Domestic Water Supplies Adequate Near Paintsville Says Interior Department

Washington, July 31 — The Interior Department said today that domestic water supplies can be obtained from wells almost anywhere in the Paintsville, Ky. area.

But, the department reported, there is little hope of obtaining enough fresh ground water for large public or industrial supplies. All large water users, the department said, must depend on surface water in the Levee Fork of the Big Sandy River and its tributaries.

The report on ground-water resources of the Paintsville area was prepared by J. A. Baker in a cooperative study financed by the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board of Kentucky and the federal government.

The report is the result of a detailed study of the occurrence of ground water in a small area considered more or less typical of the coal fields in eastern Kentucky.

"Enough fresh water for domestic use," the report says, "generally can be obtained from dug or drilled wells at less than 100 feet, but some shallow wells at Paintsville and at nearby Denver yield salty water."

"About all water found below 200 feet," the report added, "is too salty for drinking."

The Interior Department said findings in the Paintsville study will be used to interpret data obtained in studies of larger areas in the eastern Kentucky coal fields.

HEALTH NOTES

ALLERGIES

Allergy, or sensitivity to various substances, is not a new ailment that suddenly struck for the first time during this generation. The fact that allergy is responsible for a number of conditions which were formerly unexplained has been known to medical science only for the past few years.

The person who is allergic reacts peculiarly to contact with a certain substance or agent that is harmless to most people. The allergic person is usually normal and healthy in all other respects.

When the offending agent affects the skin of an allergic patient, it causes a rash similar to eczema. Another common allergic reaction is hay fever, a condition resulting when the eyes and nose of the sufferer are sensitive to ragweed pollen or pollen of other plants.

We still have a lot to learn about allergies, but progress is constantly being made toward relieving and even curing allergic patients. When a new medical treatment of the person with allergic reactions will find that the doctor questions him thoroughly about his habits, his occupations, his home life, environment, diet and other living habits.

Before he can specifically advise or treat his allergic patient, the doctor must act as a detective and a complete history of the patient furnishes him with "clues" in finding the offending agents and substances.

Then the doctor can advise his patient in avoiding things which irritate the sensitive, and in some cases, the doctor can even treat his patient so that he will build up resistance to the substances bothering him.

In his search for the offending agents, the doctor may also use skin tests on his allergic patients. Among the most common substances causing a poisoning sensitivity are milk, eggs, fish, alcoholic beverages, spices, plant pollens, house dust, animal hair, and artificial tobacco, insecticides and drugs.

An allergy in itself is not a serious ailment. But things like hay fever and asthma, when neglected, can interfere with sound health as well as cause great discomfort. The person who has an allergy takes a wise step when he consults his doctor for relief.

CITY MAN SEEKS RETREAT TO HILLS OF KENTUCKY

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 4.—A well-known aviator and pilot has decided to come to Kentucky.

This was the promise made today in a letter from the Governor's office to a man who is tired of fighting the street war and a cramped apartment at Glasgow, Ill.

In his letter to Governor Wetherby, by signing for the name of a bank next to the hills so I can save something that amounts to something," the man wrote.

"I'm fed up to here with these tomfool idiots in these parts—the women put the men, fight your way on the street cars, thrash around all day to spend the night in some cheap apartment and the furthest a man can see is the living room of his next door neighbor.

"I want to hold me a shack just as far as I can get into the hills of Kentucky—marry me a good Kentucky girl—and live a good life in the hills as God intended a man should live."

He enclosed a dollar bill to cover the cost of the "conscience," if the bill of lank but it was returned along with a letter telling him that

There has not been a definite allocation of funds for the development of the new park, Ward said.

Experience in building other state parks has shown that it takes several years to bring about their completion, so it is not necessary to have available immediately funds to pay for everything that will have to be provided," he added. "However, Governor Wetherby has pledged adequate revenue to provide for the initial development of the park, and we have confidence that the response of the public to this park will show that its continued development will be justified."

