DRIVE SAFELY

Deceleration Increases
Centrifugal Force

Here is another important but little known principle of physics which costs many lives every year. Simply stated it means that the normal outward pulling force of a car going around a curve is increased by application of the brakes. On a curve, the frictional resistance of the tires is partly nullified by the application of brakes!

In other words, when you are rounding a curve and have a feeling that you are about to skid or leave the road, use the accelerator and the steering wheel, not the brake.

If you put on the brakes on a curve, you increase the force which causes skidding and overturning; if you keep under power you decrease this force. Especially is this true on a slippery pavement.

Whenever you approach a curve, slow down before you enter it, and proceed around it under power. Eleven per cent of traffic deaths occur on curves. Especially if your front wheels begin to skid, rather than out of the skid. If you cut your wheels against a skid, you will probably overturn.

UNUSUAL ADVICE

It isn't surprising to me that nobody has in all my years of offering counsel on this subject and that asked me to advise them on how to locate a paying gas or oil well. The fact of the matter is, as intimates may have suspected, I know nothing whatsoever about such science, guesswork or pure luck. But I have been reading up on the subject and am now invited to do so or not — presenting my findings here in part.

There is the Divining Rod Method which worked pretty well in Pennsylvania for a time. A Y-shaped twig, preferably of witch-hazel, and a "dowsing" expert running over the landscape a la Gracioso Marx found oil, water, lost fish-hooks and just about everything else in the early days of drilling for oil. These days, if you bring in a dowsing expert to locate your gas well and if he shows up without his witch-hazel twig, boot him off the premises — he's a lightning rod salesman. Then there was Spiritualism. One fine Spring day at the close of the Civil War, we are told, a certain Mr. Abrams sailed from his gig across a fence, out into a meadow and there passed out cold. They said he was in a trance, and he himself was quoted later as saying he had been in conference with his spirit guide, a wise Indian lass named Lahlah. Anyway Abrams hit oil at 850 feet, exactly where Lahlah had said he would. This system was right popular until word got around that Lahlah was a hawk-nosed Indian chief. Thereafter prospectors strayed into Creeksville and other methuens.

Personally, if I were given the task of picking a location for drilling for gas I would use the Don't - Trust - My - Judgment - Friends-and-Neighbors method. That method consists of this simple procedure:

I would study the landscape, dream about it, try out the witch-hazel sprig, consult a medium if one could be found, pick the spot—and then tell the drillers to go at least a hundred yards away in any direction before they begin work.

STUART SAYS MORE HIGH SCHOOL GRADS NOW PLANNING FOR COLLEGE TRAINING

By Jesse Stuart
(In The Courier-Journal)

The most interesting recent news item to parents and teachers reported Knott county leading all (Kentucky) counties last year in percentage of high-school graduates going to college. Kentucky has 120 counties and yet Knott county, with 386 square miles of rugged terrain and more than 20,000 inhabitants, sent 52 per cent of her high-school graduates to college last year. Running Knott county a close second with 51 per cent was Fayette county, in the heart of the Bluegrass and home of this state's educational center. The state's average was 31 per cent.

Then isn't it true that the first Bookmobile in the state of Kentucky was operated in Knott county long before Harry Schaefer, Mary Bingham, Georgia Blazer and Company put them in every county in the state? Where this Knott county Bookmobile couldn't operate, didn't Jimmie Still carry books to pupils on his back? How much of this basic foundation of education can be accredited to Hindman Settlement School, which has inspired youth to go to Caney, Berea, Union, Eastern, Lindsey Wilson and Lincoln Memorial?

The Bluegrass area is filled with the finest colleges of the land. So is Louisville. Counties of Western Kentucky have excellent farm land and outstanding high schools and colleges. Why couldn't one of these counties have sent the highest number to college?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A PLEA FOR COOPERATION

Editor, The Times:

It is good to know that the best side of Floyd county history will now come alive, for the Floyd County Historical Society means just that. The worthwhile aspects of our heritage will be disclosed, spotlighted and preserved for posterity. This is to be possible because of the prolonged work of a few interested citizens, headed by some of the following: Chalmers Frazer, Mrs. Charlotte Martin, Mrs. Winnie S. Johns, and Henry Sealf, the county's own historian. For more than a year a few men and women have been putting this work, which can ultimately do for the section what similar groups have done to put the Great Smokies in Tennessee on the tourist map to stay. They can do this if others will cooperate and boot to build instead of griping, as sometimes happens.

Every movement must have a central figure. The School for Exceptional Children in Martin illustrates this. For years it was only a dream, as one little mother, whose own child was handicapped, kept going the rounds, trying to interest others who today are doing their part by carrying on what started in such a small way.

The PCHS, or Eastern Kentucky Historical Society, can, with support of tourists to this area. The revival of a few years bring thousands of either the Jenny Wiley or the Passion Pageant can bring thousands annually, just as numbers flock to Berea to see Wilderness Road. But this is impossible as long local individuals remain divided in sentiment over minor problems pertaining to such events.

During the Civil War the South learned too late that the divided opinion of its own citizens concerning nearly every separate issue or phase of both secession and how to prosecute the war, cost it a heavy price. Floyd county has everything necessary to equal or surpass any county in the state if her citizens will forget trivial differences and cooperate to the fullest.

