This Town— That World

LOOKING AHEAD 17 YEARS

During the recent locust "season" the carp went wild in Dewey Lake, pouncing on surface lures, particularly flyrod poppers, with the greatest abandon. I enjoyed some of the best fishing of the year at that time. And now I grow gloomy just wondering if my joints will be so ancient by the time they get around again that I won't be able to cast a fly.

THIS IS CONFUSION

This similarity of names is getting us down. Last week it was Herb Salisbury and Ollie Robinson on the jail records. And neither of the aforementioned is the man of the same name who lives quite peaceably in Prestonsburg. Reminds me of the time a certain Norman Allen, blue into town, got drunk, went on a rampage and wound up in jail. I wrote the story, straight, with no identification other than the name, nothing except that in the very last paragraph I did say that this guy was not the editor of the Floyd County Times.

Which made it all right. Only Henry Arrowood, who was publishing a newspaper in Paducah at the time, picked the yarn up next week and printed everything except that last paragraph.

Note to new parents: If it's a boy, call him Xerxes.

HEART CLINICS PLANNED HERE

Doctors of Five Counties Held Specialists; Service Searched for Indigent Tots

Heart clinics will be held for a five-county area at the new Floyd County Health Center, which is the first clinic scheduled in August or September, it was decided last Wednesday at a meeting of about 30 physicians and surgeons representing the various counties.

The clinics, which will be held at six-month intervals, will be limited to indigent children, any child referred to the clinics by a physician or surgeon. The service will be diagnostic only, with two specialists to make examinations at each clinic. Indigent children requiring surgery or treatment will be referred to the children's hospital, Louisville, it was said by M. V. Clark, administrator of the Floyd County Health Department.

Speakers at the meeting were Dr. Little, Louisville pediatric surgeon and specialist; Dr. Woodford Troutman, Louisville cardiac surgeon; Omron Wright and Finley Booth, representing the counties of the Kentucky Heart Association.

Countries represented at the dinner meeting at the Elmer's Cafe and at the lectures in the auditorium of the Health Center at Floyd Pike, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin.

The proposed clinics will be a service of the Kentucky Heart Association. The meeting held here was sponsored by the Floyd County Medical Society.

COURT NAMES JUDGE TO TRY CONTEST CASE

Meade's Reply Alleges $20,000 Spent by Moore; To Appeal See's Order

J. B. Johnson, of Harlan, has been designated by the Kentucky Court of Appeals as the special judge to preside in the hearing of the absentee-vote contest case of A. B. Meade against Duffan Moore. Democratic nominee for County Court Clerk. Trial of the case may begin here next week, it was said.

Paul E. Hayes, J. B. Clarke, and F. M. Burke, attorneys for Meade, have filed motion of appeal from Moore's answer and counterclaim in the case filed in court. Judge M. J. See in the injunction case the contestant filed to prevent tabulation of the absentee votes cast in the race.

Last Wednesday, the contestant filed in circuit court here his reply to Moore's answer and counterclaim to the contest action, and in this reply he alleged that the contestant, his friends and strikers, with his knowledge and consent, violated the Corrupt Practice Act by spending at least $20,000 in money or other things of value to bribe or influence voters.

Moore also alleged Moore was seated at various meetings when the pool was made up for the election fight and strikers were named for the precincts. Because the contestant violated the Corrupt Practice Act, Meade's reply says Moore has no right to contest the election.

Except for admitting the contestant's age, residence, legitimacy as a voter and the fact that he was a candidate, the contestant denied all the allegations in Moore's answer, including the claim that Meade spent $20,000 or its equivalent in the election.

FEW TEACHER CHANGES FEATURE LIST OF 389 NAMED BY BOARD

Most drastic change in the lineup of Floyd county teachers, as announced last Tuesday after a meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education, was the replacement of Otis D. Sparlock as principal of Prestonsburg high school by James V. Bolen, of Garrett.

Mr. Bolen, who recently entered his second year as principal here, was not listed as a teacher in the recent resignation of Otis D. Sparlock, however, that a good position at no reduction in salary will be available for him if he wants to return here.

The grade school principalship here, which was left open by the resignation of E. H. Frazier, was not filled. Besides Mr. Bolen, new faces on the Prestonsburg high school faculty with the opening of the next school term will be Colonel Blankenship, who was employed to teach chemistry and physics, advanced mathematics, and Robert J. Go-ahead signal on the Dewey project awaits only the approval of President Eisenhower, who is expected soon to affix his signature to a lease for the 13,000-acre park area, Jackson said. He and Governor Chandler have already signed for the state.

