The Unfortunate Man — Joe Smith

IM FULL OF BOLOGNA

SHOULD HAVE BEEN SIMPLE
 Not long ago we were pestered somewhat by what you might call the advance man of a well-dressed lady whose occult profession included a bit of fortune-telling and palm-reading for a livelihood. This swarthy gentleman insisted that a Lexington newspaper had a palm that he should get for his ad. We admit, we were a bit nettled by his persistence, so when we wrote the newspaper about getting the mat we requested, that if the mat was lying around handy to send it to us, otherwise to forget the whole affair.

"This is the reply we received: We are sorry we have nothing of this nature in our services. If your man is clever he might be able to pull one out of his crystal ball."

Reader's Digest quotes (from the Greatheart Parish) English Church magazine. "The bring-and-buy sale was rather like heaven. Many we were expected to there were absent."

INTEGRATION MOVE MADE

Palmer-Dunbar Seniors Go To Wheelwright Hi; Bus Transport Solved

Opening of the larger schools of the county Monday marked another step toward integration. The senior class of Palmer-Dunbar high school were admitted to Wheelwright high school which hitherto had been for the use of white pupils only. Freshmen, sophomores, and juniors at Palmer-Dunbar will continue to attend their own school. But county residents of Wheelwright had asked only that their seniors be transported to the white high school so that they could take classes in chemistry, typing, shorthand and one or two other courses that are offered there but not at Palmer-Dunbar. This, however, would have necessitated two bus runs daily to accommodate only three pupils, or a committee of 10 persons representing Wheelwright churches and civic groups studied the need of the pupils, then recommended to the County Board of Education that the three colored pupils be permitted to attend regular classes with the white pupils. Integration at Wheelwright in the transportation system was effected last year. The school bus for colored pupils was scheduled to make the last run of mornings. White pupils who wanted to catch a few extra minutes of school before the bus had left were already on their way to the school. Before long, excitement was rising about this, and that late morning bus was most heartily welcomed.

Health Administrator Announces Regulations To Govern Food Selling

In response to many inquiries about health department regulations on food and drink concessions at the Labor Day celebration at Allen county, Monday, Mountain Clark, county health administrator, said Tuesday that both state and county health regulations permit only pre-wrapped and packaged foods as well as only bottled drinks to be sold in the open.

Permission to prepare and serve foods at public gatherings such as fairs, carnivals, etc., entail quite a bit of expenditure, Mr. Clark said, adding that anyone interested further in this should call their health department.

The health administrator also said that county sanitarians will be on the grounds at the Allen celebration to prohibit all possible assistance in promoting good sanitation in the protection of the health and well-being of the people. "This is our job," Mr. Clark said. "Help us to be able to do a good job in protecting you and your children."

here's why ELECTRIC HEAT is the most comfortable heat you can have

Thousands of homeowners have found that for sheer comfort you can't beat Electric Heat. No matter how cold it outside, an electrically heated house is warm throughout. Here are three reasons why this is so.

automatic individual room controls

Each room has its own thermostat to give you the temperature you like—no overheating one room to get another at a comfortable temperature. No need to heat that seldom used room.

gentle uniform heat

The whole room is warmed evenly whether you have wall, baseboard or ceiling units. No more cold floors, no more drafts.

instant heat

From the moment it's on you get gentle warmth throughout the entire room.

Building a new house or remodeling your present one? You'll find Electric Heat economical for either. See an electric heating contractor or call us for more information.

"WILL ANTIQUE LANGUAGE RETURN?"

Many a antique who buys at that the funny word had formerly been the correct one and that there was a time when climbed was incorrect as known was and gested a return to some of the antique ways we used in say things. I am not making any such suggestion, however, for the ways when we do not understand. Climb went the way of fit and help. It was neither better nor worse than the new word; it merely was not accepted by the right people. Like that a Ford car could take you anywhere except into good society.

