Seventy apply for new job with board

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Interest in new jobs created by the Floyd County School System has run hot to cold with the position of chief assistant of operations sparking the most interest.

Floyd superintendent Steve Towler said Thursday that 70 applications have been received for the chief assistant position with "20 local" and "50 non-local" persons applying.

Local applications were described by Towler as being received from persons in Floyd and surrounding counties and non-local coming from persons in other parts of the state and outside the state.

The position was advertised in local and statewide newspapers which explained the large number of applicants, Towler added.

It will take approximately two to three weeks before that position will be filled, Towler said.

Three other new positions created by the board in a reorganization plan adopted in April generated approximately 20 applications in all.

The deputy superintendent for instruction generated just three applications, all from persons within the school district, and is expected to be filled next week, Towler said. That position was not advertised in newspapers and was posted at the central office. Notice of the opening was also sent to the state Department of Education.

Seven applications were received for the Director of Student Services and that number has been whittled down to four, the superintendent said. It is expected to be filled next week.

Coordinator for alternative education generated approximately six applicants and the selection process has not yet begun to fill the position. Towler said that "a couple" of people from outside the school district had applied for the position.

Four people applied for the position of director of food service with two applicants being the current co-directors of that post, Towler said.

Only the job opening for chief assistant of operations was advertised outside the area, Towler said, because board had not directed him to advertise the other positions.

Corps to offer free inspections Sunday

From noon until 2 p.m. this Sunday, June 6, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Doney Lake and the Kentucky State Water Patrol will be giving free boat inspections at the Jenny Wiley State Park Marina.

The inspections are in observance of National Safe Boating Week.

Police looking for witnesses in case

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Kentucky State Police are asking anyone who may have witnessed a May 29 incident at Banner, in which William Kent "Bucky" Rose, 52, of Prestonsburg, was killed, to contact authorities.

KSP detective Joel Newsome said Thursday that police are looking for persons who might have seen the incident who have not come forward.

"We are seeking for the truth in the matter," Newsome said.

Larry D. Robinson, 43, of Floyd County is charged with murder in connection with the incident.

Robinson's vehicle reportedly struck Rose after Rose stopped his vehicle in the middle of the road near the bridge at Banner, police said. Robinson was later arrested and charged with murder.

Anyone who may have witnessed the incident is asked to contact detective Newsome at 437-7311 or 1-800-222-5555.

Old polls never die
Floyd County Clerk Carla Robinson Boyd, Kentucky State Police investigators, Harp Enterprises representatives Joe Harp and Roger Baird; and attorney general envoy Larry Berseheit determined Wednesday that voting machine malfunctions that delayed voting in seven precincts during last Tuesday's election were due not to vandalism or fraud, but to the machines' advanced age. Old age and poor maintenance, not fraud and vandalism, seem to be what caused voting machine malfunctions in last Tuesday's election, investigators concluded Wednesday.

Commonwealth's Attorney Jerry Patton ordered that seven poll machines used in Floyd County's May primary election be impounded last week by officers of the Kentucky State Police after voting was delayed in several precincts because of mechanical defects. Mechanical malfunctions also forced voters in the Maytown, Wheelwright and Cliff #2 precincts to cast paper ballots for most of the day.

Larry Berseheit, of Attorney General Chris Gorman's office; Floyd County Clerk Carla Robinson Boyd; election officer David Layne; Joe Harp and Roger Baird, representatives of Harp Enterprises, the company that services the machines; and Kentucky State Police officers inspected the machines Wednesday but apparently found no grounds to believe that the machines had been tampered with.

"They're just worn out," Baird said Wednesday. "On a scale of one to ten, these machines are a one. They're just in bad shape. . . . In our opinion, there was absolutely nothing done to tamper with the machines so that they wouldn't work."

The machines were purchased in . . . (See Booths, page two)

Towler's job talked behind closed doors

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Board of Education took a review of superintendent Steve Towler's job performance behind closed doors Thursday evening, emerging some two hours later with no public comment on the discussions.

The executive session was called for by board member Eddie Billips shortly after the 6:30 p.m. start of the Thursday meeting, which was a carryover from Tuesday's regular monthly meeting of the board. Billips asked for the closed meeting for the purpose of "discussing the superintendent's contract," but he offered no elaboration on those discussions when the board reconvened into open session. Billips left the meeting shortly after it reconvened to attend a business conference in Virginia.

Recent meetings by the board have heightened speculation that the board may be preparing to take some sort of action against Towler or that their confidence in his leadership has eroded since Towler became a finalist for another superintendency in the Russell Independent School System. Towler confirmed last month that he was among the top two finalists for the Russell position though he still has over three years remaining on his contract with the Floyd County system.

Towler got off to a shaky start here after he was recommended for the job by state Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen after Boysen rejected the board's choice for the vacancy created by the removal of Superintendent Ron Hager. Since taking over the system last July, Towler has seen the makeup of the local board change dramatically with four new members taking seats. Two of those members were appointed to fill vacancies created by the death of former chairman Ray "Shag" Campbell and resignation of ill member Tommy Boyd. Two other newcomers were added by election, one ousting longtime member Dr. Mary Hall and a second filling the seat vacated by Arville Duff, who was ineligible to seek re-election.

A new measure that may abolish the Kentucky Racing Commission and outlaw off-track betting facilities throughout the state has received "overwhelming support" from state legislators, House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo said Thursday.

Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, pre-filed the bill with the Kentucky General Assembly late last month in response to the racing commission's apparent "biased and capricious" opposition to the Kentucky Downs harness track project.

Among supporters for the bill, Stumbo said, are House Speaker Joe Clark, House Majority Whip Kenny Rapier and House Minority Leader Tom Jensen.

"The response has been very overwhelming," Stumbo said. "A number . . . (See Stumbo, page two)

Towler has also faced critical scrutiny from the state Department of Education, which has delivered the system an ultimatum of September to demonstrate that mandated improvements in the system are being met.

Towler said after leaving the closed session Thursday that "they basically asked my about the situation in Russell." Towler added that "we talked about general things in my . . . (See Towler, page two) contract." He offered no details. Russell Independent School Board members have not yet named their system's new superintendent, but that decision is expected within the next two weeks.

Towler began his educational career at Russell and has served as superintendent of the Ashland, Jenkins and Hardin County school systems.

Stumbo gathering noted allies for bill

A new measure that may abolish the Kentucky Racing Commission and outlaw off-track betting facilities throughout the state has received "overwhelming support" from state legislators, House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo said Thursday.

Stumbo, D-Prestonsburg, pre-filed the bill with the Kentucky General Assembly late last month in response to the racing commission's apparent "biased and capricious" opposition to the Kentucky Downs harness track project.

Among supporters for the bill, Stumbo said, are House Speaker Joe Clark, House Majority Whip Kenny Rapier and House Minority Leader Tom Jensen.

"The response has been very overwhelming," Stumbo said. "A number . . . (See Stumbo, page two) of senators (and representatives) have been extremely supportive. The actions of the racing commission have just infuriated a lot of people all over the state."

Stumbo will meet with Governor Breton Jones next week to discuss the bill, he said, and a special subcommittee of the General Assembly is scheduled to conduct hearings on the subject on July 9.

"I'm very confident that this bill is going to fly. . . ." Stumbo said. "It's not just me, now it's the whole team."

If Stumbo's bill is approved by the General Assembly sometime later this year, he said, it could render moot tentative agreements between Kentucky Off-Track Betting, Incorporated and Red Mile harness track president John Cashman to operate an OTB facility at Maysville.

Ambulance driver injured in accident

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

A Floyd County woman was among four people injured at Shelby Gap in Pike County Tuesday when she lost control of the ambulance she was driving and crashed.

According to a press release issued Wednesday by the Pikeville Post of the Kentucky State Police, Cecil Clark, ambulance driver Cindy Branham, 19, of Prestonsburg; Emily Gregory, Medical Technician Regina Looney, 28, of Raccoon; passenger Danny Moore, 33, of Jomancy; and patient Robert Johnson, also of Jomancy, were seriously injured.

