Floyd Gets Strip Fees Of $34,715

43 Counties Share In $2 Million Fund; Pike Receives Most

Floyd county drew $34,715 of the more than a million dollars in strip mine acreage and permit fees returned last week to the state's 43 coal producing counties.

Making the announcement of funds returned, John S. Hoffman, secretary of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said the $1,191,827.50 returned this year reflects the increase in coal mining that occurred this year. The amount returned this year more than doubles the $592,963 returned in 1974.

Each year, half the strip mine acreage and permit fees collected by the division of reclamation are returned to the counties where the mines are located. The other half is placed in the general fund.

Pike county received the largest check—$115,255. Menifee county's check for $162.50 was the smallest.

Following is a list of the amounts returned to other counties of this section of the state:

- Bell county, $46,425; Boyd, $4,600; Breathitt, $46,190; Carter, $27,882.50; Clay, $18,277.50; Elliott, $31,250; Greenup, $8,805; Harlan, $49,455; Johnson, $25,175; Knott, $17,590; Knox, $86,280; Laurel, $56,585; Lawrence, $40,087.50; Lee, $8,805; Leslie, $27,087.50; Letcher, $31,075; Magoffin, $33,072.50; Martin, $47,535; Morgan, $44,867.50; Owsley, $8,895; Perry, $44,425; Pulaski, $8,957.50; Rockcastle, $4,110; Wayne, $2,677.50; Whitley, $78,510; Wolfe, $2,442.50.

Lake Restocking Work Continues; Silt Dam Backed

Dewey Lake is just now getting what many fishermen have been yelling for for months, even years.

Within the last two weeks, 8,700 largemouth bass in the four to eight-inch size have been released in the lake by Division of Fisheries personnel, and the Highland Bass Club announced Monday that another 57,000 will be released, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The restocking program is seen as a direct benefit of the new state hatchery near Cave Run reservoir in Rowan county and the efforts of the bass club, made up of Floyd and Johnson county anglers, to procure the cooperation and support of Department of Fisheries personnel. Size of the bass being released is such that it is believed a larger percentage will survive. Most earlier restocking was of bass fry, of a size so

Manuel in Semis For Merit Award

Paul D. Manuel, Prestonsburg High School senior, has won a place among the 13,000 semifinalists who will compete for the 3,800 Merit Scholarships to be awarded nationally next spring.

The Prestonsburg National Merit student is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Manuel, of the Middle Creek road. Announcement of his winning a semifinalist's place in the national scholarship competition was made last week by Ronald D. Hager, principal of the school.

Some of the County's Finest

The weather did not cooperate—too hot and dry during the growing season and too rainy during the showing time—but you'd never think so, viewing this display of products on display last week at the Floyd County Fair. The farm and garden exhibits were particularly attractive this year.

Nearly Paid, Bonds Still Irk Taxpayers

The property tax bills began arriving from the sheriff's office last week, and reverberations again are being felt at the office of the superintendent of schools in the form of complaints about the so-called gym tax levied on Prestonsburg property owners.

Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said that, although explanations of the tax have been made on other occasions, he feels further information is due new taxpayers.

He pointed out that residents of the city of Prestonsburg voted a tax of 30 cents per $100 property valuation in 1965 to amortize a bond issue of $275,000 necessary for construction of the gymnasium (or fieldhouse) here. That was when, he pointed out, that Prestonsburg was an independent school district.

The following year, merger of the Prestonsburg independent district with the county system was effected, with the independent district taking the initiative toward merger and the county system accepting it with some reluctance. Terms of the merger provided that if the special tax levy did not produce sufficient revenues in any one year to pay the principal and interest as bonds became due, the county system "would take up the slack."

Clark said this week that in that first year of merger the city tax paid $8,811.94 and that the county system of necessity provided $33,000. The county, he said, continued to contribute to the bond fund till 1971 when, for the first time, the levy on city property became sufficient to bear the full load. It has not been required to help on the debt since that time.

Surfacing Work On Parking Lots To Cost $37,880

Work on the bituminous surfacing of two new city parking lots which was awarded the Porter Construction Company, of Rogers, Ky., at Thursday night's Prestonsburg City Council meeting, is expected to begin Monday.

The work, which will result in the paving of the former Sally Gatewood Clark property on Arnold Avenue and is currently in use adjacent to Prestonsburg Elementary, will provide parking space for 180 vehicles and will cost the city $37,880. The city hopes to have the lots in use by Red, White and Blue Day, October 25.

President of the Floyd County Humane Society John Burke, Jr. and veterinarian Beecher Stutchfield addressed the board.

This Town...That World

Is it fall weather or falling? The days grow shorter but the hours hold their own. And if you don't like the situation as of present date, think back to a few weeks ago when you were casting soulful glances heavenward and wishing for cooler weather and a little rain.

LAUREL FORK REVISITED
Since the two long-ago occasions when I ventured at night into the hills of that area for a bit of hunting I have wanted to travel the Laurel Fork of Quicksand during daylight hours. My only daytime glimpse of the area was the day, some years ago, when I parted with my old teacher, Prof. George Clark, whom I had accompanied, horseback, up Salt Lick to the gap between that stream and Laurel Fork.

Well, I saw it last Sunday. Seven of us loaded into a truck and bounced our way, up hill and down, most of us keeping such an uneasy eye on the road that we saw little of the scenery.

Three Charged As Drug Traffic Spread Talked

State Detective Danny Stumbo reported Tuesday the arrest of a third person accused of trafficking in marijuana after two had been arrested a week earlier following a chase from the Floyd Johnson county line to the vicinity of the Highlands Regional Hospital.

Two pounds of marijuana were recovered, and a 1975 Blazer in which the three allegedly fled arrest was impounded. The value of the marijuana was placed at $600.

Charged with trafficking in illegal substances and attempting to elude arrest were David J. Crider, of this county, Sidney Hicks, Lenoir City, N. C., and Cassie Marie Gilliam, of Pike county.

Detective Stumbo, who works with the Narcotics Division of the Kentucky State Police, said the narcotics problem is serious and that drugs are reaching into the schools. Most of the drugs found in or around schools are marijuana or barbiturates, he said, but some cocaine and LSD has been found.

Two juveniles who are known to the Lexington police department as drug addicts were arrested two weeks ago after they had broken into the Martin Rexall Drug Store, Stumbo said.

Pharmacies here have been repeatedly burglarized.

Comprehensive Care Faces Fight for Life

Maintain Comprehensive Care, the multi-county program headquartered here to render mental health and other services, faces a fight for its life, its executive director, Richard Stal, admitted here Tuesday.

Regulations of Title 20 of the Social Security Act are so stringent and so many phases of service are threatened with closing that operator will be almost impossible unless there is help from the state level, Mr. Stal added.

Jury Selection In Second Day In Murder Case

The tedious process of selecting a jury was no more than half done Tuesday morning in the murder trial here of Robert Sykes.

The 41-year-old Sykes is charged with the murder in July, 1971 at her Meta, Pike county home of Mrs. Gladys Deskins.

The regular jury panel was exhausted Monday, first day of the trial, and 47 veniremen were summoned to appear Tuesday morning for possibly jury service. Several jurors had been seated Tuesday morning, but one was excused because of a death in his family.

Lee Ledford, principal attorney for the defendant, was not present when the case was called for trial Monday morning, and Circuit Judge Hollie Conley named two attorneys—Dan Rowland, Floyd county public defender, and Gary Johnson, of Pikeville—to represent Sykes. The trial was continued from an earlier court term because certain defense witnesses held in federal prisons in widely separated parts of the country were not present to testify.

