This Town That World

The newspapers that you find in your home are Europe's biggest news works. We wouldn't get on the ground, the Kremlin may increase its output, any minute.

TIMES DO CHANGE

Only this day I have again been reminded of what modern conveniences, goods and services are doing to the direction of human life, ordinarily or expected to take.

I was aware of the fact that the automobile has relegated the horse to the barnyard in these parts and to laah pastures and swank stables in others. That a man can be missing from home seven years, these days, and show up during a certain elevation program and give to more of a greeting than a "Quiet or 'Shudup," that air-conditioning have everybody who ventures into the air conditioning (this is the hottest weather in memory and the host bomb is to blame, even when the thermometer reads 79) was, he was, to the fact that dolls, dolls, alarm clocks, rock and roll music and the telephone and the telephone have just about jangled the human nervous system to the point where the unhappy possessor thereof is ready to lose his mind (only, they don't hardly make them, to me, either).

But I had not taken into consideration one contraption that has upset the women more than has any other, perhaps, and that is the clothes-dryer. This invention of a real genius, I am solemnly reminded, has robbed women of the happiness of carrying their clothes through the week's wash with their neighbors, and moreover, it has deprived them of the inherent right to gossip over clothes-lines and across back-yard fences.

There is blame in Gilead; all is not bad and the whole shebang has not got to have one man tells me, that, although the mechanical dryer has reduced his wife's nervousness to the very minimum, he has not heard from her neighbor's spouse discrediting him in her eyes since their dryer was installed.

FILE PETITION FOR TRANSFER OF BANK SUIT

Election Board, Bank Claim Action Involves Federal Court Issue

The Floyd County Board of Education, its members individually and the Bank System, filed Monday a petition and bond for removal from the Floyd circuit court to the U. S. court for the Eastern district of Kentucky at Pikeville the suit filed against the board recently by the First National Bank here containing a claim change in the depository for Board of Education funds.

The petition asking the change, prepared by Cecil H. Boone, Preston, Ky., attorney, claims the First National suit is a civil action coming under the laws and the constitution of the United States, that it involves this question:

Can the First National Bank, which is a member of the Federal Reserve System, and of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, pay interest, directly or indirectly, on a check drawn on and cashed at the Bank of America, which is not a member of a Federal Reserve system but which is insured under the FDIC regulations, pay interest on such an account?

The First National Bank's original petition contesting the change made by the Board of Education, is captioned as follows:

13 TAKE PART IN SOIL BANK

Floyd Farmers To Earn Benefits By Reduction Of 1956 Tobacco Base

Thirteen farmers of this county are participating in the "soil bank" program of the United States Department of Agriculture. They have entered the program by reducing their tobacco base for the current year.

Elder Gobie, official manager of the local Agricultural Stabilization Committee, wrote the farmers, July 17, who have agreed to reduce their tobacco allotments. He offered the facilities of his office in extending information on the program.

"Since you have entered your tobacco allotment in the acreage program for 1956 there may be a few things that you may not understand. We will try to explain a few things here in this letter that may be of help to you," Gobie wrote.

Farmers who have already set out their tobacco must have all tobacco destroyed by July 31. This that they do not allow the growing of new crop is to be harvested from the area and it is not to be planted.

Farmers who have not set their tobacco must set aside an area of land equal to their tobacco allotment. This is not to be cultivated or planted.

There will be penalties for not complying with these regulations. A check will be made but we do not know when or by whom it will be made.

Farmers participating are John Dyer, Chauncey Hager, Homer Newby, Curtis Hackworth, Eddie Hackworth, Coet Handhoo, Joe Prater, Frank M. Lyle, Jr., Henry Pratt, Clarence Tackett, John Pratt, Glenn Bradley, and Julian Laters.

Mrs. Rosa Belle Cecil, 72, of Banner, died at 8:50 a.m. Tuesday at her home in the city of Banner. She was a victim of cardiac failure. She had been ill three days.

A daughter of the late Andy and Emma Cecil Gunnels, she was the wife of Tandy Cecil, who survives. Surviving children are James Cecil, Jr., of Sumner, Billy Cecil, Lincoln Park, Mo., and Mrs. Erin Owens of Banner. Surviving brothers and sisters are Ballard Gunnels, of Banner, Mrs. Virgie Aker and Mrs. Nora Shogden, all of Banner.

BERRY CO-OP LOSES $2,700

Failure of Hazard Plant Costs Strawberry Ass'n Is Report Received Here

Losses to the farmers of the West Kentucky Strawberry Growers Association, because of the financial difficulties of the processing plant at Hazard will amount to approximately $2,700, it was said here this week.