The ambulance was en route to Jenkins Community Hospital. The vehicle's lights and siren were operating.

The accident occurred at around 5:58 p.m. Tuesday. Branham apparently ran off the . . . (See Ambulance, page two) right shoulder of the roadway, the report said. When she tried to regain control of the vehicle, it crossed the northbound lane, leaving the roadway, then struck a guardrail and overturned, causing the right side of the vehicle to leave the ground. The vehicle then went over an embankment, striking a tree head-on.

All four occupants of the vehicle were transported to Pikeville Methodist Hospital, where Moore and Johnson were both air-lifted to the University of Kentucky Medical Center at Lexington.

Moore and Johnson are still listed in serious condition. Looney is listed in good condition. Branham was admitted but is no longer a patient, a Pikeville Methodist spokesperson said Thursday.

The incident is still under investigation by Trooper William Herald of the Pikeville Post of the Kentucky State Police.

Black bear saunters into Cracker Bottom community

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Several residents of Martin suffered some tense moments Tuesday night when a large black bear was spotted in the backyards of several homes in Cracker Bottom and behind Martin Elementary.

A female caller notified the Floyd County Sheriff's Department Tuesday evening that there was a bear in her backyard at Cracker Bottom. Martin City police and sheriff's deputies arrived on the scene and observed the bear in the yard.

A sheriff's dispatcher notified Fish and Wildlife officers and three game wardens were en route to the scene.

Officers reported back to the dispatcher that there were two bears in the Martin area, but game wardens said it was the same bear. Floyd County Sheriff's deputy Daniel Hutchinson said Thursday.

Deputy Hutchinson said that the bear crossed the river several times at Cracker Bottom and finally made its way to Edgel "Bide" Click's home behind Martin Grade School.

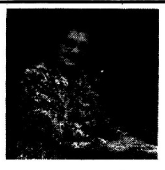

The bear was eating dog food Click had placed outside for his dogs when a warden shot the bear with a tranquilizer dart, Hutchinson said. The dosage in the dart apparently was not adequate, Hutchinson said, because the bear ran into the woods and has not been located.

The bear was spotted Monday night at Wilson Creek near Maytown the game wardens reported, Hutchinson said.

Floyd man says he didn't sneak knife into jail

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A not guilty plea was entered Wednesday for a Floyd County man charged with attempting to sneak a knife into the Floyd County Jail on Tuesday.

Byron Keith Martin, 20, of Printer appeared before Floyd District Judge Danny Caudill Wednesday on a first degree felony charge of promoting contraband in a jail.

Judge Caudill entered the not guilty plea for Martin and appointed a public defender to the case. Bond was set at $10,000 or 10 percent and a preliminary hearing was set for June 9 at 1:30 p.m.

Martin was arrested Tuesday just after Circuit Court Judge John David Caudill sentenced Martin to a year in jail in a plea bargain on a reduced charge of receiving stolen property.

The sentence was probated for two years and immediately after the hearing Floyd County Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Powers served Martin with a bench warrant from Scott County for failing to pay a fine in that county.

Powers took Martin to the jail for processing and, after repeatedly denying he had any contraband in his possession, Martin handed over a small knife, Powers said.

1962, Harp said, and were due to break down.

"I think we've just found a situation where the machines have lived as long as they're going to live," Harp said. "It's like a light switch, it might work 250 times and might not work the 251st."

Boyd said that money had already been allotted in the county's budget for the 1993-1994 fiscal year to purchase new machines. The Floyd Fiscal Court will make a final decision on when and from whom to purchase the new machines, Boyd said.

Boyd will oversee a canvass next Tuesday at the request of Patton county judge/executive candidate Dale McKinney; and jailer candidate Junior Joseph. It was earlier incorrectly reported that Clinis Hall, independent candidate for the office of District Three magistrate, had also requested a canvass. Hall did not file an official request for a canvass but an official request to have his name removed from the November ballot.

Clarification

It was incorrectly reported in the Wednesday, July 2 edition of the Floyd County Times that Clinis Hall, independent candidate for the office of District Three magistrate, had requested a canvass.

Hall did not file a canvass request with Floyd County Clerk Carla Boyd, but did file a request to have his name removed from the November ballot.

Stumbo said that Kentucky Downs' parent corporation, Eastern Kentucky Racing Incorporated, will probably not raise any opposition to a Maysville OTB facility since it would be outside of a 75-mile radius around Kentucky Downs.

However, Stumbo added, Eastern Kentucky Racing President Clyde Woods fully support plans discussed this week by the Ashland City Council to open a harness track facility at Ashland.

dents held the girl's hands, Hall said. "He thought the other two were going to tickle her and when they touched her inappropriately, he immediately let her hands go," Hall said.

State police declined to offer specific information on the incident, but said that two juvenile males had been charged with first degree sexual abuse.

A July 8 hearing is set in Floyd County District Court, Hall said.

Read the rainbow with KET book club program

School may be out for the summer in June, but KET will offer fun and challenging summer opportunities for Kentucky children to develop reading, writing, and math skills.

KET will once again sponsor the Reading Rainbow Book Club this summer. The book club is built around the popular series Reading Rainbow, which motivates young students to read for entertainment and enlightenment. The series stars LeVar Burton and airs on KET every Monday through Friday, moving to 5:00 p.m. CT beginning June 28. (It currently airs at 3 p.m.)

To join the Reading Rainbow Book Club, a student can read any book and send a short report on it to KET. In return, KET will send each member a Reading Rainbow button—and some of the book reports will be read on the air. The address is: Reading Rainbow Book Club

KET, The Kentucky Network
600 Cooper Drive
Lexington, KY 40502-2296

Fifth or sixth grade students looking for help with math skills over the summer should take part in KET's Summer Math project, which is built around the Math Works and Solve It instructional series.

Fifth graders can tune in to Math Works Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 11 a.m. June 28 through July 28. Sixth graders can watch Solve It on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 11 a.m. June 29 through July 27.

After watching a program, students complete an accompanying worksheet, which is graded by the student's parents with the help of an answer key provided by KET. The students also may call a Summer Math tutor at KET through a toll-free phone number. At the end of the project, a certificate will be sent to each student who has successfully completed the project.

KET's Summer Math project is free, but advance registration is necessary. Registration must be done by mail; the deadline is Friday, June 18. For a sign-up form, call the KET Education Division at (800) 432-0951.

VA publishes 1993 veterans benefits handbook

One of the federal government's all-time best-selling publications, "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents," has been revised with the latest changes in law for 1993 and is now available from the U.S. Government Printing Office.

Published by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA), the 105-page handbook describes federal benefits for veterans and dependents, such as medical care, educational disability compensation, pension, life insurance, home loan guaranty, vocational rehabilitation and burial assistance. It also explains requirements for eligibility and outlines claims procedures.

Addresses and phone numbers of all VA offices, medical centers, national cemeteries, Vietnam veterans' counseling centers and other VA facilities are listed by state. In addition, a toll-free number, 1-800-827-1000, is listed for the first time to connect callers to the nearest benefits counselor.

The handbook also includes special sections on veterans benefits administered by other federal agencies.

"Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents" ranks third in total sales of publications by the U.S. Government Printing Office. Including the 1992 edition, some 2,584,000 have been sold through September 1992.

For copies, request GPO stock number 051-000-00-200-8 from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402, and enclose a check or money order for $3.25 per copy. To order with VISA or Mastercard, phone (202) 783-3238.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

Amazing stories

by Scott Perry

For three years now we have had the pleasure of witnessing dramatic improvements in the Floyd County schools.

That's right, we said improvements.

As a judge of the system's Young Authors and Mountain Magic writing programs, we have found our job growing more difficult each year.

The tougher the job of judging winners, the better the news for Floyd County education.

There is considerable talent in these hills and it's showing up all over.

Much of the credit for promoting writing among our children goes to Patricia Watson and Thelma Spears, coordinators of the school system's writing projects, but school faculty members must be commended as well.

The students who participate in the elementary and high school projects put their hearts and souls into their works.

We mean that literally.

Some have bared their souls in stories that offer strangers like ourselves a glimpse of sometimes painful personal experiences.