Harold Newland, director of the Division of Forestry the past 13 years, will be detached indefinitely to take on the job of supervising the program, Jackson said. Newland's successor will be announced later, the commissioner added.

BIG SANDY PUSHBOATS

The pushboats of Big Sandy supplemented steamboat transportation on the river when the water was low in summer or when it was necessary to move goods up the non-navigable tributaries like Beaver Creek, Johns Creek, Middle Creek and Abbott. The pushboat had, however, been in use before the first steamboat came up the river in 1837.

Shown here is a pushboat, loaded with barrels of flour, salt and boxes of merchandise preparing to "push" out from a warehouse that had received goods from the steamboats. The scene was near the mouth of Johns Creek and was taken about 65 years ago.

Transportation was improved and the economy of our section expanded when the railway entered the upper reaches of the river after 1862. The sudden burst of business activity following the coming of the railway prompted the founding of the First National Bank in 1904. It is ever seeking an opportunity to serve the people of our area as its founders were over half a century ago.

Hale Thanks Voters

Since the cry of battle is over and the smoke has partly blown away, I want to thank the 1957 voters who so gallantly supported me against my odds in the May Primary. Although defeated, I am not discouraged, as I find so many people over this county telling me my defeat was solely by not being acquainted with the people. To my supporters and all others, feel free to call upon me for any assistance I may be able to render and to the nominee I congratulate him as the winner and I assure you I am still a Democrat. So thank you one and all for your unwavering support, believing if I should decide to run again we would double our strength. Thanks, a hundred times.

THE PEOPLE SHOULD KNOW THE TRUTH

In two or three articles in last week's paper your County Court Clerk, Du Ran Moore, attempted to cause the voters of our County to believe that the absentee balloting was carried on by him and his clerk in a fair and lawful manner. Moore takes up more than a quarter of a page to set out the law and how carefully he has followed it. He calls this "THE TRUTH ABOUT ABSENTEE VOTING." More truth is given in the short editorial of the Floyd County Times editor right beside Mr. Moore's article. Referring to the absentee voting law, the editor of our County paper says:

"Not till this year did the law, as written, reach its full potentiality as a corrupting influence in Kentucky elections. Now it is apparent what can be done with the ballot under this law. IN THIS CASE THE LETTER OF THE LAW IS NOT SUFFICIENT TO GIVE A PROMISE OF HONEST BALLOTING. The resulting furor has been heard in almost every county of the state."

Before the absentee ballots were counted I had a lead of 95 votes over Mr. Moore. In the absentee ballots Mr. Moore overcame this lead and, himself, obtained a lead of 24 votes. Even after some 95 absentee ballots had been excluded by the election commissioners, Moore received 190 absentee votes to my 71 absentee votes, almost 3 to 1 in Moore's favor. Moore received almost as large a majority in this absentee ballot box as he did in any other 3 precincts in the county. At least one Court of Appeals case has pointed out that the County Court Clerk is a one-man election officer team for absentee voting, and when there is such a wide difference between the results of voting in the precincts and absentee voting, some explanation is required.

Realizing, even before May 18, that Mr. and Mrs. Moore had ignored not only my suggestion but the recommendation of our own Circuit Judge to refrain from campaigning with absentee voters behind closed doors while voting, but both of them gave me to understand they were going to do as they wanted to and that I had nothing to do with it. At no time did I say anything to Mrs. Moore to offend her other than I did not think she should campaign with the voter while voting behind closed doors and if I was Clerk I would not do you all that way. She still insisted that it was none of my business, it was their office yet, until I was elected and got the keys. I filed the injunction suit to prevent the counting of the absentee ballot box. Special Judge See expressing the thought that most of the irregularities charged should be brought out in a contest suit instead of by injunction action, limited me to five witnesses. Allowed only five witnesses it was, of course, impossible to prove the many irregularities and frauds all over Floyd County in handling the absentee voting. With this small number of witnesses here are some of the irregularities shown by witnesses or admitted by Moore's deputy clerks:

1. One deputy clerk, who lives at Lackey, verified or notarized some 50 or more applications, OUT IN THE COUNTY, had the voters bring many of these ballots back to this deputy clerk. This deputy clerk then voted or watched the voting of many of these ballots, and mailed many of them back to the clerk himself. Many of these so-called absentee voters were at the polls on election day.
2. This same deputy clerk verified or notarized applications in blank, and allowed a person to take such applications to Ivel precinct where names of voters were filled in, then this person was made a deputy clerk of DuRan Moore. After being made a deputy clerk he got the ballots from the Post Office, took them to the voters, and had them voted, or voted in his presence.
3. One voter testified that one of Moore's clerks voted his ballot and that of his wife's in a garage at Lackey. The voter's wife was not present at the time.
4. One of the same two deputy clerks advised voters it was not necessary to go to the polls to vote, that they could vote absentee whether they would be gone from the County or not.

