Accidents Hazardous, Birth To 6 Months

Mrs. Catherine Wiecher, public health nurse for Floyd county, has some advice for new mothers in these parts. Newborn babies are helpless and needed 100 per cent protection. Parents must provide this protection in helping baby to develop the trust and security so basic to life. Mrs. Wiecher gives the following hints on how to protect the baby when giving him a bath:

"Soap may float but baby won't." Always stay with baby even though phone or doorbell rings—if you must answer, take the baby with you. Assemble all articles needed and place them within easy reach before starting bath. Keep safety pins closed and in a covered container.

Test temperature of water with your own elbow to be sure it is neither too hot nor too cold.

Use a firm mattress. Mrs. Wiecher advises also, one which fits baby's crib. He needs light, too, covering the surface of crib up at all times and bars are spaced close enough to gather so that baby cannot get his head between them. Always leave baby with a responsible person when you go out on an errand or for the evening. His safety is entirely your responsibility.

Most toys will end up in the mouth. They should be small enough to handle and too large to swallow. Use rattles which cannot be broken, rubber or washable toys, or stuffed animals with unexposed eyes.

ASSESSMENT IN FLOYD UP

Tax Assessments for '57 Show Increase over State; Half-Million Rise Here

Assessed property on the tax books of the state are up, and so are those in Floyd county, figures released at the office of Tax Commissioner Clive Akers show.

This year's total assessment for Floyd county is $22,038,057, as compared with $21,531,864 last year.

Kentucky's assessment as a whole is $3,333,856,245 for a gain of more than five billions over the 1956 assessment.

Biggest increases effected in Floyd assessments were on land and improvement exclusive of residential property. This year the assessment on 164,376 acres totals $4,493,071. Last year 162,162 acres were assessed at $3,035,791. Assessment of mineral and timber rights this year stood at $3,177,972—an increase of $229,313 over the preceding year's.

Floyd residential property was assessed this year at $3,267,043 as compared with $3,240,383 in 1956. The assessment of business buildings had a big drop, however—$379,275 this year to $2,173,222 last year. Oil rights dropped from $32,204 a year ago to $25,490 this year.

The county's 7,515 cars and trucks were valued this year at $2,637,738. In 1956 7,380 vehicles were assessed at $2,488,606. The value of merchants' and manufacturers' inventories dropped on the 1957 assessment lists to $841,861 from $1,101,772 in '56. So did the value of drilling and mining equipment—from $1,576,092 a year ago to $1,556,974 in 1957.

Breakdown of the state total by property classifications: Real estate $2,471,696,159, up 17% from $2,107,962, tangible property, $798,385,282, a decline of 13% to $692,532; bank shares, $1,069,941,325, up $2,821,182; annuities, $29,491,262, up $6,878,898; brokers' accounts receivable, $5,336,121, with no comparative 1956 figures available.

Assessments for 1957 of other counties in this area follow: Breathitt, $5,206,206; Boyd, $143,367,844; Johnson, $12,974,900; Knott, $9,993,718; Letcher, $19,487,630; Magoffin, $9,040,865; Martin, $4,460,916; Menifee, $1,150,140; Morgan, $4,457,056; Perry, $23,745,000; Pike, $43,862,762.

The 20 Latin American republics cover an area two and one-half times the size of the United States.

To the YOUNG PEOPLE of FLOYD COUNTY
The nomination for Circuit Court Clerk of Floyd county has been given me without opposition by the Republican Party, for which I am deeply grateful.
The good people of Floyd county have within their power to elect some one whom they want to manage this office, some one whom they trust and think would be honest, courteous and able to give them the best of service. This is my first time to ask for any of your offices. I am definitely not a politician, but it is my belief that you should elect a man who does not want to get rich from the office and if there should be more money made in the office than the laws allows after expenses it should be turned back to the treasurer of Floyd county to help build roads and other things so badly needed.
I have tried to let the Golden Rule influence my every act. However, I'm frank to admit that in some respects I have failed—none of us can claim perfection, you know.
I have no quarrel with any one for seeking office year after year. That is their privilege as an American citizen. It is also your privilege and duty to examine the qualifications of every man asking for any position of public trust. He should be sober, honest and dependable—those things go without saying. He ought to be a good family man, one whom you would be honored to call your next door neighbor.
I urge each of you to inquire of me. Ask those who have known me all of my 53 years. If they can't recommend me then I don't deserve to win.
You, the young boys and girls of today will be our leaders tomorrow. I ask you now to give some serious thought to my first appeal for public office and if in your own judgment I deserve to be elected, then, you will be a better citizen by convincing your parents and all your friends to support me for Circuit Court Clerk. Your confidence will be appreciated and I shall be forever grateful.

HIDDEN TAXES GET BIG BITE

Average Wage-Earner In County Pays Sixth Of His Income In Tax

Special to The Times New York, Aug. 28.—You are spending much more than you realize, dear Floyd county taxpayer, to keep the wheels of government—federal, state and local—rolling along.

As did most people, you thought you were paying about a sixth of your income for the purpose. That was the amount that was asked of you as a married man with two dependents and with average local earnings of $3,900.

According to a recent study, however, you are spending much more than that through indirect taxes that make sneak raids on your wallet. In your case, these are bringing your total tax up to $1,155 a year.

They are the unseen levies applied along the way on nearly everything you eat and use. You don't see them because they are hidden in the price you pay for goods and services.

There is for example, the $555 in taxes ($288 visible and $267 hidden) on a $2,000 car. The hidden part consists of federal excises on the radio and heater, oil, tires and many other things.

An analysis of these hidden taxes has been made by the Tax Foundation, a national, non-profit organization seeking more efficient government.

