Towler is out of the running at Russell

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd superintendent Steve Towler doesn't seem to be too disappointed about being passed over for the job of superintendent of the Russell Independent school system. "Frankly, I'm glad it's over with," Towler said Thursday. "I'm not overly disappointed. I've accepted it."

Russell Independent board members met Tuesday night for almost six hours before announcing that Ronnie Back, an assistant superintendent in the Russell district, had been offered the job.

Last Thursday, Floyd County board members met in closed session for about two hours discussing Towler's four-year contract.

Board members declined to comment on the discussions, but Towler said that the talks centered around him being a finalist for the Russell job.

Few changes after vote recanvass

by Geoff Belcher

Despite previous allegations of double-dealing and mishandling, Tuesday's marathon recanvass of the ballots cast in the May 25 primary revealed no major changes in the election's outcome. Floyd County Clerk Carla "Robinson" Boyd said this week.

The recanvass was requested in May by out-going Commonwealth's Attorney Jerry Patton; county judge/executive candidate Dale McKinney

Concerning reorganization plan :

Administrators sue school board

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Three Floyd County school administrators have filed a lawsuit against the board of education to prevent the implementation of central office reorganization plan.

The administrators are also asking the state's attorney general to declare void actions taken by the board to approve the plan which, they claim, was discussed during three "illegal" closed sessions.

The lawsuit, filed late Thursday on behalf of Pete Grigsby Jr., Tommy Thompson and Wayne Raliff, is seeking a restraining order and injunction to prevent implementing the board approved reorganization plan.

Closed sessions held by the board at meetings on March 25, 27, 30 and April 3, were in violation of the state's Open Meeting Law, the lawsuit claims, because general personnel matters were discussed.

The lawsuit, filed by attorney Mickey McGuire, also claims that McGuire complained about the Open Meetings violation to board attorney Cliff Latta and that Latta's response to the complaint two days later was illegal because the school board did not meet during that time and could not have authorized Latta to respond. The suit also seeks $100 for each administrator for each alleged violation.

In the appeal to Attorney General Chris Gorman, McGuire asks the school board's approval of the reor-

Citizens air concerns

by Susan Allen

Martin City Council agreed Wednesday to ask Our Lady of the Way Hospital representatives to repair damages to a city street after several residents raised concerns about the hospital's expansion project.

Rita Laferty and Beecher

Scotchfield alleged that engineering plans were in error and hospital officials had deceived the council and citizens about the design of the project.

"They have cut away the 25-foot city street back to about four feet," Laferty told council. "Immediate action needs to be taken to require them to restore it to the original (slope)

At racing commission meeting :

Local racing group gets warm response

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Former Governor Julian Carroll and Eastern Kentucky Racing Incorporated haven't closed the betting window on live racing at Eastern Kentucky in 1993... yet. Carroll is wagering that, with a little luck, the once-adversarial Kentucky Racing Commission will decide to conduct its annual end-of-season celebration at Kentucky Downs itself this year.

Carroll said Thursday that he had met with racing commissioner Nate Sholer prior to Wednesday's commission meeting at Churchill Downs in Louisville. Sholer suggested that the commission might be persuaded to hold its Final Fairgrounds race meet at Kentucky Downs, thus making the facility eligible for intertrack wagering dates later this year.

"I think we got at least a warmer reception out of the commission yesterday than we had received in some time..." Carroll said, due in large part to legislation proposed by House Majority Leader Greg Stumbo that would abolish the present commission. That legislation has met with a very favorable response from leaders in both the state House of Representatives and Senate, Carroll said.

In fact, Carroll added, "There were no negative comments by any of the commissioners at all, which is... quite a change." Carroll and other Eastern Kentucky delegates had previously reported being subjected to insults and unfounded accusations at racing commission meetings by members of the commission itself and by members of the thoroughbred industry.

Another positive aspect of Wednesday's meeting, Carroll said, is that racing commissioners officially canceled Kentucky Downs' previously authorized meet.

"If we had failed... to hold our meet as previously authorized," Carroll said, "that would have given the commission grounds for revoking our status..." That status currently prohibits Kentucky Off-Track Betting Incorporated from placing an off-track betting parlor anywhere within a 75-mile radius of the Ken-

Prater murder case waived to the grand jury

by Geoff Belcher

Proceedings continued Thursday in the apparently drug-related death of an Auxier teen.

Darrell Williams, 32; William Blackburn, 24; and Jerry Michael Martin, 22, all of Gretchel, were arrested near MudCreek early Tuesday morning less than an hour after 19-year-old Shawn Patrick Prater died of a gunshot wound to the chest.

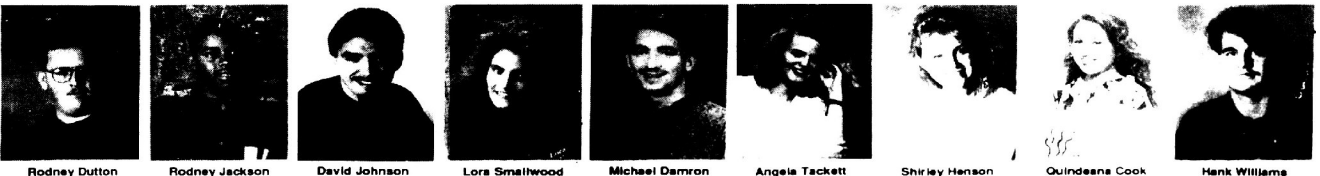

Kentucky State Police Detective Joel Newsome testified Thursday in Floyd District Court that Prater was a passenger in a vehicle driven by his brother-in-law, Billy Ray Craft, when he was shot. Craft was allegedly following the defendants after finding them attempting to steal marijuana from his private crop late Monday evening.

During their escape attempt, Newsome said, the three men stopped at Blackburn's grandfather's house to borrow a 12-gauge shotgun. Craft apparently followed the defendants south on U.S. 23 near Betsy Layne when Martin, sitting in the back of the pick-up truck, allegedly fired a slug from the shotgun, killing Prater, Newsome said.

Williams was charged with capital murder. Blackburn was charged

Police continue search for vehicle stolen at Lancer

by Geoff Belcher
Staff Writer

Police are continuing their investigation into a car theft late Tuesday night or early Wednesday at a Prestonsburg automotive repair garage.

Joe D. Weddington Jr., of Prestonsburg, said Thursday that his blue and grey 1985 GMC Jimmy truck had been stolen Wednesday from Meade's Transmission Service on Riverside Drive.

The truck was one of many vehicles parked outside the establishment with keys still in the ignition. Insurance will not cover the loss of the vehicle, Weddington said.

The theft was not discovered until Wednesday afternoon when Weddington went to the shop to pick it up, he said.

The vehicle was reportedly last seen being driven at high speeds through Branham & Baker Coal Company's Pyramid installation late Wednesday evening, Weddington said.

The incident is under investigation by Captain Darrell Conley of the Prestonsburg Police Department.

Weddington is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the subject or subjects or to the prompt return of the stolen vehicle. Persons with such information are urged to call Weddington at 874-9633 or the Prestonsburg Police Department at 886-1010.

with capital murder; cultivating marijuana, less than five plants; and trafficking in marijuana, less than eight ounces. Martin was charged with capital murder and possession of marijuana.

Attorneys for Williams and Blackburn told Floyd District Judge Danny Caudill Thursday that the two men had committed no crime and charges against them should be dismissed.

Phillip Damron, legal counsel for Martin, contended that his client had acted in self defense, fearing that Prater had a weapon and was ready to open fire.

Caudill said that probable cause existed to believe that each of the defendants could have taken independent action to remove themselves from the course of action that resulted in Prater's death.

The case has been remanded to a grand jury, which will convene next Monday, June 14.

A bond hearing for Williams, Blackburn and Martin will be held today, Friday, at 3 p.m.

tucky Downs site.