I ask you to judge for yourself whether or not this was fraud. Certainly the election commissioners thought there was fraud shown because they refused to count approximately 85 ballots on the basis of the evidence presented.

Judge See did not by any means clear Mr. Moore and his deputies of fraud in connection with absentee voting. He did say that, with only five witnesses allowed, not sufficient fraud was SHOWN AT THAT HEARING to keep the ENTIRE ABSENTEE BOX from being counted.

In the contest action which has been filed, I think I will be able to show the court and all the people of Floyd county how illegally and unfairly the absentee voting was carried on. This will include evidence to show that a large number of those persons who voted in the clerk's office were openly and callously campaigned with for Mr. Moore by Mrs. Moore.

In addition I am strongly urging that the present absentee ballot law is unconstitutional and should be changed.

I hope that you will not be deceived by Mr. Moore's protestations that nothing has been done wrong. I feel that I won the election fair and square, and I urge you to get behind me in this fight to expose the manner in which absentee voting has been conducted in this county to the end that it will not happen again. Therefore, I expect to let the Court of Appeals make the final decision in this case.

Purposes of the program are: 1. To set up a training program, in co-operation with the College of Agriculture at the University of Kentucky, to help County agents in East Kentucky work with landowners in forestry procedure and flood control.

2. Develop conservation training centers for delinquent and dependent boys, similar to one started at Kentucky Dam Village nursery last year.

The program will offer training to county agents who, in turn, would help farmers obtain economic return from timber that is of inferior quality for lumber, but that can be used for manufacturing of by-products such as charcoal briquettes.

Then, the county agents will advise the farmers about reseedling.

Five more conservation training centers are planned, but sites for only two have been selected. They are at Kentucky Ridge State Park, near Pineville, and Dewey Lake State Forest near Prestonsburg.

The Clinchfield Gas Co., a subsidiary of the Clinchfield Coal Corporation, which has a contract with Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company to supply 11,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day as a replacement of the gas supply diminished by extraction of chemical liquids at the new plant.

The 100-mile, 4-inch line laid to carry the product of the plant from Maytown to Intiatue, W. Va., was completed at a reported cost of $2,500,000.

As a consequence of all this, it was pointed out this week by L. E. Roberts, superintendent of the Maytown plant, "we are taking the most desirable part of an Eastern Kentucky resource and have increased its value by making it available to the chemical industry."

Mr. Roberts pointed out that all non-supervisory personnel at the plant are Floyd countyans, and that part of the supervisory employees are from this county.

Complete Health, Safety Rules Set
In Summer Camps

For the first time in Kentucky, several summer camps will be operated this year under a complete set of health and safety regulations, according to an announcement this week.

The program is a voluntary, trial one. It will be used as a basis for state-wide regulations for all summer camps, expected to go into effect in 1958.

Only general sanitation rules applying to many types of public places have been in effect for summer camps in Kentucky.

The tentative new ones, drawn up by the State Health Department, include such provisions as these:

Each camper must be allotted 40 square feet of floor space in sleeping buildings. Cots must be at least two feet apart. State fire-safety regulations must be followed, including adequate extinguishers or barrels of water.

Areas of poisonous plants must be controlled or eliminated where dangerous to campers. Hazards such as holes, glass on the ground, and splinters will be eliminated. Insect killers must be labeled and stored in a safe place.

Each camper must have a doctor's certificate that he is in good health. An infirmary must be provided and a doctor be available on call.

Other regulations apply to food preparation, water, toilets, sewage disposal, swimming facilities and the like.

The rules will apply to both public and private camps for children or adults, operated for five days or longer for recreational, educational, or vocational purposes. Day camps are not included.

Harry A. Marsh, assistant to the director of sanitation for the Health department, said the regulations were worked out with aid from the American Camping Association and a committee of Kentucky camp leaders.

Inspections of the participating camps will be made in July. Final regulations will be drawn by the State Board of Health. They will have the force of State law.

Slayer of Louisa Man
Found Guilty of Murder
In Lawrence-Co. Court

An ex-convict who admitted he struck an elderly pensioner for his money, but hadn't meant to kill him, was found guilty of murder in Lawrence county court Wednesday of last week.

The jury of 11 men and a woman fixed sentence for 48-year-old Newton R. "Buck" Daniels at life imprisonment without parole.

