Liquor Stamp Is Evidence Of Guilt, Says the Law

Section 242.400, Kentucky Revised Statutes, reads:

"(1) The possession of a United States special tax stamp, commonly called a United States license, for carrying on the business of a retail dealer in alcoholic beverages, or having the tax stamp or license at the place of business in dry territory, shall be prima-facie evidence of guilt under this chapter.

"(2) An attested copy of the record of the office issuing such license showing its issuance shall be admissible in evidence in any action under this chapter."

So reads the law. How that law is to be construed, applied, or even controverted, is a matter for lawyers and the courts to decide.

Our knowledge of the law, and particularly of its intricacies, is amazingly slight. Considering the provisions of the statute here quoted in the light of plain English, we would say that somebody had an idea that if a man, or a woman, or an establishment were caught with alcoholic beverages and had a federal liquor stamp, it would be obvious that they were guilty—this reasoning being based on the obvious, that you don't go to the trouble of getting a federal license to sell soft drinks, and that the drinks found on the premises weren't soft, to start with.

One more paragraph should have been added to that statute. This same law should provide that proof that any individual or group of individuals holds a federal stamp or license in dry territory is evidence sufficient for the issuance of a warrant authorizing the search of premises occupied by the holder of the stamp.

SERVICE EXTENSION

LIVESTOCK
Previously it was announced in the columns that all cattle shown at the county fair would have to be tested within thirty days before the show. But due to the low infection rate of livestock in the county, this requirement has been lifted for this year, by the State Department of Agriculture.

All livestock shown at the fair will be inspected before unloading by a state official, to protect against the spread of disease.

The livestock show this year should develop into one of the best. Several farmers are planning to show their livestock this year. The livestock show will be on Saturday, September 7. Plan to attend.

ALFALFA
It is a well known fact that alfalfa is nearly neutral. Any soil of the county that has not been limed in the last few years will test moderately or strongly acid. The acid soil is the probable reason for many of the alfalfa failures. It would be wise before seeding alfalfa to have a soil test made. These tests could indicate three situations. One, the soil would have the right amount of lime for alfalfa. Lime should be applied, and seeding withheld until the correct acidity is obtained. This will sometimes require a year or more if the soil tests strongly acid.

STRAWBERRIES
If a crystal ball were available, it could look into the future the next spring and see many farmers having a difficult time preparing land for setting strawberries. The soil would be too wet to plow. Plants would not be ordered in time. Plants would have to be held-in until the land was prepared. Early set strawberries will outgrow those set late.

There is a way to get around these problems. Select the field that is to be set in strawberries now, have a soil test made, and plow this fall. All strawberry land should be plowed in the fall. If the field is too steep to plow in the fall because of erosion, it is too steep for strawberries.

TRY THIS FOR MAKING QUICK TUNA SALAD
Here's a recipe for a quick Tuna Waldorf Salad, as given by the U. S. Department of Interier's Fish and Wildlife Service. Drain two (2) or seven ounce cans of tuna and break the tuna into large pieces. Combine with one cup diced apples, 1/2 cup chopped celery, 1/2 cup chopped nuts, and 1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing. Serve on lettuce. Serves six.

Yet Policy Divided Deadline Approached

Approximately 100,000 voters in Kentucky will be asked to vote on the issue of whether or not to ratify the Federal Reserve Act on September 16. The deadline for the vote is approaching, and the issue is still divided.

The issue of whether or not to ratify the Federal Reserve Act is still divided. Some voters believe that the Federal Reserve is necessary for the stability of the economy, while others believe that it is a threat to the independence of the states.

Story Told How "Aunt Sis" Given Nickname by Soldiers

By HENRY P. SCALF

The Union troops of Col. James A. Garfield, who came to Prestonsburg in January, 1862, following the Battle of Middle Creek, sloughed through the mid-winter mud of the streets, milled about the center of town and finally threw tents at the northern end of town. The commanding colonel took up headquarters in the John M. Burns home.

Thirteen-year-old Mary Rowena Cooley secured fortitude from her home on First Avenue for her father, David Cooley, Confederate sympathizer, who was in Virginia. She and her mother could see the blue-clad soldiers knocking on doors and questioning people.

A detail of soldiers marched up the street and a young lieutenant brought them to a halt before the Cooley residence. Mrs. Cooley came out of the house, stood facing the officer and his men.

"Who lives here?" the lieutenant demanded. "David Cooley, sir," she said bravely. "I am Mrs. Cooley."

"Where is David Cooley?" "He is in Virginia, sir."

The officer paused briefly at this information, then said: "Mrs. Cooley, I know you no harm from us. We need food and if you will prepare meals for my troops I'll set a guard around your home and let you go."