Out initial plans call for the building of a swimming beach and bath house, restaurant, service buildings, water, sewage and electric system, picnic areas and other recreational facilities, to be followed as quickly as possible by the construction of vacation cottages. However these plans are contingent on approval by the Corps of Engineers of our requests for the necessary land to develop a general park.

Development of a state park on Dewey Lake will not interfere with Kentucky's interest in the creation of a Kentucky-Virginia park at the Breaks of Study, or with the contemplated improvement of Carter Caves State Park also in eastern Kentucky, Ward said. It would supplement the state's program to expand tourist attractions in that section.

"We are very much impressed with the potentialities of Dewey Lake," Ward said. "It is a beautiful body of water, with excellent scenery along the shoreline and lends itself to development as a recreational park."

"It is located in a section of the state not now served, by a state park, so that reason alone will help round out our program of building an outstanding system of state parks for Kentucky."

set through more than three-fourths of the vote-count. Sharpbill held the 1, 2 and 3, with Cooley most of the distance only a little way back. It was not until the District 4 contest that he was under way that Hall drew past Cooley, then past Sharpbill and never to be headed.

Conroy, the Democratic winner for County Attorney, ran behind three of his four opponents. Burdett, Robert Wellman and Henry C. H. White for Representative in the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th districts, trailing Burdett by about 600 votes each into his native District 2. There, however, he piled up a majority of about 800 votes to jump into the lead by about 200 votes. From there on to the wire he hung on grimly, with the incumbent trailing him by a narrow margin.

The tightest major county race previously recorded was in the final election, about 25 years ago, when Democrat, Democrat, Democrat, Moore for County Judge by 46 votes, it was said at the courthouse.

The election was without violence, except for minor incidents at one or two voting precincts. Three precincts were tabulated Saturday night. Talk of irregularities included reports of huge "black funds," slates and voter bribery. One slate which was printed appeared on the grounds at various precincts, election morning, and this was branded a "slate," designed to hurt the chances of candidates listed.

Although approximately 5,000 names were removed from the registration lists by the previous board this year, and despite the fact that the same number of ballots was printed this year as last, Jack Allen, Arkansas and Lee A. Byrnes had a ballot shortage. Additional ballots were ordered, printed, and these were pushed to the precincts. After a shortage had been reported at John Possum precinct, ballots were sent there, but the original supply was sufficient.

One dead heat resulted from the election. This was in the Democratic race for Representative from District 96 where Mildred "Boodler" Wells and W. C. "Bill" Biggers finished second to Lon C. Hill with 1,277 votes each.

The results in each race:

superior.

Fields covered and consultants assigned to each topic were: child growth and development, Mrs. Mamie West Scott, Eastern State College; music and language, Miss Mildred Troupe, American Book Company; handwriting, Miss Jean Lovette Mitchell, E. C. Seale Company; reading, Mrs. Louise Wilson Worthington, Ginn & Company. Several exhibits were on display where teachers could buy supplies and materials.

A film on the maintenance of discipline in the classroom opened the program. This was followed by a panel discussion in which the consultants and teachers took part.

"Much interest was shown by the change-over from manuscript to cursive handwriting," said Sprucklin in speaking of the new method introduced in teaching writing. This method, revolutionary to some of the old teachers, promises an easier growth in handwriting, educators say.

The second day's activities were opened by a film shown by Mrs. Reginald B. Mayo on tuberculosis. A panel discussion followed in the evening. Statistics were shown to prove tuberculosis is markedly declining in Floyd county.

Next week's meeting of rural teachers at Martin will have an all-day program on the teaching of geography by Helen Nesbit, of Silver-Sunderland Company; teaching of science by Bobby Jones, L. W. Gincer Company, and film showing of forest and other natural resources by Forest Bunchett, Forest Service.