As the only defense witness, Daniels had told the jury that he had intended only to knock 82-year-old Robert Laney unconscious. Laney, who had befriended Daniels on two occasions in recent years, was killed by a blow from a maddock handle on the head as he slept in bed in his rural home June 3.

His body was found about a week later.

Daniels, who had been staying with Laney since they met recently on a Louisa street, was arrested and indicted last week.

He said Laney still was breathing when he took about $75 and two pistols and fled. He knew Laney had the money because they had gone to a store nearby to cash Laney's Chesapeake & Ohio Railway pension check the same day.

Mack Hummond, the store owner, testified to this as one of 13 Commonwealth's witnesses.

The State had asked a death sentence.

LEWIS AND STEEL EXECUTIVE
JOIN IN OPPOSING CONTROLS

United Mine Workers Chief John Lewis and United States Steel Corporation executive R. C. Tyson teamed up in Washington Friday against legislation to give the federal government a measure of control over employees' welfare and pension funds.

Citing the conduct of his own union's funds, the miners' chief said that more federal prosecution, not new disclosures, are required to keep union welfare funds free of scandal.

Lewis told a Senate subcommittee that proposed new statutes would place an "undue burden" on the funds, increase the cost of administration, and deprive workers of full benefits.

The veteran union leader also warned that federal "encroachment" in the field might be a first step toward a "police state."

"I am deeply concerned," Lewis said, "about the encroachment of the state into the field of the voluntary association of citizens."

"I do not believe that the Republic... can regiment these associations, either in whole or in part, without of necessity expanding its powers to the point where it will become a police state in truth and in fact," he said.

Lewis pointed with pride to the operation of miners' welfare plans "No fact is withheld," he said, "and there would be no unlawful financial transactions concealed from these reports."

He declared that new disclosure laws in New York might cause some of his union's smaller funds in that state to fold up, because of the expense of additional bookkeeping.

Lewis referred caustically to city and state scandals in Illinois, where he said there was "full disclosure."

He said, "there are more bank-ers in the penitentiary than coal miners."

Lewis took a dig at some of his colleagues in the labor movement who are in whole or in part, without of necessity expanding its powers to the point where it will become a police state in truth and in fact," he said.

He declared that the least amount of legislation is best for Congress, the people and for welfare funds."

Robert C. Tyson, chairman of the finance committee of U. S. Steel, which operates a large captive mine at Lynch, Ky., testified his firm feels "there is no evidence of any need of public supervision of welfare funds." It is proposed to require health and insurance plans as well as the welfare and pension funds.

Apart from the costs and burdens involved, Tyson said, there are other reasons why the question of financial disclosures should be approached carefully.

He said one was the fact that the business of investing funds is highly competitive and "we do not wish competitors in this field to know our investors' investment policies or the amount or nature of particular investments."

The hearing brought out that there are some 500,000 plans that might be affected by the legislation, with about 30 billion dollars involved.

Lewis conceded there have been some scandals in the handling of union welfare funds. But he said there are laws to deal with dishonesty, and that dishonesty isn't confined to a few individuals in the labor movement.

The U. M. W. has a welfare and retirement fund that had a balance of more than $150,000,000 last year.

Osborne Case Causing State-Wide Concern

Flat Gap's Charlie Osborne, son of Prestonsburg Postman William Osborne, is causing considerable controversy state wide, especially between Morehead and Western State College. Both are at the all-state cager, who looms as a top-flight prospect for next season's play.

Osborne, who flipped in the winning baskets in Kentucky's second triumph over the Indiana's All-Stars, 77-76, in Indianapolis Saturday night, appears to favor Western at present after earlier indications that he would attend Morehead.

This action has brought about charges and counter charges, and our good friend W. E. Crutcher, editor of the Covington Courier-News, devoted last week's column to discussion of the Morehead angle, which we herewith quote:

"At least three readers have contacted us about our comments on the Charlie Osborne case—that of the Flat Gap basketball player who is being recruited by both Western and Morehead operates in the same manner. It is true, however that Western's coach, Ed Diddle, has an arrangement where his players live in the Diddle home and he makes known to the fact that the family refrigerator is open at all times. Officials at Morehead college are getting a little bitter and spoken about the cream of Eastern Kentucky athletes going elsewhere."

"There has been, through the years, some downtown criticism from unformed persons about Morehead not offering scholarships to boys in this area. 'Almost without exception, Morehead has tried to get the good athletes. And, almost without exception, they go elsewhere. Morehead has to look to Indiana, other states and other parts of the state. 'Perhaps those furthest pastures look the greenest, but it does appear that MSC alumni are not working as efficiently as grads of some other schools. 'Changes we can get the second and third best from this area. But you don't win OV titles and park in the nation's first 20 with the athletes that Kentucky and Western and other colleges don't want. 'Of Morehead's five in most games, one was from Indiana, another from Connecticut; another from Ohio; and the other two were from Marysville and Cincinnati, respectively."