An OTB parlor in the area would put a serious strain on plans endorsed by Eastern Kentucky Racing officials to create a harness racing circuit in Eastern Kentucky, including additional installations in Ashland and Middlesboro. M.L. Vaughan, president of Henderson-based Riverside Downs, applied for live racing dates in both Ashland and Henderson Wednesday. Vaughan told commissioners that he would withdraw one request before the September 1 deadline for live date allocation, but wanted to keep his options open for the time being.

Carroll also applied for live 1994 racing dates Wednesday, he said, adding that he hoped to receive confirmation of the 1993 Final Fairgrounds and intertrack wagering dates within the next thirty days.

Towler said he applied for the job because it was his home area, not because he was unhappy in Floyd County.

"I didn't mean to imply that I was unhappy here," Towler said. "I don't have any specific plans right now to apply anywhere for anything, but that doesn't mean I won't. I don't have any job anywhere I'm looking for. I think I need to settle down here. I'm not trying to stop or slow down here. My goal is to try to settle in here. There's a lot of work to be done."

and jaiter candidate Junior Joseph after multiple mechanical malfunctions at polling places around the county prompted cries of fraud and negligence.

Boyd said that the only major changes revealed in the recanvass came for jaiter candidate Herman Conn, who ended up losing 26 votes; and in the county surveyor's race in which winner Larry E. Greer picked up 66 votes and challenger Reed Stamper picked up 39 votes from the previously unallied Branham's Creek precinct. Greer finished with 6,393 votes, Boyd said, and Greer with 3,835.

Although the recanvass had no effect other than to further drain the county's already-depleted coffers, Boyd said, an official recount requested in a lawsuit against Floyd County Judge/Executive John M. Stumbo, Boyd and other election officials has yet to take place.

McKinney has charged that Stumbo conspired with other candidates in the May primary to "pool" their money and use it to buy votes. Stumbo has denied those claims. McKinney has further asked that the county judge/executive's race be declared null and void and that he be declared the winner.

The recount must take place in Floyd Circuit Court, Boyd said, and will cost an estimated $5,000, which McKinney will be forced to pay if he loses the suit.

Despite criticisms by state officials that progress is slow in Floyd County, Towler feels that the district is in a position to move forward.

"I do think that we have laid the foundation this year to go ahead," Towler added. "We have a lot of work that remains to be done. We've still got a lot more to do."

Towler was hired by the board last July after the board's choice for superintendent, Nebraska educator Bill Zitterkopf, was vetoed by Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen. Boysen recommended that the board hire Towler as superintendent. The commissioner has since admitted that it was a mistake to interfere with the superintendent selection process in Floyd County.

Towler and the local board have been criticized and threatened with removal for office by Boysen and state school board chairman Joe Kelly for the slow pace of implementing improvements in the Floyd County system.

Boysen said last month that school leaders have until September to demonstrate a valid effort toward education reform in Floyd County or he could follow through on his threat to remove school officials.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul.—Voltaire

Freedom you can feel

by Scott Perry

Monday, June 14, is Flag Day. It's an obscure occasion compared to our more recognizable patriotic celebrations like Memorial Day, Veterans' Day and Independence Day.

It is an important event just the same. Our flag is more than a symbol, it is freedom you can see and feel.

It is the banner, as the Pledge of Allegiance suggests, for "liberty and justice for all." Yes, even for those who would use their liberties to heap injustice on the flag's gloried past.

Old Glory has survived for more than two centuries despite significant and insignificant attempts to haul it down. It's been bombed, burned and bekkited but, as Francis Scott Key noted, never destroyed...

"Oh say does that star-spangled banner yet wave... O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave." Forever.

Letters To The Editor

Letters to the Editor are welcomed by the Floyd County Times. In accordance with our editorial page policy, all letters must include the signature, address and telephone number of the author. Letters must be received no later than 10 a.m. Tuesday for publication in Wednesday's issue and 10 a.m. Thursday for Friday's issue. Letters may be sent to Editor, The Floyd County Times, P.O. Honest or fair

Editor: Those people who dismiss legitimate questions concerning the recent primary election with the words "sore loser" just don't get it. The issue is not about "personality" or about who won or who lost. The issue is whether the election was honest and fair. An election is only as fair as the people who run it, and there is considerable evidence of unfair dealings in this election.

If undemocratic, dishonest and corrupt practices were employed to influence the outcome of an election, then the person or persons responsible should be punished. If we, the citizens of Floyd County, allow these practices to continue, then we are the losers because we have been robbed of our constitutional rights.

Thanks to local businesses

Editor: Cooperative Work Experience students and Gregory Hall, coordinator of the Vocational Cooperative Work Experience Program at Betsy Layne High School, would like to thank the many businesses for their participation in making this program a success. This program is in its second year of success as 45 students have participated at various job sites in the local area.

Without the cooperation of these many businesses, this program would not be possible for these young people at the high school level. The students have gained valuable work experience and businesses have excellent young employees for the future. Participating businesses for the program are:

- Western Sizzlin Steak House, K. Mart, Hamilton's Gas and Go, Velocity Market, J.C. Penny Co., Burger King, Kentucky Oil and Refinery Co., Shoe Show, McDonald's and Sir Pizza.

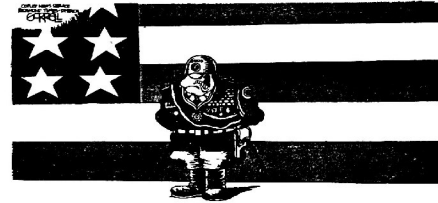

- Also Hall Mart BP, Sam-Tonio's, Pizza Hut, DFM Mining Co., Food City, Shoney's, Western Steer House, Dr. Brent Clark (office), Blackburn's

Natural Resources and G. and L. Trucking Company.

Again, thanks to the many managers, supervisors and business owners for their assistance and preparation for the future of these young adults: Kerry Bell, Johnny Hamilton, Delinda Blankenship, Angela Kidd, Thomas Bowers, Timmy Kidd, Emily Burchett, Michelle Lewis, Maria Crum, Stella Smith, Barry Hall, Rebecca Stephens, Liza Sue Hall, Chris Towlinson, Michael Hall, Tonya Williamson, Neal Hall, Jackie Wise, Rita Hall, Julianna Young and Jennifer Hamilton.

Adrift at sea

Week after week, President Clinton is displaying a level of general incompetence that threatens the peace and tranquility of the United States. He no longer is trusted by the American people. We are in great national danger as we drift aimlessly, a ship of state without a captain.

Mr. Clinton has taken to many different positions on so many different issues it is impossible for anyone to know what the man really believes or indeed whether he has any underlying beliefs or convictions. He seems to jump every time someone on the far right raises an eyebrow.

We are not sure whether there is a Clinton foreign policy, but if there is one, it is fully as disastrous as his domestic program. Nothing could be more absurd than the American position on Bosnia, where the United States and its European friends stand idly by and watch as the Croats and Serbs go about the business of genocide.

The man apparently has no sense of decency in his relationships with other people. His treatment of Lani Guinier, the Clinton nominee for Asst. Attorney General for Civil Rights, demonstrated serious shortcomings. Guinier was an old friend of the Clintons, but he denied her a chance to clear herself of charges that she was a "quota queen."

The fact that Clinton was a Rhodes Scholar more or less says he is a person of great intelligence. Our best hope probably is that he somehow will awaken and realize the nation chose him to lead, not simply to react to special interest pressures. Unless that awakening occurs, he is on his way to being the worst president in the entire history of the United States of America. —The Mountain Eagle

Cries and whispers

U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers, during one of his stops in Pike County, related how the federal budget must be cut. Everyone in the room nodded agreement and said Amen.

At the same time, requests started coming in for the good congressman to try to get more money for this and that project.

While saying that budgets that typically hand out federal money for this and that type of project will certainly decrease, Rep. Rogers promised what everyone wanted to hear: He'd try to attach a rider to some other — probably unrelated — bill that had a good chance of passing and get the money that way.