Application of its findings to Floyd county shows that local residents paid an estimated $900,000 in the past year, directly and indirectly, to tax collectors. It came out of a gross income of some $3,400,000.

This, in general, is what the Tax Foundation study shows: A family with income of $3,500 pays $772 to Uncle Sam alone. State and local taxes amount to $1,043. In other words, such a family pays nearly a third of its income in taxes, visible and invisible.

The $4,500 family pays $1,088 to Uncle Sam and $597 in State and local taxes, a total of $1,685. The $7,500 family pays Uncle Sam $1,964 and $773 in State and local taxes, making its cost for government $2,737.

DRIVE SAFELY

To better acquaint drivers of motor vehicles on Kentucky highways with violations for which they can be arrested by law-enforcement officers, the week's Drive Safely campaign will list a few of the moving hazardous violations which are determined to our safety as users of our roads.

- 1. A 30-room lodge.
2. Fifty vacation cottages.
3. A dining room at the lodge large enough to accommodate at one time 200 persons.

It was explained by state officials that not $50,000 but about $105,000 has been earmarked already for Dewey park improvements as the sale of bonds in place of additional appropriations, it was noted, will be asked of the Legislature when it convenes in January.

State control of the entire Dewey reservoir area has been expected to become effective but still hinges upon approval of a state-federal agreement by officials in Washington, it was learned here.

STATE PLANS NEW METHOD

Of Buying Rights-of-Way First Test Set Tonight At Boyd-Co. Courthouse

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 28—The Highway Department announced Friday its first experimental test of its new right-of-way purchase plan will be conducted next Thursday night at Clatsburg.

Owners of property along the proposed relocation route on U.S. 22 will be called into a meeting at the Boyd county courthouse at 1:30 p.m. (E.S.T.) About 80 owners will be affected.

Highway officials will tell them the amount they will be offered for their property as determined by appraisers will be affected.

The owners may sign deeds immediately or they will be given a short period to "think the matter over." Compensation suits will be filed later on all disputed tracts.

The new plan is expected to eliminate negotiations with property owners and is designed to save time and money. The state will refuse to pay appraisers unless owners agree to accept the state's offer, a practice that might entitle them to more.

A Highway Department engineer will stay in Clatsburg several days to explain to owners how their property will be affected.

If the Clatsburg experiment works, the state will adopt it for all right-of-way acquisitions. It involves in about six tenths of a mile covering two Clatsburg streets.

CARE COMPLETES TRAINING—Parris Island, S. C.—Vernard L. Carr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carr, of Allen, Ky., is scheduled to complete recruit training Aug. 18 at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C. BRADY HACKWORTH IS VICTIM SUNDAY AT MIDDLE CR. HOME

Brady Hackworth, 76 years old, West Prestonsburg farmer, died at 11 p.m. Sunday at his home on Middle Creek road of paralysis following an illness of several days.

He was a son of Jerry and Sally Miller Hackworth and was a native of Greenup county but had spent almost all his life on Middle Creek. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Gladie Shepherd Hackworth, five sons, Johnny Hackworth, West Prestonsburg, and three daughters, Mrs. Pearl Marshall and Mrs. Robt Bradford, both of Blue River, and Mr. Halcy Hughes, West Prestonsburg. One brother, Charlie Hackworth, and a sister, Mrs. Ida Moore, both of West Prestonsburg, also survive.

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday from the residence, and burial was made in the Hobcock cemetery on Middle Creek under direction of the Carter & Callahan Funeral Home.

HATTIE ROWE WILLIAMS VICTIM OF HEART ATTACK AT WAYLAND RESIDENCE

Hattie Rowe Williams, well-known Wayland woman, succumbed to a heart attack at 10:40 p.m. last Thursday at her home. Mrs. Williams was married twice, her first husband, L. P. Rowe, dying in 1924 and her second, J. H. Williams, surviving her. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace, she was a member of the Methodist Church for 15 years, also a member of the Eastern Star, Rebekahs and Daughters of America. Mrs. Williams had just returned home from a meeting of the Daughters of America when she suffered the fatal attack.

She is survived by one son, Wallace Elmer Rowe, Huntington, W. Va., and one daughter, Mrs. Lucille Ratliff, Wayland; two brothers, Fred Wallace, Garrettsville, and Harry Wallace, Evans, Ky.

The funeral was held at 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the Wayland Methodist Church, the Rev. Dorsey preaching. Burial followed at the family cemetery at Louisa under the direction of the Hall Bros. Funeral Home.

The next council meeting will be held September 27 in the Allen Grade School.

4-H Council Meeting Held at Dewey Lake

The Floyd County 4-H Council held its monthly meeting at Dewey Lake Park, August 24. Council members and their families enjoyed a barbecue and recreation period then held their business meeting.

The Council went on record as urging 4-H boys and girls to take part in the 4-H department of the Floyd County Fair. Any boy or girl regularly enrolled in 4-H or her project work in this department. Other business discussed were achievement days and an area camp.

FLU VACCINE SUPPLY SHORT

Key Personnel To Get Priority; Physicians To Handle Serum Use

Whatever supply there is available of the serum for the combating of Asian influenza will be placed in the hands of private physicians and not in public health channels. It was learned here this week.

Recent reports have indicated that only key personnel will be given the vaccine until the supply becomes more plentiful.

The serum, tests have shown highly effective, and young children may be right now the preventive by the splitting of doses.

None of the antibiotics now in use effect a cure of Asian flu, although they may be helpful in treating complications which arise. Indiscriminate use of penicillin and the sulfas is frowned on, however, and the advice of doctors is urged. Home care rather than treatment in hospitals is recommended, since the disease flourishes under crowded conditions.

ASHLAND VANDALS LITTER GYMNASIUM WITH EGGS

A rather messy smelt was found on the gymnasium floor of Charles Russell Elementary School recently.

