This Town— That World

WHO SAID, "SOLID SOUTH"
Well, here it is that election prediction promise for this column—exactly as it was written last week: "Eisenhower to win by the electoral margin. Mr. Dewey in the South."

Mr. Dewey's party will carry Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania. Kentucky one of those to remain Democratic.

That's on Wednesday morning, Nov. 5.

A lack of a way to be observed in a birthday. None of your business which birthday. I have just found Brad Lovel. Had to go to school here. It is difficult to locate me as it was not to find him, a Wednesday morning four years ago. That there was a certain contest where they'd been certain these five boys were. I should have known better than to stop. But I passed anyway. And when I was of age he explained why they're looking for those black boys. "Need 'em for pallbearers for that Roosevelt," he chuckled. It's a sad, sad humor that gives it. Without this happy family the country wouldn't make it through a better election. Without it we'd all carry the blame on past election. But a good laugh breaks any tension there may be and we all get down together, or afterwards for an hour or four—no criticism, praise, argue, cuss some, pray a little, try in our own individual ways to be better good citizens and never to forget that this country of ours is bigger than any one man or all the politicians.

WORKED BOTH WAYS

Young Bill Jones, of Prestonsburg, is a member of a dual-purpose election board. Election day, he carried a badge which read "Clad for Adlai." Next morning he simply carried it over. This time it read "Sue for Adlai."

SAYS BUYERS, SELLERS HIDE

At Tuesday's Election As Result of Tax League Reward and Poll Watch

There may have been vote-buyers and vote-selling in Floyd County, Tuesday, but if it was under cover, said a director of the Good Government Taxpayers League Wednesday of this week. "That's at least a start in our progress to clean up Floyd county," he added.

The consensus of opinion was that little money existed in the hands of either party for vote-buying. "Strikers" so often a feature of the polling place grounds were noticeably absent according to observers.

To date no one had come forward to offer information on violation of the Corrupt Practices Act and claim the offered $100 reward. In Elder League but it was indicated by a Taxpayers League director that a survey of the election will be made this week. Observers, had not yet reported no actual violation of the Corrupt Practices Act.

"If we have run the money to cover or under-cover," said Edward B. Leslie, League president, "then we have accomplished something. It may take a generation to completely eliminate the money for corrupt purposes," he added.

STATE MARGIN OF STEVENSON YET DOUBTFUL

Floyd Gives Democrats Wide Edge; Cooper and Carl Perkins, Winners

The election picture in Kentucky as Wednesday night was this: Stevenson and Stevenson sweeping leads in the Presidential race, with the Democrats considered a slight favorite to hold the state's electoral vote in its traditional Democratic column.

John Sherman Cooper, Somerset Republican, elected U. S. Senator for his unexpired term of two years over the incumbent, Thomas R. Underwood of Lexington. Underwood conceded the election, Wednesday afternoon when Cooper held a lead of 20,000 votes.

Perhaps six of the state's eight Congressional delegations holding leads are Republican. Republican Congressman James Golden, of Pineville, was a sure winner in the eighth, as was John M. Hatcher, Jr., of Louisville, in the seventh.

Among the Democrats considered holding safe victory margins was Congressman Carl D. Perkins, of Hindman, who trailed Curtis Clark, Mayor of Prestonsburg, in the early returns. A report aired in Huntington, W. Va., Wednesday night, said Perkins at that time was holding a 10,000-vote lead.

Other members of the Democratic Congressional delegation holding leads are Frank L. Chief, Garrett, L. Withers, John J. Gregory, Brent Spence and Noble C. Watts, all in unexpired terms.

While Kentucky as a whole was being uncertain about its political leanings, Floyd county was running up a resounding majority for all Congressional candidates in a record total vote of 13,178. This vote was topped only in the 1949 congressional election when 13,271 votes were tabulated. Winning 50 of the county's 63 precincts, Gov. Stevenson polled 8,240 votes to 4,258 for Gen. Eisenhower. Senator Underwood and Congressman Perkins had majorities in all but six precincts of the county. Underwood's total was 8,292 to 4,181 for Cooper and Congressman Perkins led Clark, 8,479 votes to 4,207.

Two Democratic candidates in this county, James Carter for Coroner and Jewell D. Fitzpatrick for Constable in District 1, were unopposed. Returns for the Floyd county election officials were available in only two or three other counties over the enlarged Seventh District.

NOV. 9 DATE IS ANNOUNCED

When Voters May Begin Listing Precinct Moves; 80 Are Denied Ballot

While the vote-count was under way here Wednesday, voters were reminded that they may begin, any time five days after the election, to have their voting registration changed to their present precincts if they have moved from the precinct in which they were originally registered.

KE WINS BY LANDSLIDE

THE ELECTION AT A GLANCE

This was from the election picture Wednesday night. Eisenhower was elected by the largest popular vote over given to a presidential nominee.

Eisenhower's popular vote was 31,024,749 and Stevenson's 24,948,441 with 121,496 out of 146,351 precincts counted.

Eisenhower led in 36 states with 442 electoral votes, Stevenson in 9 with 89.

Eisenhower swept key states in the North, Midwest, farm area (voted Democratic in five elections), several southern states—including Florida, Virginia, Texas and Tennessee—and won border states like Maryland and Oklahoma.

Senate races—Democrats elected 12, holdovers 35, total 47; Republicans elected 23; holdovers, 26 counties. Morse, now independent, total 49. Needed to control 49. GOP picked up six seats from Democrats (Arizona, Connecticut, Kentucky, Michigan, Wyoming, Maryland). Democrats picked up four seats (Montana, Missouri, Massachusetts and Washington).

House—855 races—Democrats elected 305, Republicans 219, third parties 1; undecided 10. Needed to control 218.

93 races—Democrats elected 9; Republicans 19 (gain of 4). Democrats leading in 1, Democrats 1 total GOP gain if present lead holds—53.

WOMAN HELD WITHOUT BOND

In Death of Husband, Richard Weddington, Johns-Cr. Resident

Mrs. Leslie Ford Weddington, 36-year-old Johns Creek woman, was held without bond Wednesday in the Pike circuit court grand jury to answer to a possible murder charge in the death from a shotgun wound before breakfast last Saturday morning of her husband, Richard Weddington, 42.

Mrs. Weddington was in a state of near-collapse when the case was called for examining trial Wednesday before County Judge Ervin Pruitt at Pikeville, and authorities agreed she was unable to attend the hearing.

Children of the couple, however, were privately questioned, and Judge Pruitt said he "understood" this information was gained.

Weddington had been employed at Detroit and was at home on a Tuesday. There had been some family trouble. Bert, the couple's 14-year-old son, heard the report of a shotgun and rushed into his parents' bedroom, meeting his mother with a shotgun in her hands. She brandished the weapon over a bank. He found his father in a dying condition.

The Weddingtons, both members of prominent families of the section, were the parents of five children, aged 6 to 17. They resided on Coney Fork of Johns Creek.

FLOYD NEEDEY GET $377,093

In Nine-Month Period; State Agency Reports; Monthly Pay Increased

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 31 (Sp.)—The Department of Economic Security today reported that in the nine-month period ending Sept. 30, public assistance payments totaling $377,093 were paid to residents of Floyd county for old-age assistance, aid to dependent children and aid to needy blind.

Commissioner of Economic Security W. E. Barnes reported that of the total payments in Floyd county, $192,206 went to the needy aged; $171,732 to the upkeep of dependent children, and $133,155 to the needy blind.

Average payment in Kentucky for aged assistance during the three quarters of 1952 is $21.12 to the old people who received monthly checks.

Suits Ask $60,000 In Death of Child, Injury of Another

Damages totaling $60,000, are asked in two suits filed in the Floyd circuit court after the death of one child and the injury of another. Octavia Finney, administratrix, filed suit against the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company for $50,000 damages in the death of 18-month-old Manuel Lee Rhodes, who was killed by a train near Ivel, Oct. 19, 1951. Named as co-defendants in the action were Edward Bevis, engineer, and Bill Sowders, fireman of the train which hit the child. The company's two employes are accused of gross negligence and carelessness in its operation of the train.

The second suit asks $10,000 damages in the injury of Daniel Houston Stephens by the auto of Ollie Hall which was driven by Arnold Whitaker. Negligence and carelessness was alleged in the suit, filed by the child's mother, Mrs. Viola Stephens. The child's leg was broken.

