TREE ORDERS AT 250,100

Demand for Seedlings Already Ahead of '56, Conservationists Say

Forest tree seedling orders have reached the quarter-million mark in this county. It was announced Tuesday by L. R. Johnson, soil conservationist of the Floyd County Conservation District. Forty-nine landowners placed the requests for this county's greatest number of trees since the seedlings were made available by the state.

Actual orders were standing now at 250,100 trees, Johnson said. Last year's planting was only 180,000 trees, he added.

Other landowners, with the number for shortleaf pine. Landowners requested 112,700 of this variety of pine which is highly adaptable to this section. White pine was second with orders for 59,800 trees and loblolly pine third with orders for 46,100 tree seedlings. Other trees ordered were poplar, locust and walnut.

Corrections on these orders and additional requests not calculating as to species, bring the total past the quarter-million mark.

Greatest number of trees were ordered by H. T. Allen, of Prestonsburg, who asked for 40,700 trees, chiefly pine. Allen plans to plant them on his Middle Creek farm.

Other landowners, with the number of trees ordered, are J. B. Clark, Prestonsburg, 10,000; Chalmers H. Frazer, Prestonsburg, 5,000; W. D. Seale, of Betsy Layne, 4,000; W. H. Howell, of Price, 31,000; Mike Blevins, of Lancer, 2,000; Ernest Prater, of Goodin, 2,000; Claude Prater, of Goodin, 2,000; Claude Prater, of Goodin, 2,000; Mike Blevins, of Lancer, 2,000; Ernest Prater, of Goodin, 2,000; Claude Prater, of Goodin, 2,000.

Funeral rites were conducted at the home of Perry Stumbo, Sunday at 1 p.m., the Rev. Lester Walters and John P. Carr officiating. Burial was made in the May Cemetery at Lantry under the direction of Turner-Ryan Funeral Home.

Two Farm Cooperatives Talk Wagon Consolidation At Recent Meeting Here

Directors of the East Kentucky Strawberry Growers Association met at the courthouse here January 24 with H. K. Taylor, manager of the Mountain Growers cooperative, in an effort to work out a method of pooling shipments to reduce transportation costs. Meeting with them were the personnel of the county Extension Service.

Growers of the Morshed area through their cooperative last year had a low selling average of nine percent, one of the lowest of the state's 13 cooperatives. East Kentucky's cost of 13 percent, while considered high, was below the state average. It is thought that a pooling of transportation efforts would contribute to lower costs by both associations.

If the pooling plan is worked out a central pick-up location would probably be established in Prestonsburg to serve the surrounding counties in this area.

The directors of both associations will meet at West Liberty Friday to formulate final plans for the liaison between the two selling groups. Any agreement entered into would be submitted to the governor in this area before it is formally accepted. It was said.

NOTICE OF SALE

On Monday, Feb. 20, 1957, between the hours of 1 and 2 p.m., the undersigned will offer for sale at its place of business in Prestonsburg, Ky. the following described real estate to satisfy repair bill of $66.56 and storage charges from Aug. 6, 1956: One 1947 Buick sedan, motor No. 340198, Serial No. 14991445; owner, Frank Harris.

These figures admittedly are incomplete. An unknown number of flood refugees found shelter in private homes here and elsewhere over the county. At Trum, for instance, one home sheltered 35 persons one or more nights. At Betsy Layne as many took refuge in the Baptist Church. One residence at Emma, where all but four homes on the river side of of railroad were flooded, housed 17 persons; another was as heavily populated at night.

And so the story ran; a story, all the details of which will never be recorded—partly because of lack of communication, partly because its complete telling would exhaust newspaper space even if all the information were available. Citizens not the least afflicted with a courage that drew admiration from visitors. A few business men will not be able to reopen. But most are already at work.

"As long as I have these two hands and my faith that I will keep on," one business man here said. Other similar expressions of high courage and trust were voiced with many expressing their gratitude because no lives were lost and "things are no worse than they are."

Louisville, Lexington, Berea, Grayson, Cloverport, Morehead, Liberty—from every section supplied poured into Prestonsburg for distribution to the flood-stricken Floyd County. American Legion, reported contributions of clothing from pots as far away as Texas. One Southern Bell worker's portable kit bore the placard, "From Louisiana—'Ladies to Help'". Louisville street vendors were overtaxed, so great was the flood of contributions of foodstuffs and clothing for Eastern Kentucky relief.

The Floyd County Disaster Committee set up to administer relief to flood sufferers, has established distribution centers here and at Martin, Allen, Lancer, Emma, Duval, Harold, Boldman. The Rev. Harold W. Dorsey is chairman of the committee, with O. E. Boggs as vice-chairman. J. C. Clark is handling flood distribution at the county warehouse here, and Roy Ramey is the clothing chairman.

In several cases here and in other stricken communities goers threw open their stock to those in need. The Beaver Creeks above Martin had a "big rise" but no flood out of proportion to others, and so the store was isolated from the outside world in the matter of transportation or communication for a time.

One telephone (see story) was in use on Wednesday night, and after that a few other phones were made available for official use only. General telephone service here is not expected to be restored before Thursday.

Radio Station WFRF went off the air at the end of the day Tuesday. Its studio flooded, and remained off till Tuesday afternoon of this week.

The public found in three short-wave radio operators its only source of communication from Prestonsburg. These operators were Wade Moore, of Prestonsburg, Dean Lafayette, of Martin, and John Peiffer, of Kenova, W. Va., with Mr. Moore's son, Carroll Wade, as communications man. They refused to accept pay.

Those who were served by them should contact Johnny Hale and contribute enough to pay the $15 taxi bill incurred in getting Mr. Peiffer back to work Sunday night.

Boy Under Probation Jailed; Martin Youth Tells Of School Damage

One of four boys recently probated here after they had confessed to breaking and entering was jailed last week and booked on a probation violation charge. The youth, Billy Ray Osborne, was picked up after the Brown Products Company here had been broken into. Osborne said marks on pellets missing from the place of business were found by him in garbage near the strand theatre here. He had taken the pellets home, and he and his mother returned them before the owner had determined that anything was missing. It was said.

A hearing for the youth was set for last Thursday but flood conditions delayed it. Three Martin youths remained in jail Wednesday, about 10 days after they had admitted to a series of breaks. One of the trio last week said county authorities he and two companions broke out windows of the Prestonsburg high school building during a storm here last week. He denied firing a shotgun blast through a lunchroom window of the building, however.

Donald Smith, who admitted breaking into the home here of Joe Weddington, was placed under probation recently. Terms of his probation are strict and along the lines of last week's. The first use only of the 1862 flood was greater than this one through which they have just passed.

Electric power was uninterrupted throughout the crisis, but Prestonsburg was isolated from the outside world in the matter of transportation or communication for a time. One telephone (see story) was in use on Wednesday night, and after that a few other phones were made available for official use only. General telephone service here is not expected to be restored before Thursday.

Radio Station WFRF went off the air at the end of the day Tuesday. Its studio flooded, and remained off till Tuesday afternoon of this week.

Mrs. Maggie Yates, 43, Of Drift, Dies Saturday After 6-Year Illness

Mrs. Maggie Yates, 43, of Drift, died at the McDowell Memorial hospital, Saturday. The cause of the death was not learned. She had been ill 6 years, seriously so a week ago. Mrs. Yates was the daughter of Tom and Annie Steele Hunt and the wife of Ballard Yates, who survives. Surviving sons and daughters are Mrs. Betty Jean Evans, of Orveth, Mrs. Bonnie Helen Mullins, of Drift, Betty Yates, Wellington, O., Jimmy, Billie, Jr., and Glenn Ray Yates, all of home. Brothers and sisters surviving are Edgar Hunt, of Drift, Willie Hunt, of Ligon, Miss Hunt, of Mare Creek, Mrs. Josie Shannon, Wellington, O., and Mrs. Alzie Kilde, of Harlow.

