Recount Possible In 2 State Races

Turner, Winner Over Incumbent For Rail Office

At least three Democratic races in last week's primary were challengers, with two perhaps headed for recounts.

The results still subject to recount, if not a full-dress recount, are in the race for Attorney General in which Judge Robert F. Stephens leads Anthony M. Wilhoit, and for Commissioner of Agriculture which Beverly Veiser claims by only 101 votes over Tom Harris.

Two Floyd county men, Robert (Bob) Damron and Jimmy "Gabe" Turner, figured in a tight one in the race for Third district Railroads Commissioner. Damron, the incumbent, benefitted from a 70-vote error in the early counting and was believed the winner, but a check of the vote totals gave the nomination to Turner. The vote stands at 12,919 for Turner and 12,212 for Damron. There is no Republican candidate for the office.

Heads of the Democratic ticket left nobody long in doubt about their races as Governor Carroll defeated Judge Hollenbach by a record 144,000 votes, and Thelma Stovall led her nearest opponent, Judge Wayne Rutherford, of Pike county, by about 35,000. Robert E. Gable won the Republican nomination for Governor. Jim Hammond, Prestonsburg attorney, easily won the Democratic nomination for State Senator from the 29th district which includes all of Floyd county except two precincts, all of Knott, Martin and Perry counties. The winner, who barely met the 30-year age requirement for the office, defeated two former senators, Clifford B. Latta, of Prestonsburg, and Pearl Strong, of Ary. The voting in that race follows: Hammond, 5627; James Edward Gayheart, 2954; Clifford Latta, 2494; George Clarke, 1874; Pearl Strong, 1734.

Cow Creek Man Held in Beating

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of David Hunt, of Cow Creek, who is charged with assault in the second degree in connection with the serious beating of Buddy Goble, Sunday night at Goble's home on Cow Creek.

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Deputies Craig Kilgore and Lizzie Hunt, who arrived at the scene shortly after the incident, booked Argie Goble, the victim's son, at the county jail to be held for questioning, but later released him after their investigation resulted in the naming of Hunt in connection with the assault. Lewis said a bloody axe handle, which was found at the scene, is believed to be the weapon which was used in the beating. Goble is said to be recovering at Highlands Regional Medical Center here. State Police Detective Gary Rose and County Detective Sam Hale arrested Orlus Hife and Perry Conley, both of Magoffin county, Friday, charging them with burglary in the third degree. The two were charged in connection with the May 16 robbery of the East Kentucky Auto Parts store here. Hale said $700 worth of the stolen goods were recovered. Others booked at the jail, charges against each and names of arresting officers follow.

Allen Wreck Empties Coal Cars

This train wreck, one of several experienced by the C. & O. in recent months, took place at 7:15 a.m. Tuesday, opposite the town of Allen. Nine loaded coal cars, moving out of Beaver Creek to market, were wrecked and a long stretch of rail was twisted. Nobody was hurt. There was no estimate of the damage, and rail officials said the investigation of the wreck had not progressed to the stage that they could fix the cause.

Court System Study Set at Park Seminar

A regional seminar to explain the operation of Kentucky's present court system and the proposed Court of Justice will be held Thursday, June 12, at Jenny Wiley State Park.

The seminar, sponsored by Kentucky Citizens for Judicial Improvement, Inc., in conjunction with the Kentucky Bar Association, is designed to acquaint Eastern Kentucky residents with the structure and operation of the two court systems, so that they may decide which system best meet the needs of the Commonwealth.

At the November 4 general election Kentucky voters must decide whether to approve a proposed Constitutional Amendment and implement the Court of Justice or retain the state's present court system.

According to James Amato, executive director of Kentucky Citizens for Judicial Improvement, Inc., the panel for the seminar will be composed of individuals closely associated with the judiciary who will "offer those in attendance an in-depth look at the problems facing Kentucky's courts and comment on what steps must be taken to bring about a solution."

"Few Kentuckians are totally aware of the operation of our present court system and fewer are familiar with the proposed Court of Justice. This seminar is designed to educate them on these matters so that on November 4 they will be able to cast a knowledgeable vote as to which system will best cope with the present and future judicial needs of the state," Amato said.

Kentucky's present court system is composed of a Court of Appeals, circuit courts, and more than 1,000 lower courts. The proposed Court of Justice would include a Supreme Court, a Court of Appeals, Circuit Courts, and a minimum 120 District Courts.

Other major changes offered by the proposed system include the requirement that all judges within the Court of Justice be licensed attorneys elected to office on a nonpartisan ballot and that all finances for the courts come from the state treasury.

The seminar is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. and the public is encouraged to attend.

More Manpower Use Suggested

Federal funds allotted to Floyd county to help relieve its unemployment situation is "only a drop in a big bucket," County Judge Henry Stumbo said this week, but he has an idea how men could be put to work in a very good cause.

He referred to the use of herbicides by the Bureau of Highways to rid state road rights-of-way of weeds, bushes and briars.

"If the state would end this spraying of the right-of-way and would put men to clearing it as it once did, many would have jobs who are now idle," Judge Stumbo said.

"And," he added, "the roadsides would be much prettier. The spraying of chemicals leaves the roadsides brown and dead and certainly not attractive to the visitor who has read that Kentucky is the 'only a drop in a big bucket'."

(The same method of removing undesirable vegetative cover from rights-of-way is used by the railway, power,

This Town . . . That World

What is so rare, these days, as a day in June that is not cloudy all day?

Saw a cartoon, the other day, which had an old character remarking that at first they thought the world was flat, later decided it was round, and now, in this scientific age, know it to be crooked.

"AS ANY FOOL CAN PLAINLY SEE . . ."

The foregoing paragraph recalls one of the happier souls that sticks in the old recollection. He wasn't much; his accumulation of this world's goods and his knowledge of the aforesaid world matched rather well. But he had a great gusto for life. He found much to laugh about, and his great roar of laughter was a familiar sound, wherever he was.

I recall the time when the teacher of our country school paid his home a visit. A half-dozen of the man's dozen or so children attended his school. The teacher and his host, in the course of the visit, got involved with geography, and there was some difference of opinion.

But when another caller at the up-the-hollow had arrived, soon after the dominie had left, he was greeted by stertorian guffaws.

