To The Parents and Voters Of Educational District No. 3
If you are interested in separating our Schools from County and State politics and getting them from under the influence of local politicians - I urge you to support me on Nov. 6, to represent our educational district as a member of the Floyd County Board of Education.
I am not making a fight against any one person. I have three children in school. My only desire is to provide the best education possible for them and all other children with the taxes we pay each year.
I am firmly against intimidating our teachers.
I believe that our teachers, bus drivers, janitors and other employees should hold their jobs on their qualifications and past record and not on the votes they can get. Politics in our school have caused us to lose too many good teachers. If it doesn't stop our children will continue to suffer.
I pledge that I will do my best to improve every school in our district by personally visiting them and talking to all the parents interested and not just to the men with the most votes.
I have no relatives seeking any jobs. I am only interested in improving our schools and making Floyd County a better place in which to live.
IF YOU STAND FOR THIS TYPE OF PROGRAM THEN I ASK YOUR SUPPORT.

Mrs. Shepherd, of David Victim in Hospital Here Following Lung Illness

Mrs. Susan Watson Shepherd, 58, of David, died Wednesday last week at 9:30 a.m. at the Prestonsburg General hospital. She had been ill some time but the immediate cause of death was said to be a heart condition.

Mrs. Shepherd was a daughter of the late Frank and Kate Allen Watson, of Mageson county. Her husband, Lewis Shepherd, survives. Surviving children are Mrs. May Meace, Warsaw, Ind., June Shepherd, of David, Mrs. Roseann Williams, of Indiana, Mrs. Okie Shepherd, Neth Shepherd, Okie Shepherd, and Mrs. Bertha Prater, all of David. Gordon Shepherd, in the Air Force in Washington State. She was the foster mother of Robert Shepherd, former vocational agriculture teacher in the Prestonsburg school system but now of Berea.

Surviving are a sister, Sis Perkins of Dayton, and two brothers: Merzran Watson, McGuffey, O., and Branch Watson, in Michigan.

Funeral rites were conducted last Saturday at the Dolson Pentecostal church on the Middle Creek road, the Revs. Forester Prater and Steve Whisker officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of Carter & Callahan Funeral Home.

Terms of the proposed agreement were set. However, it was understood that it called for a two-step pay increase similar to the one Lewis won a year ago for the 200,000 soft-coal miners. That pact provided an increase of $1.20 a day on September 1, 1956, with a further increase of 80 cents a day last April 1.

The second rise brought the basic mine rate to $26.25 a day.

The pact fitted in with the new role Lewis has carved for himself as a champion of peaceful labor relations in the coal industry. Long known for the crippling strikes he called on a virtually annual basis, he has not authorized a shutdown of the mines since 1952.

Improved conditions in the coal industry helped Lewis gain his new wage advance. Production totaled 350,000,000 tons in the first 9 1/2 months of this year, a rise of 12 per cent over the 1955 level.

The new terms were expected to become effective as of October 1. The Southern coal producers, who have a separate association, are not believed likely to balk at acceptance of a similar agreement.

She leaves the following surviving sons and daughters: Wayne, Ben, Charley, and Sam Martin, all of McDowell; Mrs. Marie Cook, of Drift, Mrs. Myrtle Turner and Mrs. Ella Martin, both of McDowell. Brothers and sisters surviving are Mrs. Sarah Martin, Lexington; Mrs. Lizzie Adkins, Ashland; Mrs. Cleety Turner, of Drift; Mrs. Verdie Smith, Pikeville; George, Willie, Charles, Ken, and Fred Robinette, all of Harford; and Walt Robinette, of Pikeville. Funeral rites were conducted at Minnie, at the home of her son Charles, the Revs. Earl Huff, Henry Blair, Mack McClain, Mill Martin, M. C. Wright and Ralph Turner, who is a grandson, officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Minnie under the direction of Turner-Ryan Funeral Home.

Only other major arrests during the week were those of Eli Hall, charged with possession of a moonshine still, and Garland Hall, who is accused of reckless driving and detaining a minor. Both were arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Kelly Frause, Ed Amburgey and Scott Compton.