Sykes is the third man to be brought to trial for the murder of the Pike woman. Her estranged husband, Boone Deskins, wealthy Pike county man, and Eugene Thompson, 25, were given life pen terms in separate trials. Mrs. Deskins was

The 10 member mine rescue team from National Mines Corporation, Wayland, captured by Safety Director John F. Collins, took first place honors in the one-hour competition and fourth place in the two-hour competition in the 28th National Mine Rescue and First Aid Contest held at the Kentucky State Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville, September 11-12.

The contest included both written exams and a rescue and recovery examination in a simulated mine. The two-day competition, sponsored by the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration, was participated in by a total of 60 teams from the coal-producing states of the nation.

In addition to the first and fourth place trophies, the individual National Mines team members received award plaques and watches. The team was also awarded the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration Congressional Medallion for their first-place honors in the one-hour competition.

A banquet in honor of the team will be given in Lexington this week at the Lafayette Club by George E. Evans, Jr., president of National Mines Corporation.

Burglars Take $6,000 in Cash

Paul Thompson, head of Thompson's IGA Store here, said last week that $6,000 in cash and an undetermined quantity of cigarettes were taken in the burglary of the store last Thursday night.

Management of Reid's Pharmacy in the Archer Clinic building here declined to give an estimate of the loss there in a break the preceding night.

Police have no clues in either case, it was said Monday. Entry to the grocery store was effected through a rear door. Mr. Thompson placed the break at sometime between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m., since employees left the store at 11 and others were back at 5. His store at Hazard had been hit by burglars a week earlier.

In the investigation of the pharmacy break, city police found burglars' tools and a walkie-talkie inside the building. The communications device was still at "on," and Chief Police Bill Potter expressed the belief that it was being used by those inside the clinic to maintain contact with a lookout outside. Entrance to the clinic was made via an air vent.

Persons booked at the county jail over the past week, charges against each and arresting officers follow:

The club also voted support of projects determined by KFWC Juniors, a KFWC 7th district Junior project, a Bicentennial Project, a free dinner for clubwomen at the installation of new officers in May, to purchase trophies for the first annual invitational tennis tournament held at Minnie. Of the 16 participants second place went to Tony Samons, of Minnie, and third place to William Little, of Drift.

Local Crafts Featured at Floyd County Fair

FLOYD COUNTY HUMANE SOCIETY TO MEET

The next meeting of the Floyd County Humane Society will be held Tuesday night at the Martin grade school at 7:30 p.m. All county residents interested in the establishment of a county animal shelter should attend this important meeting.

Health Agency Names Dr. Young

Roger Marchall, executive director of Big Sandy Health Care, Inc., announced earlier this month the appointment of Dr. Gordon C. Young, to the position of clinic physician for the Floyd county area clinic, at Wheelwright.

Dr. Young, a native of Floyd county, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Young, of Prestonsburg. He was graduated from Prestonsburg High School in 1962 and attended Berea College, receiving his B.A. degree in 1966 and his M.D. degree from the Louisville School of Medicine in 1970. He served two years in the U.S. Army, 1971 to 1973, including 11 months in Viet Nam.

Following his release from military duty he returned to study medicine at Louisville specializing in the field of dermatology.

Mr. Marshall remarked that he was especially pleased about Dr. Young's decision to join the Big Sandy Health Care staff.

"In a program such as ours it is essential that we have staff members who are familiar with the area," he said. "We have special health needs that require special expertise. Dr. Young's familiarity with Floyd county, coupled with his formal medical background, marks him as especially suited to fulfill the responsibility of his role as clinic physician."

Mr. Marshall became executive director of the two-county (Floyd and Magoffin) health program, late last month. He also is a Floyd county native and formerly resided in the David area.

Sanitation Workers Find Lost Deposit

Prestonsburg sanitation workers Arthur Collins, Joe D. Delmar and Burns Ray Jerva are accustomed to finding just about anything in the refuse of a town the size of Prestonsburg, but the discovery of a bank deposit bag complete with contents worth more than $7,000 came as bit of a surprise.

The men found the deposit while making their rounds Tuesday morning and immediately turned in the valuable find to City Hall. The loot, consisting of $400 in cash and about $7,000 in checks and money orders, turned out to belong to D. C. Stephens, Prestonsburg radio station owner, who had lost the deposit bag earlier in the week. Stephens, who had advertised for the return of the money on radio, gave each of the worker a reward of $25.

The Kentucky State Police gave drivers' examinations to 236,816 persons from January through July of 1975. Of that total, 171,060 failed for licensing. The pass percentage for the first seven months of the year was about 72 per cent.

Attorney General Says Judge Not To Appoint Prosecutor

When Harold Stumbo leaves office as commonwealth's attorney at the end of this year he may not legally act as special prosecutor in the Eddie Jones murder trial next Jan. 12 under appointment by Special Judge Fred N. Walter.

When Judge Walter upon continuing the Jones trial here two weeks ago appointed Stumbo as special prosecutor, Stumbo doubted he could serve under such appointment and he paid for his services. He wrote the attorney general.

In response, Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock wrote in part:

"Since I have found no authority for this appointment, it appears that you would be acting without legal authority, which would jeopardize a conviction, and you would not be authorized for any payment for your services."

The attorney general added that the only provision for a special prosecutor is given to the attorney general and upon the request of "certain officials." This, it was inferred, means that the attorney general may designate a special prosecutor upon request of the new commonwealth's attorney, James R. Allen, or other court official.

The opinion said that the only authority the attorney general has found for the circuit judge to make such an appointment is under KRS 69.060 which authorizes a circuit judge to designate a commonwealth's attorney pro-tem when the regular commonwealth's attorney is absent at any part of a term of circuit court.

Money Will Not Cure It

The Kentucky Crime Commission has within the fortnight approved a package of criminal justice grants totaling $6.3 million in federal, state and local funds.

Most of that money—$4.8 million—will go toward paying of officers who take certified training and education courses...

Although we do not deny that better-trained peace officers are needed in an age when criminal cunning has grown acute...

These legislators and judicial interpreters of the law will have to get back to fundamentals before the work of any enforcement officer can hope to be effective.

(Before we proceed farther with this jeremiad, let us admit that few newspaper people know much of the law...

We read now of the proposed revision of the federal criminal code, which may, or may not, have been misinterpreted...

This may be for federal officials or premises. But since when did a federal employee become less human than any other citizen...

There are those who profess to fear the shoot-now-and-ask-questions-later instinct will be over-exercised if such a code is not adopted.

When a law-enforcement officer would search a home for narcotics or for a known criminal, the old English law of "a man's castle is his home" is invoked...

And we prate about equal rights and the like!

The new Kentucky criminal code provides that the person who issues a worthless check must be given ten days' notice before legal action can be taken against him.

This country of ours has a wonderful concept of individual rights, which is a basis for freedom.

More millions will not cure the disease. This is a deep-seated cancer that requires something more penetrating than the salve of dollars or the soft-soap of ideological legislation.

Consumer Comments

BY EDW. HANCOCK
Should you always get a refund if you want one? Consumers frequently call our office to ask, "Does a store owner have to give refunds?"

Let's see if you can pass this short refund quiz:
1. Does a business have to give refunds?

2. Do refunds have to be in cash?
3. Does present law require a company to post their refund policy?

The answer to all of these questions is NO. A business does not have to give refunds. Most reputable businesses are happy to refund dissatisfied customers, especially when there is no problem reselling an item.

Present law does not require a company to post its refund policy, but consumers should make it their business to inquire about refunds when they shop.

A merchant's refund policy is determined by the terms of the contract between the merchant and the consumer.