Mrs. Cooley agreed, and soldiers took positions around the house. In the side, Mary Rowena helped her mother prepare the evening meal for the soldiers. Darkness came but the family had no fear, for soldiers stood sentinel around the house.

Mary Rowena became a favorite of the soldiers. A soldier, perhaps thinking of a golden-haired stater back home, called her "Aunt Sis." Soon everybody called her that, including her mother and friends in town.

Came a day when Steve Cooley with a fever and a doctor was called. She had measles, he said. Every day the soldiers asked about Sis, but they never entered the house for fear of the contagion. The guards still stood at the front gate and at the back.

Sissy improved and was soon about the house and then one morning she went out to the gate to say "Hello" to her protectors. Soon, up and down the street, the news flew. Little Sissy was well.

David Cooley, his business finished in Virginia, came back to Prestonsburg, found he was in debt to his Northern foes for the safety of his family.

Mary Rowena Cooley grew to womanhood and the name Sissy was changed to Sis by her friends. She married Isaac Richmond but to the end of her days she was called Sis Richmond.

Proud of the name, she never tired of telling how the soldiers threw a guard around her home and named her Sissy.

PLUMBING CODE ADOPTED BY PRESTONSBURG, MARTIN

The new plumbing code adopted by the cities of Prestonsburg and Martin means that all plumbing in new homes or public buildings, remodeled homes or public buildings any plumbing is changed and all sewer lines laid to the new city sewer must be installed in accordance with the code and must pass inspection.

This code also covers the installation of new hot water heaters, water heaters, water heaters, and automatic dishwashers in the home.

Any individual planning to lay his or her own line to the new city sewer may do so but first must come to the Health Department and make application for a plumbing permit. It was pointed out this week by Earl Compton, of the health department.

An individual installing his own sewer must be governed by the same laws by which a plumber must abide. Following is a list of items that the home-owner should know follow if he plans to install his own sewer:

All sewer pipe must be four inches in diameter and must be made of iron or vitreous clay, and all joints must be watertight and airtight.

Plastic pipe is not permitted unless it is of a grade that is approved by the Kentucky State Health Department.

Storm drains will not be permitted to go into the sewer.

All sewer lines must be inspected by the plumbing inspector before they are covered over with dirt.

If you live in Prestonsburg or Martin, at no time should you permit an installation man or maintenance man or plumber from any furniture store or hardware store come into your home and install a hot water heater, automatic washer, kitchen sink or automatic dishwasher without first obtaining a plumbing permit from the health department.

from any meal not ground by watermill wasn't fit to eat. The folks said that steam-mill meal was ground too fast, the "rockers" got so hot the meal was half-cooked before it reached the sack. Then came along the first "bolton" meal and that wasn't fit to eat, either. Remember that sticky, clammy mess tread was when first your mother tried to make a pie with that new stuff?

Then came the time when they learned to add a little flour or something, and you got one that wasn't fit to eat, either. Remember that sticky, clammy mess tread was when first your mother tried to make a pie with that new stuff?

I wonder if watermill meal would fall as far as the new as some of these old people have upon reading.

ALWAYS ONE TOUGHER
I've been reading Ray Caudill's "Night Comes to the Cumberland" and have decided that, if he is anywhere near right, the early mountaineer was just about the toughest critter ever to hit terra firma. This brings up the story told about Big, Bad John.

This bumbler, it seems, was head-butted by the postman and only went indoors but worked under ground as far as possible. This man was terror personified.

When a horse had burrowed deep but a lone barkeeper who lingered to pick up an extra quarter before he left, there have been into sight a giant of a man riding an elephant and cradling a wildcat in his arms. Up to the saloon door he rode, dismounted, planted his fist squarely between the elephant's eyes and roared, "Stay there!"

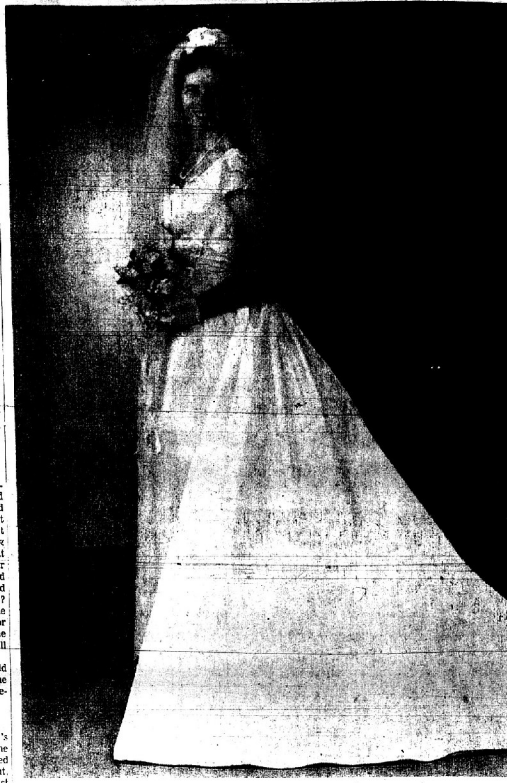

The poor pachyderm staggered, righted himself and froed in his tracks. Inside the saloon, the stranger strode to the bar, on which he planted the wildcat with the command, "Sit there!" And the quivering kiddy sat.