With Dewey Lake and the Breaks Park, tourist trade should reach an all-time high. These self-sacrificing, hard-working leaders are doing their best for the interests of every citizen, not for themselves. The least we can do is to help them and hope for greater growth and success.

DISCUSSES "DRAG" RACING
EDITOR, THE TIMES:

I have just been reading the safety article in last week's Times, and there is a serious matter that should be brought to the public's attention.

Do officials know of the racing that goes on, on Ky. 48 between Allen and Martin or do they just choose to ignore it? These "drag" races take place in the small hours of the morning on Fridays and Saturdays nights and may be other nights. Where are the State Police at a time and place like this?

Are you going to sit around and say or do nothing until some innocent person or persons are killed?

I have children in the service and away working who travel this road often, and oft-times they are after midnight getting home, and suppose someone is to take ill suddenly and has to go to the hospital.

Since taxpayers' money builds and keep up roads, is it wrong to want to feel safe when we are on our highways?

Since the Kivansians are sponsoring the Safety Noises, why don't they look into this racing and other law violations on the straightaway at Conley's Drive-In, and see if something can't be done? Why not do something now before someone is killed?

Please, print this, as it is high time the citizens were awakened.

A MOTHER

Memory Study Apparent Failure
Granite, Okla. — Mrs. Charles Rodolph decided to improve her memory and checked out two library books on memory training. Three weeks later she got a notice from the library—she had forgotten to return the books.

Why are these young Knott countians people of determination and integrity? Why are they young Americans with dreams? Why are they in some respects keeping pace with perhaps forging ahead of the progress of young people from other areas? If they were making big money, they probably (at least many of them) would prefer to leave school, own cars.

Maybe the roads are narrow and winding in Knott county where I read the families were the largest in this nation. Let them be large! They are producing good, industrious future leaders of America. I read where someone suggested pensions for these large families! No, thank you! Why?

Have you ever taught school? If you have, have you taught young people from large families? For the most part, they are unselfish group. They've had the first lesson in American democracy: how to get along with others.

They wear each other's clothes, learn to give and take and, above all, they know what it is to all.

Rebecca Fraley Delong, 72, sister of Maud Fraley Foley, of Prestonsburg, passed away Aug. 11 at her home in Debord, Ky., after an illness of one year.

Mrs. Delong was married to J. A. Delong March 13, 1912. She was the daughter of T. J. Fraley and Lucinda Meadows Fraley. She had been a member of the United Baptist Church over 50 years.

Surviving her are two sons, County Delong, Payne, Ohio, and Harkins Delong, of Homer, Michigan, and two daughters, Lorraine Simmons, Fort Lauderdale, Florida and Mildred Stone, Debord, Ky. One brother and four sisters also survive: Jessie Delong Fraley, Tomahawk, Ky.; Maud Fraley Foley, Prestonsburg; Mrs. Lucy Cline, Cadet, Ky.; Mrs. Mary Delong, Akron, O.; and Mrs. Martha Bivens, Mare Creek.

QUESTIONS JUDGE STUMBO SHOULD ANSWER FOR THE PEOPLE

- Why was a county police force organized?
- What was the need?
- By whom was it organized? (Who appoints them?)
- How long has it been organized?
- How many have been appointed and who are they?
- What have they accomplished?
- How are they paid, or do they work and bear their own expenses free of charge to the County?

K. R. S. 70.550 (8)—Any officer who by any indirection collects or attempts to collect more for his services than is allowed by law, shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor and fined not less than $50 nor more than $200, and his conviction shall be prima facie evidence of his guilt in a proceeding to remove him from office.

K. R. S. 70.550 — No fees shall be allowed or paid to said officers or employees (of the County Police Force).

K. R. S. 70.560 — The Fiscal Court shall, by order, fix the amount of the salary of all appointees, but no fees or other compensation shall be paid or allowed to any of the officers or members of said County Police Force.

K. R. S. 70.570 — The members of said County Police Force shall not have power to serve subpoenas, summonses, and notices in civil cases.

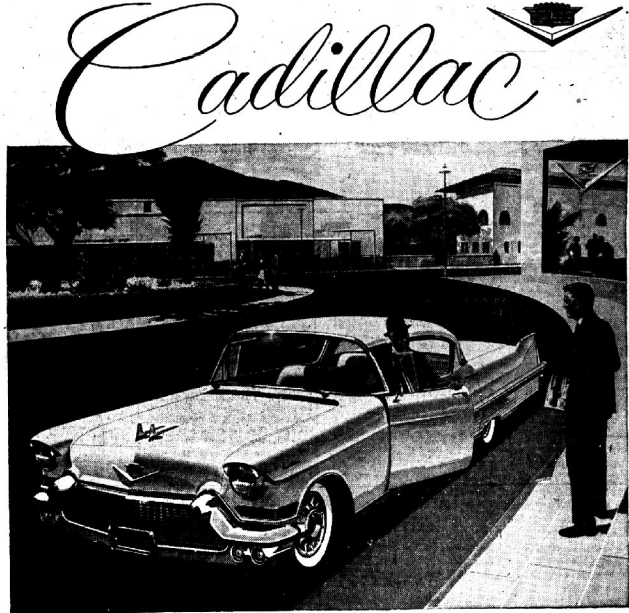

Now, this being true (who pays them and from where?)

