THURSDAY

This Town— That World

The proper bending of the twig around the seat of sundry pants may keep many young men from taking the wrong bent later.

SO THERE

We dislike mentioning newspapers, this week has been so rough, but we liked that item the Napoleon Beaver up in Ontario, Canada, had. Last week it carried this notice:

"You may notice some typographical errors in this paper. They were put in intentionally. This paper tries to print something for everyone, and some people are always looking for mistakes."

HE HAD THE LAST WORD

In Johnson City, Ill., Elder Charles M. Weaver, of the Primitive Baptist Church, died Tuesday of last week and preached his own funeral next day. A minister for 62 years, he had always wanted to have the last word over his body. So, seven years ago, he recorded his funeral sermon, and this was read when the time came.

You know, it might give us all some food for thought if we were to all do down and try to write something that could be truthfully said about us at our funeral. Might give most of us a bit of commo-panee.

A MAN'S DEEPER THOUGHTS

Henry Fitzpatrick, who died last week, kept at his home on the Middle Creek road a bulletin board on which he from time to time wrote brief thoughts as they occurred to him. He frequently changed the board and scribbled something new, but his thoughts of January 6, eleven days before his death, remained unaltered.

"Today, January 6, 1957"

"To love to preach is one thing. To love those to whom we preach quite another."

"No sermon is of any value, or likely to be useful, which has not the life in it."

"Bless by the Fall, Redemption by Christ, Resurrection by the Holy Spirit."

"The world is dying for want, not of good preaching, but of good hearts."

What better epiphany could have written?

Trial of Astor Meade, charged with striking and wounding with intent to kill Commonwealth's Attorney Burns Martin, was called off today.

JURY REPORT HITS 'SYSTEM' IN USE HERE

Comprehensive Review Of Enforcement Work Given by Grand Jury

Concluding its work for the January circuit court term Monday, the grand jury in its final report to Circuit Judge Edw. F. Hill voiced criticism of the county's law enforcement system but withheld criticism of any individual.

The report, signed by John W. Stratton, foreman, discussed at length the crime situation in the county and the ineffective method employed in meeting it.

"Naturally, the officials cannot be held entirely blameless," the report reads, "because the law provides the means and the authority for them to overcome or avoid the situations which cause us concern. They are functioning not as individuals but as a system, however, which is why we wrote our comments as directed toward the system rather than the individual officials."

The jury said that, had time permitted, it would have preferred to investigate each office and assess its individual performance.

Continuing on this same theme, the report added:

"In a great many cases the laws of the Commonwealth apparently are administered for the convenience of a few people rather than for the protection of the people. Men who commit crimes are supposed to be prosecuted because they have violated the laws of the land, and our public officials are sworn to perform this duty. Our officials, however, seem to feel that it is wrong to prosecute in many cases, not to prosecute unless the person who has been wronged insists upon it. . . . Sometimes, as was brought to the attention of the grand jury, witnesses in the Commonwealth were not even notified when the trial was to be held. Some of these cases were dismissed for lack of prosecution."

This attitude, the grand jury report continued, is also apparent in the lack of investigation of crimes by public officials. The recent "vicious attack" on John We Musie, 89-year-old East Point man, was cited as an example.

"The law enforcement officials of Floyd county have made practically no effort to determine who committed the crime," the report added, pointing out that relatives of Mr. Musie attempted to gather evidence and the state police made a "limited" investigation.

The grand jury made no indictment.

Purgation Board Work To End Next Wednesday

The county Registration and Purgation Board, now in session, will conclude its work next Wednesday, it was announced today.

The Board said that many voters when they receive a notice assume that their names are already purged and so do not appear here. It pointed out that these notices are more of a warning than that it is particularly interested in this part, getting voters registered in the precincts where they reside. It is also important that women voters register when they marry.

BUSINESS MEN STATE NEEDS

Council Hears Request For Police Protection; Conditions Here Assured

The City Council Monday night officially acted on three separate items of business, but the story of the meeting is that of business men's call for police protection and the resultant discussion with just about everybody taking part.

The business actually transacted: Adrian Johnson, cashier of The Bank Josephine, was named to the Water & Gas Commission to fill the vacancy created by the death of H. M. Reagin, city tax collector, who was a 25% commission on the 1955 tax books; the city to pay $100 a month for the salary of a night policeman, the remainder to be paid by contributions from business men.

Johnson, who brought on this proposal, was stated early by Fred Johnson, spokesman for the police protection: "We need police protection—we want to know what we can do and what we can expect of the Council."

Criticism leveled at the police force included a statement from Councilman Curtis May that "the it's not doing the job." The statement of Bill Pettrey to the effect that 100 violators of the state police created only eight convictions resulted and that the state police isn't worth their while to try to enforce the law here. Dan Goble: "Put a law in front of my theatre—I'll get five or ten dollars of night. I carry out on my back. This town is in the worst shape I ever saw—beer and whiskey in their hands. . . . You're getting a big fine. They're getting a big fine—the bootleggers say they're paying off."

Policeman Bill Peltzer and B. L. Sturgill denied the general drunkenness situation. Chief of Police Epp Lafferty and other police charged any man to offer proof of any "pay-off."

"Two more policemen and a second night car were suggested by Councilman Peltzer and B. L. Sturgill. Paul C. Combs expressed the opinion that a motorcycle policeman will pay the city in fines.

"A 'get rough' policy was urged on police, and the hope was expressed that the police judge—C. F. Rinehart, acting during the absence of Judge R. W. Peltzer—"will throw the book at violators."

Joining Council members and Mayor Sandage in the general discussion of the situation were these other representatives of local business: Thomas Hereford, R. C. Hunt, Charlie Layton, Dr. G. H. Hunsplinger.

BUDGET OMITTS CANAL FUNDS

Perkins Urges All Data On Potential Upstream Traffic Be Submitted

Although an appropriation of $38,884.00 was proposed by President Eisenhower last week for water resources development in Kentucky, no funds for the Big Sandy were included in the budget for the next fiscal year.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins, Senators Clements and Humphreys asked last October that $200,000 be included in the budget for advance engineering and design on the long-dormant Big Sandy waterway. A total of $105,000 had previously been appropriated by Congress for a study and survey of the river and the feasibility of canalization. This was enough to do this phase of the work, but the extra $200,000 was needed to carry on planning and design.

In a telephone conversation with The Times last week Congressman Perkins suggested that all interested persons and firms submit to the U. S. Corps of Engineers all available data showing what upstream projects are being planned and what the river is canalized. He urged this because, he said, the Corps of Engineers may disregard the industrial potential of the region if the river is canalized and not take into consideration the engineers' past experience with industrial development on waterways made navigable.

The result might be an unfavorable economic report for the region unless it is proved that the river is canalized and not take into consideration the engineers' past experience with industrial development on waterways made navigable.

INDICTMENTS RECORD LOW

53 True Bills Returned By Jury for Session; Major Charges Reported

The 53 true bills voted by the Floyd circuit grand jury during its session ended Monday set a modern-day low for grand juries in the county.

Before the grand jury adjourned Circuit Judge Edw. P. Hill commented on the dynamiting here of Sheriff Gorman Collins' auto and the similar blasting of Deputy Sheriff Silas DeRossett's auto the same night.

"If any of the law enforcement officers want a special session of the grand jury, I will call one," he remarked.

