the corpse was allegedly abandoned.

Sheriff Arthur Sparks said Henson and Alvin Whitt drove 77-year-old Sam Stone to the office of Dr. H. H. Holbrook, in Greenup, Saturday night and told the doctor, he was a "very sick man." He said they disappeared after Dr. Holbrook told them Stone had been dead two or three hours.

The robbery charge stems from the fact that no money was found on Stone's body, although members of his family said he always carried $200 or more. The charge was filed by Stone's son, Irvin.

Henson pleaded not guilty before Greenup County Judge William Adams and was held under $1,000 bond for an examining trial Feb. 11.

He told the judge he, Whitt and Stone were drinking when Stone died, and he and Whitt took the older man's body to Dr. Holbrook's office because they didn't know what else to do with it.

Sparks said an autopsy performed by Dr. B. B. Hold, an Ashland, Ky., pathologist, showed Stone had died of a heart ailment.

An UP report stated that Alvin Whitt was a native of Floyd county, but a check of numerous sources failed to establish this.

Friday Night Blasts In West Prestonsburg Cause Slight Damage

Prestonsburg police and Commonwealth Detective Alex L. Davidson investigated over the week-end explosions set off in the yards of Prestonsburg homes last Friday night but said they had not learned the identity of those guilty of the blasts.

One charge was set off in the yard of Mary Walsh, another in the yard of an adjoining home which is vacant. No damage was done beyond two cracked windows, police said.

Chief of Police Ego Laferty issued the theory that dynamite was used. He expressed the belief the blasts were caused by powder sticks and a fuse.

was a matter of discretion, for the Blackburn home was not far away. The next morning the two men, accompanied by their host, went out into the back porch to wash. The three were close together and Matt and Peyton carried their arms. Riley stepped aside for some reason and the Rev. Lee Moore officiated at the funeral, and burial was in the Johnson cemetery at Bevinville, under direction of the Arnold Funeral Home.

He is survived by one son, A. J. Johnson, of Bevinville, and four daughters: Mrs. Minnie Arksen, of Logan, W. Va., and Delois, Virginia and Edna Johnson, at home.

Dr. Bob, unaware of the projected infiltration of his rear, was watching the evidence of movement across the valley. Seeing a man escape himself, he fired but missed. Peyton took this shot for his cue to attack and the battle was on. At the firing of the first fusillade, John McGuire jumped for the better protection of another tree but a bullet struck him in the head, and he died instantly. The anger continued for a few moments, but Blackburn's man, creeping around the hillside, began to fire. Dr. Bob thought a larger force was on his flank, and he fired.

Dr. Robert Jackson, son of Isaac and Elizabeth Leslie Jackson, was born Nov. 7, 1878, and married Lorena Shelton (1847-1913) of West Hamlin, W. Va. When his wife died he went to live with his son, Robert L. Jackson, a teacher. His other son, Dr. John Jackson, inherited the home place and died there. Death claimed the old doctor on Aug. 10, 1918, at the home of his teacher son.

It has been said of him that he was a kind man, and very benevolent in his old age. For long years he was a patriarchal figure, sitting his horse, sitting upon a great sheepskin saddle, visiting the neighborhood sick.

He is buried in the Jackson cemetery, within a distance of 100 yards of where John McGuire fell.

News Service Says Man Who Abandoned Corpse, from Floyd

One of two young men sought since they abandoned a corpse at a doctor's office and disappeared was arrested Feb. 6.

Charles Henson was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Irving Fannin on a robbery charge as he stepped off a bus at Fulton, near Greenvale, where the corpse was allegedly abandoned.

Sheriff Arthur Sparks said Henson and Alvin Whitte drove 17-year-old Sam Stone to the office of Dr. H. H. Holbrook in Greenvale, Saturday night and told the doctor he was a "very sick man." He said they disappeared after Dr. Holbrook told them Stone had been dead two or three hours.

The robbery charge stems from the fact that no money was found on Stone's body, although members of his family said he always carried $200 or more. The charge was filed by Stone's son, Irvin.

Henson pleaded not guilty before Greenvale County Judge William Adkins and was held under $1,000 bond for an examining trial Feb. 11.

Henson pleaded not guilty before Greenvale County Judge William Adkins and was held under $1,000 bond for an examining trial Feb. 11.

