Such Fun!

Thoughts of a man on the beach. This is where tide comes in the large, economy size. The sea, the Great Innominate. Soft sand for a pillow, cooling depths below, but always restless, rolling, foaming, rock and roll. And then a voice behind says, "Come on, you know—you can't stare it down, you know."

Wasn't a Good Tree Dog

Earl Howell was telling this week about a squirrel hunt he and his brother went on, and they were talking a squirrel when they got within 100 feet of a hole at the foot of a tree. Familiar with the predatory nature of the animal, they wondered if the cat had trapped the squirrel. He probed with a stick, they quickly learned that that was what had happened. The squirrel was up there all right. "I can't say the cat was a good tree-dog, though," Earl added. "He didn't bark at tree very well."

Floyd Paratrooper Remains Concious At Veterans Hospital

As mass paratrooper operations were planned this week at Fort Campbell, Ky. The Times learned that Staff Sgt. John J. Bentley, 24, formerly of M'Dowell, who was injured there Feb. 3, 1954 in a jump remains unconscious at Veterans hospital, Louisville, 30 months after his injury.

Sgt. Bentley suffered a skull injury when, after landing, his chute was poked up by a whirling wind that dumped him back to earth and dragged him more than a mile. His father, John M. Bentley, now of Fairborne, O., said here this week that Sgt. Bentley has at no time regained consciousness and that doctors are uncertain as to final outcome of the injury.

Experts have predicted doubling of demand for paratroops by 1960, and further doubling of demand by 1975. Such a step in air force power would require 800 million tons of coal for this single purpose, 20 years hence.

COAL CONVEYORS USED LONG TIME
Coal conveyors have been used in bituminous mines for quite a while and have led to development of what can best be called "managers" to carry the mines to their jobs. This specially adapted conveyor belt carries mine personnel at the rate of one man every four seconds and allows 10 feet of space per man, or 900 men an hour.

Hutches claims that Martin, under instructions from other defendants, has absented himself from the county in order to permit the 60-day period to expire before signing the letter. The suit also claims that on July 15 Hughes' attorney wrote the defendants advising them that if the letter authorizing processing of the franchise transfer was not signed by Martin suit would be filed seeking an extension of 30 days after the signed letter had been received by the Ordinance distributor.

This was the story they told of the fight. The men inside the home started running out the back, shouting they went heading for the timber on the hillside overlooking the house. The officers were in hot pursuit, returning the fire, and it was in this exchange that Dale Hill was wounded and captured.

At this time Duffy and Ralph Slope came up the creek and opened fire on the deputy sheriffs. The officers chased them into the heart of a nearby hollow where they threw away their guns. Moonshine whiskey was taken from them when they were placed under arrest. Then the officers returned to the home looking for another man. Instead, they found a gallon of moonshine whiskey on the floor.

One man, they said, whirled and fired on Deputy Sheriff Green Johnson at a distance of no more than 10 feet but missed. A second later, he and a companion were taken there with 19 prisoners taken on Jack's Creek while Deputies Patton, Blackburn, Compton Johnson and others went to Melvin and Lajos where they had searched also via radio that there was trouble. There they picked up eight more suspects.

Writer Addie Questions Value Of Little Leagues Over U.S.

I think Little Leagues are a waste of time and that too many adults are ducking their responsibilities to teenagers by concentrating on youngsters who are more tractable.

Many of the adults engaged in Little League programs are in their forties or fifties, or perhaps for a cheap and safe hobby. Many of the adults engaged in Little League programs are in their forties or fifties, or perhaps for a cheap and safe hobby.

I want to start off by saying I was one of the original boosters of the Little League. I thought it was wonderful that these youngsters could learn team discipline and the basic fundamentals of citizenship against the time when they would take their places in society.

I must have helped dedicate some 50 fields throughout the country. I was on a panel with some well-known personalities and actors who opposed the Little League because of the "pressure" put on the youngsters by adults who believed that winning was paramount.