Police said that about 50 dozen eggs has been smashed on the floor by thieves who broke into the building over the week-end.

His letter of resignation follows, in part: "If any thought remained in my mind that I had not worked hard as principal of the Prestonsburg high school during the past two years to get a new situation organized and make a big start in collecting equipment, that I had not succeeded in doing at least some of the things that needed to be done, even at the risk of personal unpopularity in some instances, I would have accepted the action whereby you terminated my services and removed me at a regular board meeting on July 2, 1957 from my position as principal of the Prestonsburg high school and would continue to work in the Floyd county school system at whatever school position you might assign to me.

"But I feel that your action is a poor reward for the honest service I tried hard to give. I feel the school administration really appreciated the tasks and problems involved, but you have recognized that I worked hard and did a good job.

DRIVE CAREFULLY This is a big week-end. Labor Day will bring its thousands onto the highways of this section, coming home a few days' visit, going to the big UMWA celebration at Jenkins and elsewhere. Please drive so that your driver's license will expire before you do.

TRAIT SMITH! Now that the youngsters are ready for school again, it may be that they will run into some matter that defy explanation. We're afraid, for instance, they'll find Longfellow's "The Village Blacksmith" an admission that simply defies understanding. Take for instance that part that reads: "His brow is wet with honest sweat, He earns whatever he can, And looks the whole world in the face. For he owes not any man."

Now I claim that may throw some of the kiddies "What's 'sweat,' for instance? And is it legal? Wasn't the blacksmith shop ill-conditioned, Pop?"

But the real puzzle may be that part that declares to one and all that "he owes not any man." Didn't he have 20 years to pay for his shop? What did his poor kids do for a car and a TV and a record player and an all-arounder?

WHIRLIGIG Life is just full of its little quirks and ironies. A few days ago a man came to earth after ascending 102,000 feet to the edge of that illimitable void we speak of as space. He had seen the sun set as a white disk, not as a red, denying circle; he had watched the stars from a "rigid seat" and had found that they do not twinkle. For that trip aloft he was rigged out with the most ingenious instruments and mechanisms and a record player and an all-arounder which he had soared a bit higher than any of the planets known to man.

Come to think of it, I bet that Village Blacksmith was an old-fuddy-duddy.

Full assurance was given residents of both Prestonsburg, Aiken and Martin that the water supply in each of three towns is as safe as it ever has been and that everything possible is being done to relieve the Algae-born taste and odor. It was emphasized that, although algae does produce an unpleasant taste and odor, it is harmless.

The state engineer found that the water plants in the three towns are being operated in "a very satisfactory manner and that every possible precaution is being taken to provide a 100% safe water supply."

He added that the new water plant now under construction here will be much better equipped to combat similar situations in the future.

"MUSIC OF THE ANVIL"

As I sat in my room in a hotel in a good-sized city recently, I suddenly remembered how I was back in Fidelity fifty years ago. There was certainly nothing in the room that would have suggested any such trip back to earlier times; from my windows the sights and sounds were typical of cities large and small; city buses, endless lines of cars, sidewalks full of people going to their places of business, school children in irregular crowds aimlessly "creeping like snails to school," just like one of Shakespeare's seven ages of man. Then it all came to me; someone on a building that was under construction had hit an iron rod or pipe that had given out the very sound of an anvil in an old-fashioned blacksmith shop. That was it! I expected to smell the heavy smoke of the furnace, even to see horses awaiting their turn to be shod. Somehow it was slightly depressing when I realized that the sound of the anvil is itself a passing institution. Many people have grown up with having heard it; some of my students would not get very thrill from being told of the skill shown by the blacksmith in that age-old but now almost forgotten manual device of "hitting the anvil." But to some of us it offers other times and places the sound of the anvil brings back a time of local civilization, a civilization in which the blacksmith was a very important person, a skilled laborer among a host of people whose fingers were all thumbs.

Ticking the anvil was somewhat like grace notes in music, not necessary but, when skillfully done, a great addition to the score. The blacksmith would hit the horseshoe or other iron that was being shaped with a strong, deft stroke; then he would "kick the anvil" by hitting it lightly before he landed the next mighty stroke on the resistant hot iron. "Whack, ping, whack, ping" — on and on the music rang until the horseshoe was shaped or the metal for the singletree was completed. As a wide-eyed boy I often stood by, envious of a skill that could shape the iron and make forgotten primitive songs.

Many a boy that I knew practiced doing this anvil-ticking and sometimes succeeded in acquiring the very rhythm of the skillful blacksmith.

ADVANCING EDUCATION IN KENTUCKY

By Robert R. Martin
Superintendent of Public Instruction

In March of this year, a dramatic thing happened in Washington, D. C., during a House subcommittee hearing. A group of high school students touring the capital filed quietly into spectators' seats to observe events at the hearing when the chairman of the sub-committee spotted them.

The hearing was devoted to developing programs to combat juvenile delinquency. The chairman suddenly asked if any of the youngsters would care to give the group the benefit of the adolescent's point of view in the matter. They did—and then some!

One statement by a young lady from New Hampshire is especially interesting because it is directly related to something we have been working in Kentucky for over a year. She said in replying to a criticism that parental discipline is too strict: "Children aren't happier when they are let run wild. They want some guidance that they can rely on."

About a year ago the Kentucky Department of Education established a Division of Guidance Services with the aim of assisting schools to initiate or improve guidance programs. We have recognized the need for this kind of service for some years. It is a need that developed with changes in the social and economic life of the American family and it has been accentuated by increasing enrollments and expanded school programs.

Both parents and school personnel want school-age children to stay in school. But we have learned that merely demanding that they stay in school is not enough in itself to keep them there. Both parents and school personnel want to see youngsters make choices and get goals; obviously this is wishful thinking if there is no incentive provided for them.