That takes a lot of guts. If it is true that every dark cloud has a silver lining, these talented kids are the blue skies beyond.

That's a weather report on the Floyd County School System we don't mind making at all.

No place for animal cruelty

Editor:
To the person(s) abandoning the two kittens at the Beaver Creek Animal Clinic Tuesday night, June 1st, just after dark:

You are not the first, and I'm sure you won't be the last, person to dump animals here, at the other veterinary clinics in the area, or at the gates of the Floyd County Animal Shelter. It was a simple solution to your problem...or did you really solve anything?
Where did these kittens come from? Did you destroy their mother because she produced them, or worse, did you also dump her off on someone's doorstep (or in the middle of nowhere) so you would no longer be bothered with her? Maybe you still have her. Will you have her spayed, or will there be two or three more kittens a few months from now that you will have to "get rid of?"

Do you have children? What did you just teach them? Will they grow up with any respect or reverence for life (including that of fellow human beings), or will they come to think of other living creatures as "things" that can be disposed of when they become an inconvenience? Might those children ever wonder, deep down, what would happen to them if they became too much trouble?

Abandonment of animals is a criminal offense in Kentucky (KRS 525.125), punishable by up to one year in prison and/or a $500.00 fine. If I could identify you, I would press charges. You were seen in the act, one of the clinic technicians, who is also a sheriff's deputy, even pursued your vehicle, but lost sight of you in Wayland.

Did it concern you at all that you dumped these kittens off, in no enclosure, less than 20 feet from a busy highway? If we had not seen you, the kittens would not have been found until the next day, and one or both would likely have been dead. (That would not be a first for us either). Incidentally, one kitten has both hind legs broken in the same spot. I can't help but wonder how that happened.

The two kittens themselves are not the major problem; we will eventually find homes for them. You could have found them yourself, and probably for a fraction of the effort we will expend, since all the staff, my family and friends are already saturated with adopted animals.

Someone has to assume final responsibility for the excess, unwanted animals in our area. Don't expect the veterinarians and animal shelter to do it all; there are just too many animals.

If you read this, then I accomplished what I wanted. I have told you how I feel to be the recipient of two more symptoms of a much larger problem.

To anyone else who feels overwhelmed by the animal overpopulation problem, or who was not even aware that such a problem existed; if you think you would like to help work toward a solution, or if you just want more information, feel free to call any of the local veterinarians' offices or the County Animal Shelter. We'll be glad to fill you in and tell you some practical things that you can do to help.

In a society where animals are treated as disposable items, it is really a coincidence that so little value is placed on human life?

What others are saying

The following articles are excerpts of editorials taken from Kentucky newspapers

The right to die: How right?

So-called right-to-die issues that reach the courts are dolefully similar. Typically, a family that has lived with grief and anguish for many years is arrayed against advocates, officials and otherwise, in a legal battle that can have no happy ending.

Everyone presumes to speak in the best interests of the patient, who, being vegetative or comatose, cannot speak for him or herself — in the present, at least.

So it is with Kentucky's first case, now before the state Supreme Court.

Martha Sue DeGrella, 44, has been in a coma since enduring a beating 10 years ago. She is kept alive only by the food and water fed through tubes. Her condition is considered by doctors to be hopeless. Her mother sought and won a lower court order last year to remove the tubes, but the patient's court-appointed attorney appealed and now argues the woman should be kept alive. DeGrella now has outlived her mother and her siblings have taken up the cause.

Much is made of what DeGrella may have said before she was injured about not wanting her life artificially prolonged, or what she might wish now if she were able to speak. Her family insists she made such a declaration, which her advocate argues is irrelevant 10 years later.

All arguments aside about precedent, euthanasia and the prospect of discarding the disabled and troublesome in some dark future, the court should side with the family, people who can be assumed to love their sister and want the best for her — The Paducah Sun

So what's the difference?

What's unusual about a candidate for public office getting the nod from a party leader?

What's unusual about a candidate seeking endorsements from high-placed officials with name recognition?

What's unusual about a candidate seeking advice from old-time politicians?

What's unusual about a candidate hiring a seasoned political consultant?

Nothing. With campaigns more and more sophisticated, voters have come to expect that candidates will use whatever advice and influence they can muster.

Of course, we're talking about a male candidate, aren't we?

Comes a female candidate and the tune changes. The accepted operating procedures no longer apply — because she's not a man.

When a woman runs for office and uses the same tactics that are accepted for men, she's perceived as a pawn of a bunch of men.

Two people can be in similar circumstances, but the perceptions are different because of gender.

We don't really know Donna Dameron, the new democratic candidate for judge-executive. We do know that she has the right to be judged as an individual, a candidate in her own right. Not as a woman who is too weak to think and act on her own.

As hard as it may be to believe, women are here. At least as many women as men — perhaps more — are intelligent, capable and hard-working. They are at least as able as men — perhaps more so — to take leadership roles in our community.

It's time we start to apply the same standards whether the candidate is male or female and accept that the "game" is generally played the same way. — Appalachian News-Express

A wise move by Clinton

Reaching for help from the political center, President Clinton has taken a shrewd step to stabilize his troubled presidency.

By enlisting David Gergen to reorganize the White House communications staff, Clinton has struck a welcome note.

Clinton apparently hopes this choice of Gergen will help the administration shake its awkward image. The first four months of the Clinton era have not been smooth, but Clinton has almost four years left to fulfill his goals. If he keeps reaching toward moderates, Clinton will reassure voters who hope this presidency will succeed. — Guest editorial in the Lexington Herald-Leader

Whitley man charged with buying votes

State police have charged a Whitley County man with buying votes in the May 25 primary.
 Kenneth Fuson, 46, of the Jellico community in southern Whitley County, allegedly gave two voters half-pints of liquor in exchange for their votes. He is charged with two counts of bribing a voter.
 State trooper Sam Durham said he saw Fuson bribe voters while doing surveillance out of uniform as part of the vote-fraud task force.
 The arrest is the among the first related to the May primary, but Attorney General Chris Gorman has said his office is investigating suspected widespread vote fraud in the election. He expects to seek a number of indictments from local grand juries. - Lexington Herald-Leader

Husband shot by estranged wife

A Boyd County woman was charged with assault after allegedly shooting her estranged husband at his home in Lawrence County.
 Donna Jean Sparks, 43, who had been ordered to stay away from her husband by a district judge, shot Edsel Sparks, 46, three times last Saturday with a .38 caliber handgun. Mr. Sparks was listed in critical condition at Cabell Huntington Hospital.

Lou Gehrig's disease

Researchers report they have found the gene that causes amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, or Lou Gehrig's disease, a fatal nervous system illness with no known cause or cure.

- What it does: Gradually destroys brain and spinal cord nerve cells, called motor neurons, which control the body's muscles. It does not affect nerve cells of the mind and does not cause pain.
- Age when it begins: Usually from 50 to 70 years old.
- Early symptoms: Weakness in hands and arms, wasting away and twitching of muscles.
- Later symptoms: Weight loss, difficulty walking or doing things with hands, difficulty talking and swallowing.
- How it kills: Muscles that control breathing stop functioning. This usually occurs two to five years after the onset of the disease.

