STEPHENS CLARIFIES STATEMENT

Last week, I wrote a lengthy statement in The Floyd County Times in which I mentioned the name of Rev. L. P. Tussey and since that time I have had a conversation with him on last Sunday in the presence of Green Woodward, his uncle. In the article or writing referred to in the paper, which mentioned the fact that Robert Stone had purchased a suit of clothes for Rev. Tussey and which Mr. Tussey believes reflected upon his character, in that some people might be led to believe that he had been bribed to make the statement published in The Times. I want to say there was no thought in my mind or intention on my part to infer, hint, or mean to convey any idea that the Rev. Tussey had accepted the thing mentioned in my article for the statement which he signed and was published in The Times.

The Rev. Tussey has a brother, Calvin Tussey, who resembles him very much and the Rev. Tussey is of the opinion that Calvin Tussey made the statement to me that he was for me and that I had no race, instead of him. I have talked to both of these men who are my cousins and if I have made any error about any statement, I regret it very much and hereby retract it in my humble way and ask to apologize to Rev. Tussey. There was no intention on my part to mar the feeling of Rev. Tussey in any form or manner. I have known him a long time and believe him to be a Christian and that he is living a religious life and that his desire is to so live and let his light shine that others may believe him and be guided in the right direction. As you know Church is one thing and State is another and it may be wise that no endorsements of any political candidates should be made by ministers of the Gospel. I want to say further that if at any future time I can be of service to Rev. Tussey or his family I will be glad to do so.

Respectfully submitted,

HENRY STEPHENS

Diabetes Detection Drive, Nov. 17-23, Plans are Told By Ky. Medical Association

"Saving the lives of Kentuckians threatened by one of the nation's top killers—diabetes—is the goal of the Diabetes Detection Drive on November 17-23," said Dr. Robert Hoffman, South Port Mitchell, chairman of the Kentucky State Medical Association's Diabetes Committee, who announced plans for the seventh KSMMA-sponsored drive.

Over 900 diabetic Kentuckians have been able to lead normal, happy lives because of these non-fund raising detection drives which are conducted by KSMMA in cooperation with the American Diabetes Association during National Diabetes Week.

"Every physician, hospital, and laboratory in the state has been asked to cooperate in the drive by giving a free urine sugar test to anyone requesting it," said Dr. Hoffman.

"Since the unknown diabetic is the one in greatest danger, strongly urge all Kentuckians to take the free tests which have been given to approximately 200,000 in the state since 1951," he said.

A forestry promotional meeting will be held at the courthouse, Thursday of next week at 7 p.m. It was announced this week by Bill Music, district forester. "The role forestry plays in our economy is enlarging daily and it is deemed important that all citizens become better acquainted with this role," Music said in extending the invitations to representatives of agencies related to the Division of Forestry and other interested groups as well as the general public.

"The primary purpose of this meeting is to show your county how you can be helped by the Kentucky Division of Forestry," Music said. "As a responsible leader, your presence and active participation is earnestly sought by your Division of Forestry of the Department of Conservation."

"We hope that a meeting of this sort will serve to alert the people of Kentucky as to the increased benefits to be derived by a better understanding of the forestry activities carried on by this Division," he continued. "A well managed area of timberland protected from fire and grazing, has a strong impact on the local, as well as the state economy. There is a great dollar potential in proper forest management."

High Court Reprimands Attorney at Pikeville In Case of Soldier

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 1 — F. Dale Burke, a Pike county attorney, was reprimanded by the Court of Appeals Friday for failing to properly prosecute a soldier's divorce case. M/Sgt. Loyce W. Stanley charged Burke with unprofessional conduct, saying the attorney rendered little service and refused to answer all letters written to him in connection with the proceedings. The Kentucky State Bar Association had recommended the suspension of Burke until a final judgment was entered in the divorce case. It substantiated Stanley's charges and said Stanley's wife continued to draw alimony checks while the case was pending and her husband was overseas. A final judgment was entered before the appellate court could pass on the bar association's recommendation of suspension. It is reprimand called Burke's conduct reprehensible and ordered him to pay all costs incurred by the bar commissioners and the high court.

Willis Bates, 24, Miner And Son of Knott Clerk, Is Victim of Slatfall

A Knott county man, Willis Bates, 24, of Pineport, was fatally injured in a slatfall in a Kite mine Friday. He was rushed to the Good Samaritan hospital, Lexington, suffering from a severed spinal cord. He survived until Monday. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Hindman Funeral Home.

Many Floyd countians remember the late John Ant Hall. He was prominent in local Left Beaver politics and a precinct, John Ant, was named for him. But Earl Hall's recollection of him is that of a son for among his many foster parents it was only he who reared him as if he was his own.

Now Let the Public Keep Books

For months now some of the candidates for Floyd county offices have been at it, hammer and tongs, attributing to each other many of Floyd county's ills. Now it's time for Floyd county to keep books on the winning candidates and to make an honest effort to see that whatever has been wrong does not continue to exist.

Fiscal affairs are always matters of more than passing interest to most of us, since we as taxpayers foot the bill. The proper handling of public monies is a moral duty as well as an official obligation, and yet there are other matters that to us are even more important.