In countering this argument I pointed out that this is after all a realistic world we live in. When 11 and 12-year-old boys were sent to fight in World War II and in Korea, nobody worried about it. In "pressures" of shooting to kill in war, winning is everything. I believed that the Little League instilled something in a youngster, an awareness of the other fellow and a realization that a single can be just as important in winning a war as a single man.

I don't advocate abolishment of the Little League. All that I say is that the emphasis is on winning. The trophies and medals are not the thing. It may be placed on winning, juvenile delinquency, which is growing daily.

Who commits the bulk of vandalism, murder, robbery, rape, and assorted dastardly crimes? Surely not the under-12 age group. The teenagers who have embraced Rock and Roll for a theme song instead of "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

Note: According to a report issued by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on April 29, 1956, there are 3,349,000 juveniles in the juvenile crime wave in the United States. The reports submitted by 122 cities during 1955 show the arrests of youths under 18 increased 18 percent. Of the persons arrested for major crimes in 1947, cities, 42.3 percent were under 18. In 1955, 47.9 percent were under 18. Of all persons arrested for auto theft in the reporting cities, 52.2 percent were under 18.

Again, as one of the most ardent supporters of Little League baseball, my confidence has been shaken lately. After musing about the various benefits and detriments, and after interviewing many parents, it occurred to me that the emphasis should be on the team aspect, blossoming out into his role of the citizen and tomorrow's bulwark of the nation.

My argument is that if you shift the emphasis from the Little League to the junior or senior leagues (boys from 13 through 19), these teen agers will begin to feel again that they belong.

A woman who has raised eight sons told me recently, "The hard part is not when they babies. Then they get a lot of affection because they're cute and they're new. Even strangers stop to pat them on the head and coo with them. A boy never uses his desire to be loved and he needs it more through the difficult transition from boy to young manhood. He knows a little but not enough. He has a place in society, but it's not secure enough. He's not quite ready to go out and compete against adults. He needs that time when he is being sheltered and cared about and called one of the boys."

Power alone doesn't turn a boy into a juvenile delinquent. The forces are more subtle. He must prove himself as a fourth up to his friends, and consequently we get gang fights and the waves of terrorism. But suppose this feeling to be somebody were channeled into something constructive? Suppose his desire were turned into one of the best little parties or fairs or one who belongs to a bunch of boys who have a lot of fun playing together.

Let me tell you of some of the things that have happened in my experience with Little League. Five years ago a fellow called me and said his committee wanted to start a Little League program. He said a group of people needed help in raising money. Would I write a column and help them? I did a bit of the wonderful benefits to the community from the Little League and how the little man one day would be the leader of their own group, operating the accepted good sportsmanship and clean play in the American tradition.

SPORTS CHATTER

By Gordon Moore

TO DECIDE THIS WEEK-END—The Kentucky High School Athletic Association's Board of Control will meet at Cumberland Lake this week-end to determine the site of the 1957 Kentucky state high school basketball tournament.

This will be the second meeting within two months on the site. It will be the eighth-man board that controls all of the policies of the association. At the May meeting in Louisville, the board split, 4-4, on the site of the tournament, the western Kentucky representatives voting to retain the tournament in Lexington for at least another year.

Personally, we favor Lexington for one more year, reasoning that Louisville has more hotels, restaurants and can easily absorb the tremendous crowd of fans without feeling the pinch, but the purpose of the tournament is for the high schools of Kentucky, not the general public.

Factors which we believe should make the tournament for Lexington next year are: In getting to and from the new fairgrounds, a distance of 16 miles must be covered and this would create an expensive burden on the youths who attend the journey. Secondly, the fairgrounds are not completed yet, especially the fieldhouse, and no specific rental figure has been presented to the board as to daily rental of the fieldhouse.

Thirdly, Lexington is more centrally located for the students of high schools in the state than is Louisville. There are many more reasons why the tournament should still be in Lexington until the crowds surpass any previous one, and Kelly Coleman won't be playing next year.