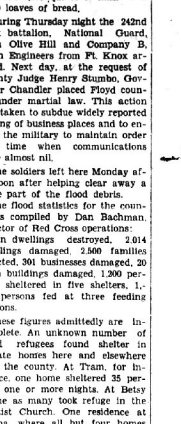

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday, the Rev. Hershel Huff, Ed Mosley, Henry Moore and others officiating. Burial was made in the Squire Hamilton cemetery under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

GRIGGS NAMED PERSONALS GRID MENTOR

Former Grid Team Captain At U.-C. Assumes Duties, Succeeding Robt. Wallace

John Griggs, new Prestonsburg high school coach, began work this week as a member of the school faculty, teaching health and biology. He succeeds Robert C. Wallace as coach of the team.

Griggs, who played football under the tutelage of "Bear" Bryant at the University of Kentucky, was captain of the Kentucky team in 1952, the year of his graduation. He played center. After his graduation, he entered the armed forces, and during the past season coached the Leslie County high school eleven at Hayden. At the University of Kentucky he also was student-instructor in physical education.

He was originally scheduled to complete remainder of the school year in a teaching post at another Floyd high school but when the former coach, Mr. Wallace, resigned, Griggs immediately transferred here. Mr. Griggs is married and has two children. His family will move here soon. It was said this week.

Mr. Wallace and family left last week-end for Bowling Green, Ky., where he will enter Western State College for his Master's degree. He expects to complete this work next June.

Three Floyd-Co. Students Participate In Broadcast By Berea College Choir

Berea, Ky., Jan. 29 (Sp.)—Floyd county was represented in a coast-to-coast radio broadcast of the world premier of a new oratorio, "Children of God."

Mr. Thos. Johnson, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, directed the 100-voice Berea choir and the Cincinnati orchestra in the concert performance.

The concert was jointly sponsored by Berea College and the National Council of Churches.

Music for the oratorio was written by the nationally famous composer, Norman Lockwood. Dr. Clara Chassey Cooper, chairman of the Berea College psychology department, compiled the biblical text of the oratorio.

"Children of God" is the first oratorio.

Holt Hovey, chairman of the Berea College Music Department, has trained the Berea Oratorio Choir for the February concert. He began rehearsals last September.

A performance of the oratorio is planned for Berea on May 15.

Mr. Cook, son of Mrs. Cora T. Cook, and Gene and Ballard, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Wright, will also appear in the May concert.

HEART DEATHS SUB-AVERAGE

(Special to The Times)

New York—New figures released by the U. S. Public Health Service on the principal causes of death in each part of the country, show that coronary heart disease is the outstanding offender in Floyd county. It is less of a problem, however, than in most sections of the United States.

According to the official report, 82.2 percent of all deaths among Floyd residents are due to heart disease. And this is exclusive of deaths in the related cardiovascular system.

The ratio is lower than that found in the rest of the United States, where the average is 71.8 percent. In the state of Kentucky it is 34.8 percent.

Despite a massive research effort in laboratories and medical centers, heart disease seems to be growing as a menace. Certain patterns of its progress have been observed but the cause is still a mystery.

One fact noted is that heart disease is twice as high in some parts of the country as in others. Another is that it is much more prevalent among men than among women. Also, Americans as a whole are more susceptible than are foreigners.

While these problems still defy solution, various theories have been advanced. One is that the high rate in the East, which is doubtful that of some parts of the West, is due to the fatter diets indulged in in the East. A close connection has been established between the intake of animal fats and the incidence of heart disease.

Another theory, advanced before the American Heart Association, is that people of the short stocky type are more susceptible and that there are more of them in the East. Why that should be is unknown.

Among residents of Floyd county according to the new Public Health Service report, covering 1954, there was a total of 303 deaths from all causes, with 86 of them due to heart disease.

Meat production for the first 11 months of 1956 was up 6 percent from the 1955 figures, says the USDA.

This big high-stepping Chieftain started a revolution with a carload of "firsts" and an eye-popping price tag!

The low-price field never looked like this before! The handsome husky you see right here has the boat still rocking... with more power, more wheelbase, more room—and more sheer price of ownership—than ever before possible on a well-trained budget! Look at what they're making room for now in the low-price lineup: a stropping 347 cu. in., 10 to 1 compression ratio Strato-Stroke V-8... a whopping, road-hugging 122 inches of wheelbase and an all-new suspension system for a Level-Line Ride that's next best thing to a magic carpet! And this streamlined beauty toots on the field with more than six dozen "firsts," all proved by 100,000 of the roughest, toughest test miles a group of fact-minded engineers could devise! If this sounds like a wonderful buy—it certainly is! Our advice is to stop dreaming and price it! At a cost less than a lot of the low-price jobs, this newcomer is making big-time buyers out of former "all-thrives" owners!

BOB FRANCIS IN NEW LOCATION

Although we have suffered a great loss in the recent flood, we are still in business and are now located in the Town Center on Lake Drive In the store room formerly occupied by Tot Allen Cope

Our new merchandise is on display there, and we are making every effort to take care of the needs of our customers and friends.

Those who wish to pay their accounts should call at this new temporary location.

We wish to add here a word of appreciation for all the help given us as we faced the flood emergency and its aftermath, and for the good wishes and encouragement offered by many friends.

Let us all pull together and pull Prestonsburg and Floyd county out of this present plight.

Here's the bomb THAT BROKE THE "LOW-PRICE" LINEUP!

This big high-stepping Chieftain started a revolution with a carload of "firsts" and an eye-popping price tag!

The low-price field never looked like this before! The handsome husky you see right here has the boat still rocking... with more power, more wheelbase, more room—and more sheer price of ownership—than ever before possible on a well-trained budget! Look at what they're making room for now in the low-price lineup: a stropping 347 cu. in., 10 to 1 compression ratio Strato-Stroke V-8... a whopping, road-hugging 122 inches of wheelbase and an all-new suspension system for a Level-Line Ride that's next best thing to a magic carpet! And this streamlined beauty toots on the field with more than six dozen "firsts," all proved by 100,000 of the roughest, toughest test miles a group of fact-minded engineers could devise! If this sounds like a wonderful buy—it certainly is! Our advice is to stop dreaming and price it! At a cost less than a lot of the low-price jobs, this newcomer is making big-time buyers out of former "all-thrives" owners!

MEMORIAL SERVICE
 In memory of our father, Almon Napier, who passed away five years ago. (Feb. 4, 1952)
 He would not want the ones he loves to grieve for him today. We must not say that he is dead. For he is just away, on a journey to a land that's bright and fair. And though we all will miss him here, we know he's happy there. And memories of him will bring New comfort every day. As we recall he is not dead. For he is just away!

Sadly missed by all his children, Mrs. Amy Rader

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

IN DEFENSE OF THE YOUNGSTER
 Editor, The Times
 We feel that a lot of nice, up-right young boys are being unjustly accused of taking part in morally degrading activities while high school is in session or during lunch hours. It is common gossip that some fine teenage girls and boys are involved upon the rolls of a so-called "Sex Club," which gives its imaginary "existence" to the far-fetched imagination of some parents and groups.
 The public is beginning to believe that Prestonsburg high school is nothing but a breeding ground for vice and immoral practices. It has even gotten to the point where good parents are beginning to make visits to the high school and eating places, to determine if such rumors have basis.
 We believe that a thing of such calibre should be gotten out into the open, and not smothered under cover. For if this kind gossip and these unfounded rumors are allowed to continue, many up-right children will have had their reputations destroyed, without vindication of any sort.
 This letter is intended only to vindicate the many youngsters implicated by unfounded rumors.