Next the victor ordered three-fifths of Scotch which he consumed in record time without blinking an eye. The terror-stricken bartender, thinking to mollify the visitor, suggested that he have one on the house.

"Ain't got time," the other grunted. "Ain't one on me."

"Ain't got time," the other roared. "Gotta git gone." Big, Bad John's due here any minute.

MISS MARTIN, BRIDE OF MR. YABROFF

Miss Dorothy Gay Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Martin of Martin, Ky., became the bride of Mr. Ronald Mittleman Yabroff, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Louis Yabroff, Lafayette, California, in a candlelight ceremony at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here, Saturday, August 24, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. Guy Deans, Jr., of Morgansfield, Ky., officiated, using the double-ring vows.

Church decorations consisted of palms and southern smilax interspersed with candelabra holding white wedding tapers and flanked by standards of white gladioli and anemones.

Traditional wedding music was presented by Mrs. Joe Buchanan, organist; Mrs. James Chester Claypool, of Danville, sang "I Love Thee," "Always," and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. L. C. McClelland.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of bridal white pin-tucked silk organza, designed with a deep oval neckline and short sleeves outlined in hand-clipped chantilly lace. Her train of lace encircled the dome skirt, and a removable chapel train was held at the waistline by a crushed cummerbund. Her veil of illusion fell from a cluster of self fabric roses studded with tiny pearls. She carried a white pearl Bible topped with gardenias from which trailed Stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Charles Macdunes, of Martin, New York, served as matron of honor. She wore a soft coral silk organza dress over matching taffeta, styled with a scoop neckline and brief sleeves. Her headpiece was a coral silk organza rose with a circlet of matching illusion. She carried a French bouquet of deep pinks and bouquets of pale piccadilly gladioli.

Bridesmaids were Miss Ann Kristin Ramsey, Pikeville, and Mrs. Walter Witschey, Charleston, West Virginia. They wore dresses designed like that of the honor attendant and carried matching bouquets of pale piccadilly gladioli.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the May Lodge. Assisting were Miss Sue Sherman, Miss Alicia Crisp, and Miss Charlene Davis, of Martin, and Miss Patricia Evans and Miss Judy Price, of Wayland. At the guest register was Miss Nancy Rose, of Prestonsburg.

After a wedding trip to Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Yabroff will reside at 222 Dryden Road, Ithaca, New York. Both will be enrolled in the Graduate School at Cornell University.

Memory Development Discussed in Book

BY ROBERT WALLACE

I have always admired the person who never forgets a name or face. This ability to remember names and faces is, in my opinion, more valuable than the ability to make a 109-yard touchdown run.

For this reason I read with interest the little book, "How to Develop a Perfect Memory for Names and Faces," by M. B. Upton. The library has three copies. Just as I started reading the book a man called and said for me to stop by.

The book, according to the author, outlines and gives details of a system that will enable the average person to develop a memory like that of the person he makes a good time out of it, saying that today's casual acquaintances often are tomorrow's "caused friends." He presents an complicated procedure of strengthening one's memory making sure you have the name correct, linking up the name with a mental image of the person, then practice in recalling to mind both the name and the picture.

The author furnishes in the book a model card wherein you jot down the name and address of a new acquaintance, plus any distinguishing marks and appearance.

The author says his system has a worked for him in his business, he believes his system is a good one, and I'm going to try it.

Now, let's see, who was it that called me on the phone?

It is planned time again Hardy spring. Looking for bulls should be done by then be fall planted for best results. Fall is even the best time for most of our lilies, with only a few exceptions.

Risks involved in landing on the moon include dealing with the temperature which ranges from above the boiling point of water during the day to 300 degrees below zero at night, according to Reader's Digest.

BOARD MAY LIMIT ACTIVITY OF TEACHERS IN POLITICS

A local school board may "within reasonable bounds" limit a teacher's political activity outside the classroom, the attorney general's office said Monday.

But Assistant Attorney General Ray Corne said he could not give a direct answer as to whether the local county school board acted legally in adopting a resolution on the subject June 6.

The resolution ordered that "any employee who takes an active part in political campaigns submit his resignation."