34th ANNUAL MEETING HELD

By Women's Clubs Here Saturday; Two Officers For District Are Named

The 34th annual meeting of the Seventh district, Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, at the grand ballroom here Saturday was marked by the presence of seven state federation officers and by address given by Mrs. L. D. Thompson, president of the Kentucky Federation, and Miss Chloé Gifford, third vice-president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Two district officers were elected at the annual election of officers, held Saturday afternoon. Mrs. On Howard, of the David Club, at Glasgow, vice-governor and Mrs. Thomas Hatcher, of the Lackey-Garrett Club, as recording secretary. The term of Mrs. O. J. Williams, Betsy Layne, as district governor does not expire until next year. The new officers were installed by the state president, Mrs. Thompson.

"In the Big Things We are As One" was the topic of Mrs. Thompson's talk. The state president declared improvement and development of woman-power for increased service is one of the main objectives of club work. She also pointed out.

Allen Man Is Right Busy But He Makes Farm Pay

Virgil Smith, diversified farming exponent, standing in the midst of his turkey flock.

"You have to give turkeys hospital care," says Virgil Smith, of Allen, who, although not a turkey king, certainly raises more of the birds than anyone else in Floyd county. He has 360 big toms that he raised from day-old birds. If you go through his turkey house and lots you see the white walls, roosts and feeding utensils. It is indeed a hospital for fowls.

"Last year blackhead nearly wiped me out," said Smith, when he talks you gather that this disease is the most deadly enemy of turkeys. Sanitation and "hospital care" will insure a high rate of survival.

ACCUSE MAN OF NEGLIGENCE

Of His Invald Mother Who Dies as Fire Razes Pike County Residence

A charge of criminal neglect was lodged this week against Reed Bartley, of Pike county, after his invalid mother, 89-year-old Sally Bevis Bartley, had burned to death in his home on Ferguson Creek last Wednesday.

Bartley, it was said, was away from home at the time of the blaze. He later was quoted as saying he intended to go to Ohio and that the county could bury his mother.

Mrs. Bartley had been bedridden nine years with arthritis. An inquest over her charred body was held last Thursday by Pike Magistrate B. E. Moore, a former resident of the Garrett section of this county.

O. W. Lawson, Pikeville fire chief, said the Bartley house was practically burned to the ground when firefighters arrived on the scene about a quarter of a mile east of Pikeville.

Lawson said the blaze apparently started in the Bartley house from a gas heater then spread to adjoining buildings, one on the east and one on the west.

Handcuffed firefighters prevented the blaze from destroying other frame houses and buildings that line the Ferguson Creek road. One other building was badly scorched.

Damages involved on the $100,000 by Bud Love, owner of one of the houses destroyed with the Bartley home.

SCHOOL JOBS ARE DELAYED

Special Board Meet Planned Next Week To Study Buildings

The County Board of Education reported from the field election battle, late Tuesday, to hold its regular meeting but the major work of awarding contract in two school buildings which had been planned was not done.

Superintendent Virgil O. Turner explained that plans for the buildings were held up for one week. Architects have been asked to be at the meeting and to reach an agreement with the Board about what can be done to make changes in design which would result in cheaper construction costs.

"We want to thrash out on this whole building program at this meeting," Mr. Turner added.

The Bosco and Legion buildings will be re-advertised and lot to contract at the earliest possible moment after the plans are revised, he indicated.

At Tuesday's meeting the Board decided to hold a special meeting. Mr. Turner said the Board had adopted a plan whereby teachers will receive their monthly pay in record time, with undue delays eliminated.

FLOYD VOTE PROBE SEEN

Knott and Breathitt Counties Also Listed For Poll Investigation

Word received here from Louisville said three Floyd county voting precincts may be under investigation.

Shortly before it became known here that Senator-elect John Sherman Cooper had reported hearing of election irregularities in Knott and Breathitt counties, Curtis Clark, Republican candidate for Congress from this district, told of his unsuccessful attempt to have representation in Breathitt county.

Clark said he sent Breathitt 16 men to represent him and that some were run out of the localities to which they were assigned. Tires of a car driven by one of the group were slashed by a knife, he said.

Cooper said evidence submitted to him is not conclusive. But he asserted in an interview, if the charges are proved he will seek federal action against those involved.

His campaign manager, Thurston B. Morton, wired the counties' officials seeking cooperation in a probe.

Cooper's report came when he was leading his Democratic opponent, incumbent Tom Underwood, of Lexington, by more than 15,000 votes for a two-year term.

Cooper declined to specify the nature of the reported irregularities. However, no reports of election returns were received in Louisville Tuesday night from the counties. A report came in from Knott about 11:30 a.m., Wednesday, after Cooper's talk with a newspaper reporter.

"I do not know if my reports will be appreciated," but I'm sure of vote frauds in Kentucky. I'm going to do all in my power to stop them, whether it involves by own part or any other."

In these instances, however, Cooper said the reported irregularities involved Democrats.

The report from Knott county covered nine of its 26 precincts. It gave Governor Adlai Stevenson 2,933 votes to 594 for Dwight Eisenhower and 2,173 for Senator Underwood to 554 for Cooper.

SOLID SOUTH STATES JOIN GOP COLUMN

Record Vote Is Polled As Republicans Sweep All Except 9 States

Tuesday was V-Day all over again for Dwight D. Eisenhower, the American who as supreme Allied commander generalised the armed might of this and other countries to World War II victory in Europe, and his winning battle this week broke him the Presidency of the United States.

"Ike" won by a landslide over his Democratic opponent, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, and so soon he not only crosses the "solid south," but also probably forever ended the one-party system in the states south of the Mason-Dixon line.

Upwards of 60,000,000 votes, the greatest outpouring of ballots in the election in U. S. history, were polled during the day, and the message of the ballot boxes revealed was so conclusive that Governor Stevenson conceded the election by 1:30 a.m. Friday.

Although the count in some states, including Kentucky, was not complete Wednesday night it was believed that the new President had swept all but nine states. Among the states in the Eisenhower column were his opponent's own Illinois, the South's Florida, Virginia and Texas with the Tennessee results in doubt. Oklahoma and Missouri, a few days ago regarded as certain Stevenson states, had joined Eisenhower.

All the "key states"—Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, California and New York—were safely won by the Eisenhower ticket, led the Democratic party of Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana and West Virginia and possibly Kentucky.

In Springfield, Mo., Stevenson spoke mostly in conceding the election, talking on Americans to "close ranks" and pledging the victor his support. Whimsically explaining that he was much like the little boy who said he was "too big to cry and too hurt to laugh."

Control of both House and Senate remained in doubt in mounting returns from Tuesday's record-smashing election.

JOHN STUMBO, CAMPBELL WIN

Administration Forces Retain 3 Board Places In Spirited Campaign

Administration forces won with comparative ease at Tuesday's election the two races for Floyd County Board of Education. J. E. Campbell, incumbent, winning in Educational Division No. 5 over Forrest Johnson, and John M. Stumbo, Jr., defeating Oscar Bush in Division 3.

A spirited campaign for the two places began being out the record Floyd county vote. Dr. W. D. Osborne, the third Administration candidate, was unopposed in Division 4. The vote in Divisions 3 and 5, by precincts:

Elmer Davis To Lecture At Transylvania College

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 3.—Elmer Davis, radio commentator, political observer, and news analyst, will deliver the first of the Edwin Rogers Embree lectures at Transylvania College at 8 a.m. November 12, 13, and 14. The lecture will be in the chapel at Morrison college.

Transylvania was one of five schools in the college selected by the John Hay Whitney Foundation of New York City to participate in the series of lectures named in the honor of Edwin Rogers Embree, consultant to the foundation at the time of his death.

In his opening lecture, Davis will discuss the political prospects of the new administration in dealing with water, foreign and domestic problems. His second address will deal with the probable relation of the next president to Congress and a background of a general study of presidential Congressional "antagonistic cooperation." The third lecture will stem from the two authors and from developments between now and the time of the lectures.

A three day conference on general education for college leaders and other interested persons from throughout the country, utilizing outstanding educators in the field of science, social science, and the humanities will be held by Transylvania concurrently with the Embree lectures.

New Fires Break Out In Kentucky Forests

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 5.—Twenty-seven new fires erupted today in Kentucky forests. State Forester Edward B. Newland said most were deliberately set.