A new combination treatment, using aureomycin and sulfamethazine, controls fecal conditions in chickens.

A new kind of FORD with the mark of tomorrow

Everywhere you look, it has the "Touch of Tomorrow"

Lowest family car on the road

Only four feet eight inches tall

Six or V-8 the going is great!

Wwd over 17'

The Fairlane 500, finest Ford series, features five of the 19 longer, lower, better Fords for '57.

You're in for a thrill when you see this new low-cost named Ford! But save your superlatives till you drive it! That's where the fun really starts.

It's fun just knowing that others who see you wish they were you. For you're commanding the longest, lowest, heaviest, biggest car ever to sport such a low price tag. There's head room to spare for a well built bonnet... stretch-out space for a "Daddy Longlegs."

You'll find that the tough and ready new "Inner Ford" is built to take the toughest road you'll have to travel. New outboard rear springs and ball joints front suspension let Ford take the turns without the old, New sweep-back control arms help take bounce out of bumps.

Best of all, Ford's library-like quiet is built in. And the new "Inner Ford" is why. For never before in Ford's field has there been a body with so much extra bracing so firmly anchored to its foundation. And you can choose from three big Silver Anniversary V-8's with up to 215 horsepower. There's also a new Mileage Maker Six with 111 horsepower, the most modern Six in the industry.

You can pick your Ford tailored to your desires and your budget, too! Choose from nine over-17-foot Fairlane or Fairlane 500 models or from five over-16-foot Custom or Custom 300 models. Or take your pick from Ford's five longer, lower, new station wagons. Whichever model you select, you'll get a car that's been re-invented from the wheels up!

So there's the new kind of Ford. Big! Gracious! Spacious! A luxury car now, but one that any new-car buyer can easily afford. Come in! See what wonderful cars you can buy now at low Ford prices.

HILO, Hawaii—A tourist from Los Angeles stuck his foot in the mud and came up with a volcano, but foot here. While touring the site of last year's volcanic eruptions on the largest of the Hawaiian Islands, the visitor's right foot sank into a mud puddle and he came up with first and second degree burns. Hawaii volcanologist Dr. Jerry Eaton said the volcano-heated mud in the area still percolates at 200 degrees some 16 months after the eruption.

Production of electricity in the United States, where coal is the fuel that produces 65 per cent of the total, is greater than the total for all of the next six countries. U. S. output in 1954 was 532,000 million kilowatt-hours, a total greater than that of Canada, Russia, Great Britain, West Germany, Japan and France combined.

In coal-competitive U. S. areas coal in 1955 held 85 per cent of the electric utility fuel market.

Airman Hall, of Bypro, Is Crew Chief in Kent

Airman First Class Jerry R. Hall, 21, son of Mrs. Sharlene Hall of Bypro, is one of the team members who will represent the United States Air Forces in Europe next month in the world-wide Air Force rocketry competition at Yuma, Ariz.

Airman Hall is a F-86D crew chief with the 460th Fighter-Interceptor Wing based at Manston Royal Air Force Station, Kent, England. His unit won the USAF rocket gunnery championship in July at Wheeler Field, Tipah, Libya, to gain the finals at Yuma.

The 460th team is now training at Suffolk County Air Base, West-hampton Beach, L. I., N. Y., before moving on to the Arizona meet this month. At Yuma, from Oct. 13-17, the top marksmen in the United States Air Force will fire on Airborne two targets to decide the team champion for 1956. The purpose of the meet is to sharpen the gunnery and maintenance skills of the contestants for the air defense mission which they perform in today's modern jet interceptor airplanes.

Airman Hall completed training at the Jet Aircraft and Engine School at Amarillo Air Force Base, Texas, before embarking for his overseas assignment to England in 1954.

KY. TEACHER LOSS IS TOLD

2,157 Teachers Lost Last Year As Higher Pay Made Elusive

Higher salaries in the teaching profession in other states and better-paying jobs in industry cost Kentucky 2,157 classroom teachers during the last school year. The loss is reflected by the number of teachers who withdrew their accounts from the teachers retirement system, according to a report by N. O. Kimbler, secretary, and Max Vera Beckham, assistant secretary.