INNOCENT DIVERSIONS
 With all this activity in education—Kentuckians paying for a complete foundation program for common schools now for the first time and the Kentucky Education Association celebrating its 100th birthday with emphasis on the progress of learning—let's take a back-seat glance at school days of yore.
 Here are some "rules" to be observed and strictly adhered to in the Lulleberner reading school at Montgomery County in the year 1800.
 "The teacher and scholars to appear at the schoolhouse must morning, if possible, by half an hour before school, with hands and faces cleanly washed and hair neatly combed.
 "Fires to be raised by male scholars in relation to the house to be cleanly swept twice a day by the females.
 "The pupils are to be kind and civil to each other and by no means to call one another out by the proper names... his or her business during school time and there is to be no laughing, lighting, smoking, whispering, or making mouths to provoke others during the hours of exercise.
 "When the scholars, whether in or out of school, have an occasion to speak to or of the Master it shall be in the title of Mr. Barrow, and in like manner to or of all named persons and grown unwashed persons, given names or surnames with only their first names.
 "Conversation with all such the Turn Sir & Madam are to be used, including, Swearing, Cursing, Lying, using obscene Conversation, giving one another the Lie, and other such words the severity of which is to be observed.
 "The girls are to exercise themselves to themselves.
 "The Punishment for Transgression is three: The Lash, block, and the stocks.
 "If after necessary reprimand has been used and there should be any scholars that cannot be broken of Quareling, Whispering, or making mouths to provoke others, the Trustees be expelled from the school.
 "No scholar to be admitted or allowed to continue in school who has the Itch."
 NEWSPAPERS
 Charles H. Hays of the Kentucky Historical Society says the organization plans to sponsor a Junior Historical Society, which is right in line with modern-day development.
 "We hear the Gentile people are producing a Gentile Art," Frankfort, Ky. UP
 The Old Governor's Mansion, now the home of Lt. Gov. Waterhouse, has been named seven presidents.
 "It's better to be a live chicken than a dead girl," the sergeant told the pupils.
 Speaking of passing on curves, had driving conditions such as slippery roads, the new Kentucky "Point to Point" test drivers were given by the speaker. At the end of the session pupils submitted written questions to Point to Point.
 "This meeting," Mr. Sprick said, "is no substitute for a driver's education class such as the school here one had, but I feel it serves a good purpose." He added that driver's education may be resumed in the school.

Area, District Engineers Named By Road Agency
 The State Highway Department has appointed 14 engineers as key personnel to head up the new handling Kentucky's expanded road program.
 Highway Commissioner Robert Humphreys picked six new areas and additional duties. The area officers replace those in office.
 The eight district engineers, The eight districts will be numbered 1 through 8. The eight district engineers will be: 1. George T. Mitchell, Lexington; 2. W. P. Knaar, Louisville; 3. R. L. Campbell, Lexington; 4. O. W. Edwards, London; and 5. O. C. Youlum, Morehead.
 Knaar has been district engineer at Louisville; Campbell, district head at Lexington; and Youlum, district engineer at Covington. Edwards has been assistant director of the Construction Division and Mitchell, assistant maintenance director, at Frankfort.
 Zone offices at Madisonville, Bowling Green, Louisville, Lexington, Morehead and London have had charge only of location and design, which until Jan. 1 included rights-of-way.
 Under the new setup, area offices at these same locations will have charge of construction, rights-of-way and design, in addition to location and design, including rights-of-way, which now is set up as a separate division.
 The district offices heretofore will have charge of maintenance, traffic, safety and equipment.
 Continuing as district engineers will be Jack Carson, Paducah; David S. Peden, Bowling Green; Eugene Fausch, Elmfield; and J. Paul Hunter, Flemingsburg. J. Reed continues as acting District Engineer at Glasgow.
 New district engineers are C. J. McCruder, Covington; John Gulberston, Lexington; and O. J. West, Pikeville. West has been assistant district engineer at Pikeville. He succeeds M. F. Johnson.
 The Jackson district office is being discontinued under the reorganization while district offices at Louisville and Madisonville will be discontinued. Area offices will continue in those cities in places of zone offices.
 Pennsylvania, the nation's second largest producer of bituminous coal, crosses the 100,000,000-ton production mark just before the end of 1956. Bituminous is raised in 20 Pennsylvania counties and the record goes back to 1800.

At Eglin Air Force Base, Florida,
 Miss Joyce Marine Burchett became the bride recently of Sgt. John I. Stepp, in a military church wedding with the Rev. Grooms Chaplin officiating in the single ring ceremony. The chapel, lighted by candles, was decorated with gladioli and mixed flowers.
 The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white satin with long rows of ruffled lace. Her hair was pinned in front and back. Her veil was shoulder length, flowing from a satin crown of pearls and sequins. A single strand of pearls and tiny pearl earrings were worn which were gifts from her mother. The bridal bouquet was a light purple orchid tied with long satin and lace streamers carried on a white prayer book.
 Mrs. Cora Brissette served as matron of honor. She wore a street-length dress of blue with a matching hat and her corsage was of red carnations.
 Miss Cathy Brissette served as flower girl wearing a powder blue ballerina-length gown and carrying a nosegay of carnations.
 Sgt. Ben Brissette, friend of the groom served as best man.
 Mrs. Stepp is the daughter of Otis Burchett and the late Mrs. Mary Zella Whitl Burchett, of Aux.

State Police Sergeant Tells Students Safety Importance
 Prestonsburg high school students who drive automobiles and those who ride to and from school with their parents are being urged to wear seat belts.
 The problem of student drivers and cars heavily loaded with student-passengers has been one of that has caused the school much concern in the past. This year, Mr. Sprick said, pupils who drive have been required to register their autos, and they are asked not to drive from the school at noon unless they go home for lunch. Students who ride with them also must have permission of the principal.
 Periodic meetings with student drivers have been held at the school, and an effort has been made to get parents to come to the school or to contact the principal to discuss problems created by cars operated by students.
 Sgt. Potter in his talk to the group told of the various ways in which accidents occur, citing concrete examples of wrecks and their consequences. He told of appealing to girl-friends of male students who drive to use their influence on the drivers to reduce their rate of speed and one girl giving an excuse for her failure to make such a request that "he would say I was a bad girl."
 "It's better to be a live chicken than a dead girl," the sergeant told the pupils.
 Speaking of passing on curves, had driving conditions such as slippery roads, the new Kentucky "Point to Point" test drivers were given by the speaker. At the end of the session pupils submitted written questions to Point to Point.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE
 Some of the popular theatrical productions in Kentucky in the early 1800's were: Animal Magnetism, or the Doctor Outwitted; Matrimony, or the Miser's Imprisonment; Love a La Mode, or Honors of the Turf; Raising the Wind, or How to Live Cheap; "The Wrecker's Daughter, and the Runaway Horse That Plunged Its Rider in the Forest of Savor."
 Located near Barboursville in the Dr. Thomas Walker Memorial State Park is a replica of the log cabin built by the first white man in the State. The one-room cabin of round log and side-chinked joints was built by the doctor in 1750, about 20 years before the arrival of Daniel Boone.

order and judgment said that the defendants violated provisions of KRS 64.410 in not making out and filing the bills in the correct manner required by law and in violation of Sections 68.100 and 68.110 in appropriating tax revenues for the payment of their claims for services.

The $17,390 principal sum of the judgment, plus interest, would amount to $25,435.15, it was said.