The words that I wish most to have a good social standing did not originate in old English but came in later, when they were needed. Here, here, curru, theirn. The oldest phase of our language my and thy did not exist; the words were mine and thine. Just as the corresponding words still are in German. But these words were seen developed two uses; in one use the n was left; in the other, it was lost. "My book" the book is mine." This predicate use of mine gave rise to the words cited above. It became customary, in the 1300's, to say "his book," "The book is his." That is down-right useful and should have been kept, along with some of the homely translation of Wyclif, where it and the other taboo words appear. Nothing so expressive has yet appeared in our pronouns, but society ruthlessly turned thumbs down on the words, and it would take a braver man than I am to resurrect them. Would you be willing to form with me an antique-word club and set up shop? Nay, verily.

Not many weeks ago a perfectly good and honest man told me how he help his neighbor clear a new-ground. He was using the very words of Chaucer: "That hem have hope when that they were sick." A great many of my fidelity friends used this old form regularly, though some of us smiled behind our hands, when we heard this quaint old word and associated it only with people considerably below us in intelligence and socially. Helped seems to have won out in the race; it is hardly likely that our children's will say that they help anybody.

For ages our language referred to an object or thing as his. "We had inherited that word, along with he and him and his. It was neither old nor quaint, every-body, high and low, said it. Maybe it was our English tendency to make his silent that led to the dropping of that initial h, though we kept it in other words. Of course, the word hit got mixed up with social customs and was branded as the usage of primitive or ignorant people. And society prevailed; if a respectable public man said hit today, we would accuse him of being a bad citizen, he would probably have to defend himself against wife beating and general cussedness.

One of the finest women I ever knew, one with a pretty good education in pre-Civil War days when she was young, regularly said "climb for the past tense of climb. Again we proper ones who had studied Harvey's GRAMMAR at the country school, leached privately about the old-fashioned pronunciation, little knowing

Small Colleges Better for Students, Happier for Teachers, Writes Educator

The concern of small colleges with the individual makes them better for students and happier for teachers than the impersonal universities, writes Dr. Elton Trueblood in an article, "Why I Chose a Small College," in September Reader's Digest. He reports the small college has undergone a remarkable rebirth in the last ten years.

Dr. Trueblood, now professor of philosophy at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., earlier was on the faculties of Stanford and Harvard.

Scientists, business leaders, and persons with distinction enough for Who's Who in America. Dr. Trueblood writes, are produced by small colleges out of all proportion to their size and resources.

"Of the first 50 institutions in America, judged by the scientific excellence of their graduates," reports Dr. Trueblood, "39 are small, privately supported colleges."

Of the 106 board chairmen and presidents of America's 96 billion-dollar companies 62.3 percent are graduates of such independent institutions.

Roger M. Blough, chairman of the U. S. Steel Corp., for example, is a graduate of Susquehanna University; Harlow H. Curtis, president of General Motors, of Ferris Institute; Robert E. Wilson, chairman of the Standard Oil Co., of Indiana, of Wooster College; Ralph J. Cordiner, president of General Electric, of Whitman College; John J. McCloy, chairman of the Chase-Manhattan Bank, of Amherst College.

Dr. Trueblood lists three virtues in small college life. "First," he says, "is the attention, tutoring, concern for the individual. . . . In a university with 10,000 or 15,000 students, a student can go through four years and until his Commencement never even see, much less meet, his president. The professor in the small school has students in numbers small enough so that each, for him, is a person in whose welfare he can take an intimate interest."

"The second fact which works to the great advantage of the student is that every student has the opportunity to find and engage in those activities which will develop his maximum capacities. . . . The student body of many thousands an individual is often lost in the anonymous mass. His role in the university's extracurricular activities is that of participant but of spectator.

"The third and to me the most important of the small college is its concern rooted in religion, for character development."

"Nearly half of the small colleges operated in the red last year but Dr. Trueblood reports an upswing in alumni giving and a rallying of industry and business to the small college's support."

"Many must have additional buildings and facilities," writes Dr. Trueblood. "But now the prospects are vastly improved as more and more Americans recognize what the small college contributes and how essential it is to strengthen and extend its contribution."

Dog Law Success Is Told In Review By Administrator

Dangerous dogs are disappearing and the livestock population is increasing, Wayland Rhoads, administrator of the 1954 Kentucky dog law, says.

During discussion of progress under the law, Rhoads said the most aggravating problem is around the state line. Farmers near the Tennessee border are having their herds raided often. Complainants came mostly from Graves, Simpson, Fulton and Logan counties, he said.