Indicted Letcher prosecutor is replaced

Letcher County Commonwealth's Attorney James Wiley Craft has been stripped of his duties and replaced with a special prosecutor.
 Randy Campbell, the commonwealth's attorney for Knott and Magoffin County, has been appointed to take over prosecutions in Letcher County. Replacement is required by state law when commonwealth's attorneys face felony charges.
 Craft was indicted May 20 on 102 counts of aiding in the theft of state funds. Attorney General Chris Gorman said Craft used state money to pay a private secretary, Patsy Stallard.
 Stallard and Robert Adams, the commonwealth's detective in Letcher, also were charged with lying to a grand jury investigating corruption in the county. Stallard and Adams will likely be removed from their positions. - Lexington Herald-Leader

Two shot in Magoffin argument

A Magoffin County man is in jail for two counts of first degree assault after he allegedly shot two men after an argument.
 Lewis Back, 50, of Forker shot Labe Minix, 57, of Salyersville and Shelby Back, 61, of Gange. The shooting arose from an incident at Minix's residence. After Lewis Back apparently argued with Minix, he got a shotgun and fired a shot at Minix and Shelby Back, wounding both, according to state police reports. The accused then ran into a wooded hillside.
 Back was tracked by K-9 Stings with handler Trooper Eddie Crum, arrested without incident behind the residence and lodged in the Johnson County Regional Detention Center.
 Both victims were taken to Paul B. Hall Medical Center and are in good condition. - Staff Report

Ambulance wreck injures four

Four people were injured, two critically, when a Pike County ambulance — fights flashing and siren sounding — plunged over an embankment Tuesday and struck a tree.
 State police said Cindy Branham, 19, of Prestonsburg, a driver for Accu-Med Ambulance Service of Pikeville, lost control of the southbound vehicle when it ran off the shoulder of U.S. 23 on a curve near the Pike-Letcher county line. When Branham tried to regain control of the vehicle, it crossed the road, struck a guard rail and rolled about 25 feet down a hill.
 A patient, Robert Johnson, 49, and son-in-law, Danny Moore, 33, both of Jonancy, were listed in critical condition Wednesday in the intensive care unit of UK Hospital. Branham and an EMT, Regina Lookey, 28, of Raccoon, were both listed in fair condition at Pikeville Methodist hospital.
 Johnson was being taken to Jenkins Community Hospital for treatment of a seizure.
 The ambulance was destroyed in the wreck. - Lexington Herald-Leader

Young Authors

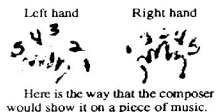

ADAM CRAIG NEWMAN

The Floyd County Times and the Department of Instruction of Floyd County Schools jointly feature the student work of Adam Craig Newman, a sixth grade Young Authors' winner from Mrs. Katherine Bailey's class at Harold Elementary. Adam is the son of Jim and Ruby Newman of Toler Creek. His book, How To Play The Piano, was the winner in the sixth grade skills and content book competition. His work is printed with permission.

Adam was a room winner, a school winner, and a county-wide winner for the 1991-92 school year for her book. He received a $50 U.S. Savings Bond at a spring awards ceremony. Over 5,000 elementary and middle school students participated in competition throughout the county.

How To Play Piano

Adam Newman
It is very important to learn how to follow the right fingers.
Many pieces of music will show you which fingers to use on certain notes. This helps you to play a piece better and more accurately. Your thumb is your first finger. Your pointing finger is your second finger and so on. Here is a picture of the way your fingers are numbered.

Here is the way that the composer would show it on a piece of music.

This is called a treble clef. You play any notes on these lines or spaces with your right hand.

This is called a bass clef. You play any notes on these lines or spaces with your left hand.

This is what they look like together.

Now let's begin with the notes. This is important because this is how you play. There is a very simple way of learning this. I will teach you how.

A staff, (which is what the notes are on) is made up of five lines and four spaces.

For all the spaces on the treble clef, the notes make up the word FACE.

There is also a way to learn the lines. The notes make up the phrase EVERY GOOD BOY DOES FINE.

Not only is there a way to learn the treble clef, there is also a way to learn the bass clef. The spaces, (starting from the bottom) is ALL COWS EAT GRASS.

A way to learn the lines, (also starting from the bottom) is GOOD BOYS DO FINE ALWAYS.

Here is how it would look on your piano. It starts with a C called middle C. This is located in the middle of your piano and under the brand name.

Everything to the right of it is the treble clef and everything to the left of it is the bass clef.

Bass clef ← □ Treble clef

Musical notes are broken up into lines of music. Each measure has a number of beats. This is told to you by a time signature. A time signature is a fraction located to the right of the clef. The top number will tell you how many beats to a measure and is very essential to the piano.

As you can see, measures are separated by lines. The darkened bar at the end tells you that it is the end of that piece of music.

Sometimes, at the end of a piece of music, you will see the music notation D.C. AL FINE. This indicates that you go back and repeat until you see the word fine.

Musical notes have two more ways to tell you to repeat, but I will only tell you one of them.

When you see this:

At the end of a piece of music, you will know to play through again. Usually, there is more music after it, and you would repeat, and then go on and play the rest of the music. Sometimes, there will be two endings, means for you to play the first ending and then when you repeat, to play the second ending.

There are also rests, which means you do not play anything, but count it as a beat. This rest counts for one beat.

This rest counts for two. This rest counts for four. and it sets below the line. Now, let's learn our note values. When we see certain notes, we know how long to hold

Get Some Sparks Going

WHAT YOU NEED: Small appliances with motors and permission to use them - AM radio

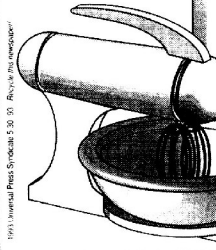

WHAT TO DO: Tune the radio to what I call Zen radio. I mean, tune so that you can't hear any station clearly. Tune to no station. Turn on the appliances one by one, change their speeds, turn them on in groups. Listen to the sounds the radio makes.

SO WHAT:

You heard lots of rapid clicking, and the speed of the clicks changed as the speed of the motors changed. If you look in the vent holes of some appliances, you can even see sparking as it happens.

The invention of the radio happened after people began paying attention to sparks and what they do. This means your Mixmaster is really a little, out-of-control radio station!

If you invent a code, You Can send messages to your friends on Zen radio with an appliance.

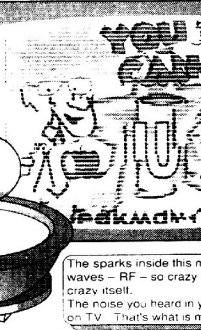

Dear Jax,
Why does the TV go fuzzy when the electric mixer is on?
Michelle Bordeaux
Winnipeg, Manitoba

Dear Michelle,
Television is really radio waves carrying both sound and pictures. Radio waves are carefully controlled electromagnetic radiation.
The electric motor in your mixer makes lots and lots of electric sparks as it spins. And all sparks make electromagnetic radiation. Sometimes we call this radiation RF, which stands for radio frequency.
Your TV picks up the RF from the TV station and also the RF from the mixer. The mixer's RF is not controlled and is all mixed up. That's what messes up your TV.

The sparks inside this mixer make wild and crazy radio waves - RF - so crazy that the TV picture will roll and be crazy itself.

The noise you heard in your experiment is turned into a picture on TV. That's what is meant by the term noisy image.

June Bond, Health Educator
Rabies is a disease which we do not hear much about, yet this disease can be very serious. It is a disease which infects the brain and spinal cord. This disease most often affects man when bitten by an animal infected with the virus.

The virus can infect all warm-blooded animals, but it can be effectively controlled through rabies vaccinations. The Floyd County Health Department and local veterinarians will be sponsoring rabies clinics throughout the county, the week of June 7-10.

There will be a $3.00 charge for the rabies vaccination. Other vaccines will be available for an additional charge.

Mountain Magic awards ceremony celebrates county's writers

By Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

"Mountain Magic Celebration" was the official theme of this year's Mountain Magic awards ceremony held May 10 at the Jenny Wiley State Park Tuesday evening. Master of ceremonies Jerry Lafferty, teacher at Prestonsburg High School, called the event "a celebration" of the best writing of Floyd County high school students.

During the first half of the hour long ceremony, students represent the county's five high schools read selections of their work published in the May 1993 edition of Mountain Magic magazine. Now in its eighth year, the magazine gives students the opportunity to be published and read by the general public. The magazine is divided into five sections with each section containing the best writings of each school, as judged by students and teachers at each school.

The recognition of five county winners and five honorable mention students whose writings were judged the best of each school, was served and the last County winner judges were: Hylis Houshield, professor at Prestonsburg Community College and Scott Perry, editor and publisher of the Floyd County Times.

Mountain Magic County winners: Christina McKinney, "Too Precious for Earth," Prestonsburg High School.

Kristal Isaac, "My Quest for Freedom," Wheelwright High School; Tiana Stone, "One Easy Breath," McDowell High School; Heather Watson, "A Pioneer in Education," Allen Central High School and Mary Meadows, "Satan's Little Darlings," Prestonsburg High School.