ALL-STAR GAMES SET—The fifth annual Kentucky high school all-star game in basketball and football in Lexington, August 11, will climax the annual coaching clinic of the University of Kentucky.

Ironically enough, the first speaker at the football banquet will be George football tutor, Bobby Dodd, whose team plays U. K. first on the 1956 grid. Lowell Hughes, Prestonsburg's two-time all-star quarterback, will be the cage game for the football game.

EMMA LOSES IN FINAL—Emma and Prestonsburg's combined entry in the Kentucky state semi-pro baseball tournament at Louisville Monday dropped the championship game to West Liberty, 7-0.

TO OPEN PRACTICE AUGUST 13—Coach Robert Wallace will issue call for football practice August 13. The Black Cats open the 1956 grid season with powerful Louisville Flagger.

WHEELWRIGHT HIGH SET TO RESUME GRID SPORT

By Gordon Moore

Wheelwright high school will resume football in the sports curriculum after an absence of fifteen years.

Walter "Shorty" Jamerson, executive of Kentucky backfield star and later Morehead State College football mentor, will soon start practice in preparation for a limited 1956 schedule.

Since only 450 students are enrolled in the upper four grades, Jamerson will schedule only "B" teams and smaller schools during the fall season, but will unveil a full ten-game schedule for the 1957 season.

Then I got numerous telephone calls from businessmen. This one I'll and 18-year-old boys were sent to fight in World War II and in Korea, nobody worried about it.

ton throughout the country. "After the kids graduate from the Little League, something happens," the scout explains. "We think the older boys haven't enough opportunities, and after a while they get discouraged and give up the idea of baseball."

A former president of a County League was upset over my Little League statements. He wrote, "In my opinion, ten-age baseball is not intended principally, primarily or directly to fight juvenile delinquency. It's a program of baseball and it's various aspects of sportsmanship and competition are trained to mold the character of a youngster. It's strictly a by-product, a happenstance. Managers do not spend 10 to 20 hours a week to re-educate a kid boy. They haven't the opportunity to do so, and rotten kids do not expose themselves to fair competition. Baseball is not the panacea, anyway. How can 10 hours on a ball field help to combat the other 158 hours of home environment? I defend baseball on all its amateur levels—not as a combater of delinquency, but as a sport, a pleasure, a hobby, a way of life, and a way to police men."

The Little Leagues have been sold to the community as the foundation of good citizenship, a creed which makes much of the player living cleanly and never forgetting that he represents the community. The creed also says the coach inspires in his boys a love for the game and the desire to win—that he leads the players by setting a good example.

How different is the gentleman's statement above from such disreputable organizations as the boys clubs which realize because of bad representation, these youngsters should be guided. One doesn't throw up one's hands and say for the "rotten" kids to participate in a program, and the devil take the "rotten" ones. What kind of an endeavor is it where sportsmanship and competition which mold the characters of youngsters are strictly "happenstance" and "by-products"?

It's like saying marriage is strictly for fun and any children from the union are merely by-product and happenstance and you would have a duty to them? I don't believe the Little Leagues should be held guilty as more toys for amusement.

This gentleman, of course, is not representative of the many people who work diligently to help youngsters. But I say again, the emphasis is in the wrong place. Turn that energy to helping the teen-agers even for fun—and the by-product and happenstance will benefit us all.

The Little Leagues, of course, were conceived by Carl E. Stotz, a man who held a modest job in a lumber company in Williamsport. In 1940 there were only four teams in the Williamsport Little League. In 1946, there were 48 teams in 12 leagues, all in Pennsylvania. Within 10 years, Little League teams had increased to over 13,000 with more than 4,000 leagues in 48 states.

Stotz became the commissioner of the nation-wide organization known as Little League Baseball. In 1948, he was elected to the office. In 1950, he was elected to the office. In 1951, he was elected to the office.

Stotz's version was that he and volunteer field personnel "no longer" have a representative voice in Little League policy decisions.