Their annual study indicates that about 5,000 Kentucky teachers leave the profession each year. A total of 21,500 teachers were employed in the public-school system in the state last year. The median classroom-teacher's salary was $2,311 in 1954-55 and about the same last year.

About 2,000 qualified teachers were graduated from Kentucky colleges last spring and summer. Some of them were teachers who obtained degrees to receive higher salaries under the minimum foundation program.

Even if all of the recent graduates teach in Kentucky, there would not be enough teachers to replace those who quit. Why do teachers leave? 1. A total of 283 teachers left Kentucky to teach in other states and countries. Eighty-five went to Ohio, where the average salary of classroom teachers in 1954-55 was $3,975. Thirty-nine went to Florida, which in 1954-55 paid its teachers $3,725 on the average; 33 to Indiana, with a $4,100 salary average; 24 to Tennessee, where they averaged $2,710 a year; 19 to Illinois, where $4,350 is paid the average teacher, and 15 to Michigan, $4,200. The other 80 scattered among 26 states and countries.

2. Another 177 teachers changed professions. The largest number to enter one profession were the 39 who became ministers.

Next, were the 30 former teachers who became secretaries and bookkeepers. Nineteen took jobs with the Federal Government, and two with the State Government. Others entered private business and the medical, nursing, dentistry, legal and engineering professions.

3. The service credit of 687 teachers lapsed because they failed to teach in Kentucky for six years. 4. The study listed these other reasons for teachers withdrawing their retirement accounts: Homemaking and family duties; 237; emergency teachers; 60; own business; 21; disabled teaching; 10; and teaching in Kentucky schools not covered by the teachers retirement system; 18.

Insufficient salary; 63; other work not indicated; 125; military service; 10; unmarried women who left the state and did not indicate work; 34; men who moved to another state; 32; and women whose husbands were transferred to other states; 230. Not re-employed; 11; reduction of teaching staff; 4; illness, not eligible for disability annuity; 51; and death; 67.

Emphasizing the growing importance of barge movement of coal, 21 coal-burning electric generating plants now are operating on the Ohio River between Pittsburgh and Cairo, Ill., a distance of 284 miles, compared with only eight in 1941. Three of the plants use 4 million tons of coal a year.

Auto Dealers Who Place Insurance Must Be Licensed

Frankfort, Oct. 2 (Sp.) — All automobile dealers and their representatives who place insurance on vehicles must be examined and licensed by the State Insurance Department, Commissioner C. P. Thurman has announced.

The new ruling, effective immediately, he said, was based upon an opinion from the attorney general's office stating that anyone representing an insurer in Kentucky must be licensed. Thurman said the ruling would affect about 3,000 Kentuckians in the auto business.

He explained the question of whether these persons should be licensed under the insurance code was referred to the attorney general during an investigation of overcharges for policies on financed cars.

Thurman said the investigation showed that about 18 million dollars in premiums was collected in Kentucky over a 5-year period for physical damage protection on automobiles with drivers under 25 years old. Of this amount, Thurman said, a study showed overcharges totaled about $2,286,000, or 12.7 per cent.

The Department directed insurers to answer questionnaires to holders of this type of policy in effect as of January 1, 1954, to determine if premium rates were correct. Of those replying, Thurman said, 91.6 per cent required premium adjustments, averaging $752. He added that only 18.2 percent of the questionnaires were answered.

Thurman said policyholders who fail to return the questionnaires may be depriving themselves of refunds. He advised those signing time-purchase contracts to make certain they specify the cash sale of the vehicle, amount of down payment, types of insurance coverage, the actual insurance premium for each, and the buyer's classification.

Floyd Scout Troops Stated for Jamboree At Valley Forge, Pa.

Lonesome Pine Council will send three Scout troops, including 114 Scouts and leaders to the Fourth National Jamboree which will be held next year at Valley Forge, Pa., July 12 to 19, according to plans made by the Jamboree committee which met in Pikeville recently.

According to tentative plans, the three troops will be recruited from Virginia, the Kentucky River district, including Perry, Knott, Breathitt, and Leslie counties, and the Big Sandy area, including the Leather, Pike and Jenny Wiley districts.