Warehouse receipts for the berries shipped to the processing plant's four-county area, of which Floyd is one, were sold by a Hazard bank, to satisfy the bank's debt to the processing plant. The bank had a quired title to the receipts, which are negotiable, from the processor as additional collateral to loans. Then the receipts, representing 156,000 pounds of processed berries, were sold to the Cumberland Strawberry Growers Association of Somerset, which, like the local cooperative here had accounts receivable from the processor.

Directors of the co-op have been investigating the matter and after a trip to Hazard and interviews with the plant owner and the bank offer little hope of recovering any of the amount due farmers in this area. The Hazard processor does have, it was said, about $250 worth of processed berries in Louisville.

It was explained that berries shipped to the processor were over-ripe and small, unsuitable for the regular fresh fruit market and that the processor had to sell them at a loss.

Harold Rice, former Floyd county agent, of Johnson county, is manager of the Hazard processor. He said that the processor has been handling the berries with the Hazard processor on the basis of 18 cents per pound, but payment was delayed until the season was over. Soon after the season's close, however, the Hazard bank acquired title to the warehouse receipts, forcing the processor to sell them at a loss.

28% of Under-20 Group In Floyd Get 1st Shots For Prevention of Polio

Of the 27,528 persons in Floyd county who are under 20 years of age, 7,801 have received at least one injection of Salk vaccine for the prevention of polio, figures released this week by Health Administrator M. V. Clark show.

These figures are in excess of those published earlier, because they had received vaccine prior to May 1, this year.

The Floyd immunization program which has been operating since last year, has reached 28 percent of those in this age group receive at least one "shot" is more effective than 45 percent in other counties of the state and places Floyd in the top 35.

In addition to the 7,801 initial injections given in this county, 4,877 have received their second "shots" and 376 their third. A total of 12,774 vaccinations since the Salk vaccine became available in October, 1955.

Woodford county leads all counties of the state in protecting its children against polio with 47.6 percent of its 4,128 under-20 population having received their first inoculations. Harlan county, according to figures released by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, has the worst record with only 28.8 of 39,193 being first shot.

The Kentucky Strawberry Growers Association, because of the financial difficulties of the processing plant at Hazard will amount to approximately $2,700, it was said here this week.

Cashier's Checks Were Pretty But Worthless; Woman Is Being Sought

HITS TROUBLE ON DOGS HERE

Cooperation Lacking, Cook Says; 7 Bitten Get Anti-Rabies Shots

While Roy Cook, county dog warden, was having his troubles with the dog situation in Prestonsburg, he has considered among the town were taking anti rabies treatments this week after having been bitten by a dog.

Cook said he was surprised when he failed to get expected cooperation from some citizens who had been considered among Prestonsburg's best. Their dogs have not been licensed and have been permitted to run at large.

"I'm playing no favorites, and I've got a job to do, unpleasant as it may be," Cook said. "So we must tackle Prestonsburg and do the very best we can." He added that he had a list of those who were taking anti rabies shots.

A five-month-old puppy last week bit five children in the family here of Ernest "Cat-Tail" Campbell, owner of the dog, then ranged into the Trimble Branch section of town to bite a child of Eddie George and one of the family of Elmo Collins. These are the seven now receiving daily shots at the health department.

The dog was shot in the head, and so laboratory tests for rabies could not be made.

W. H. Clark, administrator of the health department, said Wednesday that the seven now receiving treatment make a total of 36 persons who have been vaccinated against anti-rabies serum since the first of 1956. He said that the first of the "shots," which has meant an expense to Floyd families of $210, plus the physical examination of each dog as a warning to all who own stray, unlicensed dogs.

Mr. Clark added that during that period herds of 14 animals have been seen in the past.

STEEL STRIKE ENDS, MINERS BACK AT WORK

Inland Steel Resumes Work at Wheelwright, Helping Small Mines

All Floyd county coal mining operations affected by the nation's steel strike went back to work this week with virtual agreement of a steel contract last Saturday.

Biggest operation hit by the steel strike in the county was the Inland Steel Company's "captive" mines at Wheelwright and its huge Price coal preparation plant at Shoups, but more employees of Inland Steel returned to work Monday morning.

Coal shipped from Wheelwright also reopened several truck mines which sell their coal to local shippers and which had been forced to quit work with the idling of Inland Steel mines.

Generally, mining men are optimistic about the future of the industry. Foreign coal shipments are still heavy, and the outlook for this market, is considered good, some even considered a boom, even considered a boom, even considered a boom.

Settlement of the steel strike came barely in time to avert a general idling of business in this area. Effects of the idling of miners were becoming more and more apparent when fighting of the new contract brought the hopes for relief.

The new nation's work-stoppages is now seen with the wage-agreement in the aluminum industry, several of a strike there would not have the direct effect on coal that a steel strike has.

Under the new steel contract employees will receive a 46-cent raise over a period of three months. Higher wages and homes are predicted next year as a result of the raise.