"Not even the Ohio River is proof against dogs from other states," Rhoads said. "We constantly pick up strays dropped by owners who drive across the river from Indiana and Ohio. Maybe they think the river is the best guarantee the dogs won't come home," he said.

The 1954 law made provisions for cracking down on unlicensed dogs. It required payment of $1.00 license for all dogs and earmarked the revenue for hiring dog wardens and accumulating a livestock fund to pay owners whose stock is killed by dogs.

Since enactment of the law, 92,171 stray dogs have been humanely destroyed by dog wardens, Rhoads estimated another 50,000 have been killed by farmers.

Dog packs are no longer active in the state and with the enforcement of the dog law, unwanted strays are eliminated and the good dogs are protected.

Before enforcement of the dog law was started, sheep population was dropping steadily. This year, Rhoads said, sheep business will increase by about one million head. Rhoads estimated this would mean an additional three million to four million in farm income.

Lot licenses were sold in 100 counties last year as compared with 51 counties the year before, Rhoads said.

The state is paying $93,828 in claims from farmers whose stock has been destroyed. More than $100,000 has been paid into the livestock fund, the administrator added.

Ranier Buys Pike's Peak Race Winner For Try at Southern 500's Grand Prize; Wells Is Mechanic, Patterson To Drive

Back for their fourth and hoped to be their most successful try with a new racing car in the Southern 500 in Lexington, Va., are Harry Ranier, of Prestonsburg, owner of the car, his mechanic, John P. Wells, and Johnny Patterson, driver, who will represent Kentucky's only chance to register in that meet.

For television viewers the car which Ranier will enter in the race will be familiar since it is the same car which won the nationally publicized Pike's Peak race. The same Chevrolet was bought from the General Motors Corporation by Ranier for this race and is featured on billboards across the country.

Monday is the day in which all the cars began racing in the National Association of Stock Car Races in Darlington. According to Wesley Howard, previous races have been won by Hudson (17), Oldsmobile (2), Ram Dodge (1), and Chevrolet (1). The Prestonsburg men feel very confident of their chances this year.

Car 38 is one to notice if you broadcast are available for stock car enthusiasts. It was noted that in 1953 the same driver, Patterson, in a Hudson came in second in 1954, in a Mercury; fourth, and in 1955, in a Mercury, wrecked while avoiding a car which exploded.

This year's car has a powerful Corvette motor. Flat car rules allow anything to be replaced or added to the car as long as it is listed in the parts book. The race, on Labor Day, is on a straight track which is one and three-eighths miles long. The first 75 cars having the best qualifying times are eligible for the race. The top qualifying time will take $500, and the first car to finish race will take $14,000. Ten prizes are given for a total of $42,000 prize money to the first ten cars.

John P. Wells is serving as the mechanic, and John Patterson, who is well known around this area for his driving, will be trying for the fifth time at the Darlington Track. Patterson, it was said, is rated in the top ten drivers, over the United States.

JAYCEES PLAN FOOTBALL PROGRAM

The Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce is planning to produce and edit an elaborate football program for all of the Prestonsburg Black Cats six home football games.

Kentucky high school football teams need only one more date might turn to the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference teams to complete their 1956 football schedules.

Virtually every school in the loop has open dates and several has as many as two with the season slated to get under way next week.

Newcomers to football circles this season will be three high schools, M. C. Napier, Wheelwright and Leslie County, and all at least on an open date.

Napier Memorial, located in Perry county at the edge of the Hazard city limits, has September 20th and October 5th open dates. Wheelwright, in the southern tip of Floyd, has carded only two open dates.

Other loop teams have the following open dates available: Fleming-Neon, September 8; Bell County, September 17 and September 28; Elkhorn City, September 14; Hazard, October 19; Whitesburg, November 2nd; Prestonsburg, August 31; and Pikeville, October 26.

GRID GOSSIP

Tom Lucia, ex-University of Louisville little All-American football star, has been named head football mentor at Louisville high school... Paintsville high school is in the process of completing new stands on one side of its field. To be completed before next week, the Johnson county stadium will seat 5,000 people... Two games the week-end of Friday, August 31, will open the season in Eastern Kentucky. Fleming is at Bellamy and M. C. Napier is at Whitesburg, then on Monday, September 3, Elkhorn City visits Pikeville and on Tuesday, September 4, Paintsville opens with McCall at home.