Scouts will attend a pre-training camp and travel by bus to Valley Forge. The route will include the camp in the Shennandoah National Park, a half day visit at Washington, D. C., and a visit to Independence Hall, Philadelphia, Pa.

In order to be eligible to attend the Jamboree a Scout must be at least 12 years of age and reach second class rank or be registered as an Explorer Scout. He must have a medical examination, and get the approval of his parents, his Scoutmaster, and the Jamboree committee.

Approximately 50,000 Scouts from all over the nation and Scout delegates from foreign countries are expected to attend the Jamboree.

There is a great difference between a druggist and a pharmacist.

Preparation of a doctor's prescription is a painstaking, exacting process, one to be done ONLY by a registered pharmacist, and not by a mere druggist who has not been educated and trained in the profession.

There is a law which prohibits, under penalty, the filling of a prescription by any other than a registered pharmacist. It is a good law, for nothing is more important than your health, and his-and-miss filling of prescriptions creates a very real danger.

A registered pharmacist prepares every prescription sent to us. Every prescription receives his individual attention.

All mail orders promptly filled for prescriptions and medicines.

If you have faith in your doctor and believe he is right, have his prescription prepared right.

History of Labor Movement

By SAM CADDY, Jr.

Labor legislation in this country is older than our nation's history and reflects the attitude of the government and the public toward the destinies of the working man and organized labor.

As you examine this history you will find it to be an arbitrary attitude to deny labor its victories by court order or legislative enactment. The first recorded labor laws in this country were enacted in the Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1636, ten short years after the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock. There the wages of carpenters, masons and other manual labor were arbitrarily fixed by law, and penalties were imposed upon employer and employee exceeding these rates.

This philosophy prevailed during the next 200 years as wage earners were legislated into an economic bracket and punished by law for any effort to improve that status. It was not until the beginning of the Republic when labor unions first emerged, that this philosophy was challenged.

The shoe-makers of Philadelphia organized in a strong and militant union in 1804, then their employers reduced the price on piece work. They went on strike and won their strike, and the rates were restored. A short time later, the employers reduced their rates again, a strike was called again, and the employers reduced the price on piece work. The shoe-makers lost their strike.

The employers and the dominant political powers determined to suppress for once and for all time the development of organized labor in this country. In January, 1865, eight members of the shoe-makers union were arrested and charged with the crime of "contumacious and conspiracy to raise their wages."

The shoe-makers were found guilty, and for the next 20 years union men faced the doctrine of criminal conspiracy wherever they tried to organize and bargain collectively. It was not until 1842 that unions were able to obtain this doctrine. In 1839 the Boston shoe-makers went out on a strike because a union shoemaker was employed in a union shop. Seven members of the shoe-makers' union were tried and convicted on conspiracy charges. However, on appeal, two years later, the decision was reversed and the court held that the action of working men seeking to induce all those engaged in the same occupation to become members of a union did not in itself constitute a conspiracy and hence was not illegal. It held that the legality of such action depends upon the means used to accomplish this end. This was the first case that recognized labor's right to organize.

For the next several decades labor unions were relatively tolerated. As industry developed, the union became stronger and more assertive by their demands. As their strength grew, the expense of labor decreased, and a new and wicked legal weapon—the injunction.

By the simple device of a court order, labor unions could be restrained. Failure to comply with an injunction resulted in fines or imprisonment without benefit of a jury trial. It is significant, of the three branches of government—legislative, executive, and judicial, the judicial alone can punish those who violate its rulings.

The outstanding example of strike-breaking by injunction is found in the Pullman strike of 1894. As a result of a federal injunction, a great strike was broken. The leadership, including Eugene Debs, president of the American Railway Union, was sentenced to imprisonment.

American labor realized at this moment that this highly dangerous form of oppression, the injunction.

which Federal judges became arbiters of industrial disputes, and that strikers could only be offed by unity at the polls. It emphasized the necessity for unions to not only public office its friends and to defeat its enemies.