Wait a minute. Isn't the money ultimately coming from the same pot? And isn't that how the country got into the current fiscal mess anyway?

Sure, we want as much consideration for funding as Florida, Kansas or California, but aren't we all being a tad hypocritical when we shout, "Cut the spending!" and then whisper, "But not my part?" —Appalachian News-Express

Jones takes a stand

Gov. Brereton Jones struck a symbolic blow Tuesday for the regular folks who were unable to come to Frankfort to lobby alongside the heavy weights on health care reform.

He vetoed part of the only bill that won legislative approval. His veto means there won't be a pool of $120 million set aside for reimbursements the state pays to hospitals that provide care for the uninsured. The state will continue to pay for indigent care but will have flexibility in the way it spends the money, perhaps making more available to rural hospitals than they otherwise would have received. Further, more, Jones and his Cabinet officials don't think the state will need $120 million for the job. They think it will take $80 million. Jones' veto means that there won't be a pot of money that hospitals can bill until it's drained.

He and legislative leaders made sure that hospitals will receive reimbursements only after the hospitals document the care they provided. But Jones' actions go farther for taxpayers because he said his Cabinet will provide more scrutiny over payments, including denying compensation for indigent care costs that are shifted to patients with private insurance.

Unlike some legislators, he didn't reward the hospitals for the strength of their lobbying efforts. The hospital lobby simply muscled the reimbursement plan through the legislature.

Jones' veto sends a message that he is willing to stand firm in the face of such pressure, even if some lawmakers can't. —Lexington Herald-Leader

Ten Years Ago (Wednesday June 15, 1983)

The $1,968,000 awarded last Wednesday by the U.S. Department of Transportation to the Big Sandy Airport may make possible site preparation work by the end of the summer on the hilltop site. A 16-year-old youth, David S. Bradford, of Gastonia, North Carolina, attempted to save an older friend, Reginald R. Hunter, 19, of Greensboro, North Carolina, in trouble while swimming in Lewis Lake Sunday afternoon by pulling in the drowning of both boys. Both were students at the Prestonsburg Job Corps. State police continued their search for a man suspected of shooting 22-year-old Rosetta Hall of Lacey, in the back, killing her unborn child. A citizens group called the Floyd County Citizens Education Council gathered at the board office to ask Raymond Barber, state superintendent of public instruction, to oust Superintendent E.P. Grigsby Jr. and members of the school board. There died: Tom E. Martin, 60, of Martin, Friday in Lexington; Susie Mae Justice Lafferty, 58, of Water Gap, Monday at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Joe Williams, 63, of Wheelwright, Wednesday in Lexington; Cynthia Fitzpatrick, 89, of West Prestonsburg, Sunday at Highlands Regional Medical Center; Bruce Clark, 69, of Honaker, Tuesday, June 7 at his home.

The Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, following a search of the lakeside and a dragging operation in the lake itself, Monday, failed to find Hildred Music, 18, who has been missing since Sunday afternoon, shortly after being from a car driven by Fred McCoy, of Hager, Pa. Undersecretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., will head a task force of federal representatives who will confer with Governor Bert Combs, other state officials and area leaders at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, in an all-day meeting next Thursday. American Legion Post 129 will sponsor the Fourth of July celebration in Prestonsburg this year. Wedding vows were exchanged Saturday, June 8, in the First Methodist Church, Pikeville, by Miss Jerri Mahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Forty Years Ago (June 11, 1953)

Floyd county's school system, which has been counting heavily on an equalization fund materially in excess of the current year's $254,000, may be considerably weakened by the $5 million slash in the coming year's budget ordered by Governor Wetherby this week. More destruction from a fire which destroyed the McDowell theatre and an adjacent building at McDowell, early Saturday morning, was prevented by C. and O. railroad engineer, Belve Turner, who spotted the flames from the theatre, and began blowing his locomotive's whistle, alerting the town to the blaze. The office of County Judge Henry Stumbo was burglarized last Thursday night and a state police investigation of the break was underway this week. Release forms for the procuring of flowage easements to deepen Dewey Lake by five feet have been obtained by E. R. Burks, seven-district conservation supervisor. Lewis. Last vestiges of the depression-born food relief to the poor, which later rendered assistance to the aged and to the public schools through school lunch programs, will be completely gone by June 20, Henry McCown, Floyd county commodity supervisor, said Tuesday. The long-planned Johns Creek dam was one of six reservoirs listed for Congressional approval last week as an after-the-war protection program for the Ohio River valley. Two more Floyd county soldiers—Herschel Hamilton, of Ivel, and Malcolm Layne, of Langley—have been killed in action in North Africa. degree and the stability of the slope restored.

The hospital's project engineer, Gary Ousley of Alchemy Engineering, said Thursday that the issue had been blown out of proportion and that the only disturbance to the roadway was the removal of dead vegetation.

Ousley said the area will be re-secured and that work on that area of the project is finished.

Scutchfield harshly criticized the hospital organization and said that surrounding landowners had not been informed about the project, contrary to the hospital's claims.

"They never even told us about it," Scutchfield proclaimed. "I've got property (adjacent to the hospital) fixing to be damaged."

Laferty showed council an engineering map of the project and explained how the contractors had cut into the city's right-of-way and asked that city officials demand new, "correct" engineering plans to be presented to the city.

Laferty added that the hospital's present plan would cut off access to her and Scutchfield's property and "land-lock" the property.

Ousley said he tried to explain to Laferty that the road would not be affected and several community meetings were held concerning the expansion project.

"I think it's become an emotional issue rather than a factual issue," Ousley said.

Kathy Stumbo, speaking for the hospital, said prior to Wednesday's meeting that hospital officials were willing to work with the community to make sure all parties are satisfied. Stumbo added that hospital officials understood the council's position.

Mayor Martin Raymond Griffith said that neither he nor other council members were aware that the city street would be affected. Griffith added that when the proposal was presented to council, hospital officials said that surrounding landowners had been contacted and agreed to the expansion project.

"We were misled all the way," Griffith said. "I wouldn't think they have any right to our right-of-way."

Councilman Steve Jenkins agreed with the mayor's assessment and asked that hospital officials be reminded that council rescinded a resolution at a June 3 special meeting which endorsed the expansion project.

"They led us to believe they had everybody's agreement up front before they started," Jenkins said. "This is not the way it was presented to us. If they've not done anything prior to June 3, they don't have our approval to be on (city property)."

City attorney Keith Bartley told council that hospital officials did not have city approval to encroach on the city right-of-way and if they have done so, "they've screwed up."

"We can let them know about it right away and we can stop it real quick," Bartley told council. "We can request a remedy one way or another. We can send a letter asking them to stop cutting into the right-of-way and to remedy anything that's not been done right."

Councilman Ralph Fryc asked Bartley to make the letter "right real mean."

Councilman Pete Grigsby Sr. said that since the city street has not been maintained hospital officials may have thought the property was "up for grabs."

"It's a city street whether it has trees in the middle of it or not," Fryc answered.

Bartley said if the hospital did not remedy the situation, council may have to file a lawsuit in Floyd Circuit Court.

In other business Wednesday:

- council approved amending an ordinance which provides for council members to receive compensation whether or not they attend meetings;
- council agreed to advertise for bids for two police cars;
- council discussed the possibility of reorganizing the fire department which would allow the department to create a taxing district;
- council agreed that the fire department could tentatively name volunteers to the department without council approval, but council would retain veto power; and
- council agreed to begin an intensive effort to collect delinquent fees for business and alcoholic beverage licenses and levy penalties.

All council members attended Wednesday's meeting and the next regular meeting of the council is Wednesday, July 14 at 7 p.m. at city hall. The meetings are open to the public.

Craft pleads not guilty

Suspended Letcher Commonweal's Attorney James Wiley Craft pleaded innocent to theft related charges of paying a private employee with state money.