The visitor could see nothing to laugh about. The man's overalls were patch-on-patch, the old porch was bending toward utter collapse, a yardful of half-naked children added their yells and screams to the near-pandemonium. Yet the man sat and ricked and roared with laughter.

"What in the world do you find so funny?" the new visitor inquired.

The man swiped a hand to clear the sweat from his face and explained: "Why, it's that blankety-blank school teacher, son. That fool's argued with me

Court Sets Sept. Trial For Sykes

9 Prisoners Listed Possible Witnesses For Murder Trial

After Circuit Judge Hollie Conley had overruled two motions to dismiss the murder charge against Robert Sykes here Monday morning, the defense moved for a continuance of the case on the ground that witnesses important to the defense were not present, and Judge Conley set the trial for Sept. 19.

The murder trial was scheduled to begin Monday on change of venue from Pike county. Sykes is accused of the slaying of Mrs. Boone Deskins, whose husband and William Eugene Thompson are already serving state prison terms after conviction in Pike county in the case.

Deskins was brought here as a witness. Thompson was held in Fayette county jail at Lexington, to be brought here later in the week to testify if the trial got under way.

The Commonwealth announced ready for trial, but as many as nine men held in widely scattered federal prisons were asked as witnesses by the defense.

Earlier, when the testimony of Bobby Lee Brooks and James W. Daulion, federal prisoners at Terre Haute, Ind., was requested, Circuit Judge Conley directed that their depositions be taken by videotape. But the defendant declined to have the testimony taken by this method when their questioning at the prison was ready to begin.

One defense motion to dismiss the murder charge was based on the claim that trial would constitute double jeopardy, since Sykes was convicted in federal court of transporting firearms for the purpose of slaying Mrs. Deskins and is now serving a federal prison term. That motion denied, the defense asked dismissal on the ground that defendant had been denied a speedy trial.

Judge Conley granted the defense permission to seek from federal court permission to approve the return here of all U. S. prisoners wanted as witnesses.

If all nine federal prisoners are returned to the Floyd county jail to appear next Sept. 19 in the Sykes trial, it was indicated that all will be isolated in one section of the jail and kept under 24-hour guard.

Court Upholds Goble-Roberts Area Annexing

The Kentucky Court of Appeals has affirmed the judgment of Circuit Judge Hollie Conley upholding the annexation of a portion of the Goble-Roberts Addition to the city of Prestonsburg and having the effects of placing all of that addition within the city limits.

The court's order has the effect of adding to Prestonsburg approximately 45 dwellings and upwards of 200 residents.

The litigation had its beginning with a city ordinance adopted in January, 1971 designed to add to the city a certain section of the Goble-Roberts Addition which had not become a part of Prestonsburg, although the northern end of the

Not a Big Bridge But It Helped

Since their bridge across the Left Fork of Bull Creek washed out nearly two months ago, the five families who live on Jarrell Fork have been partially isolated. Automobiles can't cross through the water which has often been swollen from heavy Spring rains, and the six children of school age who live in the hollow have to cross the creek by horseback or tractor. Residents say their almost daily pleas for assistance have been answered by "excuses" from officials.

By Any Name They're Tasty

Call them "sarvices," or service berries, as you will, by any name they are a delectable wild fruit as two who had never seen the like till last week learned. The elderly man on whose farm these grow told of his "sarvice-huntin'" days and of peeling sourwood bark to fashion pouches in which he and his boyhood friends carried the berries into school.

In this race Floyd county gave Hammond 4863 votes, Latta 2220, Gayheart 831, Clarke 324 and Strong 240. Lowell Hughes, Ashland attorney who is a native of Prestonsburg, defeated the incumbent, Roy Ross, of Paintsville, for the Democratic nomination for Senator from the 25th district (Boyd, Johnson, Lawrence and two precincts in Floyd), by about 1500 votes. He will be opposed in November by Ronald S. Halleack, Ashland Republican.

The "tightest" primary race in this county was between James "Jitter" Allen and Julius Martin, both of Martin, for Representative. Allen polled 3535 votes to Martin's 3317 for a comfortable 1452 majority over Burnis Martin, a former Commonwealth's Attorney from this judicial district. He polled 4765 votes to Martin's 3313. Allen also will be unopposed in November.

In the 9th legislative district, which includes five Floyd precincts with the adjacent section of Pike county, County Attorney Herbert Deskins defeated the incumbent, Floyd native Lee Roberts, for Representative. In the 2nd (Knott, Magoffin and a part of Letcher), Sidney Adams defeated Darvin Allen, of Magoffin county, for Representative. Circuit Clerk Frank DeFosse easily defeated Mary Zemo for the Democratic nomination for the office which he now holds, registering 6871 votes to 762 for Mrs. Zemo. He will have no November opponent.

In other races the vote totals for leaders in this county were:

For Governor (D)—Julian M. Carroll 5551; Todd Hollenbach 1712.
For Governor (R)—Elmer Begley, Jr., 125; Robert E. Gable, 104.

For Lieutenant Governor—Thelma Stovall, 1986; William Sullivan, 835; Attorney General—Robert F. Stephens, 1690; Anthony Wilhoit, 802.

for a hour that the world's round... He choked back another guffaw, then added "And me and you know that any d--- fool knows it's as flat as a flitter."

PRIORITY ITEMS

Fellow was telling free, the other day, why he likes this sheet and added that he reads three "things" first, every week. "Your column," he said, "to see what sort of brainform you've had for the week. The obituary page to see if they've got me listed yet. And the courthouse happenings to see if that company had filed suit against me as threatened."

THE HELP IS NEEDED

There was a time, back in the feud days, when Troublesome Creek in Knott county was called "Bloody Troublesome." Now, it's "Muddy Troublesome," with abandoned strip mines feeding it heavy deposits of silt during the frequent rains. What makes the situation interesting is, the Appalachian Regional Commission is investing $305,000 to build settling basins to hold the silt.

We're glad for Troublesome Creek and its people. Maybe, too, the experience there will cause the ARC or some other agency of government to get into the big job somebody inevitably must tackle over the expanse of Eastern Kentucky to try to undo at least a part of the damage that has been done.

This government of ours has a big investment in Dewey Lake, now a veritable small inland sea of mud. But there the same government dallies about building even one small dam to catch the Clorox jugs and other trash that makes the impoundment anything but the "beautiful Dewey Lake" the brochure-writers used to rhapsodize about.

addition occupied by the Prestonsburg Ministerial Association's low-rent housing complex and the southern end containing the city's new housing units were in the corporate limits.