If the administrative duties of our Sheriff department could not be carried out by our department—then why were the people not told by public proclamation.

In my opinion our County Judge has not only misled and deceived the public but also the officers who work under him, and has aroused the curiosity of the voters.

If the fiscal court will not by order set a salary as the law requires them to do (K. R. S.) and if the County Police Officers are prohibited by law from receiving any fees or serving any civil papers, then the public has the undoubted right to require our County Judge to publicly disclose to the voters from what public funds they are being paid and if none then why their super-patriotism all of a sudden by working for nothing. Any candidate for County Judge who will not answer these questions is not worthy of your confidence or your vote.

Keeping Current... For Economy!

The title, the keys and the car are his—and he's starting out on his first journey at the wheel. Of course, there's not much doubt as to why he decided to purchase a new Cadillac.

Like everyone else who selects the "car of cars," he did it to "keep current," so to speak, on all of Cadillac's new miracles of performance and beauty and comfort.

But coming to Cadillac, as he did, at this particular time of the year, we also suspect that he was inspired by the added motive of practicality.

For in addition to the normal Cadillac economies of modest purchase price, low operating cost and high resale value—Cadillac dealers are, at this time, seasonally prepared to make Cadillac ownership even more attractive than ever.

Because of the demand for used cars and because of increased production of the Cadillac car itself, the odds are that this gentleman received both a generous allowance on his previous car and prompt delivery of his new Cadillac.

Have you considered how wonderful it would be to step into a Cadillac of your own? Then, you should pay your dealer a visit—spend an hour on the highway in the luxury of Fleetwood coachcraft—and get the facts for yourself.

You'll agree, we know, that the car is Cadillac—and the time is now!

Not for the Sake of Argument

THE TIMES does not want to precipitate an argument or a row with our Pike county neighbors and their Virginia friends, but we insist that the much-publicized attraction of the Breaks of Big Sandy for the tourist does not even approach in pulling power that of Dewey Lake.

We mention this fact not to belittle the Breaks but in an attempt to place things in their proper perspective and to keep official Frankfort from looking too high in the hills for their scenic spots.

There is a wild beauty about the Breaks, it is true. You get a touch of the primitive there. We're willing to go along even with that colorful phraseology by which it is likened to the Grand Canyon. Truth is, we are all for the Breaks and for the Breaks Park.

But we're just a little bit tired of sitting by and letting state officials and others of influence grow ecstatic over the grandeur of the Breaks when we know that more people will visit Dewey Lake and find more beauty and relaxation there than at these storied Breaks. Water has a peculiar fascination to the human being, and we have plenty of it at Dewey. Add the expanse of blue sky, give people the outdoors of woods and wind and sun, and some ribbon-water, a place to swim, to boat, to fish, picnic, camp, laze in the sun—and what chance has a mere gorge and woodland, no matter how majestic, against all this? And Dewey has all these.

Then may we suggest, fellows, that we all get realistic about this matter of parks? Let's rely on the facts and not on publicity or sentiment or legend. We want a park at the Breaks. But we want a park also at Dewey Lake—an honest-to-goodness state park, not talk or sets of plans, master, working or otherwise. And we want the place that has the greatest possibilities, the highest potential benefit for the greatest number of people, to get the most attention and the most money.

Tell us, pray, when the Breaks of Big Sandy ever on one day attracted sixteen thousand people! But there we go inciting another argument.

Who Would Use the "Drag Strip"?

It has been suggested locally that a "drag strip" be constructed as a move toward taking youngsters with a mania for speed off the highways where they endanger the lives of others as well as their own.

In support of such a project it is pointed out that off-the-highway strips for impromptu auto racing such as this have been very helpful elsewhere. The idea is, form a club, have its members governed by strict rules as to their behavior as drivers on the highways, and give the whole undertaking official supervision.

"Drag" racing on the highways—on the streets of Prestonburg, one report says—has caused much concern in recent weeks. Only by the greatest good fortune have those who thus raced escaped serious injury or death. They have been equally fortunate in not causing the deaths of innocent motorists. As we understand "drag" racing, two automobiles line up, side by side, on the highway, then take off. On a two-lane road this leaves a minimum of room for the unsuspecting driver who may drive meeting them.

Something must be done, all are agreed. Either drag racing must stop or it must be taken off the highways.

What we want to know before we go any farther is this: If a drag strip is provided for the younger set, has anybody any assurance that older "speed kings" will not move in and appropriate the strip to themselves?

FOUR-MILE ROUTE may not be made until next week. The Floyd delegation expressed to state officials their concern upon learning that Dewey Lake State Park is slated to receive only $50,000, or thereabouts, from the bond issue to be offered for sale. They pointed to the huge number of people who visit the lake—of the 18,000 gathered there July 4 and of hundreds camping in the area overnight at that holiday time—and that this great show of interest has been evinced with little or no development of the area as a park.

Other improvements were promised the Floyd counties by the state officials. One of these is the blacktopping of the road through the Stratton Branch recreation area to allow dust in the picnic grounds and play areas. Another is the placing of at least 1,000 feet of guard-rail along the road to the recreation area. Such protection already has been afforded on the road leading past the boat dock and on to the boat-launching site at the mouth of Brandy Keg Cove. It was explained that the state had delayed installation of guard-rails on the road to Stratton Branch because it had hoped first to widen the route, but the decision was made last week to give all possible protection now and await improvement of the road itself.