If no refund policy was agreed upon, and if the merchandise was not defective or misrepresented, the merchant may set his own refund policy.

Ask the merchant about refunds every time you make a purchase, and check the sales slip or any documents you are signing, before you make a purchase.

Consumers have another responsibility as well: to be certain that items returned for refunds have not been used or worn.

Abuse of a refund policy could lead to stricter policies which hinder other consumers.

If you have a consumer complaint, contact the Attorney General's Division of the state of Kentucky, The Capitol, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. Kentucky consumers may call toll-free on the consumer hotline by dialing 1-800-372-2360.

The grand jury upon adjournment early this month commented on the need for an extensive investigation of the drug situation in the county and suggested that better communications between the State Police and the school system are needed.

Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark this week expressed his continuing concern about excessive drug handlers and their sales to students of the need for communication with State Police.

I am not going to pass judgment on the Laurel Fork, but a few sore spots left from that trip remind me to declare to one and all, including Knott County and state officials, that what the Laurel Fork of Quicksand is a real root.

As we tired of the trip, I recalled that this was the long ride our old mail carrier, Cal Robinson, took, six days a week, year in and year out, from Elm Rock on Quicksand to Hueysville on Beaver Creek.

How strong is your faith? This has to do with the subject. The guy had slipped during a mountain climb and one outfalling hand had grasped the low-hanging branch of a small bush.

Then, as so many of us do, he turned to help from above, as a last resort. "Is there anybody up there?" he yelled, again and again. And there came back the answer, so the story runs, in deep, sonorous tones, "There is."

"Will you help me?" the cliffhanger cried. "Yes."

"What must I do?" "Loose your grasp on that branch, and have faith," came the reply.

"The man looked at this weakening hand and the tiny hold he had on safety, then looked downward into the abyss below. He did some quick calculations in assessing the situation. Then he gave tongue again, and this was his question: "Say, is there anybody else up there?"

LETTERS To the Editor

'Desiderata' Not as Old As Generally Believed

Editor, The Times: Thank you for publishing in last week's Floyd County Times a copy of "Desiderata" which was written in 1927 by scholar, poet, lawyer, playwright Max Ehrmann, who died in 1945.

Adlai Stephenson planned to print and send copies of "Desiderata" to his friends but was prevented from doing so by his untimely death. Consequently, many national news syndicates picked up the story and rekindled interest in Ehrmann.

St. Paul's an Episcopal Church in Baltimore, has mistakenly been given credit for the origin of "Desiderata." The confusion came about because a parish priest liked it, had it mimeographed and copies left, sometime in the early 1950's, in pews where it was "found." St. Paul's was founded in 1892—hence, the mistaken credit.

Copies of this beautiful work by a writer whose life was not one of outward events but of intellectual activity concerned with the social problems of the day and the spiritual means of life may be ordered from Crescendo Publishing Co., 46-56 Melrose St., Boston, Mass. 02116.

ENROLLMENTS DOWN, COSTS UP, FORECAST

The U. S. Office of Education predicts that between 1972 and 1982, there will be a drop in public school enrollments from 50.8 million to 45.1 million. At the same time, however, it estimates that the total cost of education will rise from $43.5 billion in 1972 to $54.7 billion in 1982. The reasons for increased costs in spite of declining enrollments are a projected lowering of student-teacher ratios and steadily rising salaries.

Individuals participating in the television course, "Gun Safety and Education," seen this summer on Kentucky Educational Television, will be contacted directly about the schools. STRIKE THREAT LESSENS

Observers of the recent conventions of the National Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers believe there will be fewer teacher strikes this fall. There are two reasons: (1) NEA and AFT are expending energies fighting each other that might otherwise be used for harassing school boards; and (2) the current unemployment situation for teachers has cooled the tendency to call strikes—there are too many unemployed teachers who would willingly become strike breakers.

In Loving Memory of our beloved son and brother, Ronnie Dean Dotson, who passed away Sept. 24, 1972.

To some you are forgotten. To others just part of the past. But to us who loved and lost you your memory will always last.

It is a homesome house without you. And sad has been the way. For life and home are not the same since you were called away.

Our hearts still ache with sadness. Secret tears will always flow. What it meant to lose you no one will ever know.

For memories are all we have left now. Oh, we dearly love you so.

Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers.

Oil Recovery Contract Goes To West Virginia Oil Firm

The Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) has awarded a $3.24 million cost sharing contract to Guyan Oil Company, Huntington, West Virginia, for testing the economics of an enhanced oil recovery method.

ERDA will contribute up to $1.2 million and Guyan $2.04 million over a four year period to demonstrate the efficiency and economics of recovering oil from a shallow, low temperature reservoir using carbon dioxide and water to displace the oil.

The tests will be conducted in the Berea sand of the Griffithsville, Lincoln county, West Virginia.

The Guyan company will drill and complete a total of at least 25 wells in injection wells and nine producing wells to form an approximately square pattern. All wells drilled will be logged to determine reservoir characteristics and fluid saturations. Guyan will conduct water injectivity tests on each injection well after it has been fractured and, when practical, before it has been fractured. All oil wells in the pattern and surrounding area, whether active or abandoned wells, will be re-entered and either recompleted as observation wells or plugged.

New Unit Formula Reviewed at Meet

State Department of Education officials met here Tuesday in one of a series of regional meetings to explain procedures for keeping and reporting attendance under the new weighted pupil-unit formula. The meetings are for superintendents, directors of pupil personnel and others working with pupil accounting.

The Prestonsburg meeting for personnel in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin and Pike counties, was held at the Regional office conference building. The state uses the pupil unit formula to allot aid to school districts according to the cost of educating a student in a particular program. The method takes into account the fact that some students cost more to educate than others, such as handicapped pupils and those in vocational programs.

The 1974 legislature approved the change to pupil unit method under the stipulation that $5 million would be available to make sure no district receives less under the new plan than it did under the classroom-unit method.

Senator Ford Sees Hot Debate On Bill To Revise U.S. Code

A voluminous piece of controversial legislation, revision of the Federal Criminal Code, will have a difficult time getting through the Senate in its present form, Sen. Wendell Ford has predicted.

The 756-page bill, still in subcommittee, is expected to be the target of long and intensive debate in the full Judiciary Committee before going to the Senate floor for vote.

"I've heard some say it will be tied up until next year," Ford said. "Either way, it will have to be thoroughly clarified, and perhaps revised extensively, before I support it," he added.

One of the major items of controversy with the bill relates to protection of person and property.

A reporter, Jack C. Landau, of Newhouse News Service, has written that the bill would make it a crime for a resident to use "deadly force" to stop a nighttime prowler from taking away personal property. He also claims that a person could be convicted if he had the opportunity of using less force against an intruder than was exercised, but failed to do so.

"This would be a ridiculous law and I would be against it," Ford stressed. Ford said he has been informed, however, by legal counsel in the Judiciary Committee that the reporter's interpretation is "totally in error." The bill pertains only to federal property and federal officials in this instance.

"But it's easy to see how emotional the reaction can become, just as it is easy to see how complicated the bill really is," Ford added.

He called the measure an act which will invite hot debate since it will be surrounded by "individual interpretation."

Keeping Tabs on Water

By MARVA GAY
Frankfort, Ky.—Until recently, few Kentuckians worried much about running out of water. That's changing.

In recent years, the division of water resources in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has been looking more closely at applicants seeking to withdraw water from streams and lakes in the state. In a couple of instances, the division has cut back the amount of water a permit applicant is allowed to withdraw.

Dick Rohlf, who is in charge of the division's water withdrawal permit program, predicts that the number of applications out back or rejected will increase as industrial development increases.