Although annexation was opposed by approximately 95 per cent of the residents of the area affected, Circuit Judge Hollie Conley cited the case of the City of Hickman, Ky., and placed on the city the burden of proving that annexation was beneficial to both the city and residents of the annexed area. Then the burden of proving that the annexation would be injurious was shifted to the property-owners. Judge Conley held that the property-owners failed to do this, except in isolated cases and not to the area as a whole.

The appeal was filed by Scott Wallen and others. The newly annexed area extends from the railway tracks to the Big Sandy River.

telephone and gas companies. Some also contend that the use of chemicals results in heavy loss of bird life.

The need for jobs is very real in this county, Judge Slumbo said. To the claim made by some that "people don't want to work," he recalled that one small classified advertisement published locally and offering only part-time work quickly drew more than a dozen applicants.

RETURNS FROM VIRGINIA

Miss Newsome, Mr. Akers Wed

The marriage of Miss Bonita Devon Newsome, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Less Newsome, of Grethel, Ky., and Zachary Dale Akers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Akers, also of Grethel, was solemnized Saturday, April 12, at 4 p.m. at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony of the candles was performed after the marriage vows.

Candlelight set the mood for the double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Russell Jacobs, of Stanville, Ky. Brass candelabra holding white tapers decorated with ivy and pastel carnations with tall statuettes, each holding ferns and carnations, completed the background.

Mrs. Cosetta Newsome, pianist, who was the bride's first grade teacher, provided music. For the prelude she played "We've Only Just Begun," "A Time for Us" and "Magic Moments." She sang "I Love You Truly," "Each for the Other," and "Whisper Thou Good." Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Princess Josephine silhouette floor-length gown of imported sheer over tulle, with Alencon applique pearl bodice, long tapered pearl sleeves, high-banded collar with an attached chapel train. Her headpiece was a clip crown of lace encrusted with pearls and sequins attached to silk ribbon veil outlined in Alencon lace. She carried a trailing cascade bouquet of pink and yellow sweetheart roses combined with lilac, coral, ice blue, yellow, and white miniature carnations and ivy, along with a small, white Bible.

Mrs. Janet Akers, of Marion, O., sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids included Miss Sherree Susan Newsome, Miss Sandra Newsome, Miss Jackie Newsome and Mrs. Beata Woods, all of Harold, Miss Linda Kay Newsome and Miss Pamela Akers, both of Grethel. The bridesmaids were cousins of the bride and groom.

Matron of honor and bridesmaids wore identical floor-length dresses of pastel polyester colors with a ruffled scooped neckline. They wore white, wide-brimmed hats with ribbons matching their dress. Their nosegays consisted of miniature colored carnations.

The flower girl was Miss Donna Parsons, of Grethel.

The ringbearer was Alired (June Bug) Newsome, Jr., of Harold, cousin of the bride.

Mr. Eugene Akers, brother of the groom, of Marion, Ohio, served as best man. Ushers were Ronnie Dean Newsome, of Harold, and Randy Doug Frasure, of Grethel. The pages were Dwayne Kidd and Dougie Parsons, of Grethel.

Mrs. Newsome attended her daughter's wedding wearing a floor-length dress of blue and white double knit with matching accessories. Mrs. Akers wore a floor-length dress of red and white double knit, with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

The bride's grandmother and grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Frasure, of Harold, attended the wedding. Mrs. Frasure wore a navy blue suit of double knit with blue and white carnation corsage and matching accessories.

The groom's grandmother, Mrs. Martha Newsome, of Grethel, wore a white double knit dress with a pink carnation corsage and matching accessories.

At the reception which followed a buffet dinner was served along with the four-tiered wedding cake and punch.

After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Akers are now residing at Grethel.

Mr. and Mrs. Akers are graduate of Betsy Layne High School. Mrs. Akers is presently employed by the Floyd County Board of Education. Mr. Akers is employed by Hall and Adkins Coal Company, of Pikeville.

Ky. National Guard Band To Appear in Free Concert

Local officials of Det. 1, Co. B, 1st Bn., 149th Inf. (the local Kentucky Guard Unit) met with Lt. Col. Armando J. Albaro, Kentucky Army National Guard recruiting and retention officer, Frankfort, last week to work on arrangements for the June 11 appearance here of the 202d Kentucky Army National Guard Band.

The group will appear at the Amphitheatre, Jenny Wiley State Park, during a two-week "bicentennial Musical Tour" of the state. This is the band's annual two weeks of field training.

A spokesman for the local organization noted that the band is an extremely talented group that plays virtually every type of music. He further noted that the 36-piece group has received enthusiastic receptions on past tours.

Four committees were formed to make all necessary arrangements. The committees and their members are: General chairman, Rodney Miller; Advertising and Publicity, Terry Webb, wives of committee members also will assist in the arrangements.

There will be no charge for the concert, and the public is invited. The performance will include popular music, marches and jazz and, according to Band Master John Hoover, the variety "appeals to people of all ages."

This is the third consecutive year the National Guard Band has conducted its 15-day annual training requirement by performing in various cities across the state.

During the tour the musical group will give 15 free performances in Kentucky communities.

POLLUTION CONTROL IS NECESSARY BUT VERY, VERY EXPENSIVE

DOES IT HAVE TO BE SO COSTLY?

SOME SAY IT DOESN'T

I'M WITH THEM

WE NEED SOMEONE WHO WILL QUESTION THE REGULATIONS

DON'T QUESTION CLEAN AIR - JUST QUESTION THE PRICE

IS IT WRONG TO QUESTION ENVIRONMENTAL REGULATIONS?

Quite the contrary. It's a necessity... your duty and our duty.

This nation is beginning to find out that pollution control is expensive and one of the reasons for inflation. And that it increases the cost of electricity. Not just pennies but hard-earned dollars... year after year after year.

That's the very reason we believe regulations must be questioned. Those who will be paying those higher electric bills should have a voice in how far they want to go.

Of course when you do express concern over what you know are unrealistic air pollution laws that make electricity cost more than is necessary, you're bound to be criticized. It has happened to us. Some claim we don't care about people. That couldn't be further from the truth. If we didn't care, we'd remain silent. We'd like to think this country is still free enough to speak out.