You see what happens now. It was inevitable with the tremendous growth of Little League baseball. Many communities which refused to entertain the idea of providing recreation for the youngsters jumped in with both feet. The result in many cases has been politics and personality clashes, which eventually destroy Stotz's original notion of encouraging all youngsters with a desire to play baseball.

The League scouts tell you that the Little League haven't solved their particular problem—that is a constant flow of talent to the major league once almost automatic because of the many sandlot teams flourish.

Stockmen Reminded About Vaccinating For Blackleg

If you have only a few calves or if you have many, don't let your self grow careless about vaccinating for blackleg," is the advice of R. F. Beakley, animal pathologist at the U. K. Agricultural Experiment Station.

Blackleg causes great losses in Kentucky cattle each year. Beakley says, in spite of the fact that the vaccine is so effective that the disease could be practically wiped out if the vaccine were more widely used.

The most practical way to prevent blackleg, the pathologist says, is to establish a practice of vaccinating all young stock. "Vaccinating calves under 3 months of age gives them immunity until they are 6 months old. When they are 6 months old they should be revaccinated. This will give them immunity to the disease for the rest of their lives."

All young cattle purchased should be vaccinated. Beakley pointed out, as well as those raised at home. After an animal shows symptoms of blackleg there is little that can be done in the way of treatment. The disease strikes quickly. In fact, death often comes so fast that no previous symptoms are noticed. Early symptoms, however, include dullness and lameness, usually followed by fever. Swellings are common in muscles of shoulder, hip, chest, back, or flank, but never below the knees or hock. Usually this is followed by complete loss of appetite, trembling, difficult breathing, and high fever. Death usually occurs in 12 to 48 hours.

The disease is caused by a germ that produces spores which may lie dormant in the pasture for many years and then, when conditions are right, may germinate and produce the disease.

For more details, ask your county agent for Leaflet 123, "Blackleg of Cattle."

Truckers Are Arrested For Tax Non-Payment

Frankfort, July 26 — Kentucky revenue men have caught more than 600 truckers at road blocks and charged them with violating the state's motor fuel tax laws.

Of the 1528 arrested between April 3 and July 1, 1431 were fined. Under state law, truckers are required to procure highway motor fuel users' licenses, post bond and the quarterly tax reports on trucking activity in Kentucky.

A 1956 law requires truckers operating heavy equipment of four or more axle to pay a special two-cent-a-gallon surtax on each gallon of fuel consumed in Kentucky. This is in addition to the regular seven-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline and diesel fuel imposed on all vehicles.

Protests from the new surtax with other highway usage taxes will be used by Gov. A. B. Chandler's administration to help pay off the proposed one hundred million dollar bond issue to be voted on Nov. 6.

The roadblock program, Revenue Commissioner J. E. Luckett said, was designed to obtain compliance with law, not to penalize truckers. The fines and court costs have averaged between $80 and $35. Under the law, a fine could range from $19 to $600.

To My Friends and People Of Floyd County:

I cannot resist the feeling I have to tell all some of my experiences as a magistrate in making trips to Frankfort to talk to our state officials on business that pertains to all of us and our children of Floyd County.

In 1950 I made a trip to Frankfort along with the rest of the magistrates. This was on a special interest of my own and of all other Magistrates of the state. When the former administration had taken away almost all the pay we got for our services, when the law was changed so that we were not to be allowed anything for our road work and to hire a road foreman instead. We talked to the key man of that administration, John Keck, and this is the reply we got: "We are against this method of paying the magistrates from the Governor on down. The magistrates are breaking up the counties by working two days and turning in four."

Then Happy Chandler came along. I did all I could do and am not sorry of it. He won some of my best friends, I am sure, and that I was striking my neck out for no good. This time I did not have my own interest at heart. I was thinking about being in a position to help the people of my district, and all of Floyd County. I was not promised any job—I did not get any job. I did not want any job. I did not ask for any job for any of my kids. I was very proud. I am so well pleased and so confident, after my first meeting with the administration, in Frankfort on July 16, that I am not afraid to talk about it.