At the same time, the attorney general's office tried to get his lawyers disqualified. Craft allegedly paid as much as $35,000 in state funds to Patsy Stallard, a secretary for his law firm. He was indicted on 103 counts of complicity to theft. Stallard was charged with 103 counts of theft by unlawful taking.

Stallard also pleaded innocent.

Craft's attorneys, Gene Smallwood Jr. and Ronald Polly, both testified to the grand jury that indicted Craft and will be witnesses for the prosecution during the trial. - The Mountain Eagle

Jones opposes lower voting age

Gov. Breton Jones told a group of teenagers yesterday that he would oppose lowering the voting age for state and local elections to 16. Jones told the American Legion Boys State program at Morehead State University that Secretary of State Bob Babbage may have been a "little too hasty" in calling for the lowering of the voting age in an address to the group Tuesday.

Babbage had told the group that it made sense to lower the voting age in the wake of the passage of the federal "Motor Voter" bill, which provides for voters to register when they renew or receive their driver's license. Babbage said the lowering would rejuvenate elections.

Jones said that emphasis should instead be placed on getting 18-to-25-year-olds to exercise their right to vote. He noted nearly 9 in 10 Kentuckians in that group did not cast ballots in the 1991 primary election. - Louisville Courier-Journal

State employees meet with Q & E commissioners

Employees of the state of Kentucky made suggestions to members of the Governor's Commission on Quality and Efficiency during their visit to Prestonsburg on June 4.

The representatives heard suggestions ranging from lustrous duty retirement benefits for underground mine inspectors to a four-day, 9.5 hour work week for some state officials to allowing state offices to buy supplies locally.

James P. Gray II, chairman of the committee, told state employees that the goal of the Q & E commission is to make sustainable changes in the operation of state government.

About 20 people attended the public forum at the Big Sandy Area Development District offices. They were from various state agencies and came from several counties in the area.

Ex-Magoffin superintendent won't be rehired

Former Magoffin County Schools Superintendent Carter Whitaker, who resigned last week in the face of a possible ouster, will not be rehired as a classroom teacher, interim Superintendent Arnie Oaken said Wednesday.

Whitaker said in his letter of resignation that he intended to exercise his teacher-tenure rights and expected to be hired for the 1993-94 school year.

Oaken said that if Whitaker had tenure, he had no choice but to rehire him. But Stephen Wolnitrek, attorney for Commissioner of Education Thomas Boyesen, told Oaken that he thought Whitaker lost his teacher-tenure when he resigned as superintendent. - Leighton Herald-Leader

Morehead SOAR program helps new students adjust

Morehead State University will provide four opportunities this summer to acquaint new students and their parents with the University's academic programs, student services and campus life.

The two-day Summer Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR) Programs are scheduled for Fridays and Saturdays on June 11-12, June 18-19, July 9-10 and July 16-17.

Potential students may attend any of the four sessions but it is important that they register in advance, according to Lamona Edwards, admissions counselor who is coordinating the activities. "The agenda is very informal as we provide the necessary information for students to receive academic advising and complete the registration process," she said.

The schedule for each session will follow the same format. Registration for campus visitors' overnight lodgings will be held at Mignon Tower, beginning at 4 p.m. on Friday. An ice cream social followed by a skit on "Surviving College Life" will conclude the evening's activities.

The Saturday program begins with check-in at Buttolf beginning at 8 a.m. The morning's agenda includes a welcome by MSU representatives and information sessions for both parents and students on making the transition to college life.

Following the lunch break, students will receive academic advising and register for the fall semester of classes. Tours of the campus will conclude the day's activities.

Additional information on registering for a SOAR program is available from MSU's Office of Admissions at (606) 783-2000 or toll-free at 800-262-7474 in Kentucky or 800-354-2090 from adjoining states.

Young Authors

JESSICA FRAZIER

The Floyd County Times and the Department of Instruction of Floyd County Schools jointly wish to feature the student work of Jessica Frazier, a seventh grade Young Authors' winner from Gwen Hamilton's class at McDowell Elementary. She is the daughter of Doug and Pam Frazier of McDowell. Her book, Hillbilly Love, was the winner in the seventh grade non-illustrated book competition. Her work is printed with permission.

In reflecting upon the Young Author's Program, she comments: "I think Young Authors' is a wonderful opportunity for students. It provides an opportunity for young people to show their writing talents and it offers financial rewards. Participants are able to show their work to the public and to attend a ceremony at which some read their works and every writer is recognized."

She was a room winner, a school winner and a county-wide winner for the 1991-92 school year for her book. She received a $50 U.S. Savings Bond at a spring awards ceremony. Over 5,000 elementary and middle school students participated in competitions throughout the county.

Hillbilly Love

by Jessica Frazier

Over in the foothills of the Appalachians in Eastern Kentucky, there once lived a hillbilly named Sam. Sam was a young boy about fourteen or fifteen.

One day Sam was riding some logs tied together down the creek. After he had gotten so far, he saw an unusual house. This house wasn't like the house Sam lived in. It was two stories high and painted white with a picket fence around it, unlike Sam's log cabin and wire fence. Sam went over to the bank of the creek and got off his raft. He went over to the house. He kept walking around the house studying it, wondering how the people got it so high and how they got it that color. He was just walking when he saw someone looking out the window. When he got around to the front of the house, someone was coming out of the house. Two girls came out, one about eleven and the other about fourteen. To Sam, the girls were dressed strangely. They wore frilly dresses and had bows in their hair. But he did not care how they were dressed. He just thought the oldest one was so beautiful. Her hair was as gold as the sun and her eyes were as blue as the sky. Sam went over to speak to the girls.

He said, "Howdy." They never said anything back; they just stood there giggling and whispering to each other about the way Sam was dressed. Sam didn't see anything wrong with the way he was dressed. He had his old white shirt and cutoff overalls on. Sam was turning red, so he ran back to the creek bank and got on his raft and paddled back home.

When Sam got home it was supper time. They were having fried salt bacon, soup beans, taters and poke salad, but Sam didn't feel like eating. All he could think about was the girl down the creek. So, to get her off his mind he went to bed.

The next morning when Sam woke up, it was time to gather eggs and milk the cows. After Sam had done his chores, he took a walk in the forest to think of a way to get that girl to like him. He thought and finally came up with a plan.

Tomorrow he would go down the creek, hide behind the bushes and watch what the girls like to do.

The next morning he went down the creek. He watched the girl all day. He found that she like to jump a rope, play hopscotch, play with rag dolls and she loved to pick flowers.

That evening he went home, found the toughest ropes and flattest rocks in Eastern Kentucky. He also picked all the flowers he could find, and made the most beautiful doll. The doll had golden hair and blue eyes, just like the girl. It also had a white dress with pink flowers and black shoes. Before sundown he went back down the creek and put the things by the door, then ran away. The girl came home to the door and found the things with a piece of cloth that said, "From Sam." She took the things and went into the house. Sam went back home.

The next day he went to the springs to wash himself. He put on his best clothes and even a pair of shoes. He went down the creek to the house and asked the girls if she would like to talk a walk with him.

She said, "Yes."

They walked through the forest and learned more about each other. Sam found out the girls name was Emily. Emily found out that Sam wasn't so bad after all. They became best friends. Later when they were older they were married and had two children named John and Sarah.

School's Out For Summer!

WHAT YOU MAY HAVE NOTICED:

One of the things about school that is easy to dislike is someone else is always telling you what to do. Let's get honest here. Sometimes it can be a drag and may turn you off to the idea of learning about stuff.

Our contest is a chance for you to find out or do what you want, without us telling you what to do. You Can be a friend to someone who's old and lonely, or You Can build a rocket. You decide. And then just tell us about it in a report.

Summer Vacation Contest!

STUPENDOUS! TREMENDOUS!

easy contest rules:

Basically, you have to make them up yourself - which I guess is a little harder than following someone else's rules. Anyway, do include the following: Figure out what you want to do, what you want to find out about, achieve, accomplish - and then go out and do it! Start at the library. Use an encyclopedia. You decide.