Commenting on the judgment, County Judge Stumbo said:

"There was no evidence introduced by the plaintiffs showing that I or any of the other magistrates failed to perform our duties. We were paid, as the law provided, $5 a day for road supervision, and I did supervise my district, the Third."

Ex-Magistrate Roberts commented that Judge Speckman had stated he had made an effort to file the required bills for his road supervision services.

In his opinion in the magistrates case handed down some time ago Judge Speckman noted: "It is not a pleasant duty for the court to reject claims for services which he believes, in most cases, as shown by the record, were rendered."

The case will be appealed, it was announced.

Individuals suing as taxpayers in the case were Gorman Collins, Joe H. Cooley, Polk Saunders, John Warrick and Dr. Edward R. Leslie.

"I personally regret leaving Floyd county," Mr. Boggs said last Thursday when announcing the change was made. He has enjoyed working with the people of this county, but the opportunity for advancement is such that I could not afford to refuse it. I ask for my successor, Mr. Jones, this same full cooperation that I have been given."

He added that success of the agricultural extension service program in the county has been through the splendid cooperation of the Floyd fiscal court, the University of Kentucky and county leaders.

The Rural Development program which Boggs will head in the Ashland area, a section which includes 12 counties, is a new work and is in the nature of a pilot program at this time. Agricultural, industrial, sociological and educational in scope, it envisions the marshalling of private and public resources and governmental agencies for the development of rural communities.

Floyd county is not yet in the program.

Counties in Mr. Boggs' area are Johnson, Martin, Magoffin, Morgan, Wolfe, Lawrence, Elliott, Greenup, Carter, Boyd and Lewis.

The new Rural Development area agent is himself a native of Lawrence, one of the counties he will serve. He was graduated from the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, in 1952, and before coming here as county agent was assistant agent in Morgan, Magoffin and Pike counties.

Mr. Jones, his successor here as county agent, is a native of Harrison county. He has been an assistant county agent here since Sept. 1, 1955. He was graduated from the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, in 1951 and worked with private firms before coming here.

Don Claypool remains as assistant county agent. A second assistant will be added later, it was said.

Strawberries, aromatic tobacco and sheep growing are outstanding features of the program carried on by County Agent Boggs during the last four years. Between 40 and 50 growers in the county now own about 2,000 head of sheep. Aromatic tobacco, as a field crop in Kentucky, was grown in this county for the first time last year.

Facilities of the county's agricultural extension department now include a soils laboratory and the state has been increased from one worker and a secretary to four workers and a secretary.

BARDSTOWN LEGEND—TRUE OR FALSE? A doubtful legend, cherished by the citizens of Bardonia, is that Louis Philippe, Duke of Orleans and later King of France, was a resident of the little town for a while, during which time he taught French and dancing to the children of the gentry and worked at the watchmaker's trade.

At Martin, five miles from the Big Sandy, the back of the water stood over the parking meters and ten feet deep in the streets. Beyond that point, the water was in business houses in town was flooded and 80 per cent of the houses. O. L. Speckman, Jr., of the West Valley hospital, evacuated his patients to McDowell Memorial hospital. The former caught fire three times but was saved by efforts of volunteer townsmen.

The invading water entered the First Guaranty Bank, seeped into the vault, but retreated leaving in fact records and $5,000 damage. Two nearby stores estimated $90,000 damage each through the open doors of the Martin Theater, the water streamed and a boatman swung in, rowed up to the screen and out.

Martin Hammons and wife, trapped in their store, stood imprisonment of the water rose to their necks. Then the trapped Hammons tapped with a knife upon an overhead pipe.

Bill Martin in an upstairs room heard the call as if it were in Morse code and brought a boat, Hall Bros. Pump and Engine works, arrived Wednesday. The water mark in his building, Johnny Hall pointed out, was shoulder high, at the edge of the water.

All of Allen between Ky. 80 and Beaver Creek was flooded with the water in the houses. Here, as in many other communities, all of the business establishments were invaded.

Refugees fled the homes on the other side of the highway. They stayed two days and a night in a vacant house without heat or food.

The First Baptist church was hit by the water. Two men rescued a boat, pushed it up to the pulpit and loaded the church organ.

Calvin LaFayette and family climbed to the attic of their home at Allen when the water rose. There, imprisoned for hours in the darkness, they could hear the water on their floating furniture in the ground floor room. They did not get out until the water went down.

Harold, Betty Lavne and Justel emerged with several inches of mud, much greater than in towns farther down the valley. It was eight inches deep in the Harold school building. "It's not the mud though that we worry about," Betty Lavne, school janitor said, "it's the homes here and the little children who come here who were scared and cold."

Refugees stayed in homes on the hill above the highway at Harold. They could see the water in the depot building across the river. It backed several miles up Big Mud Creek to the mouth of Branham's Creek.

Residents of Joustell south sanctuary in the Seventh Day Adventist church but the water drove them out. They fled across the bridge to Betty Lavne, concentered in the Calvary Baptist church. Here, the Rev. O. Campbell, who had quarters in a rear apartment, took over 100 in and divided food.

All of the houses between the highway and river at Betty Lavne were flooded except six. The school suffered extensive damage. South of the town U. S. 23 broke apart at the mouth of Cold Water Branch and it still has only one-way traffic while repairs are being made.

The women who lived in Pike-Floyd Branch at Betty Lavne organized a "wash brigade" to help their unfortunate neighbors. Practically every house with a washer had taken in several by Wednesday of this week.

All the several business houses and all of the homes between the highway and river were flooded at Mare Creek. Walter Hall, who operates a grocery and furniture store, H & H Grocery, John Porter garage and a barber shop were covered, almost to the top with water. Hall saved nothing, the others a few appliances. The water backed up Mare Creek two miles. A dwelling owned by Walter Hall was thrown from its foundations. The entire population of the flooded part of town stayed Wednesday and Wednesday night in three homes on the hillside. Forty of them crowded into Clarence Crum's home. The store building of Mrs. Nora Maynard on Mare Creek was moved from its foundations and the entire stock of goods ruined.

The story of one town is almost identical to that of another. Everywhere it was the homes and buildings between the highway and the river that suffered most. At Tom's Creek the river was over the little hamlet ten feet deep at the north end. On the south it was nearly six feet deep. Two business houses were bowled around. Charley Hill's filling station and furniture store was flooded. In his nearby residence he lost his sick wife into an attic and stayed there until rescued the next day by a boat. His son, Herb Hall, who lived nearby, lost his home. The frame building was carried off by the nearby current, deposited on U. S. 23 a mile north of the original site.

From one of the low places that had until a few years ago a watermark of the 1862 flood, was in eight feet of water last Wednesday, four or five than 85 years ago. One of the few places escaping was that of Leonard Betteley who took in fleeing residents. He kept the first and second floors of the store, the first and second floors of the store, the first and second floors of the store.

Mrs. Laura Conley, 79, is Victim At Garrett; Burial, Allen Cemetery

Mrs. Laura Conley, 79, of Garrett, died at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, at the home of a son, Hubert Conley, Asthma and pneumonia were given as causes of death.

Surviving are three sons and a daughter: Pearl, Earl and Hubert, all of Garrett; and Phoebe Conley, of Critts, W. Va. Three brothers surviving are Watt Conley of Prestonsburg, Bill Conley of Walnut O., and Wood Conley of Hindman.

Funeral rites were conducted Monday at 10 a.m. at the Stone-Campbell Baptist church at Garrett, the Revs. Huff, M. C. Wright, Hawk Moore, and Tom Lawson officiating. Burial was made in the Allen cemetery at Garrett under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

Refugees fled the homes on the other side of the highway. They stayed two days and a night in a vacant house without heat or food.

