NEW BOAT SERVICE

The Puma is the name of the charter boat now operating for parties from the state boat dock on Dewey Lake to the dam. It accommodates 30 or more, is a good, seaworthy craft, though not speedster, and is ideal for picnicking or sight-seeing groups who want to travel in leisurely fashion.

THE QUICKLY DEAD

We're always wishing we had kept this item or that (which may be recent for the condition of this death) but we usually wind up not having the very item we want. Did not get, for instance, Bob Condon's or Quentin Reynolds' or the other outstanding writer's piece in a recent Courier-Journal. And I wanted to report that part that said, in effect, that a newspaper published in the 1700's is not nearly as dead as a live radio or television program one minute after it is over.

THIS COULD BE SERIOUS

I am getting behind in my fishing, and I have neglected the sport in this column so much that there are not more than a couple of fish. Floyd couleians who believe I am a better fisherman than Jason Lucas. — Fact of the matter is, (See Story No. 11, Page 5)

COUNCIL ACTS TO SET SWIMMING POOL VOTE

SPECIAL LEVY TO BEAR COST UP TO VOTERS

'Find What People Want' Theme of Council Meet As Pool Here Suggested

Voters of Prestonsburg will be given an opportunity at the regular November election to say how strongly they want a community swimming pool.

The City Council at its meeting Monday night adopted a resolution calling for the election. The resolution specified that the voters will decide if a special tax levy of 5 to 20 cents per $100 valuation shall be made to finance the project.

A two-thirds vote is required for passage of a special levy. In suggesting the swimming pool, the Council members discussed project and one that the community needs, Burd Spurluck, head of The First National Bank, said that "the only way to go about it is to find out what the people want." The election will be held in November.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, F.A.D. Western Kentucky Teachers' College Bowling Green, Ky.

A FOLKLORE MAP OF KY.

Not too long ago a publishing company put out a folklore map of the United States, emphasizing the folklores that have grown up in our rather New World. It is a fascinating suggestion, for everywhere we have developed songs that tell of our distinctive life here. Just think of cowboys and braggers and desperadoes and scouts and Indians and Negroes and the Old South and Paul Bunyan and John Henry! We have produced everything from the New England psalm-singing church to the camp-meeting and its wild and racy airs. And in lighter vein we have danced everything from the stately Virginia reel, called in the Old World the Sir Roger de Coverley, to the awkward clogging on a barn door to a country store. And we have sung of every known species of moon and all the varying frost and hair that were ever mentioned in our Kentucky folk heroes and yarns: all our haunted houses and lands of mystery, our legends, all our folk industries, such as pottery and basketry and meat-curing; our gathering places, such as picnicking areas and camp-meeting grounds; all our old-fashioned stores and wells where hotels used to be and where a fine folk flavor still remains. Some of my students in a graduate course that I teach have made some beginnings on this project and could ultimately make such a map.

Let's take a single country, for example, the one where I have lived since a was a stripling, Warren. It was an old county as Kentucky

Judge Pruitt pledged the cooperation of all Pike county officials in development of the new plant. He added that while Hayes Metal is the first plant he had welcomed to Pike county, he hopes for many industrial plants locating in this area naturally shielded from attack.

Mr. Bogardus remarked that his association with Hayes Metal has been the three most rewarding years of his career.

A. E. Hayes, his wife June, and Mr. Bogardus received presents from the metal workers.

Mr. Hayes, in a critical analysis of the prospect of new industry for Eastern Kentucky, pointed out that the salvation of the area depends not in bringing in new industry but in creating factories at home. Hayes struck out at the investment of local capital in large foreign corporations. He said, "Eastern Kentucky capital makes jobs for Eastern Kentuckians elsewhere. Pitsmen, thousands of dollars invested in a Detroit motor corporation will make one job for an Eastern Kentuckian in Detroit, $1,000 invested in Eastern Kentucky will make one job for a man at home."

In addition to the new plant, Hayes Metal fabricates truck bodies, large coal trailers, mine machinery and building structures at three locations, Hi Hat and Pikeville, Kentucky and Richlands, Virginia.

Paul E. Hayes, Prestonsburg attorney, and general counsel of the three Hayes Metal Corporations, was master of ceremonies.

led down and struck out Richard Brauham and got the last batter on a grounder ball to second base. The righthander allowed only one base-runner during the next four innings and that one on an error.

In the sixth, Martin threatened by getting his first two men on base. Rowland walked and went to third when Patton's grounder to short was booted into center field. Rowland was thrown out at the plate trying to score on a passed ball, and when Maggard grounded the ball back to Woodward, Patton was picked off third. Woodward struck out last batter. Owensboro got only two hits off the offerings of Tallent, but used our walks, and two errors to the best advantage.

The Family Group Picture—An Old Floyd Custom

We are indebted to the old photographers who took pictures of family groups, portraits or scenes of years ago. Extant today in many family albums are pictures of oldsters who contributed much in good citizenship and service to our county and of children who grew into today's fine citizens.

The officers and directors of the First National Bank, founded 12 years before this picture was taken, have always felt a oneness with Floyd county people and their needs. It is a friendly bank.

State Police Pledges To Clean-Up Job

Don Sturgill, Kentucky's commissioner of public safety, has put Northern Kentucky and its legal authorities on notice that State Police will clean up gambling in that area if officials elected or employed to do the job continue to neglect their duty.

We are pleased to see this further evidence of the State Police coming of age. In the past the state has leaned backward to make this state enforcement body secondary to local authorities, and this in theory is good, inasmuch as home rule is to be desired as long as home rule is not a misnomer.

Gradually, the State Police has emerged toward what it should be — an enforcement organization with the authority of the state behind it, mobile, flexible, well-knit, and ready to face up to responsibility.

Commissioner Sturgill notes that "we get complaints from the mountains about bootlegging, but the only ones we get about gambling are from Northern Kentucky."

Let Mr. Sturgill not forget that mountain bootlegging is an offense against the law, even as Northern Kentucky gambling is an offense.

Respectful of the rights of other officers, Sturgill announced that he would, before ordering state troopers to make raids, first of all give the police chief of Kenton county a list of eight or ten suspected gambling places, and thus present the police chief a chance to do the job himself.

Surely Mr. Sturgill knows that the chief of police of Kenton county needs no such list. He surely knows that no local officer ever needs such information. The general public knows it — why should not the enforcement officers? Wherever we can, let us give law enforcement officers credit for integrity of purpose and action.

We repeat, we are glad to see organized gambling under attack by state police. Organized crime of any kind must be attacked by the best organized forces of law enforcement the state has.

Let us not forget that Eastern Kentucky bootlegging is pretty well organized, too.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HELL GET THE PAPER

Editor, The Times: This is the first time I received a copy of the Times from home and I can tell you truthfully that it is the most inspirational thing that I have experienced in a long time to sit down and read a Floyd County Times again. Being a native Kentuckian and Floyd countyman (I have lived at Drift most of my life), I found that almost every article in the paper interested me. The paper itself was an encouragement to be proud to be a native of Kentucky and of Floyd county.

I have been in the Marine Corps since December of '46 and I am now serving with the 3d Marine Division here on Okinawa. I have been on this island one month today. This place is the most enjoyable and interesting place I have ever been outside of Kentucky. The people are simple, clean living, intelligent, friendly, honest, and very understanding with each other. They have a school very similar to that of America, except that there are so many children here that they go to school shifts. There are four shifts; six o'clock till twelve noon, noon till six p.m., six p.m. till midnight and midnight till six a.m. It is something that every plain American should see to watch them scramble for an occasional case of beer or other luxury that they seldom ever see.

I am very unused to the customs and habits of these people now but I will be over here till the latter part of 1958, so I should learn much more about them before I am ever ready to go back to learn the language here. I hope to know it pretty well by the time I leave.