The purpose of a school's guidance program is to help boys and girls make better adjustments to school and school life, to help them make educational and vocational choices, set goals, carry out plans and solve problems of personal nature. Purpose also is to help teachers to better understand and better provide for each child while he is in the classroom.

These are things that both parents and school people want; they are just as much the responsibility of parents as they are of the school.

During the past year people in Kentucky have manifested a growing interest in the guidance movement. Many of them are seeking ways and means of improving guidance services in their own schools.

Encouraging as these evidences of progress in guidance during the first year that the Division has been in operation, new guidance programs have been established in some schools and plans initiated for improvements in others; Kentucky's graduate schools have developed preparation programs for guidance counselors; there will be a number of new counselors in Kentucky schools beginning in September; noticeably large number of teachers' conferences have been devoted to guidance as a means of initiating or improving school services, while many other systems have made plans to hold such conferences during the coming school year.

We agree with the young lady from Alstead, New Hampshire—boys and girls do want guidance that they can rely on—the kind of guidance that helps them to help themselves. This kind of service occupies a significant place in advancing education in Kentucky.

Edd Petry, 58, Victim August 19 at Garrett

Edd Petry, 58 years old, died Aug. 19 at 6 a. m., at his Garrett residence, victim of heart disease. He was a steamfitter until ill health forced his retirement.

Mr. Petry had been a resident of Garrett 33 years. He was a native of Boyd county, the son of Morris and Elizabeth Wolfe Petry. Surviving are his widow, Rhoda Wallin Petry, one son, Clarence Edward Petry, Cincinnati, O., and one daughter, Fay Evelyn, of Garrett; three brothers, Mel Petry, Elwell, Henry Petry, New Orleans, La., and Morris Petry Columbus, O., and three sisters, Mrs. John Martin, Portsmouth O., Mrs. Henry Childers and Mrs. Willie Martin, both of Garrett.

His funeral was conducted at 10 a. m., Wednesday from the Garrett Methodist Church by Rev. H. M. Wiley, and burial was made in the Davidson cemetery at level, the Hall Brothers Funeral Home directing.

Relics Recall Story of Indian Chief Tecumseh

By Charles F. Hinds, Secretary-Treasurer of Kentucky Historical Society

Frankfort, Aug. 26 (Sp.) — In 1919, the Kentucky Historical Society received a remarkable Indian collection. Among the items were the bullet-torn and blood-stained battle flag Tecumseh carried at the Battle of the Thames—a striking iron used in starting fires and a pair of flannel homespun leggings.

Tecumseh, or Tecumtha, was born in 1768 in Old Pique on the Mad River in Ohio. His father, Shawnee, and his mother, a Creek, had recently migrated with their Alabama on the invitation of the fierce Wyandots.

Puckeshinwa, father of Tecumseh, was killed in the battle of Point Pleasant in 1774 or soon thereafter. Methoatska, the mother of the six-year-old Tecumseh, made the impressionable boy swear that he would devote his life to taking revenge on the "Long Knives" who had killed Puckeshinwa.

After his father's death, Tecumseh was adopted by the Shawnee chief, Blackfish. Blackfish had lost a son at the hands of Daniel Boone on a raid into Kentucky. The old Shawnee adopted son, white and Indian, to fill the void left by his loss. Three of Tecumseh's foster brothers were Richard Sparks, Benjamin Kelley and Stephen Ruddle—all Kentucky boys.

The strangest foster brother of them all was Daniel Boone, captured with 30 others at Blue Licks in 1778. Blackfish named Boone with whom he was much taken. "Big Turtle"—some say because a turtle denotes wisdom; others, because of the obvious contradiction suggested by the quick-witted Boone and the slow turtle.

Tecumseh began to gather warriors around him in 1805. He was ably assisted by his youngest blood brother, Laulewasika, better known as the Prophet, who had been converted by Shaker missionaries of Kentucky and Indiana from a loafer and an alcoholic into one of the most outstanding Indian evangelists of all times.

Tecumseh organized the Indians into a large confederation, but Gen. William Henry Harrison lured the red warriors into a premature attack at Tippecanoe in 1811 while Tecumseh was in the South recruiting more tribes. The "Old Prophet" never fully recovered and was completely beaten in 1813 at the Battle of the Thames by the Kentucky Mounted Infantry under Col. Richard M. Johnson.

HIGH-MOISTURE CORN

Iowa State College research showed that corn harvested when it contains 70 to 82 per cent moisture was worth 10 cents more per bushel as feed for fattening cattle than low-moisture corn from the same field. The high-moisture corn saved about 8 per cent in feed costs; when silage supplement was fed to steers, the high moisture corn lots, the combined savings amounted to 16 per cent.

UK EDUCATIONAL EXHIBITS PLANNED FOR STATE FAIR

Exhibits of wide variety will be of interest to visitors at the Exposition Building at the Kentucky State Fair Sept. 6 to 15, where they will see several educational features from the Experiment Station and the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Kentucky.

A large walk-in meat display case will show actual cuts of beef, lamb and pork. Various activities of a typical family will be seen in the fields of food selection, textiles and clothing, home furnishings, home management and recreation. A series of large photographs, 24 by 30 inches, will be lighted in sequence as a coordinated tape recording tells the story. The exhibit was planned by the School of Home Economics.

Exhibits by several hundred 4-H club members will include articles of clothing made in various classes from the beginner in sewing to the state winner of an electric sewing machine; jars of canned fruits and vegetables arranged according to counties; freezers of frozen foods; a display of baked foods, and a home furnishings display showing unfinished furniture, and curtains and bedspread carrying out the room color scheme.