A further blow at labor appeared in 1902 in the famous Danbury Hatters Case. The Sherman Anti-trust law was intended to restrict the business monopolies and combinations that were oppressing this country. In the Danbury Hatters case the principles of this law were applied to the Union and the Danbury Hatters were found to be "in restraint of trade" in the amount of their strike. As result of this decision in this case, the union was fined, and the savings and homes of the 236 members of the Local Union were attached and the damages against the union amounted to $342,130.

This is new weapon, by court injunction was leveled at labor unions.

Soon thereafter, in 1906, the top leadership of the U. S. and the United Mine Workers was found guilty, in the now-famous Buckeye and Range Case, as conspirators in a plot to boycott the mines to present for violating a court injunction for conspiracy, and for breach of contract. Three were sentenced to prison for violating a court injunction for conspiracy, and for breach of contract.

As result of this case, union leaders became convinced of the hostile attitude of the courts and that it was essential for labor to secure legislation which would protect the rights of unions to engage in normal activities. Trade unionism, the power of the courts to issue injunctions in labor disputes.

In October, 1914, labor secured passage of the Clayton Anti-trust Law which contained the passage of a bill which prohibited the labor as a commodity or an article of commerce. This law was hailed by Congress as the Magna Carta of labor as it prohibited sweating, injunctions and specifically provided that unions were not conspirators in restraint of trade.

The first case brought under this law before the Supreme Court, The Dupont Printing Press Company vs. Ferris, in 1918, completely disappointed and disillusioned labor. By a vote of 5 to 4 a narrow majority the court held the Clayton Act was merely a supplement to the Sherman Anti-trust Act and did not protect the unions except in specific instances. Then, by an amazing process of involved legal reasoning, the court held the union guilty of restraint of trade.

Labor was more convinced than ever of the necessity for clear-cut legislation that would safeguard its rights and functions. In the ensuing years the reputation became a formidable weapon. Picketing was restricted, the strike became a conspiracy and organization of labor was held in restraint of trade by various means.

The depression of the early '30s convinced many the lot of labor had to be improved. In 1932 Congress enacted the Norris-LaGuardia Act which designed to counteract the effects of the various court decisions in enjoining the protection afforded by labor by the Clayton Act and to supply effective protection organized labor against the application of the Sherman Anti-trust Act.

Following the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Congress introduced Section 7(a) in the National Industrial Recovery Act, encouraging workers to join unions. Three years later this act was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, and the Wagner Act was adopted. The Wagner Act specifically provided labor the right to organize and further provided the employer was obligated to bargain collectively with the labor organization representing the majority of its employees.

Peaceful picketing became a right and was protected as the freedom of speech.

Yellow dog contracts were outlawed. Labor received immunity from the anti-trust laws.

Company unions were prohibited. Injunctions were limited.

There was no limitation on the right to strike.

There was no provision for compulsory arbitration of any kind.

The Supreme Court upheld the validity of this law. The gains of labor during the next years were phenomenal. The membership grew tremendously. Many a collective bargaining agreement was achieved without any real struggle. The place of the labor union in our society seemed assured.

However, labor did not realize the unmitigated blessings of this legislation. They failed to realize that what a powerful Congress can do, a conservative Congress could do also and that is what happened 10 years later.

The Supreme Court in 1947 abridged somewhat the benefits of the Norris-LaGuardia Act by abolishing the prohibition of the injunction under government control. The numerous efforts to increase their benefits, under the contract were opposed by the government and the unions were fined $3,500,000 and John I. Lewis was fined $100,000 for failure to call off a strike. This law was later reduced to $500,000, but it further in dictation of the power of the courts to penalize labor unions.

The final phase of this historical account is found in the Taft-Hartley law and represents the clean up of social philosophers between the dominant political parties.

For the first time since the election of Roosevelt in 1932, the Republicans controlled both houses in Congress in 1946. The roster show 249 Republicans to 185 Democrats in the House and 41 Republicans to 45 Democrats in the Senate. The Republicans were in full control of the legislative branch of the government and could pass any legislation they chose. They chose to pass the Taft-Hartley Law. President Truman vetoed that law, but the Congress passed the law over his veto.