Discussing the general situation, he said, "I would like for the Commonwealth's Attorney and other officials to take a hard look at a strict and rigid procedure to stop bootlegging and to investigate the heinous crimes, as were committed in our community last night."

Eight indictments were reported Monday named a Martin man and his wife on a charge of obtaining money under false pretense. The indictment was voted on testimony claiming that Rudolph Griffith procured the endorsement of Willie Salisbury to a note on his representative and Willie Jarrell. The note, which was purportedly for $600, payable at the Bank Josephine, but in fact was for $1,700. Three payments were made on the note.

New Parasitic Weed Found in Carolinas

Kentucky farmers this week were alerted to the presence of witchweed, a parasitic weed, in the Carolinas.

The new pest attacks corn principally. Witchweed seed may lie dormant for years until seed comes in contact with the root system of another plant. Then it attaches itself and kills the host plant.

Joe F. Freeman, weed-control specialist of the UK Agricultural Experiment Station, says many Central Kentucky farmers are familiar with another parasitic weed, called broom rape; these seeds also lie dormant until hemp, tobacco or certain other crops are planted in the area. Broom rape eventually will force abandonment of infested fields for production of these crops.

Weed specialists say witchweed found in 40 locations in North and South Carolina, might be capable of destroying more corn than the European corn borer insect — 400 million annually.

In South Africa, home of witchweed, sudan grass is planted, encouraging witchweed to germinate. Then the sudan grass crop is plowed under. The USDA is studying chemical and rotation practices as control measures.

To the Voters Of Floyd County

As most of you know by now, I am a candidate for reelection as Circuit Judge. Between now and May 28th, I shall be somewhat handicapped in the matter of getting over the county to campaign, due to the fact that I have court continuously until then.

So, I would like to urgently appeal to my friends and supporters, to talk to your friends and neighbors in my behalf. I do not believe you would want me to neglect my official duties in your courts to promote my personal political welfare. So I must rely upon those of you who believe in my cause, to carry on the crusade for me.

I have heard recently of some untruthful rumors being spread concerning me, the origin of which I do not know and to which I determine. I believe such tactics to be unfair and unjust and beneath the dignity of the highest judicial position in your county. I know you will pay no attention to wild, politically inspired rumors.

I believe the people of Floyd county are entitled to know the truth about candidates for office and that they want to decide between candidates on the basis of their qualifications rather than on the basis of wild rumors started during the heat of a campaign.

I also believe that my reputation for honesty and fairness built up during my entire lifetime in Floyd county will be more important to me than some untruthful rumors you might hear between now and the Primary Election.

I have tried to make you a good Judge and have decided the cases which have come before me on the law and the facts rather than on politics or political influence. I think that is the kind of Circuit Judge you want and I am submitting my case to you, the people of Floyd county, on that basis.

I hope to see all of you before the election and if I am unable to do so, I humbly and sincerely ask for your support in my behalf. Respectfully yours, EDWARD P. HILL

Howard Estill, Engineer, Succumbs in Lexington

Howard Estill, the mining engineer for whom the Floyd mining town of Estill was named, died in Lexington last Wednesday.

Estill supervised the laying of brick streets in Paintsville and was associated with the late John C. C. Mayo who opened the coal fields in Eastern Kentucky. At one time he was connected with the Middle Creek Coal Company here.

Estill went into the coal business for himself and in 1912 became chief engineer for Elk Horn Coal Corporation. He later was a mine superintendent for Stonaga Coal & Coke Company of Big Stone Gap, Va. Estill quit the coal business 29 years ago and turned the family tradition of Kentucky-cured country hams into a profitable business.

In recent years he had cured an average of 3,000 hams yearly, shipping them to every state and several foreign countries.

He is survived by his wife and two brothers, W. Rodes Estill, Fayette county, and George Castleman Estill, Miami, Fla.

Judge Says Rate Boost Asked By Private Owners

County Judge Henry Stumbo told The Times this week that rumor in the Lackey vicinity is claiming that he is responsible for the proposed gas rate increase at Lackey. He pointed out that the gas company is privately owned at Lackey by members of the Horn family and that whatever increases in rates that may occur there will result from action of the Public Service Commission upon the petition filed by owners of the gas company at Lackey.

This Borders On Anarchy

Floyd county got dangerously close to anarchy this week with the dynamiting of the autos of the Sheriff of the county and one of his deputies.

All the things, the events, the conflicts, that lie back of this dynamiting are not known, may indeed never be fully known. Not even the identity of the guilty is known as this written. But that does not alter the fact that such an attack could easily have been lethal, that it was deliberately aimed at officers of the law and that it is anarchical in conception and execution.

This, incidentally, borders on the state of affairs this newspaper has long feared and warned officials and citizens against. We do not say this to assume the role of a prophet, major or minor, but to cite again the need for a wholesome regard for the law and for those charged with administering the law in all its phases—and to remind ourselves as citizens, as well as officials, that law is mere reading matter is dry reading, that law as mere paragraphs on a page of a book are without meaning, and that through lack of meaning the law loses dignity in the minds of young and old. In short, there has been overmuch winking at violations of good and sound laws.

This is not said in a spirit of criticism for any individual, for a wholesome regard for the law in some degree all have failed. The law has not been a broom that swept clean. The courts have failed on occasion when enforcement officers succeeded. Citizens such as you and I have failed because we have accepted it all as "the best we can do."

Regardless of your politics or your personal likes and dislikes, if you do not feel alarmed by such a situation as this your concept of a civilized, orderly society has sadly deteriorated.

Those dynamite charges heard Sunday night were not just big "booms" to entertain children or to give us something to talk about the next day. They were window-shattering, steel-twisting warnings.

shipment via water upriver will be of considerable volume to 55d to the heavy downriver coal shipment already in sight.

Congressman Perkins said he will insist on funds for advance planning of the Big Sandy river development project if the U. S. Army Corp of Engineers thinks the project should be completed.

Perkins said the Engineers' preliminary survey report on the Big Sandy will be completed by July 1. The purpose of the preliminary survey is to determine the need for replacing obsolete navigation facilities on the Big Sandy and the Tug and Lewis rivers, and for flood control, hydroelectric power, and water supply in the valley.

Other Kentucky construction projects in the budget:

Cattletown floodwall, $2,000,000; Greenup lock and dam, $13,500,000; Buckhorn Reservoir in Breckinridge County, $3,000,000; Maryland Warsaw locks and dam on the Ohio River, near Warsaw, $5,500,000; and the Barkley Dam across the lower Cumberland River in Western Kentucky, $5,000,000.

The budget included these funds for advance engineering and design projects:

New Richmond locks and dam across the Ohio River near Mantle in Campbell county, $175,000; Nolin River Reservoir in Edmonson county, $135,000; Barren River Reservoir No. 2 in the Green River Basin, Allen and Barren counties, $50,000; and Ohio River navigation replacement projects, $50,000.

Recommended funds for examinations and surveys by the United States Army Corps of Engineers:

Little Sandy-Tygart Creek, $30,000; Kentucky River, $45,000; Cypress Creek in Muhlenberg and McLean counties, $5,000; Laurel River, $19,800; and Clark River, $18,100.

Nat'l VFW Week Now Under Way

Commander Harold B. Rice, of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 4839 this week pointed out that 1542 V. F. W. posts in all parts of the country are now actively engaged in sponsoring youth activities. His statement was made in connection with National V. F. W. Week—Jan. 20-26.