Joe Wedding, of Prestonsburg, said recently he had been urging guard-rail construction and that he had procured an estimate on the cost of this protecting the road from Stratton Branch back to the junction near the boat dock. Cost of the work, he said, was estimated at $7,000.

Polio Foundation To Conduct Floyd Survey During August

A countryside survey to discover the current rehabilitation needs of all post-polio patients will be conducted this month by the Floyd County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Ray Howard, chapter chairman, announced this week.

The local survey is part of a nationwide project by the National Foundation to compile a roster of polio cases of all ages and degrees of disability, regardless of date of onset. The canvass here is to be completed by Sept. 1.

"Modern medicine has made impressive strides in developing new rehabilitation techniques in recent years," Mr. Howard said. "Pilot surveys already taken show that there are thousands of polio-handicapped in the United States who have not had an opportunity for medical evaluation to determine if they might benefit from these new techniques."

"Some of the techniques employed today for those disabled by polio

Music-Colvin Motor Co., Gets Edsel Dealership; Showing Set September 4

The Edsel Division of the Ford Motor Company has announced that the Music-Colvin Motor Co., Inc., Prestonsburg, is one of its first dealership appointments.

Ed Music and Bert Colvin, officials of the local motor firm, said the Edsel, newest of the nation's automobiles, will be displayed here for the first time, Sept. 4.

"We've both sold cars for years," Mr. Music said, "but we've never been as excited about any car as about the Edsel. That's why we became the Edsel dealer and why we're setting up a brand-new dealership and having men trained to give the public the best service possible."

Music & Colvin already have had mechanics at Columbus, O., receiving factory service training. The new Edsel dealership has rented the G. B. Hughes building on South Lake Drive for displaying and servicing the car, and has stocked a complete parts department.

A Personal Message To My Friends And Relatives of Floyd County:

My friend Dick Spurlock, is the Republican nominee for Circuit Court Clerk of Floyd County and I take this means to ask each and every one of you for your help and vote in the November 5th election. In addition to being a personal friend of mine, Dick is closely related to me.

I note in some of Dick's opponent's literature that he is appealing to your sympathy and expects to get your vote from that standpoint, but I am reliably informed that Mr. Stephens is drawing Social Security and his wife is employed by one of the department stores in Prestonsburg, besides owning an interest in the store.

I married Mattie Stephenson, who is a daughter of Jim Stephenson, now deceased. Her grandfather was Jeff Auxier, who is now deceased, and I am also related by blood and marriage to the following: Sammons, Adkins, Clarks, Conns, Campbells, Crafts, Collins, Thornsberrys, Stumblus, Wilcoxe, Auxiers, Spradlins, Stephensons, Lafertys, Grays, Derosettes, Deckers, Smiths, Bishops, Harpe, Musics, Cooleys, Hills, Boldens, Hydens, Fords, and Wells.

I am appealing especially to my relatives to support Dick Spurlock in this race. I know him to be honest, sober and trustworthy and I believe that he would make you a good Clerk, and I guarantee that you would not be sorry, and I would appreciate it very much.

I am making a personal canvass and expect to see many of you, in addition to other relatives and friends, and I can; but in case I do not get to see you, PLEASE help me elect my friend to this office.

REV. HAROLD SAMMONS

JUDGE RULES IN BANK CASE

Federal Judge Swinford Holds Board of Education Legally Named Depository

U. S. District Judge Mac Swinford has handed down an opinion holding that the Floyd County Board of Education was within its rights in designating The Bank Josephine here as depository of its funds.

The Board's action was attacked in a federal court suit filed by The First National Bank here which had been the depository and which claimed it did not have an opportunity to bid for the place again. Defendants—the Board of Education and the Bank Josephine—claimed the bid of the First National Bank because it was a member of the Federal Reserve System and insured with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and was, therefore, not permitted to pay interest on demand deposits.

Judge Swinford held that neither of the banks is permitted under federal deposit insurance law to pay interest on demand deposits. The First National, the opinion recites, however, had intended to propose to place part of the Board's funds on checking account and a part on time deposit or "time certificate of deposit account" waiving the customary 30-day withdrawal notice.

The Bank Josephine denied plaintiff's claim that its designation as depository was a gratuity, pointing out that it offered certain benefits to the Board, some of which were:

A loan to the Board in the amount of $25,000 without interest; payment of $625 premium on the treasurer's bond, and the deposit of $400,000 in government bonds in escrow to secure its faithful performance of duty as depository.

Judge Swinford saw no violation in the course proposed or followed by either bank, and concluded that "The Board of Education is under no statutory duty to choose one depository over another but is left to the exercise of its own judgment as to the security of public funds. If in preserving these funds it can obtain interest on the funds or other benefits, it has not only the privilege but the obligation to do so."

Prestonsburg's Johnny Thompson scraps for possession of ball in Canal Zone game.

Johnny Thompson, former Prestonsburg athlete now in the armed services studying in a Guided Missile School at Fort Amador in the Canal Zone, has been very successful with another kind of missile on a basketball floor.