Today's outbreak cast a dismal shadow over the state's 39 protected areas. Newland said the weatherman predicted higher winds and promised no rains.

Today's outbreak brought the total to 38 fires covering a total of 3,225 acres. More than 200 men are on the line fighting the fires.

The hardest-hit areas are in the Eastern and Southeastern regions. In the Eastern area there are 12 fires covering 888 acres and in the Southeastern section there are 13 fires covering 1,170 acres.

Prestonsburg, Paintsville To Clash Here In Annual Tilt Friday Night

NOV. 13 GAME HUGHES' LAST

In High School Play; P'Burg Triple Threat Back Hailed in Story

Paintsville, Ky., Nov. 4 (Sp.)—Of special interest to the hundreds of fans who will witness the Big Sandy Bowl game here Thursday night, Nov. 13, will be the fact that John Delmar Hughes will be playing his final game for the Prestonsburg Black Cats as his team meets undefeated Lynch.

Eastern Kentucky fans agree that the brilliant Prestonsburg quarterback is probably the outstanding player in the history of the Big Sandy Conference. Many of his feats listed in the following story by Gordon Moore which appeared recently in the Courier-Journal:

"John Delmar Hughes, Prestonsburg's brilliant triple-threat quarterback, is destined to become Eastern Kentucky's all-time athletic great, and his gridiron feats continue to fill the weekly record books.

"This versatile 17-year-old, six-foot-one-inch 180-pound youth has the agility of a top performer as he excels in football, basketball and baseball.

"Hughes, undoubtedly, has one of the most unique passing records of any high school player in the United States today, and his made ball handling chores from the quarterback spot have won him acclaim from scouts of Ohio State, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Notre Dame.

"In football, his most notable feat, as a sophomore he completed 94 of 122 passes for 746 yards gained, 10 touchdowns and a record of 14-1. He crossed the goal line nine times for 54 points, and booted 44 of 53 extra points. His being named to the all-Big Sandy Conference team and captain and quarterback of the Courier-Journal all-state team were synonymous with his great play of the season.

"Thus far, in his senior year with a B-plus academic three-year standing, Hughes has developed into one of the most elusive runners in the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference along with the handling and punting outlays of the Black Cats. Ferrell thinks that Hughes would be a credit to 65 per cent of the college teams today and adds that Hughes is letter-perfect as a T-formation quarterback, not to mention his passing, running and kicking ability."

CARD OF THANKS

Words cannot express our sincere thanks to all who assisted and aided in the funeral services for our dear one, the death of our son and brother, Carl. We especially want to thank all who sent flowers and the Rev. Alex Stephens and Paris Moore for their comforting words, also the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home—Mrs. and Mrs. Menifée Whitaker and Family.

"WE NEVER HAD SO MUCH LUCK"

At the Annual Meeting of Big Sandy REA at Prestonsburg this year Mr. Gale Music, of Bonanza, won a kit of tools. His name went from there to Louisville and won again, this time a complete water system for his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Music had talked of buying a water system but he said: "Let's not be in too much of a rush. Something might turn up in Louisville."

Something did turn up down at Louisville! Mr. Music's reaction to this was: "I just had a feeling that I could win that water system!"

Mrs. Music could hardly believe it. She said: "I am thrilled to death. We never had so much luck. I never believed REA would ever do us that much good!"

Republican Committee Thanks Floyd Voters

The Republican Campaign Committee of Floyd county would like to take this means to express an appreciation to all the organization workers and voters of both parties who contributed to our victory on November 4. Without the spirited efforts of the workers and the many men and women who joined with us in the Crusade for America we could not have been victorious.

Our victory is not a mere partisan one. It was a victory won by Republicans, Democrats and Independents who seeing America's need came to the rescue with a landslide victory of unprecedented proportions. People with vision do not perish. Your vision and ours was the one of a decent, incorruptible, prosperous America.

Now that we have won, let us be generous in thought to the many who exercised their right of suffrage to vote against us. As Americans we can all close ranks for our common country. Under our newly-elected president, Dwight D. Eisenhower, who has demonstrated leadership as an outstanding general we can march on under a banner of Statesmanship equal to the laurels of battle. He is the hope of America and the promise of a great tomorrow.

A Big Job Done... A Big Job to Do

After the harvest, comes work and planning to make next year's crops bigger and better. We in the Telephone Company are working and planning too, for another big crop of rural telephones.

In the past six years, rural telephones have more than tripled in the area served by Southern Bell. And the service is faster and better. There's still a big job to do—one that takes a lot of money, materials, experience and time... but you can depend on us to keep it moving.

COUNTY COAL BEST SUITED

For Making Coke, Says Report of Bureau; 3 Elkhorn Seams Best

The three Upper Elkhorn beds of Floyd county this week were listed by the U.S. Bureau of Mines as the best suited in this area for making coke for steel and other metallurgical purposes.

A report just released by the Interior Department agency described washing tests that led to this finding. The report is the ninth in a series of county-by-county surveys conducted by the Bureau on a national scale.

In Floyd county, the Bureau obtained coal from 24 mines for its laboratory tests in Pittsburgh, and Regional Director H. P. Greenwald, of the Bureau's Northeastern Region.

Upper Elkhorn No. 3 bed, the most promising for metallurgical uses, contains less than 1 per cent of sulfur impurity, except in the northern part of the county. Even there, says the Bureau, a relatively simple washing treatment will result in a clean coal meeting metallurgical specifications.

The report also clearly shows the possibility of preparing washed coal from Upper Elkhorn Nos. 1 and 2 beds over a wide area in the county. Included in the report on Floyd county are complete details regarding the studies conducted on the coal samples. Its authors are William J. Cruts, Bureau chemical engineer, Washington, D. C., and J. W. Miller, coal technologist, Central Experiment Station, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Secondary beds in the county, such as Ambury and Hazard No. 7, show little promise of producing metallurgical coals, while the Wintfred, Whitesburg, and Firecreek beds, also secondary, would probably meet cooking qualifications in most areas if properly washed. However, the output of all these secondary beds is negligible, the Bureau found.

A free copy of "Report on Investigations 4839—Preparation Characteristics of Coal from Floyd County, Kentucky," can be obtained from the Bureau of Mines Publication-Distribution Section, 4300 Forbes Street, Pittsburgh 13, Pa.

—4— FLOYD FIRE-FIGHTING JOB ENDS WITH MONDAY'S RAIN

(Continued from Page One) he could clear $25 a day," he figures. His own experience in the egg business could be easily duplicated by other farmers. He bought the day-old chicks on January 30, this year. They have paid for themselves and feed with a profit of $200.

Smith is a community committeeman of FFA and is interested in soil conservation. The lessons of the agricultural scientists he applies to his own farm. He acquired that farm in 1947. It was a typical, rundown Floyd farm then. Now it is a model. He raises hybrid corn, soy beans, fescue and ladino clover. He sows cover crops. The farm may not get "hospital care" but it gets the care necessary to prevent erosion and to increase fertility.

Turkeys, chickens, geese from his store, and cattle, too, are the diversified things he has to sell. The cattle are fine-grade stock with purebred shorthorn bull. Fifteen of his 17 head of cattle are heifers, and will calve soon. Fifteen calves at $40 or $50 a head is a lot of change too for a Floyd county farm. All around the Smith farm is self-sufficient. It is a self-sufficiency that comes from a diversified crop and things to sell. It looks like the answer to how to make a Floyd county farm pay off with profit and a good life.

Alice Akers Roberts, 79, Is Victim at Jenkins; Was Native of Banner

Mrs. Alice Akers Roberts, 79 years old, widow of James R. Roberts, of this county, died Friday at Sharon Heights hospital, Jenkins, a victim of paralysis. A native of Banner, she was a daughter of John and Susan Hall Akers. She had been a member of the Christian Church since 1909 and had many relatives and friends in this section. Surviving her are seven daughters, Mrs. Nora Hays and Mrs. Lucy Childers, both of Jenkins, Mrs. Ollie Hardin, Williamson, W. Va., Mrs. Ora Oprandi and Mrs. Lola Blackburn, both of Jefferson, Texas, Mrs. Sue Cowdell, St. Albans, W. Va., and Mrs. Nina Smith, Leupp, Arizona. She also leaves four sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Mollie Gilliam and Mrs. Ora-Rose, both of Emerson, Ky., Mrs. Lula Yenser, Columbus, O., Mrs. Margaret Hammond, Dennison, O., Jake Akers, of Deale, No. Ark., a victim of paralysis.