An UP report stated that Alvin Whitte was a native of Floyd county, but a check of numerous sources failed to establish this.

PARIS — French officials emphatically denied reports—which they described as current in foreign countries—that the French franc might soon be devaluated.

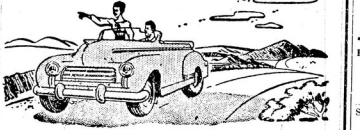

NOTICE All firms or individuals who may sell goods or services to the Floyd County Board of Education should please note that any account to be charged against the Board should be approved directly by the Superintendent or on written requisition over his signature or order countersigned by him.

Johnson Homemaker Makes Model Kitchen

When Mrs. Raymond Lyons, of Johnson county, built her new home, she made use of the information on kitchens which she learned two years ago in her homemakers club. As a result, she has an attractive, time-saving and step-saving room, says Miss Margaret Ponder home agent with the University of Kentucky.

The L-shaped room has built-in cabinets forming a continuous working surface. Beginning at the right, there is a mixing center where staples are stored on step-shelves, so that nothing has to be moved to reach another article. The same idea is used for dishes at the left of the sink. Baking sheets, muffin tins and the like are stored in a file arrangement at the cooking center. Tools, such as knives and spoons, are placed in slots in drawers.

Heart Disease Led Deaths
In Kentucky Since 1930

An estimated 126,000 Kentuckians are victims of heart disease, according to the February issue of the BULLETIN of the Kentucky State Department of Health. Though heart disease is the leading cause of death every month, it gets special emphasis in February to coincide with Valentine's Day and the month-long campaign of the Kentucky Heart Association.

Heart disease has led Kentucky deaths since 1930, the BULLETIN points out, and the percentage is steadily increasing. In 1950, the last reported year, 9,205 Kentuckians died of heart disease.

The Heart Disease Control Section of the Kentucky State Department of Health works with the Kentucky Heart Association in programs of education, prevention, case-finding and follow-through. All programs are carried out in cooperation with the private physician, the BULLETIN explains.

Case-finding is done through heart clinics in Louisville, Lexington, Ashland and Murray. Admission is limited to medical indigents and is by referral from private physicians or local health department physicians only.

Case-finding is also done in reading the x-ray films taken by the Division of Tuberculosis Control. If a heart abnormality is spotted this is reported to the individual's private physician.

During the past year educational activities of the Division of Heart Disease Control and the Kentucky Heart Association included distribution of 50,000 pamphlets, statewide showing of movies, radio and television shows and exhibits.

Training courses for technicians in tests concerned with heart diseases are being conducted by the two heart agencies and the University of Louisville Medical School. Also, work concerning and distribution of professional literature to physicians, nurses and professional leaders have helped bring the latest information on heart disease to all parts of the state.

Flood Study Completed
For the Kentucky River

Frankfort, Ky. — A survey for an "on the land" flood control program for the Kentucky River against its tributaries has been completed, and recommendations for the program have been drafted for review by state and federal agencies.

Commissioner of Conservation Henry Ward announced today that the report is in the final stages of approval before being sent to Governor Wetherby and on to Washington for introduction in Congress.

The survey was started two years ago by the Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture at the request of the Kentucky Flood Control Division and has been carried on in close cooperation with the division.

The recommendations call for a 20-year program of improvement that is estimated to cost $59,077,860. It will affect 41 counties that are either all or partially in the Kentucky River watershed. The area comprises 288 square miles—about 17 per cent of the state.

Cost of the program will be borne by both the federal government and local interests. The estimated federal share will be $36,876,000, for operation and $22,700 a year for operation. The local share will be $22,201,860 for installation and $6,577,500 a year for operation.

The local figure includes all contributions such as labor materials, equipment, to land easements and rights-of-way.

An annual saving of $6,947,800 in relief from flood damage is estimated in the survey. It also estimates an annual benefit of $43,754,500 from soil and water conservation, conservation farming and forest land management to land owners and operators of land involved.

Measures called for in the program are reforestation in the headwater areas, gully stabilization and sediment control, erosion control along roads and railroads, terracing, pasture establishment and improvement, forest protection, stream bank protection and stabilization, debris dams, and water conservation dams in headwater areas.