When you hear that we want the Clean Air Act amended that doesn't mean we want to kill the Act. It only means we want the flexibility to meet the standards of the Act in an equally safe way that will cost you, our customers, the least amount of money.

The way its wording has been interpreted by E.P.A. we don't have that flexibility. And that means electricity will cost you more.

Other costs of generating electricity and your electric bills are high enough right now without hiking them higher by regulations that are too strict... unnecessarily.

We'd like you to join us in an effort to have a simple amendment to the Clean Air Act passed to change the wording so that each state, in the interest of the people, could allow the continued use of tall stacks and sensitive computerized ground monitors. A proven system that will meet the air quality standards where we live and breathe.

Such a change will not only protect the public health, it will save you money on the cost of tomorrow's electricity, help employment and general economic conditions.

Write your elected representatives in Washington. Let them know how important amending the Clean Air Act is to you.

Do it now.

Highway Contractors, Now Strip Mining

By MARY GAY
The people who used to build roads are now stripping for coal.

In recent months, many of the strip mine permits issued by the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection have been granted to highway contractors, or to outgrowths of these firms.

For almost 25 years, the Tebo Coal Company of Bardonia, built roads throughout Kentucky. A year ago, however, the firm began strip mining for coal about ten miles south of Louisa.

Greer, Inc., one of the largest highway construction companies working in Kentucky, hasn't made such a drastic change. But the company sought and got a strip mine permit from the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection last winter.

Watts & Call Construction Company is still constructing highways, exclusively in May, however, its stockholders formed another firm—Laurance Coal Company, Inc.—which is strip mining in Kentucky.

The reason for the switch from roads to coal boils down to money—less of it. Last year and more of it in coal.

As Leo Smith, office manager at the Tebo mine, explained in a telephone interview, fewer highways are being built in Kentucky than even a few years ago. The interstate system is almost complete and much less money is being appropriated for highway construction now.

However, Smith explained, the coal business has boomed and attracted many highway contractors. The Tebo company started strip mining when the price of coal peaked last year.

"I'd estimate," said Smith, "about three-fourths of the old highway contractors are doing some strip mining now."

Switching from highways to coal has been easy for most highway contractors. According to Smith, both building roads and strip mining for coal require basically the same equipment. "When you get down to it," said Smith, "both jobs boil down to moving earth."

Another bonus in strip mining is the firm's ability to work almost all year. Smith said most highway contractors must quit operating during most of the winter.

While Smith said his firm will probably stick with coal mining as long as the coal market is good, the Greer company only entered the field as a side-line—something to do to keep some otherwise idle equipment operating during the winter.

According to Ares Lewis, head mechanic for Greer Inc. at its London office, Greer is now sticking exclusively to highway construction.

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

By JOHN WILSON
(Guest Writer)

This summer would be a good time to help a certain kind of deprived child—the one who has never been fishing. Chances are that there is one in your neighborhood, maybe next door, or even in your own house.

For the boy or girl who has never been fishing, a trip to a nearby stream or pond will provide a brand-new set of experiences and will serve as a good introduction to the outdoor world. This is particularly true of the urban child, who may find a world outside of the concrete of the city which he never dreamed existed.

However, some care should be taken to assure a successful trip, especially if younger children are involved. While a twelve-year-old equipped with a spinning outfit could probably enjoy a full day of bass fishing from a boat, the six- or seven-year-old needs a different kind of trip for his initial fishing experience.

For the younger child, bank fishing offers more chances to expend youthful energy than does fishing from a boat. Kids are notoriously fidgety, and the confines of a small boat soon start getting on everyone's nerves.

For the first trip, it's also best to go after easily caught species (such as bluegill), with simple tackle: A cane pole, bobber and a can of earthworms and a can of earthworms makes a good starting outfit, and if you have access to a farm pond, this could prove an ideal setting. Even a pond you wouldn't normally consider because it is out of balance and teeming with stunted bluegill will provide an afternoon of fast action which will keep any child happy. Also, the pond owner will very likely be happy for you to catch as many bluegill as possible from such a pond.

The adult who accompanies a child on his first fishing trip should subjugate the desire to catch fish to the effort to make the trip enjoyable to the child. If heaving rocks in the water suddenly catches the youngster's fancy, don't yell at him that he's scaring the fish, but instead teach him how to skip stones.

There's more to fishing than filling a stringer, and the adult should take every opportunity to point out as many examples of the outdoor world as he can find. Explain what the dragonflies darting over the pond are doing, examine a snail, a grasshopper, a turtle, a crawfish. Take time out to watch a bird building a nest, or go looking for blackberries.

There will be time later to teach the youngster the angling skills and techniques with which you have picked up over the years, but the first trip or two should be an introduction and an awakening. Do it right, and you've made both a friend and, very likely, a life-long fisherman.

Rural Medical Fund Approves $119,000 In Student Loans

The 29th annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Rural Kentucky Medical Scholarship Fund was held in late May when the board approved 24 loans amounting to $119,000 to medical students for the coming school year.

Fifteen loans were granted to first-year applicants. There are now 196 physicians in practice in 87 Kentucky counties who have received financial assistance from the Fund, according to Dr. G. L. Simpson, chairman of the board.

During the past 12 months, 14 physician loans have been given for practice in critical areas in Kentucky for a total of $33,000.

Three new members were elected to the board of trustees. They are Mrs. Mary R. Oaken, Cadiz; Mrs. Lou Croley, Pineville; and Mrs. Wally O. Montgomery, Paducah. Jan L. Ledford was confirmed as the new executive secretary, succeeding Gilbert L. Armstrong who is retiring.

Dr. Simpson, in commenting on the outcome of this year's meeting, expressed particular appreciation for the interest and support of Governor Julian M. Carroll, Commissioner William P. McElwain, M.D., and the members of the Kentucky General Assembly.