My main purpose in writing this letter is to ask you to send me your subscription rates on the Times. I want to know how much the news from home as soon as possible and would appreciate it very much if you would send them as soon as possible. May you have good luck on your newspaper in the future as you have in the past.

SOLDIER WANTS MAIL Editor, The Times: I would like for you to print this in your paper. I am a soldier, stationed here in Korea, and I don't get much mail. I am writing this in hope that somebody will write a lonely soldier a letter. I would like some girl to write me a letter. I am 18 years old. I have black hair and brown eyes.

I will trade pictures with anyone. My parents are Mr. and Mrs. Rod Greene. They live on Middle Creek, Middleburg, and the Floyd County Times every week and I like to read the news 10,000 miles from home.

Pvt. Frank Greene, Tank Co. 18th Inf. Regt. APO 24 San Francisco, Calif.

EDITORIAL APPRECIATION Editor, The Times: Your editorial of July 18 entitled, "The Key to Highway Safety" is, in my opinion, an excellent analysis of the Point System program for highway safety. I would like to thank you for giving your valuable support to the program, and especially for your extremely relevant statement concerning the fact that the many courts must convict those that they feel are guilty of driving offenses, and then report these convictions to the Department of Public Safety. Without these two steps being carried out, the Point System will be unable to reduce highway fatalities.

On the other hand, if the courts will consistently carry out your recommendation, the time is not very far away when the slaughter on Kentucky highways will be considerably reduced.

Again may I thank you for your excellent editorial, and may I say that with the support of papers such as yours, the highway safety program will certainly be successful.

Sincerely yours, DON B. STURGILL, Commissioner, Department of Public Safety

Capitol Notebook

Frankfort, Aug. 7 — The first monthly payment under Kentucky's employee relief system was made to G. Murray Brainerd, Frankfort.

He was paid his check by Acting Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield. Brainerd told Economic Security Commissioner Vego E. Barnes that his retirement and social security benefits now total $138 a month. Brainerd, now 77, worked for the Commonwealth about 15 years before retiring July 1.

Asked for comment on the retirement system, Brainerd said, "Now I'll get to do a lot of cat-fishing."

AGRICULTURE POSTS Farmers will be interested to know that Dr. Julian W. Maupin, Richmond, is the new head of the Commonwealth's statewide brucellosis control program. He has been a veterinarian on Kentucky Agriculture Department's livestock sanitation division for two years.

Maupin's appointment was announced by Agriculture Commissioner Ben Butler. He also announced that Beryl McClain, Lexington, has been named assistant director of livestock sanitation. McClain formerly was herdman at Coldstream Farm, Fayette county, and is a noted judge of shorthorn cattle.

BEAUTY AND THE BEASTS Persons attending five of the first 41 Ford FF4 district dairy shows beginning Aug. 12 will get to see a pretty dairy princess.

She is 16-year-old Janie Francis Griffin, of Evans, who is the Kentucky princess title from 20 other contestants at the University of Kentucky, Lexington.

Griffin is sponsored by the Kentucky Dairy Assn., which evidently thinks a pretty girl will make your mouth water—for milk, butter and cheese.

Asst. Agriculture Commissioner Manvil Vinson says Miss Griffin will present awards at the Mayfield, Madisonville, Bowling Green, Somerset and Shelbyville shows to be staged Aug. 12, 13, 14, 16 and 23 respectively. Other shows will be at Campbellville, Aug. 20; Williamson, Aug. 22; and Flemington, Aug. 22.

A PLUG FOR THE PARKS A book just off the press has a clever title. Seems there should be some way to associate it with Kentucky so this column, subjected to Commonwealth restrictions, could tell about it. But the book is about a fellow named Ray from Detroit who opened a bakery at Cabeza, N. M. Written by his wife, the book contains no reference to Kentucky history, government or recreation spots. . . it's just full of the author's troubles with Ray and falling dough. In fact, that's the name of the book—"Dough, Ray and Me". Well, let's inasmuch as it into this column by saying that a vacationer resting in cool comfort at a Kentucky State Park might read "Dough, Ray and Me" and feel all the more blissful because he is not musing bread in a hot bakery in Cabeza, N. M.

Tractor-Accidents Death-Total High Here's some facts about tractor accidents that should make farm families more cautious about such vehicles' operation, says the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service.

Tractor accidents kill about 1,000 farm persons annually, either in work or non-work activities, and on or off the farm, about a third of the tractor fatalities occur on highways and about one-sixth of the tractor fatalities occur to children under 10 years of age.

Colonial Dames Open Brown Home

Frankfort, Aug. 7 — The doors of the Orlando Brown House at Wilkinson and Wapping streets, Frankfort, are open once again to welcome visitors, as was the custom in 1835 when young Mr. Brown brought his bride, Mary Watts Brown, there to make their home.

Built for Orlando and his bride by his famous father, John Brown of Liberty Hall, one of the first two U. S. Senators from Kentucky, the house is now a museum at the request of his granddaughter, Miss Anne Ford Brown. Miss Brown willed the house and its contents in 1955 to the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America, Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The old home with its high ceilings, large fireplaces, quaint and unusual window, depicting the Jefferson influence, was designed by Gideon Shryock.

The house is of early Greek Revival style, with the Federal influence shown in its classic entrance, its facade and the arch of the front hall.

Walls of the building are 14 inches thick and the floors are of wide and narrow oak flooring. A lovely cherry balustrade on the wide stairway leads to the second floor from the reception hall.

The double entrance door has the original "Orlando Brown" name plate and an English lock with a large key containing the initials "B" on the handle.

Other treasures in the museum include the Duncan Phyllis table, whale-oil lamps, candelabra and exquisite clocks brought from France by Orlando's uncle, James Brown, minister to France under President Monroe.

Family portraits painted by T. S. Moore, T. T. Fowler, Louis Morgan and John Nease adorn the walls. The pride of the collection is the splendid delineation of Senator John Brown by Kentucky's favorite native artist, Matthew H. Jovett.

Orlando Brown, 1801-1867, a graduate of Princeton at 19, studied medicine with his uncle, Dr. Preston W. Brown, and completed a law course at Transylvania. He was joint proprietor and editor of the Frankfort Commonwealth.

After the death of his first wife, he married Mary Cordelia Broadhead. There were four children, two of whom died in childhood.

Mrs. Elvina Hall, 70, Native of Hunter, Dies At Home 6 p.m., July 31

Mrs. Elvina Hall, 70, of Hunter, died at 6 p.m., July 31, at the home after an illness of four months.

Mrs. Hall was a daughter of Ben and Rachel Caudill. She was a member of the Regular Baptist Church for 42 years. She was married twice, being preceded in death by both husbands. Lee Davis and Marion Hall.

She is survived by one son, Jarvey Davis, Price, two daughters, Florida Tackett, Beavinsville, and Mrs. Usley Johnson, Hunter; three brothers, Neal Caudill, Dry Creek, Jarvey Caudill, Mousie, Jarvey Caudill, of Indiana, and four sisters, Mrs. Drazie Jones, Broad Bottom, Mrs. Martha Calhoun, of Indiana, Mary Johnson, Garrett, and Mrs. Ella Maxie, of Michigan.

Funeral services held August 3 at 10 a.m., at the graveside in the Beavinsville cemetery, were conducted by the Revs. Hershel Huff, Johnny Jones, Ed Mosley, and Jerry Hall. Burial was made under the direction of Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

For Sheriff

If elected Sheriff of Floyd County, I will not be bossed by any man or group of men. I will use only the people of Floyd County and what I owe them will be an honest, efficient administration as Sheriff.

In discussing the people who settled Eastern Kentucky, he said they were the best stock of old Europe and brought with them to the Big Sandy the background of a long struggle for liberty. One pioneer Floyd county family recalls even today how they fought the Battle of Inverness in Ireland with only sticks and stones.

"Virtue, aggressive, courageous and liberty-loving they fought the wilderness and the Indian to become one people with a common goal," he said.