He announced that Thursday, Jan. 24, has been designated as V. F. W. Youth Welfare Day and on that day hundreds of posts will conduct demonstrations of their youth program.

Rice said that during the past year marbles tournaments were held in over 1,200 communities; 1,000 Boy Scout units met under V. F. W. leadership; 500 baseball teams made up of boys in the 12 to 16 age group took part in the V.F.W. teen-er baseball program; 175 teams were enrolled in the junior bowling competition; 75 units participated in junior rifle marksmanship contests, and 200 teams engaged in organized softball play.

He said two national tournaments play by rules in V.F.W.'s youth program. This year the eleventh annual national V.F.W. marble tournament will attract 45 or more entrants to Seattle, Wash., on June 20-21-22. At Hershey Park, Pa., Aug. 11-16, the cream of V.F.W. teen-er baseball teams will meet to decide the national championship. Teams will compete in each of eight areas for the right to play at Hershey.

Other national championships, settled through regional matches, with comparative scores used to determine the winners, are the rifle and junior bowling events.

the family had. He said he saw nobody leaving the scene, but added that one car had passed his home two or three times prior to the blast.

A heavy sufferer from the blast, here was Deputy Sheriff W. B. Boyd in whose home 24 window panes were shattered. Seven panes, two complete sashes and six storm windows in the Collins home were blown out. Shattered also were panes in the nearby Presbyterian Church and in the homes of Mrs. Foster Anderson, Jesse B. Hagewood, P. P. Howard and Norman Martin.

Sheriff Collins said the explosives were set off by means of fuses. He added that his telephone rang about the time of the blast which shattered his car.

Radio equipment in the trunks of the two cars is believed ruined. Loss of the two autos leaves the Sheriff's force with four radio-equipped cars.

At the DeLoe's home, which is the old Green Stephens residence, about five miles from here, windows were shattered, strips of weatherboarding were ripped off the house, near the car, and a mantle was blown down in the living room.

Footprints in rain-soaked earth at the rear of the DeLoe's auto were covered by the deputy and thus so well preserved that satisfactory plaster casts of the prints were made later, it was said.

Insurance covers the damage to both autos.

MORE COAL IN 1955

Unlikely as it seems, more coal moved on Chesapeake Bay in 1955 than on the Kanawha River in the heart of West Virginia's coal fields. Chesapeake Bay barges carried more than 1,000,000 tons; on the Kanawha River 8,000,000 tons were moved.

fect them, under Extension supervision, toward completion. It is envisaged that families, after working through the meetings, this number to be sent by the families themselves, will have an understanding of farm and home living equal to a short course in farm and home management at the University of Kentucky.

The program is open to all farm families, but 10 to 20 families will make a group about the right size for the discussion meetings," Jones said. He revealed that many personal contacts had already been made and that several families have shown interest.

The first meeting of families is tentatively scheduled at Prestonsburg but other meetings will be held at local communities if the need arises.

Basically, Jones says, Farm and Home Development will help to increase net income. "It will help provide a better living in farm homes and aid families, working together, to reach decisions," he says.

Doris Trapp, home demonstration agent who went to work here Nov. 1, will play an important part in Farm and Home Development. While the county agents will be working with the agricultural phase she will aid and advise on improved home management and family living problems.

Farm and Home Development differs from other Extension activities. It is pointed out. In the past the Service has dealt with the farm, home and family as separate units and problems have been handled without much consideration of the total unit.

"In FHD we will think of the farm, home and family as one unit," Jones explained. "We might add here if the main source of income does not come from the farm it does not keep a family from being a FHD family. One cannot think of the family without thinking of the relationship of farm and home. All three are tied very closely together."

Plans for FHD, already laid, are for the services of a home management specialist to advise and work with farm families on problems arising in the home. Other specialists, in any field, will be available, if needed, it was said.

Farm and Home Development has almost unlimited possibilities if pursued, Jones explained. Some of the phases of farm life that may be studied and on which plans can be formulated are soil management, crop production, improved livestock, food supply, nutrition and health, housing and family insurance. Specialists already tentatively scheduled to Floyd county to assist in FHD are Wilmer Browning, Knott county native, who is a specialist in agriculture economics, Meta Frances Stallard, Extension specialist in home management, W. W. Magill and W. L. Farmer, strawberry specialists.

ment in the assault on the East Point man. A woman whom he accused of striking him was recently released from jail here under $4,000 bond. The jury's report said the testimony produced was not adequate to gain enough votes from the grand jurors to make an indictment, and it is suggested that officials learn what they can about the case and present the evidence to the next grand jury session.

Turning to the bootlegging situation, the grand jury pointed out that the law provides heavier penalties for liquor violation when an individual has been previously convicted for the same offense. Yet, the report noted, it has been reported to the grand jury that a number of these second and third offenses were being tried only as first offenses. "This appears," the report noted, "to be deliberate attempts to by-pass the law and permit violators to escape with only nominal fines. The infliction of the strong penalty for the second and third offenses might do more to reduce bootlegging than any other practical step which could be taken."

PEGAUS PARADE The Theme of the Kentucky Derby parade this year will be famous horses of fact and fiction. The big march, seen in 1956 for the first time in 25 years, is known as the "Pegasus Parade," after the winged horse in Greek mythology. (That may be set on last year could have used wings. He ran more like the wooden horse of Troy.) The Derby, with its week of festival, ranks among such other top-fetes as the Orange, Sugar and Rose Bowls, and the Mardi Gras.

Similarity of Names Causes Embarrassment

Again a similarity of names has caused a Floyd county citizen embarrassment, and Russell Crum, of Allen and Dwell, has requested The Times to state that he is not the man of the same name who has been indicted on a former charge. James Laferly, former Prestonsburg bus driver, has also requested The Times to say that he is not the James Laferly named, some time ago, in a liquor charge.

Instruction to the students, in preparing them for the concert, is divided into two organizations, band and chorus, in order to present what may approximate an all-star county band and an all-star county chorus.

Not only will the concert afford the public a chance to hear the best of the county's school musicians but they will produce, it is hoped, a source of much-needed revenue to aid the music program in the county. Students will offer tickets for sale very soon and dates will be set for the performances.

BLESS HIM!

The most factual, most unprejudiced article we have ever read about this section of Kentucky was printed 39 years ago in the old CENTURY MAGAZINE. It's "The Mountaineers" by Rollin Lynde Hunt, who came to this section a rank outsider, traveled these hills and wrote his sincere, sympathetic assessment of the mountain people.

This man Hunt did not come looking for log huts only, or for moonshiners and feudists, with the idea of returning to New York and writing off the whole section as a land of benighted people living in poverty, squalor and ignorance. He found those conditions here, true, but he also found a beautiful and a proud, hospitable people, and he declared those unsavory conditions were no more typical of Eastern Kentucky than sordid conditions found in other states and in their cities were typical of them.

Hunt did delve into some of the humor of the hills, and some of it he set down in print. This anecdote is typical of the few he told:

"Why don't you sell this miserable patch of ground and get out?" the furrier asked of a resident of Hellfire-Dartan Creek.

"And the mountaineer gave the intruder to understand: "I ain't so sure as you think, I don't own this patch of ground."