The proper name of the Taft-Hartley Law is the Labor Management Relations Act, 1947. It is less concerned with labor management relations and more concerned with regulating unions, not only in their relations to their members, but even in their political activities.

The Taft-Hartley Law again places the unions as being a combination in restraint of trade and in violation of certain portions of the anti-trust laws.

It protects the non-union worker who refuses to join with the majority who enters to join with the majority.

It makes unfair labor practices on the part of the unions.

It outlaws the closed shop, despite the fact there were over 100,000 such shops covering 11,000,000 workers. Secondary boycotts are prohibited.

It encourages, and to some cases makes mandatory, use of the arbitration in labor disputes.

It provides and encourages damages suits against the union, and endless litigation, drains the energy and resources of the union in court actions, even though the particular charges were groundless.

It enforces a 60-day cooling-off period which may require labor to work without a contract.

It abuses the use of the strike as a means of settling a labor dispute. It makes the union responsible for the acts of its agents, although the acts are not authorized or ratified by the union.

Unions are prohibited from making a financial report during their annual elections.

It encourages more drastic laws by the several states, especially those providing union membership as a condition of employment.

It denies supervisors the right to hire and fire employees.

It prohibits strikes by government employees.

It makes picketing illegal if it causes more than a minor inconvenience in administration of welfare fund.

It places in the hands of the employer every means to avoid delay, hinder, and defeat collective bargaining.

It empowers the right of the individual not to belong to the union, not to sign a contract or affidavit, not to be subjected to union discipline and to be protected from the union. The effect is to weaken the union from within, to create division within its ranks.

As a gratuitous insult it requires union officers to sign a non-communist affidavit.

It further requires the government to be furnished a detailed financial audit of union income and expenditures with peculiar emphasis upon the election of members, qualifications, meetings, assessments, fines, policy council, contract administration, dues, receipts and disbursements, and other pertinent matters.

The effect is to make the same to be approved by a labor-hating, labor-baiting General Counsel of the N. L. R. B.

SAM CADDY, Jr.

Sam Caddy, Jr. is an opponent of the party in political power. He has announced his candidacy for School Board Member of Educational Division No. 5, I would like to explain my reason for doing so. I have no interest or intent other than the improvement of our schools. If elected, my obligation is, first of all, to the children, then the parents and teachers.

No teacher who is qualified and is doing a good job has anything to fear by re-election. I hope that restoration of job security and the dignity associated with the teaching profession will make the position in our country more satisfactory to our teachers and that they will not lose them to other countries and states.

As every other parent does, I want my children to have the best education possible and I want them to get it in Floyd County.

Since no member of the Board of Education can gain experience in his own field, I promise to gain as much knowledge as possible concerning school matters, and use this knowledge with fairness and justice to all concerned.

I am in a race to the finish. It is up to the good people to decide whether there should be a change or not. Your support and vote would be greatly appreciated.

This is my platform and pledge.

MARTIN

CLUB MEETS

The Allen-Martin Woman's Club held its first business meeting of the year, Tuesday evening, September 4, at the home of Mrs. T. J. Allen at Martin. The date was changed from the usual Monday evening because of the Labor Day holiday.

The president, Mrs. John J. Sherman, gave a report on the Saturday luncheon held at the Lantern at Pikeville, to elect a new governor for the Seventh District. The club was represented by Mrs. George Layton, Mrs. Belmont Reetz, Mrs. J. D. Adams and Mrs. Sherman. Mrs. Arthur Danburg, Pikeville, was elected governor for one year.

Printed material from the State Federation for all departments was distributed to the department chairmen. All members were asked to memorize the Club Collect.

The Club again decided to get greeting cards and fruit cakes for the holiday season and to start a project of selling fresh doughnuts one day each week through out the year.

A dessert course was served by Mrs. Allen to the Club members and one guest, Mrs. Emmet Tack-

CONSERVATION AID EXTENDED

55,916 Acres Converted To Grass, Trees; Reserve Goal is 585,000 Acres

Farmers in Kentucky's 121 soil conservation districts last year converted more than 55,916 acres of cropland to grass and trees, according to a summary of conservation accomplishments released today by H. K. Gavle, state conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Mr. Gavle stated that this shift, which has taken place as part of the regular soil and water conservation program, totaled more than 113,841 acres in 1954 and 1955 combined.