Each of these students was presented $50.

Magazine Cover winner: Melissa Turner, McDowell High School, who received $50.

Those awarded Honorable mention certificates were: Bill Bottoms, "Redemption of a Little Boy," Prestonsburg High School; James Hunt, "Winning By a Long Shot," Betsy Layne High School; Regina Ison, "My Baby and Me," Allen Central High School; Lisa Brown, "My Little Red Wheelbarrow," McDowell High School and Lummy Hunt, "The Influence of Walt Whitman in an 11th Grader's Life," Betsy Layne High School.

Magazine section winner (judged on writing content, creativity, correctness, and layout/design) was Prestonsburg High School.

To receive a copy of Mountain Magic magazine, contact school representatives of Patricia Watson, coordinator of Writing Language Arts at the Floyd County Board of Education. The cost is $4 per copy.

PREDICTABLE AS THE RAIN

Tomorrow morning at 7:14 a.m. my husband will come out of the bathroom freshly shaved, showered and neatly dressed. This process will be repeated the day after tomorrow and every day thereafter. You can set your clock by it.

What is amazing is that he probably doesn't know that he comes out at precisely 7:14 a.m. The routine does not vary. Before the door opens, I watch the clock and when the right time appears on the dial I look toward the door.

Voilà! It's Jimmie!
I've always admired people like Jimmie. And though I'm dependable, I'm not always prompt. Being prompt means that if your schedule is ever altered your whole day could be ruined. For instance, if Jimmie did not come out of the bathroom one morning until 7:22, it might upset his entire daily game plan.

It doesn't matter what I plan to do because something almost always happens to upset my schedule.

Yesterday I planned to clean the lawn furniture, but by the time I read the paper the morning was half gone. How was I to know there would be more interesting articles than usual? Of course, I could have waited to read the paper until later, but I always read the paper first and that's my routine. If I had read it any later it would have been old news.

When I told Jimmie I didn't get around to cleaning the furniture he didn't bat an eye when he said, "Must have been a lot of things to read in the paper this morning."

Unfortunately, I don't think people who have a structured routine are as adaptable as people who don't. I'm used to having to change horses in midstream. Sometimes it's a tough transition, but I find it less stressful.

The following is a brief scenario of Saturday:

I got up, read the paper, fixed breakfast, washed clothes, talked to Mom on the telephone, washed dishes, took a shower, washed my hair, cleaned the bathroom, vacuumed the house, dusted the furniture, talked to my daughter, went to the tanning bed, bought over the counter sinus medication, went to the horse show, went to the grocery and worked on a speech.

That's about as structured as I get. The details I left out were that our son went out of town with a friend and our daughter didn't come over with the kids until after we got back from the horse show. Had our son been home and our daughter been over earlier, the events would have changed.

If J.R. had been home, I would have been doing things with him or for him. If our daughter and the grandkids had come over, I would have stopped cleaning to be with them. In other words, it's a miracle the house got cleaned. However, if I was as structured as Jimmie, all the things I mentioned would have been done weeks ago.

Many years ago I decided that I would attempt to be as nice as I could to everybody I met. Sometimes that means listening when you should be somewhere else. That makes me late.

Oh well. Better people say, "Sara, she's always late," rather than, "Boy! Doesn't she look natural?"

Ricky Van Shelton, Patty Loveless, McBride and the Ride, and the Kentucky Opry are headlining an event this September in Pikeville that has been billed as Eastern Kentucky's largest outdoor country music concert.

The Autumn Jam, sponsored by Happy Mart, Pepsi Cola and WDRB Radio, will be held to benefit Children's Miracle Network. The country entertainment will be held on Hambley Athletic Field at Pikeville High School on September 11.

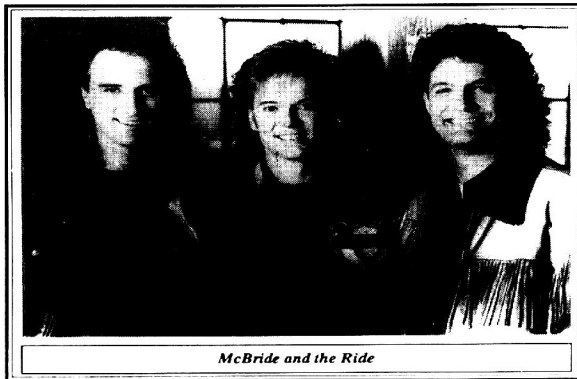

The Kentucky Opry will open the concert at 4 p.m. followed by McBride and the Ride, Patty Loveless and Ricky Van Shelton.

Shelton's video "Rockin' Years" with Dolly Parton was named Video of the Year at the 1992 TNN Music City News Country Awards. He was named entertainer of the year and male artist of the year two consecutive years at the TNN award ceremony. His latest album, "Greatest Hits Plus," released in August 1992, became gold.

Tickets, priced from $15 to $22, are on sale now at all Happy Mart locations.

Two hundred smackers for a haircut.

Now there's an issue for national debate.

We're on the Prez's side on this one, though. After all, the guy did have to look his best for his Memorial Day speech at the tomb of the Unknown Draft-dodger.

The way we figure it, that same two hundred bucks would have financed eight years worth of haircuts for most of us regular guys or, for a better perspective, one lower arena seat for a U.K. home basketball game.

Of course, it's not the money, it's the principle of the thing.

In Kentucky, as the FBI has demonstrated, principles are valued at $500 a pop... enough, we suppose, for a shave and a haircut and a House Bill or two.

Since the Prez's $200 has caused such a ruckus, we decided to conduct a scientific study to show what a couple of C-notes will finance for "real" people.

For $200 you can:
• Get one month's supply of health insurance coverage for yourself. The rest of your family will have to take their chances.

• Pay for one month's worth of daycare for one child. Extra kids will just have to run the streets.

• Eat for two weeks.
• Buy forty votes.
• Get 743 issues of this newspaper. Call 886-8506 to subscribe.

• Buy one pair of "designer" sneakers.
• Send 689 letters to your Congressman. He gets to reply free.

• Pay income taxes on $1,800 worth of wages.
• Finance two aspirin administered by your local emergency room.

• Buy 200 scratch-off lottery tickets.
• Buy about 160 gallons of gasoline.

• Make a downpayment on your teenage daughter's telephone bill.

• Make a downpayment on your teenage daughter's orthodontist bill
• Make a downpayment on your teenage daughter's optometrist bill
• Spend two hours with a psychiatrist

• Spend ten minutes with your attorney
• Put four houses on Monopoli's Baltic Avenue

Those are a few of the fun things you can do with two hundred bucks.

Stay tuned to this column and we'll offer some fun tips later on how to lay your hands on all that extra cash

Editor note: this edition of Truth, Justice & the American Way is dedicated to all the recent and soon to be graduating classes out there in new spate land.

As I look out upon your sea of shining faces, one thought strikes me in particular, you shiny faced people need some Clearasil really, really bad. And you should really consider staying away from those greasy loaves of bread.

But seriously, folks, as scary as it may seem both to you and to us, YOU are the next generation of leaders that will guide us all into the 21st century (just be thankful you didn't have any drafts to dodge). Keeping this in mind, I've assembled a partial lists of things to consider as you continue on your respective paths to higher education and/or what we who are already in it laughingly refer to as the real world.

(1) Despite what the college recruiters tell you, a degree in English will not repeat, NOT catapult you to instant success. Just look at me.

(2) Despite what your buddies tell you, you CANNOT drink a case of beer, stay up until four in the morning watching cartoons and still make it to that eight o'clock class. Just look at me.

(3) Despite what your banker tells you, you

CANNOT responsibly handle a credit card. Just look at me and everybody else who ever had one who now works to support Visa.

(4) Everything you do WILL go down on your permanent record. You might think your teachers are kidding, but just try to apply for a job and see what happens.

(5) When cheating on a college exam, it's always good to not only make sure that the professor isn't looking at you, but that the professor isn't cross eyed. You wouldn't BELIEVE how embarrassing these things can be (6) When the nice policeman tells you to stop or he'll shoot, he means it. Just look at my behind!