"Coach Bob Laughlin has used every means to get the best boys in Eastern Kentucky, but once again he is having to go elsewhere. Last week he issued a scholarship to a 6-foot, 10-inch Cincinnati kid, another to Steve Hamilton's brother in Indiana. 'If you know of some legal way that Morehead can attract our home boys, everybody connected with the Eagle Athletic program would like to hear from you. President Adron Dwan admits he just can't understand it... that Morehead seems to have them until about this time each year. Then the letters start saying that 'I've decided to enroll elsewhere.' 'What are these other schools doing that Morehead doesn't? What is their second formula? 'And, as we pointed out last week, are our competitors living up to NCAA regulations as Morehead, or is there some under-the-table maneuvering? 'It's amusing but very confusing and disheartening."

TWIN FOREST PROGRAM SET

Training Centers Planned By Commissioner Jackson In East Kentucky Region

A twin program to speed up development of the forest industry in Eastern Kentucky and to establish additional conservation training centers has been announced by Conservation Commissioner Lahan P. Jackson. Purposes are to set up a training program, in cooperation with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, to help county agents in Eastern Kentucky work with land owners in forestry procedure and food control and full-scale development of conservation training centers for delinquent and dependent boys located at Kentucky, Dan Village nursery.

The program will embrace cooperation of the Departments of Conservation, Welfare, Economic Security, Economic Development and Agriculture, Jackson explained.

Jackson said the program is considered so important and its scope so broad that a man of extensive experience is needed to lead the project. "The assignment is being given to Harold Newland, who is being detached from his duties as director of the Division of Forestry so that he can give his full time to the project," Jackson said. Jackson said a second conservation center is now being set up at Kentucky Ridge State Forest near Pineville.

A third center is planned at Dewey Lake State Park, which covers 12,000 acres near Prestonsburg, the commissioner added. Three other training centers will be set up in Kentucky soon, Jackson said.

Largest Walleye Caught in Kentucky Is Reported By Eastern Kentuckian

An eastern Kentuckian has landed what may be the largest of his ever taken in the state. This was revealed a few days ago in a belated report to the current annual Courier-Journal free fishing contest.

Torrence Warrick, Seco, caught this prize walleye while drifting and trailing a live minnow with 200 yards of the London Boat Dock on Lake Cumberland. When weighed, it sent the needle on the scales soaring to 19 pounds 4 ounces and above the 17-pound walleye which held the Kentucky record until this whopper was taken on April 23.

The present world's record is 22 pounds 4 ounces from Ft. Erie, Ontario, Canada, taken on May 26, 1954. It was 26 1/4 inches long with a girth of 21 inches. Warrick's walleye was 34 inches long with a girth of 24 1/2 inches.

In the rough fish class James Cole, Lothar reported a catch of 34 pounds 4 ounces caught on a trot-line baited with a live minnow, set in Lake Cumberland near Noe's Fishing Dock at Corbin.

JOHNSON IN KOREA

24th Div. Korea — Pvt. Martin L. Johnson, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Johnson, of Weeksbury, Ky., recently was assigned to the 24th Infantry Division in Korea. Johnson, who just completed basic combat training at Fort Knox, is now a rifleman in Company E of the division's 19th Regiment. Before entering the Army in December, 1955, he attended Pikeville Junior College and worked for the Washington (D. C.) National Airport.

On a high hill directly opposite the south side of the courthouse in Hawesville, Hancock county, is Lovler's Leap. Local legends tell of several Indian maidens who died in this traditional fashion. One of the heroines was called 'Nagahakine. When her brave was killed, grief-stricken she plunged over the rocky edge.

Drivers' Point System Upheld

Frankfort, July 2 (Sp.) — Kentucky's highest court has upheld the state's point-system method of keeping habitually bad drivers off the highways.

The decision by the Court of Appeals reversed Franklin circuit court, which had declared the system illegal on the grounds it imposed a penalty not authorized by the Legislature.

The appellate majority opinion said "we believe the administration of the traffic rules can lawfully be delegated to administrative officials."

The system, adopted by executive order of Gov. A. B. Chandler last December, provides for mandatory suspension of a driver's license for six months if he accumulates 12 points for traffic violations during a three-year period.

Both Chandler and Public Safety Commissioner Don S. Sturgill hailed the high court's decision.