Named as a few of the outstanding men and women of the area were Green Herk, president of the World Court, Fred Vinson, former Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, Judge William Pharr, Leale of the Texas Judiciary, Prof. Ben Mayo who founded the East Texas Teachers College, Gov. John Bailey of Arkansas, and William Eisey Connelly, the historian.

STATE JUMPS COAL RATING

Kentucky Passes Output Of West Virginia Mines; Pennsylvania Tops Both

Kentucky, for one week this year at least, jumped ahead of West Virginia in bituminous coal production. But, strangely enough, Pennsylvania, usually a third-place runner, was in the No. 1 spot that week.

The week in question was the one that ended July 8 that was miners' vacation time, and how well the period was observed may have been a factor in how much coal these three states produced.

RESOLUTION

A RESOLUTION BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY TO ADOPT ONE OF THREE ALTERNATE PLANS FOR FLOOD PROTECTION OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY AS PRESENTED TO THE CITY BY THE CORPS OF ENGINEERS OF THE U. S. ARMY UNDER LETTER DATED AUGUST 1st, 1957.

WHEREAS, the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, has submitted to the City of Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, three alternate plans for flood protection of the City of Prestonsburg, with alternate schemes of construction to facilitate financing by local interests; and

WHEREAS, before a project for the flood protection of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, can be initiated, it will be necessary for the City of Prestonsburg to adopt one of the three alternate plans aforesaid, or modifications thereof, and to give certain assurance to the United States of America as required by the Flood Control Act of June 22, 1936; and

WHEREAS, the City of Prestonsburg is desirous of cooperating with the United States in the initiation and completion of such a flood protection project; NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, as follows:

1. That Plan I, utilizing the presently available pondage facility to elevate 619.00 feet, mean sea level, (1929 Datum), as set forth in the aforesaid letter of August 1, 1957, be modified in accordance with Plan 3, Scheme B, also as set forth in said letter, and that the foregoing plan, as modified, be and is hereby approved and adopted.

2. That the difference in cost, estimated as $70,000.00, between Plan I and Plan 3, Scheme B, as set forth in said letter of August 1, 1957, be borne by the City of Prestonsburg.

3. That authorization is hereby granted for payment to the United States of the initial construction costs of $22,000.00 required to be borne by the City under Plan 3, Scheme B.

4. That when encroachments, by filling or other means on the pondage area below elevation 619.00, reduces the pump storage basin to a state requiring additional pumping facilities, the City upon advice from the Huntington District Office, Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, shall furnish pumping capacity to compensate for the loss of pondage capacity due to such encroachments.

This resolution shall be in full force and effect from and after the date of its passage, approval and publication or posting, as required by law.

HARRY SANDIGE, Mayor

Attest: JUDITH D. ARCHER, City Clerk

Forest Planting Areas Need Brush Control Now

Hardwood brush and low value tree species have proved to be a major problem in site preparation for pine forests, says James Newman, Kentucky Agricultural Extension Extension Service forester.

Established brush will shade and deform pine seedlings unless the brush is removed, Newman says.

Chemical spraying is a good control measure in site preparation. It should be done in July and August; this work may save cleaning and weeding work later.

Use the chemical 2, 4, D-T for woody plants, Newman says. It's equivalent to 30 gallons of water. Wet foliage thoroughly when applying the spray; remember, too, that it is difficult to properly spray brush taller than five feet.

Newman noted that chemical control of brush (as a site preparation) is no part of the ASEA approved-practice plan, starting this fall. Treated areas must be followed up by spring plantings, of course, to qualify under ASEA rules.

Convention Delegates to Tell Woodmen of Society's Progress

To inform Woodmen of their Society's progress, numerous meetings are being held during August throughout the country. Officers and delegates to the recent national Woodmen convention are reporting on its activities. These reports highlight impressive gains the Society has made since its last biennial convention in 1955.

These gains include:

Insurance in force gains: $23,879,548, protection now totalling $605,062,612, a new high.

Gains in assets: $10,932,725, bringing assets to a new high of $209,945,113.

Benefits paid members the past two years: $24,876,673. Total since the Society's founding in 1890: $495,862,066.

In 1956 more than 427,000 members received the largest savings refund in history, total $2,200,000.

Reserve ratio (assets over liabilities) still greater than that of any other insurance organization.

FOOD NOTES

By Dible Trapp Home Demonstration Agent

Freezers are being filled with two favorite frozen foods—corn and peaches. Both can be delicious months from now if packaged in a safe, healthful manner. Food should be quick frozen very soon after they are packed. Prepare only three or four containers and pack.

After freezing, store food at 0° F. or lower. At higher temperature, frozen foods lose both eating quality and vitamin value. Corn on cob needs special care to have that from-the-garden flavor. Varieties that freeze well are Golden Bantam, Country Gentleman, and Stowells Evergreen. Select perfect ears of young tender sweet corn in the milk stage. Wash, remove silks, trim and wash. Scald 7-11 minutes, according to size, in boiling water. Place in cold water and leave long enough for the cob to become chilled. (Chilling is important in preventing cob-taste.) Drain, wrap each ear separately in moisture-vapor-resistant cellophane, and pack in bags or cover with stockinette.

Peaches discoloring has been the greatest problem in freezing or canning. Ascorbic acid, citric acid or lemon juice solves this problem. Add 1/4 t. ascorbic acid to a quart of cold syrup just before it is to be used. Or use 1/4 t. of citric acid to a quart of cold water. Allow the peaches to remain in the solution for a minute or two, then drain well and pack in syrup. Or 1 tablespoon of lemon juice added to the cold syrup also retards darkening.

UNCOOKED PEACH JAM
Sort and wash about 2 1/2 pounds of fully ripe peaches. Remove pits and skins and crush the fruit. Measure 3 c. crushed fruit and 5 c. sugar, mix well, and let stand about 20 minutes stirring occasionally. Dissolve 1 package of powdered pectin in 1 c. of water, bring to a boil and boil for 1 minute. Add pectin to the fruit and sugar mixture and stir for 2 minutes.

Let the jam into jolly glasses or into suitable freezer containers, leaving 1/4 inch head space. Cover the containers and let stand 24 to 48 hours, or until the jam has set. Then cover the jam with 1/8 inch layer of hot paraffin. This will make about nine 6 oz. glasses.

The uncooked jam may be stored for a few months in a refrigerator, or up to a year in a freezer. At room temperature it will mold or ferment in a short time. If, when opened, the jam is too firm, it can be softened by stirring. If it tends to separate, stirring will blend it again.

I'm a s-allipin'. Phing is still for me—pooy on goll—but things have come to such a sorry pass that I can miss an opportunity to go fishing and still not feel that my life has been permanently brighted. It's a condition that will bear watching, I know.

If my interest in angling fades out, what to do? One must keep interested in something. Reading, yes, but that is rather sedentary. I've had a little of that, but it doesn't give me the strength of beam indicated, some sort of exercise is needed. Golfing—I have already said, in my polkist and most restrained style, pooy on it.

Anybody for a game of horse, shoes?

STUMPED? SEE ME!
See by the papers that Wisconsin's conservation department has issued instructions to fishermen, emphasizing the tricker maneuvers necessary to get yourself shaken free and on your way from home to the old fishing hole. Suggests a fellow should carry his tackle in his car, so that he can go straight from work to the lake or stream without encountering the Little Woman on the way. Then, when Friend Husband finally comes home for his question-and-answer hour, all he will need is a good-size bass or two to brandish around, meanwhile trumpeting, "Look what yore Pappy caught!"

But those people up in Wisconsin go only so far. They add, by way of afterthought, that if the errant fisherman goes home empty-handed he can figure his way out of his dilemma for himself.

I seldom advertise the fact, but for a consideration I will give to fishermen in dire straits such as these the benefit of my years of experience of returning home with a lame story and no fish.