The funeral was conducted Sunday from the home of Mrs. Nora Hays at Jenkins by the Rev. Isaac Stratton and Bert T. Conn. Burial was made at Jenkins.

FLOYD FIRE-FIGHTING JOB ENDS WITH MONDAY'S RAIN

Fire Warden Forrest Burchett, left, and Ranger Palmer Crum, standing in the welcome shower that broke the forest fire.

The fire started Sunday, October 19, in the Sand Branch region," said Forest Warden Forrest Burchett. "Since then I have been running like hell and praying for rain. The Sand Branch fire was 'whipped' two or three times, but so others were breaking out all over the county. Most people attributed the sudden flare of woodland fires to the dry period which will be the worst since 1930, but in one section people remembered how fast the fire spread. The second fire appeared in the Dewey Lake-Auxier region and Burchett and his crew fought it 36 hours. Palmer Crum, forest ranger for Floyd and Magoffin counties, had to devote part time to other sections and while Burchett was 'running like hell' for rain, Crum was engaged in the same struggle at the Dewey Lake-Auxier region and other regions of Magoffin.

After the Dewey Lake fire, reports of others came thick and fast. There was one on Stephens Branch, one on Buck's Branch a crew fought three whole days. "You couldn't see much for the smoke," said Burchett. "You would be smoking one end of the fire like mad and you didn't know where the other end was. Men fighting on one section of the fire would back-fire on us and that made it mean. It's a wonder they hadn't burned us up. I'm going to do my best to see that people for back-firing."

After Tuesday, October 21, fires were reported so fast that the crews couldn't hope to reach them all in reasonable time. Burchett and Crum began to find experienced supervisors that could take a crew into the woods. They were wearing down with the physical strain and no sleep. At times they were in the woods 36 hours.

"Lacy and Mrs. Miranda Gearheart were the dispatchers for several days," said Warden Burchett in referring to his wife and Crum's mother-in-law. "They stood by the telephones and took calls. I would call back sometimes a dozen times a day and get reports from Lacy. Palmer was doing the same with Mrs. Gearheart. They told us where the fires were."

The Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company loaned Crum and Burchett a crew of men with a truck. The State Highway Department turned over every available man from its maintenance crews and allowed the state garage at Allen to become fire-fighting headquarters. Mrs. Burchett and Mrs. Gearheart were glad to be relieved of the job as dispatchers.

Fire fighting is hard work. Add that to the strain of anxiety over the probable consequences of a fire, unguarded and running wild, destroying property and even lives and you have all the makings of a man's emotional strain in battle. Floyd county was for weeks a tinder-box. People cleared "rings" around their homes and prayed for rain. Even to those sections where the forest was untouched property-owners were apprehensive of a thrown match or lit cigarette. One tiny blaze and the flames would spread.

Knowing this, the wardens and crewmen fought on and cared not look at the far hills. An empty house burned at Emma. It could have been occupied by women and children. It took 30 men to save the Russell Harris house on the Brandy Keg road.

"We had to draft men. Some refused to help and we would indict them," said Burchett. "Most people have cooperated, though." He added.

There were a few fires that Burchett or Crum could not reach and property-owners formed their own crews. At David Kessler's were turned out on Monday night, Oct. 27. These 75 volunteers did an excellent job.

Talking about the statistical side of the fire-fighting, Burchett said that there had been nothing like this since probably 1947. It might be necessary to get the logs out of '32, he said, to find a comparative year. Without doubt 1930 was the driest year but at that time no wardens guarded the forests in this county.

No estimate of the acreage burned is available now. It will take some time to get the figures together. Heretofore only about one-half of one percent of Floyd woodland has ever been under harvest care.

Mrs. Burchett recalls that the hectic days while her husband was in the woods a few lighter moments occurred. One was when a man came

Under the dependent children program, an average of $53.08 went to the families each month. Blind people received an average of $31.97.

Barnes explained that public assistance recipients in the state are receiving larger checks this month, reflecting additional amounts voted by Congress at its last session, plus anticipated balance of state funds resulting from close lead reductions in the three programs.

Old-age assistance rolls have been reduced by 13,000; aid to dependent children by 10,000 children; and aid to the needy blind by 150. Reduction in the rolls by efficient administration has enabled the state to make payments more in line with current standards of living. Barnes continued.

Increases in average payments were: Old-age assistance, $52.10 to $53.03; aid to the needy blind, $32.06 to $36.30; and aid to dependent children, $24.88 to $31.97. Of the latter, Barnes said, the average family will receive $64.15 for October as compared to $53.17 in September.

Monthly payments under the public assistance program have been upped from $30 to $55 for the needy aged and needy blind. The aid to dependent children program has resulted in a maximum increase of $3 for each recipient.

By TED KESTING

Jason Lucas, well-known angling editor, reports that recently he received a good many interesting letters from some of the most successful carp fishermen in this country and in England, where carp fishing is taken more seriously than here.

One of the great number of books recommended for carp, these experts are unanimous in saying that the best bait of all and about the only one needed, is the common doughball. They agree that it should always be made of bread, never of raw flour. Another thing on which most of them insist is that the doughball be small even for larger carp, barely covering the hook.

And they all hold that a small hook is necessary, as well as fine terminal tackle, if one is to catch many wary carp. Some of them note a very thin leader in nylon monofilament, but others say that the slight stiffness of this will cause most carp to reject the doughball before being hooked. These prefer very thin, soft line, either all through or at the end.

Of course, Jay has received far more letters from those who say they simply can't catch carp even where there are plenty of them. It seems obvious, in such cases that the trouble is not with their baits but with their methods. They don't realize how wary the carp is—they use large hooks, baits and heavy lines, and move around in plain sight of the fish.

Sometimes, when spring fishing will get them, but generally it is wasted effort. A cane pole with line tied on is not such a fine terminal tackle as the experts use. Carp of any size would promptly break it. And make no mistake about it—the carp is a strong fighter. It is only inferior to some of our game fish.

So to be a successful carp fisherman one must learn to play large, powerful fish skillfully with rod and reel and light line. As a matter of fact, this is such good sport that the top notch angler is overlooking a fine bet if he doesn't go out and try them some evening on light tackle. He'll find it his surprise that hooking a carp isn't the simple thing he thought it was.

When only 25 years old, Gideon Shroyck won the competitive architectural contest which earned him the right to design Kentucky's Old State Capitol building.

Floyd Native Dies In Ohio; Rites Held Saturday at Lackey

Funeral rites for Callie Reed, 70 years old, former Floyd county man who died last Thursday at his home in Burlington Heights, O., were conducted Saturday afternoon from the Frowell Baptist Church at Lackey. She was a victim of cancer.

Born and reared in the Hueysville section of the county, he was a son of Dillard and Malissa Sexton Reed. Before his removal to Ohio several years ago, he was a gas company employe. He was married twice—first, to Mary Huff, after whose death in 1932 he was married to Sarah Estep, who survives.

The following children of his first marriage survive: John Reed, of Wayland; Virgil Reed, Eytia, O.; Mrs. Branch Robertson, of Lackey; Mrs. Birnie Cagett, San Diego, Calif.; and Mrs. Cecelia Mullins, Chatsdale. Miss Four brothers also survive: Creed, Worley and Sage Reed, all of Plymouth, O.; and Bill Reed, Willard, Ohio. He also leaves 29 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Officiating at his funeral were the Revs. Henry Mullins and Dillard Reed. Burial was made in the Wicker cemetery at Garrett under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Kentuckians who make a go of it in business: A hardware merchant I have been dealing with for 15 years sometimes doesn't have what I want. "He doesn't merely say 'sorry' and give me a blank stare. 'If you can wait a day or two I'll get it for you. If you can't wait you can try my competitor up the street.'"

Mentioning a competitor endeared this merchant to me for a lifetime. It was applied sportsmanship.

A repair garageman has had most of my jobs, as long as the hardware merchant has been selling me nails, hinges, shovels and fence wire. In all that time he has never turned in a bill that looked too large. When he has to do a little job over, there is no charge.

Then there is the baker who never skimps butter and sugar in his pastry.