Do whatever it is you need to do to start, and just start. Then write and tell us what you did. Write a report. If you like, send photos or a videotape. You decide. You Can even use a copy of this report on the first day of school when they ask what you did on your vacation. You decide. Send whatever you want to send to: Summer Vacation Contest, P.O. Box 30177, Kansas City, MO 64112. We cannot return any entries. Make sure to include your name and address and phone number. Letters must be postmarked no later than August 1, 1993.

Words in the NEWS

What's a deadline?
At a newspaper, a deadline is the time that a story must be finished so it can be printed. A reporter has to find out all of the facts, write the story, and give it to her boss, the editor. The editor needs time to fix things in the story, or to take out parts so the story will fit in the paper.

When a reporter gets a story to write, her editor might say: "Your deadline is 3 o'clock!" That way, the reporter knows how long she can take to do her work.

Presenting... Your Bands!

A while back I challenged you to invent a band, name it, and describe the musicians and music. They all sound pretty cool to me. HERE ARE A FEW OF YOUR BANDS:

Amateurs in Action
Music: Rap/pop
Musicians: Both sexes and anyone who is talented
Songs about: People you care about and life
Cate Holston: Topeka KS

The Poems The reason I picked "The Poems" is because it would be like making up love poems, but putting them into a song.
Music: The band would play love songs and sad songs.
Musicians: The band would be made of girls, and we would wear clothes that would stand out a lot.
Songs about: Love that is gone, love we have, and love we wish to have Zaida Calhoun: Mercedes, TX

Under Gum (like the gum under desks)
Music: Alternative/grunge rock
Musicians: I would have 2 guitar players, a bass player, a drummer, and a vocalist. They'd have to be between 12 and 18 years old.
Songs about: ... maybe what it's like to be the average, unpopular kid, about as popular as the gum under the desks at school
Keley Helms: Kenton, WI

The Soundfex Kids
Music: Rock n roll
Musicians: Kevin Johnson, Brian Ryan, Richard, Eric, Michael, Rebecca Kind of music: Prance, normal, hard, heavy
Kevin O'Brien: Fox Valley, IL

Give Your Child A Healthy Start

A Healthy Start for Healthy Babies. (NAPS)—Earn a lifetime of hugs by giving your baby a healthy start even before you give birth.

Healthy Start, a federal initiative promoting healthy behaviors by mothers-to-be and quality health care for newborns, encourages expectant mothers to see a health care provider as soon as they know they are pregnant and then to keep all follow-up appointments. Other "Do's" and "Don'ts" for mothers-to-be:

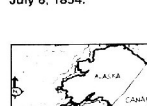

- Eat three healthy meals daily, plus healthy snacks.
- Drink six to eight glasses of water, fruit juice, or milk daily.
- Gain 25 to 35 pounds during pregnancy.
- Don't smoke cigarettes, or drink liquor, beer, wine or coolers; don't use over-the-counter medicines, such as aspirin, cold remedies, antacids or other pain relievers; don't get an X-ray without checking with your health care providers, or use "street" drugs such as marijuana, PCP, cocaine, or crack. These substances can be harmful to your fetus.

The Healthy Start program encourages pregnant women and their partners to adopt healthy behaviors during pregnancy and to maintain them once their babies are born.

Pointers For Parents

(NAPS)—Are you effectively involved in your child's education? Take this short quiz and find out.

1. Parents today don't have enough time to help their children succeed in school. (a) True (b) False?
2. Schools don't need to get back to the basics. (a) True (b) False?
3. Parents already know how to help children succeed in school. (a) True (b) False?
4. Household chores have little place in a child's education. (a) True (b) False?

ANSWERS: In less than ten minutes, the parents can reinforce all the skills their children learn at school. 2. (a) True. Children need much more than basics to succeed in tomorrow's workforce. Our children are likely to change jobs more than eight times. To best prepare themselves they need to learn how to learn.

3. (b) False. Schools are different today and what youngsters need to know is changing rapidly. Parents need to be "retrained" in order to help their children effectively.

Many routine activities for parents are exciting chances for children to learn new skills and reinforce old ones.

4. (b) False. According to the experts who created a new video-based learning program called Smart Start For Parents, many routine activities for adults are exciting chances for children to learn new skills and reinforce old ones. Cooking, washing dishes, sorting silverware, all teach basic science, math and language arts skills. The video shows parents how to help their children do well in school. The program includes more than 50 activities designed for parents with children in pre-K through 5th grade.

"Take Out The Trash!" Here's an example of what you can do at home with your children. All you need is a full garbage can. With your guidance, the contents of the can will do all the teaching. Sorting, problem-solving and creative thinking skills are taught as your children gain an appreciation for their environment that will stay with them for a lifetime.

Does your community have a recycling program? If it does, let your child sort the garbage. Which does your family use more of, aluminum cans or glass bottles? Make a chart together and talk about ways your family can cut back on the number of cans and bottles you use each week.

How much garbage does your family throw out each week? Together think about ways your family could create less trash. Or find ways to use the garbage, such as saving leftover food scraps for an outdoor compost pile. Go shopping together. Talk about a product's packaging. Discuss when your really need to take home vegetables in plastic bags. What steps can your family take to make a difference?

Progress Against Osteoarthritis

Osteoarthritis, a chronic degenerative disease of the joints, is characterized by the deterioration of articular cartilage and the breakdown of synovial fluid of the joint which progressively loses its natural lubricating, protective and shock absorbing properties. Existing treatments include analgesics, physical therapy and non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs and corticosteroids for reducing inflammation and pain in the joint.

Before viscosupplementation, no treatment has ever provided protection for articular cartilage and helped to restore the natural shock absorbing function of the joint fluid.

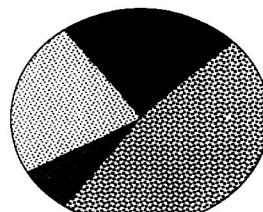

MedRest's travel packages let U.S. patients get treatment during two-week cruises of the Caribbean and Pacific as well as through day trips. MedRest referral physicians in Vancouver, Montreal, Toronto and Windsor, Europe travel is expected in the fall of 1993 with the approval of viscosupplementation by the European Economic Community.

For more information on MedRest's "Vacations From Pain" call 1-800-233-3404.

A cruise offers a great environment not only to relieve pain but stress as well.

We wanted people suffering from this crippling disease to be free from pain as soon as possible. A cruise offers a great environment to not only relieve pain but stress as well. Viscosupplementation, or joint lubrication, is a chemically modified version of the naturally occurring substance hyaluronic acid. Hyaluronic acid is present in nearly all tissues of the body, fills the space between cells throughout the body, functioning as a lubricant, protectant and shock absorber in the joint. Joint lubrication therefore offers a virtually natural solution to patients without any of the systemic side effects often associated with current osteo-

SHAVE AND A HAIRCUT—TWO WHAT?!

Bill Clinton sure is getting more than his share of bad publicity. A couple of weeks ago, he and his entourage landed in Los Angeles where they kept airplanes from taking off as Bill received a haircut. That's correct. A new do for the Prez as he sat in an airplane on the tarmac. From pictures I've seen, he needed the haircut; however, two hundred bucks worth of cut hair should have either made him look like Mel Gibson or Telly Savalas. Actually, it wouldn't have been so bad if the economy was better considering two hundred dollars would buy a month's worth of insurance, groceries and medicine. But he's the President, and we all expect the President to look his best. As a woman, I'm more sympathetic to the President's problem than his male counterparts. Women realize the importance of a good haircut and spend much more time styling their coiff's than men do. And contrary to what men think, there is a motive to the madness. The reason, my friend Jean's husband says, is that a woman's total existence is controlled by fat and hair. "If a woman isn't doing something about her hair, she's on a diet or talking about going on one." "Where's Jean?" I asked her husband one day when I called. "She's at the beauty shop." "But she had her hair fixed yesterday." "She wanted a little bit more done." When I called back later that afternoon her husband told me she had gone to buy some shampoo. The last time I tried to call she was washing her hair. Maybe if I was smarter I would have gotten the hint, but because I know her preoccupation with her hair follicles, I don't believe I was getting the brush-off. I didn't ask how much she had spent on haircare in the last two days, but I suspect it wouldn't be far behind the President. Several years ago I spent what I considered to be megabucks on my locks. When I came out of the hair salon four hours later, my husband shook his head and said, "You look exactly like you did four hours ago except that your pocketbook is lighter." He was right. Like most women, I was under the impression that a good haircut would make life better and more enjoyable. (That's probably what the President thought, too. Chalk up one more wrong assumption for the ole boy from Arkansas.) But a good haircut is not a panacea for happiness. Life is not like the commercials would have us believe. A good haircut is nothing more than a sharp pair of scissors and a person brave enough to use them. It's just a guess, but I suspect Hillary had a lot to do with Bill's getting a haircut? In all probability.