The First Baptist church was hit by the water. Two men rescued a boat, pushed it up to the pulpit and loaded the church organ.

Calvin LaFayette and family climbed to the attic of their home at Allen when the water rose. There, imprisoned for hours in the darkness, they could hear the water on their floating furniture in the ground floor room. They did not get out until the water went down.

Harold, Betty Lavne and Justel emerged with several inches of mud, much greater than in towns farther down the valley. It was eight inches deep in the Harold school building. "It's not the mud though that we worry about," Betty Lavne, school janitor said, "it's the homes here and the little children who come here who were scared and cold."

Refugees stayed in homes on the hill above the highway at Harold. They could see the water in the depot building across the river. It backed several miles up Big Mud Creek to the mouth of Branham's Creek.

Residents of Joustell south sanctuary in the Seventh Day Adventist church but the water drove them out. They fled across the bridge to Betty Lavne, concentered in the Calvary Baptist church. Here, the Rev. O. Campbell, who had quarters in a rear apartment, took over 100 in and divided food.

All of the houses between the highway and river at Betty Lavne were flooded except six. The school suffered extensive damage. South of the town U. S. 23 broke apart at the mouth of Cold Water Branch and it still has only one-way traffic while repairs are being made.

The women who lived in Pike-Floyd Branch at Betty Lavne organized a "wash brigade" to help their unfortunate neighbors. Practically every house with a washer had taken in several by Wednesday of this week.

All the several business houses and all of the homes between the highway and river were flooded at Mare Creek. Walter Hall, who operates a grocery and furniture store, H & H Grocery, John Porter garage and a barber shop were covered, almost to the top with water. Hall saved nothing, the others a few appliances. The water backed up Mare Creek two miles. A dwelling owned by Walter Hall was thrown from its foundations. The entire population of the flooded part of town stayed Wednesday and Wednesday night in three homes on the hillside. Forty of them crowded into Clarence Crum's home. The store building of Mrs. Nora Maynard on Mare Creek was moved from its foundations and the entire stock of goods ruined.

The story of one town is almost identical to that of another. Everywhere it was the homes and buildings between the highway and the river that suffered most. At Tom's Creek the river was over the little hamlet ten feet deep at the north end. On the south it was nearly six feet deep. Two business houses were bowled around. Charley Hill's filling station and furniture store was flooded. In his nearby residence he lost his sick wife into an attic and stayed there until rescued the next day by a boat. His son, Herb Hall, who lived nearby, lost his home. The frame building was carried off by the nearby current, deposited on U. S. 23 a mile north of the original site.

From one of the low places that had until a few years ago a watermark of the 1862 flood, was in eight feet of water last Wednesday, four or five than 85 years ago. One of the few places escaping was that of Leonard Betteley who took in fleeing residents. He kept the first and second floors of the store, the first and second floors of the store.

Voters of the 96th Legislative District

I am new to the business of seeking public office, so I wish to take this opportunity to announce that I am a candidate for State Representative from our district. By way of introducing myself I wish to tell you that I am the son of the late J. B. (John) Clark. My early years were spent in Prestonsburg, Wayland, Garrett, and Stevens Branch. My family lived in Prestonsburg from 1922 to 1926 during that time I was a shoeshine boy on the street. I recall very clearly that some of my steady customers were Ed Arfolic, Henry Fitzpatrick, Jack May, and many others. I was buying my own clothes and schoolbooks with my shoeshine money.

After my father died my mother moved the six children to Stevens Branch and operated the May Coal Co. boarding house in order to support the children. In 1927, as a small boy, I went to Casey Creek to go to school and through the kindness and generosity of Mrs. Lloyd and with the encouragement of a fine mother I was able to finish the grade high school and two years of college at Casey. On a full Casey scholarship I went to the University of Kentucky and graduated with an A.B. degree in 1933.

In 1933 I started teaching at Garrett High School and during the same year I married Annis Conley, the daughter of Crit Conley. During the years that have passed since 1933 I have gained several years of teaching experience, a Master's Degree in education, and two fine sons. The last ten years I have served as principal of Garrett High School.

I have several reasons for wanting to serve as Representative, and among those reasons are these:

I feel well qualified to be your voice in seeking better schools and school legislation, and wish to make as much noise as possible to see that we get our share of those millions of dollars which will be available very soon.

I shall explain more of my program in the Times as the week passes between now and the election, and hope to contact most of you personally.

TO SOMEBODY IN WASHINGTON, TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Now we know why it is that a man can stand and look out from his dust-shrouded farm — stand there, grim as a Sphinx carved out by the sharp, flying sand, and look. And return again, and again to look and ponder, and refuse to run away.

For we are here, looking out over our valley on a scene of destruction that was more suddenly wrought, and that is uglier if possible, than the sandy wastes where once green grass and ripening wheat rippled in the wind.

We are, let it be understood, still at home, and at home we will stay.

The mud is deep in our floors and on our roads and streets. But it is home. Despair is deep where hopes were submerged. Hope for some lies in the litter of ruined businesses, for others in the strange, mud-covered things that once were familiar, well-loved items of family life.

But we are not through.

What do you expect us to do? Quit? Leave the only home most of us have ever known?

You would not want it so. America would not be very proud of us if we ran, would it?

Then what is our duty and yours in this hour?

We are as much a part of America as New York or California or, say, the Bluegrass of our own state. We are, sometimes, a very vital part. Our coal and natural gas and our manpower are among the nation's finest. And we pay taxes and buy bonds and give blood, in war or peace.

We have our place in this scheme of things. And we have our rights as well as our wants.

Then what is going to be done about it?

Only the American Indian has been more widely discussed and received less than we.

A billion dollars worth of property was lost within a night and two days last week. A billion dollars — and years of work, countless hours of planning and dreaming of better years ahead.

And now this.

What are you going to do?

We will do our part. But some things we cannot do.

We cannot harness our streams. We cannot defend ourselves against nature. We are talking here of great, sprawling watersheds, of streams born in steep mountainsides, of rivers that become pure liquid destruction when we are not needed and dwindle to mere brooks when water is needed.

As you may have gathered, we need help.

A billion dollars — a thousand million dollars — the damage we have suffered would build flood control dams in the headwaters of half a hundred of these mountain streams that have fed the Big Sandy and the Kentucky and those other waterways till they last week exacted inevitable toll from the lowlands.

A billion dollars, and the water that rushed into homes and businesses an dthen raced capriciously away to the sea could have been contained and held against the days months hence when water will be needed.

A billion dollars, and all the dams could have been built, and still there would have been left enough to convert our river into a waterway such as we have dreamed of, and such as you and we have talked about for three-quarters of a century now.

There is no sense now in talking of our mistakes. Sure, we cut our forests. Sure, we mined our coal. Yes, we tilted steep hillsides that later washed away. We, like a good part of America, have been very foolish.

But remember that ninety-five years ago, before our timber was cut, before a lump of coal was mined, the Big Sandy had a flood even greater than this.

You may temporize again. Survey and study and talk of cost-benefit ratios and governmental spending and community initiative and all the rest — it is vain. Every statistic, all the data, the whole voluminous record command little attention or respect from those who know that in flood control lies our hope of survival in Eastern Kentucky and that in water transportation lies our hope of progress.

Statistics and engineering problems and technical data utterly fail to impress us who know that the floods of 1862 and 1957 could be repeated tomorrow.

We look out over muddy doorthills and streets and fields toward Washington.

Must we, like the Dust Bowl farmer, look again and again?

Nabisco Comes To Aid Of Flood Area Customers

The National Biscuit company will replace all NABISCO merchandise damaged or lost in the flood — which has raged through this area. This flood is so severe that it has been classified as disastrous.