And the restaurateur who never holds back on his customers when business slackens a little. Instead of cutting down on the quantity of the vittles, he seeks ways to improve everything even if it costs him for a temporary loss, because improvement in the grub starts people talking, and you know word-of-mouth advertising is the best ever.

A merchant who really knows his business never stocks goods of questionable quality. He thinks of his customer first, not profits he might make by selling things he wouldn't buy for his own use.

For many years I have patronized a chain department store that never sells anything below standard quality, and never overcharges a customer. If an article turns out to be faulty the store makes good without a word of argument. Many years ago an aunt of mine in Dixie village, Henderson county, bought a cook stove from this firm and the fire box burned out in a few months. She wrote the company about it and was told promptly to put the stove on the railroad platform at nearby Corydon and pick up a new one. No quibbling, no demanding verification of my aunt's letter.

Also there is the druggist who trains his soda fountain help to look pleasant and always put out a glass of water and a napkin with sodas, sundaes and malted drinks. The boys and girls behind this fountain are never spoken of as soda jerks.

PLAN VALLEY AREA MEET

Business Group Picks Ashland for Meeting To Study Problems

The Ashland Board of Trade and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the service clubs, development associations, and chambers of commerce of Eastern Kentucky will sponsor an Eastern Kentucky Town Hall meeting at Ashland, Nov. 20, it was announced this week by O. C. Kean, president of the Ashland Board of Trade.

The unique meeting, the first of its kind to be held in Eastern Kentucky, will take place at the Ashland high school auditorium and will attempt to review, through the old-fashioned techniques of the town meeting, progress that has been made in Eastern Kentucky and to chart the course to be followed in the further development and expansion of economy in this part of the Commonwealth.

Upwards of 1,000 businessmen, professional men and civic leaders and representatives of key service clubs and women's organizations are expected to attend. Co-sponsoring the meeting are the chambers of commerce and service clubs of the counties of Greenup, Boyd, Floyd, Lawrence, Johnson, Pike, Carter, Elliott, Morgan, Magoffin, Rowan, Letcher and Martin.

"Economic and development problems of Eastern Kentucky will come in for detailed analysis and discussion," Kean said. A panel comprised of authorities on the problems of our region will spotlight the needs and means for achieving progress," Kean added, "and we believe many pertinent plans for action will evolve from the questioning period."

Some of the main speakers at the Town Hall Meeting will be Governor Lawrence Wetherby, W. P. Curkin, Commissioner of the Department of Highways, and David F. Cocks, president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce and vice-president of the Standard Oil Company (SO). David Aronberg, Mayor of Ashland, will preside over the meeting, which will also schedule addresses by prominent businessmen.

Earn Holt, 19, McDowell, Is Victim of Pneumonia At Home of Grandparents

Earn Holt, McDowell youth who had been an invalid for most of the 19 years of his life, died Wednesday afternoon last week at the McDowell home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Tackett. He was a victim of pneumonia.

He is survived by his parents, Melvin and Nora Tackett Holt, two brothers, John G. Holt, of Craynor, and Richard Holt, of McDowell, and two sisters, Mrs. Roe Evans, of Crockett, and Miss Della Holt, of McDowell.

Funeral rites were conducted last Thursday from the home of the grandparents by the Revs. Bert Hall and Pink Osborne. Burial in the family cemetery was directed by the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Ned Poe, 85, Is Victim, Oct. 31, at Son's Home In West Prestonsburg

Ned Poe, 85, died Oct. 31 at the home of his son, Lynn, in West Prestonsburg, a victim of the infirmities of age.

A native of Floyd county, he was the son of the late John and Dollie Watkins Poe.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Lizzie Pitts and Mrs. Virgie Hamilton, both of Risner, and three sons, John L. Lynn, and Ned Poe, Jr., all of West Prestonsburg. Also surviving are 27 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Sunday at the Dorton Memorial Church on Middle Creek, the Revs. Forrest Pray and Steve Whitaker officiating. Burial was made in the Holt brothers cemetery under direction of the Moore Funeral Home.

GRACIOUS WINNER

On the whole, excellent Republicans are very considerate of crestfallen Democrats hereabouts. One staked a group of losers, Wednesday morning, and the boys shrunk within themselves. There he came; this is it, they figured. But when he got there he eased them off the hook with a simple question:

"Anybody know where a-b-body could get an early '30-model soup kettle?"

Meeting Stated Here For District Scout Leaders and Wives

House control apparently hinges on the outcome in a half-dozen of more districts elected by reappointment of voting strength, with only a vote or two likely to separate total Republican and Democratic strength.

The Senate contest was just as tight, Republicans had gained a net of one seat and needed to win four of nine undecided races to seat 49 Republicans in addition to Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, who served independent and supported Stevenson.

If the GOP won the four outstanding races in which they were leading and if Morse, who won't say how he will vote on the party, joined the Democrats, that question could organize the Senate with the tie-breaking vote of Vice-President Barkley.

Then the Republicans would have to wait until Senator Richard Nixon, of California, swept into office with the Eisenhower landslide, becomes vice-president 17 days later to reverse the result.

Eisenhower, widely cheered when he appeared in a New York hotel ballroom, matched his opponent's unity plea, said it was "a day of dedication rather than triumph, and pledged that he never will give 'short weight' to his responsibilities in Washington."

In his speech Eisenhower carried two states the Republicans had been able to capture since 1925—Massachusetts and Rhode Island. He won or was out in front in 15 states where the Republicans have not had a Presidential victory since 1936—Arizona, California, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Utah, Texas, Virginia and Washington.

But his landslide was not quite as widespread as that registered by Hoover, since Eisenhower couldn't break into West Virginia and North Carolina at the former president did in 1928.

In some respects, Eisenhower's was more of a personal than a party victory. Although he helped to elect Republican administrations in many states, there was tough sledding for the GOP in Senate and House battles and gubernatorial races.

The general's friend and one of his earliest presidential backers, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., conceded defeat by his Democratic opponent, Representative John F. Kennedy, in the Massachusetts Senatorial race. Republican James F. Kenn. of Missouri, went down to defeat and Senator Harry Cain, of Washington, was trailing.

In Ohio, Democratic Governor Frank Lausche was going away from Charles Telfer, brother of the senator, despite Eisenhower's hefty majority over Stevenson in the state.

On the other hand, Eisenhower's surge helped Senators Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin and William Jenner, of Indiana, get re-elected. Both were prime targets for Democratic attack in the campaign.

MUCH PROGRESS

During the so-called "reconstruction" years following the Civil War, Kentucky made much progress, noting such landmarks as the adoption of the present state constitution, the opening of the first telephone exchange in Louisville, and the running of the first Kentucky Derby.

Floyd County Historical Notes

By HENRY P. SCALF

The Apple Orchard cemetery near the town of Maysville is one of the oldest in the county. It was established in 1800 and contains the remains of many of the early settlers. The cemetery is located on the east side of the town and is bounded by the town limits on the north and south. It is a well-kept and attractive place and is a fitting resting place for the many who have lived and died in this county.

Today a church service is being held in the cemetery. The service is being held in the memory of the many who have lived and died in this county. The service is being held in the morning at 10 o'clock. The service is being held in the presence of many friends and relatives of the deceased.

Here in the Apple Orchard cemetery are buried the remains of many of the early settlers. The cemetery is located on the east side of the town and is bounded by the town limits on the north and south. These dates of birth and death are given only for the descendants or equivalent. For this Samuel was born April 2, 1820, died April 8, 1891. Cynthia was born Nov. 11, 1818.

Korean Vets Now Have War II Vets' Status Under Benefits Plan

Veterans of the Korean campaign now receive the same protection for the service and pay benefits that previously applied only to World War II veterans. Thomas B. Thompson, Federal Security Administration representative, said this week.

Survivors of men or women who served in the active military or naval service of the United States between July 1950 and June 30, 1953, will receive protection for Korean veterans like that previously afforded World War II veterans. This service is applicable, Thompson said, if death occurred either in service or after discharge.

It would be possible, Thompson interpreted, for the widow, or widower, with minor children, or a dependent parent, to receive monthly social security benefits based on military service alone if the serviceman or woman had at least 12 months military service between September 16, 1940, and December 31, 1953. It also would be possible to combine military wage credits with work performed prior to entry into service or after discharge for paying benefits.