In 1966, the state began keeping tabs on who was using water from Kentucky streams and lakes. The 1966 law was intended to control the development of water resources. Today, the division issues permits to users of more than 10,000 gallons of water a day.

The first water withdrawal permit was issued to Shelbyville, which was with drawing one million gallons of water a day in 1966. In 1974, its permit was revised to allow withdrawals of two million gallons a day.

Since then, 777 water withdrawal permits have been issued. The latest was issued to Gal-Glo Coal Co. of Whitley county. It will withdraw 240,000 gallons of water a day from Bennett's Branch.

Of the permits issued, Rohlf estimates just over 600 are active. Many of the inactive ones are issued to small municipal water plants that have been consolidated with another water withdrawal plant.

Louisville—with one withdrawal point—is the largest single user of water in the state. It takes between 120 and 130 million gallons of water from the Ohio River every day. Lexington—with two withdrawal points—takes 32 million gallons a day from the Kentucky River.

Some industries, such as Westvaco in Western Kentucky, rival for second place. Westvaco withdraws 25 million gallons a day from the Mississippi River. DuPont at Louisville withdraws about 40 million gallons a day from the Ohio River.

One of the largest water users, however, isn't permitted. That's the TVA Paradise Plant which uses the water for cooling. Power plants and agricultural consumers aren't required to obtain a permit. Water withdrawn to be injected underground for secondary recovery of oil or gas also is exempt.

According to Rohlf, much of the water that is withdrawn is returned to the streams. Municipal sewer systems return much through their sewage treatment plants. However, other water, such as that which evaporates from the TVA cooling tower, is lost.

As long as a stream will carry enough water for all users, Rohlf said the division will issue a permit to withdraw water for any purpose. However, if the withdrawal will limit the water available to other users, the permit will be denied or the amount of water the division will allow the applicant to withdraw will be reduced.

"The division monitors how much water is being withdrawn through semi-annual reports submitted by the permit holders. The computer files on those reports have been used by water planning analysts and state government consultants.

Usually there's enough water to go around. "If the withdrawal is from the Ohio or the Mississippi, we don't look at the permit application very hard," said Rohlf. "There's plenty of water in those rivers to go around."

However, Rohlf said some proposed water withdrawals have been reduced during the last few years. "These have been minor cases," said Rohlf, "and not major denials or cutbacks." One denial was for a trailer park. Rohlf said the proposed water withdrawal would have been affected stream so much that not enough water would have been left for the users downstream.

"Though we've just gotten into denials," added Rohlf, "as development continues and as more sources withdraw water from streams, we'll probably be denying more applicants for permits. For sure, we're looking at the permits harder now because some of the streams already have near their maximum of permitted withdrawals."

New Library Committee Meets

The library committee of the Maytown Woman's Club met at the new Maytown Public Library September 11 with Club President Alicia Mayo to do some work and discuss further plans for the library.

The library was opened to the public July 24 on a self-service basis for all people of the area.

A representative of the Woman's Club said, "The club is most gratified with the response to this project and would like to express its appreciation to the many persons who have helped make it possible.

The "Book Barrel" is still in the Langley Postoffice and the committee will try to shelve any donations of materials. Pre-school books are most needed. The club chose this motto for the Maytown Library: "Reading is a pleasure, serving you is our pleasure."

Ginger To Speak At Lodge Meet

Dr Lyman V. Ginger, state superintendent of public instruction, will address educators from Floyd and Martin county school districts and the Paintsville independent district at the KEDR XI In-service Conference to be held at Prestonsburg High School, September 26, from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Appearing with Dr. Ginger on the general assembly program will be Dr. Sidney Simandle, director of the Division of Teacher Education and Certification; Dr. John M. Claunch, president of the Kentucky Council on Economic Education; Rex Johns, executive director, KEDR XI, Charles F. Clark, superintendent of Floyd county schools; Sheldon Clark, superintendent of Martin county schools, and Oran Teater, superintendent of Paintsville independent schools.

The afternoon session will be devoted to small group meetings. Consultants will be provided in grade levels 1 through 6 and in subject areas in grades 7 through 12. LIST LIKES, DISLIKES
Working with people is both the high and low point of a principal's job, according to a survey of Wisconsin principals. Most principals liked working with teachers, students, and "positive thinking" parents. They disliked "tons of trivia" such as paperwork and "Mickey Mouse" dates. They were also disturbed by trying to remake substandard teachers, lack of involvement in decisions made by Superintendents and school boards, adversary relationships created by unions, and discipline, especially with children who no longer wish to be in school.

ECONOMY IS MAJOR TEACHER CONCERN
"The state of the economy is the overwhelming preoccupation of teachers today," says Terry E. Herndon, executive secretary of the 1.7 million member National Education Association. The comment was made during NEA's annual convention, the theme of which was "Educational Strategies During an Economic Crisis." Convention delegates laid plans to win public opinion to their side and to work for the election of officeholders favoring teacher interests. NEA also plans to endorse a Presidential candidate in 1976 for the first time in its 118-year-old history.

For Improved Garbage Service

Floyd County Sanitation, Inc. wishes to thank the many residents of Floyd County for their response and cooperation in setting up a garbage service in Floyd County.

The first few months of our operation have been complicated with several problems, such as: setting up garbage routes, employing dependable personnel, and experiencing equipment breakdowns.

We now have our routes set up on a regular schedule, and we appreciate the public having patience with us as we are trying to improve our service.

Most of the complaints against Floyd County Sanitation, Inc. are by those citizens who:

1. Do not put their garbage in Trash Bags.
2. Exceed the 20-pound limit in Trash.
3. Do not pay their garbage bills.
4. Are not home when the truck is by to pick up the garbage, and do not have the garbage setting out.
5. Burn the garbage in 55 gal. barrels and want the men to empty the barrels even while the trash is burning.
6. Want their refrigerators, stoves, trees, old furniture and dead animals removed at a regular pick-up.

Floyd County Sanitation, Inc. has certain guidelines set forth by the Fiscal Court for picking up garbage. These are:

1. All Trash must be in Trash Bags.
2. Trash must not exceed twenty (20) pounds per collection.
3. The trash must be set on the road or street in front of the house.

Floyd County Sanitation, Inc. is making contributions to the county and some of the contributions are:

1. Helping clean up the county.
2. Providing employment for 16 people.
3. Increasing gasoline sales in the county.
4. Boosting the economy of the U.S. Postal Service
5. Pay the county 1 pct. of gross income.

With more support from the County and State in enforcing the use of landfills, Floyd County can be a clean and beautiful place to live.

Administrator, Floyd County Sanitation

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of My beloved parents, Virgie and Darb Shepherd, who passed away Sept. 28, 1962:

Mother and Daddy, it has been thirteen years since that fatal day. When God in heaven called you away.

I miss you both so very much. If only your hands, I could touch.

Mother dear, you were so loving and true. And to live without Daddy, you would be very blue.

Daddy dear, you were so gentle and kind. A nicer father I could never find.

The beautiful smiles on your face, The wonderful memories I cannot erase.

It's difficult to put into words the way I feel. But, Mother and Darry, they are genuine and very real.

You are both at rest in the distant far. Never, ever to be harmed by man or car.

We love and miss you so very much words cannot say. But we know you are happy with each other.

You wouldn't want it any other way.

We will all be together again in the great judgment day. Sadly Missed, Dearly Loved daughter, BILLIE MARIE LeMONT of James Earl Castle, who passed away Sept. 22, 1966:

IN LOVING MEMORY

Only nine years ago today, You left us all and went away

The fond memories you left behind Has kept us all from losing our minds

We remember so many things you would do and say. Without them we couldn't have made it to this day.

