In Floyd county, where employment was at a high level, income good and population rising, dynamic advances were made in the past year. Particularly did it profit the local retail merchants, whose cash registers jingled $17,725,000 more for the year.

Of this total, automotive sales were responsible for $4,079,000 and food sales, $4,609,000. In both cases the trend to more luxurious living was in evidence. People were buying better cars and more of them, additional families were acquiring second cars.

Similarly, the study shows, they were spending more for food, going in for finer cuts of meat and for better grades of canned goods. And they were consuming them in greater volume.

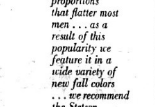

Stores selling general merchandise had a $3,338,000 year, accounting for 19 percent of the consumer dollar.

Sales of hardware supplies, building materials and lumber came to $1,476,000, another 8 percent.

Shops selling clothing and other apparel grossed $996,000 equal to 4.4 percent.

Health Dept. Leader Points To Regulations On Fair Foodhandling

M. V. Clark, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department, said this week that regulations on the sale of foods and beverages at fairs may be prepared at the health department by any person who plans to have a concession at the county fair which opens here next Wednesday. At the same time he urged compliance with these regulations in the interest of public health.

In a prepared statement, Mr. Clark said: "We recommend that only pre-wrapped sandwiches, packaged goods and bottled drinks be sold in open-air stands where running water can not be had."

"If there are persons who are interested in meeting regulations for the making and serving of hot sandwiches at the fair use at the health department will be more than glad to discuss the regulations with you and help you in every way that we can."

"We feel very sure that these state regulations were not devised for sheer folly but by expertly trained persons who have only the best health interests of you, your children and the public in general at heart. We also feel sure that when at your local health department try to provide the best possible protection that we can for you, by enforcing these regulations we are not just cranks with cranky ideas. In order to give you this protection we need your moral support in our work."

DR. VERNON AUTO VICTIM

Former Martin Surgeon Dies of Crash Injuries After Car Strikes Tree

Dr. Frank Vernon, of Pikeville, former Martin physician and surgeon, was killed early Sunday when his automobile in which he was a passenger left the highway at Elk Horn City and rammed into a tree.

Dr. Vernon, 46, was at the time of his death a surgeon on the staffs of two Pikeville hospitals—the Methodist and the United Mine Workers Memorial.

State police said the car was driven by Naomi Siddhan, 44, of Virgie. The driver and another woman who were identified by officers as Ruby Grew, 46, of Shebana, were reported in satisfactory condition at the Methodist hospital.

Dr. Vernon was dead on arrival, where he had been a staff member since 1940. Before going to Pikeville he was with the Mary's Victory hospital at Martin and the Howard Clinic at Glasgow, Ky.

He was a native of Union, Ga., a graduate of the University of Georgia Medical School, member of the American College of Surgeons, and a veteran of World War II, in which he served as captain in the Medical Corps.

Dr. Vernon is survived by his mother, Mrs. Cora Fincher Vernon, Dalton, Ga., his wife, four daughters, all born at Martin, and sister, Mrs. Lydia Hutchinson, Glasgow.

The body was returned to Titon for funeral and burial.

First Reserve Meet Scheduled in Army, Sept. 19, Commander Says

First meeting of U. S. Army Reserve Company B of the 364th engineer aviation battalion will be held at the company armory, 2117 Preston building at the corner of Third and Graham here, at 7:30 p. m. Sept. 19, it was announced this week by First Lt. C. J. McNally, unit commander.

Official interest to those in the 15,495-year group are the services offered by the Reserve.

By joining the Reserve unit a high school graduate, for instance, may carry on his Reserve work of 48 drill sessions a year and two weeks of summer camp at Ft. Knox. Then after high school do six months' active duty and return to the Reserve without draft worry.

Full information may be procured by calling Lt. McNally at 2189, Prestonsburg, or First Lt. John Hardin, executive officer, at 2344, Prestonsburg.

8,100 Army-Floyd contingents now attached to the Paintsville reserve unit will be transferred to the company here, it was said.

Governor Frank Clement, of Tennessee, chief speaker at the United Mine Workers Labor Day celebration at Allen in a typical gesture as he castigated the present national administration and pleaded for the election of a Democratic Congress.

To the Citizens of Floyd County:

It is not my desire to drag the Floyd County Health Department any deeper in the mire, nor to smear it in any way as its leader, Mr. Clark, did on Monday, September 8. He told you part of the story in this paper last week.