KY. ROAD BOND ISSUE IS UPHELD BY COURT

Kentucky's proposed $100,000,000 bond issue to help finance a huge road-building program has won approval of the Court of Appeals.

The state's highest court recently upheld validity of the bond issue in a 6 to 1 decision. The proposal has been approved by Kentucky voters last November by a margin of nearly 6 to 1—311,658 to 85,635.

Gov. A. B. Chandler declared after the appellate court decision that "this is a momentous thing with far-reaching effects."

He had recommended and the 1956 Legislature had submitted the proposal for the vote last fall.

The governor expressed belief the State would be able to sell some of the bonds when offered in the bond market. The bonds would be sold in blocks of at least $5,000,000, under the law, as needed to match federal aid for highway and bridge construction.

Proceeds from the bonds could be used only for this federal aid matching. But, highway officials said, use of the bond money for this purpose would free state road funds which otherwise would have to be earmarked for matching federal aid. These released funds then could be used to speed up other road construction, they said.

The court held the bonds, which would be general obligations of the state, must be limited to 2 per cent interest. They must be retired in 30 years, at the most.

Federal aid is at the rate of $9 federal money to $1 in state funds for construction of Kentucky's 641-mile portion of the interstate system of national and defense highways and at rate of $1 for $1 for aid in building primary and rural secondary roads.

County Health Agencies Aided

Frankfort, July 2 (Sp.) — About 50 per cent more local money was appropriated to county health departments during 1955-56 fiscal year than in the previous year, the State Commissioner of Health says.

In a report to Gov. A. B. Chandler, Dr. Russell E. Teague, said this indicates "people were becoming more aware of their local health departments' budgetary problems."

The State Division of Local Health Services establishes policies governing activities and practices of county health departments, the report says. The division is an arm of the Kentucky Department of Health.

New Recreation Division Sought

Frankfort, July 2 (Sp.) — A new division of recreation for Kentucky was recommended unanimously at a Governor's conference held here recently by a group of recreation leaders and state officials. A program coordinator was suggested.

Attending the meeting were State Conservation Commissioner Laban P. Jackson; Economic Development Commissioner George Hubley; William M. Hay, National Recreation Association, New York; Charles Vetter, Superintendent, Jefferson County Recreation; Ed Adams, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, representing Commissioner Bert Wallace; G. Harry Bowen, State Highway Department (Roadside Parks); Oakley Brown, Jefferson County Playground and Recreation Board; George Carr Ganter, Deputy Commissioner of Conservation; John Gettler, Director of Recreation and Parks, Lexington; T. J. Nelson, Assistant Director of State Parks; Walter Shamus, Director of the Division of Planning, in the Economic Development Department; James Sublett, Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction, representing Dr. Robert Martin; and Julian R. Walker, Fayette County Recreation Department.

Mr. Vetter, Louisville, made the motion which was seconded by Mr. Sublett, and passed unanimously, the group's recommendation to the Governor of Kentucky "that a division of recreation be established to serve the Commonwealth of Kentucky" and that a program coordinator be employed whose duties would be to direct the division's activities.

Waterfield Commissions Hoak

Frankfort, July 2 (Sp.) — Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield presented a Kentucky Colonel's commission to Don Hoak, brilliant new third baseman for the Cincinnati Redlegs baseball team, before a recent doubleheader with Philadelphia.

Hoak, a native of Pennsylvania has announced he will move to Lexington after the 1957 baseball season to establish residence and enter business.

Waterfield, along with Mayor Kincaid, of Lexington, welcomed the new Redleg to Kentucky, as part of the "Don Hoak Day" ceremonies sponsored by a group of Lexingtonians at Crosley Field, Cincinnati.

The 1956 World Series marked the first time that the winning team's pitchers turned in five straight complete games.

CHANGES IN ECONOMY NOTED BY EDUCATOR

By Robert E. Martin
Superintendent of Public Instruction

During the last two decades, we have seen the development of a major change in Kentucky's economy. Once primarily an agricultural state, Kentucky now counts itself among those states whose economies are increasingly being built upon trade and industry.

As this change was being effected in our state, it created almost every aspect of state government and public service agencies—not the least of which is education.

One of the most consistent concerns that has resulted from the industrialization in Kentucky has been the ever present problem of supplying enough in the main power to meet the new demands. Though this was only one area among many in which education found itself involved, was certainly one of the more important. And as industrial techniques became more and more complex, the problem of man power became equally difficult. No longer is quantity of labor the important factor; quality of labor must also be skilled or semi-skilled. Quality is of as much importance as quantity.