The annual Eastern Kentucky grid clinic for officials and coaches was held in Whitesburg last Thursday night with a record attendance. M. C. Napier will use Hazard's field for all home games. Wheelwright will use the baseball park there, one of the best fields and lighting stadiums in Kentucky. John Thompson, ex-Louisiana high school coach, will assist Denver Ball at Raeland during the season.

Arthur Mullins, who will handle the football duties at Elkhorn this season is the oldest coach in point of service at one school in Eastern Kentucky. This will be his 15th season. Buddy Fields, Whitesburg high school all-state football two seasons ago, reportedly will enroll at Morehead State College this fall. He played his freshman year with the University of Tennessee. Service Retiree, Donald Willis, will enroll at Morehead, September 1. He was a four-year fullback with Prestonsburg in his high school days.

Three E. K. M. C. schools, Fleming, Pikeville, and Paintsville are attending football camps outside the state... Hazard has just completed a six-day stay at Dewey Lake.

Order by Kiser Says "Dual Firms" Unable To Operate For State

Frankfort, Aug. 24 — Highway commissioner Bert Kiser has issued an order barring firms that act as consulting engineers on road projects from holding any contracts.

Kiser directed that firms accepting commissions for surveys and planning of roads cannot bid on construction.

The commissioner commented: "We do not propose to commission consulting engineers to represent our interests in the planning of highways and at the same time represent their own interests as contractors."

Chief State Highway Engineer Dwight Bray said a number of construction firms recently had established engineering divisions.

He added "This order was intended to forestall any complications that might arise if some firms sought to act as both consulting engineers and contractors."

Mills Resigns As Coach At Inez High School

Claude Mills, head basketball coach at Inez high school for the past four years, resigned last week to accept a teaching post in the West Franklin Elementary School, Columbus, Ohio.

Mills' 1954 Indiana team won the Kentucky State high school basketball championship and completed an overall 33 and 2 record. His four-year record at the Martin county school was 96 wins against 24 losses.

The 25-year-old native of Inez, leaves a team of four regulars—one senior, two juniors and a sophomore. In addition, three transfer students are expected to make the '56 '57 team a serious threat for regional honors.

Mills earned an A. B. degree from Morehead State College, where he was a star outfielder on the baseball nine and later his M.A. degree from the University of Kentucky. His successor has not been named.

Only a Ford pickup gives you modern Short Stroke power in your choice of V-8 or six engine!

Ford Trucks prove their dependability on the biggest construction job since the Panama Canal!

Not in 42 years has the world seen such a massing of construction men and machines. They're clearing the way to the heart of a continent—in the mighty St. Lawrence Power and Seaway project.

The going's rugged and the completion date allows no delay. That's why you find tough, dependable Ford trucks at work everywhere.

How those Fords can take it! A proven fact Ford trucks outlast every other leading make! And their day-in, day-out dependability is a major reason why Ford trucks cost less. It means less downtime, lower repair costs, more work output.

Ford's first cost is low. The gas and oil economy of modern Short Stroke engines keeps running costs low. And longer-lived Ford trucks bring top dollar on resale. To get lower truck costs all around, take a tip from America's biggest truck users—the men who know truck costs best.

Ford T-800 working at the Inoukou Control Dam baffle steel night and day—without letup! This big job flows a flow of two-Torque King V-8's—200 and 212 horsepower. Power Steering and tachometer standard. Max. GVW 45,000 lb.

Using latest registration data on 100,000, 351 trucks, life insurance experts prove Ford trucks last longer.

MILLION VOTES TO BE STOLEN IF 1952 POLL FRAUD REPEATED

Over a million votes will be stolen in the forthcoming presidential election unless citizens are more vigilant than they were in 1932. This prediction is based on a country-wide survey showing increasing election frauds reported by Jack Harrison Pollack in a September Reader's Digest article, "How Crooks Steal Your Vote," condensed from the National Municipal Review.