THE TIMES' WEEKEND

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

When he grows up, Billy Joe Howard, 11, wants to be just like his dad — a musician. He also wants to become a country music star.

He's taken the first steps to realize that dream. He plays the mandolin with his family's Bluegrass band and with the Kentucky Junior Opry Pros.

A shy, quiet young man, Billy communicates through his music. A songwriter as well as a musician, he has always been interested in music. He began playing the mandolin because he couldn't get his hands around the guitar. As soon as his fingers became long enough, he added the guitar to his repertoire. Now, he's also learning to play the keyboard.

The youngster's desire to become a musician like his father helped him stifle his shyness and step into the limelight around the age of seven. His father, Ronald Howard, plays the mandolin, guitar and banjo. Howard occasionally performs with the Kentucky Opry and Junior Pros when a banjo player is needed.

Billy began playing with his father's band around two years ago. It was during a performance with the band at the Fish and Game Club's annual fish fry at John's Creek that he was spotted by Kentucky Opry director Billy Jean Osborne.

The Junior Opry has proven a strong influence on Billy during the past year. His grades weren't up to par because the youngster was more interested in music. Members of the Kentucky Opry Junior Pros must maintain an adequate grade point average, so Billy improved his grades.

It is also helping him overcome his shyness. He loves to perform with the troupe and enjoys performing before groups, though stepping on the stage occasionally makes him nervous. It doesn't bother him as much, though, as it used to.

The Opry is also improving his music. David Morris, head of the Kentucky Junior Pros, gives him lessons. Billy likes Bluegrass and country, but thinks country is easier to play.

"If you can play bluegrass, country is easy," said Billy. "Bluegrass has quick changes and a high-pitched voice — it's good training for your voice."

Being a member of the Junior Opry Pros has also given the youngster the push and drive to succeed, says his father. "When I was in school, there was no Kentucky Opry, no one to push us, no one to back us. There was everything in the world, but no one to help."

The Kentucky Opry and Billy Jean Osborne have given Billy and other talented youngsters like him the confidence and the exposure performers must have to gain recognition and to gain entry into the music field — something as important as talent.

"It doesn't matter how good you are," Billy's father explained, "if you can't be seen."

Magic strings

Billy Joe Howard and his dad, Ronald Howard, are pictured during a performance of the Kentucky Opry Junior Pros during Hillbilly Days at Pikeville. Billy Joe's brother, a senior at Allen Central, also likes to play around with the guitar. Billy Joe is the son of Alicia Howard of Eastern.

Howdy thar, y' 'anawwill. Pardon mah funny accent, but this here lil' hillbilly just done got back from the ragin' metropolis o' Cincinnati, Ohio (permonounced Cincinnati, Ew! Hew by the natives), whar Ah was informed that Ah don't talk good. Well, I wasn't informed, exactly. They just kind of looked at me like I was a lunatic and kept saying "Huh" every time I spoke, with that tilted-head look the dog gives you when you make a rude noise. This was especially difficult at King's Island, that great tourist Mecca of the East where all us hillbillies descend after a four-hour pilgrimage to stand there three hours in line waiting to get on a two-minute ride that gets canceled just as we're about to get on because the worst thunderstorm of the century picked that exact moment to pass through and then we're forced to stand in another three-hour line to buy a four-dollar hamburger so we end up getting soaked twice and then get spoken to like we're idiots by a Metallica-tour reject wearing a paper hat who asks in the most condescending manner possible "May I help you?" It went something like this: Them: "May I help you, well, what is it, I don't have all day, Sir." Me: "I'd like a Diet Coke, please." Them (head tilted): "Huh." Me: "I said, I'd like a Diet Coke, please."

Them: "Dr. Pepper?" Me (starting to get a little steamed): "No, DIET COKE!" Them: "Kewka Kewka!" Me: "Never mind. It's raining, anyway. I'll just open my mouth."

Them: "Huh?" Yes, friends, this is yet ANOTHER reason why we should have our very own theme park right here in Eastern Kentucky rather than having to go all the way to Ew! Hew (and, just for safety's sake, let me point out that I don't think ALL Ohioans act like that, just the ones I seem to keep meeting).

Write your congressperson today and tell him or her that, doggone it, we want stuff too. It's our constitutional right as American citizens to be able to overcharge gullible tourists for meaningless, trivial trinkets and mindless, nausea-inducing entertainment. And as you spend the next couple of years waiting for your congressperson's personal reply, I'll be busy planning and designing said theme park, which will be dubbed, of course, BubbaWood. Here are just a few of the themes and rides I've come up with already, designed around

Eastern Kentucky's history and landscape:

- 1) The Fast Track — dedicated in theme and spirit to the Kentucky Racing Commission. It'll be the world's largest roller coaster, except when you're at the very top of the first peak and really starting to enjoy yourself, attendants wearing three-piece suits and bad toupees will stop the ride and make you get off.
- 2) The Winchester Wall — past which the only stores and concession stands in all of BubbaWood exist. Once you pass through, they immediately take all your money, insult you and tell you you're not allowed in the place.
- 3) The Political Machine — a train ride, similar to King's Island's.

Poperri

by Scott Perry

The big news across the big blue is that the Brits are becoming totally disenchanted with their system of welfare, which contributes millions annually to sustain the royal family, whose only known job is to keep U.S. supermarket tabloids stocked with gossip.

Oddly, the English royalty maintains its largest following in America, where a war was fought a few hundred years ago to get rid of them.

This country has always had a peculiar fascination for the rich and famous, evidenced recently by the decision by the media to bump Bosnia from page one in favor of coverage of the real civil war between Woody Allen and Mia Farrow.

In case you haven't kept up with that red hot topic, it all centers on Woody's legal effort to force Mia to tell him the names of his children.

Woody and Mia have even gone so far as to bump Chuck and Di to the number two position in the competition for what's really, really, really big news.

England's prince and princess, whose matrimonial misadventures outranked the Gulf War as the most consequential world event of the past decade, have even been spotted recently in public...together...leading to speculation that they have been unable to find dates.

Of course, lately the media has been enamored with Japan where the prince has taken a bride. Japan's royalty has had no official government authority since it became illegal to bomb the United States.

The newshounds are bewildered by the new princess' decision to forego her high stress career in high finance for the simple pleasure of living off the government.

In reality, America is not all that different from the ex officio monarchies that still dot the globe.

True, we elect our officials. But more often than not those leaders claim a birthright to their positions, do very little real governing, and we pick up the tab.

SOAP UPDATES

Dear Abby

Taxpayers who fear filing can get the help they need

DEAR ABBY: On May 11, 1992, you responded to an individual who wrote to say that because of a series of extenuating circumstances, she did not file her tax return one year.

As she missed filing once, she was afraid to file again the following year for fear of the consequences, so she had not filed since. You referred her to Enrolled Agents (EAs), who are authorized to represent taxpayers before all administrative levels of the IRS, and can help get people "back on track" with the government.