These more important matters involve law enforcement officers and to the courts alike for this service. Bootlegging and drunken driving and those crimes which lead to loss of character and life itself, crimes which work insidiously toward the dissolution of public morals, deserve the strictest enforcement officers and courts can compound.

If the criticisms which would-be public officials have voiced during the political campaign, now history, result in a greater consciousness on the part of individual officeholders and the public in general of the need for impartial enforcement all down the line, then they will mean more than mere words and political haranguing and some good will be achieved. We shall see.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

"BUILDING A MUSEUM"

One of our American humorists said a few years ago, that any one could start a great museum if he would only keep what he had at any particular time, keep it in mothballs until it had gone out of style or had become a scarce article. Then the owner could bring out his possession and soon have a group of inquisitive people asking about what used to be so ordinary and commonplace. Though said in fun, this statement was a profound truth.

Many phases of our former lives are passing so rapidly that we need some such persons as the humorist described, to keep in mothballs what can never be replaced. Every time I visit a museum, I am impressed with the fact that we have set in changing from one way of life to another. Nearly everybody feels that pioneer objects are valuable, that archaeological material is irreplaceable, but we are failing to see how important things nearer our time are becoming. Formerly we kept things lovingly, things up attic and sheds with them; then we set into a habit of cleaning up and disposing of what had gone out of style. Whereas the family furniture, protected by a dozen layers of varnish and paint, spent many a year in the storerooms without deteriorating, these slightly younger articles were discarded with little or no thought of their worth, hauled off and dumped into a gully or sinkhole. It is true that there was more sentiment attached to articles that were made by hand than even were around some "fetched-out" object. But, how well many of us oldsters remember the pride we felt in these same objects, now broken or discarded. By degrees, some of our antique hunters are getting a taste for these less-ancient treasures and may help retrieve some of them before they are entirely gone.

But a museum, however large and adequate it may be, can never house the memories that cluster around old things and ways. A very large percentage of us will never put into permanent form even a small account of what things used to be like. And, before long, even those who do set down, in their way of making a museum, simple little stories of how we did things and how we felt and acted and rejoiced will be regarded with the same half-wondering, half-neering looks that are given to artifacts arranged on museum shelves. But we can have the satisfaction, here or wherever we may be then, that those same half-serious ones who pass over our cultural origins will still be the recipients of the accomplishments made so silently and so unassumingly by unknown and unregarded transmitters of folkways. The books will outlive the spectacles before the race of men give up patterns of living that distinguish us from one another and from the rest of animated nature.

Every observant person, I am trying to say, is building and has built a museum of "intangible" things—memories of what used to matter what once was a sign of being somebody, what was always around in the world but was never properly appreciated. And it is this museum-building that is ready for the novel plays that dip back into our cultural history, a painting or a song or a legend that somehow catches some of the echoes of time long gone. Holmes, in lamenting the passing of so many people who were never able to express in words the depth of their sorrow, concludes that we must take the few who do express themselves and their time as samples of what could be done, even though he sighs, as must we: "Alas for those who never sing But with all their music in them."

I'd Just As Soon Be A Plow Mule

Dear Superintendent:
I appreciate your kind offer of a job for my girl. She had her heart set on being a school teacher, but I talked her out of it. Teaching school is too much like being a preacher's wife. It's a high calling, but people expect you to give more'n they pay for.

You take the teachers here in town. The only difference in them and Christian martyrs is the date and lack of bonfire. They were hired to teach and they do it. They teach the youngsters that learn, but that ain't enough, they're supposed to make obedient little angels out of spoiled brats that never minded nobody and wet-nurse little wildcats so their mothers can get a rest, and make gentiles out of children that couldn't have no sense with the parents they've got.

But that ain't the worst. They've got to get up shows and plays to work the school out of debt, and sing in the choir, and teach a Sunday school class, and when they ain't doin' nothin' else they're supposed to be a good example.

They don't get no pay for three months, and can't pay their board or buy decent clothes, and on top of everything else they can't hold hands comin' home from prayer meetin' without some goodby and sister startin' a scandal on 'em.

I'd just as soon be a Plow Mule. A mule works just as hard but it can relieve its soul by kickin' its heels after quittin' time without startin' any talk. I appreciate your kind offer and may the devils have mercy on you, but my daughter is not interested.

Very truly yours,
Mama's Mother

Bandanna Club Helps Conservation Youth, Sportsmen Reminded

Floyd county's Junior Conservation Clubs as well as those of other Kentucky counties are urging sportsmen to join the Bandanna Club, said Bernard Baldrige, district junior conservation supervisor, here last week.

The sportsman becomes a member by buying a Kentucky sportsman bandanna. Funds thus raised help junior conservation club members pay transportation to summer camps and finance other needs. Earl Ruby, sports editor of The Courier-Journal, is general chairman of the move. The red bandanna may be worn by hunters as a safety precaution to avoid being shot by accident in the woods or may be used by women as a head-dress.

Sportsmen may join the club by procuring the bandanna at Home Furniture Store, Pratoonsburg, Wright's Jewelry at Martin, or by mailing a dollar to Bernard Baldrige, Box 121, Martin.

Kentucky's Junior Conservation Clubs are rated tops in the nation. Begun in 1945, this youth program has advanced till today 40,000 boys and girls attend club meetings in classrooms of state schools at least once a month during the entire school year. About 4,000 of these youngsters attend junior conservation camps each summer.