Added attractions will be two walk-in booths, one showing specimens of insects and pests mounted by 4-H'ers, and the other, electrical projects carried out by them. Wood-working projects will also be on display.

In the center of the 4-H exhibit will be two 18-foot turn tables, showing a review in pictures of the work 4-H club boys in beef, swine, sheep and poultry, water management, tobacco, gardens and field crop.

A free movie of 15 to 30 minute, "The Town That Came Back," will report the story of a revival of a town through the activities of 4-H club members.

A style show will be presented every evening at 7:30 o'clock in the east end of the Exposition Building by the Jefferson County 4-H Club. Garments made by members will be modeled.

County Officials Told By Auditor To File Reports

State Auditor Mary Louise Foust has issued a memorandum to county judges, another one to county sheriffs and a third to all county officials explaining various items required in official reports.

County judges were notified in "misdemeanor cases tried before you, if the accused is convicted, tax at cost $4.50. Each month you should pay into the county treasury the cost so collected with an itemized account and report the amount to the fiscal court," the Auditor explained.

Miss Foust explained to the county sheriffs the necessity of keeping an accurate account of all fees collected by them and expense accounts for mileage spent in patrolling roads, inspecting dance halls and roadhouses, which are paid by the state. "You cannot later claim the expense when you settle with your county," she said.

Clerks issuing process in a civil case should keep an accurate account of all fees paid to the sheriff and report the amount to the fiscal court where it is recorded to determine the sheriff's annual income, Miss Foust said.

County officials were told to make an accounting of their fees collected and disbursements at the close of the calendar year. "We are anxious to aid you in your report," Miss Foust continued, "but we do not have enough auditors available to complete the task on schedule."

Officials responsible for having financial statements published and filed with this office must do so within 60 days after the close of the fiscal year, the Auditor concluded.

Telephone Talk
Your Telephone Manager

A LOT OF PEOPLE still think of telephone service in terms of just the one familiar home or office phone. Well, there are so many different kinds of equipment nowadays—all designed to add pleasure to your living—that I'd like to remind you of some of them.

There's the Speakerphone that lets you talk and hear without lifting the receiver. The Volume Control phone you can turn up or down like a radio. Spring cords. Extra phones in color—so handy throughout the house where you need them. Even a phone that answers itself when you're out. Let me suggest you drop by our Business Office and see all these new conveniences. We'll be glad to show you how to have a well-telephoned home at surprisingly low cost.

GUARANTEED FOREVER—Of all the useful things in your home, how many are guaranteed for life? Your telephone is, you know. If it should ever break or need replacing, why we'll get it working again fast without any service charge. This lifetime guarantee on your phone is, of course, included in what you pay for service.

NEXT BEST THING to being there in person is to visit with out-of-town friends and loved ones by Long Distance. Gives you a real lift to hear those familiar voices again. And it's so easy to call. Doesn't cost much, either, especially when you call station-to-station. As a matter of fact, you save up to 1/2 when you call station-to-station between points in Kentucky. And you get extra values when you call nights after 6 and all day Sundays. Then you can talk station-to-station for four minutes at the same two-minute daytime rate.

For example, you call station-to-station from Prestonsburg to Louisville for just 70c, and from Prestonsburg to Madisonville for only 80c. Mightily small prices to pay for a lot of pleasure!

NEW COACH SAYS P'BURG COULD BE BEST FOOTBALL TOWN IN KENTUCKY

"Prestonsburg could be the best football town in Kentucky," said John Griggs, new coach at Prestonsburg High School, this week. He explained that Prestonsburg certainly isn't like Leslie county where, last year, only four boys on his squad had ever seen a football game. The majority of season was spent, he grinned, in acquainting the boys what a football looked like and what to do with it.

"It's a lot different—this town—why when I first got here I was introduced to some elderly ladies who know a lot about football or at least more than those kids I met last year."

The new coach, a strapping 200-pounder who played with Babe Parrill, Bob Gain, Shorty Jamerand, in his last year, was chosen as co-captain by his teammates, said he found the boys at-titude quite different.

"They have an interest in play-ing football. They work hard. But hard as they may work this year, I'm afraid we're this in reserve. There's only 23 on the squad right now and I'd like more. The line is our weakest point where we have a few capable boys but far too few. The backfield is our strong point."

"I'm impressed with a few of my boys but not too many," he said. Griggs cited Paul Phillip Hughes, James Allen, Wayne Dixon, Red Mink, Bobby Howell, Glen Anderson Tom Harmon, and Joe Jack Harris as boys who have been doing a fine job in practice sessions.

He said that some of the boys were on the small side but com-pensated for smallness by plenty of courage and determination. "That's 90% of it," he said.

CATS TO OPEN FRIDAY AGAINST W'WRIGHT HI

Prestonsburg and Wheelwright, gridiron foes of several years ago, will meet at each other's throats here Friday at 8 p.m.

Wheelwright, which renewed its football interests only last year, will take the field with a 27-man team, four stringers—num-erically, at least—and the veter-an Prestonsburg squad. The Wheelwright squad is being coached this season by Ray Brackett.

The Prestonsburg team, in get-ting ready for its nine-game schedule, has been conducting twice-a-day workouts at Camp Shreve on Dewey Lake for the past week. It is expected that the Black Cats will better their last season's record of 3-3-1 when they finished seventh in the ten-team

JAYCEES PUBLISH PROGRAM
Football fans attending all Prestonsburg high school football games will be presented with a 32-page football program which is one of the finest ever presented by any high school.

The local Jaycees have worked hard for the past month planning and publishing the informative booklet, which contains several interesting facts about Prestonsburg high school football history, the local progress of the Jaycees in five years. In all 42 pictures are presented.