The response to your column was astounding! Here at the headquarters of the National Association of Enrolled Agents (NAEA), we received more than 10,000 telephone inquiries from people who had failed to file their tax returns—thanks to our 24-hour EA Referral Service hotline (800) 424-4339. We also received approximately 800 letters from taxpayers who had, likewise, disappeared from the tax rolls and decided to come forward.

We responded to each request from these concerned individuals (within 48 hours) with a list of member EAs in their area. Furthermore, for those who called our main business line (because they were wary of divulging their mailing address), we provided the names of EAs on the spot.

The time has finally come for non-filers to stop living in fear and to get on with their lives; it is critical that they be advised of the IRS' assurance that those who come forward voluntarily will not face criminal prosecution.

Moreover, three out of four people who file tax returns receive refunds. Because there is a statute of limitations (generally three years), time is of the essence to file those past-due returns in order to obtain a refund.

NAEA now offers a free informational brochure designed especially for non-filers titled "Enrolled Agents—Taxpayer Representatives on Your Side," which is available by calling the 24-hour hotline or writing or faxing your request to NAEA, 6000 Executive Blvd., Suite 205, Rockville, Md. 20852-3813. Fax: (301) 231-8961. We treat all requests confidentially.

If we reach only a portion of the non-filers, this effort will be worthwhile—both for their peace of mind and our government's.

DEBORAH B. VIEDER,
DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS, NAEA

DEAR READERS: Be advised that the fees charged by Enrolled Agents vary according to location and services.

ity, she paid for it. And with her own money!

The conversation might have been something like, "You need a haircut, Bill. While we're waiting to taxi off, and we have to wait until Quincy Jones tours the plane, we might as well call someone over to do something about that messy do of yours."

"Does it look that bad?"

"Not really unless you don't care if people ask you if you're getting ready to be a contestant in a Don King look-a-like contest."

"You make me feel, I'll wait," the President probably said patiently. "Do you have any other in mind?"

"Yes, but he's a little expensive."

"Really, Hillary, how expensive can a little haircut be?"

Famous last words.

In defense of our President, I understand the haircut was only six dollars. The trip to the airport in the taxi and the up put it up to $200.

If the cost of the haircut doesn't put the President back in touch with the American people, the expense of the emergency room bill that's where he'll be going when he has to have his foot surgically removed from his mouth for telling the public they are in the midst of an economic recovery.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the letter from Al Seivertson who wrote to say that he is a smoker, enjoys eating fried foods, ham and eggs, and everything that's supposed to be unhealthy. He boasted that at age 60, he took early retirement and didn't use up any of the sick time he had coming.

Well, until a month ago, my husband could have written a similar letter. He's a retired auto worker who had worked for the same company for 30 years. He just had his 61st birthday. (Notice, I didn't say "celebrated.") Four weeks ago, with practically no warning, he had a major heart attack and ended up with a quadruple bypass.

His doctor had warned him to quit smoking several times, but like Al, he said, "I'm going to enjoy life while I'm living, and if I die a few years later, I'll be OK, too." Like Al, my husband boasted that there had been no history of heart trouble in his family, and his father had also been a three-pack-a-day smoker.

Hope Mr. Seivertson's luck holds out better than my husband's did. He didn't think it could happen to him either. You may use my name.

BARBARA KENNEDY,
TRENTON, ILL.

DEAR BARBARA: Thank you for your candid letter. Your husband will be in my prayers.

What teens need to know about sex drugs, AIDS, and getting along with peers and parents is in "What Every Teen Should Know." NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)
The social graces are yours this week! Party invitations arrive, and you're convincing in speech. Career gains mean financial improvement. Be wary of people making promises. They're offering more than they can deliver.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)
Stress cooperation with loved ones. A lucky career break has you humming all the way to the bank. However, potential partners stall at a crucial point, and you can't count on their cooperation. This weekend, a certain leisure activity will inspire you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20)
Intuition is your ally this week, but a work situation has you temporarily frustrated. The erratic behavior of partners and the capricious disposition of a coworker are disruptive. Therefore, work privately for greater success. The weekend brings very happy developments.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22)
You and a loved one are on the same wavelength. A confidential tip is fortunate for you. Career talks are fruitful. You may be faced with a backlog of tasks, but feel free to put some of these on the back burner.

LEO (July 23 to August 22)
You'll have to change your attitude regarding a certain domestic situation. A career hunch is on target. Someone at home doesn't want company, and a friend is tied up, meaning social prospects aren't in the best of the weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22)
It's full speed ahead in business developments. An opportunity drops right into your lap. Stay clear of overexpansive moves. Instead, seek out expert advice. This weekend, loved ones enjoy hobbies together.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)
It's a good time to reward yourself. Work efforts are rewarded. Seek advice about investments. Be silent about philosophical views at present. This weekend, a trip for two, away from it all, benefits romance.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21)
Charm paves your way to success this week. Give a little in a close relationship. An ambivalent attitude about money matters plagues you most of the week. Domestic interests are highlighted this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21)
Despite a difficulty with a coworker, you'll still end up on top this week. Inwardly, you may be afraid, but outwardly you could put on a false front. Don't be insincere with those whom you want to know better.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19)
A friend is somewhat forbidding, but you'll find other interesting amusements. The chance you've been waiting for comes your way. You probably won't get as much done

ALL MY CHILDREN: Edmund burst into Tad's home, interrupting his wedding to Brooke by announcing he'd been married. Tad, who is deceased in the hospital, Dixie learned Tad's double is a Canadian merchant marine named Michael Williams. Palmer also crashed Tad's wedding, and faking a heart attack, insisted Opal take him back. (Notice, I didn't say "celebrated.") She demanded a divorce. Jack proposed, but Laurel gave him an evasive answer. Later, she snuck out and went to the Pine Cone motel, unaware that Jack had followed her. Lucas overheard Trevor say Miami was pregnant. When he confronted her, she lied about the conception date. Wait To See: Kendall has another surprise for Erica.

ANOTHER WORLD: A panicked Vicky told Donna that Grant and Ryan in the cave, and feared he'll find Ryan before she can warn him. Rachel flared at Jake's suggestion that Ian broke into the Cory mansion. Dennis and Marley made up their differences, and she agreed to go to New York with him. Hiding his anxiety, Ian questioned Amanda about Vicky. Joy was hurt when Ian accused her of breaking into his room, but rushed to warn him when she overheard Jake tell Paulina he's investigating Jan. Wait To See: Rachel makes a risky decision about the Cory strike.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Shaken by her confrontation with Dennis and Marley, Dana decided to take her back to Italy. Link became aware of Connor and Cal's relationship when he saw them kiss. Lisa told Kim she was opposed to the inexperienced Lamar's promotion, but feared Duncan's snide remarks would cause prejudice. The Hughes learned Barbara had a son and all, including Hal, a fire. Scott stormed out after a confrontation with Neal over Royce. Margo puzzled over the note Royce gave her. Julie asked Lily not to tell Holden about Aaron. Rosanna accepted Hutch's invitation to go back to Cal's place. Wait To See: The new murder shakes up a lot of people in Oakdale.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Karen told Thorne she loved him, and wanted a commitment. Sly tried to persuade Macy not to leave his place, insisting Thorne would set her up for a fall. Later, puzzled that Macy didn't show up for their meeting, Thorne called only to have Sly tell him she doesn't want to see him. Eric told Steve they need to get Connor out of Brooke's life and suggested Steve take Connor's place—an idea that enraged Ridge. Sally told Stephanie she and Jack were engaged, and hoped they can all become a real family, especially since she'll be Ridge's mother-in-law. Stephanie, however, insisted Sally will never be accepted by the Forresters. Wait To See: Taylor gets upsetting news about Ridge and Brooke.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Disguised as a nurse, Vivian prowled the hospital ward with a syringe filled with cleaning fluid, and snuck up on a napping Carly in the lounge. Lawrence, however, turned up and unwittingly saved Carly's life when Vivian was forced to beat a hasty retreat. Still determined to discredit Carly, Vivian decided to use the syringe on Carly's patient, Mr. Woodrow, who was on life support. Kristin visited with a mysterious man in a wheelchair, wearing a phoenix ring, and wondered why she was supposed to hate John Black. An obviously stressed Marlona told Kim about her affair with John, and her confusion over who actually fathered her child. Wait To See: Kate makes a disturbing discovery.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: While Tracy and Marco attempted to hide the truth about her car accident, Jenny recalled the details of the event from her perspective. Monica's surgery pulled Audrey through after Ryan's brutal attack. Steve, however, was left emotionally shattered. Mac and Felicia went to Texas to bring back her daughter, Maxie, but learned that Ryan may have kidnapped her. Bill, Holly and Victoria realized their lives could change if Victoria regains her sight. Jagger tracked down his younger sister with Brenda's help. Wait To See: A shaken Tracy faces having to make a desperate decision.