Ward said the program will be supplementary to work carried out on the Kentucky by the U. S. Corps of Engineers. A similar program for the Green River watershed is now in progress.

PLAN BETTER PASTURES

Progressive farmers in Estill county are already buying fertilizers and grass seed for improving pastures this year, notes UK County Agent Fred Brockman. Results were good in the Green Pasture program the past season, and the county agent expects four times as much improvement this year. Leaders in the program in 1951 advised with farmers about getting grass on poor land. The program will boost stock raising and increase farm returns in Estill county, Brockman said.

Rail Commission Calls For Change in Haul Law

Frankfort, Ky. — The Kentucky Railroad Commission today called attention of the General Assembly to the need for a change in the state long-and-short haul so as to make it applicable to hauls embracing more than one railroad.

Chairman Frank L. McCarthy of the Commission said there was a need to change the law so that intrastate carrying charges shall be no greater than interstate charges.

"All the reasons which justify the prohibition of a higher charge for a shorter haul than for a longer haul over a single railroad apply with equal force where the route is composed of two or more railroads," said McCarthy, "it is our opinion that the law be amended to include the words 'or route' so as to bring the Kentucky law in conformity with the federal long and short haul law."

The Railroad Commission report said the post-war inflation which began to be felt about 1946 has continued and has affected the railroads with increased operating costs.

"To meet these added burdens railroads have sought and received authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission to make several general increases in rates, fares and charges—together with corresponding increases on Kentucky intrastate traffic," according to the report.

"As a means of combating rising operating costs, railroads in Kentucky have sought permission to abandon various station agencies and facilities."

Kentucky's first Constitution was framed and adopted at Danville in 1792.

John Fitch, inventor of the steamboat, is buried at Bardonia, Indiana; and Christopher Reil Carson, famous soldier and pilot, was born in Madison county, Ky.

"SOLVING THE RIDDLE"

Just recently I have reread, for the third or fourth time, W. H. Hudson's FAIR AWAY AND LONG AGO, an old man's memories of his boyhood in Argentina. Every time I read anything by Hudson, I am struck with the great similarities existing between his childhood and the childhood of so many of my own generation. His parents, English and New England in origin, fitted into the strange Spanish civilization of the pampas and came to love of numerous travelers of all grades. The boy grew up out of doors, almost as wild as the animals of the plains. With next to no formal education until he was in the late teens, he absorbed whatever could be experienced and early came to value highly his knowledge of people and wild nature. Like so many of us, however, he had to get away from his natural life on the pampas before he could have a proper perspective and appreciate for what it was worth this educational experience. It has often been the custom to take a country boy's life as a matter of course. Too many people who write have pictured the farm boy as carefree, a healthy animal that does not worry after he has a skinful of grub and a good night's rest.

KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH

You don't have to be a second Solomon to understand the unfairness of a law giving a justice of the peace a percentage of fines he assesses and nothing when he acquits.

Governor Wetherby certainly understands this outrage against the basic, fundamental principle that every American citizen, whether he be on trial for violating the penal code or in search of justice in a civil action, is entitled to trial before an unprejudiced tribunal. So does every member of the General Assembly. The reason nothing has been done to change the unfair law is that victims are small time payers who shell out rather than to go to court. They are innocent, fork over $10 to $50 and go home, convinced that the much boasted fairness of our courts is a lie and a sham.

Overland truckmen are among the drivers who nearly always accept penalties regardless of whether they are guilty or not guilty. They must go on to their destinations. Goods must be delivered. Maybe their cargoes are perishable. Staying over a day to appear in court is unthinkable. Justice of the peace take office because the set-up is already on the books. They allow themselves to be taken to court as a matter of course. They are unthinkable. They were as enlightened in the days of courts of law as Governors and lawyers in the Legislature, they might refuse to accept the office.

What I am driving at is that the unfair law giving justice of the peace pay only when they assess fines has never been well publicized by the newspapers or by public speakers. It is a blot on the statutes of Kentucky that gets little more attention than the beets of its victims.

Writing a law that will provide pay for justices of the peace, regardless of their decisions should not be too difficult. The Kentucky Bar Association might help draft the Judicial Council. And the laws of other states can be provided by Arthur Lloyd of the Legislative Research Council.