An invitation was extended this week from Virgil Turner, county superintendent, to parents and high school students to attend next week's meeting.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR
ASKS THAT PUBLIC BE INFORMED
Editor, The Times:
The old adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," could well be applied to the situation which inspired your recent editorial on the practicality of the proposed location for a swimming pool for the youth of our community.
If by your tentative proposal of free transportation to the pool, you mean city-subsidized transportation, this would in a few years cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars which could be spent in better advantage in this poverty-stricken walk-less, paved-less, gymnasium-less, incinerator-less, food-waste-less, high school building, almost-leafy city.
The public officials, both appointed and elected, entrusted with public welfare and public funds, and pledged to community betterment, would have done well to have taken the public into their confidence and consulted the clerk and editor of all local civic groups who are always able, willing and impartial in determining the most desirable location at the lowest cost to the taxpayer for this much-needed swimming pool.
I believe whole-heartedly in the desirability of an informed public and in the Scripps-Howard newspaper slogan, "Send light and the people will find the way." In the future I hope more light shed on business transactions entered into by our public servants.

Village Specializing In Family Associations
BIO LAUREL, Va., July 30 (Sp.)—This little village is becoming nationally known as headquarters of family genealogical and historical associations. Already the Adams Family Association, a national or family association with the particular purpose of establishing kinship to Beales and Peggy (Roman) Davis and a share in the legendary estate of 16,000 acres in Southwestern Virginia and Eastern Kentucky, left by the Davis couple who died without direct descendants, making Beales' kin, the Davises and Peggy's relatives, the Romans, joint heirs in the estate.
Recent research reveals that the Beales, Beales and his wife moved from Wise county to Lawrence county, Ohio, about 1800, leaving the discovery. Among the heirs of the century one Edward M. Davis of Norristown, Pa., took a commissioner's deed to the property in Beales' name, the Davises and Peggy's relatives, the Romans, joint heirs in the estate.
Many of the Davis and Roman descendants reside in Floyd county, Ky.

CLARK ISSUES MILK WARNING

Health Administrator Says Bacteria Count Will Determine Status
Milk suppliers in this county were warned this week by M. V. Clark, health administrator, that unless the bacteria count in milk is lowered the distributor will lose their Grade A pasteurized milk labels. Letters have been issued to all suppliers that the barring of the Grade A label depends on the next laboratory test.
Clark pointed out that not all distributors were supplying milk with a high bacterial count but that, nevertheless, "High bacteria in Grade A pasteurized milk is a violation of the law and the health department plans to enforce the law," he said.
Restaurant owners came in for notice also this week by the health department. There are a number of restaurants still working people who do not have food-handlers' permits issued upon physical examinations. Clark said, "Employment of food handling establishments were urged to have these examinations for permits completed. If these examinations are done as the health department it will have to be on Monday, Thursday or Saturday of each week as those are the days of each week when John Sizemore will be available for duty." Clark pointed out.

Health Round-Up Day held at Maytown last Sunday, yielded good results, Clark said. Forty-eight children were given physical examinations and 32 were given small-pox immunizations. It would like to pay a tribute to Mrs. Ed Stewart who served a lunch at her home prepared by the Maytown Woman's club," he said. Thursday, August 11, the same work will be continued at McDowell, sponsored by the Driftwood Baptist Church. Dr. John Sizemore was in charge at Maytown and will be at McDowell, also.
The health department anti-rabies clinic will be held at the Martin high school, August 18 at 7:30 p.m. A mobile unit will be there during the day. Mr. Beales at the State Department of Health. The mobile unit will tour the county later in the month to vaccinate dogs.