MVP in Three Sports

William Thomas Fultz, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Clabe Mosley, of Wayland, was recognized, recently by his high school as most valuable player in three competitive sports. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Fultz, of Linden, Ala., he was awarded the 1975 Most Valuable Player trophies at Marengo Academy in Linden for football, basketball, and baseball. In 1974 he won the MVP award for basketball. Young Fultz holds the passing record in football for the Alabama Private School Athletic Association. In Linden he holds the record for the most strikes in summer league baseball—106 in 33 innings. He was selected quarterback and captain of the North Alabama All-Star Squad and played defensive safety for the team. At Marengo Academy he played split end for two years and his senior year as quarterback. He made the all-district football team for the past two years. In baseball he was selected to the all-star team for two years each in Little League, Babe Ruth League, and Dixie Senior Baseball. He is a pitcher. Fultz has a B-plus scholastic average and was graduated May 23. He plans to enter college this fall on an athletic scholarship.

What To Do In June

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD (UK College of Agriculture) June is a month of roses, raspberries, brides, dairy products, and as the poet, James Russell Lowell, once noted, "perfect days." It is a month when blue-bills and shell crackers bite best in farm ponds and redvees seem hungriest in the clear, unpolled creeks flowing out of some parts of the Kentucky mountains. Unfortunately, June is also a month of sod webworms, peach tree borers, crabgrass, and lawn mowing. The webworms and borers may take some joy out of live, crabgrass may cause some complications; and grass cutting can become a chore—but don't lose heart. Sod webworms can be controlled by spraying at intervals with Sevin or Diazinon. Follow directions on the label and start spraying about the last week in June. Between July 15-20, spray again, and then again around August 15. This should solve the webworm problem. For peach borers, spray peach trees on July 1, August 1, and September 1, or immediately thereafter.

According to the UK specialists, late vegetable gardens can provide an abundance of good things to eat up until frost. These gardens, however, require more attention than those grown in spring and summer. Insect and disease problems are greater in late gardens and must not be allowed to get out of hand. The reason that insect and disease problems are greater in late gardens is that they have had a longer time to develop and increase. Providing adequate moisture for late vegetable gardens the specialists say, is the key to success. July, August, and September are normally dry months and if so, seedlings and transplants may not establish and do well during these months without regular and thorough watering.

Any areas in the garden not already in use can now be planted in beans, beets, carrots, or chard for harvest in September. Seeds of broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, and cauliflower should be planted in mid-June to provide transplants to be set out in July for late harvest. The last week of June will also be a good time to plant a few rows of corn for late roasting ears that taste so wonderful in September when garden vegetables are decidedly on the wane.

No matter the number of chores, remember that, as the poet Lowell said, June is a rare month indeed—do not make it a month of drudgery. Instead, take the time to go fishing, to eat strawberry shortcake, to go for a life (June-berry) hunting, and to enjoy life and the "perfect days" which, no doubt, God made for human enjoyment.

Robert Frost is generally regarded, and rightly so, as one of America's most significant twentieth century poets. Because of his use of what he termed "the language of sense," or Wordsworth's "language of the common man," his poetry is sometimes regarded as simplistic and possessed of only one level of meaning. A close reading of his work reveals that this is not the case. Many critics of modern literature have dealt with his work with varying degrees of erudition and insight. One such critic is Philip L. Gerber, whose book, Robert Frost, deals with the poet's craftsmanship, his theories regarding the writing of poetry, and his central themes. This last section is especially helpful to a study of Frost's poetry because it delineates the major motifs and ideas with which the poet concerned himself, and cites examples of each from the various periods of his career. A sampling of the list of themes which Gerber discusses—"The Trial of Existence," "Finalities Beside the Grave," "Mutability," "Man's Relationship to the Universe"—reveal to us a poet who, far from simple in his concerns, had a profound insight into man and the human condition.

Coal Gasification Plant Scores Milestone Achievement

The Energy Research and Development Administration announced last week that for the first time a pilot plant for conversion of coal to synthetic gas was operated on a self-sustained basis, without the use of supplemental heat.

The achievement occurred in Chicago at the HYGAS pilot plant which is operated by the Institute of Gas Technology for ERDA. This experimental plant is jointly funded by ERDA and the American Gas Association under a cost-sharing agreement which calls for the government to provide two-thirds of the funds and industry to contribute one-third.

The milestone was achieved when the entire plant was operated without any supplemental heat supply, using only steam-oxygen gasification to supply the necessary heat for reaction as well as to produce the end product of hydrogen-rich gas.

Operation was smooth and stable with automatic control of the flow of solids in the gasifier. A product gas indistinguishable from pipeline gas was produced. The product gas was 96.5 percent methane and 3.5 percent hydrogen with a heating value of approximately 970 Btu-cu. ft., a gas suitable to heat homes and fuel gas stoves.

During the test run, the plant logged 203 hours of operating time and accounted for a throughput of 350 tons of dried lignite coal. In the course of the run, the hydrogen flow to the start-up heater was cut back gradually until all hydrogen and oxygen were shut off from the startup heater, and the system sustained itself in this mode of operation for almost 20 hours.

IGT has reported that the slurry, purification, and methanation systems operated satisfactorily as well as the coal mill operation. New tests are underway to lengthen the period of continuous operation.

The gasification process used in the HYGAS plant takes place as the coal is passed through a series of steps which put it under high pressure and intense heat.

Block Cut Mining Wins Praise But Verdict Is Not Unanimous

By MARVĀ GAY

Frankfort, Ky.—Acid drainage, silt and landslides—typical plagues of strip mines—have been wiped out at the West Coal Co. mine 12 miles east of Middlesboro near a portion of the Little South Fork of the Cumberland River that is protected by the state's Wild Rivers Act. This would have been impossible a year ago.

The reason or this is the block cut method of mountaintop removal. West Coal is the first company to use that method in Kentucky. Using the block cut method, a barrier of land is left around the active mine to prevent dirt and water from escaping over the mountainside. The coal then is mined in sections. Dirt, called spoil, is removed from each section and placed in a vacant spot behind it. In this way, reclamation takes place as the mining progresses and spoil is not pushed over the hill, where it may slide into the valley and fill the streams.

The West Coal Company permit, as originally proposed, was denied because the planned method of operation would have caused siltation and acid drainage—a problem in the area of the wild river portion of the Little South Fork.

However, the division of reclamation in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection insisted the company use the block cut method on a trial basis.

That trial has been working so well that a new site just across the valley from the original was approved recently and work has begun there.

Advocates of the block cut method of mountaintop removal include state reclamation officials, a consulting engineer for West Coal, and Oscar Worley, owner of both the land and the mineral rights at the site.