The conservation reserve goal in Kentucky for 1957 is 585,000 acres, out of a national 1957 goal of 20 million acres of cropland to be converted to grass and trees. SCS data indicate that in the interest of good land use at least 1,860,000 acres of land now in crops need to be placed in permanent grass cover and 233,000 acres of present cropland should go in trees. Nationally, 47 million acres of land now in crops need to be in permanent grass cover and seven million acres of present cropland should go into trees.

In making and-use shifts called for by conservation plans farmers in soil conservation districts in fiscal year 1956 planted trees on 6,761 acres. Tree planting in districts, in cooperation with SCS and the State Forestry Department, has now reached a total of 21,723 acres, of which about 15,534 acres were planted during the past three years.

Farmers in districts carried out 1,068,690 acres of pasture planting in the last three years, the summary indicated.

Pointing to another major accomplishment revealed by Gavle said that 1956 was a high year in the construction of farm ponds. Some 715,000 such ponds were built, bringing the total to date to more than 48,287 constructed with SCS help in districts.

Some 715,000 farm ponds have been built in districts throughout the country serving the multiple purposes of water conservation, better livestock management, and improvement of wildlife and waterfowl habitat. Since they average from 1 to 2 acres each, these ponds have added a total surface water area of more than 1,000,000 acres, Gavle said.

Other items mentioned as conservation progress in the past year included 162 miles of terracing. Contour farming was applied on nearly 152,000 acres last year. Plantings and other practices recommended by SCS and State Game and Fish Department were established to improve wildlife food and cover on more than 950 acres last year, bringing the total of such work in districts to 19,547 acres.

These and many other interrelated practices are carried out, Gavle explained, as part of SCS assistance to individual farmers through soil conservation districts. As of July 1, 1956, there were 65,495 district cooperators in Kentucky who operate 10,841,000 acres of farm land in 121 soil conservation districts. There are now 2700 soil conservation districts in the nation, including 91 percent of all farms and 86 percent of all farm lands.

Soil surveys, upon which conservation plans are based have now been completed on 12,842,000 acres. This work, done by SCS in cooperation with the State Experiment Stations, is being stepped up this year to meet the growing needs for basic soil data in the various soil and water programs, Gavle reported.

Seed Bare Land To Cut Erosion

Seed to small grains this fall any land without grass seed or perennial leucaena, says Harold Miller, UK Extension Service soils specialist.

This will prevent soil erosion and loss of plant nutrients by leaching during winter months. Fertilization of the plantings is needed to get sufficient growth before winter.

Miller recommends a fall application of 15 to 30 pounds of nitrogen per acre on small grains following corn. Corn is a heavy nitrogen feeder. Nitrogen can be supplied by a straight nitrogen fertilizer, or a mixed one containing nitrogen. If the latter is used, be sure there is plenty of available phosphorus and potassium in the soil. Use Kentucky certified seed if possible he says.

Spring top-dressings of nitrogen produce somewhat higher grain yields, research shows. But fall applications of nitrogen produce better vegetative cover for erosion control, and provide more late fall and early spring pasture.

Nitrogen fertilizer should not be applied on small grains planted on soils high in available nitrogen, Miller says. Some tobacco fields may fall in this category. Excessive nitrogen causes small grains to lodge and increases the difficulty of establishing stands of grasses and leucaena seeded in the small grains.

Social Security Office Serving 6-County Area Will Open in Pikeville

A Social Security district office will be opened in Pikeville, October 15, according to Edmund Baxter, regional director, Region II, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Charlottesville, Virginia. The office will be located at the corner of 2nd and Division Streets.

The new district office will serve the residents of Floyd, Johnson, Maudlin, Martin and Pike counties in Kentucky and Buchanan county in Virginia.

Mr. Baxter stated that the primary function of the District Office in Pikeville will be to administer the provisions of the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program which now projects nine out of every ten workers and their families in the United States. This includes accepting claims for retirement, survivors and disability insurance benefits, and applications for the disability freeze. In addition it will issue social security account numbers and will assist in maintaining the accuracy of wage records established for individuals in this area. Of greater importance to the general public, the staff of eight employees will provide assistance on all matters pertaining to social security and particularly the recent changes in the Social Security law.