The Honest Ballot Association estimates that at least a million votes were stolen in the 1932 presidential election. Samuel H. Still, veteran investigator of election campaigns for Congressional committees, told Mr. Pollack that about 50 public figures are now in offices they would not have won if the election had been legally conducted. Election thieves are not confined to any area nor to any type of election, the survey finds.

Paper ballots, still used in two thirds of the United States, offer the greatest opportunity for fraud. They are easy to change, easy to fake, easy to stuff. "A favorite trick of the crooked ballot-counter," Mr. Pollack writes, "is to conceal a piece of pencil lead with wax to make it stick under a finger nail or a large ring. While smoothing out the ballot, voters conceal the lead. He will mark additional crosses before candidates' names—thus insuring their election."

Voting machines have helped reduce election frauds. But they are required on general elections in only six states. Desirable as they are, voting machines assure 100 percent tamper-proof. Ballot thieves can wedge matches, hairpins or metal clip under a lever to prevent it from registering. They can manipulate the curtain release rod so that your vote does not register.

FARM NOTES LATE GARDENS: A late garden plot need not be an unsightly mass of weeds and dead plant stalks and vines. Before some suggested pointers to keep your garden green through the winter.

STORING VEGETABLES: Just before frost threatens, put into storage the vegetables of the acre worth storing. Store only sound vegetables. Under ripe vegetables are almost sure to spoil, and those that are over-ripe are longer but palatable. Onions may be stored in small bundles in a cool place until the tops are completely wilted.

Potatoes should be stored in a cool moist place or there is a place for them they should be left in the ground, and the soil turned over to keep the roots as a top. Then cut a furrow to depth below the potatoes on either side of the rows and heap dirt in a mound over the rows allowing moisture to run away from the potatoes.

Approximately 6,000 acres of strawberries were grown in 30 Kentucky counties this year.

ERRONEOUS IDEA
The idea that you must instantly cut the throat of any animal to bleed it as soon as you have shot it is erroneous and out of date, according to Sports Field. The butcher does it, but he stuns or brains a meat animal first, then hangs it up by its hind legs, cuts the throat deep, and the blood pours out, insuring better meat. You cannot do this in the woods; besides, a modern bullet destroys so much tissue, the cavity fills with blood immediately, and the cutting of the throat would not help this blood to escape.

Miners' Retirement Sets New Welfare Pattern
Almost a billion dollars collected for the United Mine Workers and Retirement Fund has brought modern medicine and "a bit of mercy beyond the veil" to the southern Appalachian hills. Ira Wolfert tells the story in his article, "The Miner's Fund—A Tribute to Good Management," in the September Reader's Digest.

Where 20 years ago, bitter strife and a death week in "Bloody Harlan" county in Kentucky, greeted attempts of the United Mine Workers to organize, today union and employers jointly administer a fund which made possible the recent opening of ten well-equipped hospitals staffed with 100 doctors. The hospitals are all located in an area 100 miles wide and 150 miles long in Kentucky and West Virginia.

In this hill country, the infant mortality and death rates for mothers were twice the national average; an investigation revealed 29 of 34 normal operations performed had been mistakes because of faulty diagnosis; and such remedies as the blood of a black cat for shingles and strapped-around copper wire for arthritis were common.

To John L. Lewis, union mine leader, this Fund offers the pattern care—such as it was—for the 48,000 men injured annually in the mines. It was passed on to the taxpayers regardless of whether they were contributors of coal or not. For that reason, the United Mine Workers believe they are setting a goal for others to follow to relieve the State of the necessity of caring for the extraordinary cost of industries which are particularly hazardous.

"The Fund has spent as much as $100,000 on one man in its effort to rehabilitate the 12,843 amputees, paraplegics and others crippled over the years in mine accidents, many virtually living dead. It provides lifelong specialist care, providing a pension of $100 a month at age 60, and numerous other benefits, all financed by a 40-cent a ton levy on each ton of coal sold."

My friend, Carter W. FERTILIZING STRAWBERRIES
For strawberry patches that are not showing the growth and start that they should this time of the year, an application of 300 pounds of 10-10-10 or 10-10-20 fertilizer per acre should be applied. This application of fertilizer should be applied before September 1, not to cause setting of fruit buds. Apply the fertilizer while the plants are dry and then brush the fertilizer of the plants.