(7) You should never, under any circumstances, tell your college roommate what you really think about them. You may have to borrow money from them later.

(8) You should never, under any circumstances, tell someone who is stalking you what you really think about them. It could result in heavy property and/or physical damage.

(9) Always be nice to animals and newspaper columnists. Send money as often as possible.

Well, that's about it for now. Except maybe for that part about using Clearasil. The social life you save may be your own.

A Look At Sports by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

WHEELWRIGHT SHOULD FOLLOW... The Wheelwright High School athletic department needs to follow the leading of McDowell and retire some of the jerseys of past great players that donned the maroon and white for Wheelwright.

PITCHING IS STILL THE NAME OF THE GAME... The Cincinnati Reds still can't pick up any ground on the rest of the league. The fans are saying that the Reds are playing better ball under new manager Davey Johnson, but have you stopped to see who they are beating -- the lower echelon of the two divisions.

The Rockies, Padres, and Mets are easy victims it seems for the Reds but they cannot beat the front runners and anyone will tell you that if you are to climb back into the race, you have to beat those in front of you and the Reds cannot do that.

The reason? Pitching! When you survey the Reds rotation, outside of Jose Rijo, you have no one you can call a consistent winner. Even Rijo has struggled for a win lately, missing in his last two outings.

The Reds are all hitter still over the firing of Tony Perez and are still not ready to play. The rest of us did not like the treatment of "Doggie" but we want a winner in Redsland. The players owe it to the many fans that help pay their enormous salaries, to go out everyday, give their best and forget about the "Boy Blatter" or "it is wonder" that sits up in the clubhouse box.

The Reds play like a bunch of players that have no desire whatsoever to win. They seem like they are beaten before they ever take the field. What a contrast between the Reds and the front running Phillies. Here is a ball team (Phillies) that seems to be enjoying playing the game. I know that the salaries are there but not as much as the Reds have.

It is refreshing to watch this team play because they will find a way to beat you. Reminds me of the '70 Reds. Pitching is still the name of the game in professional baseball and the Reds do not have the quality of pitchers that it takes to win a division or a pennant. Already Tom Browning is worrying about his contract two years from now. If he doesn't pitch any better than he has he may not even have a minor league contract.

Tim Belcher throws one good game and then strikes in three or four consecutively. Trades needs to be made and I look for "Boy Wonder" to make some after the all-star classic.

Patton strikes out 10 as Martin Cardinals best Wayland, 5-4

By Ed Taylor Sports Editor... The Martin Cardinals handed the Wayland Dodgers their first loss of the Little League season this past Wednesday night as they posted a 5-4 win over the league leaders.

The Cardinals scored the winning run in the bottom of the sixth inning to pull out the win and move closer to the top spot. John Patton did it all for the Cardinals as he struck out 10 batters and walked only three. He was the man of the hour from the plate as he banged out three hits with a double and two singles.

The score was tied going into the bottom of the sixth inning when Martin struck for a run on Josh Hayes runs producing double. It was the second double of the game for Hayes. The Dodgers took the early lead with a run in the top of the first Crawford singled and scored on Anthony Howell's base hit.

The Cardinals tied the game when Nick Samons was hit by a pitch and scored on Patton's first hit of the game. The Dodgers plated a run in the second for a 2-1 lead and added two in the third to go on top 4-1. Howell, Combs and Thacker all three doubled in the Dodgers third inning.

Neither team scored in the fourth inning and Martin came back with three in their half of the fifth to tie the game. McGlothen had a two-run double in the inning. Wireman suffered the setback for Wayland in going the distance. He fanned five batters and walked seven. He also hit two batters.

Corn had two hits for the Cardinals including a double. McGlothen collected two hits with a double in the fifth. Hayes had two doubles in the game getting the first in the third and the game winning hit in the sixth. There were 10 extra base hits in the game -- all were doubles.

Williams had a two-bagger in the second for the Dodgers in driving in a run. Howell and Crawford each had two hits. There were 10 extra base hits in the game -- all were doubles. Martin Cardinals will host the Garretts Cubs tonight in a 5:30 p.m. start. The Dodgers face Duff on Monday at 5:30 p.m.

Patton to Patton! Wayland's Byron Patton took a big cut at a pitch from Martin Cardinal pitcher John Patton during Little League play at Martin Wednesday night. The Cardinals posted a 5-4 win over Wayland for their first loss of the season. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Leslie is perfect at plate to lead Astros past Prater Creek

By Ed Taylor Sports Editor... Nathan Leslie collected five hits in five plate appearances and hurled the last three innings as the Allen Astros posted a 17-12 win over the Prater Creek Indians in the Harold-Allen-Prater Little League.

Leslie took the mound in the fourth inning, relieving starter Seth Crisp and pitching the final three innings for the win. The righthander not only was a star on the hill but at the plate as well collecting a double, triple and three singles for his evening's effort. Leslie, who was tagged hard in the Indians second, collected four hits including two doubles. Scotty Walls tripled twice among his three hits. He was tagged out at the plate twice.

Alvin Reed and Dusty Stephens each had two base hits. After taking a 4-2 lead with four runs in the first inning, the Astrossaw their opponents shuttle 12 men to the plate against Crisp in scoring seven runs for a 9-4 Indians lead.

Ken Webb and Mike Goble each had two runs batted in in the wild second. Goble doubled home two runs and Webb had a two-run single. Joey Watson picked up a single in the inning. Allen pushed home three runs in the bottom of the inning for a 9-7 contest as they sent nine batters to the plate in two consecutive innings.

Reed reached on an error and Crisp singled behind him. Walls then got his second triple of the game (the tripled in the first) but was tagged out at home trying to score on a passed ball. Leslie singled and Dusty Stephens doubled him home to make it a 9-7 game. A five-run fourth gave the Astros a big lead. Back-to-back walks to Brandon Jarrell and Kelly Harrison with one out set the stage for the big inning. Reed picked up an RBI with a base hit and Crisp singled home a run.

After Walls struck out, Leslie cleared the bases with a triple and the Astros were rolling. Chris Hall scored Leslie with a base hit. A four-run fifth gave the Astros a 17-12 lead. Crisp doubled home two runs and scored on Walls base hit. Leslie picked up his fifth hit in the game sending Walls home with run number 17.

The Indians scored two in the first for a 2-0 lead. Ryan Hamilton walked. Scott Collins singled and both runs scored on Webb's triple. Prater Creek plotted a lone run in the fourth inning when Webbdoubled and scored on Adam Akers base hit. The Indians pushed across their final two runs in the fifth inning without the benefit of a base hit.

Leslie is picking up the win in relief, fanned six batters while walking four. Crisp, who started for Allen, went the first three allowing nine runs. He walked five batters and struck out six. Akers was the losing pitcher in relief or Collins who started. Akers worked the fourth and fifth inning in absorbing the loss.

Allen improved to 6-1 on the year. Crisp, who was tagged hard in the Indians second, collected four hits including two doubles. Scotty Walls tripled twice among his three hits. He was tagged out at the plate twice.

Allen used home run power in subduing the Dodgers. Scotty Walls and Nathan Leslie each had round trippers for the Astros. Leslie's home run came in third inning when he hit a two-run shot over the right field fence. Walls four-bagger was of the two-run variety also and came in the fifth.

Chris Hall picked up the win for the Astros with Brandon Brooks suffering the setback. The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the first on a double by Brooks who later scored on a wild pitch. The Dodgers struck for their second run in the second for a 2-0 lead when John Meade singled and scored Ashley Gearheart's RBI single.

Allen got on the scoreboard in the second on a leadoff single by Hall, who later scored on Scotty Lisoni's double. The Dodgers went on top 5-1 with a three run third. Justin Bartley tripled to start the inning and scored on Brooks base hit. Michael Gross followed with a double allowing Brooks to come on to score and Gross scored on an error at first base.