In each case, he explained, the problem is an individual's record. Each survivor should be prompt in contacting his office to get full details as they apply to his case so as not to lose benefits which may be payable.

Thompson said that living veterans would not have to take any action now to have social security credits for military service put on record for this would be done at the time of retirement or when the survivors filed claim for benefits.

A social security representative is at the Prestonsburg Employment Office each Thursday morning from 10 till noon, to assist the people of this area with any matters pertaining to social security.

Purple Flash to Open Against Hindman High Saus All-State Grigsby

Denzil Halbert's Purple Flash of Martin high school will open their 1952 basketball campaign at home Friday night against Hindman high school, a team which may expect to be the thickest of the fight this season for the state championship.

Although Martin has eight seniors ready for play, the team this season is minus the services of Pete Grigsby, all-state guard last year and perhaps the finest athlete the school ever produced. Asked about a repeat placement for Grigsby, Coach Halbert said this week, "He's the kind of player you can't replace. Nobody will ever take his place."

The return to form of "Ticket" this season is expected to help the Flash. The youngster submitted, early last season, to a knee operation to correct a condition such as that which sidelined Kentucky's one-time great, Bill Spivey, and for the remainder of the season could not go at top speed.

Hindman did not lose a man from its 1951-52 team which wound up in the fourth spot in the state high school tournament, losing in an overtime period to the championship Cuba five.

Years' Smartest Car - Year's Greatest Deal!

TRADE NOW FOR THE DEAL OF THE YEAR ON A FUTURE-STYLED MERCURY

THINK of it this way. The car you are now driving will never be worth more money than it is right now. In a few short weeks it could be a year older by trade-in standards.

That's why it's more important than ever that you trade for a Mercury. For this is the one car in its class that eliminates the worry of buying a new car that may soon look out of date. Mercury's forerunner styling is designed to anticipate the future... is planned to stay years ahead of the calendar.

And don't forget Mercury's unequalled record for economy. On the official two-mile basis—with optional overdrive—it's twice been Sweepstakes winner of the Mobilgas Economy Run. Pounded for pound Mercury is the most economical car in America today. And that means the best balance you can buy of comfort plus power, beauty plus economy.

So let's talk figures. We honestly believe we can map out a deal that will open your eyes... make you glad you didn't wait any longer.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D. Bowling Green, Ky.

"COAL-OIL LAMPS"

This afternoon's paper announced that now 95% of rural America is lighted by electricity. That means that my old friend the coal-oil lamp is a just institution, a mere museum piece for most Americans. I have watched the rapid expansion of REA in my own area, realizing that in some ways we live near some of the last places to be reached by electric lines. There was a strange feeling that came over me when the REA line got to Fidelity, for that meant the very end of the line. Now there is hardly a place in my present county where the one in which I grew up where it would be possible to see a coal-oil lamp except in the attic of an abandoned house. I remember, though I have used an electric light since 1906 except for brief phases of teaching in rural areas back in 1907-1910. I find it that surprising that an institution of such widespread use and familiarity should so suddenly become a rarity. By living in cottages in summer in remote places in Maine or Michigan, I have come to know the coal-oil lamp in its green-painted days, one of the best of things that ever came from my home where we still use a lamp, even though it is a mere museum piece. I think back to days when just such lights constituted the only serious threat to the evening darkness. And I wonder what questions will grow up around the new lights that will be as distinctive as those that the coal-oil lamp shed.

There was the skill needed to adjust the top of the lamp and fill up the bowl with oil, burn carefully, and a little oil is possible, and the chimney had to be cleaned carefully to prevent breaking it what good was a lamp without a bright, clean chimney? The sick, too, had to be cleaned and trimmed to make it burn the maximum light, without smoking or flickering. It is a pity now my hand got too big to stick inside a chimney. That meant that I was not a big boy and not nearly so much a helper. I recall adjusting the pins or ride the horses to water, or maybe plow the garden.

With all the vast number of lamp types that are to be bought, none of them seem to be as classy as some of the stylish lamps we used to have. Take the hanging lamp for instance. Where in a modest home today would you find the equivalent of soft-shaded lamps with dancing patterns such as those that hung down from the hanging lamp? And

Burchett Is Named Editor of Highlander

Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 3 (Sp.)—Kenneth Burchett, of Ivel, has been named editor of the 1952-53 edition of the Highlander, student yearbook of Pikeville Junior College, and five other Floyd county students also are on the staff of the publication.

Bobby Kitchen, East Point, is business manager of the book, which is started in two sports, basketball and basketball. He was a graduate of Maytown high school and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Jones, of Langford.

Denny Joe Pannin, Betsy Layne freshman, is a member of the art staff of the 1953 Highlander. Thirty students from five Kentucky counties, West Virginia and the Republic of Cuba make up the staff. The Cuban is Roger Padron, of Cardenas.

He sold a fine crop of apples from his Oscar Daugherty of Grant county 17-year-old orchard of 20 trees, after following a good spraying method.

Morehead State Loses Floyd Athlete to Navy

Morehead State College faces its 1952-53 basketball schedule minus the services of one of its stalwarts, Wendell Jones, who recently quit school to enlist in the Navy Aviation Cadet program. He is now taking "boot" training at Bainbridge, Md.

A senior at Morehead, Jones started in two sports, basketball and basketball. He was a graduate of Maytown high school and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Jones, of Langford.

SOIL CONSERVATION

By L. R. JOHNSON
Soil Conservation Service

Everett Thompson, of the Mare Creek community, has a good stand of Ky. 21 fescue grass on a steep hillside that was seeded this fall. Despite the dry fall the hillside is nice and green and can be seen as you travel along the road. There is a good reason for Mr. Thompson's success. He cut his corn in early September and prepared a good seed bed, used certified seed and applied 200 pounds of fertilizer per acre. These things are important in getting a good pasture stand: good seed, prepared seed bed that will hold moisture and fertilizer to start the grass growing before cold weather. A few acres well done will mean more pasture than many acres seeded on hard ground without any preparation or fertilizer.

Within the next few weeks we will be sending in our orders for wildlife plantings for next spring. If there are any farmers that we haven't contacted who would like material for wildlife planting they should see us at once and get their orders in now.

We are interested in getting more cover for food for wildlife, especially quail. We have to produce more food if we are to increase the quail population. Bi-color lespedeza is one of the better foods for quail. The plant produces large quantities of seed that will furnish food throughout the winter months. If there isn't sufficient cover for quail we can get multiflora rose shrubs that can be planted around the bi-color and furnish cover for quail and serve as a fence for livestock. We can get these shrubs free of charge for farmers who are interested in producing feed for wildlife. These plants are furnished by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources who are cooperating with the soil conservation districts in providing protection for our wildlife.

TREATMENT INCREASES

The Kentucky Crippled Children's Commission is providing treatment for an increasing number of patients each year—the number jumping from 1,899 three years ago to 3,104 for the recent fiscal year. State Auditor T. Herbert Tinsley reported. The Commission provides for hospitalization and out-patient care, in addition to conducting free clinics throughout the state.

STATE BUSINESS PROSPERS

The Governor's Small Business Commission reported that Kentucky business firms have received $170,779,000 in prime defense contracts since beginning of the Korean War and an undetermined number of subcontracts. During the last fiscal year, Kentucky construction firms alone obtained $10,312,000 in armaments contracts, and procurement contracts have totaled $99,527,000.

Like your travel with a JOYOUS THRILL?

WE HAVE NEWS for a lot of folks who want more fun from driving than they get from their present cars.

There's a trim bundle of eager high-powered energy that's just the ricket for you—a spirited automobile that can give you thrill after joyous thrill, for mile after fleeting mile.

Why not come in and try the Buick we have in mind?

The excitement starts with your first look at it, your first sitting in it, your first fingering of its slender wheel.

But wait till Dynaflo Drive® begins working its magic—and its constant and complete smoothness fills you with never-ending wonder.

Wait till you feel the bubbling exuberance of taking your first hill with a high-compression Fireball 8 Engine doing the honors. That's when you get a man-sized sampling of the tremendously able and instantly responsive power you command here.

Wait till you feel the serene satisfaction of skimming over rough roads, cobbles or ridged crossings. That's when you know, better than words can tell, what a million dollars' worth of ride engineering can do in the way of magnificent comfort.

Wait till you jockey into a real tight parking space and note the fun and ease that Power Steering® brings to a once-tough job.