BRIDGE REPAIR IS UNCERTAIN

State, County Officials Inspect Collapsed Span That Served Wide Area

County Judge Henry Stumbo said this week that it is not yet plain what the bridge spanning restoring the service to a sizeable area of the bridge spanning Beaver Creek at Allen. The span collapsed recently because the weight of a loaded soft-drum truck.

District Highway Commissioner General Eugene of Hindman, and District Engineer J. P. Moore of Pikeville, inspected the bridge last week with County Judge Stumbo and County Attorney Howell. The Commissioner, Steve Akers, it was estimated that $8,000 would be required to repair the bridge to sustain a three-ton load.

It was indicated, however, that repair will not be given serious consideration by the state. Mr. Paget said he would recommend that the state build a new bridge, but he added that such work might not be started for months.

Meanwhile, the town of Deale, at the north side of Beaver Creek from Allen to the village of Crader and the Bull Creek section, will have access to U. S. 23 and Ky. 80 only via Prestonsburg.

VETERANS TRAINING PROGRAM WORLD'S LARGEST, IS ENDED

The largest veteran's training program the world has ever known in America shortly after the war by removing from the labor market hundreds of thousands of veterans who probably wouldn't have been able to find work.

The reason, they state, is that wartime production had ceased, but production for peace hadn't yet taken up the slack. And more than 2,000,000 veterans, instead of looking for jobs in that hectic time of reconstruction, were in school and training, readjustments, preparing for better futures.

Well, the program at an end. VA looked back over the record of 11 years of GI training.

Of the more than 7,000,000 veterans throughout the nation who received training, 2,200,000 attended college; 3,500,000 went to schools below the college level; 1,400,000 took on-the-job training and 200,000 enrolled in institutional on-farm training.

In Kentucky, 114,000 veterans over 16 of Kentucky's population trained under the GI Bill 24,000 enrolled in Kentucky's colleges and universities; 88,500 attended schools below the college level; 24,000 took on-the-job training and 27,500 took farm training.

Out of every 100 trained veterans, 33 aimed for highly-skilled trade and industrial jobs; 10 resumed scientific studies, including engineering and medicine; another 10 went into management and business administration; still another 10 learned the latest techniques of scientific farming; 6 studied the humanities and most of these had sales and clerical courses; 3 prepared to be teachers; and the rest 10 went into a wide variety of other occupations.

Many of these veterans today hold jobs in fields where there are critical shortages of manpower, VA said.

GI Bill training has helped raise the median income of veterans back to the level of the general population. Six years ago, with a 19 percent pay raise for non-veteran males in the same age group, another survey showed that veterans' educational level is better than four years of high school, while the level of non-veteran males, same age group, is but two years of high school.

The GI Bill training program has cost $14 billion—an investment that already is paying dividends to America in terms of veteran education, VA said. Only five cents out of every dollar has been spent for administration of the program.

The cost of GI Bill training in Kentucky is estimated at $28,200,000.

TEAGUE URGES VACCINATION

Of All Pregnant Women Against Polio; Supplies Of Vaccine Are Ample

"The importance of vaccinating pregnant women against polio must be emphasized," Dr. Russell E. Teague, Commissioner, Kentucky State Department of Health, said last week. "Kentucky's first polio death of the year that of a young expectant mother, reminds us that so many mothers, thinking first of their children, neglect to protect themselves."

Dr. Teague was referring to a Lexington mother who, with her unborn child, died of polio July 2. Although her 16-month-old daughter had been vaccinated, the mother had not taken vaccine. Pregnant women are more susceptible to polio than other women in their age group.

"Enough vaccine is available in the state to protect all pregnant women, as well as persons under 20 years of age—the other most susceptible group," Dr. Teague said. "Expectant mothers should begin the series of injections early in their pregnancy, as three doses will give the most effective protection against polio, in the majority of cases," he added.

To meet the recommended dose the first injection of polio vaccine should be followed by a second in from two to six weeks, and a booster dose to build up long-lasting protection should be given after seven months or more. Medical authorities have long assumed that it is safe to take vaccine during the summer, if the usual precautions about postponing injections during illness are observed.

Expectant mothers are being urged to consult their physicians and to follow the plan adopted by the medical profession in their localities for administration of the vaccine.

Former Johns-cr. Man Indicted in Magallin

The Magiffin county grand jury has returned a reckless-driving indictment against Hedy Morrison, 20, Perin, Ind., formerly of Johns Creek, this county who was involved in a highway accident July 9 that injured 19 persons.

County Attorney Arnett Mann said that Morrison was indicted by the current grand jury and that the case might come up at the September term of court.

State police and Morrison were driving an automobile that collided with a station wagon carrying 16 wards of the Home for Children's Home at Womac, Magiffin county. State Trooper Jack Roberts said after the accident that Morrison was charged with reckless driving and driving without a license.