About 90 percent of our raisins come from Thompson seedless grapes, and are sold as seedless, bleached or unbleached raisins. Bleached raisins have been changed from a dark brown color to a yellow or amber color.

An HCR dry-fly line of the modern, light, low-floating type is the best to use on fly tackle, for either dry or wet flies, but not for bass bugs. A C-level line, inexpensive, of the same long-floating type, will do for wet flies and bugs.

With casting tackle, you don't need the careful coaching that you do with fly tackle, although it does call for more practice than spinning tackle.

A light casting rod of six feet or even slightly longer is best for the beginner. A rod of split bamboo or hollow glass has the nicest feel and action, but one of solid glass certainly casts well enough for practical purposes and is less likely to be broken by the inexperienced angler. A 12-pound line services well for most purposes.

Pork should be cooked slowly and long for best flavor and to kill parasites present in pork, say UK Extension food specialists. It should be brown and crusty on the outside and without pinkness on the inside.

SPORTS AFIELD
By TED KESTING

This is the time of year when most major items of fishing tackle are bought. There's plenty of time to consider what to get, and to wait, if necessary, while your dealer orders it for you.

Buying just before a fishing trip, says Jason Lucas, angling editor of Sports Afield magazine, is pretty sure to result in getting, ill-considered things that won't be used.

Since preferences in tackle are highly individualized, it would be wise to discuss what tackle to get to suit the type of fishing you'll do, and that will be most suitable for you.

Spinning tackle is perhaps the easiest to select without much knowledge of fishing, and about 20 minutes of practice will have anyone using it well enough to get on. The slipping clutch prevents a beginner from breaking his line when he hooks a large fish. The present popularity of spinning, in fact, can be attributed to its simplicity.

The chief weakness of spinning tackle is that the light line can't hold larger fish from running into dense weeds, snags, brush or such, to tangle up wet flies, used chiefly for trout and sunfish, can be cast with spinning gear, by using either a "bobber" or "spinning fly line."

Both of these are rather makeshift devices, for spinning tackle is designed to cast lures. As for the recommended line, six-pound monofilament seems to be the most popular.

Fishing with fly tackle requires some good coaching beforehand. Once this has been accomplished, you're set. Jason suggests a moderately powerful trout dry-fly rod between 7 3/4 and 8 feet, weighing between 3 1/2 and 4 ounces, for small trout, bluegills, bass, tarpon or whitehead.

The proposed issue is of general obligation bonds backed by full faith and credit of the Commonwealth, and secured specifically by revenue paid into the road fund.

The issue is for 30 years, cannot be sold at less than par, nor bear interest at more than 3 per cent.

The test suit charges the act authorizes the issue of bonds in violation of the Constitution because the title does not include five important provisions in the body of the act.

It violates Sections 49 and 50, the suit continues, because:

1. The act does not fix an annual tax sufficient to discharge the debt in 30 years.
2. It was not submitted to the people in the form required by Section 50.
3. The act does not fix a purpose for which the borrowed money is to be used.
4. Moreover, the suit charges that the act is violated because it states operation and maintenance of toll bridges shall be paid out of the road fund. Despite the fact that toll-bridge bonds were outstanding when the toll-road act was passed, the act tries to give the bond issue first claim on the highway fund.

"The act, by reason of this provision," the suit goes on, "impairs the obligation of contract holders of the bridge bonds and deprives them of their property without due process of law."

The act also violates Section 177-400 of K. R. S. for the same general reason. But this reason involves the prior obligation of the road fund to operate and maintain the Kentucky Turnpike if tolls are not sufficient.

The act was attacked further for these reasons:

1. Some sections of it are in error or inconsistent.
2. The secretary of state did not meet requirements of the act in her notice of election, etc.
3. The title fixes the total debt at $100,000,000, but the body of the act contains interest provisions that make the total higher.
4. The State will use part of the issue to match federal money 1-to-9 but the act permits only 50-50 matching.

SUIT TO TEST BONDS FILED
Louisville Man Claims Bond Issue Violates Constitution Parts

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 16.—The $100,000,000 road-bond issue violates 11 sections of the State Constitution, according to a lawsuit filed today in Franklin circuit court.

This is the suit by which the issue will be tested, ultimately by the Court of Appeals, before it is offered for sale in blocks of not less than $500,000 each.

The proceeds will be used to match federal aid in the gigantic road-building program planned by the administration of Governor Chandler. Estimates of the first three years of construction total $337,000,000.

The bond issue was authorized in an act of the first special session of the General Assembly of 1956, approved by the voters November 6 by the margin of 6 to 1.

The test suit was prepared by Thomas S. Dawson, a taxpayer at Louisville.

The bond issue plan proposes:

1. To match federal aid for the state secondary and urban systems in Kentucky. This is at the usual ratio of 90-10.
2. By using bond money for this matching, $7,000,000 of State money ordinarily used for matching would be released the first three years.
3. These released $7,000,000 would be diverted to an accelerated program of improvement of roads outside the federal-aid system in Kentucky.
4. At the end of the first three years, there would remain unspent $42,000,000 of the bond issue. This would be used in 1-to-8 matching for completion of the interstate system during the last 10 years of the program.

The proposed issue is of general obligation bonds backed by full faith and credit of the Commonwealth, and secured specifically by revenue paid into the road fund.

The issue is for 30 years, cannot be sold at less than par, nor bear interest at more than 3 per cent.

The test suit charges the act authorizes the issue of bonds in violation of the Constitution because the title does not include five important provisions in the body of the act.

A record of dumping in a 24-hour period was set by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway at its Newport News, Va., docks on November 17, 1946 when 61,176 net tons were unloaded from hopper cars. This topped the previous 24-hour record by 1,212 tons.

Coal cargoes on the nation's inland waterways had a 30 per cent rise in the eight-year post-war span between 1947 and 1955, according to the American Waterways Association. In 1955 coal tonnage moved by river barge was 80,000,000 tons, and in 1947 was 64,000,000 tons.

General Electric Company anticipates use in the average home of 7,500 kilowatt hours of electricity a year by 1968 in contrast with the use of around 3,000 kilowatt hours in 1954. In terms of coal, at today's rate of efficiency, that would mean the average home will use around 33 tons of coal, as electric power, in 1956, against about 13 tons in 1954.

Funeral Conducted Here For Paul Raymond Smith Who Died At Frankfort

Funeral services were held here Wednesday last week for Paul Raymond Smith, 31 son of P. E. and Ethel Mae Smith, who died on the preceding Monday at the home of his parents, 134 Rolling Acres Drive, Frankfort, Ky. Hydrocephalus was given as the cause of death.

The deceased was a native of Knott county. In addition to his parents, he leaves a sister, Scarlet Louise, at home.

A building at Eastern erected in 1940, was named after the Fitzpatrick Arts Building in his honor. Mr. Fitzpatrick was elected State Senator in 1928, serving till 1932. He was a longtime friend of Governor Chandler, and the Governor on his Floyd county visits often was entertained at the Fitzpatrick home.

Mr. Fitzpatrick also served eight years on the State Fair Board and was a member of the State Board of Agriculture. In 1933 he was elected delegate-at-large to the state convention to rally repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

He united with the Methodist Church here in his youth, served the church as a Sunday School teacher and superintendent, and at the time of his passing was chairman of the board of trustees of the church. He also was a 32nd degree Mason.