I hope to be in Frankfort by the time this piece is published. If I will say that I represent thousands of motorists who may be tried before magistrates whose sense of justice is warped by one of the worst laws ever enacted in Kentucky. Incidentally I might say I have no personal grievance to satisfy, that in sixteen years of driving in the state I have never been pinched for a traffic offense.

In the meantime readers of KENTUCKY ON THE MARCH can clip this article and mail it to their own state senators or representatives. Yes, and you could take time enough to write a letter to Governor Lawrence Wetherby.

It's Loaded—So Be Careful!

Before you drive the Golden Anniversary Cadillac, there is one thing we should like to impress upon you: It's loaded—so be careful!

There's more power in that dynamic engine than you'll ever need—except for the rarest emergency. And it should never, never be used for dramatic display on the get-away.

If somebody else wants the honors when the light turns green—let 'em go. You don't have to prove anything, anyway.

But that great power works for you—even when you're not unleashing it to the limit.

It works for you as a reserve—and gives you that easy, quiet, flowing ride which makes a Cadillac such a joy to own and such a thrill to drive...

It gives you that slow-moving engine—that simply loafs at all legal speeds—and which is a literal Methusalem when it comes to long life...

And it is a primary reason for that unbelievably low upkeep expense, at which Cadillac owners never cease to marvel. Some fleet owners have found, for instance, that Cadillacs cost less to operate and maintain than any other cars they have ever used. And the easy-going engine, that never operates under strain, is a big factor in this economy.

Yes—Cadillac's great power works for you—and is necessary—and is one of the vital reasons why Cadillac's performance is so outstandingly different.

But we trust that no Cadillac owner will ever use it for dominating the highway. To do so is not only contrary to the rules of safety—but it is not in keeping with the graciousness the motoring public has come to expect from the person who sits at the wheel of a Cadillac.

Have you seen this great Golden Anniversary creation? If not, we should be pleased to welcome you to our showrooms—at any time.

Civic Leaders to Meet, Will Hear Gov. Wetherby

Kentucky mayors, county judges, and other civic leaders will meet in Louisville, Feb. 19, to hear experts on industrial, agricultural, and business development, education, and tourist promotion. Principal address at the meeting, sponsored by the Industrial Development Committee of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, will be delivered by Governor Lawrence W. Wetherby.

Robert M. Watt, Lexington chairman of the committee, who will preside over the 10 a.m. business session of Louisville's Pindarus Club, said the purpose of the panel discussion is to stimulate interest in community development on a state-wide scale and to give city and county officials and officers of development associations an opportunity to ask questions of experts in specific fields of development activities.

State winners of the Kentucky Chamber's youth essay contest will be recognized at the luncheon session at which Wetherby will speak. Three college scholarships and a $200 cash award will be awarded to the four State finalists who wrote essays on the subject, "What My Community Needs." Chamber President Sheridan C. Barnes, Elizabethton, will preside over the luncheon session.

New York—Pierre Montel French minister for air, left by plane for home after talks in Washington on ways of stopping the French military plan to send the Mustang and his colleagues on the problem with Secretary of Defense Air Thomas P. Sanders had been "very nice."

NO GAS INCREASE SEEN

A gloomy view of prospects for increased natural gas supplies in Northern, Central and Eastern Kentucky was voiced by spokesmen for the Columbia Gas Company at a hearing before the Public Service Commission this week. Columbia claimed shortages of steel and cement supplies are holding back further supplies of gas.

Columbia supplies gas to distributors and its subsidiaries in those parts of Kentucky. The Commission has been investigating the gas supply situation with a view of meeting gas requirements for additional industry for the State. The inquiry was begun by the Commission at request of the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board.

FLOOD PLAN COMPLETED

A flood control plan for the Kentucky River watershed has been completed by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, working with the State Division of Flood Control and Water Usage. The plan will affect 1,000,000 acres and save some $50,000,000 annually in flood damage and soil and water conservation. The proposal will go to Congress after final approval by the Governor. A similar program for Green River was introduced in Congress last week.

BUCKMAN GIVES RULING

One need not be a lawyer to prepare income tax reports for others, in the opinion of the Attorney General's Office. Mere clerical work and computation of returns does not constitute the "practice of law" according to Attorney General J. D. Buckman.