Joe Ross Hickman, president of the Fulton County Teachers' Association, asked for the attorney general's advice and commented:

"I feel this move is a severe blow at the very roots of civil rights. I also wonder about the legality of such action."

Ross said he interpreted the school board resolution as suppressing "expression of opinion in public regarding major political races, bumper stickers on private cars, and otherwise permitting opinions to be heard in public."

But Corne said he does not think the resolution would encompass expression of private opinions outside the classroom during non-school hours.

"We are unable to take a positive stand on the question of the legality of the resolution adopted by the board since the phrase 'active part in political campaigns' is not defined," Corne said.

"We would assume, however, that it does not extend to the voicing of one's personal opinion during non-school hours, the wearing of a campaign pin or button during these times, and related activities of a similar nature."

Corne said the line of demarcation is difficult to draw in many instances.

"The problem is a delicate one because the equilibrium of the school system should not be disturbed by an inordinate participation in political campaigns and, on the other hand, the members of the profession should not be throttled in voicing their preference in such contexts," he said.

One state statute prohibits a teacher from being discharged because of political opinions or affiliations.

But Corne said the statute should not be construed to include active participation in political campaigns.

Forest Research Planned On Coal-Stripped Lands; Berea Is Study Center

Frankfort, Ky., August 17 (Sp.)—Increased activity in research for forest restoration and watershed management on coal-stripped land in the Appalachian Mountains of Kentucky will be conducted from the Berea office of the Central States Station of the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

In a joint announcement, Kentucky Conservation Commissioner J. O. Matlock and R. D. Lane, director of the Central States Experiment Station, Columbus, Ohio, said U. S. Forest Service scientists will step up the research project after federal legislation, signed by President Kennedy, provided a $150,000 increase for the project in July.

Lane said that plans are being developed rapidly so that the new research can be started immediately. Several scientists will be employed to carry on this new work. They will include water flow specialists, plant specialists, soil scientists and entomologists.

Matlock and Lane said that limited research, financed jointly by their two offices, has been underway at Berea for the past two years on some aspects of mined-area restoration in the high forested watersheds of Eastern Kentucky.

The increased funds will enable the Forest Service to carry out studies and get practical results much sooner than would otherwise be possible, they said. The Kentucky Department of Conservation, Tennessee Valley Authority, Berea College, University of Kentucky, Kentucky Reclamation Association, individual mining companies, and others have been cooperating in this research program. In addition, Ohio State University, Purdue University, and others are cooperating with the Central States Station on special aspects of strip-mine reclamation.

The research being expanded at Berea will include tree planting as part of a much broader program. Lane said the Station scientists will now be searching for vegetation that grows rapidly, provides a quick cover compatible with tree growth, and helps reduce surface erosion and water runoff on the stripped land.

The scientists will also seek vegetation suitable for wildlife food and cover, for recreational developments, and for protection of mine ponds and streamflow, he explained.

The expanded program will include research leading to practical methods for protecting forest and other natural resources during mining, of leaving the mined areas in the best possible condition for restoration for a number of land uses, and for reducing run-off and erosion from coal haul roads.

Although the research at Berea has been under way for only two years, the Central States Station has been conducting research in tree planting on stripped-over areas for the past 25 years. Experimental plantings have been made by the Station and cooperating mining companies and their associations in eight states: Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

The results of this research have been released by the Station and now guide a massive, nationwide tree planting program conducted by the mining companies and their associations.

SPORTS CHATTER
By GORDON MOORE

The Floyd county high school football championship will be settled Friday night in Wheelwright where the Maroons are host to the Prestonsburg Black Cats.

The 8:00 p.m. session will mark the head coaching debut of Bert Dixon, who was named the school's outstanding athlete in 1956. He has been coaching at Shawnee high in Jefferson county since playing three years as a starting end for the Morehead State College Eagles.

Dixon has been faced with a rebuilding job as six of last year's regulars failed to report for fall practice. Lack of depth and experience could hamper the Black Cat chances for a winning season.

In the backfield, Dixon is expected to go with quarterback Mike Welk, halfback Chalmers Howard and David Miller or Gary Goble at the other post. Junior Lemmie Harris will be the fullback. All are letterwinners. SETHAR ODOV SEBRATH, winners from last season.

"Chuck" May, 210-pound senior, is the biggest player in the line and is a two-season veteran. He will team with junior Earman Tackett at the tackle position. They are the only experienced linemen.

Paul Burke, Joe Howard, center Johnny Dawson, Randy Burchett and Herschel Joseph are non-letterwinners and will be starting for the first time.

Wheelwright bowed 64-6 to Jenkins in its opening game last week; the loss marked one of the worst ever for the Trojans. Holdovers for the Trojans are fullback Douglas Hall, halfback Robert Jackson, center Gary Winkler, tackle Ernie Moore and end Steve Berger.