Keenly interested in the life around him, and possessed of an unusual sense of humor, a down-to-earth joviality was one of his outstanding characteristics.

Mr. Fitzpatrick was a graduate of the old Hossel Military Academy here. He was first married to Ethel Mae Smith, who died at the age of 18 months, and Henry Davidson Fitzpatrick, Jr. who survives.

He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Osa F. Ligon, of Prestonsburg, and two grandchildren.

Funeral rites conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday from the First Methodist Church here, the pasting of the Rev. Harold W. Dorsey officiating. Burial was made in the Mayo cemetery under direction of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

Active pallbearers were Clifford B. Latta, James Andrew May, Henry Louis Mayo, Ben Ferguson, Joe A. Spradlin, William Arnold Spradlin, Adrian Collins, William James, Jr., Robert Curmiste, Ike Fitzpatrick, Sam Fitzpatrick, Tom Green, Ramsey Ligon Clarke, Marshall Davidson, Sam K. Hatcher, Jimmy Hatcher, Joe D. Harkins, Phillip Holbrook, Woodrow Fitzpatrick, James Mayo.

Honorary pallbearers: Governor A. B. Chandler, Ex-Governors Keen Johnson and Flen D. Sampson, Dr. H. L. Donovan, Dr. W. F. O'Donnell, Dr. Willard R. Hillson, John E. Buckingham, M.S. Thomas, Jr., Otto C. Gartin, Russell Harman, A. W. Cox, Ex-Congressman A. J. May.

Commenting on the nation's growing energy demand, Dr. Courtney Starr, vice president of North American Aviation, Inc., recently predicted "it will be 10 years before reliable and desirable nuclear power plants are demonstrated."

He added that it will be another half century "before they play a dominating role in power generation."

Organization Meeting Slated at Martin High

An organizational meeting for extension classes to be conducted by Morehead and Eastern State College will be held at Martin high school, Saturday, 9:30 a.m. "All interested teachers and prospective teachers should try to be there."

Wayne Ratliff, director of supervision, Floyd County Board of Education, said.

Both colleges have promised to try to meet the needs of teachers, and regular classes will be conducted wherever a majority of teachers decide upon.

There will be no Spring Term at either Morehead or Eastern this year. This may make it more important that teachers try to get into the courses to be offered.

DuRan Moore has held political office for 3 years, Banner Meade has held political office for 28 years. Ray Howard has never held a county political office. (Pol. Adv.)

"NINE OUT OF TEN SUCCESSFUL MEN WANT CUSTOM-BUILT LIFE INSURANCE"

Some men, of course, can get by nicely with "ready-to-wear" life insurance designed for average instead of individual needs. But for most successful men—at least 9 out of 10—life insurance is something personal that must be custom-made to meet personal needs. To serve such men, Mutual Benefit Life Representatives have made life-time, full-time careers of planning life insurance instead of merely selling it. Local ASC Office Head Reveals 1957 Deadline For Reserve Requests

Elder Goble, office manager of the Agricultural Stabilization Committee announces that January 28 will be the beginning of the sign-period for the 1957 Acreage Reserve program. Goble stated that the compensation for participation in this program will be determined by using the normal farm yield for tobacco and the farm productivity index for corn and cotton. He went on to say that the maximum acreage for the farm that may be placed in the 1957 Acreage Reserve program will be for corn 20 acres or 30% of the allotment, cotton 10 acres or 30% of the allotment, and for all types of tobacco, one acre or 30% of the allotment whichever is larger for each commodity.

The agreements will be approved on the maximum acreage to the extent of the county allocation on the "first come first served" basis, in the order in which they are filed by the producers in the county office. Goble pointed out that the producer may indicate his desire to place more than his maximum acreage limitation in the Acreage Reserve program with the additional amount to be approved provided money is available after the final sign-up date. The deadline for signing the Acreage Reserve agreement, will be March 1 for cotton and all types of tobacco and March 8 for corn. Eligible crops for Kentucky are corn, wheat, burley, fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco, however, the final date for entering into the 1957 wheat Acreage Reserve program was October 5, 1956.

It was pointed out that persons interested in entering into an Acreage Reserve agreement should contact their local ASC county office.

Talmadge DeWitt Mayo, Pioneer Texas Educator, Floyd-co Native, Dies

Talmadge DeWitt Mayo, 77 years old, Floyd county native and for many years a school superintendent and teacher in the Dallas county, Texas schools, died Dec. 16 in a Dallas hospital after a long illness.

A son of Jacob and Minerva Mayo, of this county, he came of a teaching family. In 1909 he went to Commerce, Texas, where his cousin, the late Prof. W. L. (Bebe) Mayo had founded the East Texas Normal College, and he worked his way through two years of school there. After teaching a one-room Texas school—thus beginning a career that continued in classroom and in administrative posts for 45 years—he received his first degree from the Commerce college in 1911. He and his wife, the former Margaret Richardson, served as the faculty of an Ellis county rural school, then moved to Howard, Texas, where he assumed the job of building a school and erecting the first telephone ever built in Texas.

Later he taught in Pease Gap, was superintendent of Lancaster schools eight years, served one term as superintendent of Dallas county schools, after that taught at Victoria and Hillcrest high school where he evinced the first 12-year school program put into effect in Texas, then to Arcadia Park and Sunset. He ended his career at Sunset as a classroom teacher—the work he had always loved best, the actual teaching of children. One of his great sources of pride lay in the fact that in his various building programs he provided improved schools for Negroes.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, Dr. T. D. Mayo, Jr., and W. L. Mayo. Burial was made in Dallas.

SPORTS CHATTER

By GORDON MOORE

HALL AND OSBORNE STARE IN MEET

Paintsville, largely through the individual efforts of senior forward Bryan Hall, retained the championship of their own institutional tournament over the past week-end.

In the popular meet, Hall and Charlie Osborne, of Flat Gap, thrilled the crowds with their stellar rebounding and offensive play. Osborne, one of the most sought-after basketball stars ever to play in the mountains, flipped in 125 points in three games for a nifty 41.6 per game average, and yet, he missed the final quarter of the championship game, which eventually set the stage for Paintsville's victory.

With a six-foot, one-inch youngster with a fine shoalistic record, hit for 73 points, turned in a fine defensive performance in each fray and rebounded like a demon. In the final fray, he limited 8-8 Carleton Burchett to eight points and waded a bitter battle with the taller Osborne and Burchett for control of the backboards.

In addition to being a star basketball artist, Hall is one of the better high school golfers in eastern Kentucky, as shown in the annual area golf tournament and the Kentucky high school play-offs.

SPORTS AFIELD

By TED KESTING

Any beginner deer hunter should keep in mind that deer do not have fixed habits and that few they have in their localities and seasons. For those who are about to embark on their first deer hunt, Col. Housens Whelan of Sports Afield magazine has compiled some pointers.

In the deer are usually hunted by driving or still-hunting. The driver will usually be the charge of some experienced hunter, and his directions should be followed. For one or two hunters the method of still-hunting.

You will have the best chance of success if you hunt on the upwind edge of feeding grounds (apple orchards, old lumber slashings, second growth birch and poplar thickets) around dawn and dusk. During the remainder of the day hunt the thick growth where the deer are most liable to bed down, upwind or at right angles to the wind.