Remember in the fall we would ride around. To look at the leaves that turned gold and brown

And the time you and Delores had to babysit with us. And all we did was fight and fuss.

There are so many things we remember about you. Most of all you were a son and brother so true.

Oh, Dad, how we love and miss you so. And some day it will be our turn to go.

With God's help and guidance we'll join you there. Then we'll be together again in that land so fair.

Sadly Missed by Mom, Dad, Brothers and Sisters

CARD OF THANKS We wish to express our heartfelt appreciation to all those who were so kind to us upon the recent death of our mother, Mrs. Mary E. Hall. We are deeply grateful to those who sent food and flowers, to the doctors, nurses, and general staff at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, to the ministers for their comforting words, and to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its thoughtful and efficient service.

FIVE SOCCER PLAYERS BANNED FOR LIFE

GLASGOW, Scotland—Billy Bremner, the Leeds and Scotland soccer captain, and four other Scotland international players, were banned Monday from playing for their country for life.

The ban was imposed by the International Section Committee of the Scottish Football Association after its members had spent four hours investigating allegations of rowdy behavior by the players when they were in Copenhagen last week for a match against Denmark.

Festival Which Began with Gifts Of Apples, Scheduled Oct. 3-4

The Kentucky Apple Festival of Johnson County is scheduled for October 3-4. Originated in the early 1960's as a means to help promote the sale of apples for the apple growers of the county by merchants giving away an apple to each customer, the festival is now homecoming for many thousands of people. The highlights of the apple goodies are the candied apples made by the 4-H Club, apple butter stirred in a big iron kettle on the street, fried apple pies turned out by the thousands, and many other apple pastries for sale at booths on the street by the county development clubs, churches and schools.

Scheduled festival events include a parade, square dance, queen contests, flea market, band festival, antique car show, kiddie rides, cross country run and school activities, from dawn until dusk.

The Arts and Crafts division of the festival is exciting craftsmen of the state to participate in demonstrating and selling their handiwork. The spaces will be available in the grade school gym and also outdoors under a canopy. Interested craftsmen should contact Mrs. Gladys Goetz, 224 Margaret Heights, Arts and Crafts Chairman, Parisville, phone 669-2822.

The evening entertainment planned for this year will be Conway Twitty and the Twitty Birds for Friday night's performance, featuring Karen Wheeler and Johnny Russell Saturday evening entertainment will feature Jim Ed Brown and the Gates Sisters with Bobby Bare at 8 p.m. at Johnson Central high school.

WEEKSBURY

CHAFTSMEN CLUB MEETS

The Craftsmen Club met September 15 and worked on several projects. Members present were Katie Collins Newsome, club co-ordinator, working with her quilt fabric flower designs, Eddie Collins and Elsie Collins. Visitors included Lillie Hall, who brought with her a beautiful quilt of the "Starflower" design, Sadie Bakay, who displayed her crocheting talent with a colorful pillow top and a unique crocheted cape.

Mrs. Bakay began a new project in needlepoint and was instructed in the basic stitches by Eddie Collins. Pamela Stumbo presented in the club her art of crocheting with a sample of her work in the form of a tasseled shawl. She also started a new project to be a patchwork wallhanging.

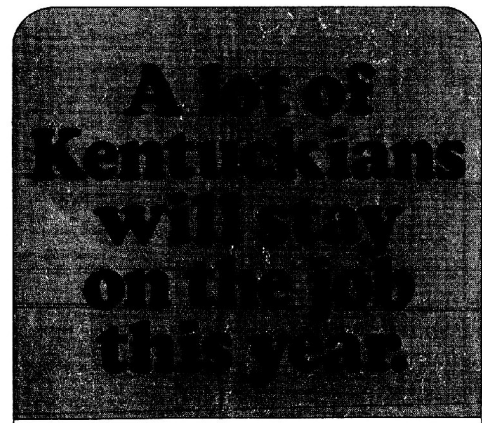

Future meetings of the club will be twice a month. Forthcoming meetings at the Weeksbury Community Center will be September 29, October 13 and October 27 at 5 p.m.

All persons interested in handicrafts are cordially invited to attend meetings.

And coal is the reason why. While unemployment remains a serious national problem, in Kentucky the coal industry provides stable, good-paying jobs. Again this year, 50,000 coal and coal-related jobs will generate more than half a billion dollars in wages. That a billion dollars in coal incomes that will keep coming in and going out, buying goods and services throughout Kentucky, helping other Kentucky workers to keep going strong.

With energy demands and oil prices up, research is on. Coal is entering a new age as an important, plentiful power source. Science is solving the problems of clean air and reclamation so all Americans can enjoy the good life that coal energy can help provide. And Kentucky provides more than one-third of all of the nation's coal!

Kentucky's future is bright. Its land with the promise of more and better jobs, a future that's secure for thousands of Kentuckians who can count on a paycheck on payday.

MOTHER'S ELBOWS ON MY BED

I was but a youth and thoughtless,
As all youths are apt to be.
Though I had a Christian mother
Who had taught me carefully,
But she came a time when pleasure
Of the world came to allure me,
And I no more sought the guidance
Of her love so good and pure.

But mother would not yield her boy
To Satan's sinful sway,
And though I spurned her counsel
She knew a better way.
No more she tried to caution
Of ways she knew were vain,
And though I guessed her heartache
I could not know its pain.

She made my room an altar,
A place of secret prayer,
And there she took her burden
And left it in His care.
And morning, noon and evening
By that humble bedside lay,
She sought the aid of Him Who
Best can understand a mother's woe.

And I went my way unheeding,
Careless of the life I led,
Until one day I noticed
Prints of elbows on my bed,
Then I saw that she had been there
Praying for her wayward boy,
Who for love of worldly pleasure
Would her peace of mind destroy.

While I wrestled with my conscience,
Mother wrestled still in prayer,
Till that little room seemed hallowed
Because so oft she met Him there,
With her God she held the fortress,
And though not a word she said,
My stubborn heart was broken
By those imprints on my bed.

Long the conflict raged within me,
Sin against my mother's prayer,
SIN MUST YIELD, FOR MOTHER NEVER.
While she daily met Him there
And her constant love and patience
Went like coals upon my head,
Together with the imprints
Of her elbows on my bed.

Mother-love and God-love
Are a combination rare,
And one that can't be beaten
When sealed by earnest prayer,
And so at last the fight was won,
And I to Christ was led,
And mother's prayers were answered
By her elbows on my bed.—Unknown

Seeks Proposals To Develop Fluidized-Bed Coal-Burning

The Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) is requesting technical proposals to develop and demonstrate a fluidized-bed concept for clean burning of high-sulfur coal and coal waste in industrial boilers and heaters.

Dr. Philip C. White, Assistant Administrator for Fossil Energy in ERDA, said the fluidized-bed development program is aimed at offering large fuel users now dependent on curtailable natural gas or expensive oil the option of using coal of any rank, quality or sulfur content in an environmentally acceptable manner. It would provide one way to convert to a new economic and environmentally acceptable technology.

The fluidized-bed concept involves using a cushion of air in which to suspend particles of coal and dolomite or limestone and permit cleanup of the combustion gases before emission through a stack, as distinguished from stack gas cleanup methods.

Dr. White said the demonstration program seeks to identify and evaluate industrial boiler and process heat requirements to determine the feasibility of the fluidized-bed technique, to design, build, operate, test and demonstrate prototype boilers and heaters in this regard, and to obtain sufficient data from prototype operations to enable industry to scale up to commercial-size installations.