He has been bombarding the hoop for a 16-point average per game and recently was the leading scorer in the armed forces league in that zone although much of his competition comes from topflight collegiate professional players.

Johnny's father, Thomas B. Thompson, of Prestonsburg, said that Johnny has related in his letters that every game is televised. He has said, Thompson tells us, that the fans there are wonderful. "Even when we make a mistake the fans cheer us." Johnny told the fans in this area remember

Zeb Ousley for Magistrate To The Voters of Magisterial District No. 2 I am your Democratic nominee for Magistrate and am deeply indebted to the good people of my district for this honor. I was born and raised a poor boy just as my opponent was. In fact he and his family are my good neighbors and blood relation. As to my belief about roads, just ask any one who knows me. I am now and have always been a great believer in good roads. We all know that roads need building and improving and I as your magistrate will do everything I possibly can for roads in our district. It has been charged that I will have someone else to keep my books. May I take this opportunity of assuring every voter in our district that I am fully capable of keeping the books of this office and that I personally will take care of the book work of the Magistrate's office. 'HALT ACCIDENTS, SAVE LIVES' SAFETY CAMPAIGN THEME

The seventh annual "Remember September — No Accident" campaign conducted throughout the Tri-State coal mining areas of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia will have the full support of organized labor, mine operators, state and federal agencies and insurance underwriters, it was announced this week by the campaign coordinator, James H. Phelan, chief of the Kentucky department of mines and minerals. The theme of the 1957 campaign, "Halt Accidents, Save Lives", is designed to emphasize as forcibly as possible the vital importance of obeying the rules of safety, not only in the mines, but on any job on the highway, in the home, at school and at play. The campaign has the enthusiastic support of Charles Ferguson, safety director of the United Mine Workers of America and chairman of the coal mine section of the National Safety Council. Ferguson, who has long been a militant leader in the crusade for mine safety, recently initiated a year-long campaign for the prevention of coal mine roof fall accidents, the number one killer in the nation's mines. Also endorsing the September program are Earl J. Anker, director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines and James Westfield, the bureau's assistant director of health and safety. Other cooperators include the departments of mines and minerals of the three states and 11 mine institutes throughout the area. Among these are the Big Sandy-Elkhorn, Harlan, Kentucky River and the Pon d Creek-Tug River Institutes. "This year I hope we can demonstrate that the coal mining industry in the tri-state area can operate for a full calendar month without a single fatality," said Ferguson. "The campaign, which began in September, can set a pattern for the year ahead. I believe it can be the best if all of us concentrate on this goal."

Test Livestock Before Buying, Farmers Warned

Frankfort, Aug. 12 (Spl.) — Acting State Veterinarian Dr. Robert H. Singer warned farmers against risking financial loss by failing to require all cattle be tested for brucellosis prior to being bought or sold at stockyards and public sales for return to the farm.

Dr. Singer said reports had reached his office here that some stockyards were not blood testing cattle before they went into the sales ring. Often the purchaser would buy a cow or bull only to find that it was brucellosis infected. In such cases, the animal must be sent to immediate slaughter, often at prices considerably lower than was paid for the animal an hour or so earlier.

The State Veterinarian said pre-sale testing also was advantageous to the seller because the prospective purchaser could be knowing the animal in question was a healthy one. He added that some yard operators had reported to him that the selling price of pre-tested animals ran $15-$25 higher than for one that had not been tested.

This reduction requiring testing of cattle being returned to the farm has been in effect since July 1, Dr. Singer said.

During the first month, 4,276 cattle were blood tested to be returned to the farm. Of this number, 74 percent either were branded reactors or were designed "suspect." Neither reactor suspects may be returned to the farm and must be sold for slaughter immediately, the official declared.

Farm wage rates in April, 1957 were about 4 per cent above that of 1955.

"AWAY ALL BOATS"

A communique from the Historical Society tells us the House Armed Services committee has voted to let the Navy scrap the battleship Kentucky. The ship was 73 per cent complete when construction was suspended in 1924. A total of $55,000,000 has been spent on her. In 1909 the first battleship Kentucky was commissioned and in 1907 she was named for the famous Great West Fleet which made a trip around the world. She was placed out of commission in 1920 and scrapped in 1923. A silver service from the first Kentucky is on display in the Old State Capitol, home of the Navy Department. The silver was purchased by the citizens of Kentucky and presented to the ship at Old Point Comfort, Va., in 1900.

ATTENTION VACATIONERS

In its continuing program to keep the public aware of Kentucky's vacation and recreational attractions, the Department of Public Relations and the Division of State Parks, are utilizing an opportunity by maintaining displays at Louisville's Standiford Field. It is estimated more than 100,000 air travelers will see these displays in 1957. An interesting sidelight: each person spends an average of 21 minutes waiting for plane arrivals and 20 minutes waiting for departures.

IT'S THE TRUTH

From the Woodford Sun, Versailles comes an interesting story of the Kentucky Long Rifle.

"A single discovery by an unknown Pennsylvanian turned an ordinary rifle into one of the world's truly great weapons—the Kentucky Long Rifle. The rifle was thought to have originated in Pennsylvania around 1728. Around the 1730's someone in that State got the idea of wrapping the bullet in deerskin prior to firing it. This killed the space between the bullet and the walls of the barrel, thus the full force of the load was used to power the drive of the missile. The rifle became a powerful, accurate and deadly weapon. The early scout hunters and explorers who came over the mountains into Kentucky had two great assets; an undying spirit and a superb weapon. A combination hard to beat."