Governor Lawrence W. Wetherby gave Henderson County Sheriff W. W. (Buster) Brackett, target of an ouster petition for laxity in connection with gambling law enforcement, an additional fifteen days time in which to decide whether he will seek a personal opportunity to testify before the Governor. Brackett, ill in a hospital earlier had been given until February 1 to make a decision.

BRIDGE NOT TAXABLE

A proposed new toll bridge from Lawrenceburg, Ind., to a point near Henderson, Boone county, Ky., will constitute "public property used for a public purpose" and therefore not subject to state or local taxation, Assistant Attorney General, Earl O. Williams advised Boone County Judge Carroll L. Cropper, Burlington.

1952 HUDSON HORNET Four-Door Sedan in Hudson-Alfa Hardtop Styling

Fabulous new HUDSON HORNET has a new lower-priced running mate...the spectacular HUDSON WASP

THE 1952 HUDSONS ARE READY FOR DELIVERY AT HUNTER MOTOR SALES, MARTIN, KY.

We are ready to give you a demonstration. Hudson has gone all the way and we are very happy with the results. These two cars together with the luxurious Commodores and beautiful low price Pacemakers are unsurpassed for beauty, durability, comfort and safety.

They are the only cars built that have the Mon-Bilt frame with step-down design giving additional safety with the low center of gravity. You can't buy human life but a dollar spent wisely might save the one you have. They are the only cars built with safety mechanical brakes that work on the same pedal if the hydraulic brake should give away.

For durability read the results of the grueling stock car races that were run in several different states in 1951. Stock car race drivers are the best judges of the tough motor, Marshall Teague, Pim Flock and several others drive the Hudson Hornet, because Flock, who had at first driven competitive cars, changed to the Hudson Hornet and won. As Floyd Clymer, automobile expert for Popular Mechanics states: "They are a wild cat on wheels."

For satisfaction read what Hudson owners have to say—

John Hall, of Allen, states: "I have given my order to Hunter Motor Sales of Martin for my 1952 Hudson Hornet. This is the second Hudson I have owned, and, believe me, I am more than satisfied."

This is only one of the many testimonials we receive.

We have several orders for 1952 Hudsons on our file. Why not come in, get your demonstration and judge for yourself.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

BY WILMAY

(Opinions expressed herein 'do not necessarily reflect those of The Times.)

Much interest has been shown in the bill to change the law that school children at which the child shall be permitted to enter school. For years many have hoped to see youngsters who are six during the first semester allowed to enroll the previous fall. With no kindergarten available in many small communities, the age of seven proves disadvantageous to most children, for a number of reasons.

The Heart Fund campaign is on at present, and is worthy in every way of the rest of the drive. None of them should be dispensed with. All render an invaluable service to husband and are desperately needed. If in the field of research alone, vast strides toward improvement and advancement have been made in relation to the different diseases included in our annual fund-raising campaigns, since these improvements were started. But one does not realize another begins and the prominent citizen who said he does not reach for his billfold six months in the year every time he saw a man cough was precisely correct.

The point to the above paragraph is simply that much time, effort and footwork for men and women would be saved if we had one Community Chest each year, a major consolidated drive for a half-dozen months. Most persons would donate a minimum of one day's pay. Many could and would give more. Firms which contribute generously would be delighted to make one check for their many donations. A committee composed of the heads of the various enterprises could easily decide what the best division of funds subscribed would be.

Scout time again, too, any every-one rejoices to see these splendid organizations making such wonderful progress in Eastern Kentucky. No organization does more for youth than Scout work. It is a great pity that so many towns and villages have none. Usually this is due to lack of leadership. We need to realize that our good boys and girls are and is willing to devote some time and study to the work can qualify in time. Willingness to serve is a requisite, modest, and as a result of this youngsters often say sadly, "We don't have a troop any more, for there is no one to lead us."

We have previously quoted in this column the saying, "It is easier to build boys than to repair men," and repeat it frequently now. Scout work goes a long way towards producing future citizens of the highest type. We have some splendid troops and leaders in our county and should boost and encourage them at every opportunity. Youngsters who are engaged in Scout activities seldom find time for mischief of any type.