PP&K CONTEST PLANNED HERE
Test of Grid Skills Set for Boys, 8 to 11; Dixon, Local Director

Prestonsburg area grade school boys from eight through 11 can put their football skills against those of other boys throughout the nation in the third annual Punt, Pass & Kick competition which will culminate with a trip to Washington, D. C. for a White House tour, then to Dearborn, Michigan, and afterward an appearance at the National Football League Championship game for the top eight winners.

Sponsored nationally by the Ford Motor Company and the National Football League, the Punt, Pass & Kick program—PP&K—will be staged in Prestonsburg by Bruce Walters Ford with the Prestonsburg Lions Club as local co-sponsor. Bert Dixon, Prestonsburg high school football coach, has been named competition director.

Prestonsburg youth will be tested by their ability to punt, pass and kick (using a kicking tee) footballs on the same day as thousands of other boys all over the country, with warm-up jackets, football helmets and autographed footballs to be given as first, second and third prizes for each age group, or four top Prestonsburg winners in all. Scores throughout the state then will be compared to determine the four top Kentucky winners, and these scores compared to determine the most skillful, eight, nine- and eleven-year-old budding football stars in each of the areas covered by the telecasts of the 14 National Football League teams.

Area winners and their fathers and mothers will receive all-expense-paid trips to a National Football League game and will compete during half-time to determine the four top Eastern Division winners and the four top Western Division winners. These eight boys, accompanied by their parents, will visit Washington, D. C. where they will tour the White House. They will then travel to Dearborn, Michigan, and tour Greenfield Village. The entire group then will go to the site of the NFL Championship game for half-time competition to determine the four National winners.

Dixon, director of Bruce Walters Ford, and president of the Prestonsburg Lions Club, pointed out that there is no charge for entering, and no special equipment needed. "Registration will be open from September 3 through October 11," he said. His office will serve as the registration headquarters.

Entrants will be judged on the distance accuracy of their punt (one, passing and kicking using a kicking tee), with points awarded for each foot of distance the ball travels on the fly and deducted for each foot the ball lands to the right or left of a center line. The Prestonsburg competition will be held Saturday, October 12, at Thompson Stadium.

Rev. Fitts Resigns
Wright Pastorate, To Teach at Clear Cr.

The Rev. Robert Fitts, a native of Nashville and a World War II chaplain, has resigned the pastorate of the Wheelwright Baptist Church to join the faculty of Clear Creek Baptist School, Pineville, Kentucky, where he will teach in the Old Testament Department. An associate in the Kentucky Baptist Sunday School Department for six years, he received the B.A. degree from Carson-Newman College, the Master of Theology degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and also did graduate work at the University of Georgia. He was formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of Harrodsburg and First Baptist Church, Stearns.

Mrs. Fitts, the former Velva Sinkhorn, of Harrodsburg, is a graduate of Bethel College and Pineville College. Their oldest son, John, is a second year pre-medical student at the University of Kentucky with a scholarship from Inland Trust Corporation. Other children include Susan, 16, and twins, Deborah and Douglas, age 8.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING TELLS DANGERS OF BARBITURATES

Millions of respectable people use pills for sleeping and "pop"—but many are stirring up disaster, even death.

Thousands of Americans were killed last year because of their daily dependence on barbiturate "sleeping" pills—or these drugs opposite number, amphetamine "pop" pills.

Doctors estimate that thousands more were placed in mental clinics and institutions. And hundreds of thousands are heading in the same direction.

These claims are made by Joe Phillips and Robert Robinson in "The Growing Menace of 'Nice' Drugs" in the September Good Housekeeping Magazine.

The authors, before detailing the widespread use of these "nice" drugs, ask their readers to consider these facts:

1. The U. S. Public Health Service reports that barbiturates now account for more deaths than any other cause of acute poisoning.
2. For every five persons who die of acute alcoholism last year, four die of acute barbiturates.
3. Controlled experiments on voluntary patients at the U. S. P. H. S. Addiction Research Center at Lexington, Kentucky, have proven that barbiturates can be more deadly than heroin or morphine.
4. Law enforcement officials report a direct causal relationship between the mounting rate of homicide and amphetamine abuse and crimes of violence.
5. So alarming is the addiction problem that Congress's Senator Thomas Dodd was moved to say in February, 1962: "We're becoming a nation that should be headed on this stuff. A virtual epidemic of 'nice-drug' addiction is sweeping the country."

Today not only are heroin and marijuana, the main drugs falling into the traditional addictive classification, completely outlawed, but legal and medicinal traffic in morphine and similar drugs is so rigidly policed that fewer and fewer narcotic addicts are turning up each year.