SIXTEEN OF THE REASONS I NEED YOUR HELP IN THE JAILER'S RACE!

These children have each, in their way, been a great blessing to their mother and me. Those who know us need not be told we have been a closely knit family group. To me our children are sixteen of the best reasons in the world for my wanting your support in the November election.

I don't ask you to vote for me solely because I am the father of sixteen children—I ask for your vote, because I believe I am qualified to do the job! Ask those who know me about my character and ability.

What I have said here I say as a humble man. I have no delusions of grandeur. My faith in God, my family, my home, and my good friends are the things I cherish most. I cannot promise to be all things to all men. I can only promise to do my best and to be grateful for whatever you may do for us in this coming election. When I say "us" I mean my wife, Otela Spradlin Smiley, and our children: Ronnie, Donnie, Vyron Allen, Jackie, James, Jessica, Judy, Wayne, Elizabeth, Nicky, Ricky, Debby, Vee Ann, Martha, Dinah, and Phillip.

"TASTING THE LANDSCAPE"

Nearly every day I find myself somewhat out of time with a speed-mad world that does not have time to taste landscape or do anything else that subtracts from the period for dashing away toward some elusive and maybe unimportant goal. We are in too much of a hurry. No amount of warning seems to lessen our wrecks in number or violence. Some was said recently that we break our necks to get somewhere so that we can get started back sooner.

We make up for this a little by traveling in vacation time as far as we can and get back before our work starts. Most of the people whom I have seen at state and national parks were surprised at themselves for liking plain looking and breathing. Many of them, I fear, would not have spent an hour looking at their own landscapes or even imagining that these same views were worth seeing. Not all of us can live where we can look out a picture window and see landscapes that would have made some of the old painters envious. I have been in a few homes where each view was the daily fare. My own office window looks out upon a view that is about as pretty as can be found in the state or at least in the less wild parts of the state. But there is no monopoly of such views; thousands of people have but to look out of their windows to realize how an artist would revel in what is daily food for us.

For almost a half century I have been trying to get at the heart of the scenes around me; I am still in the early stages of knowing why my hills and my river and my fields and my town, none of them famous or widely known, are still so thrilling. My winding river, cutting through the outlying eastern edge of the Ozarks, which we call the Whiteman Highlands, is a relatively small stream, but it is as large

Long after cars had come into use but before I had been able to own one, I got off the train at Murray one day in vacation and was delighted that my older brother had driven a wagon to the town that day and was hoping that I would ride back home with him. He apologized for his humble conveyance, as if it should have been met in the most recent model of automobiles. I assured him that nothing would suit me better than to go back to Fidelity in a wagon, so I could drink in the scenes of my earliest remembrance. It took us about an hour for each three miles of the twelve-mile journey. I renewed my acquaintance with many a place that I had almost forgotten, places that are now off the state highway and rapidly fading out of my memory again. I was able to recreate the olden times of making the thrilling ride to the county seat and back again, a much-traveled youngster. I literally tasted the landscape that afternoon; the trip is the one I best remember of all the ones that I took over that road and have taken over its paved and straighter successor. I am glad that I had this experience - before wagons went out of style and while there was still time enough to anticipate every bend in that dusty, winding road.

When I lived back at Fidelity it was thought to be silly to love beauty or to see anything about it. Often we were told that loving things of earth was idolatry. Many a beauty-hungry person I have known was afraid that there might be something downright wicked in finding a lasting satisfaction in our simple landscapes. Not long I stood at the site of my old house where I spent my first eighteen years and was greatly pleased that the landscapes were far from being dull or prosaic. I tried very hard to keep sentiment out of my view of the wide expanse of gravelly hills and the winding creek in the foreground. Since these were my daily fare, I have lived a long time in other surroundings. I have grown from a stripling to a middle-aged man. But it gave me a secret satisfaction to feel the landscape that was mine so long ago is still there, still inspiring, still capable of making a wanderer of the wild out of any one who looks.

Knott Women Nabbed, Accused of 'Working' Lawrence County Seat

Two Knott county women, Lydia Huff and Virgie Hicks were arrested in Louisa, July 25, by Chief of Police Earl Moore, and charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. The two women had worked most of the north side of the town, including the home of Chief Moore.

Mrs. Hicks stated that her name was Virgie Moore and her husband deceased and that they were soliciting money to pay for his funeral. They said their home was in Staffordville, Ky. Upon hearing their story, the Chief of Police became suspicious. He said he discovered that the defendants were from Mousie, Knott county and both had living husbands and families. It was also found that the husband of Mrs. Huff had delivered the women to Louisa, and was scheduled to pick them up on the afternoon on his return from Huntington, W. Va.

They were lodged in the Lawrence county jail upon felony charges and their bonds fixed at $300.

Louisa officials said this had become a common problem there and that the last Lawrence grand jury investigated two similar complaints and returned indictments.

State Troopers Lend Assistance In Various Ways

Frankfort, Aug. 12 (Sp.)—Safety with a smile could well be the motto of Kentucky's state troopers.