For 20 years, Worley's 1,000 acres have been stripped for coal. Until now, he wasn't happy about it—now, he is. He plans to use the reclaimed block cut area for grazing 350 head of cattle.

"Before the block cut stripping began," said Worley, "this area was just an old rocky hill full of scrub timber. It wasn't worth anything and I couldn't afford to clear it for grazing."

PSC May Fine Utilities Firms
The Kentucky Public Service Commission has ordered each of six Kentucky utilities, including two in Floyd county, to submit their 1974 gross operating revenues reports, and to pay a $25 fine to the state treasurer if the reports were not received within 10 days.

The commission had given the utilities an opportunity at a May 13 public hearing to show cause, if any, why the reports should not be submitted.

The utilities were then warned in the May 14 order that action would be taken in Franklin circuit court if the fines were not paid or reports received by May 24. The utilities named are H. S. & G. Drilling Company, Martin; Lyda Gas Company, Inc., Elkhorn City; David Properties, Inc., Prestonsburg; Warfield Water Company, Warfield; Rochester Water District, Rochester; and Whitley County Water District No. 1, Williamsburg, Ky.

Lyda Gas Company, Inc. David Properties, Inc. and the US 60 Water District of Shelby and Franklin counties had filed as of last Thursday morning.

Attorney General's Opinions

Gary E. Conn, Grayson city attorney, explained that the city council has become dissatisfied with the conduct of the city police judge. Conn stated that the judge has failed to impose fines for violations of certain ordinances and has otherwise neglected to perform duties required of his office. He wished to know what steps could be taken either to bring the police judge to trial or to insure that he enforces the law. The office of the Attorney General expressed the opinion that the city council has no authority under the present city charter to remove the police judge, but that removal of removal would be by impeachment before the House of Representatives. However, a public official is guilty of official misconduct in the second degree when he knowingly refrains from performing a duty imposed upon him by law or clearly inherent in the nature of his office. Official misconduct in the second degree is a class B misdemeanor and carries a maximum jail sentence of 90 days and (or) a fine not to exceed $250.

John C. Roberts, commissioner of the Department of Transportation, asked if school funds may be expended for the construction of entrances to school property within the right-of-way of state highways. Even though property owners are required by the department's rules to pay the entire expense of providing entrances to their property, it is the office of the Attorney General's opinion that funds accrued for school use must be used for the public schools and for no other purpose. Both the Department of Transportation and each school district are state agencies, but constitutional provisions appear to place the burden of such an expense upon the Department of Transportation.

Robert Mack, of Lexington, asked if his business of selling costume jewelry, dishes and glasses, antiques and used clothing could be classified as a gift shop and therefore exempt from closing on Sunday. The Attorney General's office held that the items being sold are not what one would ordinarily select as a gift or souvenir. There would appear to be no more reason for the shop's remaining open on Sunday than for any other mercantile establishment.

Natural Gas Research Could Benefit Kentucky

Frankfort, Ky.—Long-range research programs recently announced by Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. could increase Kentucky's future supplies of natural gas, state energy officials say.

Two projects to determine if natural gas can be economically produced from the extensive Devonian shale beds of the Appalachian region have been submitted to federal agencies for approval. The Devonian shale lies under large sections of Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania and several other nearby states.

Although the actual projects would be carried out in other states, the benefits of such research would be two-fold for Kentucky, according to John Stapleton, director of the Kentucky Energy Office.

"Since Columbia Gas Transmission is an interstate corporation with a subsidiary here (Columbia Gas of Kentucky), anything it does to increase supplies would help Kentucky as much as any other state," he said.

Also, large areas of Kentucky are amenable to the type of production technique to be used, he added.

Successful results could cause an increase in Kentucky's natural gas production in later years.

An $8.5 million program now under review by the Federal Power Commission calls for the drilling of 50 test wells to determine the extent of producible gas reserves in the Devonian shale formations and to test new methods of stimulating production from such formations.

The three-year project will be conducted at four localities in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, said

Seymour Orlofsky, president of the Columbia System's supply companies.

A separate $3.3 million project submitted to the Federal Energy Research and Development Administration will test the application of massive hydraulic fracturing in the shale, Orlofsky said. If approved, the three-well project will be carried out in West Virginia.

"This exploration and research effort is particularly good news since it addresses one of the most critical aspects of the energy problem," said Dr. Dee Ashley Akers, secretary of the Kentucky Development Cabinet.

"Our most acute energy shortage is in natural gas," he continued, "and we are encouraging every effort to relieve this shortage."

Akers noted that Kentucky must now import much of its natural gas from other states. Last year Kentucky produced approximately $8.5 billion cubic feet of natural gas, according to the Bureau of Mines in the U. S. Department of the Interior, while the average annual consumption in the state is about 275 billion cubic feet.

"A large quantity of natural gas being produced in Kentucky is from this Devonian shale where natural fracturing has occurred," Stapleton said.

Hydraulic fracturing, he noted, is the process of injecting pressurized water and sand underground to release the gas reserves. It is not a new process in the industry, but it is a new process to be used in the Appalachian shale beds, he added.

Stapleton said that as all fracturing is done underground, surface environmental effects would be minimal. "Nothing more than a surface wellhead, just as in other types of drilling."

Columbia Gas has reported that preliminary evaluations of the Devonian shale formations indicate that potential reserves totaling several hundred trillion cubic feet may be recoverable.

To the Voters of Floyd County

Lovell Hall Hall, chairman, and James A. Duff, co-chairman in Floyd County for the Wayne T. Rutherford campaign for Lt. Governor in Kentucky, take this opportunity to express their many thanks to all who supported Judge Rutherford. The Judge ran a good campaign, placing second in a field of 11 candidates. Judge Rutherford is a fine, young man, dedicated to the principles of helping his fellow man. The state of Kentucky and this nation need this type of individual in our government. We trust that Judge Rutherford will offer his services again on a state-wide basis sometime in the future and trust you, the voter, will give him serious consideration.

Again many thanks for your support for Judge Rutherford.

Big Sandy River Basin Water Quality Plan Nears Completion

Kentucky will soon submit a water quality management plan for the Big Sandy River basin to the United States Environmental Protection Agency. It was announced in Frankfort last week.

This plan will provide the basis for all future water quality management efforts in the basin and will help determine the priorities for spending a portion of the $90 million that Kentucky will receive this year from the federal government for construction of sewage treatment and collection facilities.