Baptist School Plans Combination Building To Accommodate 225 Mountain Valley, Ky., July 28 (Sp.)—Construction on a combination classroom and Administration building has begun at the Mountain Baptist Institute here. At present the foundation walls are being poured. The building, which is a three-story construction, will accommodate a student body of 225.
The structure will contain eight classrooms, a large all-purpose room, in addition to office space and other smaller rooms.
This is the third major construction in its many years. The two previous structures were a Home Economics building and a boys' dormitory. Mountain Institute was organized by the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board in 1906. A. C. Harlow, Prestonburg, Ky., served as the first president of the institution. It moved to its present location of Mountain Valley, Breathitt county, in 1940. The Rev. L. W. Benedict, also of Prestonburg, is secretary of the board of trustees.
President D. M. Altidge said the new building, to be valued at $150,000, would be erected largely from public subscription.

NEW REMEDY
Speaking of the election—as perhaps we shouldn't until the fellow gives a little time to the perspective of the whole thing—we're told that Walt Hale has come up with a remedy that lays it all over the old reliable, Mary's Milk. "Hale says it gets better and quicker results, even with smaller doses. Cheap, too. Calls it 'Milk Snuffer'."

TO MY CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS

On and after August 10 I will no longer be connected with the Standard Oil Service Station in Prestonburg since I have operated for the last five years. Circumstances beyond my control force me to retire from the business and take a rest.
During this time I have enjoyed the business—and, better yet, the goodwill of a large portion of the motoring public. It has been a pleasure to serve you, and I hope that I have succeeded in giving you the excellent service you deserve. I thank you all for your patronage.
Because of my retirement from the business, I, naturally, will not be responsible for any of the operations or responsibilities of the station, beginning with August 10.

CONSERVATION AND UTILIZATION A PROFITABLE COMBINATION

By HENRY WARD, Commissioner of Conservation

There has been perhaps too much generalization in the terms we have used in speaking of the values of the conservation of our natural resources. It is not so much a matter of the "conservation" of the natural resources, but of the "utilization" of them. The natural resources are not to be preserved for generations yet unborn, but the basic water, the soil, the air, the sun, the wind, the natural resources, or that the individual owes a debt to society to safeguard the soil.

All of these are true, yet, in these days of having to meet payroll, pay taxes and have enough left over to provide for a family, there may be a tendency to overlook obligations that are stated in generalities. Many of us need a specific appeal with emphasis on what benefits we may derive directly from the things which we do.

So, in speaking of the conservation of the soil or the conservation of any other natural resources, it is well that every individual recognize that these are objectives from which direct benefits do flow. Certainly it should be emphasized that, in every program dealing with our natural resources, it is understood that an objective is to promote and prolong the proper utilization of such resources and that their conservation is not something sought merely for the sake of conservation itself.

This point has not been overlooked in the educational efforts that have gone into promotion of soil conservation. All experience has taught that neglect of the soil will make it unproductive in the future. But in some other areas, this truth may not have been so fully recognized, just a few years ago there was not adequate acceptance of the fact that our soil resources were limited.

Certainly we have not emphasized strongly enough the values that can come from the proper conservation and utilization of our water resources. In Kentucky, particularly, great benefits can flow from the protection of waterbeds, the shepherding and sound utilization of our water. This state, with more miles of navigable streams than any other in the nation, has a tremendous treasure in its water. There will be profits to all the people of the state if this treasure is guarded and used wisely.

The same is true of our forest resources, our mineral, gas and oil deposits, and all those other things that go to make up God's natural gifts here for our enjoyment and benefit.

There are all sorts of sound arguments for conservation—but the dollar sign can be added for the sake of those very much interested in it.

Before you buy just any V-8... TRY THE PROVEN V-8 THAT TOPS THEM ALL IN VALUE

THINK OF THE FUTURE WHEN YOU BUY A CAR NOW. MERCURY'S EXCLUSIVE UNIFIED DESIGN IS YEARS AHEAD... THERE'S been a lot of talk in recent months about "new" V-8 engines. Almost every car maker has now jumped onto the V-8 bandwagon. But Mercury has a big head start on these "newcomers" because it has always been a V-8. In fact, Mercury is the only car in America with an exclusive V-8 history. That means greater value for you—from your original purchase right through until you trade it in. Mercury gives you beautiful styling, luxury and performance at a price just slightly higher than the so-called low-priced cars. Mercury's proven V-8 performance and proven economy save you money all the time you drive. And Mercury's consistently high trade-in value—always among the top leaders—protects your investment, lowers still further the ultimate cost to you. You gain all ways with Mercury. If it's value you're after—come try a Mercury. One look—one ride—and no other car will do!