Into this vacuum barbiturates and

Record Total Contracts Awarded for Construction Of State Public Schools

Frankfort, Ky., August 28 (Sp.)—A record total of more than $43.2 million in 360 construction and equipment contracts for Kentucky public schools was awarded during the 1962-1963 fiscal year, Wendell P. Butler, Kentucky superintendent of public instruction, has reported.

Largest item in the 1962-1963 school construction program was new classroom buildings. Contracts totaling $23,219,774, also a record, were let for 13 new high schools, three junior high schools, 34 elementary schools, three vocational school extension centers, and six other buildings.

Superintendent Butler said that contracts for these new schools and additions to present schools will add 1,342 instructional rooms to the local school systems.

A breakdown of other areas in the fiscal year shows $14,642,282 for additions to buildings; $2,801,912 for improvements to buildings; $1,131,316 for equipment; $976,878 for 40 new sites; $285,150 for 30 site additions; and $331,551 for 48 improvements to sites.

Local districts acquired more than 724 acres of land for new school sites and additions to school sites during the year.

In addition to the new buildings, the Department of Education said contracts were let for 48 additions to elementary schools, 43 additions to high schools and three additions to junior high schools.

The Pioneer Playhouse, Danville, was named Kentucky's official state theater by the 1962 Legislature.

A Letter To Our NON-CATHOLIC Neighbors

Catholics and non-Catholics, as a rule, get along right well together.

Our families live amicably next door to each other and often become lifetime friends. Our sons fight side by side on every battlefield. We work together in the same shops and factories . . . root for the same baseball teams . . . do business with one another in a spirit of mutual trust every day.

In these and other phases of everyday life, there is a close association which promotes understanding and respect. But in religion . . . where this close association does not exist . . . there is often a regrettable lack of understanding and a corresponding absence of good will.

Many people, for instance, have all sorts of false ideas about Catholics and the Catholic Church. They actually believe that Catholics worship statues . . . that many sodid things happen behind convent walls . . . that Catholics do not believe in every Bible . . . that Catholic teaching is pure superstition and the Mass nothing but mumbo-jumbo.

All non-Catholics, of course, do not believe such things. But enough of these false rumors are in circulation to cause some sincere and intelligent non-Catholics to look upon the Catholic Church with suspicion, and to reject Catholic truth without even troubling to investigate it.

It is for this reason that the Knights of Columbus, a society of Catholic laymen, publishes advertisements like this explaining what Catholics really believe. We want our non-Catholic friends and neighbors to understand us and our Faith, even if they do not wish to join us.

If you do not inquire into the teaching of the Catholic Church, you cannot know whether it is or is not the Church established by Jesus Christ for our salvation. You cannot intelligently accept or reject Catholic teaching until you investigate it and know what it really is.

A distinguished Catholic author has written "A Letter to a Friend Not of My Faith," which has been published in the form of a pamphlet. It gives a beautiful explanation of Catholic beliefs, worship and history, and a blueprint of Christian living which will deeply move you whether you accept or reject the Catholic viewpoint.

We will send you a copy free on request, and nobly will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. KC-25.

STRENGTH, WILL TO SERVE LESSON OF COOPER'S LIFE

During his life the late Gary Cooper taught his wife that there is always another way to look at everything—happiness or tragedy. The lesson has proved invaluable in the two years since his death. "What did God plan for me to do? What did others, widows and widowers, do when their world suddenly crumbled beneath them?" Mrs. Cooper writes in the September Good Housekeeping magazine. "One morning I came to me what would Gary have done if the situation had been reversed? I could find only one answer. Gary would have drawn himself up to his full height, tightened his shoulders and told himself, 'It's his same old world. I'm just seeing it differently. I'll have to look at it through new eyes and find what's waiting for me that I can't see right now.' "This was the key: what he had

'38 Class Anniversary Held by School Group; Form Alumni Group

The 1938 graduating class of Prestonsburg high school held its 25th anniversary reunion Saturday at the May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Mrs. Tom G. Dings (Gwendolyn Sturdliff) and Henry D. (Buddy) Fitzpatrick, were in charge of festivities and arrangements. Mrs. H. L. Lockwood (Margaret Stephens) was in charge of table decorations. Eugene Holcomb was master of ceremonies.

Z. S. Dickie (Dickerson, Jr.) gave the invocation. The reunion was dedicated to the memory of Dick Egan Mayo, and a short memorial was given by William Balaridge. Dick Egan is the only known member who is not living, and he was a casualty of World War II.