The plan will be discussed at a workshop sponsored by the state Environmental Quality Commission, from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m., June 5 in Rooms 3 and 4 of May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

The Big Sandy basin contains approximately 5 per cent of the population, 6 per cent of the land area of Kentucky, and includes all or part of 16 counties in the extreme eastern part of the state.

The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, assisted by Procter-Davis-Ray and W. E. Gates & Associates, Inc., is developing the plan, which is described as a new kind of planning effort.

Two things make it different. First, other provisions of law require that all public and private sewage treatment plants operate only under certain specified conditions of waste discharge, and these conditions must be consistent with the plan.

Second, the plans being readied for study are only the first step in a continuous planning process being conducted by the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection. Each year this continuous planning process will examine the progress toward solving the water quality problems of the Big Sandy basin and, in the light of environmental, economic, technical, and population growth and development data, determine the best steps to take.

Developing such a plan requires the consideration of a large mass of information—description of water quality, characteristics of existing discharges, soils, land use, population, employment and a variety of other current and projected data must all be put together to display the options and tradeoffs for bringing all the streams of the basin up to the required standards for water quality.

In the Big Sandy basin, the use of all of this data is made easier by a computer program called ADAPT, developed especially for water quality management planning efforts. ADAPT stores much of the necessary information and combines and displays this information to help the planners develop and choose among alternatives.

According to officials of the division of water quality in the environmental protection department, it is important to be able to plan for a variety of conditions of future growth. Without ADAPT, state officials say, it would be extremely difficult to combine all the necessary data for all of the conditions which should be explored.

The information in the ADAPT computer program also will be used in the continuous planning process and also can be used to provide agencies engaged in other kinds of planning with a simple, readily available source of comprehensive planning data.

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

When most fishermen are coming back to the dock after a day on the water, there is another group waiting for the sun to set so they can begin pursuing their favorite fish, the white bass.

After the spawning runs are complete, the whites return to the lakes and go on a heavy feeding spree. One of the best ways of catching them at this time is by night fishing with live minnows.

Fishing at night gives the angler an advantage because he does not have to hunt for the fish—he lets them find him. By anchoring his boat along a deep bank, point or hogback and casting the beams of a lantern or other artificial light into the water, the night fisherman attracts schools of bait fish, which in turn attract the bands of roving and hungry white bass.

The experienced fishermen plan to make their trip an all-night affair, knowing that most of the activity takes place from midnight to dawn. However, many like to be on the lake before dark in order to find a suitable location, anchor the boat from both stern and bow so it won't swing around and generally get organized.

White and silver pond minnows about three inches long are the preferred bait, and they are fished at various depths until the anglers establish at what level the whites are feeding. Usually the minnows are hooked through both lips, lowered to the bottom, then retrieved slowly back toward the surface until a fish is hooked. Then the angler counts the number of turns of the reel handle to get an indication of the proper depth to fish.

Some recommended equipment for a night-fishing expedition is two anchors with plenty of line, warm clothing, rain gear, an extra light or two and an ample supply of coffee. Either spinning or bait casting tackle can be used, and most experienced fishermen choose a number four or five aberdeen-style hook.

With the spawning runs now almost completed in Kentucky's lakes, the night fishermen are starting to get their gear together in anticipation of the whites returning to the lake. Already there have been reports from Herrington Lake of good night fishing, and the activity should soon start at most of the other major lakes as well.

The daily and possession limit on white bass is the same—60 per person—and when conditions are right, limit or near-limit strings are not unusual for the night fisherman.

Besides the action, which at times can be furious indeed, there is a special appeal about being out on the water on a warm spring night, watching the sun both set and rise over the lake. If you've never tried night fishing for white bass, now is the time to plan a trip to your favorite lake.

You'll probably decide that it's a kind of fishing worth losing sleep over.

State Obligating Highway Funds

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky ranks eighth among the 50 states in obligating its share of the $2 billion in impounded federal and highway funds released by President Ford on Feb. 11 of this year.

According to the most recent report of the Federal Highway Administration, $62.7 million of federal money was obligated to specific highway projects in Kentucky as of April 28.

"We could proceed rapidly in submitting projects for federal approval," said Kentucky Secretary of Transportation John C. Roberts, "because Gov. Carroll acted quickly in making $15 million in state matching funds available and because many of this department's employees worked hard getting the project proposals ready."

Kentucky complied with federal guidelines that came with the release of the $2 billion in impounded funds. The guidelines require that 80 per cent of the money released be assigned to construction projects and that bids be taken or work started within 45 days from the date when funds are obligated. Special attention also has been paid to areas of high unemployment, to interstate projects and to safety projects.

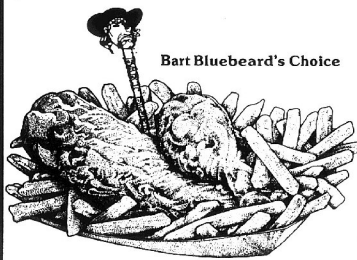

The early submission of Kentucky's highway construction plans and approval by the Federal Highway Administration has already resulted in many projects being let to contract.

Some of the major projects which have already been let to contract in the state as a result of the obligation of funds are located in the following counties: Boone, Carroll, Fayette, Gallatin, Hardin, Jefferson, Johnson, Kenton, Larue, McCracken, McCreary, Pendleton, Simpson and Washington.

"Additional projects which we are submitting to the Federal Highway Administration are currently being processed," said Roberts, "and it is anticipated they will be approved and result in several more million dollars being obligated to Kentucky highway construction projects before June 30, 1975."

Hill Honored for Long Service

A Certificate of Appreciation from President Ford, issued to Harry T. Hill for 15 years of good and faithful service, was recently presented to Mr. Hill by Dr. Herbert G. Salisbury, chairman of Selective Service Board No. 25.

Mr. Hill has served the Selective Service System in numerous capacities, such as executive secretary of the local board during World War II, as local board member of Local Board No. 25 and recently as advisor to registrants. Pictured above, from left are board member Mike Little, of Melvin, Mr. Hill, Dr. Salisbury and a visitor from Selective service headquarters, Frankfort, Frank Sayre. Also present on this occasion but not in the picture were Anna Forsyth and Carole D. Wolfe, personnel of Selective Service Area Office 21, located in the federal courthouse at Pikeville.