These professional protectors of life and limb are the core of the Commonwealth's Division of the Kentucky State Police and as such are devoted to the prevention of death-dealing road crashes before they have a chance to happen.

When writing a traffic citation, Kentucky troopers explain to careless motorists just what they did wrong and how errant driver's actions cause death, injury and economic loss.

Troopers' activities are not restricted to righting the wrongs of careless motorists. They frequently assist stranded motorists and highway users by pouring enough gas into an empty tank to get the driver to a service station. Each trooper carries a one-gallon auxiliary gas can in his police cruiser.

Cruisers carry such equipment as flares, first aid kits, wreck signs and other police items. They also carry a helpful supply of literature about Kentucky, its laws and its scenic attractions and playgrounds, to help visitors enjoy the Blue Grass State.

The Kentucky trooper is ready to lend assistance whether it is by aiding the driver get a flat tire fixed through radioing a nearby post to have a radio dispatcher call a garage, by outlining a traveling route on one of his generous supply of Kentucky road maps, or by correcting driver habits to help prevent accidents and save lives.

Syracuse started intercollegiate baseball competition in 1973.

He'd stepped in a showroom-out of the rain,
Was sold a new car before he could explain!
How he hated the styling—so high and square
And in new features it was really bare.
"I got a real bargain—the buy of my life—
But how do I ever convince my own wife?"

When you buy a new car, put your money on tomorrow—not yesterday. Swept-Wing Dodge actually obsoletes other cars in its field. Should you invest in high, boxy styling when Dodge offers the low, low look of tomorrow? Should you invest in outmoded coil springs when Dodge offers new Torsion-Aire Ride? Should you invest in an old-fashioned lever-type transmission when Dodge offers the ease of Push-Button Driving? In other things, too—engines, brakes, interiors—Dodge is years ahead. So put your money on tomorrow. See your Dodge dealer. Join the swing to the Swept-Wing Dodge!

FOOD NOTES

By Dixie Trapp Home Demonstration Agent

"What can I do to lose weight?" This is asked by many people—women, children and men.

One of the first things to do is to make up your mind to lose those extra pounds. Consult a doctor's advice and be determined to follow it or forget about trimming.

Many people could lose weight by following common sense. Balanced meals are known by lots of ladies. They know the body needs certain amounts of fruits, vegetables, milk, meat and bread. Sweets are used by those who need extra energy—growing boys and girls, men and women who do active, hard work. However, these sweets are to be used after the person has had his fruits, vegetables, milk, meat and bread.

It is generally accepted that people should maintain in later life the weight that was ideal at the age of 25. The weight will be of height, bone structure, and how the body burns the food.

Weight is easily gained and hard to lose. It takes determination for a person to lose much better they feel carrying the right amount, determination and common sense.

It boils down to—losing weight is up to you. Reading, listening and seeing what can be done will not take off pounds. It takes action from the individual and it can be done.

RAVE DIES William Lee Stone, three-day-old son of William Lee and Marie Stone, Wheelersport, died Monday at Our Lady of the Way hospital at Martin. Cause of death was not determined. The infant is also survived by four brothers and sisters. Funeral services were held at 10 a. m., Tuesday at the home with the Reverend Frank Moore officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Wayland under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

ADVANCING EDUCATION IN KENTUCKY

By Robert E. Martin Superintendent of Public Instruction

We educators talk a lot about strengthening the curriculum in our public schools; we talk a lot about "expanded programs" and "special areas" and the "addition of new services". In short, we use a lot of different phrases that read up into the same overall intention and aim—providing something meaningful and worthwhile in the training of our children.

It all boils down to the question that was of primary consideration at the White House Conference on Education and at our own Governor's Conference on Education—WHAT SHOULD OUR SCHOOLS ACCOMPLISH?

There are almost as many different ideas about that as there are children in school, but most people agree at least that children ought to be taught those things that will enable them to become responsible and productive citizens.

The traditional concepts of WHAT schools should teach and HOW they should teach are as old as education itself. As early as three thousand B. C. there was much discussion—and difference of opinion—about what the schools as such, were doing and what they should have been doing.

In America, education early assumed a new character—assumed in keeping with the fundamental precepts of democratic self-rule but vastly unique when compared to education in other nations of the western world. The theories of Jeffersonian Democracy gave birth to the idea that all the people need to be citizens of a free and democratic society are the fundamentals of learning in order that they be more capable of self-direction. Jefferson's theory of education all sprang from deep-rooted convictions that if a people are going to govern themselves they must at least have the facilities to enlighten themselves.

There is little doubt that America could not have survived as a Republic without a universal program of common schools; there is little doubt that the public schools have fulfilled the meaning and purposes of Jefferson's ideas. Certainly the public schools have made it possible for Americans to better understand the function of self-rule, but more than that, they have given to Americans the necessary instruction to help them become a thinking and creating people as much concerned with perpetuating free enterprise and free institutions as they are with protecting and preserving the governmental system which gave birth to those institutions.

What should the schools accomplish? They must accomplish many things but, this above all else they must accomplish—the continued preservation of the system that has given us the right to ask the question in the first place!

The purposes and function of the public schools have been more generally criticized in the last few years than in all the previous years of their existence. Educators have defended their programs but they have never questioned anyone's right to criticize. In fact, educators have welcomed criticism of the public schools—it is a definite evidence of public interest and all school people know that education can never really improve until the people decide that improvement is necessary.