Mystery of Who's Calling, Long Distance, Is Ended

How many times have you found a note on your desk to call a certain operator's number in another city—and wondered who could be calling from there?

Henceforth you won't have to wonder.

In addition to the long-distance operator's number, the telephone number at least, and the name if given when the call is placed, will be available. A new nation-wide procedure, now in use by the telephone company of recording the name, telephone and extension number, where volunteered, of the party placing a long-distance call.
In turn that information is relayed to the distant city where the call when the specific party cannot talk at the time the call is received.

When the party called is ready to talk, the information should be given to the long-distance operator.
In the distant city where the call was placed, thereby enabling her to get the calling party back on the line without having to "hold" the premium record of the call.

It is making for faster, more satisfactory service. So Jack Stone, Group manager of Southern Bell Telephone Company in Paintsville, asks that you take down all the information from the operator when you answer a long-distance call for anonymous.

I'd been planning to buy a higher-priced car until I found out all Chevrolet offered—and how much I could save!

You're "sitting pretty"
behind the wheel

Take this Bel Air model. First thing you'll notice is the quality of the interior. Rich-looking appointments. Roomy seats with foam rubber cushions.
Turn the key to start the engine and you're ready to go.

You can see all around You look out and down through a wide, curved, em-piece windshield. The panoramic rear window and big side windows provide a clear view in all directions.

Biggest brakes for smoother, easier stops

An easy nudge on the pedal brings smooth, positive response, —right now! Chevrolet's improved brakes are the largest in the low-price field.

It's heavier for better roadability

You're in for a pleasant surprise at the smooth, steady, big-car ride of this new Chevrolet. One reason is that, model for model, Chevrolet will weigh up to 200 pounds more than the other low-priced cars.

You get greater getaway with the new Powerglide*
A lot finer performance on a lot less gas. That's what you get with the new Powerglide automatic transmission. There's no more advanced automatic transmission at any price.

You get more power on less gas

That's because Chevrolet's two great valve-in-head engines are high-compression engines. In Powerglide* models, you get the most powerful engine in Chevrolet's field — the new 115-h.p. "Blue Flame." Gearshift models offer the advanced 108-h.p. "Thrifty-King" engine.

And it's the lowest-priced line

A demonstration will show you that Chevrolet offers just about everything you could want. Yet it's the lowest-priced line in the low-price field.

*Combination of Powerglide automatic transmission and 115-h.p.
"Blue Flame" engine optional on "Fuel-Tec" and Bel Air models at extra cost.

Stephens Branch Road Contract Is Awarded On Bid of $12,350.84

A contract for construction on the Stephens Branch road in Floyd county has been awarded the Kentucky Highway Co. of Frankfort, according to an announcement by William P. O'Fallon, Commissioner of Highways.

The contract amounted to a low bid of $12,350.84. The contract calls for 1.5 miles of bituminous surface from Ky. 50, one mile southwest of Martin, extending to a new bridge crossing the Stephens Branch and ending at the railroad crossing.

The same road project in 10 Western Kentucky counties increased 81 percent in 10 years.

Highway Death Rate Shows Slight Decline

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 3 (Sp.)—Kentucky's highway death rate for each 100 million vehicle miles traveled during the first five months of 1933 showed a decline from the same period in 1932.

A report issued by the State Police shows that eight deaths occurred each hundred million miles in the January-through-May period this year, while the rate was nine for the first five months of 1932.

