To Improve Facilities
Western Maryland Railway is spending $5 million for improvement of its Patuxent River coal-handling port facilities at Baltimore, Md. The road carries West Virginia coal to Baltimore for water shipment.

To The Parents and Voters Of Educational Division No 5

We earnestly solicit your help in electing a man to the Floyd County Board of Education who will put our children, their education and welfare first.

We beg you not to allow any other consideration to enter into your decision.

We want to free our schools and teachers of political domination. Our children will benefit enormously from this freedom.

Before you decide which candidate to support, ask yourself which one is most likely to work hardest for our schools.

Find out which candidate is endorsed and backed by politicians. If he is backed by politicians you can be sure it is not in the interests of our children or our schools to vote for him.

Only one candidate was persuaded by parents and parents alone to run for election.

He has two good reasons for accepting. Those reasons are his own two children.

He will not wait four years to begin to make improvements.

He will start immediately after taking office.

There are many who will be doing everything in their power to prevent his election. Be on the lookout for their tactics. Find out all the facts beforehand and don't let last-minute attacks alter your decision.

We are depending on the parents and good citizens of our district to elect James Arville Duff to the Floyd County Board of Education.

Ask for your school ballot Nov. 6, and vote for James Arville Duff. He is the parents' choice.

VERY INTERESTED PARENTS

Today the idea has grown into two plants employing 52 men of the deep attached. The fish was so unusual that a museum offered $5,000 for it.

The rearing party wired friend husband up north of his spouse's demise, of the fish that was attached to her body, and of the $5,000 offer made for it. "What shall we do?" they wanted to know. And back came the quick reply:

"Accept the $5,000, and hurry up and re-bait the hook."

NICE ACCESSORY
Then there was the one—not Mr. Gatten's—about the sheepherder who got in a poker game, had a hot streak of luck and with his winnings bought a Cadillac. Not just an ordinary Cadillac but a limousine.

The dealer met him in town, a few days later, and inquired how he liked the car.

"Say, that here is a real automobile. Shee-doe like that winder-back of the front seat?"

"But why?" the salesman wanted to know. "You don't have a chauffeur?"

"Don't need no choffer, son," said the sheepherder. "But that there winder keeps the sheep from lickin' the back of my neck when I'm takin' 'em to market."

RESERVE PAY OF SOIL BANK

Program is Explained
By Extension Service;
Deadline Set, March 15

The conservation reserve portion of the national Soil Bank program will average about $10 a year per acre for Kentucky farmers participating, says the U. S. Agriculture Extension Service economic section.

The actual rate of payment per acre in the state runs from $8 to $12, says Boyd Langford, economist. Payments vary between counties according to productivity of the land.

Deadline for the 1957 program is March 15, 1957.

A Soil Bank base must be established on the farm before land may be entered in the conservation reserve. All soil-depleting crops in general will be used to determine this Soil Bank base. In Kentucky, such crops are corn, small grains used for pasture, hay or grain production; tobacco; soybeans; commercial vegetables; and sorghum. (Small grains include wheat, barley, rye and oats.)

Conservation reserve practices include grass and legume seedings, pond construction, and tree planting.

Partners will be paid up to 80 percent of the average cost of seedling grass and legumes, i.e., costs of seed, fertilizer and actual seeding work. For ponds, payments also will be up to 80 per cent of the actual costs, if certain pond-building specifications are met. For trees, up to 80 per cent of the cost of establishing trees will be paid.

If land proposed for grass-and-legume conservation reserve already has a satisfactory grass cover, the farmer can choose a 3- or 5-year

Conservation

period for keeping the land in reserve.
If grass and legume cover must be established, he will be required to leave it in the program either for 5 or for 10 years. The land must stay in the conservation reserve for either 10 or 25 years.
There are certain restrictions on land put into the conservation reserve. The farmer must control noxious weeds, he cannot harvest any crops from the land, nor pasture it at all, and must keep such acreage abnormally clean (such as tobacco, corn or wheat); maintain a satisfactory cover for erosion control; harvest timber only by approved forestry management practices, not cut Christmas trees; protect or ornamental and not use conservation reserve ponds' water except for piping to land on his farm which is not in the conservation reserve program. Then, the water may be used only for livestock purposes.
Eatable land? It must be cropland or "tame" hay land. ("Tame" has land in general a land from which hay has been cut in the last two years but which was not reseeded as cropland.) County assessors have the cropland facts for most farms.
It would be possible for a Kentucky farmer to place practically all his farm land in the conservation reserve program. Langer said he hoped that before this could be done a Soil Bank base must have been determined for that farm County ARC offices of all counties across the state.
Generally, the Soil Bank base is determined by taking an average of soil sampling steps for the two years immediately prior to the first year of the conservation reserve contract.
Not less than five acres of arable or legume land can be put in the conservation reserve and not less than two acres of tree-land. Langer pointed out. And the minimum payment any farmer may receive from conservation reserve practices any year is $3.000.
A new bituminous surface mine at Prentiss, Ill. to be operated by Prentiss Coal Co. will have a total capacity of 2 million tons of coal and be the some of operations of the country's new 26-bituminous surface mines located in the world. The mine is expected to get into production in 1957.
It has been estimated that 1956 coal consumption of Commonwealth Edison Co. of Chicago will be 17 million tons, or 22 million tons more than was burned in 1955.