Be slow, careful, and as quiet as you can, covering not more than half a mile an hour. Your rifle should be carried in a ready position from which you can fire instantly, and be loaded and cocked. At any time, a deer may jump up within 25 yards or less, and may be out of sight within five seconds or less.

It is advisable to wear soft clothing that will not scratch audibly when it contacts twigs or leaves. Shoes should have soft rubber soles; rustling leaves, scratching brush or the breaking of very small twigs will probably not alarm a deer unless within 25 or 50 yards, but these slight sounds will alert it at 100 yards or more, and it will be on watch.

In the first and last lights of dawn and dusk it may pay to pause or stand or sit hidden at places that afford a good view of fairly open country between feeding and bedding grounds. In these early and late hours deer may be moving back and forth between feeding and bedding grounds.

Once you hear a noise, and have made sure it is not another human being but a deer, and a real one, you are ready to shoot. Push your rifle straight forward, muzzle pointing towards the deer, but do not touch the trigger. At the same time throwing the safety off. Follow the deer with the front sight, and when it passes or jumps through a fairly open place between trees, in almost one motion raise the butt to the shoulder, drop the head into the line of aim, put the front sight on the lower front portion of the chest, and press the trigger.

You just got your first deer!

Kill Japanese honeysuckle before planting trees, foresters say. The foreign plant will smother trees if it once takes firm hold of a growing plant.

NEW FOOTBALL MENTOR

A forthcoming announcement from the Floyd County Board of Education will name John Griggs as the incoming football coach at Prestonsburg high school. Griggs, a former teammate of ex-Prestonsburg teacher, Doc Ferrell, played under Paul Bryant at the University of Kentucky and during the past season he had football coach at Leslie County high school at Hyden.

Griggs will finish the current school year in a teaching position at Martin or Betsy Layne, then assume his new duties at Prestonsburg next season.

MAYTOWN SEERS 18th AND 19th WINS

Undeclared Maytown high, the winningest team in Kentucky high school prep circles, will invade Martin Friday night in quest of its 18th consecutive win. Saturday night, the Wildcats return home to meet Wheelwright in a make-up contest and next Tuesday have re-scheduled the postponed Salversville meeting until that time.

WHEELWRIGHT WITHOUT MENTOR

Wheelwright high school is vainly searching for a basketball coach to complete the current school year, now that Willie "Shooter" Jamerson has returned to school.

The coachless Maroons have eight remaining games on the schedule before the district tournament begins in the latter part of February.

Giant Steps Predicted In Stocking Program

Frankfort, Jan. 21 (Sp1) — The farm pond stocking program, carried on by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources for the last 10 years, is ranked as one of the top programs of its kind in the nation and is providing neighborhood fishing opportunities throughout Kentucky.

In the program's final year, the newly organized farm pond crews handled 1,200 applications from farmers wanting their ponds restocked. In 1956, more than 1,000 applications were processed and approximately 449,000 "new" bass, bluegill and crappie were delivered.

Getting all the fish to the numerous pond owners would seem to be a huge task but the planning and execution of the pond crew makes the job run smoothly. The easiest part of the entire program is for the pond owner to get the fish.

The pond owner calls the local conservation officer who visits and checks size, depth, fertility and other aspects of the pond. The officer assists the applicant in filling a form which is sent to the fisheries office in Frankfort. Within a short time the pond owner receives a card telling him the fish transport trucks are coming and the fish will be delivered at the county courthouse on a certain day. He picks them up at the courthouse, releases them in his pond and awaits the recommended 15 months before trying his luck.

The farm pond crews make three deliveries to the state's farm ponds each year. Black bass are delivered in Spring. Three to four inch shell-crackers and black crappie go in late summer and a bluegill delivery wraps up the operation in the late fall. In the future bluegill will also be delivered in Spring.

The accomplishments have been tremendous during the first 10 years of the program. Fish and Wildlife officials predict some giant steps in backyard fishing during the coming years.

Brashear Hits for 15 In Bellarmine Victory

Dick Brashear, of Manion, six-foot freshman at Bellarmine College, spearheaded a second-half rally recently which gave his team an upset victory over Hanover, top-ranking team in the Hoosier Athletic Conference. Bellarmine, a five-point underdog, defeated Hanover, 53-25, at Male gymnasium, Louisville.

Coming off the bench late in the first half, Brashear picked up 15 points—14 of them, on field goals — as he connected seven times on 13 shots at the basket. Playing a guard position, young Brashear looms large in his team's plans for the future. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Brashear, of Manion.

NEW BIBLIOGRAPHY

A new contribution to the history of our area is a bibliography, titled "A Bibliography of Floyd County, Kentucky," by Willard Rouse Wilson, Kentucky historian and geologist, now living in Frankfort, but formerly a Prestonsburg resident.

It contains "Citations of Printed and Manuscript Sources Touching upon the History, Geology, Cartography, Coal, Salt and Gas with Annotations. (1765-1956)." There are 125 items, many of them rare.

One citation, of much interest to Floyd countyans, is "A List of Taxable Property for the District No. 1 in Mason County, Kentucky," containing 20 pages of manuscript and compiled by Edward Dohms. It is in the Mason county records.

"This manuscript tax list is styled Floyd County, 1792 on the outside cover, thus indicating that several years passed during which the area was so designated before the General Assembly in 1799 legally erected this taxing district as the county of Floyd." Johnson writes.

"In this hand written list prepared the first year after statehood (1792) it is interesting to see a considerable number of easily recognizable Floyd County pioneers, among whom the following may be cited: Joseph Abbott, Nathaniel Allen, Joseph Allen, Thomas Boyd, William Boyd, William Breckenridge, Joseph Combs, John Davidson, Josiah Davidson, Andrew Davidson, Daniel Goble, Caleb Goble, Adam Hatfield, Alexander Hughes, John Johns, Thomas Johns, John Patton, Elizabeth Sellers, Leonard Sellers, John Sellers, Robert Wiley, John Wiley, Eliza Wiley. At this time John Graham, apparently had not yet taken up his residence in that part of the Big Sandy Valley which was then regarded and later (1799) set off by the Legislature as Floyd County. In 1793 Graham appears on the Mason County tax lists of District No. 2."

PLANS BOOK ON FURNACES

A letter from the historian J. Winston Coleman, Jr., of Lexington, advises he is gathering materials on the old charcoal furnaces.

"I am gathering materials to do an article or maybe a pamphlet on the old Kentucky charcoal iron furnaces. They were largely located in and around the counties near Ashland, and down on Green River, with smaller ones scattered around, as the Mt. Saverie in Carter County, and the old Bourbon Furnace in Bath County, the 'daddy' of them all."

"I read and liked your article, 'Big Sandy Rivermen's Customs Reviewed in Floyd County Lawuits.' It goes in my Kentuckians scrapbooks. It is a good account of the old methods whereby merchants secured their stock of goods and the

Your Income Tax (Questions and Answers by Cost Accountants)

April 15th is just around the corner but don't wait until the last minute before starting to work on your tax return. Get an early start and avoid careless omissions that may be costing you money.

This is the second in a series of articles containing questions and answers relating to income taxes prepared by the Louisville Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants. To help taxpayers make more accurate returns the Louisville Chapter of N. A. C. A. suggests that taxpayers devote more time to careful reading and understanding of each line on the form—it might save you some money.