The averages are based on gasoline consumption figures, taken from the amount of gasoline tax paid plus off number of persons killed.

The report shows that 288 persons were killed during the period this year and 309 were killed through May of 1932.

Through July 23, the latest date for which police reports are complete, 371 persons had been killed this year. Through the same date last year, 430 died.

DADET CRAWFORD IN GEORGIA CAMP

John W. Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, David, Ky., has just completed six weeks intensive training with the Signal Corps Reserve Officers Training Corps summer camp. He was one of approximately 1100 cadets in training here.

BY WILLIAM

But, it could do without people. A friend who recently rendered an outstanding service, though ill, said: "The thought I have does not expect us to be crucified this way. We agree. Many good and needed leaders are lost because of those who lead down and put good words on the few who do serve. A man remarked that he got more criticism in three months after becoming P-T-A. president than he had in all the years of his life. Another said he was persecuted enough during his five years as Sunday School superintendent. Christ headed the local polo drive, striking through sick horses. 'Never again,' she said. 'The people will you with the same respect as you have been ousted by slander, said. 'This is my home town but none compare with it for good.'

An outstanding citizen says a major cause of the prevalence of gossip here is that many cannot read and numbers go so poorly. The man says he has been in business, so they only mistake is to gossip. Good news travels slowly. It is soon forgotten, and gossip beats the wind. When people do not read, Dame Rumor supplies. At the suggestion of mutual friends we called to visit a newspaper. Some said she had two girls; others said a girl and a boy. Several had named the church she and her children attend. It was a surprise to find she has two boys and one girl.

A young widow with a large family was left with only a mortgaged farm. A kind man missed funds to help. She had no money to pay the mortgage. No one knew how she suffered for nothing but a Christian like false accusations. Those who doubt this gossip, can kill should read the story of Enoch Jackson. Crum tongues drove the most maligned woman in history insane. Her name was Mary Lincoln. A young preacher had a narrow breakdown when enemies spread a falsehood against him, seeking to whitewash their own sins. The Bible condemns gossip. Church covenants forbid it, but some people require it on their daily menus. "If there is no truth in it, that is unimportant.

In childhood we knew an old preacher named Guy. He was slight of build. To hear a photograph of him was to hear a man who had other end to a tooth. It amazed us. He grew tired of hearing one of his jokers tell how everyone else. Her favorite target was the organist, whose beauty, ability and superb taste in clothes set her apart. Naturally, Mrs. So-and-So despised her. She brought a new tale one day, demanding that Bro. Guy do something about it. "Listen, if you'll just write all that down, and sign your name to it, so I'll not forget a word you've told me. I'll have the brethren pray about it," he promised. Mrs. So-and-So took backwater fast and beat a hasty retreat. Many more would do likewise if asked to sign and support their charges.

Years ago, we repeated a neighbor's claims against a doctor who, she said, had neglected a crying patient. She was on a particular line and knew all about it. The family had tried in vain to get him to come to the girl. The next day we called in the benevolent and heard a sister of the deceased praise the young doctor for all he had done, for staying with them to the end and hoping that girl's life to the last. We felt miserably ashamed, going to retract the false report to the one we had told. If we only could wait to know what we plan to tell is true before relaying it! That is bad enough. Many repeat talk and say, "Of course, I don't believe it." Then why tell it? Anybody can spread gossip, but few can do check it. Of many victims of slander we have defended through the years, only three proved unworthy. Isn't it better to err mercifully than to accuse falsely? It is said that some minds remain in the gutter always, determined to believe the worst about everyone.

The Times' fine editorial last week was heart-rending. But the editor knows we have been with him all the while in opposing vote buying long before this column started, we fought it openly and vigorously. From the lecture platform we often have called it the worst curse of our section. To do to anyone the really greater from the standpoint of popularity, for him and others, but after all earthly favor is fleeting. Perhaps some day our great country will be a more just possibility, will rid itself of this evil.