Consider the Handicapped

This is National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, a period which is likely to be overlooked in the plethora of "Weeks" that are officially designated for some reason or another and sometimes for no apparent reason.
But this week, proclaimed by the President and the Governors of the several states, is one of the severest consideration. It has to do with women and men who must live out their lives, accepting the role of the handicapped among the millions of others who are fortunately sound of body.
Properly placed, these handicapped make efficient, reliable workers. Most of them need only a chance, and opportunity to adjust themselves, to become self-reliant and to take their rightful places in society.
The handicapped deserve our consideration at all times. During this particular week, it is hoped, the attention of employers in particular will be focused on those who have by mistake lost something physically — an arm, a hand, a leg or eye-sight, perhaps — but who have not lost their initiative and to be self-supporting and to be assets to their communities.

The Road Bond Issue

What is good for Kentucky?
That is the only question the voter should consider in deciding how he or she will vote on the road bond issue that will appear on the November 6 ballot.
Old grudges, unsettled scores, have nothing to do with the right or wrong of this bond issue.
The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce — perhaps the state's most conservative group, a body of business men from both major political parties — has not only endorsed the bond issue, it is fighting for its passage. The Democratic party organization in the state, the Republican state organization, the two Republican candidates for U. S. Senator, the Kentucky Education Association — all have endorsed the bond issue plan.
Farm-to-market roads during the next three years will, if the bond issue is voted, benefit from the expenditure of $50,020,000. "Through" or "primary" roads would get $29,820,000, town and city streets would receive $18,100,000, and defense highway work, which will be a cross-side from side-roads, not of more than every four miles, would receive $103,230,000.
Of the bond money, $57,

Official Does Research On Morgan-co. History For Civics Class Pupil

Frankfort, Oct. 11 — A member of the state's legal staff has laid aside knotty problems of law long enough to do some historical research for a school girl.
The student, Betty Lee Halsey, daughter of Morgan County Judge Reed Halsey, had written Atty. Gen. Jo M. Ferguson: "Morgan county was created by the 1822 General Assembly from parts of Floyd and Bath counties and named for Gen. Daniel Morgan, a Revolutionary War hero."
The next year the Legislature fixed the seat of justice on land by the Licking River and directed that the county be named West Liberty.
"East of the mountains," Sebree wrote, "many towns had been named Liberty in honor of America's fight for independence. Four years ago west of the mountains, might have had the same desire, and to distinguish it from those Liberties founded in the East and to praise the victory won in the West, they named it West Liberty."
Sebree concluded his letter to Betty Lee with the hope that "when your paper is graded you will receive the highest grade given. Good luck."

A Platform For Good Schools

When I announced as a candidate for Board Member on our Educational Division, I did so at the request of many interested parents who have strived for many years to make our schools what they should be. As a result of my conversations with them and teachers, I have come to believe in the following principles and submit them to you as my platform. I honestly and sincerely believe in these things.

1. That our schools should be separated from county politics. I have no candidate seeking election next year to county office. If elected as board member I will not support any candidate for county office, nor will I express my preference to any candidate. Can my opponent honestly adopt this principle in his platform?
2. I believe in job security for our teachers and school employees based upon merit and tenure and without regard to politics.
3. I believe in our educational division sharing equally with other divisions in school money, buildings and improvements. Do you believe it has done so in the past?
4. My number one interest will be the welfare of the children.

Coal Controls Fuel Market

In the East-North-Central States, coal in 1955 held 95 per cent of the electric utility fuel market. States in the region include Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin.
All this money can be made available to Kentucky roads, we are told on reliable authority, without an increase in taxes, inasmuch as the 1956 General Assembly enacted legislation levying a tax on heavy trucks to amortize the bonds to be issued.

What is there in it for us?

That is a question which naturally rises in the minds of Eastern Kentuckians. Be never so loyal to Kentucky as a whole and interested in the welfare of the state over its entirety, we of this section naturally want to know if we are to share in this windfall of spending for roads.
The Times believes our section will profit greatly from the huge program, and it trusts it is not being naive in so thinking. It does not believe Eastern Kentucky and Floyd county will be left only the dogs. Some things we must accept on faith, and we have faith that a part of Kentucky that so badly needs highways will not be neglected at a time when the state cannot possibly plead that it hasn't the money with which to do the work.