Among the records in the Hancock County clerk's office at Bevinville is a mortgage lien filed in 1855 against the Barnum & Bailey Circus by a Madame Flourens.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS
 The Allen - Martin Woman's Club met at the home of Miss Nell Maxwell, Allen, Monday evening, September 17, for a program on Safety. Miss Mary Frazier, a guest by the State Department of Health, came from Lexington to present the program and was introduced by Mrs. Rebecca May. Mrs. Frazier's talk was on "Home Accident Prevention," and she stressed the fact that safety actually begins in the home and especially child safety since about 12,000 children are killed accidentally each year and more than 50,000 crippled with the number of injured running well over a million.

A "home hazard hunt" was recommended with the search beginning in the kitchen—the most dangerous room in a home with the bathroom second. Several home aids for accident prevention were shown such as home-made knife racks, glass jars for matches, and razor blades disposal units made from tin cans. All poisonous drugs or cleaning aids should be kept locked up in a cabinet to help insure safety.

After Miss Frazier's talk in which she proved that 100 per cent protection must be provided for a child's first year, a film was shown entitled, "Mrs. Hazard's House." A Grim fairy tale of a woman's house. Following the film a dessert course was served to club members and guests, Miss Frazier and Mrs. Roberts.

Newspapers Are Tops For Grocer
Ads, Trade Told

In the August 18 issue of the Publisher's Auxiliary the following information was released:
Newspaper advertising has been proven as the most important medium for influencing grocery customers.

This is the result of a survey taken in a typical American city, Ypsilanti, Mich., by a team of students from the School of Business Administration of the University of Michigan.

Their findings were hailed by an executive of the Ypsilanti Daily Press, F. G. Handy. He said: "Here is one of the finest testimonials the Ypsilanti Daily Press and newspapers in general could ask."

The survey found that 80 per cent of all large grocery purchases in Ypsilanti went to the chain stores. The students found that low price, good food and availability of items desired were the three most important factors determining which store would get the large purchase of groceries by the family.

The influence of advertising showed a direct relationship with income, with 24 per cent in the under $2,000 income group shopping at a particular store because of advertisements compared to 48 per cent among those with incomes of more than $2,500.

For newspaper advertising departments which have been studying the growth of trading stamps the survey had pleasant news. The Michigan students found that trading stamps ranked near the bottom of the list of reasons for patronizing a store. They were cited as a factor by only five percent of those where large purchases were involved and by none where small purchases were concerned.

Four Floyd Youths
Are Promoted at KMI

Four boys from Floyd county were promoted in the Cadet Corps at the Kentucky Military Institute, Lexington. Lieutenant Colonel C. E. Hodgson announced last week. Promotions are based on scholarship, leadership and military efficiency.

Cadet Fred H. Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Francis, Prestonsburg, was promoted to the rank of cadet captain. Francis is the tenth ranking captain in the school.

Cadet Jerry F. Howell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Howell of Price, was promoted to cadet captain—first class.

The Kentucky Military Institute opened its 12th session this week with a capacity enrollment of 200 boys.

Typical of outstanding school exhibits this year at the Floyd County Fair were these two. The prohibitionist annual drawings by the Auxier high school drew much comment as did the bean figures by the rural school pupils of the head of Branham's Creek School. Standing in the pictures with the Auxier drawings is Clem Martin, supervisor. Nearly 6,000 ribbons were given out by the chairman of the school exhibits committee.

Newspaper Week
Set, October 1-8

Frankfort, Oct. 2 (Sp.) — Oct. 1-8 is "Newspaper Week in Kentucky." In proclaiming the observance, Acting Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield declared "the newspaper is a potent force in bringing about civic improvements through enlightened public opinion."

Waterfield said, "Our nation's business benefits because the newspaper helps by its advertising columns to move goods from producer to consumer, thus building prosperity for Americans."

The special week is being observed nationally. Oct. 6 has been designated "Newspaper Day."