I-GRANNY, A FLEM-GRANNY!
Just this afternoon Alvin Taylor walked in sniffing at a "plum-granny" he needs it to me and I catch an aroma that's not of this world. It belongs to another world, and immediately I'm transported there—to a world of barefoot boys and girls, a world whose capital is a one-room schoolhouse, a never-never land that's full of magic. I'm whisked back over the years and into a pair of overalls, and a front pocket of those overalls bulges, and I sneak the red-robin Temptation with a capital T. It's what in politer circles is spelled "opernante" but which is nothing but a delectable "plum-granny" that belongs to a schoolroom and boys and girls of another year.

This thing is Temptation because of its aroma. Talk of Chanel No. 5! I waste some of the morning smelling of it, then my resistance sinks lower and lower and I do the thing that I invariably do. Almost in spite of myself I bite into it, it smells so good. And invariably I am disappointed.

The figures are not at hand, but I had the guess a good part of the population of this section over 50 first learned that things are not always as they seem by means of a "plum-granny," then biting it.

vised it, leans forward at an angle from the main body of the tool-holder, giving it greater penetration on less power than is required with conventional cutting tools now in use in coal mining. The tools now in use stand vertically, or at right angles to the main body of the tool holder, and so this old-type tool pushes rather than cuts. Joy contends that the cutting tool he has devised for greater cutting ability with less pressure will give an increase in the percentage of stoker size coal in the fine coals and also a reduction of carbon content.

The cutting tool Joy has devised has two cutting points instead of only one as in the old-type tool. When one point is dull by usage, the bit may simply be reversed in the holder. He claims this is the only tool-holder or air-cutting tool designed at an angular position in two parts.

The device has an adapter which can be placed in the tool holder to raise the cutting bit to any desired gauge. This feature gives the bit a solid base, thereby preventing the slips experienced with present-day holders, which have only set screws to hold the cutting tool in gauge. A set screw will be used with the Joy tool-holder but its sole purpose will be to prevent the cutting tool from falling out of the holder.

The cutting tool may be supplied with carbide insert tip, carbide welded tip or plain tip. The tool-holder would be welded to any conventional chain used in the mining of coal and other minerals.

three deer has not been determined, since they were not found until decomposition was far advanced. The deer found last week, however, had been dead no more than 16 to 18 hours, it was said. One of the four animals found was on Middle Creek, and the others were in the reservoir area. All were found at or near the edge of water.

The death rate among white-tail deer has been unusually heavy in other regions, and the cause there has not been determined. Rabbits was suspected at Dreyer Lake after mad foxes had attacked two or three persons and had been reported on numerous other occasions.

TO THE VOTERS OF MAGISTRATE NO. 2

I wish to take this means of introducing myself to the people who don't know me.

I am Ellis Sexton, of Hueysville, Ky. My father and mother are W. M. (Bill) Sexton and Jane Shepherd Sexton. My grandparents were K.F. (Kenis) Sexton and Mary Ann Salmons Sexton, Jim Salmons and Nancy Frasure Salmons, Fair Shepherd and Rainie Howard Shepherd. So a lot of us are kin folks. I married Lula Duff, the daughter of Zack Duff and Nancy Duff. My wife is a sister to Rev. James Duff.

My wife and I have eleven children which, you know, takes a lot to feed, clothe and send to school. So you see that I can use a little extra money. That is why I am asking for this office. I need the office of Magistrate and you people need me, because I know the needs of roads, etc., of our district. Friends, if elected I will travel over the district to see where and what is needed done, so when I go to fiscal court I will know what to ask and fight for.

You fathers and mothers who have children going to school and living up in these hollows where there are no roads or roads are in poor condition, need a man like me to fight for you as your magistrate to get this work done and if I can not get this done, I will have it published in the paper so you people will know what is going on in fiscal court. Then you can not say that Ellis Sexton didn't try.

I have one son and daughter to complete high school at Garrett high. My son, Birchell, married Ina Ray Lafferty, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lafferty, of Garrett, Ky. Birchell is now stationed with the army in Korea. My daughter is Loretta Sexton. She is planning on attending Pikeville College this fall. So with the help of God and you good people, I can win this fall.

It has been talked by some that I might lay down and not make a fight this fall, but, friends, that is a mistake. I am in this race to win and can win with your help. Friends, check the qualifications of both of your candidates and see who is the best qualified and the one that needs the office and that is the one to vote for. I promise you people that I will not have to get any one to do my book work. I have done book work for 10 or 12 years. I used to keep time on the W.P.A. roads at Turkey Creek, Middle Creek and Salt Lick and have done book work for the mines. So, friends, who do you think needs the office, the one with a large family or the one with the small family? I am asking for one chance and if I don't do the job and make you a good magistrate, don't vote for me any more. I am sober and honest and will give justice to all. So on November election day, go to the polls and vote for Ellis Sexton for Magistrate the man who needs the office. A vote for Sexton means a vote for better roads in our district.

Your best of Friends,
ELLIS SEXTON

DRIVE SAFELY

Third in a series of articles sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Prestonsburg.

This very simple problem in arithmetic means simply that feet per second equals approximately one and one-half times miles per hour. A car going at 40 mph is going about 60 feet per second. Just measure off 60 feet and remember, at 40, your car covers that distance in the space of time it ordinarily takes to say "Mississippi". At 40 mph, if you turn your head and say "what are those men doing over there?", your car has gone 120 feet with the driver's eyes off the road. Suppose that you had been following the car ahead at 100 feet and at that instant he stopped suddenly!

A quick glance at the people in the second car may take only one-half second, but you go 20 feet in a half-second and the slightest turn of a wheel will take you completely off the road. A child can dart into your path in the time it takes for a glance into the rear-view mirror, and by the way, that glance takes longer than you think because your eyes have to change focus twice in the process. When you sneeze your eyes are closed for approximately 70 feet.

Watch every approaching car. At 40, the other car can get on your side of the road in one-fifth of a second and the point of collision will be approaching you at 120 feet per second.

Don't look now, but STOP! before slipping a bare, blinding at a road map or lighting a cigarette.

Accredited Insurance Co. Is People's Best Bet, Says Jack R. Wolford

A Kentucky Department of Insurance official has cautioned Kentuckians to make certain their insurance is placed in companies authorized to do business in Kentucky.

Jack R. Wolford, deputy commissioner, specifically called attention to four companies. The Armed Forces Service Insurance Underwriters, Atlas Insurance Co. and the Affiliated Underwriters and the Acme County Mutual are not licensed to operate in Kentucky, he said.

According to Wolford, the Armed Forces Service Insurance Underwriters, San Antonio, Texas, is believed to have issued policies in Kentucky through the Acme County Mutual Insurance Co. and has recently declared an assignment on all their policies, the official said.

RESOLUTION

A RESOLUTION BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, TO PERMIT THE MAYOR TO EMIT CITY BONDS TO SECURE PROPOSED EASEMENTS THROUGH CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS IF NECESSARY, OF ALL LANDS ADJACENT PERTAINING TO THE FLOOD PROTECTION PROJECT FOR AUGUST 5, 1957, AND IN COMPLIANCE WITH ALTERNATE PLANS SUBMITTED BY THE CORPS OF ENGINEERS, U. S. ARMY UNDER LETTER DATED AUGUST 1, 1957.

WHEREAS, the Corps of Engineers, U.S. Army, has submitted to the City of Prestonsburg, County, Kentucky, three alternate plans for flood protection of the City of Prestonsburg, of all lands adjacent to the flood protection project, and

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, by Resolution dated August 5, 1957, accepted Plan 3, Scheme B, as set forth in the aforesaid letter of August 1, 1957; and

WHEREAS, before said project can be commenced it will be necessary for the City of Prestonsburg, to secure easements, both temporary and permanent, as required by the Flood Control Act of June 22, 1936;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, AS FOLLOWS:

1. That the Mayor of this City is hereby empowered to employ special counsel for the purpose of securing easements for all lands necessary for the construction, operation and maintenance of the flood protection project adopted by the Council by the Resolution hereinabove referred to.