A three-run third for the Astros Allen 17, Prater Creek 12

Paintsville's McDonald places eighth in Red Man Qualifier; Watkins 26th

Paul Napier of Middlesboro placed first in the Red Man Mountain Division Qualifier held on Cherokee Lake on Monday, May 24. Local anglers Tim Watkins of East Point and Paintsville's Tim McDonald placed in the event also.

McDonald took eighth place with Watkins finishing 26th out of the 249 anglers that competed for cash prizes totaling $14,088. McDonald boated five bass that weighed in at 10 pounds and five ounces. He took home $432 in prize money.

Napier boated a limit of five bass weighing 12 pounds, four ounces for first place. He received $5,612 for first place. Napier fished Mann's 20+ crankbaits in the midlake area. He caught his fish from 15 to 20 feet deep.

Second place and big bass honors went to Howard Hammonds Jr. of Knoxville, Tennessee. Hammonds landed five bass weighing 11 pounds, 13 ounces. His largest bass registered four pounds, 10 ounces and he received $1,844 for his second place finish. He also took home an extra $1,000 for his big bass catch as well as a fishing rod, cap and trophy from Abe Garcia.

Rico Silveira of Kingston, Tennessee, placed third with five bass weighing in at 11 pounds, eight ounces. Silveira caught his fish off points using a Carolina-rig with Stren line. Third place paid $1,076. Fourth place went to Knoxville's Dwayne Horton with a five bass weighing in at 11 pounds, four ounces. Horton fished drops on the lower end of the lake using Zoom lizards and Stren line. Fourth place paid $684.

Tim Akers of Lexington took fifth place and $649 for his five bass that weighed in at 11 pounds, two ounces. Rounding out the top ten were: (6) Daryl Kazee, Wartlands; (7) James McLemore, Maryville, Tennessee; (8) Tim McDonald, Paintsville; (9) Gery Siler, Corbin; and (10) Randall Osborn, Mt. Sterling.

At the completion of the six Red Man qualifying events, the top anglers, determined on a basis of pounds and points, will move to regional competition. There they will compete against fishermen from other divisions for a spot in the Red Man All-American. The winner will receive $100,000. All Red Men tournaments are catch and release events.

Shepherd fans 12 as P-burg Yankees nip Rangers, 7-6

By Ed Taylor Sports Editor... The Rangers jumped out to a 2-0 first inning lead and added a third run in the top of the third to go up 3-0. Todd Kidd hit a first inning home run for the Rangers. Harris had a triple in the fifth for the losers.

But Drew and Harris had a hard time finding the strike zone in the third when the Yankees scored five times. The winners also pushed home two runs in the bottom of the fourth for a 7-3 game before the Rangers made it interesting with three in the top of the fifth.

Brown, although struggling from the mound, did have any problems at the plate as he collected three hits in the game. Brown, in working two plus innings, struck out six batters. Harris fanned seven. The Rangers will face the Ast's tonight at 5:30 p.m. and the Indians go against the Cubs at 7 p.m.

Shepherd was tagged hard by the Rangers as they collected 10 hits from the righthander, but a five-run third was the turning point. The five runs the Yankees scored in the bottom of the third inning were seemingly gifts as all five scored as a result of walks. The Yankees did not have a base hit in the frame.

Starter Drew Brown was the victim in the third as he issued 10 walks in the first three innings with most coming in the third. Kalen Harris came on in relief of Brown in the third and worked the final three innings. Shepherd only allowed three base on balls but the Yankees could only manage two hits in the game (a hit). Shepherd had one hit, a first inning double, and Kyle Shepherd had the other in his third inning.

The Minnesota Twins major league baseball team will conduct a tryout camp on Thursday, June 10 at 10 a.m. at the Alice Lloyd College field in Pippa Passes. The tryout camp will be for players from ages 16-21 who feel they may have the ability to pursue a career in professional baseball. All players are invited to attend and should bring the necessary equipment to the workout such as glove, spikes, etc.

Rick Roberts finishes one spot lower than commissioners race

By Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Paintsville veteran runner Rick Roberts took to the highway and ignored his way to London where he took part in the Sunshine Spectacular 3.2 Mile run.

Roberts placed fifth overall in the run but second in his age group. He posted a time of 18:29 for the race. At the halfway mark, Roberts was running second with a 10 yard lead but fell to fourth and then dropped to fifth at the two-mile mark.

Roberts, who was a candidate for Commissioner in Johnson County, noted his fifth place finish was one spot lower than where he finished in the election. Roberts placed fourth in the political arena because "I didn't have enough family to vote."

It was the first time the veteran runner took on the London run that did not field all that many participants.

"There are not that many runners anymore," said Roberts. "Road racing is dropping. Kids would rather play the video games instead."

A Look At Sports

I don't think either player is a good example for our young people today, but again, what pro player is.

The basketball world does not revolve around these two individuals although they think so. My good friend Mike Rosenberg is a Barkley fan, but don't be mad at him.

All the way Knicks!
COACHES NEED TO SHOW MORE SPORTSMANSHIP

Hey Little League coaches. The kids are watching you! If there is one person that can be the right kind of influence to young kids today, it is a Little League coach.

They have a kid under their tutoring at just the age when it is the most difficult to reach and influence.

By the time a kid reaches Little League age, he is beginning to feel the allurements of other elements and he has to opt for a decision in his life. He needs the right kind of influence and it can come from his summer coach -- Little League.

At a recent "B" Little League game, I witnessed a very poor show of sportsmanship from coaches that should have never been permitted to happen.

One coach was angry over the performance of the umpire and let everyone in the park know about it. The other coaches got involved and for about four minutes in front of small kids that you have for play baseball, they went at it vocally.

Coaches should teach, not be riotous. Little League coaches, you can be a very positive influence on the kids that you have for the summer, make it a good one.

ROGER WRITES...
I received a letter from former Sheldon Clark coach Roger Harless stating that he had been informed that he will no longer be the head basketball coach at the Martin County school and he was "not to direct any athletic events or activities at any Martin County school."

Roger's real reason for writing was just to express "my deepest and sincerest appreciation to you for making my job as coach and athletic director much easier and more enjoyable."

I know that the Cardinals will have a new coach in Sam Sparks next season and that Roger will not be there to coach. However, Roger Harless is one of the regions finest coaches and I look for someone to reel him in as a head coach once again.

He was one of the most accommodating coaches around and worked very hard to make the Sheldon Clark program a success.

Most people in Martin County measure success by how many regional titles and state tournament appearance their team makes. But that is wrong. Harless has fielded consistent winning programs and saw some talented players pass through the Cardinals gym.

I wish Roger the best and hope that he will be back into coaching again real soon. He is a credit to the game of basketball and to ban him from taking part or directing any sporting event in the school system is foolish.

Well until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

"I love my glove!"

It looks like a love affair between first baseman Thomas Ratliff of Prestonsburg and his glove as he made a catch of a pop foul against Belfry Thursday night. The Blackcats defeated the Pirates 5-2 to advance to the championship game of the 15th Region baseball tournament. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Mud Creek Cubs roll past Harold Dodgers 10-1

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The Mud Creek Cubs took care of business as they handed a young Harold Dodger team a 10-1 defeat in the Harold-Allen-Prater Little League Wednesday night.

Adam Tackett scattered five hits while striking out eight batters in securing the win for the Cubs. Bradley Brooks was the losing pitcher for the Dodgers.

The Cubs scored four times in the sixth inning after pushing across two in the first and fifth innings. The Dodgers led 1-0 in the top of the first when Justin Barley led off with a double and scored on Menda Robinette's base hit to left field.

The Cubs plated two in the bottom of the inning for a 2-1 lead. With one out, Kenneth Johnson singled, stole second and third. Ted Hamilton walked and stole second. After Tackett was retired, Ryan Hall doubled home both base runners. The Cubs left two runners on in the second in failing to score as Tackett fanned the side. Josh Meade singled and Ashley Gearheart had walked.

The Cubs took a 3-1 lead with a third inning run when Fred Gray walked and scored on an error. Tackett doubled to lead off the Cubs third and he scored on Jonathan Howell's double, his second hit of the game.

Kenneth Johnson's leadoff triple led to the Cubs' fifth run and a 5-1 lead in the fourth. Johnson scored on Hamilton's RBI single.