At present it is impossible to determine the extent of damage brought about by the flood waters to the retail food establishments, but it has been the custom of NABISCO to render every assistance to their customers in the past in such emergencies, and this same procedure will be carried out this time.

Every NABISCO customer will be contacted as rapidly as possible by a representative of the National Biscuit Company to extend to them every courtesy and whatever help possible in their time of need.

This announcement was made by C. D. McCreight, manager of the Hamilton, W. Va., sales branch of the company.

Mrs. Arminda Amburgey, Aged Betty Layne Woman, Dies At Daughter's Home

Mrs. Arminda Amburgey, 88, of Betty Layne, died at 12:35 a.m. Tuesday, at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Angeline Hartley. She had been ill five years, seriously so six weeks.

Mrs. Amburgey was the widow of John D. Amburgey who preceded her in death in 1944. Surviving besides Mrs. Hartley is a son, Green Amburgey, of Albany, Ohio, and another daughter, Mrs. Emma King, of Kite, a sister, Mrs. Mary Martin, of Dema, also survives.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete Tuesday. It was said at the Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

Sgt. Conley Awarded Good Conduct Medal

Berlin — Sgt. Wayne Conley, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Conley, of Letcher Co., recently was awarded the Good Conduct Medal in Germany while serving with the 6th Infantry Regiment.

A squad leader in the regiment's Company C, he received the decoration for his exemplary behavior, efficiency and fidelity.

Conley arrived overseas in March, 1955, from an assignment at Fort Knox, Ky. He entered the Army in February, 1954.

To the Taxpayers Of Floyd County

This is to let you know that I want to be your Tax Commissioner for the next four years and that I will be a candidate for that office.

The examination for eligibility will be held at Hazard, Ky., and I intend to take that examination, and I have no doubt I will pass. I have passed every examination for Tax Commissioner which has been given for the past 25 years, so you can draw your own conclusions whether I can pass this one.

As soon as I am notified that I have passed, I intend to start an active campaign which I hope and expect will bring me into every home in Floyd county.

My platform is very simple but it includes some things we haven't had in Floyd county for the past several years. I will come to your home and sit down with you and talk to you about how your property should be assessed. I will not act in a big off free in Prestonsburg and assess your property without ever seeing it or talking to you about it. Furthermore, I will not play favorites between one taxpayer and another. I will not give anyone an advantage just because he happens to be part of a certain political machine or because he makes a donation at campaign time.

I have a lot more to say during the campaign. For now I only want to say I will be a candidate to serve you as your Tax Commissioner and if you hear any rumors to the contrary they are unfounded and untrue.

Until I have an opportunity to see you personally I remain as ever, your friend, and one of you.

Demand Sets Record

Demand for coal in 1956 set new high marks in the electric utility, export and cement markets, according to Keystone Coal Buyers Manual, which has predicted further new highs in 1957, when consumption by those industries is expected to total 230,000,000 tons, or nearly 9 per cent above the 1956 total of 211,700,000 tons.

In the disaster. The next call made was to the Associated Press at Huntington. That service hadn't heard a word from Floyd county for hours. News of the improvised telephone spread, and several persons arrived to make calls. It was necessary to deny this service as it would have tied up the company's restoration work. Bell said only the essential emergency messages of the greatest public importance could be made.

McIntosh manned the telephone until almost morning, talking to businessmen and company supervisors from Ashland to Pikeville. In between periods of little conversation on the line he tried vainly to establish contact with Fred James and Clyde Baker, two men at the Allen exchange, who had "dropped out" near Allen. The last word from the two was when a conversation between them had been interrupted when the exchange was inundated. McIntosh had a lot of fears but he kept a bit silent about it. Later it was learned they had to swim from the exchange and "holed up" in a vacant business building.

The company ordered a man to stand by at the telephone on Graham street now serving as Prestonsburg's weak link with the world. Near daylight Thursday McIntosh got some sleep, surrendered his post to Doug George. He had been on the job since 7 a.m. Monday.

Daylight Thursday two other telephone employes appeared and relieved George. Came, too, the first food supplies to use the phone. In two or three hours McIntosh was back. He got calls through for the Red Cross for County Judge Henry Stumbo to Frankfort, for W. W. Cooley and Duhan Moore to Washington. Mary were turned away but calls of an emergency public importance were finally put through. The telephone company would expand their own operations that long.

By noon it seemed that every governmental agency and service in the area was trying to use the line. The Army Intelligence Service called Fort Knox. Mayor Harry Sandles called Gov. Chandler's office and Mrs. White used it at times to contact outside Red Cross officials again. Rev. Harold Dorsey, who had been appointed Disaster Relief chairman for Floyd county by the Red Cross, got through to London, making Kentucky's disaster headquarters.

Officials were clamoring that news go out regularly to tell the world of the havoc here. The best representative got through to AP again, after that to the Courier-Journal city desk. That newspaper rubbed the little island of telephone service here "Operation Telephone Pole" WHAS, Louisville, asked for a broadcast and said it hadn't heard a word from Prestonsburg in 30 hours. The radio cast became more of an appeal for aid than a news cast interview. Late in the night the Army came and Capt. Marvin Neese, of Co. B, 53th Engineers reported to his superiors that his forces had arrived here.

Soon after the installation of the temporary set Southern Bell was at work to set up an emergency switchboard. That took long hours of work. Men and cable had to be gathered and innumerable details had to be solved by means of Operation Telephone Pole. McIntosh's crew ran into serious trouble from water in the conduits at the exchange site. A major operation of unanticipated trouble had to be overcome there.

At 8 p.m. Thursday the switchboard in the Allen-Meade building was open. Twelve telephones were allowed Prestonsburg, all of them at strategic points in the relief program.

Operation Telephone Pole was over.

Harold C. Parks Named McDowell Administrator; Ohio Native, Army Veteran

The Miners Memorial Hospital Association, Washington, D. C., announced the appointment of Harold C. Parks as administrator of McDowell Memorial hospital. Mr. Parks assumed his duties February 1.

Mr. Parks has been administrator of the Wooster Community hospital, Wooster, Ohio, since July, 1941. He is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College, Washington, Pa., and received his M. S. degree in Hospital Administration from Columbia University in 1951. His administrative experience in connection with his graduate training was at the 725 bed Youngstown Hospital in Ohio.

A native of Ohio, Mr. Parks entered military service in the U. S. Army in April of 1941 and was Adjutant and Personnel Officer stationed in hospitals in England, France and the Philippines until his discharge in 1945. Mr. and Mrs. Parks are making their home at 4111.

NOTICE

Before it became known what office Burns Martin would be a candidate for, someone caused a sign to be put up on the courthouse opposite Mr. Martin's sign. I had nothing what ever to do with that sign, and since I am now the opponent of Mr. Martin and do not hear of anyone else planning to run, I would like to have the sign removed. I have called Russell May who made the sign and he does not object to its being removed. Therefore I publicly request the Jailer to remove said sign. In fact I do not believe in cluttering up the courthouse with personal political literature. Anyway I want my opponent to have ample space for his advertising.

The History of Auld Sod's Clan Leslie In America Dates Back 200 Years

By Henry P. Scaif

Two of the clan Leslie came to New York City from Dublin, Ireland in 1750. They were John and William Robert, brothers. While in New York they engaged in a street brawl and, having exhausted themselves, went into a barbershop. The barber was a partisan of the defeated men and tried to slit William Robert's throat. The seriously wounded Leslie escaped. After lying in bed, between life and death for a considerable length of time, William found himself alone one day, for John disappeared. When fully recovered he headed southward, passed in Virginia, married Elizabeth Buchanan, and finally came to Johns Creek and founded the Leslie Settlement.