We met with Rural Highway Commissioner J. B. Wells, also met with Bert Kiser, State Highway Commissioner. Those fellows treated us real nice—over all the time we wanted with them, over the whole program thoroughly. We also met with and Harry Lee Waterfield's office, then Governor, as Happy was out of state. Just like talking to our home town man. We were not made any wild promises. I am not making any promises here but I can say that I feel in my own mind that here in Floyd County we are not going to be overlooked nor forgotten when it comes for help with our roads. I expect to have something to announce for sure in the near future. Time will tell. I remain a friend to all.

Annual Patients' Picnic At Eastern State Hospital

Lexington, Ky., July 23 (SpA) — The third annual patients' picnic will be held this year at Eastern State Hospital on Wednesday, Aug. 8. The activities will take place on the front lawn of the hospital during the afternoon and early evening. Included in the program will be football games, races and relay midway booths and prizes, a band concert and "supper on the ground."

The picnic is sponsored by the hospital, with the employees giving of their own time for the project. It is also made possible by the cooperation and contributions of interested church groups and civic groups, home-makers clubs, individuals and business firms. This year's group has heretofore furnished all extra treats, such as cookies, candy, cakes, soft drinks and cigarettes.

Last year, 1,350 of the approximately 1,800 patients were on the lawn for the festivities. The patients not able to be brought on the lawn were served similar treats in the wards. This will also be true of this year's picnic. The patients come from the 30 north-east corners of Kentucky, 250-6 of them are from Floyd County.

College Enrollment To Start August 1

Pikeville, Ky., July 26 — A chance to "enroll early and beat the rush" will be offered to this fall's sophomores, Juniors and seniors at Pikeville College.

Beginning August 1, college offices will open each weekday to allow upperclassmen to register for the fall semester. Dr. A. A. Page, college president, announced today, Pikeville will enroll its first senior class this fall, as it becomes a four-year college for the first time in its history.

A capacity enrollment of more than 800 students, which may make it necessary to close some classes before the end of registration, is expected. The course work will be restricted because of limited space and equipment include those in music, art and all the sciences, it was said.

Music will be added this fall to the fields for major study at Pikeville, Dr. Page said. The addition of the music major will help to meet the need for music teachers in the public schools of Eastern Kentucky, which is expected to be even greater under the Minimum Foundation plan, he added.

Highways Claim More American Lives Than War in Korea, Said

More Americans died on the highways in 1953 than on the battlefield during the entire Korean war.

The National Safety Council's statistical Yearbook "Accident Facts" just off the press, shows there were 39,200 traffic deaths in the United States in 1953. Citizens' Traffic Department records list the battle deaths in the Korean War at 33,629.

"We don't for a moment want to imply that the highway is as hazardous as the battlefield," said Ned H. Dearborn, president of the Council. "But the fact is that the loss to the nation from the 1953 traffic toll is greater in terms of human life than the loss sustained in the Korean war. Therefore, it's certainly worth getting excited about."

Approximately 1,350,000 Americans were injured in motor vehicle accidents during the year, the Council said.

Three Mine Fatalities Recorded During June

Frankfort, July 26 — Three coal mine fatalities during June were reported by Commissioner of Mines and Minerals James H. Phelan.

Two fatalities occurred in the Cumberland Valley district while the other was in the Big Sandy-Tur River field. At the same time last year 7 deaths had been recorded. At the end of June last year 26 persons had died in mine accidents while the number this year stands at 32.

Frankfort, July 26.—Charles M. Blackburn, commissioner of the State Department of Motor Transportation reminded all taxicab operators to observe Kentucky law which forbids the transportation, possession and sale of alcoholic beverages in dry counties.

State law, Blackburn said, provides that any carrier violating the statute or regulations established by his departments, may be liable to have his permit revoked, as both driver and employee may be held responsible for violations.