The teachers present were introduced and spoke briefly. They were: Clayborne Stephens, who was principal in 1938, and Mrs. Clayborne (Irene) Stephens; Mrs. Chalmers (Kathryn) Frazer, music teacher and Glee Club sponsor, who led the group in singing the school football song; Mrs. E. D. (May K.) Roberts; Mrs. Minnie Grace (Harris) Sutherland and Miss Alice Harris. Roll call was made by Mrs. Sutherland who was the senior class home room teacher in 1938, and when each name was called those present gave a brief account of what he or she had done in the 25 years since graduating, and introduced the husband or wife.

The graduates formed an alumni group and elected Mrs. Tom G. Dings, chairman, and H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., co-chairman. It was decided to have another reunion in 1963.

A prize was awarded to the graduate who had traveled the farthest. This was won by Mrs. Jay M. Shields; Sue Martha Randall, who had come from Abilene, Texas. The prize for having the largest family was won by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Saunders, who have five children. The prize to the graduate having the most grandchildren was won by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Goodman.

There were 20 former graduates at the reunion out of a class of 47. Nearly every profession was represented, with the highest percentage being in the fields of education and homemaking.

There was a good bit of reminiscing and recalling old memories, but it was never disclosed who threw the cracker and his "Miss" Minnie Grace or who set the alarm clock to ring during the repetition of the Lord's Prayer in the seventh grade. Those present and enjoying the occasion were:

- Dick Mayo Allen, Richmond, Kentucky; Mr. and Mrs. William Balaridge, East Point; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Callahan, Prestonsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Holcomb, Huntington, West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., Prestonsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Graham Davis, Gwendolyn Sturdliff, Postfach, Robinsons Dale, Preston, Tennessee; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Goodman, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall (Edna Grace) Inwood, Huntington, West Virginia; Mrs. Malta Sue May Porter, Emma, Mr. and Mrs. Jay M. Shields, Sue Martha Randall, Abilene, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Lockwood (Margaret Stephens), Huntington, West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fitzpatrick (Jeanette Holcomb), Prestonsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Orville Dotson (Thelma Whitaker), Prestonsburg.

Mountain Combs Family Holds Reunion at Hazard, Saturday: Gov. Combs Featured Speaker

(In The Courier-Journal)
BY FRED W. LUGART, JR.

L Hazard, Ky., August 25—Governor Bert T. Combs, his cousins, their cousins, and cousins' genealogists and male relatives from Eastern Kentucky, got together here Sunday for an old-fashioned reunion of the Combs family.

There was talk of uncles, aunts, nephews, grandparents and great-grandparents; giant spreads of home-cooked food, and good fellowship as relatives renewed acquaintances and recalled ancestors.

"Now which Combs are you?" was often heard. Even outsiders were inducted into the clan.

"You need a name tag," the grandson of a German immigrant peasant was told. "After you've lived in Eastern Kentucky as long as you have, you automatically become a Combs."

Friendly arguments raged about family genealogy. They were settled by consulting a chart showing the family tree. The chart was posted at the entrance of the Hazard Memorial gymnasium, where the reunion was held.

Most of the people were Combses, but there was even an Oakesky who married the daughter of a Combs, he explained.

Perry county was selected as the site of the first annual reunion of the Combs Family Association because there are more Combses and relatives living here than anywhere else in Kentucky.

"We're all shirital kinfolks," the Governor told the cheering crowd in a brief talk. "The Combses are the biggest and best generation in Kentucky."

He described his clan and forebears "as honest, hardworking and stubborn-as-hell people." Jestingly, he said, it included "outlaws as well as lawmen."

The Governor was introduced as the "best-loved and best-known of the Combses." But soon in the crowd good-naturedly dispersed because there was another equally well-known Combs, the late Senator Elmer Bowers, who died in 1957.

Her smiling face and pleasant way are a pleasure to recall.

She had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.

Some day we hope to meet again.

Some day we know not when.

To clasp her hand in a better land.

Never to part again.

Sadly missed by her son,
ELMER BOWE
Wayland, Ky.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my mother, Hattie Bowers Williams, who died on Aug. 22, 1957.

Her smiling face and pleasant way are a pleasure to recall.

She had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.

Some day we hope to meet again.

Some day we know not when.

To clasp her hand in a better land.

Never to part again.

Sadly missed by her son,
ELMER BOWE
Wayland, Ky.

USEFUL LANGUAGE

"Pidan" is a legitimate, useful language spoken by some 30 to 50 million people today. According to the September Reader's Digest, it was born 300 years ago when Western merchants first traded with China. The name is a corruption of "business."

famous Combs present—silver-haired Earle Combs of Richmond, the New York Yankee outfielder in the days of Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth.

"This reunion's just grand," Earle said, "but there are more Combses than what I see here." The Governor agreed.

About 1,000 persons from many Kentucky counties and 15 other states—attended.