Using the necessary power that modern technology has given him, the worker in 1957 can do as much work in forty hours as a worker in 1887 could do in 410 hours. Thus, our modern industrial employee can do five times as much work as his great-grandfather. This fact has tremendous significance to trade and industrial education. If a worker is expected to produce under these conditions, he must have a high level of fundamental skills and knowledge when he comes to the job. It is the responsibility of education, in large measure, to prepare him in this way.

It was in recognition of this and of the continued growth of the Kentucky industrial community, that Mr. George Hubble, Jr., Commissioner of Economic Development and I, requested Governor Chandler to initiate an industrial-training study aimed at improving and expanding the program of trade and industrial education in Kentucky.

Kentucky now has thirteen area trade schools in operation. The primary purpose of these is to train people for employment in industry and the trades. These schools are enrolling about 8,000, but as new plants are constructed in the state and others expand their production, greater demands will be exerted on the trade schools to furnish additional trained personnel.

Recently, the Governor named a twelve-member advisory committee to analyze the industrial-training program. These men will study the educational program in the trade schools as well as the facilities, methods of financing, and administrative organization. They will be concerned with determining the type and number of schools that will be needed to meet problems of furnishing skilled man power.

Former Floyd Minister Enacts Role in Film Showing Sunday Night

A 29-minute religious film in color, "Plus Power," will be shown at the Wesleyan Methodist Church Sunday night, July 7, at 7:30. This film was produced on the campus of Asbury College in Wilmore, Ky., under the sponsorship of the Methodist Student Movement on the campus.

It is the story of a boy who was the son of a missionary and who had entered college with the determination that he was not going back to the land from which he had come as a missionary. The story of the events which took place in his life and the decision which he made makes an interesting film with a great missionary challenge. Dr. Robert L. Anderson, now pastor of the Wilmore Methodist Church and formerly director of the Big Sandy Valley Large Parish, plays the role of the missionary in the film.

The pastor, Rev. William O. Orrick, Jr., invites the public to see this film next Sunday night.

PVT. ALLEN IN KOREA
24th Div. Korea — Pvt. Wayne E. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Allen, of Martin, Ky., recently participated in the 24th Infantry Division's annual Armer Day parade with the 6th Tank Battalion in Korea.

Allen is regularly assigned as a driver in Tank Company of the division's 21st Regiment.

He entered the Army in July 1944 and completed basic training at Fort Chaffee, Ark.

Old Southern Harmony Singing held annually in Benton, Marshall county, on the fourth Sunday in May, was established in 1824 by J. B. Lemon, a west Kentucky newspaperman.

Named to the Governor's committee were: Dewey Daniel, Hazard; F. B. Beeson, Drift; Mack Smith, Hazard; Floyd Fairman, Lexington; Everett J. Moore, Bowling Green; O. L. Weaver, Jr., Ashland; Ira Thompson, Hopkinsville; Alex Veech, Finchville; Burl Travis, Lexington; William E. Garland, Paintsville; C. W. Seaward, Paducah; and William A. Stoll, Louisville.

When the trade schools were started some twenty years ago, there was little demand for skilled labor. But in recent years that trend has been completely reversed. Fred A. Martin, Director of Trade and Industrial Education, tells me that it is probable that the enrollment in the state's trade schools could reach 30,000 in the next five years.

In Kentucky, we are all interested in seeing new industry come into the state. An education program that will supply industry with skilled employees who need little or no training at the expense of the employing company will certainly be the future of our profession from prospective industry.

I am sure that the work of this committee will be of great significance to the future of our program of trade and industrial education of trade and industrial is of equal importance in the work of equal importance in the work of advancing education in Kentucky.

HOW TO BURN A HOLE IN YOUR OWN POCKET

There are still some people who say: "Why worry about forest fires? There's plenty of timber in this country. Besides, trees grow back pretty fast after a forest fire."

Don't you believe this! It takes 20 years to replace a pine forest, much longer for Douglas fir and hardwood forests.

Wood is vital to your own life... the floor you stand on, your chair, the packages that contain most of your food, your newspaper; perhaps, even, the clothes you wear. All—and more—may be derived from wood.

As supply decreases, the cost of wood products increases, and you pay the higher costs. What ever the loss in forest fires, you pay the bill. That's why you may be burning a hole in your own pocket when you toss a burning match or cigarette from your car.