But—why wait? There's a Buick that can do all this—and more, far more—all ready for you to try it.

And listen: If you can afford a new car, you can afford a Buick.

How about coming in this week for a real sampling of this joyous travel?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series. **Optional at extra cost on Roadmaster and Super only.

Two Floyd Students Achieve High Scores On U. of K. Tests

Margaret Ann Everly, of David and Marion Thacker, of Banner, were among 108 new students recognized last week at the University of Kentucky for achieving outstanding scores on the University placement tests.

Mrs. Everly is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Crawford, David and Thacker is a son of Mrs. Noah Thacker, of Banner.

Dr. Leslie W. Croft, director of personnel at the University, announced that such recognition was given only to those new students who are placed in the "A" section of general ability, English and mathematics. He pointed out that the "A" section consists of the highest 25 per cent of the scores on each test.

"Such high achievement reflects credit not only upon the parents, but also on the schools from which these students were graduated," Dr. Croft said.

Approximately 1,600 freshmen and other students entering the University for the first time were required to take the placement tests.

A patch of potatoes treated with 5-10-15 fertilizer by James Curry and son of Madison county yielded twice as much as an adjoining patch not fertilized.

Broomrape, a parasitic herb, appeared in tobacco fields in Adair county, reducing the leaf crop.

IT'S A GOOD WORLD

BY WILMA Y

Rev. Gordon Duncan, of West Liberty, is conducting a two-week revival at the First Baptist Church of Martin. He is unquestionably one of the most powerful young preachers we have ever had the privilege of hearing, likewise one of the most fearless. The two go hand in hand. He calls a spade, a spade, to speak, and the rest of us can like it or leave it. The sermon he delivered on his first night was one of the greatest we have ever heard anywhere. He lasts a full good hour, and no one gets tired. He candidly states that he has no sermons for "Christians." He is not afraid to call what is wrong with Christians, the church, the nation and the world. Come out and hear him when you can.

Pageant picture-taking has been postponed till November 16 at 2 p.m., because of the smoke. Scenes to be made are posted in stores. This gives more time for additional work on the hill, where men and boys are still sorely needed before cool weather begins. We need to ask ourselves this question, "If everyone were just like me, how soon would the pageant be completed?" Too many are letting "George" do it. A few good men and women have carried the load. It is a gigantic undertaking for a small community. All characters should participate in the work to be done. If you wish to volunteer, call Mrs. C. R. Marshall, James Salisbury, Donald Holbert or Mason Moore, who can assign you, or notify Mrs. Ollie May, who is helping to supervise the hill work as a co-director.

We have a dear friend who confesses that she keeps rather close tabs on her teenage kiddies, which is as it should be, more or less. Sonny is a high school junior. Recently he remarked to her, "Mom, I just wonder what you will do in Korea." When his dad told him he may have the car next spring for the junior prom, and go for his girl, he replied in amazement, "You mean that Mother won't be along?" Dad said she would not. The lad turned to his mother and asked, unbelievably, "You won't even be in the back seat?" She assured him she would not. "Oh, gee, it sounds worth trying," he answered.

Perhaps you read in a recent magazine where Sonny got to camp. A jump master was helping the lad unpack and came to a parcel among the things in his bag. "What's this, son?" he inquired. "An umbrella," the boy replied. "What's it for?" asked the man. "Sir, didn't you ever have a mother?" the kid asked.

We are cutting the column short this week so that everyone will find the election news in and not crowded by matters of less importance. May the better man win in every race. And may all of us who lose be good losers. May we, the American people, not forget that world conditions make it imperative that we stick together, regardless of whom is victorious.

Something must turn back the pendulum for our nation if utter chaos does not occur. We are undermined morally, the way termite attack a building. One man cannot change matters overnight. Only united citizens, Christian men and women who put God first, can help to alter the course of our national history today.

ROWE COMING HOME

With the 85th Inf. Div. in Korea—Army Cpl. Charles C. Rowe, of Prestonsburg, is returning to the U.S. from Korea under the army's rotation program.

He served in the 36th Infantry Division, now the senior American division on the peninsula. It landed in July, 1950, shortly after the Communists attacked the Republic of South Korea.

A machine gunner in Company K of the 14th Infantry Regiment, Rowe entered the army in June, 1949. He has been awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge.

MARTIN

WOMAN'S CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

The Allen-Martin Woman's Club was entertained by its "daughter" club, the Drift Woman's Club, Oct. 20, with a buffet dinner. The tables were decorated in the Halloween motif. After dinner games were played, after which each club held its own business meeting.

Means of earning money was discussed by the Allen-Martin Club. The motion made by Mrs. William Martin that the club sell sandwiches and coffee at the extension courses being held in Allen every Monday night was voted.

Delegates and alternates appointed to the district meeting in Prestonsburg were Mrs. John W. Hall, Mrs. William Martin, Mrs. Mack Elliott and Mrs. Belford Reitz. Those present from the Allen-Martin Club were: Mesdames Ray Beckham, George Laven, Russell Laven, James Web, Jr., John Snodgrass, Boone Hall, William Lyon, Mack Elliott, Walter Frasure, William Martin, Maurice Mitchell, Earl Martin, Belford Reitz, Charles Marshall, German Vance, W. O. Hindlestone, Virginia Short, T. W. Martin, Jr., George Sims, John W. Hall, John P. Sammons, and Mrs. W. A. Woody, guest.

FESCUE SURVIVES
Fescue was about the only grass that came through the drought in Calloway county, although lespedeza made a quick comeback after the rain.

EMERGENCY PROCLAIMED

Governor Lawrence Wetherby proclaimed a state of emergency in Kentucky's 11,500,000 acres of forest—due to the prevalence of fires in much of the area, which have been aggravated by drought conditions—and called on all Kentuckians to join with local firefighting groups to quell the fires. Extensive fires were reported in 31 counties.

KILBURN WITH X CORPS

With X Corps in Korea—Cpl. Bill Kilburn, Jr., son of William Kilburn, of Haysville, recently arrived in Korea and has been serving with X Corps.

Cpl. Kilburn has been assigned as an engineer supply specialist with Headquarters and Service Company of the 3rd Engineer Combat Battalion. He entered the army in 1949 and was stationed at Fort Campbell before his assignment overseas.

A Matter of a Few Feet of Water

THE TIMES has an idea that five more feet of water in Dewey Lake for the dry season of the year at least would not be difficult to attain, if the gas companies which have installations in the reservoir area would not claim a huge sum for fancied or possible damages.

Heavy winter and spring rains bring the lake level up more than 15 to 20 feet above the conservation pool level of the lake. These big rises of the lake have damaged the companies to an appreciable extent, and what damage would be caused by five feet of water added to the lake during the season when floods are a rarity does not appear clear.

At this time, the lake level is down about two feet from the pool elevation of 615 feet. This is the result of a drought-marked "dry season" and the necessity of maintaining a specified flow of water below the dam while the inflow is at a minimum.

Five more feet of water certainly would have done no damage this summer and fall. We await proof that it would hurt, any summer or fall.

The impoundment should indeed be at least 10 feet deeper. The needs of a recreation-starved area of thousands of square miles demand a larger body of water. Too, the lake at this time does not hold back the influx of muddy water from the upper reaches of Johns Creek, with the result that siltage is heavy, a large part of the lake is discolored throughout the spring months, the effect on fish life and propagation is extremely harmful, and the ultimate result will be a silted-in lake.

This greater depth of the impoundment, however, may meet numerous obstacles which may not be cleared away for years. Then while the job of obstacle-clearing goes on, why not five feet more water, with another five feet the ultimate goal?

We are aware that the gas companies have their investment in the Johns Creek valley to protect, and we are not unwilling to believe they will want to give the public discovered consideration. At the same time, we realize one official could not commit his company to a definite policy as regards to the future of the lake. But we do feel that those actually in control of company policies should look into the matter and try to reach a decision which would do justice to themselves and to the people of this section.

churches, schools, recreation, highway access, climate.

These were the main success ingredients of the North Carolina community, although there were deficiencies on a few counts. On the whole, however, that town of 20,000 population "had what it took" to get located there one of the activities of the giant DuPont enterprises.