—By—
JACK M. FEARL
Asst. County Agent

PROJECT COMPLETION
The 4-H club year ended Oct. 31 and many of the members have already turned in record books on their projects. This year the quality of the books turned in was very good.

Two clubs had 100 per cent project completion and records turned in. They are Maytown and Arnett. The leaders of the Maytown club are Mrs. Arnold Lowe, Mrs. Ralph Spencer, Mrs. Fletcher Gayheart, Mrs. Champ Gibson, Mrs. L. E. Roberts and Mrs. Willard Hickey. The leader of the Arnett Club is Mrs. Edie Dotson.

This is certainly a commendable achievement for these clubs and the other clubs in the county should strive to reach this goal next year.

Club members that haven't turned in their record books should do so in the next week.

4-H CLUB TIME
All club leaders and members are reminded to tune in your radio each Saturday at 12:15 for "4-H Club Time". The purpose of this program is to keep all those interested in 4-H work informed of the club activities in the county.

State Teachers' Union Votes Against Change in Tenure Clause of Law

The AFL-CIO Kentucky Federation of Teachers went on record Saturday opposing any immediate change in the teacher tenure clause of the Kentucky Education Code. On a more positive side, the K. F. T. will urge support of legislative measures to place teachers on Social Security and secure revenue for increased salaries when the state legislature convenes this January, it was announced. This action was taken at the annual convention of the State Teachers' Federation held in Cincinnati. Delegates from all Kentucky Local Unions attended.

Mrs. Lola Belle Akin, Paintsville Nurse, Wins Tribute of State Group

Mrs. Lola Belle Akin, Paintsville, who was thrust into the presidency of the Kentucky State Association of Registered Nurses only a month ago, recently began the second half of a two-year term. Mrs. Akin, a doctor's widow and Johnson county public health nurse, was elected second vice-president of the association a year ago. Then last spring, the first vice-president, Sister Mary Evarista, of Covington, moved to Ohio. Mrs. Akin became first vice-president. Last month the association, president, Sister Agnes Miriam of Nazareth college, resigned the presidency. That puts Mrs. Akin in the top spot.

She said yesterday, as the association's annual convention closed at the Sheraton-Seelbach hotel, that she was thrilled at the unanimous approval of her presidency during the meeting. But thanks to her sympathetic and helpful colleagues in the association, she said, things didn't go too badly. The members gave her a standing tribute at a final business session. Elected first vice-president was Mrs. Marjorie B. Glaser, clinical coordinator at the St. Joseph Infirmary School of Nursing. New second vice-president is Mrs. Agnes Gavrieti, Hopkinsville, who had been serving as first vice-president. Mrs. Elizabeth Sams Moore, Lexington, was named secretary. New directors are Mrs. Arnetia T. Dunn, Owensboro, and Mrs. Regina L. Smith, Paducah. A resolution adopted by the group pledged "its unified effort to continue to improve working conditions and to raise the economic standards of nurses in this state." The Kentucky State Association of Student Nurses elected Miss Julie Land, Nicholasville, as new president. She is a junior at the St. Joseph Infirmary School of Nursing here.

Mine Workers Have No Wage Demand Planned

No new wage demands for coal miners are in the works for the time being. This was disclosed Monday by United Mine Workers District President John L. Lewis. At the same time, Lewis told the coal industry there is no contractual obligation for mine owners to give miners a three-day Christmas holiday and $40 bonus. Labor contracts with the coal industry continue until terminated. They could have been ended by notice August 1, effective Oct. 1. But because of what Lewis reportedly believes is a "soft" market for coal sales, he has not tried to move for a new contract. The holiday and bonus provision was provided only for last year. Said Lewis in letters to the coal industry: "I am undersigned authoritatively advised as follows: That in the absence of negotiations and agreement between the parties, which has not yet eventuated, no contractual obligation exists for the mining industry during the forthcoming 1957 Christmas period or the payment of vacation monies." Last year, some miners reportedly were not particularly happy with the Christmas holiday and bonus provision. By working those days and not getting the bonus, they could have received about $75 in wages.

LAUNDRY SUES MINERS' UNION

Business With Hospitals Suits Seeking $1,600,000

A $1,600,000 damage suit has been filed in U. S. district court at Lynchburg, Va., against the United Mine Workers of America, its retirement fund and hospital association, charging breach of contract and violation of the Sherman Antitrust act.

The suit was brought by J. Truman Younce and Truman C. Younce, operators of the Superior Laundry and Cleaners at Norton, Virginia. Also named as defendants were the Royal Laundry Co., Inc., also of Norton, and the Victor Kramer Co., Inc. of New York, N. Y. Notice of the suit was served in Alexandria, Va. on John L. Lewis, president of the United mine workers and as trustee of its welfare and retirement fund.

Younce and Younce claimed they had a contract to do all the laundry and dry cleaning for six hospitals operated by the Miners Memorial Hospital Association in Virginia, West Virginia and Kentucky. It said the association and the others conspired to break the contract and give this business to the Royal Laundry after Superior had spent money enlarging its plant to handle the work.

They said this gave Royal 70 percent of a monopoly of the commercial laundry and dry cleaning business within a 40-mile radius of Norton, and resulted in restraint of trade.