2. That in the process of securing said easements the special counsel employed by the Mayor may, where necessary, and with the approval of the Mayor, institute condemnation proceedings against any land or land owner for the purpose of securing the easements necessary for the construction, operation, and maintenance of said flood protection project.

This resolution shall be in full force and effect from and after the date of its passage approval and publication or posting, as required by law.

HARRY SANDIGE

BOWLINGS DIE IN AIR CRASH

Bodies of Pikeville Pair Found in Plane Wreckage After Air, Ground Search

Pikeville, Ky., Aug. 5 — A Pikeville man and his wife were found dead today in the wreckage of their burned private plane three miles north of here.

Earl Justice, leader of the searching party that found the wreckage, identified the victims as Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Bowling.

Searching parties, both on the ground and in the air, combed the mountain area near here after the Bowling plane failed to arrive from Louisville. They reportedly left there at 3 p.m. yesterday.

Fourteen planes participated in the air search. The Civil Air Patrol was assisted by the Army Light Aviation Section from Fort Knox.

A friend told officers he had made arrangements to pick the Bowlings up at the airport. He said they had arranged for him to drive to the airport when the plane flew over his house.

The friend said the plane passed his home last night, but when he arrived at the airport the Bowlings were not there.

Several residents of a wooded section nearby reported hearing what sounded like a crash about 5:30 p.m. yesterday.

Christina Ann Hall, Native of Hi Hat, Married June 29

Miss Christina Ann Hall was married June 29 to Anthony John Scrocco of Youngstown, O. Mr. Scrocco performed the double-ring ceremony at 9:30 a.m. in Sacred Heart Church in Youngstown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Omery Hall, of Hi Hat, Ky. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scrocco of Youngstown.

Given in marriage by John Christians of Dayton, the bride wore a gown of tulle and lace and a pleated tulle fashion with a scalloped sash and a chapel train.

Her two-tiered fingertip veil of French illusion was caught to a crown of beaded pearls, and she carried a white prayer-book lipped with white orchids and chrysanthemum.

Mrs. John Christian was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Eleanor King, Dayton, and Sara Scrocco, of Youngstown. The attendants wore ballerina length gowns of white nylon embroidery over yellow tulle and the honor attendant wore aqua.

The matron of honor carried a basket of yellow carnations and chrysanthemums and the bridesmaids carried baskets of blue carnations and chrysanthemums.

Edward Lickner, of Youngstown, served as best man. Ushers were Bill Hall and William McDermott, both of Dayton, O.

Books and Such

By Laura Virginia Roberts

One thing in literature that has always interested me is the heroes who die of love. Take, for example, Elaine the maid of Astolat. Lancelot rode by her castle a couple of times, smiled at her, left his shield with her. They had a few words together—probably about the weather—and she fell madly in love. Later, of course, she nursed him as he recovered from wounds, but she was already madly in love before that, so the story goes. He left the castle without saying goodbye, and she just plain pined away and died.

The puzzle is: Is love just what it used to be; or are modern girls just healthier? Tell me, how many girls do you know who have died of broken hearts?

For that matter, how many men are there, like Sweet William, who died "for love of Barbary Allen"? Romance has certainly given way to practicality. Think how sweet and sad and dramatic it must have been when the bride and groom were standing on the floor in the water. Think how she must have enjoyed knowing as she died that Lancelot would see her and know she had died for love of him. He did see her, too, just as she planned, and felt real bad about it for two or three days.

My students and I kicked this idea around some at the same time we were quoting and trying to write limericks back in the spring (a.f.) and this is what we came up with:

Ladies used to look and sigh,
Gave pale and wan and sigh,
And weep and moan,
To be alone.

When cruel lovers said, Goodbye,
Not only did they weep and sigh,
Grew sad at heart and sad of eye;
But say the books
They lost their looks
And quietly lay down to die.

Girls now are made of sterner stuff,
Or else we've never been in luff,
And moan and cry,
But most are just not true enough.

And though I know it's close to sin
And quite unfair to ladies' men
To treat them so . . .
And fall in love quite soon again

P. S. Tennyson's long narrative poem about King Arthur, Lancelot and all the others really is a pretty story.

(And pretty fanciful—Ed)

Floyd "Dump" Laferty, 74 years old, former Prestonsburg man, died July 27 at Cambridge, O.

A native of Bull Creek, he lived in Prestonsburg until his and his family moved to Ohio about 10 years ago. His wife, Lydia Murphy Laferty, preceded him in death as did two children, Henry and Emmaline. He was a member of Prestonsburg Methodist Church.

Surviving are one son and three daughters, Curtis Lee Laferty, Mrs. Reba Leep, Mrs. Jean Lane, all of Cambridge, O., and Bessie, of West Virginia. Also surviving are his sister, Mrs. Doll Melon, and a brother, Chief of Police Epp Laferty, both of Prestonsburg, 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Interment was made at Cambridge, O., where Mrs. Laferty was buried.

CANADIAN CONSTRUCTION LIKELY TO RISE 5 P.C.
Ottawa — Government estimates indicate total new construction in Canada during 1957 will reach 6.7 billion dollars, about 5 per cent more than in 1956. The expected rise, contrasting with a gain of 20 per cent in 1956, is largely credited to a slowing down in residential building, which is estimated at 15 per cent below 1956.

Woodmen Meeting Slated at Martin

In keeping with its representative form of government, area meetings for members of Woodmen of the World are being held throughout the country to report results of the Society's recent national convention in New York City.

J. B. Blalock, Louisville, state manager for Eastern Kentucky, announces that a meeting will be held in Martin, at 7:30 p.m., Friday at the Sea Cafe.

Officers and delegates who represented this area at the national convention will give a complete report on its activities and answer questions by members. Their reports will highlight the impressive gains the Society has made since its last biennial convention in 1955.

Tractor-Accidents - Death-Total High

Here's some facts about tractor accidents that should make farm families more cautious about such vehicles' operation, says the Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service:
 Tractor accidents kill about 1,000 farm persons annually, either in work or non-work activities and on or off the farm; about a third of the tractor fatalities occur on highways; and about one-sixth of the tractor fatalities occur to children under 10 years of age.

The continent of North America occupies 8,000,000 square miles, about 16 per cent of the world's land area.

Kentucky Seeks Bidding on More Super-Road Work

The State Highway Department says it plans to ask for bids Aug. 23 on another section of the first superhighway to be built in Kentucky under the 9-1 federal aid program.

Ten bids—with the lowest $1,169,487—recently were received for initial construction of the first stretch of the proposed four-lane superhighway.

The lowest bid by Sam Nally Co., Bardonia, and Nally & Gibson, Springfield, was for grading and drainage of 3.264 miles.

This stretch extends from about a mile south of the Kentucky Turnpike to near the Nolichucky River in Hardin county. A $371,742 bridge is under construction across the river. This is Kentucky's first superhighway construction project under the program in which the federal government puts up $1 for each $1 furnished by the state to cover costs. It includes grade and drainage for the bridge approaches.

The Highway Department says the stretch upon which it plans to open bids Aug. 23 for grade and drainage work extends from the Nolichucky River bridge about four miles south to near Upton.

It hopes to advertise for bids early next year on constructing an interchange near Elizabethtown to connect the new freeway with the toll road and U.S. 31-W.

In the fall of 1956, the department plans to ask for bids to pave the two superhighway sections, interchange and approaches to the bridge.

Eventually the superhighway will run to the Tennessee state line near Franklin, Ky., where it will connect with a Tennessee superhighway leading to Nashville.

MORE WOMEN WORKING

The proportion of working women ages 40 to 64 years, doubled between 1940 and 1956. There were increases also in the 10-year age-groups preceding and following those years. However, in the 20-40 age group, the reverse was true, possibly the result of high marriage rates, early marriages, high birth rates and increased college enrollments.