Remember - only you can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

Like other American business firms, we believe that business has a responsibility to contribute to the public welfare. This advertisement is therefore sponsored in cooperation with The Advertising Council and U. S. and State Forest Services by:

Old Mail Hack
Now Is A Relic
In State House

By Charles F. Hinds
Secretary-Treasurer, Kentucky
Historical Society

Frankfort, July 2 (S.P.) — A red and green "mail hack", reminiscent of horse-drawn rural mail service, is seen by visitors just to the left as they enter the front hall of the Old Capitol. It was used for 26 years on Route 2 in Hopkins county by B. L. Mangum of Nortonville, a rural mail carrier beginning in 1921. In 1955 Mangum gave his vehicle to the Kentucky Historical Society in memory of "the early days of the rural mail delivery service" as one of the last mail wagons used in Kentucky.

The wagon, manufactured by Harrington Co. Peoria, Ill., in 1921, sold for $135. It was the smallest type of vehicle used by rural mail carriers. The cab, with four windows and two narrow side doors, measures only 27 inches in width and 4 feet and 2 inches in length.

Once when driving over a section of his route, galled with deep holes, Mangum had to forward to check the mailpouch in the front of the wagon. Working in close quarters, the mail was suddenly thrown through the front windshield when the front wheels dropped into a large mud hole. The glass was never repaired.

It is hard to visualize Kentucky with no post offices and mail routes. But only 167 years ago, the U. S. postmaster reported only one mail route in the Appalachians, running from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh once every two weeks.

Kentuckians depended on occasional travelers for mail until 1792, when the first route was laid out to Kentucky by the post offices established at Danville, Washington, Paris, Lexington, Frankfort, Harrodsburg, Bardonia, and Louisville. Mail was brought down the Ohio River until another regular interstate mail route was added in 1818, entering eastern Kentucky by Cumberland Gap.

Mail was at first delivered almost entirely by horse and rider. But in 1826, about one-half of the mail was carried by coach. Congress yielded to popular demands for an expanded postal service throughout the 19th century. In 1851, 1853, and 1855, the cost of sending letters was reduced to two cents an ounce. Free delivery was installed in cities and towns beginning in 1853.

Ten years later, post cards were introduced into the United States from Europe. Probably the most significant advance was inauguration of free rural delivery in 1896.

HEALTH NOTES
By Floyd County Health Department

A new mobile station for collecting specimens for serologic testing for syphilis will be ready for use by July, according to Russell E. Teague, M.D., Commissioner of the Kentucky State Department of Health.

The new bus replaces an outdated unit which has been in use during the past two years. Sponsored by county medical societies and health departments the bus travels to serve smaller or out-of-the-way communities which have no facilities for drawing or testing blood. For some time the mobile unit operators have complained that motor and equipment breakdowns on the first unit have made the service unsatisfactory in many instances.

State and federal funds have made possible the purchase of the new unit, which is designed to encourage people to come for the tests. Three members of the staff of the Division of Venereal Disease Control will man the unit. The blood specimens will be drawn at the unit and sent to the State Department of Health laboratories for the serology test.

Dr. Teague emphasized that syphilis is one of our most serious public health problems today. He added, "More than half of the people who have syphilis do not know they have it. The confidential test at the unit is good mental health insurance that syphilis is not present." Persons with positive reports are referred to their family physicians.

Recordings of popular songs will be amplified to attract attention to the mobile unit stopping place. The unit will travel to all parts of the state on the request of local physicians and health departments.

4,000-Year-Old Tips
On Water Still Good

Baghdad — The earliest record of purifying water is in a ancient collection of medical lore written about 200 B. C. The writers recommended keeping it in copper vessels, exposing it to sunlight, and filtering it through charcoal. All this is still considered good advice.

PIONEER DAYS

SALE

In this sale we go 'way, way back to Pioneer Days. And in this sale there hangs a tale—a bear's fall, if you will pardon the pun. More than a hundred years ago, David Cooley, father-in-law of Isaac Richmond, operated a General Store here in Prestonsburg. He was the great-great-grandfather of the present I. Richmond Store manager. In those early days of this, the oldest of Floyd county businesses, Mr. Cooley owned a bear which he kept chained to a tree on the property where the store was located on First avenue here, a few doors away from the site of the present store. It was his custom in those days to invite home with him for lunch all customers who happened to be in the store at the noon hour. The invitation was usually accepted, and store and bear were left unattended.

On one such occasion Mr. Cooley and his friends returned to the store to find the bear had broken his chain and was inside the building. Since he kept sugar in a barrel, the whereabouts of the bear was no mystery. They found the barrel overturned and the bear helping himself to its contents. As a result of this incident, Mr. Cooley staged Prestonsburg's first sale—a sale of the sugar from the barrel, at bargain prices. And now, a century later, we go 'way back to the bear and this bit of history to tilt over for our customers and friends barrels and barrels of bargains in our Semi-Annual Sale.