They also accused the hospital association of transferring its laundry and dry cleaning business to Royal for "gratuity or gratitude" paid one or more agents of the association, the retirement fund and the UMW after the Superior Laundry operators had refused to do so.

Del Stumbo Is Star Performer on Champ Ohio Football Team

Del Stumbo, son of Woodie Stumbo, of Minnie, is the star performer for the Olenyang high school Braves at Delaware, Ohio, a team that holds its county championship, undefeated in the Mid-Ohio League this year and in its own county over the last four years. When his team won its 16th game in a row recently over Big Walnut, Stumbo scored four touchdowns and passed for another. In three games this year he had scored 10 t.d.'s. He plays a halfback position. Stumbo's touchdowns in the 53 contests on Big Walnut came on runs of 40, 35, 85 and 60 yards. Ohio Wesleyan University apparently has its eye on the former Floyd countyan.

U.S. 13, Ky. 204, and U. S. 423W. The test included eight experimental hybrids and some of them showed promise for improvement in the future, Jones said. Five commercial hybrids included in the test compared favorably with the Kentucky hybrids. These hybrids averaged 82.1 bushels per acre with 8,000 stalks and 95 bushels per acre in 16,000 stalk stands.

The local Extension Service in analyzing the tests on the Middle Creek farm pointed out what they mean to the farmer: First, yields can be increased 20 bushels per acre by upping the number of stalks per acre to 16,000. This is twice as much as farmers usually plant. Secondly, the Extension Service advises, switch from open-pollinated to hybrid varieties and increased yields of nine to 18 bushels per acre will result with much sounder corn and less fallen stalks. Thirdly, there is a difference of around 24 bushels per acre between certain hybrids and the one that is adapted well to Floyd county should be planted.

"Dr. M. H. Skaggs has been proceeding with the fishing regulations the past week or so, since recently he caught a fish, but didn't have a license."

"The incident occurred under unusual circumstances, however, and probably will be the first and last time Doc will do fishing of this type."

"Raymond Caudill, Spencer County, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Caudill, was rushed to the doctor's office one Friday afternoon about 2 o'clock, in a critical condition with a live Bluegill fish stuck in his throat. The boy had been playing around upper Plum Creek near his home and apparently got too near the water with his mouth open. The fish, about 4 inches long and 2 inches wide, jumped into the boy's mouth."

"He was rushed to the office of Dr. Skaggs where it was necessary to remove the fish with forceps, the fish being lodged in the throat near the windpipe."

HOW THEY CAUGHT 'EM
Come to think of it, two Prestonsburg girls, Mrs. Tom G. Dinger and Mrs. Bob Francis, have done as well as anybody recently at Dewey Lake, and I should in frankness add, better than some of us. Two Former Opponents To Meet Saturday Night At London College

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Nov. 4 (Sp.) — In their coaching debut, two former opponents on the basketball court will meet again Saturday night as Pikeville College's freshmen open an 11-game schedule at Sue Bennett College, London, Ky. Woodrow Heaton, a sage star at Pikeville when the school was a junior college and now freshman coach there, will lead the little Bears against the Sue Bennett Green Dragons under their new mentor and former foe, Noel Karr.

Karr, high scorer for the Dragons from 1923 to 1924 at Preston was for the Bears, outpointed his rival in the four games in which they met, averaging 25 points to the Pikeville team's 22. Only two seasons later Pikeville, in transition to senior-college status, dropped out of junior-college play.

The Dragons frequently also-ran in the Kentucky Junior College Athletic Conference, bloomed late to become surprise runners-up in the state juco tourney last February. Earlier in the season they had fallen twice to the Pikeville team, 81-73 on their own floor Nov. 10 and 81-58 at Pikeville Dec. 5, 1946.

The yearling Bears will encounter varsity squads from three junior colleges and small colleges, and freshman or "B" teams from three larger schools. They will play home-and-home games with Sue Bennett, Lees Junior College (Jackson, Ky.), and Southwest Christian College (Winchester, Ky.) cagers, and will meet teams representing Marshall (Huntington, W. Va.), Morehead (Ky.) State and Union (Barbourville, Ky.) colleges.

In their home opener, they will host the Union College freshmen Nov. 12. The game will be the first on Pikeville's new basketball court, which replaces the floor ruined by last January's flood.

The Pikeville striping schedule: Nov. 9 Sue Bennett away (London) 13 Union Fresh Home Dec. 4 Lees Junior College Away (Jackson, Ky.) 14 Sue Bennett Home 15 Southeast Christian Home 17 Morehead "B" Home Jan. 8 Morehead "B" Away (Morehead, Ky.)

11 Marshall Fresh Away (Huntington, W. Va.) Feb. 3 Southeast Christian Away (Winchester, Ky.) 21 Lees Home Marshall Home

Capitol Notebook

Frankfort, Nov. 4 — The Kentucky Children's Home at London publishes a news pamphlet called "The Lighthouse." Here's a recent column by Supt. Emory (Pop) Hoskins:

"Thanks and appreciation are extended to the employees and children who rolled up their sleeves and went to work during our recent 'flu' epidemic at the Children's Home. It was a very successful campaign and the flu of the children had the flu. No complications have developed, and it is marvelous how cheerful everyone has been during a most trying period.