 The Floyd County Farm Bureau has put into effect its own version of the Calf Club idea. It purchased five Guernsey and five Hereford heifers and a Hereford bull, then gave these to as many Farm Bureau members.

When the heifer given a Farm Bureau member calves the calf is given back to the Bureau, and the Bureau in turn gives the calf to another member. Thus is established a "calf chain" which Bureau officials hope will lead to better cattle on Floyd farms.

Kentucky First In War Against Johnson Grass

Frankfort, Aug. 1 (Sp.) — A Kentucky county is the nation's laboratory in research to control a noxious and menacing weed—Johnson grass.

Franklin county has been designated the "pilot county" in a three-year campaign to subdue the weed by spraying and cultural methods.

In the campaign to prevent Johnson grass from taking over the Blue Grass, the eyes of the nation are on Franklin county, because:

It's the first countywide pilot area in the United States.

It's the first county to fight Johnson grass on a cost-sharing basis with the federal Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Committee.

Kentucky is the first state to take legislative action against Johnson grass. The 1956 General Assembly designated a noxious weed and provided that the State Highway Department combat it along roadways by spraying.

Mancill Vinson, assistant state agricultural commissioner, said Johnson grass encroaches upon the most fertile bottom land and chokes out other growth. It attacks soil best suited to row crops, he said, thus becoming a menace to tobacco and grain.

Mrs. Zan Oberwarth, head of a State Chamber of Commerce Committee that is promoting the campaign, said it's important to mow Johnson grass before it goes to seed. Regrowth are sprayed with chemicals. The final step is cultivation of the ground until fall, when a cover crop is sown.

Participating are the State Agriculture Department, Chamber of Commerce, University of Kentucky experiment station, State Economic Development Department, Farm Bureau Federation and State and local ASC committees.

Forest Planting Areas Need Brush Control Now

Hardwood brush and low value tree species have proved to be a major problem in site preparation for pine forests, says James Newman, Kentucky Agricultural Extension Extension Service forester.

Established brush will shade and deform pine seedlings unless the brush is removed, Newman says.

Chemical spraying is a good control measure in site preparation. It should be done in July and August; this work may save cleaning and weeding work later.

Use the chemical 2, 4, 5-T for woody plants, Newman says. Mix one gallon of the 2, 4, 5-T concentrate (four pounds acid equivalent) to 50 gallons of water. Wet foliage thoroughly when applying the spray, remember, too, that it is difficult to properly spray brush taller than five feet.

Newman noted that chemical control of brush (as a site preparation) is now part of the ASC's approved practices plan, starting this fall. Treated areas must be followed up by spring plantings, of course, to qualify under ASC rules.

Superstitions Untrue

Superstitions about the periodical cicada (called the locust) are untrue, entomologists say; the cicada's sting will not kill a person, nor does the W-shaped marking on the wings mean a war. They do not harm blackberries either, as often reported.

State Detective Enters Academy

Kentucky State Police Detective James E. Combs, of Garrett, will be among enrollees at the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy in Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.

Director of State Police Paul M. Smith said Combs is the 12th member of the agency to attend the three-month course. He added 52 State Police officers have attended the Northwestern University Traffic Institute, 26 have graduated from Southern Police Institute regular courses and seminars and nine completed the Harvard Seminar in Legal Medicine.

Combs, a nine-year state police veteran, is a native of Elmwood and a graduate of Knott county high school. He attended Caney Junior College and the University of Dayton. A 41-year-old former school teacher and a Navy veteran, Combs is married and has one child.

Methodist Hospital Again is Accredited

Ernest Elliott, president of the board of directors of the Methodist hospital announces that he has received a letter from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of hospitals stating that the Pikeville hospital has again been fully accredited by the Joint Commission. This accreditation is the result of an evaluation of the hospital that was conducted on June 18, this year, by Dr. Warren C. Atwood, field representative of the Joint Commission. The Methodist hospital received its first accreditation in 1954.

Chiggers Will Succumb To Two Preparations

Chiggers, the tiny little mites that cause prickly heat, are a hard time every year, can be easily controlled by either of two materials, says J. S. Rodgers, Kentucky Experiment Station entomologist. Vacant lots and home lawns are sources of the pests. The materials are the insecticides chlordane and lindane. Chlordane is applied at the rate of 2 pounds of actual material per acre; lindane at the rate of one-quarter pound per acre. One application of either material is generally good for one to two months, Rodgers says; emulsion concentrates, wettable powders or dust may be used. On short grass, sprays are used at the rate of 25 gallons per acre, or about one gallon for every 1,000 square feet. One pint of the 40-percent chlordane emulsion, or one-quarter pint of the lindane emulsion, will make about six gallons of the spray mixture. Where tall grass or weeds exist, apply 50 gallons per acre.

Apply dusts containing 5 percent chlordane at the rate of 40 pounds per acre, or about one pound per 1,000 square feet; dusts containing 1-percent lindane should be used at 25 pounds per acre, or one pound per 1,000 square feet. Apply wettable powders at the following rates: chlordane, 40-percent wettable powder, at 4 pounds per acre, or 1/4 ounces per 1,000 square feet; lindane, 25-percent wettable powder, at one pound per acre or 3/8 ounces per 1,000 square feet.

Keep children and pets away from treated areas until the spray has dried, do not spray places where livestock are grazing or wild grass, Rodgers said.

Chiggers are the larvae of very small mites, Rodgers noted, and the larvae are troublesome; adult mites do not bite. They attach themselves to the skin, usually at a hair follicle, and inject a fluid into the skin. This is what causes the intense itching; secondary infections are sometimes set up by scratching. The larvae will attack chickens, birds, snakes, turtles and amphibians as well as humans and livestock. Many preparations are on the market to relieve the itching caused by bites, as well as repellents which can be applied to the skin; but control in their habitat, grasses, etc. is usually the best method of eliminating them.

FHA Funds Available For Home Purchasing

Orville M. Howard, state director, Federal Housing Administration, announced this week that funds are now available for financing individual homes through the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program with FHA loans.

This program was established by President Eisenhower to assist persons in small communities in obtaining loans for purchasing of homes. In many communities FHA loans are unavailable through normal channels. Through the VHMCP private lenders agree to make loans in communities under 25,000 in population if the applicant has been unable to obtain FHA financing through the local lending institutions. The property and location must be acceptable to the FHA and the applicant must have a credit standing satisfactory to the FHA and an income sufficient to satisfactorily make the payments.

Persons interested in FHA loans through VHMCP should write Benjamin H. Ernst, executive secretary VHMCP Regional Subcommittee, Room 864, U. S. Courthouse, Nashville 3, Tenn.

The marriage of Miss Charlotte Wallen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Wallen, of Culver, Ind., and Mr. Orville Blessing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Blessing, of near Knox, Ind., was solemnized June 8 at the Burr Oak (Ind.) Church of God.

The Wallen family formerly resided at Garrett and are well-known in the county. The bride was graduated from Culver high school in 1953 and attended Valparaiso University. Mr. Blessing was graduated from Knox high school and served two years in the Army.

Cut-up birds normally cost more per pound than whole. The higher price is due to the extra processing cost.

Whole Birds Last Longer Than Those Cut-Up

Cut-up fryer and parts, like giblets, are more perishable than whole birds and should be used within one day after purchase. Fresh whole fryers may be stored safely two or three days in the coldest part of the refrigerator. To keep them longer, freeze them.

SIXTEEN OF THE REASONS I NEED YOUR HELP IN THE JAILER'S RACE!

These children have each, in their way, been a great blessing to their mother and me. Those who know us need not be told we have been a closely knit family group. To me our children are sixteen of the best reasons in the world for my wanting your support in the November election.