Mr. Clark had forcefully and arbitrarily entered five stands which were being operated by Churches and non-profitable Organizations of Floyd County and a representative from each of these stands had contacted me and had told about the abuse and the bullying manner in which Mr. Clark had been showing his authority. Whereupon, I went from the speakers' stand out into the crowd to locate Mr. Clark. I found him in the fifth stand, which was being operated by a Church Organization of Wheelwright, Kentucky. Mrs. Glen Edwards apparently was in charge of the stand or at least she was the one who was being drilled and intimidated by Mr. Clark of the Floyd County Health Department. After listening to Mr. Clark tell Mrs. Edwards that she could not cook and sell sandwiches in the day of October 1936, at 19 cents per slice, I saw the various items for sale to be served to the public and inquired of them as to what they were and how they were prepared, even to the extent that he challenged Mrs. Edwards about the sanitation of the skillet which she was frying hamburgers in, asked if she should drop it on the floor, would she wash it and where was her water and did she have any soap—Mr. Clark openly and flagrantly doubted her answers to these questions and expressed himself so.

After some 10 minutes of this abuse, I told Mrs. Edwards not to be alarmed or excited, for she seemed almost at the point of breaking into tears. I told her that this man was only being cranky and that he would not stop her or any of the other stands. At this point, I got the only words that Mr. Clark said to me at any time in this controversy, and they were unlikable words, coming from a man in his capacity. These were the only words he said to me and no other. It is true that we all came to blows, physically.

I have been praying about this. I do hope that Mr. Clark will apologize publicly in this paper for such an outrage and I do hope that he will admit that this is the whole truth.

U. F. DRILLS 3 HUGE GASSERS

Two Pike County Wells 13,000,000 or Better; Deep Exploration Seen

Three big gas wells last week set a production success record which bested all previous weeks of the United Fuel Gas Company in its drilling of hundreds of wells in Eastern Kentucky.

First of all, there was the record or near-record 13,800,000 cubic feet producer hit in the Big Lime formation on the Majestic Collectors Coal Company lease in Pike county, in the "Bug River" section. The gas flow came in "natural" at 2,840 feet with 560 pounds rock pressure.

A second, a test or "wildcat" well, was drilled in an Knox Creek of that county, near the Virginia line, in the same formation, and it drilled in at 4,400,000 cubic feet. As a result, the well shot out 13,000,000 cubic feet with 850 pounds rock pressure.

Smallest of the three wells was drilled on Blackberry Creek, coming in at 2,400,000 cubic feet "natural," and jumping to 4,300,000 cubic feet after being acidized.

A fourth well was drilled in by United Fuel in Pike county during the week, but its production was barely worth mentioning in comparison with that of the other three. A shale well, drilled with a mile of the largest Big Lime producer brought in during the week, it is producing 200,000 cubic feet of gas.

United Fuel has several thousand acres of land in the majestic area where last week's big gasser was drilled. The largest Big Lime crew of lease men picking up an available additional acreage. The well was drilled in extent directly over a distance of about 10 miles.

Glover C. Spencer, division superintendent of United Fuel, said his company plans drilling to the Clinton formation in Martin and Pike counties this week. The company's plans call for sinking at that point, a depth of about 5,000 feet, an old shale well which has been acidized.

A well drilled recently through the Clinton to a depth of about 5,000 feet, an old shale well which has been acidized. The well was drilled in extent directly over a distance of about 10 miles.

The former Floyd countyman, employee of a Willard manufacturing plant, had been in the hospital for some time and had been told by doctors that an operation would be necessary. Worry over the condition of his health and loss of employment is believed to have led to his suicide.

BIG SANDY NATIVE STUDIES PHONETIC READING THEORIES

Kentucky educator opponents of Rudolf Flesch's theory that pupils learn reading better when they are instructed by the phonetic method, found an answer recently to the controversial book, "Why Johnny Can't Read." It came from a native Big Sandian, Dr. Paul E. Sparks, who has taught in Louisville for 21 years.

Sparks, 46, was born in Louisa, has been principal of Nannie Lee Frayser School in the state's largest city for eight years. He is the only principal in the city with a doctorate. A veteran of the Air Force, he began his teaching career in Lawrence county. His conclusions on the phonetic method of teaching reading are the result of four years' study.

He found that at the end of the fourth grade there was no significant difference between the two groups in comprehension, vocabulary, speed, or spelling. However, the group taught by the sight method "appeared to be superior to the other group in the accuracy with which they read."

Here is an explanation of the two methods: Phonetics—Letters and groups of letters are used to get the pronunciation of a word. A child therefore, learns parts of words before he learns the whole word. He learns the alphabet—the names and sounds of letters, vowels, and consonants. Then he reads.