"Mrs. Betty Hensley, head nurse of the infirmary, and her staff have done and continue to do a wonderful job. The hospital cottage has been over-crowded and understaffed, but each person has done more than an individual share. It is believed that the germs were brought to our school from Eastern High School by one of our children attending school there.

"Our new Citizenship Program is being launched next week. I am asking the full cooperation of all employees and children to do their part in this program to provide a better campus climate for all of us."

TO THE QUEEN'S TASTE
A recent editorial in the Paducah Sun-Democrat:

"Kentuckians should have been pleased to note that one of the fancy meals arranged for Queen Elizabeth II on her visit to Washington last week, one of the State's delicacies was chosen for the menu.

"The wire services reported that an elaborate luncheon, served on gold-plated dinner service and gold-trimmed plates, the menu featured Kentucky ham. 'Elizabeth is not the first of the royal family of Britain to enjoy Kentucky ham.'

"Our new granddaddy, George V, regularly received country-cured hams from Trigg county and it's possible Elizabeth II is a lot for to know the taste of ham as only Western Kentuckians know how to cure it. Perhaps the royal kitchens still receive ham from Kentucky.

"It is noteworthy that while some epicures occasionally poke justifiable fun at some of the South's foods and potables—grits, green, corn pone, pot liquor and mint juleps—others still revere them and claim that Kentucky country-cured ham is overrated. After they have once tried it, preferably with hot biscuits, pickled gravy and a couple of eggs sunny-side up."

CIVIL DEFENSE
Major General J. S. Lindsay, administrator of Kentucky Civil Defense, says:

"You cannot wish away or out-talk a flood or an atom bomb—you can, in some instances, out-think them.

"The atom, in the Atoms for Peace Program, can enrich mankind in a nuclear bomb it could destroy us.

"So, as we move forward toward our goal of universal peace, we must work with both hands. One hand must develop the constructive uses of the materials with which God has blessed the world. The other hand must guard against their mis-use in ignorant or willfully destructive hands.

"It is as simple as that—and that's why, today, we must have civil defense."

HEALTH COUNCIL PLANNED
Dr. R. McPherson, commissioner of mental health, said recently that State officials are considering the establishment of a Health Resources Council. The Council, which would be composed of commissioners or directors of all State agencies dealing with health problems, would meet on a regular basis so that a coordinated program of agencies could be planned and executed. Representative of the Department of Mental Health, the Department of Health, the State Board of Health, the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission, and the departments of Welfare, Economic Security and Education have been proposed as members of this council.

ASSISTANT PASTOR TO SPEAK
The Rev. Claude Sexton, Wheelwright, will deliver the evening sermon at the Winchester Martin Holiness church, Sunday evening at 7, the pastor John T. Stewart said today. The public is invited.

JENKINS WINS E.K.M.C. CROWN

The eyes of Northeastern Kentucky high school football fans will be on Paintsville Friday night as two of Kentucky's leading prep teams, Catlettsburg and Jenkins, clash in the seventh annual Big Sandy Bowl game. Aside from the bowl game itself, the Paintsville Junior Women's League, sponsor of the post-season attraction, also has scheduled parades, and band festivals, beauty contests and other pageantry throughout the day. Jenkins has one of the best marks in Kentucky with five consecutive wins in the championship of the 10-team Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference. Catlettsburg, sporting an 8-1-1 record, won its sixth consecutive Northeastern Kentucky Conference.

OTHER BOWLS

In the other bowl games involving E.K.M.C. teams Fleming (8-2) will meet Evans in Harlan's Joyce event Friday at 8 p.m. Belfry, now 6-4 after losing two games in three days by 20-6 to Williamson, W. Va., and Jenkins will vie with the Ashland Tomcats in Ashland's Shrine Bowl game at 2:30 Saturday afternoon.

SECOND POSTPONEMENT

Prestonsburg and Paintsville have again postponed their annual football fracas until a later date, this time at Prestonsburg's request after nine members of the Prestonsburg team came down with flu Tuesday. The game was postponed from November 1 until this Thursday at Paintsville's request, but the second delay came from Prestonsburg. The future date will be agreed on by both schools, if and when all players fully recover from the current flu epidemic.

WHEELWRIGHT COPS

Ray Brackley's Wheelwright Maroons won their second football game of the season Monday night as senior halfback Claude Hall raced 65 yards in the final 40 seconds to register a 12-7 triumph for his mates over visiting Leslie county. Halfback Louie Ferris gave Wheelwright a 6-0 second period lead on a five-yard dive to pivot, only to have Leslie County go ahead, 7-6, in the third period.

ALL PRESTONSBURG BUSINESS MEN

It has been brought to our attention by local business men that a person, who we will not mention by name, has been soliciting funds from local business firms under the pretext that the money will be used to help sponsor the baseball program for 1958. This is to notify everyone that neither of us has authorized any person to solicit these funds. Please report anyone soliciting funds under this pretense to the Floyd County Sheriff's office, Phone 6171.

BIG SANDY BOWL TILT WEEK'S GRID FEATURE

The eyes of Northeastern Kentucky high school football fans will be on Paintsville Friday night as two of Kentucky's leading prep teams, Catlettsburg and Jenkins, clash in the seventh annual Big Sandy Bowl game. Aside from the bowl game itself, the Paintsville Junior Women's League, sponsor of the post-season attraction, also has scheduled parades, and band festivals, beauty contests and other pageantry throughout the day. JENKINS WINS E.K.M.C. CROWN

Cavaliers End Season Undefeated As Belfry Downed in Sunday Game

Big Sandy Bowl-bound Jenkins High captured the Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference high school football crown and ended with a perfect season, Sunday afternoon as the Cavaliers whipped Belfry, 20-6, for their ninth consecutive win.