After going out in order in the fifth, the Cubs struck for four in the sixth with Gray leading off with a double and scoring on Tackett's bases-loaded base hit. Tackett had two stolen bases and scored. Howell scored the fourth run in the inning after walking.

Orioles were looking ahead in 8-7 loss to Garrett Cubs

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Duff Orioles coach Dennis Henson may have been looking ahead a little too much this past Wednesday night when his Little League team fell to the Garrett Cubs 8-7.

"I was looking ahead some to the game we have the Garrett Pirates on Friday," said Henson, whose ballclub is pushing for the top spot in the North Division of the Beaver Creek Little League. "I pulled Shawn (Henson) out against the Cubs so that I could use him Friday."

The move backfired on the Orioles coach as his team was leading 3-2 when the move was made. The Cubs scored six times in the bottom of the fourth inning to take a 3-3 lead.

Four consecutive walks by reliever Heath Scott opened the door for the Cubs. After Scott got Matt Howard on strikes, Leslie Stone cleared the bases with a triple and he scored on Bentley's RBI single. Bentley scored when Conley tripled making it 8-3 game.

Duff came back with four in the top of the fifth but the rally fell one run short.

Nick Stumbo led off with a base hit and Henson drew a walk. Ivan Gunnels then roped a double to right field, scoring Stumbo and Henson. Chris Combs did the same with a two-bagger and he scored on a passed ball for a 8-7 game. Two ground outs and a strikeout ended the inning for the Orioles.

The Cubs led 2-0 after the first on a walk and two stolen bases by Howard. Stone walked and Bentley's base hit scored Howard and Bentley, who stole second.

Three runs crossed home plate in the Orioles third as they took a 3-2 lead. Kenneth Cutlers walked, stole second and third before scoring on Scott's base hit. Scott later scored and Henson, who walked, scored the third run of the inning.

Scott suffered the loss for Duff.

How to pitch

Pitchers are among the first to report to training camp. Besides weight training and conditioning, they try to perfect their technique. Key pitching elements, which are constantly worked on, are shown here.

Delivery

Pitchers throw with the position most comfortable to them.

Sidearm

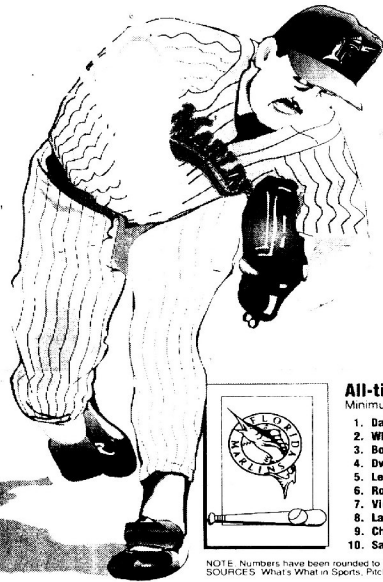

Arm is nearly parallel to the ground and slightly bent, shoulders level.

Three-quarter

Shoulders are level but arm is bent in an L-shape.

Overhand

Shoulders are tilted and arm is partially bent.

The grip

Each pitch requires a different grip. Pitchers must master the proper grip for every type of pitch they throw.

Rising fastball
Overhand fastballs rise as they cross the plate. Three-quarter fastballs tail in on the batter.

Knuckleball
Unpredictable grip gives it a unique path to the plate.

Slider
Has a distinct downward motion as it approaches the plate.

Curve
Appears to be a fastball but moves off the outside corner of the plate.

Monday's session will be devoted strictly to in-house planning and general information exchange between KDFWR management staff and the commission. Specific KDFWR fisheries and wildlife program updates normally presented on the first day of the commission's quarterly meetings will be postponed until the next meeting in August.

All proposals, budgetary and regulatory action items for commission consideration and public comment or concern will be heard on Tuesday, June 15. Tuesday's session will commence at approximately 8:30 a.m. Persons wishing to verbally address the KDFWR commission regarding any issue must notify the Commissioner's office in writing a minimum of five days in advance of meeting dates.

Persons desiring to attend commission meetings who are hearing-impaired and require a translator may contact the KDFWR no less than 10 days in advance and the KDFWR will make the appropriate arrangements. Requests should be made in writing to the KDFWR Commissioner's Office, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601.

OUTDOOR CALENDAR COMING SOON

The award-winning 1993-94 Kentucky Afield Magazine outdoor and wildlife calendar will be available with the printing of the July/August issue from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR).

In addition to outstanding photography, the July through June calendar is highlighted by numerous facts and tidbits about the state's flora and fauna. Hunting season dates are included, as well as the best time to go fishing for Kentucky's most popular gamefish species. The calendar issue further includes contact information for the fish and wildlife agency's public wildlife areas and district wildlife and fisheries offices.

To obtain subscription information for Kentucky Afield Magazine, contact KDFWR Information Division, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601; phone (502) 5644336. A one-year subscription, including the calendar and five additional issues is only $5.

FREE FISHING DAYS
Kentucky's annual free fishing days will be Saturday and Sunday, June 5-6. No fishing license will be required of residents or nonresidents during that weekend.

Free fishing days, authorized through the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission, is designed to promote Kentucky's numerous angling opportunities throughout the state, and generate tourism dollars. Free fishing days kick-off National Fishing Week, which is observed across the nation

June 6-12.

In Kentucky, sportfishing is a multi-million dollar industry, and responsible for a generous share of the tourism dollars spent in the state annually. These two days further offer residents who don't fish the chance to experience the sport without purchasing a license, or invite friends from out-of-state to visit and see what the Bluegrass state has to offer.

Anglers should remember that all fishing size and creel limits, and other angling regulations remain in effect during free fishing days, except that no license will be required.

LARUE MAN ARRESTED FOR ILLEGAL WILDLIFE SALE

Undercover state conservation officers with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) have arrested a Larue County man on 27 counts of illegally selling wildlife and wildlife parts.

According to Maj. Oscar Hunt, officers with the KDFWR Law Enforcement Division's special investigation unit arrested Mark Pence, 29, of Elizabethtown on Tuesday, May 18th after a three-month investigation. Undercover officers had made numerous purchases on different occasions of freshly-killed wildlife and mounted wildlife from Pence resulting in the 27 separate charges. Maj. Hunt says he expects at least one other arrest in connection with the case.

Should Pence be convicted, he could receive up to a $1,000 fine and/or 6 months in jail on each charge.

The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources encourages all persons to report any violation of Kentucky wildlife laws by calling the agency's 24-hour, toll-free phone line at 1-800-252-5378 or 1-800-25ALERT.

DON'T MAKE PETS OF WILDLIFE

There are a number of wildlife species now in the peak of having their young, especially white-tailed deer.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) strongly urges you to resist the temptation of capturing newborn fawns or other wildlife or birds and attempting to make pets of these animals. In most cases, wildlife removed from the wild and taken in by humans will die. It is impossible for people to care for wildlife better than an animal's natural parents can.

Often it may appear that wildlife young have been abandoned by the parents, when in fact the parents are off watching nearby, or simply out gathering food for the young. If you aren't 100 percent sure that the parent animals have perished in some manner, leaving wildlife young alone is the best thing to do.

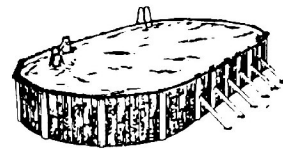

When wild animals are removed from their natural environment, they lose their fear of humans and their natural enemies. They also are much less likely to learn how to fend for themselves and find food, which means even if they are returned to the wild they will not likely survive. Many species of wildlife are play ful and entertaining at a young age. Yet, after the animals get older, they often tend to become more active and curious, and sometimes even mean and dangerous. It is at the point when the animal becomes destructive and no longer allows people to handle them when real problems arise.

If you enjoy observing, learning about and interacting with wildlife, keep in mind the best place to do that is in the wild. That's where these animals belong, and where they should remain. Remember, they're called wild animals for a reason.

Politics has got so expensive that it takes lots of money to even get beat with. —Will Rogers