BLACKCAT PLAYER OF THE WEEK
For the fourth consecutive year the Francis Stars in Prestonsburg will conduct its weekly se-lection of the Black Cat Player-of-the-Week. Each week a secret five-man committee will judge the outstanding player of that week's game and the following Monday morning his picture will be placed in the store window for observance the following week. The successful player also receives an award.

CAMPBELL RESIGNS WITH IMPRESSIVE MARK
"Copper-John" Campbell, who resigned last week as Wayland's basketball tutor, leaves one of the best records in the 15th region. In ten seasons at the Right Beaver Creek school, "Copper-John" took his Wags to the state tournament. He is the only member to compete with Pikeville and linez for the trip to the high-lyric state tournament trip. In that 10-year span, Wayland made three trips, Pikeville four, and linez two.

E.K.M.C. CHAMP
This season's race for the EKMC championship should be one of the best in the five-year loop his-tory, since there is no outstand-ing team this season. A Courier-Journal pick in Sunday's issue listed Hazard as their choice, but the Bulldogs lost heavily, as did champion Pikeville. As we see it, Jenkins and Belfry loom as pos-sible champions with several veter-ans returning, although Belfry has a new coach in Irvin Wilson. Barring any injuries, Prestons- burg and Canisville have an out-side chance of landing the crown.

RULES CHANGES
There are 14 new high school football rules changes this season. None is of major importance, and the only one of any great interest is the neutral zone of the line of scrimmage in drawing a player off-side by any shifting maneuver.

Season on Waterfowl To Open Nov. 7th

Frankfort, Aug. 26 (Sp.) — Kentucky's waterfowl season will open Nov. 7 and extend through January 15, officials of the De-partment of Fish and Wildlife Re-sources said.

The duck limit is four a day with possession limit of eight af-ter two or more days of hunting. Shooting hours will be from one-half hour before sunrise until sun-set.

The possession and bag limit for geese is five which may not include more than two Cana-das or Canada subspecies. No wood ducks may be killed.

Opening of the dove season is Sept. 1, continuing through Oct. 31. Hunting will be permitted from noon until sunset. The bag possession limit was increased to 10.

'COPPER-JOHN' RESIGNS POST

Campbell Ends Work At Wayland Hi Where He Had Great Record

"Copper-John" Campbell, high-ly successful basketball coach at Wayland high school for the past ten years, resigned recently to enter private business at Mousie in Knott county.

Campbell's cage teams have been a power in Floyd county basketball since his graduation from Eastern State College in 1946. At Eastern he was an All-K.L.A.C. forward.

Campbell won five district crowns, and was runner-up two other times. Three times his teams won the 15th regional game crown and represented this re-gion in the state tournament.

Some of Campbell's most wide-ly known athletes were Ed De-Courtesy, Carl Ray Fraley, Carl's brother, Fred, who became Fur-man University star, Paul Hop- per, and Kentucky's all-time high school scoring star, Kelly Col- man, who is now preparing to enter the University of Dayton, Dayton, Ohio.

An all-starter at Hindman High, Campbell played under the tutelage of Pearl Combs. He resigned his position as president of the "Floyd County Coaches' Associa-tion along with his coaching post at Wayland.

Drivers Advised
To Use Caution
Over Labor Day

Frankfort, Aug. 28 (Sp.) — "Take time for teamwork in traffic," State Safety Commissioner Don S. Sturgill urged Labor Day week-end motorists.

He pointed out that seven persons were killed over the Labor Day week-end last year and 15 died during that period in 1955.

Sturgill said all available State police officers will patrol highways during the long week-end and mobile roadblocks will be utilized.

"Driving in today's traffic is not a one-man show," he said officially added.

He said if drivers were constantly aware of this fact they wouldn't pull such stunts as changing lanes without warning, bumper chasing, making sudden stops, and making turns from the wrong lane.

"When you're driving courteously, you're also protecting yourself," he emphasized. "A driver rarely causes an accident without suffering some injury himself."

The commissioner gave these tips:

Keep alert. Develop defensive driving tactics. Study the road ahead for accident situations.

Think ahead. Plan emergency measures. Know your own and your car's capabilities. Be adaptable. Get the "feel" of changing traffic, road and weather conditions. Adjust speed immediately.

Face yourself by the traffic around you.

Take only your share of the road—in the proper lane. Keep in the proper lane.

Obey all traffic laws, signs, signals, and the dictates of common sense and courtesy.

Foresters in spraying operation to combat oak wilt that has already appeared in this county.

NOW EAST KENTUCKY FIGHTS TO SAVE OAKS

By HENRY P. SCALF

Eastern Kentucky is trying to save its oak trees from destruction, and the Kentucky Division of Forestry is determined that this species of forest hardwood shall not go the way the chestnut tree did three decades ago from blight.

Oak wilt is a fungus disease that slowly but inevitably kills a tree once it is attacked. No known cure has been found. In fact, methods to prevent the disease are a matter of controversy with foresters. One thing, though, everybody agrees upon is that if the disease is allowed to spread unchecked Eastern Kentucky will be denuded of oaks and one of the section's primary resources will be destroyed.

Roe Turner, Floyd county forest ranger, recalls what happened to the chestnut trees nearly 30 years ago. Suddenly, from where no one was sure, a disease called the chestnut blight attacked these nut-bearing, lumber-producing trees. In three years they were gone. The loss to the mountain economy was incalculable since the chestnut was fast-growing and had varied and multiple uses.

Today foresters are looking for lone chestnut trees that may have survived in the hope that one may be discovered that is blight resistant.

Two years ago personnel of the forest service began to search for oak wilt in the mountains of Kentucky. The disease was rampant in the Northwest, threatened despite the herculean effort of foresters to destroy the trees in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Illinois. It was also creeping down from the Northeast, from Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio and the two fronts were catching Kentucky in a vise. The Division of Forestry is looking at their maps of infected states, knew that Kentucky could not long escape. Forest rangers, guards and supervisors were alerted.