Head coach's well-balanced eleven will clash with one-beam one-lead Catlettsburg in Paintsville's seventh annual Big Sandy Bowl game, Friday night at 8 p.m. West Virginia, Friday night, then moved into Jenkins Sunday afternoon to make up an important conference game that was postponed after the last game of the Belfry gridlers two weeks ago.

In the remaining game of last week's abbreviated action, Jim Harrison's Hard Rock secured the thirteenth of second place in the circuit by taking highly-regarded Fleming, 12-0.

Thus, the Bulldogs ended with a respectable 7-1 mark and 4-1 in the loop standings. Other than the bowl game this Friday—two go games remain on the regular season schedule. Thursday night, Prestonsburg will be the scene of the annual Prestonsburg-Paintsville grid tussle, and Pikeville will be host to Corbin Friday night.

Diminutive halfback Gary Harrison was the star of Jenkins conquest of Belfry. The agile speedster passed for one touchdown and ran one 61 yards to his team's outright 106 points, highest in all Eastern Kentucky.

Harrison and rangy end Nicky Damm put the Cavaliers into a 7-0 first period lead by teaming for a 31-yard pass to the Belfry seven, from which point halfback Billy Elkins plunged over. Tackle Kenneth England booted the point after.

Jenkins increased the halftime margin to 13-0 as Harrison pitched to end Russell Mullins in the end zone for a 45-yard scoring effort. Following Belfry's fourth quarter scoring effort, Harrison intercepted a pass and scampered 60 yards to pay dirt.

Since Fleming's ace fullback James "Red" Hill failed to score as his team was shutout, Gary Harrison won the regular season individual scoring championship with 105 points unless Prestonsburg's Paul Phillips Hughes should score on a scoring spree against Paintsville.

New-type, sound-conditioned concrete will still be fun to drive in '75

Not a "thump" to be heard on this continuous-laid concrete. It's almost like riding above the pavement, instead of on it. Sound-conditioned concrete has no joints... only tiny, sawed cushion spaces. You skim over them and don't know it! "Air-entrainment" prevents surface roughening, keeps concrete smooth. Laid flat, new-type concrete stays flat and will last 50 years and more.

The Interstate System is planned for the traffic of 1975... when concrete laid today will still be "new" and fun to drive.

Simple Marker Identifies Grave of Marine Hero

Frankfort, Nov. 7.—On a small knoll in Frankfort Cemetery, overlooking the graves of vice-presidents, senators, governors, artists, and scores of Kentucky patriots who fell in war against the wilderness and foreign aggressors, stands the simple stone marking the grave of Marine Corps Lt. Prasley Miller, B-5, "The Hero of Derne."

In 1905, O'Bannon, leading seven marines and a group of recruited mercenaries, started from Egypt on a 800-mile trek across the Desert of Barca to the stronghold of Tripoli, the sanctuary of ruthless renegades who consistently looted American ships plying the waters off the coast of North Africa.

After the capture of Derne, the chief fortress of Tripoli, O'Bannon personally lowered the Tripoli flag and hoisted the Stars and Stripes for the first time on foreign soil.

The new ruler of the captured nation presented the marine lieutenant with his own jeweled sword. Today marine officers still carry the sword, commemorating the Corp's loyal service during this campaign.

Appropriately, the actions of O'Bannon and his men are remembered in the first line of the Marine Corps hymn with the words, "To the Shores of Tripoli." These same words were also inscribed across the top of the first standard adopted by the Corps.

After his separation from service, O'Bannon came to Kentucky where his brother, Major John O'Bannon, was living. Shortly after his arrival he was elected by the people of Logan county to represent them in the State Legislature from 1811 until 1820.

At O'Bannon's death in 1850, he was buried in Henry county. In 1919, through the efforts of the Daughters of the American Revolution, his body was moved to Frankfort Cemetery.

State Begins Program To Cut Road Deaths

Frankfort, Nov. 7 — Safety Commissioner Don S. Sturgill has initiated a three-part program to combat highway accidents during November and December.

State police will cite motorists for all moving violations. The custom of only warning drivers on a first offense will be stopped. The second phase of the program will be a check of all driver-license files by the Public Safety Department's Regulatory Division. Any person found to be driving while his license is suspended or revoked will be arrested and brought into court.

The third phase will be a stepped-up effort to investigate all highway hazards by the Accident Control Division.

Sturgill said he is proud of the effort of the Division of State Police to reduce highway fatalities.

He called upon churches, courts, local law-enforcement agencies and other groups to cooperate in the program.