BURNS COAL
The Widow's Creek plant of TVA at Stevenson, Ala., burned more than 2 1/2 million tons of coal in 1955, or about half of the 4 1/2 million tons burned by eight coal-fired Alabama plants last year.

An Open Letter To The Parents and Voters of Educational Division No. 5

I am offering my service to you as a member of the Floyd County Board of Education for one reason only—to work for you and with you for the improvement of our schools.

I am not obligated and I accept no obligation, except to do the best job I possibly can, always putting the welfare of the children and the improvement of our schools first.

Our schools must be staffed with qualified and satisfied teachers, unhampered by political considerations, in order to do their best work.

Since announcing my candidacy, many situations and problems have come to my attention. Some will be easily solved and should have been solved long ago. Others will take time and careful consideration. I plan to hold meetings with the parents at each school and work out a solution to their problems with them. Then I will do everything I possibly can to accomplish it.

Our transportation system needs improvement. By wisely spending the taxpayer's dollar we can bring about better transportation and make much needed improvements in our schools.

I earnestly solicit your support in this election. I will work to gain every bit of knowledge I possibly can concerning school matters and will use this knowledge with fairness and justice to everyone concerned.

I was persuaded by PARENTS to make this race. Parents are raising the necessary funds for my candidacy.

I have been told repeatedly that no one can be elected to the school board unless they are backed by politicians. My answer to this is—I am backed by PARENTS.

You can expect many and varied attacks to be made against me, such as the present rumor that I plan to move all the rural schools. This is false. It is easy to see the reason behind this charge.

Don't fail to ASK FOR YOUR SCHOOL BALLOT NOV. 6. It will be separate from the regular ballot.

Yours, for Better Schools
JAMES ARVILLE DUFF

Former Resident of Prestonsburg Is Now Television Makeup Artist

John W. Adkins, former Prestonsburg resident, knew well in advance of most people what the brand-new '57 cars look like. For as a makeup artist he went to Detroit a few weeks ago to make up the models who appear on the commercials for the major automobile companies here in Louisville.

Wrote Richard I. Gordon, business editor of the Cincinnati Post of Adkins' work in Detroit recently. He is a free-lance operator, and in this case he was working for Jim Hardy Enterprises, which made the commercials for 1957 models of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler autos.

Each company, says Mr. Adkins, was most cautious about security for its 1957 models. "We were briefed and briefed," he recalls. "It was like war. Doors had to be unlocked and locked as we went to and from the places where the cars were. Sometimes the cars were hauled out into the country, all wrapped up. They would be unceremonious and the commercials would be shot, and they would be wrapped up again and taken back."

Actually, while being an insider at such goings-on is interesting, Mr. Adkins is more interested in the future for makeup artists which he feels is inevitable when color television comes into its own.

"Color television makes a professional makeup man a necessity," he says. "Unless actors and actresses are made up properly, they will burn up on the screen. That is, it takes a little bit like over-developing a picture."

"It's mainly a matter of toning down highlights, though it involves bringing up some spots too. Generally speaking, you have to be careful of overdoing the face. And you're overdoing the face."

Consumption of all forms of energy in Europe in 1955, according to the Organization for European Economic Cooperation, was the equivalent of 790 million tons of coal and by 1975 is expected to reach 1,200 million tons.

North Carolina utility plants burned coal 100 per cent in 1955, using more than 4.7 million tons, of which 30.5 per cent, or 1,440,000 tons, was burned at the River Bend plant of Duke Power Co. at Mt. Holly.

In West Virginia, where coal is the only fuel used to power electric generators, 11 power plants in 1955 used more than 6.5 million tons in the production of electricity.

ADLAI STEVENSON ESTES KEFAUVER For Again the People Have Candidates--- LAWRENCE WETHERBY EARLE CLEMENTS

There will never be another Great Depression, in the opinion of competent observers, for the Democratic Party which succeeded Hoover so strengthened the country with social legislation and so bolstered the economy with far-reaching and needed economic reforms that it is unthinkable that another such a period of suffering and despair re-occur.

There will be another period of great advances in social welfare and legislation if the Democratic Party returns to power. Students of social legislative progress envision this as a logical sequence to the election of Stevenson and Kefauver, and assure us it will partially offset the dreary record of the Republicans in the last four years.

Reasoning in the light of recent history since 1932, it is observed that no legislation in the social field or any kind of economic reform has been initiated by the Republican Party. The Democratic Party has repeatedly challenged them to name a single bit of legislation envisioned or promoted or passed by them for the benefit of the common man.

Today the Republican Party, facing this Democratic record of accomplishment, offers no program, advances only the doctrine of the Indispensable Man. A man surrounded by every arch conservative and billionaire corporation head the Republicans could persuade to come to Washington.