Through a Program Opportunity Notice sent to potentially interested persons and groups, ERDA is requesting proposals to be submitted by December 1, 1975, for an industrial steam generator with a steam capacity of from 50,000 to 500,000 pounds per hour, an indirect-fired heater with a capacity of from 20 million Btu's to 500 million Btu's, and a direct-fired heater with a capacity of from 10 million to 500 million Btu's per hour.

The Department of the Navy has offered its Public Works Center, Great Lakes, Illinois, as a site for the industrial steam generator and boiler categories of the demonstration program. The respondent may use that site or the equivalent, including supporting facilities.

Dr. White said the primary fuel will consist of coals strategically situated to the respondents' sites and may include lignites at various ash and sulfur levels, anthracite, all high-sulfur coals, high slagging and corrosive coals and coal waste such as anthracite culm banks and bituminous refuse piles. A secondary fuel may consist of any industrial waste produced at the selected site.

A Plea for Help

Concerning three recent deaths in the Henderson family, I am asking for help because my husband is disabled to work, and we live on a very small income. We have lost three children in the past 22 months, two of whom have passed away within the last seven months. We couldn't buy insurance on them because of an incurable disease.

Anyone who wants to and is able to donate a few dollars toward funeral expenses for the children, it would be greatly appreciated, and I am sure God will bless you for it.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON
As the weather starts to cool, the fishing starts getting hot. The bass, which have spent the summer holed up in a nice shady spot deep in the lakes, will begin to prowl the shorelines, since they can find suitable temperatures in shallow water once more.

Kentucky's knowledgeable fishermen, who know that autumn offers some of the year's best bass fishing. In addition, the cool days and bright fall colors of the woods make just being outdoors a joy after the heat and humidity of summer. Most of the speedsters and water skiers will be gone after the Labor Day week-end, and many sportsmen, distracted by the lure of squirrel and dove hunting, will also be off the water. But the serious bass fishermen will be on the lakes and doing quite well. From about the first of September until maybe the middle of December (depending, as always, on the weather), the fishing should be very good. And with the modern insulated clothing now available, anglers can brave even the occasional cold spell in comfort.

A Broken Romance of the Hills

By GEO. L. MOORE
Moses Clayton came to our valley in 1890. He built himself a double log house at the mouth of the hollow that bears his name. Here in this valley he was to live a long and happy life and raise many sons and daughters.
When his oldest son, Lonnie, took himself a wife, Moses Clayton followed the time-honored custom of the hills and helped Lonnie build a small log house farther up the hollow. To reach the new homestead, they hacked a narrow trail through the laurel and ivy, up through a gap in the cliff. The trail continued up the hollow till it reached a small triangular shaped bottom at the fork of the valley. The gap, later known as Clayton's Gap, was the only way to reach Lonnie's house from the outside world.

Lonnie's house consisted of one room some twelve feet wide by fifteen feet long. There was a small window in the back and a large, open fireplace in front. The furniture consisted of a bed, three homemade straight-backed chairs with hickory bark bottoms, and a small dining table. Lonnie and his wife made out all right for space until children began to arrive with annual regularity. After the fourth girl was born, it became necessary to add another bed. This left little space for the eating table. Lonnie found it necessary to cut a door in the upper side of the house and add a lean-to. A small step-stove, along with the eating table, was moved into the new space. As Lonnie put it, he had begun to live "higher on the hog."

"Lonnie's children were all girls. He said that he had hoped for field hands but all that he got was dishwashers. His eldest daughter, Bessie, was now 14 and had begun to take an active interest in the opposite sex. Further down the valley lived the Ramey family. As far as worldly goods were concerned, they had nothing but the bare necessities of life. The winds of prosperity had never blown in their direction. Their second oldest son, Ernie, was already wise in the ways of the woods, fields and streams. He was now the breadwinner of the family. Ernie was the best trapper in the valley. He was not one to hunt for sport; he was strictly a meat hunter. When he took to the hills with his old single barrel, he never returned empty-handed. He knew exactly where to find the rabbits, squirrels and other edible vermin of the forest.

No professor of botany could identify as many edible plants as could Ernie. Ernie roamed up and down the valley of Arab Fork, gathering everything from lamb's tongue to woody jaw. In the winter months he gathered crow's foot, as it was the only plant that could stand the winter cold. One of the main sources of income for the Ramey family in the summer was ginseng. Ernie would also dig golden seal. He was no mayapple digger. He said, "That stuff is not worth diggin'." He said, "I just love to dig sng. I know it is the purtiest weed that ever grewed." Ernie did have a sharp eye for ginseng. It was said that he could spot a four-prong at a distance of 50 feet. On his travels through the hills, he would sometimes stop at Lonnie's place to display his diggin's.

Rosie would look on with admiration. She would say, "Ernie you shore air a good sang digger." A broad smile would spread across Ernie's face as he replied, "Well, I reckon a fellar out to be good fur sumpin'."

Ernie's visits became more frequent and in a short time Rosie became very fond of him. As far as Ernie was concerned, the fondness was mutual. In due time he began to make regular visits on Saturday nights. He and Rosie would sit out on the small front porch where there was no one to interfere with their privacy. As darkness fell over the valley, they would pull their hickory bottomed chairs closer together. They would listen to the rippling waters of Clayton's branch as it flowed from the big sulphur spring and tumbled over the high water falls, a short distance below, to the trumping of the bullfrog in the swamp below the garden, to the pleasant chant of the whippoorwill from the high point above the cabin. The only sound of nature they disliked was the melancholy sound of the owl in the tall spruce pines below the falls.

As cold weather approached, the problem became more complicated. When the winter winds chilled the air, all members of the family had to gather around the big open fireplace to keep warm. There was no privacy for Ernie and his girl. About all they could do to amuse themselves was to engage in a game of Fox and Geese. The game was played with grains of corn. The board on which the game was played consisted of squares and diagonals lined together in such a way as to permit the fox to jump from square to square or diagonally across. The boy took the part of the fox while the girl looked after the geese. The object of the game was for the fox to catch the geese or the geese to hem the fox so he could not move. After they had played the game for a couple of hours or so, they would pause and listen to Lonnie tell ghost stories.

Lonnie knew many ghost stories, but the one he liked best was about the ghost he had seen himself at Clayton's Gap. According to Lonnie, many years ago a woman had attempted to climb the steep hill that led to the gap. As she neared the gap she sat down by a big beech tree to rest; she never got up. He said that she died of heart dropsy. Late that night, a searching party found her on the lonely hill still sitting in an upright position. After this, anyone who passed all night could see her ghost beside the big tree. The ghost appeared only in total darkness. If the traveler carried a light it never appeared.

Lonnie Clayton was a hard worker. He retired early and rose early the following morning. Lonnie would say, "It's pure misery for me to set up past my bedtime." As time passed, Ernie became so ardent in his courtship with Rosie that he was making nightly visits to the Clayton house.

It was an unwritten law of the hills that no self-respecting man or woman would retire to bed as long as there was anyone except the immediate family in the room. This made it necessary for Lonnie and his wife to sit up very late at night. While Ernie and Rosie were engaged in a game of Fox and Geese in the back part of the room, Lonnie drained the kerosene from Ernie's lantern and replaced it with water. Suddenly, Lonnie jumped to his feet and exclaimed, "I clean forgot to feed them hogs this evening. Well I reckon I'll just had to go up the hollow and feed them. Now you children had better get to bed while I'm gone fer I hafo get up bright and early in the mornin'."