Q. What is form 1040? A. This is the standard tax form. Form 1040A is a card form that may be filled instead of form 1040 if your income was less than $5,000 and consisted entirely of wages reported on withholding statements, or consisted entirely of such wages and not more than a total of $100 of income that was not subject to withholding.

Q. Who may use form 1040? A. Any taxpayer except a non-resident alien. Form 1040 is designed to meet the needs of all persons. Most taxpayers who use this form will find it necessary to use only a part of the form. Therefore, it is arranged that boxes 3 and 4 may be discarded if not needed.

Q. What items of income should not be reported? A. Life insurance proceeds upon death. Interest on state and municipal bonds. Gifts, inheritances, Debentures. Social Security benefits. State unemployment compensation benefits. Veterans benefits to veterans and their families.

Q. What are the advantages of a joint return? A. The law lets married persons split their income for tax purposes by filing a joint return. Even if one has a gross income less than the other a joint return is generally less than would result from separate returns.

My Program If Elected County Judge

I will help the business people of this county and try to get new business, large or small, to locate in the county.

I will promise the people that I will use all the power and energy of the office to help me work out the problem of juvenile delinquency and under-privileged children. If we can raise good citizens out of such 30% of these, we will be making a great contribution to humanity.

From time to time, as the campaign progresses, I will furnish details from my progress to the people.

HEALTH NOTES by Floyd County Health Department

Multiple sclerosis is a disease of the central nervous system. It attacks the protective covering or "insulation" of the nerves. This covering is called the myelin sheath. The disease usually attacks the spinal cord and the base of the brain. It is not a mental disease as it does not affect the mind of the diseased person.

The disease is progressive. It does not have any set pattern of development. During attacks of multiple sclerosis, damage may occur to any part of the central nervous system. The order in which the symptoms appear varies with each patient. The rate of development does also.

Multiple sclerosis is characterized by periods of variable lengths, some of them for years, in which the disease does not progress. Often the patient shows marked improvement between acute episodes. In other periods conditions become rapidly worse.

When patches of the myelin sheath are damaged, the ability of the nerve to carry messages is impaired. It may be completely destroyed. The patches are scattered throughout the central nervous system, impairing the activity of those parts of the body controlled by the damaged nerves.

Nerve tissue cannot renew itself and therefore the body cannot repair the damage caused by the disease. Although there is no known cure at the present time, the picture is not entirely hopeless. With proper treatment, many of the symptoms can be materially helped. Physical therapy, proper diet, and avoidance of emotional stress and over-fatigue are means by which the condition of patients is often improved, according to the Kentucky State Department of Health.

UMW LEVIES ASSESSMENT

$10 Asked Per Member To Raise $2.4 Million; Heavy Expenses Cited

Washington, Jan. 16.—The United Mine Workers is levying a $10 assessment on each of its working coal-miner members to increase the union's treasury by an estimated $2,225,000. The union claims 235,000 working members.

The assessment was announced today in the union's newspaper, The Journal, in a statement by U.M.W. President John L. Lewis and other U.M.W. officers. They said the extra money is needed to meet "tremendous expenses" incurred in 1956.

The statement said the expenses included litigation, settlement of lawsuits, the sustaining of the union's campaigns, as well as the expenses incident to the holding of the last international convention, which expenses alone amounted to almost $600,000.

Five dollars of the assessment is to be collected on pay due for the last half of January, and the balance from pay due on work performed in the last half of February. District and other non-working members and members of the U.M.W.'s District 66, who are not, coal miners, are exempt from the assessment.

"The assessment," Lewis told in a U. M. W. membership, "is very small and actually amounts to less than one cent on the dollar of the money to which it will be put, if it is fully justified."

The officers' statement said "uncertainty and dangers lie ahead. We cannot afford to take any chances with the future security and progress of our members and our organization."

"We need only look back on the history of our organization to determine what is in store for us."

Similar assessments have been levied in the past after the U. M. W. succeeded in negotiating industry-wide wage increases. The U. M. W. contended agreements last fall with both the bituminous and subbituminous industries providing for 42-3-day wage increases.

The U. M. W. does not make public full financial data, but makes periodic reports to its members. In 1956, U. M. W. executives last fall told the union's treasury had about $25,000,000 in cash assets, plus other substantial investments. This is exclusive of U. M. W.'s multi-million-dollar welfare fund.

Send for Seedlings Now For Kentucky Reforesting

Slightly more than 8,000,000 seedlings are available now for Kentucky farmers for reforestation or erosion control work, says James Newman, Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service forester.

"This is slightly higher than in 1956, Newman says however, estimated demand for this year is 9,500,000 seedlings.

Newman noted some types of seedlings are in short supply. They are white pine and short-leaf pine; Scotch pine for Christmas tree plantings are scarce, too. All trees are priced at $7 per thousand except Scotch pine, $10 a thousand.

Place orders early, Newman advised; requests are approved in the order received by district foresters.

See county agent, district forester, or Soil Conservation Service technicians for proper type of seedlings. The minimum order is 100 square feet on special request. It takes about 1,000 trees per acre when the seedlings are planted at 6-foot by 7-foot spacings.

Newman noted financial assistance may be possible by application through the county AEC office. Likewise, some of the trees probably will be distributed through the conservation reserve of the Soil Bank.

Twenty-four men and women from nine foreign countries spent about three months at the University of Kentucky the past year to observe agricultural extension methods.

Frenchburg Paper Ceases Publication

Publication of the Menfee County News at Frenchburg was suspended with this issue, to issue, it was announced by Eastern Kentucky Publishing Co., publishers of five other Eastern Kentucky newspapers.

Officials of the company said that lack of support by Frenchburg merchants, plus rising costs of materials and labor prompted the decision to halt publication of the seven-year-old newspaper.

In an editorial the publisher said: "The publisher saw the newspaper founded and has followed its course with a high degree of personal interest. Getting off to a shaky start, as is the case with most infant newspapers, the publisher had hopes of cooperation and support from the local merchants in sufficient strength to make The Menfee County News one of Eastern Kentucky's finest weeklies."

"But this was not to be, and here is the final issue of Frenchburg's newspaper. Skyrocketing costs of materials and labor added their burdens and doomed the seven-year-old publication."

Send for Seedlings Now For Kentucky Reforesting

Slightly more than 8,000,000 seedlings are available now for Kentucky farmers for reforestation or erosion control work, says James Newman, Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service forester.

"This is slightly higher than in 1956, Newman says however, estimated demand for this year is 9,500,000 seedlings.

Newman noted some types of seedlings are in short supply. They are white pine and short-leaf pine; Scotch pine for Christmas tree plantings are scarce, too. All trees are priced at $7 per thousand except Scotch pine, $10 a thousand.

Place orders early, Newman advised; requests are approved in the order received by district foresters.

See county agent, district forester, or Soil Conservation Service technicians for proper type of seedlings. The minimum order is 100 square feet on special request. It takes about 1,000 trees per acre when the seedlings are planted at 6-foot by 7-foot spacings.

Newman noted financial assistance may be possible by application through the county AEC office. Likewise, some of the trees probably will be distributed through the conservation reserve of the Soil Bank.

Twenty-four men and women from nine foreign countries spent about three months at the University of Kentucky the past year to observe agricultural extension methods.

New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks

18.17 miles per gallon on North America's toughest truck run!

That's the gas mileage reported by the Cameo Carrier after covering the entire length of the Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! AN six new Task-Force trucks that made the run earned in top scores for performance and economy!