As of April 1, 1975, a new policy of registration went into effect. It established the "once-a-year" registration policy. All young men born in 1957 who have not previously registered with the draft will register at a time to be announced. A tentative time has been set for February, 1976, but the exact date has not been selected.

To My Friends

FIRST—I want to congratulate my opponent on his successful campaign and pledge to him and all Democratic nominees my 100 pct. support in November.

SECOND—I'm deeply grateful to all my neighbors in the Bull Creek precinct for the two to one majority they gave me.

THIRD—I hold nothing personal against anyone over the election. My candidacy was the result of a desire on the part of many people for a change, and between 3,333 voters expressed that desire, and to each I feel grateful.

FOURTH—The next regular county elections are only two years off, and in the meantime I shall continue to trade knives, go to the stock sale on Saturday and practice law during the week.

BURNIS MARTIN

DeRossett Thanks Voters

I deeply appreciate the vote given me by the people of our county at last week's primary election, and want you all to know that I will continue to render the same friendly, courteous service that I have tried to give at all times in the past.

The election left me with no enmity for any individual, and I trust this same spirit prevails among us all.

Fire Fighting School Slated

Frankfort, Ky.—A fire fighting and prevention school slated to be held in Lexington June 2-4 will be one of the largest of its kind in the world, according to State Fire Marshal Warren Southworth.

Southworth said that as many as 1,500 representatives of fire departments and industries are expected to attend this year's classes, which will include "learn by doing" sessions using actual fires.

The three-day course will be the 48th annual Kentucky Fire School. More than 100 instructors will conduct the 13 courses. Southworth said firemen who attend the 1975 school will receive 13 hours of intensive training in the subject they choose. Each class will be broken down into small working groups under the supervision of one or more instructors.

Subjects offered will include aircraft crash fire fighting and rescue, aerial ladder operations, arson, fire fighting strategy and tactics, hazardous materials and flammable gases, and urban, rural and forest fire fighting.

Southworth said each instructor in the school has completed a teacher training course at the University of Kentucky.

The office of the State Fire Marshal offers to pay the expenses of one fireman from each fire department in the state, so that they might attend, and it is hoped that fire agencies and industries will send additional students at their own expense. "We actually will reach a great many more fire fighters than the 1,500 expected to attend the school," Southworth said, "since the students can return to their respective departments and share what they have learned with their fellow firemen. With the great variety of hazardous materials firemen come into contact with these days and the greater complexity of fire fighting equipment, I think firemen are very appreciative of the opportunity for this sort of training."

Floyd County Health Notes

Anti-Rabies Clinics To Begin June 17

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH (Health Educator)

Now that summer is near, there will be an increased threat of rabies. Rabies is very prevalent in Kentucky wildlife in particular, foxes and skunks are high incidence species. The possibility of a "spillover" from wildlife to domestic animals is what public health officials fear.

By law, dogs and cats must be vaccinated in the county at the age of three to four months. This is safe and effective for pets, regardless of size or breed. If a person is bitten by any animal, wash the wound immediately with plenty of soap and water. Then apply a mild antiseptic, such as tincture of iodine and contact your physician for further instructions.

The animal should be confined for 14 days and observed for signs of the disease. Report the bite to the Floyd County Health Department for quarantine purposes and report any signs of illness.

It is known through experience that if at least 70 per cent of the domestic dogs and cats in a given community is immunized against rabies, an adequate buffer or protective screen exists for humans. Thus, each year Dr. Beecher Scutfield, veterinarian, and the Floyd County Health Department promote a low-cost group of vaccination clinics throughout the county. This anti-rabies clinic series will be conducted June 17, 18, 19 and 20. Distemper and hepatitis shots will also be available. The clinic schedule giving the date, place and time of each clinic will appear in next week's issue of The Floyd County Times.

A health nurse will conduct an outpatient clinic June 2 in the basement of the Methodist Church at Wayland. Clinic hours will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with the following free services being available: immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, hemoglobins and blood pressures.

The health department urges all persons in the Wayland area to check their children's immunization records to make sure their immunizations are up to date and if not to take advantage of this free clinic in their community.

The Health Department will be conducting a pap smear clinic, June 12. Since cervical cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death in women, the health department urges all women to get a yearly pap smear. This clinic will last from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Area Firemen Meet As Certification Work Is Initiated

Representatives of the state ROPES office met here last Wednesday evening with fire departments of three counties as a part of a statewide move to get all firemen, voluntary or paid, certified by the state.

The certification system provides firemen status in the event of transfer to another community and also qualifies firemen for incentive pay from the state. It is explained that those with the required 700 hours' service must maintain 100 hours' work a year thereafter.

Fire departments represented at the meeting included those of Pikeville, Prestonsburg, Right Beaver, Betsy Layne, Allen, Garrett, Oil Springs and Mullins.

Fire department members certified as instructors are Charles Davis, Bill Green, Raymond Allen, Paul Burke and James (Jimbo) Blackburn. The latter also was certified as a state instructor.

Turner Thanks Voters

I am deeply grateful to the people of Floyd County for their support of my candidacy for Railroad Commissioner of the Third Railroad District. Your help made my nomination possible. Now that the campaign is past, I want to congratulate my opponents upon their conduct as gentlemen. It is good that none of us said or did anything that reflected personal animosity. We all continue to be friends. I would add that, while my gratitude to those who voted for me and helped me is deeper than I can express, I hold no ill-will for those who supported others in this race. That, fortunately, is a part of our freedom—to vote for whom we choose. Sincerely, Jimmy "Gabe" Turner

By LARRY BURKE

We were thumbing through a book of children's prayers the other day. It contained the usual beautiful little prayers for children, and they were all well done striking illustrations, and in general good taste throughout the book.

There was one prayer in this book, however, that was outstanding. It was illustrated with the picture of a little boy lying on the grass with his puppy dog beside him. The puppy had one of his forepaws bawled, and here is the prayer:

"My pet does not feel well today, God. He doesn't want to play with me. Please help me to take care of him." A child's prayer? Yes, but isn't that the true prayer that all people should pray? "Help me to care..." Here we find no selfishness—just a petition for guidance in service.

Our thought to remember is: "THOSE WHO HELP—ALWAYS CARE."