I don't ask you to vote for me solely because I am the father of sixteen children—I ask for your vote, because I believe I am qualified to do the job! Ask those who know me about my character and ability.

What I have said here I say as an humble man. I have no delusions of grandeur. My faith in God, my family, my home, and my good friends are the things I cherish most. I cannot promise to be all things to all men. I can only promise to do my best and to be grateful for whatever you may do for us in this coming election. When I say "us" I mean my wife, Otela Spradlin Smiley, and our children: Ronnie, Donnie, Vyrn Allen, Jackie, James, Jessica, Judy, Wayne, Elizabeth, Nicky, Ricky, Debby, Vee Ann, Martha, Dinah, and Phillip.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered and entered at the June term, 1957, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 26th day of August 1957, at 10:00 o'clock, a.m., same being the first day of the regular term of the Floyd County Court, upon a credit of six months, the following described property, to-wit: Lots No. 24, 25, 59, 88, 89, 91, 92, 93, 98, 99 and 100, situated in the Community of Dvale, Floyd County, Kentucky.

One-half undivided interest of Lottie McGuire, deceased, in lots No. 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 107, and 108 in the community of Dvale, Floyd County, Kentucky. A parcel of land situated on the waters of Bull Creek, Floyd County, Kentucky. Beginning at a westerly direction to a steeping on Rock Lick Fork of Bull Creek; thence running a straight line in a westerly direction to a steeping on Black Oak on top of the hill; thence north with Jack McGuire's boat hit a snag and sank. Every-thing was rescued, but there were some anxious moments on the rapidly-sinking steamer. Lafayette insisted that he be the last evacuated.

The next day, the Paragon, on its way to New Orleans, from Louisville, was hailed. The ship's captain was persuaded to turn back to Louisville. The Lafayette party disembarked some three miles from the old city, May 11, 1918. The Kentucky tour led from Louisville through the following towns in the way to Cincinnati: Shelbyville, Frankfort, Versailles, Lexington, Georgetown, and Covington. From Cincinnati, the party sailed for Pittsburgh. Mayville was a steamer stop. There on May 21, Lafayette had dinner at the party left Kentucky the next day. Matthew Joutet was commissioned by the legislature to paint Lafayette's full-length portrait in the Old State House, Frankfort. Among other members of Lafayette's entourage were the Kentucky Historical Society. The Governor Desha corresponded with the artist and had a letter book, an itemized statement of the cost of the dinner on the Steamer Capital lawn for Lafayette and 700 guests, and an original copy of an invitation to the ball in Frankfort the same day.

State Recalls Services, Visit Of Lafayette

By Charles F. Hinds, Secretary-Treasurer, Kentucky Historical Society

Frankfort, Aug. 7 — The opening day of the Kentucky State Fair, Sept. 6, has been declared Lafayette Day by Gov. A. B. Chandler. This day represents the exact 200th birthday of the Marquis de Lafayette and is the main event in Kentucky of the Lafayette Bicentennial Year.

Every school boy knows the story of Lafayette, how as a very young man, he left his native home of France and joined the Americans in their struggle for independence. What is less generally known is Lafayette's return to the United States in 1824 and his visit to Kentucky in 1825.

He received invitations to visit Kentucky from Governor Desha, Lottie McGuire and others. But Lafayette's itinerary first led him to states neighboring New York and then through Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. From Mobile, the Lafayette party traveled by steamboat to New Orleans, Saint Louis, and Nashville. After leaving Nashville on the way up the Ohio, the boat hit a snag and sank. Everything was rescued, but there were some anxious moments on the rapidly-sinking steamer. Lafayette insisted that he be the last evacuated.

The next day, the Paragon, on its way to New Orleans, from Louisville, was hailed. The ship's captain was persuaded to turn back to Louisville. The Lafayette party disembarked some three miles from the old city, May 11, 1918. The Kentucky tour led from Louisville through the following towns in the way to Cincinnati: Shelbyville, Frankfort, Versailles, Lexington, Georgetown, and Covington. Distress Nurses Plan Help on Polio Fight

District 11 of the Kentucky State Association of Registered Nurses met at the Williamson Memorial Medical Center, South Williamson, Ky., July 11, to discuss the polio immunization program.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a social hour followed. The September meeting will be held in Paintsville.

Buddies, Not Sweeties, Can Train Together

Two, three, four or even five buddies can walk into a Marine recruiting office and be given assurance they'll all be scheduled to remain together throughout the initial phases of their training.

S. Sgt. Floyd L. King of the Marine Corps recruiting sub-station at Pikeville, announced that now has the authority to guarantee that close friends who enlist together will be assigned to the same "boot camp" platoon. The Buddy System applies even after graduation from recruit training at Parris Island, S. C. The Buddies go together to Camp Lejeune, N. C., for their advanced individual combat training, still belonging to one platoon.

Sergeant King says the new idea is paying off three-fold. The guarantee of recruit and infantry training together becomes null and void in a few circumstances. Each enlistee of a buddy group is given fair warning that disciplinary action, hospitalization, training set-backs, discharge or other similar action can cause individuals to leave the originally assigned platoon.

Asked if girls could get the same guarantee by joining the Marine Corps with their friends, the local recruiter answered in the affirmative but immediately qualified it with, "Men will train in men platoons and girls in Women Marine platoons. Should a man enlist his girlfriend? We can guarantee, only that they'll train on the same island together—Parris Island!"

Keeneland Race Course, Lexington, was patterned after the great English race courses where the chief considerations were the sport of racing and the improvement of thoroughbred stock.

Knott Has Highest College Enrollment

Statistics in a report prepared by the Kentucky Council on Public Higher Education show that of the state's 22,578 graduates from high school in 1956, about 31 percent, or 7,079, entered college.

The report was compiled from information gathered by the State Department of Education. The report showed 19,600 graduates were from public schools and 2,974 of those enrolling in college were also from public schools. Approximately 40 percent of private and parochial high school graduates and 30 percent of high school graduates enrolled in college.

Knott county had the highest college enrollment of 53 percent. Fayette county sent 31 percent of its graduates to college and Jefferson county ranked 8th with 43 percent. Boone county had the smallest number, or 4 percent, going to college. There were 24 counties in which less than 20 percent of the high school graduates went to college.

Statistics indicated that college enrollment appeared to be stimulated by the presence of an institution of higher learning in the county. At least one college or junior college is located in all but two of the counties in which 40 percent or more of the high school graduates went to college.

Those who attended were Mrs. Clara Allen, Glenda Blackburn, Mrs. Glenn Blackburn, Mrs. Carrie A. Crum, Mrs. E. P. Davis, Mrs. Jesse Elliott, Mrs. Betty Garnett, Mrs. Millard Gibson, Mrs. Edward Lykins, Mrs. Verbal Meek and Mrs. Nora Belle Stone.

Horse Cave Once Corral

Horse Cave in Hart county was named, according to local legends, because Cherokee Indians used one of the nearby caves as a corral for stolen horses. Another version of the story is the town got its name when a horse fell into a cave.

MARTIN WINS DIST. CROWN

Floyd Little Leagueers Edge Out Caldwellburg For Place in Ky. Meet

Martin scored four runs in the bottom of the last inning July 31 to edge Caldwellburg 6-3, for the district Little League baseball championship.

Caldwellburg surged ahead in the second inning as they put together four hits, two walks and a hit batsman for six markers.

Martin came back in the bottom of the second frame to make the score 6-4 when Rowland and Maggard belted home runs.

Two singles and three Caldwellburg errors gave Martin another run in the fourth and they tallied two more markers in the fifth as Taylor singled and Rowland homered.

A two-run homer by Bates after Hogg had singled in the sixth gave Caldwellburg an 8-5 margin and seemed to insure the win.

Martin was not to be outdone, however, as Hampton and Lewis opened the last of the sixth with singles, advanced on errors and scored his home run. Bates' consecutive hits by Rowland and Patton then gave Martin the deciding marker.