Choose your model from among Chevrolet's famous economy-proved Alcan Champ Shortstroke V-8's as standard in all heavyweight truck models and in many of the middleweights. They're loaded with modern features and built to take it!

Six heavily loaded Chevy trucks ran all the way up the rugged Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! That's cutting more than a full day of the normal running time! They ran right around the clock, stopping only to refuel.

But the important fact about this run was that it proved new Chevy trucks through and through. The Alcan Highway is a supreme test of every truck component. Engines had to prove their power up high-climbing grades and through washouts. Frames and suspensions flexed their muscles over axle-deep ruts and miles of pouncing gravel. "And not a single truck turned back or dropped out due to mechanical failure," states the official AAA report of the test. Every model proved its over-all economy by its ironclad ability to stay on the job! Stop by; we'll talk about it.

Exams Scheduled For Candidates For Tax Office

Frankfort, Jan. 21 (Sp.) — Examinations of prospective candidates for county tax commissioner will be given in each Kentucky congressional district Feb. 5.

Revenue Commissioner J. E. Lackey said under Kentucky law no tax commissioner candidate's name may be placed upon the ballot until it has been examined and qualified by the Department of Revenue. Persons passing the exams are given certificates of eligibility.

In addition to holding the certificate, a candidate must be at least 24 years of age at election time and must have been a Kentucky resident at least two years and a resident of the county and district in which he is running for at least a year, Lackey said.

He added that although law requires the tests be given in each congressional district, an applicant may take an exam at the location most convenient to him. Notices of exam will be posted in court houses.

The examinations, beginning at 9:30 a. m. local time, will be conducted at Kenlake Hotel, Kentucky Lake; Owensboro senior high school; R.E.A. building, Glasgow; high school, Newport; Kentucky Utilities Co. auditorium, Lexington; Morehead State College; Hazard high school auditorium; Somerset high school library and Gardner Hall, University of Louisville, Louisville.

Sgt. Kendrick Arrives To Help At Air Base

Marine Corps Auxiliary Air Station, Beaufort, S. C. — Marine Staff Sergeant James W. Kendrick, of Prestonsburg, Ky., has arrived here to assist in activating the jet air base.

A construction program of over $35,000,000 is now in progress at this air station. The building program incorporates the construction of runways, hangars, barracks, mess halls, administration buildings, recreational facilities, a chapel, service clubs, and similar structures.

Since the construction phase is being accomplished by civilian contractors, Sgt. Kendrick's job is to help operate the Investigation Department. He and the relatively few Marines stationed here have the responsibility of getting every department activated and fully operational before the first jet fighters and thousands of Marines start arriving in 1957.

Before entering the service in July, 1951, Staff Sergeant Kendrick attended Prestonsburg high school.

The new electric generating stations built on inland rivers in 1956 will each be an annual customer for 4,000,000 tons of coal, delivered by river barge.

Fund Has Sent 49 Young Doctors Into Rural Sections of Kentucky

The number of medical students helped by the Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarship Fund has reached 100.

Most of the others are still in medical school, military service, or taking graduate training.

The fund reporting these figures says it goes to one of the 10 counties. The fund was started in 1946.

Thirty-three fund recipients are now in practice in 10 counties. Sixteen have fulfilled their obligations in 15 counties and have moved to other places.

Most loans are for $800 a year. This is the equivalent of a year's tuition at the University of Louisville Medical School, where most of the fund recipients have studied.

The student promise to practice in rural sections for every year of his loan. He begins repaying the loan three years after graduation, at 2 per cent interest.

However, doctors who locate in any of 10 counties where physicians are not needed are not required to repay their loans.

Under a 1956 act of the General Assembly, the tuition of students at the University of Louisville Medical School is refunded if they practice in one of the 10 needy counties.

The counties are Powell, Martin, Knott, Rockcastle, Magoffin, Elliott, Knox, Cumberland, Leslie, and Breathitt.

The tuition refund was provided as part of a contract giving up of M. Medical School up to $500,000 a year in State funds.

This student can now get a total subsidy of about $1,000—$3,300 from the scholarship fund, $3,300 from the scholarship fund.

Dr. C. C. Howard Glasgow, chairman of the Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarship Fund trustees, stressed that rural communities have a great responsibility to help attract doctors.

If churches, schools and living conditions are not attractive to doctors and their families, the doctor shortage in those areas will not be solved, Dr. Howard said.

He gave his added information about the fund, which is sponsored by the Kentucky State Medical Association in co-operation with the U. of L. Medical School.

Dr. William Wilder, dean of the new University of Kentucky Medical School, is a new trustee of the fund.

Private contributions to the fund now total about $170,000. In addition, the General Assembly last year granted $230,000 a year to the fund.

The added state aid, with two other factors—higher tuition fees in recent years and less need expected for doctors in the armed forces—means many more students annually may take advantage of the fund in the future.

Twenty-six students are getting fund loans this school year. Ten are freshmen, five sophomores, seven juniors and four seniors. The loans total $20,900.

Two fund recipients are now in rural areas, 12 have fulfilled their fund obligations and are continuing practice at the same locations.

The Kentucky Physicians Placement Service, also sponsored by the Kentucky Medical Association, is helping doctors locate in places where they are most needed and wanted.

Dr. Howard said students wanting fund help in the next school year should get in touch now with its executive secretary, J. P. Sanford, 627 S. Third, Louisville.

FIRST GAS TURBINE

The nation's first gas turbine steam turbine electric generator is to be installed by the Crisp County, Ga., Power Commission, which says the exhaust from the gas turbine will flow into a steam boiler where in combustion with pulverized coal it will produce the steam needed to drive the turbine.

One of America's leading coal producing companies, the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Co., has underground reserves of more than two billion tons of bituminous.

Public School History Written In KEA Pageant

Frankfort, Jan. 21 (Sp.) — The crusade of enlightening against the forces of ignorance provides the action in "The Opening Door," a pageant to be staged April 11 at Louisville's Freedom Hall to observe the Kentucky Education Association's 100th birthday.

The play by John Engle dramatizes the struggle of common school education in Kentucky against public apathy, history and the interests of a few citizens to attain its present limit: "equal opportunity for every child."

With fictional characters representing historical ones so that sequence and emotional impact can be created by the dramatist, the production by Eben Hanson, of Danville's Pioneer Playhouse, illustrates "Education is like a giant door that opens only when everyone is pushing against it. Even then, it opens slowly." One thing is certain. It will never open for its own accord. Right now, we have feet in the door. But ignorance is pushing just as hard on the other side."

Most of the play's action occurs in historical flashbacks from the period of the recent constitutional amendment to allow allocation of state school money to districts on the basis of student attendance.

The flashbacks dramatize campaigns for public schools against the feudal concept that only private academies to educate the aristocracy were needed; for a law that made the county the school unit, rather than ever-changing, arbitrary districts; for equal education for women and Negroes and the right of women to teach; for adequate local taxation for schools; and for elimination of the old system of distributing state school funds on the basis of the number of school children in a district.

The nucleus of the cast will be New York actors and actresses and the narrator will be a "top name" in the entertainment field. Some 50 supporting players will be recruited from amateur actors.

The nation's gigantic road-building program will create a market for an additional 2,500,000 tons of coal, to be used in production of such road building supplies as steel, cement and asphalt.