As Lonnie left the house, he picked up a white sheet that had been left on a chair near the back door. Instead of going up the hollow, he circled the house and headed for Clayton's Gap. He took up his vigil beside the big beech tree and waited patiently. In the meantime, Ernie made preparation to leave. He found he was unable to light his kerosene lantern. Finally he turned the wick as high as it would go and continued to start a spluttering flame. He had gone on more than a hundred feet when the flame flickered and went out. He continued his journey, feeling his way cautiously with his feet. He passed through the gap but when he came even with the big beech, a white form rose slowly from the ground.

Ernie froze with fright for an instant but suddenly bounded down the hill with the speed of an antelope. He gathered speed as he descended into the valley. As he rounded the curve near Moss Clayton's place, he veered from the path and slammed into a sycamore tree. He scrambled to his feet and managed to reach his home in safety. He collapsed in the floor and said, "Get a doctor quick, I know I'm dyin'." His shoulder was badly fractured and he had to carry his arm in a sling for more than a month.

It did not take Ernie long to arrive at the conclusion that the whole Clayton family had conspired to bring about his downfall. "Well," he said, "I'm not one to go where I'm not wanted."

His romance with Bessie was broken forever, and now for the first time in more than a year Lonnie Clayton and his wife could go to bed when they wanted to.

Cats Stage Nerve Comeback But Fall to Rowan County

By C. "COLLIE" ROBINSON
The Rowan County Vikings escaped Prestonsburg with its record unblemished last Friday night, and Coach Ken Howard was mighty glad to get out of town.

The Vikings remained undefeated at 5-0 with a 30 to 26 win over the Cats. In fact, it was two ball games. Rowan County won the first half by a score of 30 to 12, and Prestonsburg won the second half, 12-0. The Blackcat defense in the second half was outstanding.

Prestonsburg quarterback Greg Dixon surprised the Viking defense by going to the air. He wound up hitting 10 of 20 passes for 118 yards and one touchdown. His favorite targets were Jeff Burchett and Tim Patrick. Burchett grabbed four of Dixon's passes for 53 yards, while Patrick, a sophomore, also latched onto four, good for 54 yards, including the touchdown heave of 30 yards in the second quarter.

"These boys are really two tremendous receivers," Howard said. "I hate to think what this team'll be next year." Steve Hodges, the area's leading scorer, carried the load for the winners. Hodges juggled the ball 18 times for 160 yards and scored touchdowns on runs of 7 and 72 yards, pushing his season total to 11 TDs and 68 points.

Phillip Haywood, Prestonsburg coach, had said before the game that his young team's only chance against the veteran Vikings was to contain their backs, stop the long run. The Cats failed to do that. In addition to Hodges' 72-yarder, Dwayne Carter broke loose for a 43-yard scoring gallop on what was intended to be a kill.

the clock play at the end of the first half. "That's the one that killed us. Carter should never have had more than six or seven yards on that play," Haywood said.

The win put Rowan County in the driver's seat in its bid for the title in Class AA, Region 4, District 2. The Vikings are 3-0, with only West Carter and Morgan County standing between them and a playoff berth.

Prestonsburg, which graduated 20 players from last year's 7-5 team, now stands at 2-2 and 0-1 in district play.

The game went like this: Rowan County started out on the wrong foot, and Prestonsburg was quick to take advantage. Putting the opening kickoff in play at his own 24, Viking quarterback Tim Whittle first tried a pass. No good. On the next play, Whittle fumbled, but recovered back at the 22 for a two-yard loss. But he fumbled again on the next play, and this time Prestonsburg's Patrick fell on it at the 16.

The fired-up Blackcats punched it over in five plays from here, William Goebel getting the score on a slant play from the three.

Putting the following kickoff in play at its 42, Rowan County drilled it in on eight plays, the last one being Hodges' 72-yard touchdown run. Billy May hit Robert Thomas for the conversion and it was 8-6.

After getting just three plays on the next series, the Blackcats punted from their own 19. Rowan County struck again, going 53 yards on six running plays. Whittle got the score on a two-yard run that came on the second play of the second quarter.

Prestonsburg tried to fight back. The Blackcats pushed the next kickoff down to the Viking 26 on six runs, but fumbled and saw Rowan County's Chuck Gilley grab it at the 28. On the first play from there, Hodges barreled around left end and never stopped till he hit the end zone, 72 yards away. May's extra points pass to Thomas made it 22-6.

Prestonsburg drove the next kickoff from its own 30 to the Viking 30 on seven running plays and a 12-yard pass. From there, Dixon dropped back in the pocket like a pro and cranked the ball to Patrick who made a leaping catch in the right corner of the end zone. It was 22-12 with just three minutes left in the first half.

After stopping the Vikings at the Prestonsburg 45, the Blackcats moved down to the 37, trying to run out the clock and hit the dressing room. But they gave it up there with just one second left on the clock—time for one play by Rowan County. And it was a dandy Carter hit the center of the line in what seemed an effort to kill the clock. But he found a hole, blasted 13 yards, was hit by four tacklers at the 50, spun off, and set sail on

Health Notes

"Protect Them from Harm" is the theme of October Immunization Action Month, which has as targets seven preventable childhood diseases: polio, measles, mumps, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (whooping cough). Dr. John T. White, director of HEW's Immunization Division of the Center for Disease Control, says, "Tragically, we still have children dying and being permanently disabled by these preventable diseases. The percentage of immunized children has fallen so low that we once again face a serious risk of local epidemics."

The reason behind this alarming drop seems to be a false sense of security or contentment. Jim Jackson, a consultant for the Center of Disease Control, says, "Serious cases of these diseases are seldom seen anymore, and since people don't see much of the diseases, they think the diseases are licked and everything is okay." But health officials declare that things will only be okay if people continue to have their children vaccinated.

Immunization Action Month—October, 1975 is a perfect time to see that everyone in your family is fully protected against all of these diseases. If your family isn't protected, see your doctor or the Floyd County Health Department, right away. The health department offers vaccines for all of these preventable diseases, free of charge.

The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a pap smear clinic tomorrow (Thursday) from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The health department reminds all women that they should have a pap smear at least once a year, because early detection and treatment could completely eliminate deaths caused by cervical cancer.

Monday, September 29, the health nurses will conduct two pap smear clinics—one at Ethel Osborne's Store at Byrns, and the other in the former Wayland High School building. Both of these clinics will last from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. All women are welcome to attend these clinics.

By LARRY BURKE

I wonder how many apples had fallen from the trees before Isaac Newton came to his certain conclusion regarding the law of gravity.

How many people had watched a boiling kettle on a stove, with the lid being lifted by steam pressure? One day the bright-eyed Watt saw this and began thinking about a steam engine.

What ability did Newton and Watt have that millions before them did not possess? Did they just use the ability they had?

Little ability does not mean little opportunity. Many great services to mankind have been rendered by persons of little ability. No gift is small if we make good use of it. No opportunity is insignificant if we use it significantly.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER "No matter how little we have, triumph follows its sincere use."

Regional Councils Get Task Of Planning for Acute Care

Frankfort, Ky. Each regional health planning council must now develop an acute care plan in accordance with the guidelines developed by the state Comprehensive Health Planning Council.

"This is probably the most significant action the council has ever taken," stated Wade Monte, chairman. "The guidelines were developed and adopted by the council to assure the quality of acute care throughout the Commonwealth so that neither a shortage nor an over-bedding problem will occur in any region."

Two classifications of acute care were adopted by the council. Special acute care is the degree of care most commonly delivered in intensive and coronary care units where the patient requires constant audio and visual observation. General medical and surgical care are included.