In 200 years the clan Leslie helped to people Eastern Kentucky. He branched out west and southwest into other states. Two years ago, Cleveland Leslie, of Washington, D. C., completed a compilation of William Robert Leslie's descendants. The book, "Leslie-Leslie, A History of Two Hundred Years in America," locates hundreds of the family, details their accomplishments from the founding of the pioneer Johns Creek settlement to living members of the family.

William Robert Leslie choiced to death on venison at his cabin home on Johns Creek near the mouth of Sycamore Creek, the difficulty in swallowing being due to the wound inflicted by the New York barber. But in the meantime his son, Robert, had gathered up the family on the Bluestone River and trekked to settle with his father on Johns Creek.

Robert, like his father, was a man of legendary strength and courage. He and his wife, Elizabeth Compton, were the parents of 15 children. While he was acquiring a progeny they patented and bought hundreds of acres of the Johns Creek land, most of it fine bottom. Today a simple stone marks his last resting place in the garden of Everett Hurt, of Gilmore, which was near the original Leslie home. William Robert, his father, is buried on a point overlooking the valley from the pioneer road, now abandoned, that marked itself around the points and back of the bottoms along the valley side.

Descendants of the clan live on and still own part of the ancestral bottom. Many left to find their fortunes and life work in the rapidly expanding America. John C. C. Mayo, Paintsville industrialist, and Leslie descendant, was born in the Settlement at the mouth of Sycamore Creek. Many, many others of the Leslie blood gave their name to America, like Harlan Hatcher, the Michigan educator and writer, and J. R. Milms, Arkansas engineer of international status, now in Pakistan. The author of "Leslie-Leslie," ferrets them out, binds all together in the Clan Leslie. Modestly she lays claim that the family is but a cross-section of many that built the United States.

But of the Leslie who remained at or within short distances of the original settlement on Johns Creek, probably the first in the Sandy valley, many were rugged, salty individualists who gave a tang to many a fireside tale. There was James Harvey Leslie, an old time herbalist who ministered to the ill with but two kinds of medicine—Big Bitters and Little Bitters. He was stern and uncompromising. If he didn't like a man he didn't speak. He died, not speaking to many but he was a good citizen and a good provider who sought to bring family comforts from a land under near-pioneer conditions.

James Harvey's parents were Allen Leslie and Elizabeth Bennett. Their third child of the pioneer Robert, and was but nine years of age when he trekked, beside his father's wagon from the Bluestone to Johns Creek.

Allen began to earn money in the settlement by trapping fur-bearing animals, which was easy to do in the primitive wilderness. To market them it was necessary to carry them on his back to Gallettsburg and take a pushboat to Portsmouth, the nearest place they could be sold. On one trip he tied the pushboat up in the vicinity of the Bennett farm, near Portsmouth. He trekked into town, disposed of his furs, came back to meet Elizabeth if your husband had to do this today ...

If your husband had to take down the family wash every time he rains — and then put it all back up — he'd soon buy an electric clothes dryer!

Since things don't work that way, why not explain your problem to him? Maybe he hasn't even thought about it!

- explain . . . how heavy wet clothes are, and how you have to wrestle them out to the clothesline, basketload after basketload . . . week after week . . . month after month.
- explain . . . how your back aches after you hang out the wash . . . bend and straighten . . . bend and straighten . . . over and over and over again.
- explain . . . the nuisance of keeping up with clothespins, wiping clotheslines clean and tightening them when they sag.
- explain . . . how much smoother and fluffier each piece is when it comes from the dryer . . . that some pieces such as towels don't even have to be ironed, and all can be ironed without sprinkling.

If you do, chances are you'll soon own a bright new electric clothes dryer. And he'll be just as proud as you when that clothesline comes down, to tell the world that your family is modern — Living Better Electrically!

Floyd Woman's Sister Dies Friday at Louisa

Mrs. May Burton, 75 years old, widow of R. C. Burton and sister of Mrs. W. T. Hatcher, of Lackey, died Friday at her home in Louisa. She resided with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Spencer.
Mrs. Burton had lived in Louisa for 30 years. She was born February 25, 1881, a daughter of the late William and Elizabeth Spencer. She was a member of Bethel Lodge 85 at Louisa and of the Louisa Methodist Church.
Surviving in addition to the brother are a stepdaughter, Mrs. Cash Ledford, of Russell, two sisters, Mrs. Hatcher, of Lackey and Mrs. J. J. Preston of Weasatche, Wash. Funeral rites were conducted Sunday at the Louisa Methodist Church by the Rev. Charles Perry and the Rev. W. W. Moore. Burial was in Pine Hill cemetery.

Francis Gets Approval As Check-R-Mix Station For Ralston-Purina Co.

Paul Francis, of Prestonsburg, has been made an approved Check-R-Mix Station according to an announcement made this week by the Ralston Purina Company, St. Louis, Mo.
This means that the local feed company is being provided with approved formulas for mixing locally grown grains with Purina Micro-mixed supplements and concentrates, enabling the farmers of this area to make the best feeding use of the grains they grow.
Before the Purina Company licenses a mill as an approved Check-R-Mix Station, the mill has to have grinding and mixing equipment of the highest efficiency. The equipment must be shown to be capable of mixing the supplements with the farmer's grain so efficiently that each mouthful of feed will contain every ingredient in proper quantity.
The local feed dealer will also be enabled to him the extensive training programs in nutrition and sanitation that the Purina Company provides its dealers, so that they may advise farmers and feeders in profitable feeding programs for their livestock and poultry. Facilities of the Purina Laboratories and Research Farm will be available to Mr. Francis to help with customer problems.
All approved Check-R-Mix Stations are required each year to send to the Purina laboratories samples of their mixes for analysis. To continue as an approved Check-R-Mix Station, the samples must show near-perfect efficiency in mixing, with a requirement of less than one half of one per cent variation in protein content. This assures customers of the mill that their grinding and mixing will always be done at a high peak of efficiency.
Purina's Check-R-Mix Section has furnished the local mill with formulae for hestock and poultry feed that blends Purina supplements with the farmer's corn, oats, wheat, barley, rye, or sorghum grains.

Flowers, Winner Of 1956 Contest On Conservation

A 17-year-old Cumberland county high school junior has been named state winner of the 1956 Soil Conservation Essay Contest.
Randel A. Flowers, of Frogue, will receive a $100 U. S. Savings Bond for his essay on "How Fish and Wildlife Conservation Can Benefit My Community."
His essay was judged best from 25,359 essays written by grade and high school students in 116 Kentucky soil conservation districts, the largest participation in the contest's thirteen-year history. Prizes total $2,350.
Second prize of a $75 bond will be awarded to Ben Boston Barnett, 17, of Route 1, Hickman.
Winning third prize is Miss Nelda M. Workman, 16, of Route 5, Falmouth. She will receive $50 bond.
Flowers' essay for the county had the largest number of contest entries—269.
State and district essay winners were announced last week by Barry Bingham, president of The Courier-Journal, The Louisville Times and the Louisville Post, and the state superintendent of public instruction, and A. Threlkeld, president of the Kentucky Association of Soil Conservation Districts.
The contest was sponsored by the newspapers and radio-television station in cooperation with the conservation group and the State Department of Education.
In addition to their bond prizes, the three state winners and their parents and teachers will be guests of honor at the annual Parents Awards Luncheon in Louisville, Saturday, February 15. Here they will gather with winners in four other farm-incentive contests conducted by the newspapers.
Soil conservation districts with the largest number of entries in the contest are Floyd, 2,087; Jefferson, 2,008; Letcher, 1,318; Perry, 1,270; Caldwell, 1,045; and Taylor, 973.
In his district, the top winner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Flowers and lives on a 90-acre farm, about five miles from Dale Hollow Lake and 20 miles from Lake Cumberland.
He is president of his 4-H Club and secretary-treasurer of the Burkesville Junior Sportsman Club as well as a member of the basketball team at his school. An enthusiastic conservationist, he won first prize in his district last year in the county contest for his essay, "How Forest Conservation Can Benefit My Community."
In his essay Mr. Flowers points out:
"The over-all benefits that my community would receive through fish and wildlife conservation are increased income, improvement of culture, relief of tension through hunting and fishing, and increased beauty of homes and the surrounding countryside."
"These things will tend to make my community much stronger and could aid the state of Kentucky very much in her bid for a place among the more prominent states of the Union. Let us as citizens of different communities throughout this great state use fish and wildlife conservation as a stepping stone to increase the prosperity of this state and to find for Kentucky 'a place in the sun.'"
The Soil Conservation contest awards also include a $25 Savings Bond certificate for the winner in each district where at least five essays are submitted. Run-up in each district will receive a certificate as will the writer of the outstanding essay in each school.
Winner of the $25 bond award in the Floyd conservation district was Mrs. Mary Emma Savage, Wayland high school senior.