Hogg of Caldwellburg led all batters for the day as he rapped out a double and three singles in four times at bat. Bates also had two safeties for the losers.

Rowland paced Martin with two home runs and a single in four trips. Tallent, Patton, Maggard and Lewis each had two hits for the winners.

Tallent was the winning hurler and Bates was dealt the defeat.

Martin took a first round win July 30 to advance to the finals of the district Little League tournament. They will clash at 9:30 today at the American Little League park.

Martin outlasted Hyden, 4-1, in a real pitching duel.

Rowland of Martin gave up three hits in getting the win over Hyden, Joseph, the leading hurler, permitted only six safeties.

The only run off Rowland came in the fifth when McGregor singled with a double and scored on three successive bases on balls.

Martin turned twice in the second and twice in the sixth. Hampton of Martin was the only player to get more than one hit in the game.

P'BURG MERCHANTS WIN IN LAST WEEK'S GAMES

Junior May, Prestonsburg first baseman, drove in the winning run July 27 at Wheelwright with a double edged at Caldwellburg's baseball team, 6-5.

May's clout came after a run-producing single by Ellis and a walk to Blackburn, Ellis, Prestonsburg Merchant catcher, was the big gun in the Merchant at-bat in spraying out four hits, one a sharp triple.

Sharp pitching of Prestonsburg's Nelson but loose fielding efforts by his team-mates produced five runs by Drift. In the third inning three errors, one hit, two walks and a grounder resulted in the Drift markers.

Eleven Drift batters went out by the straight route at the hands of Nelson who allowed only two hits, both singles.

In the doubleheader Sunday at Drift against the All-Star club, Prestonsburg Merchants swept both games, 9 to 0, and 5 to 1.

Don Sullivan gave up six hits and one run in going the route. Pitcher Sullivan was involved in the scoring as Wendell Childers singled, Sullivan singled, second baseman Petovich and shortstop Paul Hughes added singles, with Blackburn coaxing a walk and Wilcox bringing in the last of the three runs.

Prestonsburg batters found the hitting range in the first game in knocking out sixteen hits in scoring nine runs. Gene Petovich, Paul Hughes, and Adrian Blackburn led the attack with three hits each.

Righthander Adrian Blackburn pitched a shutout the first game besides contributing to the hitting attack. Sullivan allowed only two base-on-balls, and was helped out by the errorless play of his team-mates.

OSBORNE WITHDRAWS

Pat Oep's Charlie Osborne has withdrawn from Saturday's East-West high school all-star basketball game in Lexington, which leaves the 18th region without a representative in the annual classic.

Selection to play in this event is a high honor for any athlete and many of Kentucky's fine athletes eye the prospect of playing from the time they enter school.

No doubt Osborne is a good basketball player, and possibly has a good reason for not playing, but a more prompt refusal to play would have given some other youth a chance of a lifetime. If Osborne's announcement had been made a month or so ago.

SPORTS AFIELD

Most lakes are full of lost fishing hotspots. An angler will locate an area where the fish will bite within certain regularity. However, when he returns the next season this fish mine eludes him. Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, has a pet trick that assures him of always returning to good fishing. The less experienced anglers may wonder why going back to a spot on the water is difficult. To him, it's very simple; he'll anchor an empty can or tin there, which, next time he's out, he can see a long way off. But, this is precisely the wrong thing to do, for the place will produce less and less fish unless he is able to keep it his secret. Of course there's another way. An angler can always place his little buoy about, say, 100 feet east of his good place. But any experienced angler will fish all around such a mark, finally locating the hot-spot.

The only way is to leave no mark at all on the water. Landmarks are the answer. But don't (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

Summer Lamb Handling Discussed by Miller

Any lambs which were not ready for market by July 15 should have been weaned, treated for internal parasites and turned on the cleanest pasture available, says R. C. Miller, Kentucky Agricultural Extension Service sheep specialist.

Such lambs will make only slow gains in the hot part of the summer, he says, but can be finished at small costs on pasture in the fall after nights cool off, provided the lambs are kept healthy.

Running lambs in cornfields after the corn reaches the tassel stage—has become more popular in Kentucky. Lambs apparently do no damage to growing corn, though occasionally the pull off a lower leaf or two; they eat grasses and weeds in cornfields. Pasturing them thus is also a good way to break up the parasite cycle; the cornfield is free of parasites the sheep might pick up, since the field has been plowed and has not had sheep on it for months. Keep a phenothiazine-salt mixture available to these lambs, though.

Scientists have isolated and kept alive basic particles of cells which control the breathing process in fruits and vegetables, says the USDA.

are fooled by the "Go about 50 yards directly out from the white beach house" type of direction. This is entirely useless except as a rough basis from which to begin a search. It will be impossible to locate a central line out from the house, and nobody can correctly estimate distances on water.

Here is the trick. There is but one accurate way of returning to the spot; it's practically identical to what a surveyor would use, a form of triangulation. Find two conspicuous objects on shore, one some distance behind the other and directly in line with it from where you are. As nearly as right angles to those as possible, find two more objects similarly in line. That's all! Anytime you get both pairs of marks lined up, you must be precisely in the spot you are now. They can't possibly line up anywhere else.

ATTENTION VETERANS

Veterans can't draw VA pensions in jail after they've been there 60 days. So says Director R. R. Thomas of the Kentucky Disabled Ex-Service Men's Board.

The law that cancels pensions of jailed veterans does not apply to prison periods of less than 60 days or to imprisonments before actual conviction, Thomas said. He added that eligible children or the wife of a veteran who has forfeited his pension under this law may receive the pension to prevent hardship.

PAINTSVILLE SCHOOL NEEDS CITED BY DR. ROBT. MARTIN

The campus of Mayo State Vocational School at Paintsville must be expanded from its present eight acres and additional buildings constructed to accommodate the growing student body, Dr. Robert R. Martin said in an address at Paintsville last Friday.

The state superintendent of public instruction spoke at a joint luncheon meeting of the Paintsville Rotary and Kiwanis clubs in which he dedicated this fall. Declaring that Mayo School is "a model for the rest of the state," Dr. Martin said that its buildings are valued at more than $1,000,000, that it has an average of 600 students and 35 faculty members. The school has a waiting list as large as its enrollment, he added.

Vocational training is becoming more and more important to keep pace with Kentucky's rapid industrial growth, he said.

Commenting on Kentucky's general educational program, the state superintendent said that many improvements have been made during the past year, although teachers' salaries still are low. He said that many trained teachers continue to leave Kentucky.

For the first time, he said, all Kentucky public schools have nine-month terms, and there are 1,157 more teachers employed in the state than there were a year ago.

Music and art have been added to curriculums he continued, and counseling provisions have been made. A better supervising program has been established, he said.

Four Floyd Housewives Receive Mayo Diplomas

Graduation exercises marking the close of the 1956-57 session of Mayo State Vocational School were held July 30 at 1:30 p.m. in the Mayo Memorial Church, Paintsville.

Among the 94 students receiving degrees were Mrs. Bill Mays and Mrs. Frank Damron, of Wheelwright; Mrs. Elmer Caudill, of Bensville; and Mrs. Ralph Moore, of Price, Ky.

These women traveled more than a hundred miles a day to attend 4 1/2 months of classroom study at Mayo School of Nursing. Completing class work there, they were transferred to the Methodist hospital in Pikeville, where they have received eight months of clinical training which qualifies them to practice as graduate practical nurses throughout Kentucky. They are also eligible to take the Kentucky Nurse's State Board examination, to become licensed practical nurses. The examination will be held Nov. 7 in Louisville.

DRIVES HARD BARGAIN
Washington—Renewing a driver's license in the District of Columbia is going to get tougher if you are still driving at 75.

To get a permit renewed at that age will mean an extensive examination, an eye test, a written test on rules of the road, and a doctor's certificate that you are physically able to drive.