Blackburn recommended strict compliance with the law and called on all operators to give strict supervision to employees.

Business Reports for '54, First Since '48, Ready From Dept. of Commerce

The 1954 census of business reports covering retail, wholesale, selective service trades — the first business census since 1948 — are now being released by the Department of Commerce, according to Robert M. Luckey, manager of the Cincinnati field office.

Simultaneously, the 1954 agriculture census reports, the first since 1950, are also being released, Mr. Luckey reported.

In each of the censuses, county, city, and state statistics are available, covering a wide range of economic data for the respective segments of industry, Trade, and Agriculture, which should be exceedingly useful to businessmen who want to get the most of existing markets as well as explore new outlets for goods and services.

Suppliers to the retail trade can determine where their best markets are by county, city, and state and find out how markets have grown since 1948 and if they have had their share in this business in any particular locality. Approximately 70 kinds of retail business are enumerated, showing number of establishments, dollar sales and employment. These basic economic factors present a picture of trade trends and are a measurement by which any supplier can size up his own business operations.

In the same way, suppliers of machinery, fertilizer, and other equipment to the farmer can analyze their county, city or state markets to determine if they have shared proportionally in agricultural growth.

While the 1954 census of manufacturers shows the very rapid growth in industry since 1947, did every manufacturer share in this growth? The answer can be found in the 1954 census of manufacturers reports which present statistics for each industry, by value of products, employment, payrolls, expenditures for new plant and equipment, etc. Approximately 400 industries are included in these reports.

Requests for price lists of these census reports should be sent to the U. S. Department of Commerce field office, Room 442, U. S. Post Office building, Cincinnati.

PERKINS ASKS STUDY FUNDS

Says Research Program For U. S. Coal Industry Should Get $25 Million

Representative Carl D. Perkins urged last Wednesday that the Government appropriate not less than $25,000,000 for a research program for the coal industry.

The Hindman Democrat said the industry is composed of many small mines and companies and cannot finance such research itself.

"Of the 4,500 mines operating in 1956, over 3,000 mines produced less than 10,000 tons each, a true small-business operation," he said.

"In 1952, 7,000 coal-mining corporations filing income returns indicated profits averaging just $20,000."

Perkins, testifying before the House Interior Affairs Committee, said:

"We all hope that the coal industry reached its lowest ebb in 1954."

He said the industry absorbed the loss of the markets, railroad and domestic heating, which accounted for over a third of sales. The present recovery comes from three expanding markets—steam generation of electricity, increased demands from the steel industry, and foreign exports.

"The recovery is more apparent than real and is unevenly spread," Perkins said.

"Captives' mines, with an assured market from their parent companies, are booming, he said. So are mines with advantageous transportation.

But the bulk of the industry, particularly smaller companies, are leading a hand-to-mouth existence, he declared.

The many small mines in his own district are at a disadvantage when competing with larger companies more advantageously located, he added.

"Yet it is areas like this which must expand in emergencies, that must provide the margin of safety in fuel and energy needs," he said. "This can be accompanied only by a thorough program of research."

AWOL Soldiers Held In Letcher Robbery; $800 in Goods Taken

Two soldiers A.W.O.L. from Fort Knox were held without bond Thursday of last week on robbery charges in the theft of about $800 in goods from the Southeast Coal Company store at Seco, Letcher county.

State Police Trooper Otis Anderson identified the two as James E. Meade, 18, of Wataaker, and Richard Danton, 18, of near Seco. The soldiers admitted the early Tuesday robbery after their arrest yesterday, Anderson said. Dragging operations were under way at Jenkins Lake where the two said they threw part of the loot.

Twenty-four watches, three electric razors, four or five watch bands, two shotguns, and 18 to 20 cartons of cigarettes were among the items stolen, the troopers reported.

Anderson said 11 watches, neck-lace and razors, and one shotgun had been recovered from the men's homes. Both were held for grand-jury action.