"WASPIES"

A rather young acquaintance of mine told me recently that "waspies" have been worse than usual this year and that they seem to be very plentiful. He used the word several times and took the straight talk to Fidelity, except that he often said "waspies." He also took me back to a much more remote time, when our outlandish words, now now with collections of connotations were pronounced smoothly with vowels between, just as they had been in Old English times. In those same times there were "birds," now "birds," and "axed," now (and I dare you to say the past tense—"axed" plainly) "axed." In using some of our stunted vowels, we lost some ease of speech, that is, those of us who try to speak "English as she is spoken." It really does me good to hear these sounded extra vowels in the words just mentioned and in "striped." Naturally, I am too big a coward to use them myself, but I love to hear the ones who unconsciously keep alive the older forms of speech. Even a college graduate of my acquaintance once told me that a certain kind of "bustles" the moulting around doors. And, of course, the moulting was "busted," as anybody can see.

In reaching thousands of people in my course in the English Language, I have often noted some slip on this very matter of explaining these left-overs of speech. One student, many years ago, said that the child who is the cousin to his wife is his helping her to understand Grandma, in such words as these and in other meanings that were once as proper as bookkeepers or button shoes or stovepipe hats. Many a usage is not to be laughed at merely because it seems strange; it is necessary first to know whether it was once proper or has always hung around on the edges of correct usage and has never become proper.

English, as I often tell my students, is good, bad, and half-good or half-bad. Good English is something like many of our tastes and policies: it is painfully kept smooth language, acceptable to high and low, no matter how easy it seems. It is one of the hardest things to learn and keep on learning for good language, like good manners and good clothes, undergoes changes constantly. Bad English is hard to define, but it is made up of whole groups of usages; words that have gone out of standard use words that are so new that they are still too technical or strange to be standard, barbarisms (words that have been made up on the basis of words already known but are not yet acceptable—"suspect" as a verb, for instance), and genuine slang (words pertaining to some sport or game or intimate phase of society but not universally recognized). Many of these words are likely to appear in our spoken English, but to be understood for what they are: when we begin to write we are somewhat hampered, for our readers may not know when we are merely laughing at language "criticism," in this column. It is not to be taken as a literary usage in spite of its usefulness. "Honed" does is another expression that good usage frowns upon, but what would you say? The half-good or half-bad usage give me the most trouble with my students. They are not likely to use such vulgarisms as "sees" for "saw" or "takes" for "took," but they do have trouble with their nominatives and objectives. "I see, he, him; we, us, they, them, she, her." So simple a thing as case

Martin Succeeds Humphreys In Highway Post

Frankfort, Nov. 7 — Gov. A. B. Chandler has announced Dr. James W. Martin will become state commissioner of highways, effective Nov. 15, succeeding Robert Humphreys, who resigned. The governor said he would appoint Ward Oates, who has been deputy finance commissioner. Chandler said Humphreys' resignation as highway commissioner would in no way affect his status as a member of the Administration's five-man policy committee headed by Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield.

Hazard Coaldealer Found Dead In Car

CAMPTON, Ky., Oct. 31 — Peyton L. Mitchell, 37, Hazard coal operator who had been missing since Saturday, was found dead in his auto near Sky Bridge Wednesday. State police at Morehead said the car's windows were closed, a rubber hose attached to the exhaust pipe was protruding into the car over one window, the ignition was on, and the car's gasoline tank was empty. State police quoted Coroner Steve Brewer as saying Mitchell apparently died of carbon-monoxide poisoning. Mitchell was president of Knott Coal Corporation.

Waterfowl Season Opens November 7

Frankfort, Nov. 7 — Kentucky's waterfowl hunting season will open Nov. 7 and extend through Jan. 15, the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources announced. The duck bag limit is four a day with a possession limit of eight after two or more days of shooting. Hunting hours will be from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. The possession and bag limit for geese is five, which may not include more than two Canada or Canada subspecies. No wood ducks may be killed.

Humphreys also is chairman of the Democratic State Central Executive Committee, on which he has served for many years. His letter of resignation, addressed to the governor, said "my health does not permit me to longer continue as head of the Department of Highways."

The governor expressed hope Humphreys would take a much needed rest and "as soon as you are relaxed and refreshed . . . let me assign you to some work with our administration so that you can help us carry forward the program of progress which you have helped us outline."

Humphreys served as highway commissioner in the governor's 1955-59 administration and was named to the post again at the start of this administration. Dr. Martin was revenue commissioner in the first administration and was appointed to head the finance department in 1955.

Telephone Talk

by
H. D. HAYES
Your Telephone Manager

OVER THE HORIZON—How would you like to see a TV program from Cuba? Well, now it's possible. American Telephone and Telegraph Company and Radio Corporation of Cuba have just completed between Florida and Cuba the first two-way "over the horizon" communication system ever to be put in service. Before this, beams traveled in a straight line between relay antennas. When they came to an ocean, they were stopped because there was no place for further relays. The new system sends powerful beams into the air. Thousands of feet up, a layer of atmosphere scatters them downward to distant receiving stations. So don't be too surprised if some night your TV starts speaking Spanish. You might not understand all that's said, but at least you'll know how your telephone company's "good neighbor" policy brought our friends in Cuba here to our community.

TO MARKET, TO MARKET—When most folks go shopping, they keep their eyes open for what's new. Your telephone company likes to keep up, too. By installing more and more telephone conveniences. For instance, now you can have a telephone that lights up at night; a spring cord for your phone that never snarls or tangles; or, if you like, a volume-control telephone that lets you turn the voice of the person you're talking with up or down. And best of all (my favorites, anyway) we have cord telephones—so bright and convenient as extra phones anywhere in the house. Think you might like some of these new conveniences? Call us, and we'll be glad to help you select them.