Miss Bowers Becomes Bride Of Mr. Burke

The wedding of Miss Jada Rae Bowers and Mr. Jack D. Burke was solemnized Friday evening, Jan. 11, in the Evangelical United Brethren parsonage at Silver Lake, Indiana. The Rev. W. E. Workman performed the double-ring ceremony.
Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bowers of Bremen, Indiana. The bride-groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Den Burke of N. Carter St., Alton, Indiana, formerly of Prestonsburg.
Attendants of the bride and groom were Jayne Marlene Rhoades and Wayne Hopper, both of Alton.
The bride is a senior at Bremen high school. Mr. Burke is a graduate of Prestonsburg high. He is now employed by the General Tire and Rubber Company at Wabash, Indiana.
After a wedding trip through Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Burke will make their home in Alton.

Advancing Education in Kentucky

By ROBERT R. MARTIN, Supt. of Public Instruction
One service of the Department of Education that is not generally recognized by many people as being closely associated with public education is the rehabilitation of the territories participating in the Federal-State program.
I can think of few more significant evidences of the advancement of public education in Kentucky than the increasing degree of efficiency and accomplishment of the Kentucky program by the Governor's Committee on Rehabilitation of the Handicapped.
In most planning, usually the most is decided upon first; then the other foods are chosen that go with it.
Many of the recommendations of that Committee have been accomplished, one of which was Bureau Status for the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation. That was accomplished in January 1956. Mr. Ben F. Coffman is head of that Bureau.
One important purpose of any rehabilitation program is obviously to return dependent persons to a self-supporting, tax-paying status as citizens and to be doing? Let us examine the record for the period July 1955 to 1956.
During that period, as a result of an expanded budget made possible by an increased appropriation from the 1956 General Assembly, 2,441 citizens were in the process of being rehabilitated. Of this number, 561 have been "closed". That means that these 561 are now suitably employed and making a productive contribution to themselves, their State, and Nation.
Prior to rehabilitation, for example, these 551 persons were earning only $16,082 annually; twenty percent of them were on Public Assistance which was costing the State of Kentucky $77,622 each year in benefits.
The total wages of these persons now, after rehabilitation, are $836,581. The cost to the State for the services that made this possible was $152,276. They are now paying for that through taxes, and over a period of years, will pay many times that amount.
It is interesting to note that of the eight States in our region, Kentucky is one of only three that

OFFICIALS FEEL

A recent survey by Kentucky high school rules interpreter, Charlie Vetterlin, states that basketball officials in Eastern Kentucky are paid more than any place throughout the state.

It's true in Lexington, Louisville, Paducah, Owensboro, and other metropolitan centers that cage officials receive on the average of $10.00 per one first-team game.

So this item makes the payment higher than any other place in the state. Recently, the Floyd County Coaches Association, which includes four coaches who officiate, voted to pay only $12.50 per game to an official who resides inside Floyd county.

Take the case of Auxier, five miles from Paintsville. Here an official from Paintsville would receive $15, yet one coming from Wayland, 40 miles away, would receive $12.50.

The only fair and equitable way to pay an official is to pay him $12.50 per one first-team game (since that is the practice followed in the 15th region) and ten cents a mile mileage allowance one way.

Pike Bears Drop To 500 in Losing To Bellarmine

Pikeville, Ky., Jan. 28 (Sp.) - The Pikeville College Bears, after six days above the 500 mark, were dropped back to an even 7-1 standing as they fell, 91-80, to the Bellarmine Saints Friday night (Jan. 25).

The Bears start a series of four road games, their last on Saturday, this Friday (Feb. 1) with the first of two trips in North Carolina. They will meet the Pfeiffer College Panthers at Misenheimer, N. C., with whom they split a pair of games last season.

The Bears are to travel to Transylvania on Monday to try to revenge themselves on Transylvania's Panthers, with whom they lost the season, a 100-97 overtime thriller last Nov. 19 at Pikeville.

Their final road game, at Rio Grande, will be Thursday (Feb. 7) when they will battle with the Rio Grande Redmen, who tipped them 79-70 in a home contest.

They will close their scheduled season with a four-game home stand beginning with Bellarmine (Feb. 8) as they entertain All-America Julius McCoy, the Michigan State star, and his Port Knox, Ky., Tankers.

The closest split possible in basketball marked last year's two meetings between the Bears and the Pfeiffer Panthers, with each team winning 111-90 on its own court.

Pikeville's win Feb. 20, 1956, was the second of seven triumphs in the last nine games in the 1955-56 season, which carried them to the championship of the Southeastern junior-college tournament.

The rampaging Bruins hit the century mark six times in those last nine contests, forcing the Pfeiffer Junior College Indians to go into three figures to nose them out of the finals of the state junior college, 107-101, Feb. 25 at Somerset, Ky.

Friday's loss, in Pikeville, first meeting with Bellarmine, saw John Lee Butcher leading all scorers in a losing cause. The former All-State guard from Pikeville's high school bucked nine field goals on 11 attempts, and sank 14 of 16 free throws, for 32 points.

The performance brought Butcher's season average against college varsity teams to 31.5 points per game, slightly better than the 31.4 points per game he averaged among the nation's small-college players.

Pikeville's five Knott complaints again were the backbone of the Bears as Ken Smallwood set 11 points and led the Bears with eight rebounds. Lloyd Mullins and Charles Francis coted nine points each, and the other Carr Creker, R. B. Simister, seven. Hindman's John Waddell scored only two points with the game's opening basket.

The score was tied 13 times in the first 33 minutes and the lead changed hands eight times with neither team ahead by better than six points. A field goal by freshman sensation Buddy Montgomery, Bellarmine's 6-7 starting center, gave the visiting Knights a 14-72 lead which they stretched to 11 points in the last six minutes.

Bellarmine led 44-40 at halftime after hitting 15 baskets on 33 shots for a brisk 438 from the field, but returned for a torrid 223 second half with 19 buckets on 30 shots. The Bears could do no better than 42 per cent on the same.

The Pikeville College freshmen dropped their last scheduled home game of the season by a single point, 75-73 to Morehead State College's freshmen, in the opener. John Will Hunt led all pointmakers with 23 markers as the Bellarmine back ed away at an eight-point Morehead lead in the game's last nine minutes, falling only one point short for their second loss in their 11 starts to date.

In the first of seven road games which close their card, the Proth will meet the Lees College Generals Thursday (Jan. 31) at Jackson, Ky. Lee fell to the Proth 72-69 Nov. 17, 1956, at Pikeville.