Sight method: The pupil learns words as a whole, not in parts so that he can recognize them on sight without stopping to figure them out. After he has learned 50 to 100 words, he begins to learn about consonants and vowels.

Sparks found at the end of the first grade, pupils taught phonics were superior in comprehension and vocabulary to those taught by the sight method. There is a possibility, he said, that the test used favored the group that had more phonetic training.

At the end of the second grade, pupils taught phonetics showed superiority in comprehension, but there was no significant difference in vocabulary. Sparks says the explanation for this is probably that near the end of the first grade and later the sight method places more emphasis on phonics.

At the end of the third grade, neither group showed a significant difference in performance, except that a slow-learning group taught by the sight method showed slight superiority in comprehension over slow learners in the other group.

"It seems apparent that, with the exception of reading accuracy, the two methods of teaching reading produced approximately the same end results within the limits of the reading tests used in the study."

Sparks said that for years the values of phonetic training have been debated. Much of the controversy has concerned whether it is worth while to spend the extra time required to teach extra phonics.

The principal believes his study is "the answer" to Rudolf Flesch, who aroused the country two years ago with his book, "Why Johnny Can't Read." Flesch maintained Johnny couldn't read because he hadn't been taught properly—by phonics.

Study of State's Water Resources Now Being Made

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 3 (Sp1)—A comprehensive study of the state's water resources and allied problems is under way as a joint project of Department of Conservation and the University of Kentucky's College of Engineering.

Conservation Commissioner Lathan P. Jackson said this study is a survey of hydrology, flood control, hydraulics, navigation, irrigation, water supply and related subjects.

As a result of the agreement, George Land, Jr., assistant professor of applied mechanics, College of Engineering, is compiling data for inclusion in a permanent technological file.

Office for the study is located in the University and files of the project will be open to students, visitors and agricultural and industrial interests, in addition to all departments of state government.

Robert Lee Bolin, director of the Division of Flood Control and Water Usage, activated the program last month.

Land, in assuming supervision of the project, stated, "Kentucky's conservation program pivots around control of waste... almost all our soil loss is due to movement of uncontrolled water and this study will supplement federal water control programs now in existence, by serving as a guide for design of future conservation projects."

67-Yr. DREAM NEAR REALITY

Four-Year College Status Was Realized This Week As Term for '56 Started

Pikeville, Ky., Sept. 10 (Spl.) — A 67-year-old dream came true today when Pikeville College opened its doors as a four-year college. The name given the school by its founders in 1884, Pikeville College Institute, "reflected their purpose to lift the educational level of Eastern Kentucky." Dr. A. W. Page, college president, observed today: From then to the Presbyterian churchwomen of the nation, who last year raised $100,000 to finance a chapel large enough for the senior college friends of the school have looked toward this fall's development, he said.

Pikeville's expansion has been made possible in part by a "silver endowment" fund to which more than 500 alumni and other friends have pledged gifts totaling some $135,000 each year. Dr. Page noted that these contributors are spread liberally from coast to coast, some as far east as New Jersey and others in California.

Growth from ungraded school to a fully accredited junior college which Pikeville has been since 1931, came by degrees during the 30 years when the late Dr. James P. Record was president. The school's administration and principal classroom building, as well as both men's and women's dormitories, date with his administration, which ended with his retirement in 1922.

The list of Pikeville's builders and dreamers is studied with high respect. Dr. Record said that the site for the school was chosen by three Eastern-Kentucky Presbyterians: Dr. W. C. Condit, of Ashland, Dr. Samuel B. Alderson, of Mayvill, and Dr. James P. Hendricks, of Flemingsburg. Dr. Condit was a member of the first board of trustees of the school, along with W. M. Connolly and James H. Hatcher, both prominent Pikeville business men and landowners of the time.

Besides Dr. Record himself, Mrs. Record and their daughter, Miss Alice Record, who survive him, gave much of their income to the building of the school. Mrs. Record, age 85, was awarded a honorary doctor of humanities degree at Pikeville commencement last May 27. Her daughter, who now lives with her in Bluefield, W. Va., retired from the office of registrar in 1955 after serving 28 years on the college faculty.

Among the best-known of Pikeville's major donors was Mrs. William Shaw, of Pittsburgh, who made large gifts toward the administration building. Another was Mrs. DeLoe O. Wickham, of New York, who gave Wickham Chapel and Wickham Hall, the men's residence in her husband's memory. James D. France, Huntington, Va., coal-company head, made possible the purchase in 1944 of Pikeville's 1,000-acre farm, a treatise of the school, he is one of the early alumni of Pikeville College Academy, preparatory department of the college.