Educators like doctors, lawyers, engineers, and other professionals have a definite language all their own. The terminology they use to define, describe, and discuss educational ideas is as much a part of their backgrounds as navy jargon is part of a sailor's experience. But aside from methods of achieving it, educators want the same things in principle that the public wants in its school—practical training that will provide for practical living. They too want the schools to be both a force for combating crime and corruption and a source for helping to produce responsible and productive citizens.

In reality then, we don't differ so much as we think the schools should accomplish but only in the matter of the methods that should be used in getting the job done. By working together through citizens' committees, parent-teacher associations and other advisory groups, educators and their public have done much to help each other help the schools. We all have learned that this is the only way that education can really move forward, all of us working together in advancing education in Kentucky.

Heart More Efficient Than Any Machine Made

If you think of your heart as a delicate organ easily strained by overactivity, you're wrong! A healthy heart is the toughest, strongest muscle in the body. It is the organ that would like best to live longest if given a chance to use its reserve powers.

Actually, the heart is more efficient than any machine man has been able to make and is virtually impossible to strain. The heart produces enough energy in a lifetime to lift the huge battleship Missouri 14 feet out of the water if it were applied all at once.

Here are some other fascinating facts about the human heart: The heart contracts when its owner is resting, about 70 times a minute, or two and a half billion times in a 70-year life. Every day the heart pumps nine to 10 tons of blood. With each beat one-hundredth part of the total blood in the body is pushed out into the great trunk artery called the aorta. Later, this blood is forced through miles of blood vessels.

Tests proved that much of the travel time is brief. For instance, it takes only a few seconds for the arm, the smallest of other comes from the lungs in about six seconds. This is half of a round trip for the arm blood.

To check the time for a round trip, saccharine, a sweet so powerful that a pinhead-size piece sweetens a cup of coffee, is injected into an arm vein. In just 12 seconds the sweet taste reaches the tongue. It then has passed into the heart on its way to the lungs, and after leaving the lungs, goes back through the heart to be pumped into the body and thence to the tongue.

The heart muscle rests, relaxed, more than half the time. Provided, that is, that its owner gives the little powerhouse a fair chance. A heart rests nearly 40 years out of a lifetime of 70 years. This is the heart's great secret, its great reservoir of strength. This is the magic which a physician knows how to use in treating diseased hearts.

But the person primarily responsible for your heart is you—not your physician! For if you put care of your healthy heart, it will take care of you.

If you would like to know more about your heart, write Kentucky Heart Association, 401 State Building, Louisville 2, for a free copy of the pamphlet, Don't Worry About Your Heart.

PARKS BONDS TO BE ISSUED

Needed Improvements For Dewey State Park Not Being Considered

The Commonwealth intends to place on the market later this year all or part of a $3,188,420 revenue bond issued for improving Kentucky's parks. It was announced this week by state officials.

La. Gov. Waterfield said the Property and Buildings Commission still has under consideration the "whole problem" of how to sell the bonds.

State Conservation Commissioner Laban Jackson revealed a program which would put a park within 60 miles of every Kentuckian. The bond issue, which would also finance Imboden State Park and Atlanta Park, long in the planning stage and a complete line of electric welding equipment and supplies.

While at West Point, Mr. May and Mr. Archer studied Lindo's latest methods of gas distribution and newest developments in the application of oxy-acetylene and electrical welding. The knowledge acquired at this training course will enable them to offer even greater service.

FARMERS PRODUCE MORE

American farmers produced about 49 per cent more goods in 1956 than in 1940, says the USDA.

State Farm Mutual Given Rate Increase

Frankfort, Aug. 12 (Sp1)—A 27.9 per cent rate increase has been approved by the Kentucky Department of Insurance for bodily injury and property damage liability policies written in Kentucky by the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co.

C. P. Thurman, commissioner, said the rates, effective Aug. 7, were necessary because the Bloomington, Ill. company reported an overall loss in four of the last five years. It showed a loss of $1,017,291 in 1956, he said.

State Farm initially requested a 64 1/2 increase, Thurman said. After discussions with the department here the company agreed to reduce its request to the 27.9 percent figure, he said.

The commissioner explained it was the objective of the Insurance Department to see that rates are neither excessive, inadequate nor unfairly discriminatory.

Although State Farm's rates have been adjusted in previous years, the rate level continued to lag behind increasing claim cost and frequency. For instance, the company showed the average total claim on automobile bodily injury insurance to be $729 in 1956 compared to $633 in 1955 and property damage insurance average paid claim to be $111 in 1956 and $99 in 1955.

 W. R. ENOCH - PIKEVILLE

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The Lackey-Garrett-Wyland Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. Delbert Sloan, of Garrett, last Wednesday for an all-day sewing meeting. A quilt was being pieced by the members for a former club member. Mrs. Earl Castle, Prestonmouth, Ohio.

A covered dish luncheon was enjoyed by the group. Mrs. Earl Castle, club president, conducted the business meeting, and all club members were asked to pay their dues, so the Year Book can be completed. Five members were chosen to meet with a group of women at Sellersville, Thursday for the purpose of organizing a woman's club in that county.