The Eastern district of the Division of Forestry, which covers most of the mountain section, is a rugged territory. First evidence of the disease is dying leaves, and foresters searching through field glasses may spot suspicious trees far off in some dark, high valley which entails much walking and climbing to reach. Once there, it may be discovered that the tree doesn't have oak wilt at all. It was a slow process with plenty of hard work to find an oak wilt specimen but the foresters did. They sent off several samples to a laboratory in North Carolina. Two were found to be positive.

Now that it was found in the mountains, control measures must be undertaken but every state visited by the disease had tried various methods with only doubtful results. Cutting the infected tree and burning it and everything else for a radius of 50 feet around was ordered. This was a big job in a heavy forest as other measures were resorted to, chief of which was poisoning.

This last method of control seemed to have better possibilities because it would reach the stump and roots. Interlocking between oak roots occur in the ground and the fungus creeps from an infected root to another tree's root system. Poisoning abates this method of continuing infection.

The fungus needs a wound of some type to invade the outer vessels of the sapwood," writes George H. Hepling, pathologist of the U. S. Forest Service. "The sources of inoculum are spores produced on wilt-killed trees. The most obvious sources of infections are the fungus mats produced under the bark. These mats... form from two to several months after trees or parts of trees die. They raise and crack the bark, emit an odor attractive to many insects and under certain conditions produce great quantities of spores which are readily carried both internally and externally by certain of the insects that inhabit the mats and also by squirrels."

Since burning every infected tree in a heavy forest has been found impracticable by foresters of the Eastern District of Kentucky the tree is usually cut down, the stump poisoned to destroy the root system and a repellent sprayed over the entire mass of leaves and branches. This chemical repellent keeps the insects away from the spore producing mats.

Other control measures will be tried and before long, foresters are sure, the most effective and feasible one will be undertaken. They are optimistic because they have found the disease early and it is slower to spread than the chestnut blight. Then, too, they point out that they have the united resources of the Kentucky Division of Forestry behind them. Other states are contributing research and the Federal Government is assisting as well as the hardwood industry.

If the foresters fail to control the disease, the oaks will disappear and the proud forests of Eastern Kentucky will become a ragged, broken remnant of its once pristine glory. But that will not happen, the foresters say. They are determined to eradicate oak wilt and save the majestic trees.

FOOD NOTES

By Dixie T. Higgins
Home Demonstration Agent

Requests have been coming in for "diet recipes." I assume you mean foods that are low in calories.

These recipes are made available by commercial concerns who manufacture such items as sweeteners, gelatins and also packers of diet foods. You will find these items on your grocer's shelves. Consult your doctor as to how much of this type of food to use.

Be sure to include in everyday's meals vegetables, fruits, milk, meat and bread or cereals. Use these foods with little or no seasoning. It is the bacon grease, salad dressing, cream, gravy, butter, etc. that runs up the calorie count. If you use smaller amounts of spicy foods and sweets you will find you crave them less.

People can help one another with this weight problem by not talking about food—especially the "mouth watering" kind. The less a person thinks of food, the easier it is to do without the amount that makes the difference between a heavy, well-padded frame or a trim, healthy figure.

Mrs. Roberts, hostess of the regular monthly meeting at the home of L. E. Roberts, The Greenes, at 8:15 p. m. in the treasury. Mrs. David Reed and Mrs. Ed Stewart were asked to be responsible for the Club's Community Achievement contest for the next two years.
Mrs. Theodore Gibson, Mrs. L. E. Roberts, Mrs. Edward Robinson and Mrs. Ed Stewart were appointed to transport magazines from room to room in the hospital and to provide magazines for the patients to read for the next two months.
The Club's annual Fall Flower Show was discussed at length and final plans made. The show will be held September 21 and will be opened to the public at 12 noon. A musical will be presented at 1 p. m.

A list of classes that will be used in the show will be published next week. Following the business meeting, Mrs. Hilred Burdett presented an interesting program on table arrangements. She showed a beautiful display of flowers of all types, tables and read an accompanying commentary. Following this, she gave a quilt on the table manners and table arrangements. Mrs. Ed Stewart won first prize, which was a demitasse coffee spoon in the French provincial design by Towle and given by Wright Bros. Jewelry Store of Martin. Mrs. Jones Talbot won second prize, a silver bracelet, also given by Wright Bros.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Roberts served refreshments to the following members: Mesdames James Allen, David Reed, George Patton, Ed Stewart, Paul Borders, Theodore Gibson, Frank Boush, Roland Burdett, Edward Robinson, Charles Patton, Miles Gibson, Jr., John Inon and guest, Mrs. Ruth Thomas.

Mrs. David Reed and Mrs. Paul Borders announce that plans are now being made for the table setting which is the popular addition to the Fall Flower Show. Each person who wishes to enter furnishes her own items for display—table, cloth, china, silver, centerpiece, etc. There will be six classes: breakfast, luncheon, dinner, special occasions, high school girls' entries, and children's section. In addition to the ribbons, gifts will be awarded this year.

State Division Has Vital Role In Plant Location

Frankfort, Aug. 26 (Sp.)—Kentucky is attracting new industries in unprecedented numbers. A prerequisite for success of a state's industrial expansion is convincing plant management of the advantages of locating in a particular area.
The Kentucky agency responsible for this selling job is the Department of Economic Development. Within this department is located the Division of Industrial Development which handles the task of preparing industrial resource material on Kentucky communities for presentation to interested businesses.
Upon request of a community seeking a new industry, one of three industrial agents employed by the division makes a trip to the town, talks with its leaders, gathers data on what the community offers in the way of population and labor, utilities, taxes, transportation, resources, markets, climate, and other subjects, and prepares this information to be published in booklet form.
The service is offered without cost to the community and 50 of those to be released within the next few weeks.