Ky. Lawmaking Process Praised At Conference

Frankfort, Sept. 10 (Spl.) — Research for legislators and bill drafter methods in Kentucky were cited as models for other states at the recent National Legislative Conference at Seattle, Wash., Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield said. Waterfield, chairman-director of the Legislative Research Commission which attended the conference, said the Commonwealth is one of a few states with an organized system of publishing, classifying and indexing laws. The Commission performs this service.

The Commission's work as a review body which suggests amendments to the State Constitution drew special praise at the Conference. Waterfield said, with suggestions that other states might follow some of the Commonwealth's procedures.

The lieutenant governor told the Conference the Commission's bill drafting service and management of the Legislature's fiscal affairs were helping restore prestige of the lawmaking body in Kentucky. The Commission's year-around operation functioning continuously instead of just 40 days every two years is in session, Waterfield said.

Kentucky House Speaker Thomas Patrick Cowart, a Commission member, said sentiment at the Conference favored annual sessions of state legislatures. He and Waterfield led discussion groups. Other members of the Commission attending the Conference were Senators E. W. Richmond, Owensboro, and President pro tem, William L. Sullivan, Henderson, majority leader, and Wendell Van Hook, Dyer, Ky., minority leader, and Representative Charles W. Buchanan, Barbourville, House minority leader.

WOODY'S QUIZ

In loggers' lingo, limbs that may fall on woodworkers are "widow makers."

Forest industries are concerned about safe working conditions for employes. That's why they stress "hard hats" for loggers. Forest industries are equally concerned with wise woodland management and protection of forests from fire. This kind of concern guarantees jobs and community stability by providing continuing crops of lumber from Tree Farms.

Ex-Hazard Doctor Arrested At Dayton On Abortion Count

Dayton, Ohio, Sept. 8 — Dayton police said Dr. John Corbett Colleton, 58, was arrested today in his suburban home and charged with aiding an attempt at abortion.

Detective Sgt. Jack Peck said Dr. Colleton admitted the charge and asked for an early trial.

Dr. Colleton, formerly of Hazard, Ky., and an unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor of Kentucky in the 1954 Democratic primary, is also under indictment on five counts of illegally administering drugs. He pleaded guilty to one of the charges and faces trial in Federal District Court here October 29.

Earlier today police arrested Florence Marilyn Jewell, 47, Dayton, and charged her with performing an abortion on a 23-year-old woman. The woman now in good condition at Miami Valley Hospital here, told police that Colleton arranged for Florence Jewell to perform the abortion Friday, Peck said.

DECEASED VETS' CHILDREN TO GET EDUCATIONAL HELP

The Veterans Administration Regional Office in Knoxville has begun processing applications for educational assistance to children of deceased Kentucky veterans under a new law recently signed by the President, Ray R. Adams, manager of the VA regional office in Knoxville.

More than 2,000 children of deceased Kentucky veterans are expected to be eligible for the government grants to further their education, Adams estimated.

The VA in Washington estimated more than 150,000 children throughout the nation are expected to be eligible for the grants, and the number of children who are expected to be eligible for the grants increases or decreases resulting from their military service.

The monthly scholarship payments will begin October 1. Children between 18 and 23 whose deceased parents served in regular or reserve units of the United States Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, or Coast Guard, and who are currently attending or plan to attend an approved educational institution, are eligible to begin school before their 18th birthday and to finish after their 23rd.

Education may be taken in colleges and universities, as well as regular or high school training included in the new law, and below-college-level courses must equate to college credit for educational objectives.

On-the-job training, on-the-farm training and correspondence courses are not allowed. Government allowances of $190 a month are paid to dependent children living full-time; $80 for three-quarter time; and $50 for half-time training. The rate of scholarship allowances is reduced by one-third if the child is attending school and has other income on a related job—is $90 a month.

Students will be allowed up to 36 months of training. The time will be reduced by any Korean War or Public Law 874 vocational rehabilitation training they might have received, as Korea veterans.

Adams described the steps to be followed in applying for schooling. The child's parent or guardian files an application with his nearest VA regional office. VA will issue provisional approval if it finds the child meets the basic eligibility requirements.

VA then will arrange for educational or vocational counseling to help the parent or guardian and the child arrive at a suitable objective, and to help develop a vocational program, the school or schools where the child plans to go, an estimate of costs, and any other data VA might require. After this is submitted, VA will give its final approval for the training.