DOG-GONE—I guess it's a dog's life all right for the pup. Waiting while the lady talks. But who can blame her when these new outdoor telephone booths are so handy. You'll be seeing them more than ever around here, anywhere you go. We telephone people think they're pretty special because they make it a lot easier for everyone to talk to anyone, most anytime.

Frankfort, Nov. 7 — Gov. A. B. Chandler has proclaimed Nov. 10-16 Education Week in Kentucky. Dr. Robert R. Christopher Greenup — From Poverty To The Executive Mansion

By Charles F. Hinds
Secretary Treasury, Kentucky Historical Society

Christopher Greenup was the third Governor of Kentucky (1804-08), following Isaac Shelby and James Garrard. He is also distinguished for having been, along with Alexander Orr of Mason county, one of the first two members from Kentucky in the United House of Representatives, both serving from the admission of Kentucky into the Union in 1792 to 1797. Greenup County is named for Governor Greenup.

His portrait by Harold Collins hangs in the Governor's gallery in the State of the Old State House in Frankfort. Another portrait by William T. Hundtlich and owned by the Historical Society, is on loan to the Old Governor's Mansion, the present home of Governor Harry Lee Waterfield and his family. The early life of Governor Greenup is shrouded in mystery. He was born around 1750 of poor parents, according to Kentucky historians, in either Loudon, Westmoreland, or Botetourt County, Virginia in the American Revolution, depending on several sources of information, he was a captain or a colonel. He probably moved to Kentucky in 1783. This belief is supported by two pieces of evidence. He bought a town lot in Lexington and was admitted to the bar in that year. Beginning with the year 1784, Greenup's rise was rapid in Kentucky politics, making it easy to sketch his life with more certainty. He was, successively, clerk of the First Statehood Convention at Danville, clerk of the Virginia Court of Kentucky, a member of the United States House, clerk of the Kentucky Senate, Circuit Judge, and Governor of Kentucky. From 1808 to his death in 1818, he remained active in public life as a state representative and justice of the peace. He was also a director of the Bank of Kentucky and an early trustee of Transylvania University.

Both Weeds, Strawberries Suffer From Herbicides

Weed-killers with long-staying properties were hard on the weeds in strawberry plots at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, but the strawberries suffered, too.

That's the report of James Herron and Carl Chaplin, station horticulturists. They ran tests to see if the long-residual materials would be as satisfactory in weed control as the shorter-lasting materials most commonly used. Sesone (Craig Herbicide-1 material) was used as a check. This is a relatively short-lived material. Four experimental compounds noted for long-lasting qualities were tried. Herron and Chaplin say the weeds went out fast when the latter materials were applied — but so did the strawberries. The materials "burned" the weeds and strawberries.

They noted further that when the experimental materials were used in rates close to that recommended for Sesone (the shorter-lived material), the weed control was "no better than if Sesone itself had been used."

The herbicides were used as wettable powders. Rates ranged from 12 to 8 pounds per acre, depending on the material.

The experiment was valuable in showing that although satisfactory weed control could be obtained with these materials, the strawberry plants would be killed, too.

Sesone will continue to be the recommended material for use in strawberry weed control for the coming season.

Chandler Sets Special Week For Youths

Frankfort, Nov. 7 — Gov. A. B. Chandler has proclaimed Nov. 4-10 Youth Appreciation Week in the Commonwealth.

The observance is sponsored by Optimist International. The organization's Third District represents the Kentucky and Ohio Valley region.

Purpose of the special week is to give proper recognition to the accomplishments of youth in the home, the church, the school and the community.

The proclamation said "Statistics reveal that 85 per cent of the youth of this country are law-abiding young Americans, with every promise of becoming courageous and responsible citizens, to whom we can with confidence entrust the future of our nation, the preservation of its traditions and the fulfillment of its glorious heritage."

The governor urged "that during this period all Kentuckians encourage a more active participation in family affairs." He asked that youth organizations "in regard, respect and appreciation for the promising youth of our land and that proper environmental, recreational and social opportunities be provided for all youth of the State, to the end that our youth who will be leaders of our State and Nation in a few years shall be encouraged in the challenging tasks that await them."

New Plan To Blacktop State's Country Roads

Frankfort, Nov. 7 — Gov. A. B. Chandler has announced plans to blacktop about 4,600 miles of state-maintained country roads.

Cost of blacktopping these roads, now mainly gravel or rock surfaced, was estimated by the governor at $37,000,000.

The new plan calls for completion of the blacktopping, if possible, before the governor leaves office in December, 1959.

Chandler said the plan is a continuation of the rural highway program he launched in 1936 during his first term as governor.

He directed Rural Highway Commissioner J. B. Wells to handle the new program and push it toward completion.

The governor said no estimate had been made of funds that might be available for the program and added "we will take any we can get."

Wells said most of the money would come from rural secondary road funds, collected at the rate of two cents a gallon on motor fuel sold in Kentucky, and from departmental funds expected to be freed by sale of state lands to help Kentucky match federal road aid.

Chandler commented on the blacktopping plan that "this is one of the blessings we promised the people they could expect from passage of the road bonds." Kentuckians in November, 1956, approved issuance of $100,000,000 worth of road bonds by a margin of about 6-1.