More than 152 towns have been surveyed or reviewed since the project began, Worden said.
The information contained in booklets, he said, often enables an expanding industry to determine, without numerous trips and correspondence the community in Kentucky best suited to the requirements which it seeks.

Division Director Bruce Kennedy reported recently that 12 surveys had been completed during the first half of this year and 24 additional towns have been visited and the information gathered is being prepared for print.
Robert G. Worden, assistant director, listed surveys of Jackson county, Benton, Hopkinsville, and a summary of South Short, and those to be released within the next few weeks.

An expression much worn by us lately is "Sick, Sick, Sick." Every time one manifests some little aberration, a speaker of cool jargon comments, "Sick, Sick, Sick." Well, if you'll read the Register of the Kentucky Historical Society while waiting for your next issue of Confidential Magazine, you'll find the expression not new.

In the July Register you'll find part two of Leander M. Cox's Mexican War Journal. Cox was a leader of a company of volunteers from Fleming, Mason and Nicholas counties who marched into Mexico. In his entry for Dec. 2, 1847, Cox wrote: "Cold and cloudy. I am Sick, Sick, Sick and worn down with fatigue."

HE VISITED UNION GULCH
Another publication, the September Redbook Magazine, declares: "For an autumn of water sports and haunting beauty, take the road Daniel Boone blazed to Cumberland Gap."

This introduces an article on the Cumberland Mountain region in the magazine, out Aug. 28. To write the feature, Peter J. Celliers traveled a portion of the Wilderness Road from Bristol, Tenn., to Booneborough, Ky. He was aided with background material by the Kentucky Department of Publications.

OPEN HOUSE
To open the new admission and intensive treatment building at Eastern State hospital, Lexington, an open house will be held Sept. 22, announces Dr. Logan Gregg, superintendent of the hospital. He said the building, which will house 100 patients, is completed and will be occupied as soon as furnishings arrive.

SMALL CITIES ALERTED
"What would you do if 30,000 or 50,000 people came into your county bringing with them only what they could carry in their hands?"

This question has been asked by the Kentucky Health Department. The agency points out that in event of an air-bomb attack on the industrial centers of Covington, Louisville and Paducah, thousands of refugees would swarm to other Kentucky communities.

"This means," warns the agency, "that small communities would have to provide most of the medical care and public health services" required in such a disaster.

NAME EXPLAINED
The Legislative Research Commission's new magazine, The Commonwealth, explains how it came by that name. Says the publication:

"Commonwealth, as all Kentuckians know, is the name of Kentucky's form of government. Only three other states use that description of their government. They are Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

"Kentucky once called herself a state. The term was changed to Commonwealth by our Constitutional Convention of 1890. The convention felt that 'commonwealth' was more accurately descriptive of the kind of governmental unit which the states represent.

"'Commonwealth' implies a separate political unit but does not mean the existence of a separate sovereignty. It means a self-governing unit which is a part of a whole, as a state is part of a nation.

"'Commonwealth' is synonymous with 'commonweal,' which means the public welfare. The Oxford dictionary defines 'commonweal' as a community in which all the people have a voice and exercise the supreme power."

$1,300,000 VOTED KENTUCKY TO FIGHT SOIL EROSION

A measure allocating about $1,300,000 in emergency federal soil conservation funds to 29 Kentucky counties has been approved by the Senate and now requires only favorable action by the House.

Fifteen counties in Eastern Kentucky, including Floyd, and 14 in Western Kentucky are in line for assistance.

Before passage of the measure, Senator John Sherman Cooper told the Senate that certain sections in Western Kentucky have suffered soil erosion from excess rainfall as severe as that in some Eastern Kentucky areas that were hit by floods last February.

To be eligible for aid under the Federal Agricultural Conservation Program a farmer must carry out specific conservation practices such as terracing, drainage work, building ponds, developing and improving pastures, and planting grain cover crops.

Before he undertakes the conservation work the farmer applies to a conservation committee in his county for permission to take part in the program. The Government may share up to 80 percent of the cost of the conservation work under certain circumstances. The usual share is 50 percent.

The funds to assist combating soil erosion in Kentucky were part of $25,000,000 in additional soil-conservation funds for use in emergency areas agreed upon Monday by a Senate-House conference committee. The soil-conservation appropriation was included in a $1,700,000,000 catch-all, supplemental appropriations bill passed Monday night by the Senate.

Cooper said that Kentucky's disaster committee reported that about $871,000 in emergency soil-conservation funds were urgently needed in 14 Western Kentucky counties affected by abnormally heavy rainfall. The committee put conservation needs at $281,000 in 15 Eastern Kentucky counties.

Eastern Kentucky counties listed are Bell, Bourbon, Clay, Floyd, Harlan, Johnson, Knott, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, McCreary, Magoffin, Perry, Pike and Whitley.

Any money allocated to Kentucky from the emergency appropriation would be in addition to the state's regular allocation under the soil-conservation program, is expected to be about $7,000,000 for Kentucky.

under the Senate amendment, the emergency funds would be available at the time farmers apply for approved conservation practices instead of in the following year.

Report of Injuries Required by Law

Frankfort, Aug. 25 (Sp.)—Officials of the State Department of Industrial Relations have expressed concern because of failure by a few employers to file first reports of injury as required by Kentucky law.

A recent preliminary investigation by the department found that four female employees of one factory had recently sustained back injuries. The injuries were not reported as required by law, although the women had been off work for several weeks and had been paid compensation by the employer's insurance carrier.

Kentucky Revised Statutes places a penalty of $25 fine for each failure to report an injury to the Workmen's Compensation Board.