The new law also provides for special restorative training for children with physical or mental disabilities which would hinder pursuit of a regular program of education. This training would be in the nature of speech and voice correction, lip reading and braille reading and writing, one-handed typewriting, personal adjustment and the like.

The government allowance for the special restorative training is $110 a month, but it may be increased if not sufficient to meet the cost of fees and tuition.

Young men and women planning to attend school this fall under the new law are urged to file their applications as soon as possible, to avoid unnecessary delay in receiving their first monthly allowance check, Adams stated.

Prompt action is needed, Adams explained, because normally it will take about three months from the date of application to the date the initial allowance check is placed in the mail. So in the case of young men and women who apply now, the earliest that VA could mail out checks would be mid-November.

When the first check does arrive, however, they will cover the entire period during which the students were in school after October 1—the beginning date on which the law authorizes payments to be made. Thereafter, checks will be mailed regularly to cover each month the student is in school.

The money usually will be sent to the student's parent or guardian, rather than to the student himself.

Capt. Banks, Former Floyd County, Heads Marine Corps Reserve Unit

Captain Fontaine Banks, Jr., Lexington, Ky., relieved Major Ches Brevins as commanding officer of the 6th Special Infantry Company, United States Marine Corps Reserve.

The colorful and impressive change of command ceremonies were held at the Marine Corps Reserve Training Center at Springhill Drive, Lexington, in the presence of the members of the Reserve Company, former Marines now living in the Lexington area, and friends of Captain Banks.

Captain Banks is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Holmes, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Craig of Cliff Friends in Floyd County.

Formerly of Belury and Pleasantburg, he was graduated from Berea College, with the class of 1951. Immediately after graduating from college, he volunteered as a private in the Marine Corps, and after receiving a commission, volunteered for duty in Korea and spent 18 months with the Marines in Korea during 1952 and 1953.

After being released from active duty, Captain Banks served as executive director of the Southeastern Kentucky Planning Commission for one year, and in May, 1954 he resigned to begin graduate work in public administration. During the summer of 1954 Captain Banks served as administrative assistant to the city manager of Lexington.

After completion of his graduate work, Captain Banks was employed by the Kentucky Department of Education as the administrative assistant in the Bureau of Rehabilitation Services. In 1955 he served temporarily as staff member of the Governor's committee on Rehabilitation Services.

STATEMENT OF CHAIRMAN

Greetings and welcome to all Floyd countians everywhere and their friends and neighbors who come to the Fourth Annual Floyd County Fair. The Fair Board has made plans for expansion of facilities to accommodate the growth in activities and exhibits which has resulted from the interest and experience gained during the past three years.

The spirit of friendly competition among exhibitors whose attention is focused upon learning what is best in order to promote improvement of production, and broadening of our culture, is a most important factor in raising our standard of living. We hope you will make the most of this opportunity to enjoy the fellowship of friends and neighbors in a friendly exchange of ideas and that you will ab-scribe the recognition given to youth activities related to our economy.

The effort and advertising of the many who have made the Fair possible deserves the appreciation of all. In behalf of the Fair Board, I wish to extend thanks to all who have given their support.

Sincerely,
 JESSE ELLIOTT

Look out for cars.
Note B—Course writing for grades 4, 5 and 6.
Write once in pencil or ink:
Hurrah for the flag, our country's flag.
It's stripes and white stars too.
There is no flag in any land
Like our own Red, White and Blue.

The Old Liberty Bell is silent.
But the flag is still unfurled
Waiting the breeze of freedom
Half way around the world.
Manuscript writing for grades 4, 5, and 6—
Write once in pencil or ink:

A capital must go.

Always use a capital
At the first of every line
Manuscript writing for Grades 7 and 8—

There are two one-letter words
Whose names are O and I
These you write with capitals
Never mind the reason why.

When you write the name of a person—
Girl, boy, woman, or man,
Begin each name with a capital,
And write the best you can.

The names of mountains, rivers, lakes,

Call for the use of capitals—
For only first letters, it's true.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT'S STATEMENT

The County Board of Education, office personnel, principals, teachers, and I want to congratulate the Floyd County Fair Board and other interested people for their continuation of the Floyd County Fair. This has made it possible for our parents and their children to have an outlet to demonstrate some of the best things done in the homes, at our schools and on our farms. Our growth comes from our struggle to achieve something better.

The School System has been happy to cooperate and justly proud of the participation of our teachers and their children. The favorable comments of grown-ups while in our school exhibits are very pleasing indeed.

We are certain that the Floyd County Fair has done much to improve living and learning in Eastern Kentucky. It is sincerely hoped that it becomes bigger and better each year.