It is hoped that some day the Scouts will take over the idea of a Popover Trail for Floyd county, if only to plant one from Lanes to Dewey Lake, as a starter.

The bill providing that private hospitals shall be licensed is a timely one. The Courier-Journal editorial on the subject was excellent. At present Kentucky is one of only five states lacking this provision. Doctors all over the state are to be commended for supporting the measure.

Of all public places, our hospitals should be the most sanitary, but so often this is not true. Strict enforcement of the law will be necessary for the maintenance of high standards by those who do not care enough for cleanliness to provide it voluntarily.

The Courier-Journal did not hesitate to point out the dangers that can and do result from inefficiency and low standards in hospitals, operated more for profit than for service obviously.

This is just one of several hospital laws sorely needed to insure the public safety and welfare. The most encouraging aspect pertaining to the matter is the fact that our good doctors are backing such measures.

PITTSBURGH — A prisoner in the Allegheny County workhouse was charged with the near fatal shooting a year ago of Janet MacKrell, pretty 24-year-old Pittsburgh school teacher. Police said Mrs. MacKrell positively identified Lawrence Robinson, 24, of Erie, as the man who fired a bullet into her head when she refused to hand over her money.

The Boy Scouts of America have honored the memory of the late 1910 for saving the lives of others.

Tokyo—Japan's government was reported to have discarded plans for a defense ministry in order to avoid objections from other Pacific nations.

LESPIDEZA PAYS OFF
Coleman Foster and son, of Breckinridge county, report a larger income from Lespedeza seed on a 30-acre field the past year than from the wheat crop on the same field. Lespedeza was seeded on the wheat in the spring of 1951. Mr. Foster told Robert L. Randolph, county agent with the University of Kentucky, that the yield of seed was approximately 400 pounds to the acre. Half of the crop was sold to a seed dealer for $2,500.

Annual Report for 1951 Of Conservation District

The farmers of Floyd County organized a Soil Conservation District February 28, 1951. Bill Stoney, Virgil Smith, J. E. Clarke, and R. C. Barnett were selected supervisors of the district.

Most of the land in our district, and we, the supervisors, are deeply interested in improving the situation that exists. Approximately 85% of the land in our district is rough mountain land, of which a large part is in woods.

The protection and management of our existing woodland and the planting of new areas is being encouraged. Many acres of our hill land at the present time are idle and are making little, if any, contribution to the family income. We feel that the best way to utilize this land is to plant trees on the hill and to establish permanent pasture on the better parts, thereby conforming to proper land use and treatment in accordance with the needs and capabilities of the land.

In order to establish desirable pastures, it is necessary to seed the existing woods and legumes, such as clover, orchard grass, sericea and ladino clover on seed beds well-prepared and fertilized.

Being in a mountain county, land suitable for cultivation is very much limited. Much of the land will need some form of drainage in order to get the most efficient use. We think that, working together through existing groups in our district, we can get this job done faster and better.

Some of our cooperators have installed tile drainage and constructed diversions during the year. They are very much pleased with the results and their neighbors are making plans to do the same thing this coming year.

In order to assist the district in carrying out needed soil conserving practices and land use changes, the Soil Conservation Service has assigned technical personnel to assist. A full time conservator and a part time soil scientist, were made available during the last year. Due to illness of the conservator, our work was slowed down considerably.

The educational work that has been done in various communities is arousing considerable interest among farmers. Many farmers are now asking the supervisors for technical assistance for the coming year.

We believe in, and are working with, the young people as well as with the adults.

The ways in which we have encouraged soil and water conservation is by working with landowners and young folk in the schools in the county. We worked with local business firms and secured prizes to be given in an essay contest on soil and water conservation. Local cash prizes in the amount of $80, were contributed by The Bank Josephine, The First National Bank and The First Guaranty Bank. We plan to continue and to intensify this contest in 1952.

In addition to the help from these sources, the district has received admirable cooperation from the P.M.A., Extension Service, Vocational Agriculture, the local school administration and the Floyd County Times.

The overall objective of the district is to bring about needed land use adjustments and treatment whereby all of the land in the district will be used and treated according to its natural capabilities and needs. All people and groups of people residing within the district boundaries will be encouraged to participate in this objective.