STARTING A NEW PATCH
Fall planting of strawberries is not recommended because of the damage to the plants during the winter. Strawberries should be set early in the spring (March or early April) to insure good summer development. Many times the soil in Floyd county is too wet to plow during the early spring. To insure early setting the soil should be plowed in the fall except land subject to excessive erosion. Land that is turned in the fall is conditioned by freezing and thawing during the winter, and usually requires only a harrow to put in shape for setting in the spring.

STRAWBERRY MULCH
To insure a good crop of clean strawberries next spring it is essential that the plants be protected through the winter by a good mulch. Now is the time to prepare for mulching by obtaining your mulching material and storing it near your strawberry patch. Straw has been proven to be the most satisfactory mulching material to the growers of Floyd county. The straw should be piled loosely around the patch early in the fall so that it will soak up moisture and germinate the weed and crop seeds. If the straw is baled, the straws should be cut to allow moisture to enter the bale. It will require one to two tons of straw to mulch one acre of strawberries.

Feed Per Day Cut 5% to 27%

Compared to conventional low to high efficiency rations

Purina Super-Efficient Laying Chows lowered the cost of producing a dozen eggs on thousands of poultry farms here in the East. These feeds go a long step beyond high efficiency, with the addition of more Pure-Fat, more corn, more protein, less fiber and a vitamin-mineral adjustment.

- It is just like pouring more feed into every bag—because there is more egg-making energy in each 100 lbs.
- Many poultrymen will lower feed cost as much as  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{4}$  a dozen.
- Test Purina and see for yourself. Give us a ring.

Trainer of Rin Tin Tin Chooses With Caution Dogs for Film Work

Lee Duncan, who is currently working in television with Rin Tin Tin TV series, is a highly cautious man when it comes to selecting a dog for film work.

According to an article in the September issue of Sports Afield magazine, only the dogs from the hundreds bred have made the grade including the present star's son, who is being groomed for future stardom.

Two qualities that Duncan insists on in the pups he selects to train are spirit and lack of fear. If a dog has these qualities he may be considered for further physical screening. Dogs with dark blue eyes are preferred for screen work.

Duncan believes in beginning the dog's schooling as early as possible. "Keep it simple at first," he advises. "Nurture the dog's affection for you and develop the work that makes a dog want to work. Sometimes we find dogs who simply don't want to learn. They'll bite the actor's pants, but they don't have the capacity to absorb the amount of discipline necessary in a film dog."

Most important in advanced training for movie work is instant and absolute obedience. When a dog is working in a film scene, there isn't time for him to look around after the command and see if it is going to be given again. The timing of the dog's actions must be in harmony with that of the actors, or the scene is ruined.

Still another difficulty is to get the dog to play to an actor and yet be aware of the commands of his trainer who is standing just out of the scene. Duncan tries to position himself as closely to the edge of the scene as possible.

"Probably more important than anything else in the training of a dog is mutual love and affection," says Duncan. "When a dog learns you're his friend, your problem is practically solved."

Foods listed as plentiful by the USDA include: berries and nuts, beef, canned and processed beef, products, milk and other dairy products, fresh berries, peaches, fruit, plums, peanut butter, canned tuna, oil and summer vegetables.

Auxier Man, New Faculty Member At Pike College

Pikeville, Ky., Aug. 28 (SpL)—Paul Dean Wells, Auxier, Ky., is among three more Pikeville College faculty members named today as preparations for the school's first opening as a four-year college neared completion.

A. in philosophy from the University of Mississippi and B. A. in psychology from Louisiana State University, where he has also done further graduate work, it was announced. He has been an assistant professor of child development in the agricultural experiment station of LSU. Woodchuck—Friend to Rabbit?
Woodchucks are often defended as aids to rabbits, the chuck burrows providing cover for them. There is considerable dispute over this now—rabbits seem to be thriving where there are no woodchucks.—Sports Afield.

Three Things Are Required
Woodchucks require three things: succulent grasses for food; a locale where they can sit in the burrow entrance to see that the coast is clear, and sun them before; and there must be water nearby.—Sports Afield.