General acute care can be contrasted with special or intensive care by the following criteria: Patients are moderately ill; they can make their needs known; their conditions are not stabilized; they require care and observation less frequently.

The council also adopted guidelines for special technical equipment, such as brain scanners and body scanners. Each applicant must submit a state plan for approval and specify the following:

1. The types of equipment how the equipment will be used—either for diagnostic screening and/or therapeutic purposes.
2. Whether or not the equipment is appropriate to meet the needs and the population in the geographical area.
3. What spare will be used in the facility by the installation of the new apparatus, what service will be physically replaced and what savings will accrue to the facility by the phasing out of equipment or services being replaced.
4. All safety and health regulations which pertain to the operation of the apparatus.
5. A provision for trained staff to operate the equipment.

In their recent action, the council changed the name of the tuberculosis study committee, headed by Dr. George F. Brockman, to include the study of all respiratory diseases. The members of the council felt that Dr. Brockman and his committee merited this change as their work had gone beyond the study of tuberculosis.

Dr. William P. McElwain, commissioner of the Bureau for Health Services, told the council that he is meeting with the 15 regional health councils to review their current activities in association with the National Health Planning Resources and Development Act of 1974. The act is aimed at upgrading health care facilities and providing access to quality health care where it does not exist. The new law which recognizes regional medical planning and comprehensive health planning agencies, allows the states to designate "health-service areas" to be served by "health-system agencies."

For this reason, we are trying to establish a working relationship between regional and state planners to provide input into the development of the state plan," McElwain explained. He has already made six visits and will make the remaining nine in the next two weeks.

Sales Fraud Warning Given

Frankfort, Ky.—A consumer protection official yesterday warned Kentucky's older citizens against "perpetrators of fraud and deception who seem to gravitate toward older persons."

Robert Bullock, assistant attorney general for consumer protection, told the Institute for Aging—a citizens' advisory group—that deceptive door-to-door sale of hearing aids is of "serious concern" in Kentucky.

Dr. R. O. C. Green, a Bowling Green physician and institute member, is dismayed at the larger number of elderly he knows personally who "have spent $400 to $800 on hearing aids and have nothing now."

Bullock said that Kentucky's consumer Advisory Council will be holding public hearings on proposed legislation which would more closely regulate hearing aid dealers.

Ten Kentuckians reportedly have bought "miracle" vacuum cleaner-air purifiers after being told these machines help fight cancer and respiratory problems such as asthma. Bullock said such "health pitches" are common with high pressure salesmen.

Another popular deception used is that of furnace replacement. Such frauds, Bullock indicated, go from house to house, offering to clean furnaces for a minimal price. Once he gets to the furnace, the impostor makes plenty of noise, stirs up dust and then emerges from the basement with a broken pipe. One such character talked an older couple into buying a $1,200 furnace.

Bullock told the institute, meeting for its September session at the Ramada Inn here, that 80.96 percent of the complaints received by his office are not fraud but merely misunderstandings or negligence.

Calico and Patchwork Landscape Ready for Fall Travelers

By HELEN PRICE-STACY

A gentle breeze ruffles a calico landscape as Kentuckians get ready to celebrate autumn. With the soft winds of early fall comes a cleanliness that can be likened to a country wash hanging on the line. Everywhere there is a subtle blending of colors that heralds autumn in the Commonwealth.

Queen Anne's lace, Joe-Pye weed and pennyfoal already are beginning long vacations, but in their place are mist-flower, ironweed and goldenrod.

Oak leaves are taking on the rusty look of wire fences and iron barn hinges, while sumacs and maples are having a last fling in their bright, flirtiest reds and yellows.

Country kitchens are being heated on tin stoves and from them come tantalizing aromas of brewed coffee, fried potatoes and apples, bacon and homemade bread.

Marigolds make bright borders around farm houses, while some foliage hangs in crinkled, patchy, and straggled—starred here and there with a delicate violet-blue chicory bloom.

A saleslady at The Log House on the campus of Berea College arranges bitersweet and comments that, as bright and lovely as it is, "she walks at Indian Fort Theatre will be brighter the first week-end in October."

On Oct. 3 along a meandering path leading to the outdoor theater just off Ky. 21 east of Berea will start the first fall presentation of the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen. A split rail fence will add authentically to demonstrations of old arts of spinning, yarn dyeing and weaving. Paintings, crafts and pottery also will be exhibited by some of the state's most able craftsmen and artists.

This, in the same week-end as the Kentucky Apple Festival in Paintsville, give an opportunity to view and purchase works of art and crafts near Berea. Then one can drive cross-country in a northeasterly direction to Johnson county to enjoy the many apple products and entertainment.

Travelers will be in the hills and mountains most of the route, but these offer glimpses of country life and a slower pace. By carefully charting routes and towns, some time can be saved by traveling Mountain Parkway part of the way.

Calico asters, as well as others of the aster family will be in bloom along highways next to sheltered Indian cups, sunflowers and thistles. For those with guide books on flowers, maybe this will be a chance to identify some of the figwort family, such as turtlehead and beard tongue, and dragonhead in the mist family.

And for youngsters who like games with their history lessons, guides to high way markers available in state park gift shops will point out historical people, places and events in each county.

The golden season is here. Golden burley is being housed, fields are bright with wildflowers and even grass is waving like a gold-capped sea—all of it in a sun-gold day.

"If I ever leave New Jersey, it will be for Kentucky," said Mrs. Charles Chapin, the former Micky Dorrance, who was in the state to visit former classmates at Kentucky Wesleyan College when that school was located in Winchester. "I love Kentucky's change of seasons, especially autumn. It's bright and beautiful."

A friend commented that at times autumn looks like a patched shirt. "And after frost, a bit ragged."

"Ragged?" countered Mrs. Chapin. "Maybe like a Raggedy Ann doll or fading patchwork quilt that gets more lovely all the time."

Travel to Berea for the guild's fall show, to Paintsville for the apple festival, to Louisville for the St. James Court Festival, to West Liberty for the sorghum festival. Revel in a Kentucky autumn and store up its bright beauty and unique features enough to last through the winter.

And wind up in Prestonsburg for Kentucky's greatest patriotic observance of the year on October 25—Red, White & Blue Day.—Ed.

The East Point Homemakers met September 16 at 1 p.m. for their first meeting of the season. The meeting was called to order by Betsy Baldrige and the devotion by Nell Robinson was on friendship. Roll call, secretary and treasurer's report by Elsie Leake. Two new members, Willie Rice and Gertrude Collins, were added to our homemakers.

Dorothy Harris gave the lesson on food, labeling and grading. Alma Baldrige and Eva Hobson served refreshments to 15. Our next meeting will be October 15 when Mrs. Pitts will give a lesson on road marking and signs. Dorothy Harris will be hostess.

Student Motivation In Reading Viewed By Council Speaker

Reward situations motivate students to read, Jenny Wiley Reading Council members were told in a recent meeting in the Floyd County Regional Library.

John Jack Schorer, Jr., Kentucky representative for the Addison Wesley Publishing Company, commented on motivating factors for both the reading student and the reading teacher. Many children find reading irrelevant to their everyday lives. Therefore, it is good to involve children by transforming some of their reading into concrete, manipulative activities. "Show me or tell me and I forget. Involve me, I understand," the speaker illustrated.

Teacher creativity is a motivating factor for teachers as well as students, according to the book representatives. Getting out of the normal humdrum of everyday routine will improve the daily teaching situation. This may be done by the utilization of teacher workshops and student surveys to ascertain new ideas and practical materials.

The invocation, which included the reading of the 10th Psalm, was given by Sarah Laven. Refreshments were served by the Clark school personnel.