Here's what Kinston had, and the points in its favor may give other communities an idea of what big manufacturers are seeking:

A thriving city in a predominantly a agricultural area; an immediate supply of more than 1,200 men and women as workers; an expanded building program to improve a housing situation that was rather cramped; good roads and a 2,950-car parking lot with direct access to a trunk highway; 40 major denominations; all major denominations; two hospitals of 113 beds, 62 additional beds planned and a clinic; a swimming pool, five community centers, an athletic stadium seating 2,474, a professional baseball team and six motion picture houses; four grade schools, two high schools, two parochial schools (plus 10 consolidated schools in the county), railroads and highways centers in the East, with 75 miles of new road being laid in the county.

Perhaps we are not ready, just now, for a huge industrial enterprise, but we cannot see wherein our raw materials, our labor supply and other qualifications are not sufficient to meet the needs of many industrialists.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Isabelle Hays Terry, daughter of Garrett Hays, of Langley, Ky., and his former wife, Mrs. Vina Allen Justice, of Paintsville, Ky., was born Feb. 11, 1915. She departed this life Oct. 27, 1952.

On June 3, 1952, she was united in marriage to Shelby Terry. Into this union were born four children—two sons and two daughters. One son, Quinton, died at the age of about two years. The other son, Clinton, and the two daughters, Peggy Sue and Shelby Jean, survive with her husband, Shelby. One brother, Ches. Ashland, and three sisters, Mrs. Hester Williams and Mrs. Lora B. Waddles, both of Middletown, O., and Mrs. Magdalene Hall, Torrance, California. She suddenly passed out into eternity, leaving her loved ones to mourn their loss.

In this attempt to chronicle the beauty of the life of this young wife and mother, the writer truly feels helpless in his efforts to assemble suitable words.

Solomon, the great wise man of God, said, "Words fitly spoken are like apples of gold in pictures of silver." The beautiful virtues of her life as a mother, wife, neighbor and friend as observed by the writer during the 15 years that we have known her, speak far more eloquently than any words we can use.

We hope that her passing into eternity was the beginning of eternal and glorious peace in the presence of Him that sits on His great throne amid the shouts of praise and singing of angels and the heavenly smiles of Jesus.

Humblly,

Kinston Had "What It Took"

THE TIMES, along with other Kentucky newspapers, received this week from the Kentucky Agricultural and Industrial Development Board, a reprint from BETTER LIVING, the DuPont Company's employees magazine, in which is told how DuPont arrived at a choice of the community of Kinston, N. C., as the site for its new synthetic fiber plant.

Because of the interest this section has in new industry, and with the idea of supplying information which might produce a formula for success in the section's efforts to get such new business, we list here what DuPont looked for before deciding which of 87 prospective plant sites to select:

Water supply, adequate labor and power, proximity to customers, ease of procuring raw materials, transportation, housing, government,

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

AN ANSWER TO ALL EXCUSES

Editor, The Times:

This letter is an urgent appeal to every person between the ages of 18 and 60 not to let the bloodmobile visit this community again and go away without filling all their quotas. This letter is especially directed at this time to every one in the vicinity of Wayland, as the bloodmobile will be at Wayland, Nov. 13.

To you who are fearful of the effects of giving blood, remember this—the blood center has needed blood desperately and has turned down donors because it judged them unable to give. Because I had been anemic most of my life, I thought I couldn't possibly give a pint of blood. I wanted to go, but I dreaded it. I thought I could do my part by getting others to give blood. In the long-drawn-out process of giving me reasons for not giving myself, I finally reached the point where I could not ask others to give unless I at least tried to give myself.

I can't tell you how elated I was after I had given blood. To me the little red pin represents a "Red Badge of Courage." Although there is absolutely no comparison in the way we give blood and the way the soldiers give blood on the battlefield, I won't minimize the fact that it takes courage for most of us to be a blood donor the first time. I don't believe anyone would dread it the second time. It may affect you psychologically, but I am convinced it doesn't hurt you physically. Although I had expected to be affected at least slightly by it, I had no ill effects whatsoever and even felt better after I had given the blood than before. It is natural to fear the unknown, but give one time and you won't dread it again. You'll be very glad you went.

To you who plan to go but are putting it off, waiting for a convenient time, the need is now. A soldier stops being a private citizen to become a soldier, whether it is convenient or not and whether he wants to or not. One thing is certain: He can't wait for the blood you are going to give after he is wounded. Many reports have come back that lives could have been saved if the supply of blood had been plentiful.

To you who have never gone to give blood and don't intend to go, then you should go for your own sake as well as the soldier's sake. And there is someone I'd like you to meet and talk with. She has a boy in Korea. She goes every time the bloodmobile comes to Wayland. She has small children. She leaves her work, goes and gives blood and goes back home to work. She would no doubt give a thousand pints, were it possible, to be sure her son would have blood if he needed it.

Now, give her those excuses you were ready to give me. I know exactly what you were going to say, but ask yourself one question: How can you accept their sacrifice and withhold the very thing that might save these soldiers' lives if they were wounded?

I am unable to tell you how proud and happy I am to have been a BLOOD DONOR.

A CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

Christmas will be here soon, and it's a day we all look forward to here at home. But have you stopped to think about your neighbor's boy or husband or maybe one of your own family about where he will spend this Christmas?

That's why I hope that every one who reacts this will stop and think it over. If you are planning on giving someone a gift this Christmas, why not give one of the greatest gifts that could be given to any one that needs it badly.

A pint of blood would make some wounded soldier a gift that could mean his life. Don't you think it's worth it to see some soldier come home safe? Sure you do. Well, you can, friends, if you will give that extra pint of blood. I know, I have seen it pull lots of soldiers through, and one of your nation's problems today is getting enough blood for our armed forces fighting in Korea so that we here at home can continue to live the right way; that's something I can say today.

I spent almost 12 months in Korea. Believe me, I don't want to so see the things that are happening there happen here in our own country. Here is one way every one can help. Almost every month the Red Cross visits your home town. Give your home town a high standard by giving the most blood every month. While at the time you are giving your home town a high standard in these Red Cross drives, you are giving the greatest gift to some wounded soldier in Korea. I know not only that it helps the poor old mother and father to see their son or daughter again.

So let's make one special gift for our wounded soldiers this Christmas that they might be here with us in other Christmases to come. Give all you can in all these drives. Work hard together, and God will bless us all for a job well done.

A pint of blood could be the gift that could be the choice where some one might live or die. Give with an open heart. God, I am sure, will bless you for it. Please give today.

Floyd Students Are Among Highest Scoring At Eastern State College

Parents of the following students from Floyd county who are attending Eastern State College have been informed that the students made high scores on tests given during Freshman Week.

John Forrest Brown, son of George D. Brown, Prestonsburg; Hirma Lee Roberts, daughter of Dewey Roberts, Harold; Bobby Joe Spradlin, son of Mrs. Mary A. Spradlin, Prestonsburg.

The scores for the Floyd students were the highest 25 per cent of the 460 students entering Eastern for the first time.

The Personnel office at Eastern in releasing this information mentioned that the high average is complimentary to the elementary schools and to the high schools attended as well as to the students making the superior grades.

About 30 farmers in Metcalfe county treated their tobacco buds this fall for the first time with Methyl bromide gas.

He Even Hates to Stop for Lunch!

Put a man behind the wheel of a Golden Anniversary Cadillac—point it to a destination some hundreds of miles away—and try to stop him!

And smaller! In all the world, there is no finer relaxation for a work-weary man than a day's drive at the wheel of a Cadillac.

Try it sometime, and see for yourself. The moment you slip into the driver's seat, you'll sense that something extraordinary is about to happen to you.

The car has a "feel" to it—even when it isn't in motion. You sit right. The wheel falls naturally into your hands. You look out through the big curved windshield—over the beautiful hood and into the distance—and you know that "this is it!"

And then you turn the key and the great engine whispers into action—and the day's fun begins.

First, there's the silence—only the sound of the wind —and the occasional tick-tick of the electric clock.

And then there's the comfort—the easy, soft, steady ride over almost any type of road.

And next, the handling ease! The steering wheel moves with the weight of the hand. There is remarkable steadiness on straightaway and curves. And the brakes give added confidence each time you touch the pedal.

So the miles go by and the miles go by. Towns and villages appear and disappear.

That's that! It's time for lunch?

"Okay—but let's make it something quick and easy. We'll have a big dinner tonight."

Don't you think you'd like to own the car that can make a journey such a great delight?

If so—come in and see us—any time.