THE POSITIVE DEMOCRATIC RECORD Social security legislation, consisting of retirement plans, unemployment insurance, old age assistance and assistance to needy blind and dependent children. Federal insurance of bank deposits up to $10,000 and the Securities Exchange Act that restrained wild stock market speculation that initiated the Great Depression in 1929. The Wagner Labor Relations Act which guaranteed labor the right to collective bargaining. As a direct end result of the right to join a union the United Mine Workers Welfare and Retirement Fund has built ten hospitals in the tri-state region—one at McDowell, in Floyd county. Legislation looking to the conservation of our natural resources. The last four years of Republican rule has seriously impaired the program begun under the Democratic Party.

THE POSITIVE REPUBLICAN RECORD NOTHING...

The election of Adlai Stevenson and a Democratic Congress will insure a new program of social legislation.

The Republicans offer only the Indispensable Man. The Democratic Party again offers a program for the people—the people in the street, on the farm, under the bill in the mines, and in the shops.

That Democratic Congress should include LAWRENCE W. WETHERBY and EARLE C. CLEMENTS in the U. S. Senate and Carl D. Perkins in the House.

Akers-Irvin Vows Solemnized Here

The wedding of Miss Charlotte Akers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Akers of Lancaster, and Mr. James Thomas Irwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Irwin of Louisville, was solemnized in First Methodist Church of Prestonsburg.

The Reverend Harold W. Dorset officiated for the double-ring ceremony. The church was lighted with signs in candidates and decorated with hundreds of white carnations. No special music was provided by Mrs. George Stephens of Ashland, and Mr. George Griffin, of Richmond, Ky.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Herbert Akers, wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin covered with white nylon tulle with an occasional sign of lace, embroidered with white sequins, fashioned with long pointed sleeves and doll's size queen's collar. The full skirt, worn over hoops, ended in a short sweep train. Her two tared veil of nylon tulle fastened to an embellished crown with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a white prayer book with white streamers and small carnations with ivy.

Mrs. Edna Moore, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Beulah, sister of the bride, Mrs. Ray Brackett, of Allen, and Mrs. Solomon McClure, of Prestonsburg. The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore dresses of white tulle; tulle with matching tulle and carried bouquets of yellow gladioli.

Mr. John Irwin, father of the groom, was best-man. The ushers were Mr. Robert Reagan and Mr. Jack Irwin, of Louisville, brothers of the groom, Mr. Ray Brackett, of Allen, and Mr. Bill C. Carrier, of Winchester, Ky.

The bride's mother wore a beige dress of soft cashmere with honey-colored accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a brown dress with lace beige accessories and a corsage of pink roses. A reception was held in the church's fellowship hall following the wedding. Assisting were Mrs. Earl Moore, Mrs. Dick Roberts, Mrs. Wheeler Benham, and Miss Winifred Sue Cooley, all of Prestonsburg, and Miss Charlotte Sue Akers.

Greater Protection Now Afforded by Social Security

You and your family are going to enjoy greater protection against most of the hazards of life because of the many important changes made in the Social Security law. Changes that vitally and immediately affect the employer, the worker, widows, working women, wives, children, disabled people, farmers, and farm workers, and others.

This is the second in a series of articles containing questions and answers on the new 1956 Social Security law, prepared by the Louisville Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants as a public service in answering some of the questions on the latest changes in the Social Security law.

Q. How did the new changes help widows?

A. There is no reduction in the pension of a widow that retires before the age of 64. Widows are the one group of individuals with no penalties for early retirement. They receive full benefits at age 62.

Q. Are all widows eligible for pensions at the age of 62?

A. Not necessarily. For a widow to draw benefits it's necessary for her husband to have worked in a job covered by Social Security.

Q. How is the amount of a widow's pension computed?

A. She will draw 75 per cent of the pension that would be due her husband. The amount of the monthly pension will not be less than $300.

Q. How about a widower?

A. Should your wife die, you can get a widower's monthly benefit equal to 75 per cent of what her retirement benefit was. To qualify for a widower's pension, you must have been currently and fully insured when she died. Also, your wife must have been currently and fully insured when she died.

Q. Can a widow draw benefits before age 62?

A. Yes, if she has children under 18. If the children reach 18 before she reaches 62 all benefits for her will stop until she is 62.

Q. Will it be a good idea for a wife to retire before 65?

A. A married couple will have to decide whether to take a reduced pension at an earlier date or wait until age 65 to begin payment. The difference can be important. For a couple whose pension will be based on earnings of $300 a month, the pension will be $185.50 a month if the wife starts drawing at age 62. If she waits until age 65 the pension will be $147.80 a month. A difference of $128 a month. If the husband is forced to retire at age 65 it may be necessary for the wife to go ahead and take her pension before she is 65 because of the need for the extra money at that time. As a rule the wife generally out lives her husband and she then would be eligible for a widow's pension that would not be affected by reason of her not being 65.