The Governor was given a home-made cake from one cousin, Mrs. Eliza Combs Knuckles, 87, Beverly, Kentucky.

Making the longest trip were Mrs. Fannie Quisenberry, North Hollywood, California, and her sister, Mrs. Laticia Charenbrook, Stockton, California. They traveled with their grandsons, Mrs. Serena Combs Landrum, Last Creek, who was Breathitt county's mother of the Year in 1958.

All in all, it was a reunion that would have pleased old John Combs. In 1619 he left Devonshire county, England, and settled in Jamestown, Virginia.

Conservation Congress
Stated At Louisville;
Plan Panel Discussion

Frankfort, Ky., August 25 (Sp.)—The Third Annual Conservation Congress will get under way October 17 at the Kentucky Hotel, Louisville, with a panel discussion on forestry, wildlife and conservation.

State Conservation Commissioner J. O. Matlock, chairman of the National Resources Development Committee, which sponsors the Congress, said all of the panelists are taps in their field and will be invited to everyone attending the meeting.

This is the first of three panel discussions scheduled during the two-day Congress and will be moderated by Robert Collins, supervisor of the Cumberland National Forest.

Other panel members include Gene Butcher, director of the State Division of Forestry in the Department of Conservation; Gilbert Brown, head of the Department of Forestry at the University of Kentucky; Robert Hayes, U. S. Corps of Engineers, Louisville; Minor Clark, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources; Dr. James Salato, chairman of the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission; Columbia, Kentucky; and Clyde Hubbard, president of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, Louisville. The panel will be moderated by Marshall W. Qualls, deputy commissioner of the Conservation Department.

The Congress begins at 8:30 a.m. with registration and the panel is set from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. A luncheon will follow, with a panel on land use and mineral resources scheduled for the afternoon session.

The third panel, on conservation education, health and social aspects, will be conducted October 18, at 9 a.m.

Matlock said nearly 1,000 Kentuckians interested in conservative natural resources are expected to attend the congress. Conservationists from a number of other states are also expected.

To be singled out for special recognition at the congress are Kentuckians who have made outstanding contributions in conserving and developing the state's natural resources.

Matlock said all Kentuckians interested in proper protection and wise use of soil, water, forests and wild life are invited to attend and to join the National Resources Development Committee. Those who wish to attend may write to Matlock, committee chairman, Capitol Annex, Louisville, Kentucky.

After a two-year term in the Marine Corps, he joined the GMAC organization in Parkersburg. He had previously lived in Athens from October, 1952, to October, 1960.

Mr. Mullins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oak Mullins, of David. He is married to the former Alana Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nelson, of Banner. They have three children and will reside in Athens.

A life-size statue of vice-president Alton W. Stanley will officially take its place of honor in the State Capitol rotunda October 3.

REMINDER IS ISSUED ON NEW LEGISLATION

Employers and employees of Kentucky were reminded this week of revised provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act (Federal Wage-Hour Law) which go into effect, September 3.

The reminder came from Director Pat Meloon of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

He pointed out—

1. The minimum wage for employees engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce goes from the present minimum of at least $1.15 an hour to a new minimum of not less than $1.25 an hour. Such employment was covered by the Act prior to amendments of 1961.

2. A 40-hour maximum workweek standard, with provision for premium pay of at least one and one-half times the regular rate for overtime, goes into effect for employment in certain large enterprises engaged in commerce, or in the production of goods for commerce, principally in retail and service establishments. Such employment was made subject to the overtime provisions of the Act for the first time by the amendments of 1961.

Mr. Meloon also cited the Equal Pay Act of 1963 which amends the Fair Labor Standards Act and goes into effect generally on June 11, 1964. It provides that employers with workers subject to the Fair Labor Standards Act's minimum wage provisions shall not discriminate on the basis of sex in the payment of wages. It covers every establishment where an employer has such workers.

He cautioned employers that the official Wage-Hour poster, already mailed to them, must be displayed where it can be seen readily by employees.

Further information about the law may be procured at Mr. Meloon's office, located at Room 709, U. S. Courthouse Building, 301 Broadway, Nashville, Tennessee.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Each school year, over 2,000 high school students from some 50 countries live in the homes of their American "exchange" parents, go to school with their children, and participate in community activities, while over a thousand American children do the same in foreign homes, says the September Reader's Digest. The American Field Service, which started the program sixteen years ago, is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization.

James T. Morehead, Kentucky's 12th governor, was the first governor born in Kentucky.

Take it from Mrs. M.: "I don't know the first thing about engines and lubrication and all that. But I never have to worry about our car. When Stan's away, I just leave all the car worries to our Phillips Dealer. I know I can depend on him to keep it running like new."

"You get that first-class feeling at Phillips 66," say Stan and Mrs. Musial