GUIDING LIGHT: After hearing Holly's business offer, Jenna shocked Roger with her decision. Roger later warned Grady not to snoop around. Blake and Ross discussed their feelings about marriage. Harley, working undercover in a drug bust, was angry when Buzz, unaware of his undercovering, Bridget and Margaret Nadine not to tell anyone that Bert is Peter's father. Buzz was embarrassed when Jenna caught him working at the diner. A surprise visitor left Roger speechless. An emotional Bridget signed adoption papers. Jagger tracked down his adoptive son. Billy learned the adoption was legal, so long as the real father doesn't stake a claim. Wait To See: Roger is forced to reconsider his plans for Jenna.

LOVING: As Jeremy said goodbye to his students, Hannah, at Clay's urging, finally broke down and told the truth. Curtis asked Buck about Tess whereabouts. Later, Curtis threatened to expose her, but both agreed they'd each have too much to lose if they told all they knew about one another. Shana learned her baby could have a genetic defect. Ava was just as shocked as Leo when Jeremy claimed to be the father of her unborn (and, actually, nonexistent) child. Ava accepted Jeremy's challenge and agreed to have a DNA test. Wait To See: Curtis' jealousy over Dinah Lee and Clay grows.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Cord interrupted Tina and Cain's wedding by announcing that Cain is still legally married to Angela. Rachel was sure Kevin was not guilty of the rape charge. Suede was stunned when Marty refused to accept his offer of help. Suede was later arrested for attacking Todd. Marty freaked out when Asa tried to bribe her to drop her charges against Kevin. Tina told Cain she won't live with him until his divorce is final. Angela bilked money out of Wanda and Cord. Wait To See: Bo and Nora face a dilemma over Kevin's case.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Cricket agreed to represent a group of tenants in a landlord-tenant dispute. Victor was stranded by a carjacker who took off in his Rolls with his wallet, jewelry, etc. John told Ashley nothing had changed; he still resented Jill becoming pregnant without consulting him. Jack, meanwhile, taunted Jill about her pregnancy, saying he was glad she had to sign a prenuptial agreement. Although Jill denied signing the document, she gave John a letter releasing him of obligations. Mary was upset with Paul for cancelling his dinner with Lynn to see an old girlfriend from out of town. Lauren, recalling Sheila's warning to keep silent, or else, asked John Silva for advice. Wait To See: Nikki gets shocking news.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

The Los Angeles Times reported in April that, in order to meet state-mandated quotas to have low-income housing in each city, three affluent towns near Los Angeles would begin including in their counts the servants' quarters on large estates. State officials said the decisions by Rolling Hills Estates, San Marino and Bradbury would boost household incomes of up to $105,000 did not violate the law.

-- In January, New York artist Rirkrit Tiravanija staged a show at Chicago's Randolph Street Gallery in which he cooked a Thai meal from scratch for gallery visitors and then left the cooking utensils and dirty dishes on display for the next month "as a comment on physical, cultural and social relationships."

-- In May, a 75-year-old retrospective of Joel-Peter Witkin, who photographs human bigness, was scheduled for the Villa Pignatelli in Naples, Italy. Included in the show were "The Kiss," a photograph of a corpse's head sliced open by a plastic bag; "Once a Week, Dilworth cultivates the soil so that nothing will grow in it."

-- On permanent display in the living room of a SoHo loft in New York City is a 600 square foot of dirt spread 2 feet thick, titled the "Earth Room," created in 1980 by conceptual artist Walter DeMaria and which, says curator Bill Dilworth, "has more of an emotional range than the 'Mona Lisa' or the Sistine Chapel." Once a week, Dilworth cultivates the soil so that nothing will grow in it.

-- In January, Canadian sculptor Raymond Mackinnon unveiled the annual Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg with a nearly life-sized statue of a vendor scooping ice cream from a cart for a little boy and girl -- but made entirely of butter. Last summer, Linda Christensen collected "butterheads" out of 85-pound blocks of butter for the Minnesota State Fair. And in February in Chicago, Buddhist monk Sonam Dargye exhibited several Tibetan yak butter sculptures, each about 2 feet high, at the Field Museum of Natural History.

-- The French performance artist Orlan recently completed the fifth episode of plastic surgery, out of seven scheduled, in her four-year attempt at art by personal body transformation. She is changing parts of her face and body to conform to Renaissance and post-Renaissance ideals of feminine beauty, and after it's over, an advertising agency will select a new name for her reflecting her new persona.

-- The San Francisco Chronicle reported that Nicolino, a "conceptual artist" in Point Richmond, Calif., is trying to collect enough brassieres to string 4 miles' worth across the Grand Canyon. So far he has about 50.

-- According to a recent profile in Advertising Age's Creativity magazine, Minneapolis artist Judy Olansen has completed nine photographs of a series featuring her 70-year-old mother portrayed as various objects. Included were her mother kneeling on all fours with a pane of glass on her back ("Mother as Coffee Table") and lying alongside a highway ("Mother as Road Kill"). Olansen said, "My brothers think I'm torturing my mother," but countered that her mother is her best friend: "I'm immortalizing her."

WEIRD WEAPONS

-- During a domestic dispute in Millstadt, Ill., in March, Terry L. Maul threatened to shoot his wife and daughter but finally settled for throwing the family's pet pig at the girl. Neither she nor the pig was injured.

-- In February, an 86-year-old woman shopping in a Foodtown store in Union Township, N.J., stopped a 32-year-old woman she said was trying to steal from her purse. The elderly woman threw a sweet potato at the alleged thief with such force that it broke apart against her head and slowed her exit from the store so she was soon captured.

-- Mabel Hyams, 79, was given a suspended sentence in London in February on a charge that she had killed her husband, also 79, in death. Ms. Hyams, who's wheelchair-bound, testified that her husband had constantly taunted her about three affairs he had had in the 1940s in the early

THE WEIRD-O-MUNITY

Thomas Supina, 86, was arrested in December in Ashford, Conn., and charged with smashing windows in the town clerk's office because he was upset with the wording on a referendum question. The Hartford Court reported that Supina, a former state legislator, had over the years accumulated a record of arrests for making political points by throwing rocks at, and smashing windows in, government buildings.

LEAST COMPETENT PEOPLE

Officials conducting a district middle school spelling bee in Bell County, Ky., in April buzzed off finalist Amanda O'Bryan, age 12, when she spelled "label" L-A-B-E-L instead of the way they thought it should be spelled, L-A-B-E-L. The Hartford Court, who heard the judges rule L-A-B-E-L as correct, guessed correctly that what they wanted was L-A-B-L-E and was declared the winner, moving on to the state contest.

WHAT IS SO RARE as an evening in June that doesn't present mostly reruns on the tube? Well, there are summer series to fill in the gap. They go on the air with aspirations of becoming regular series offerings, but most will fade like your suntan does. (Their producers look toward their role model, "Northern Exposure," which started out as a summer fill-in, and did so well, it was returned in January as a mid-season replacement. But the reality is, while many are called to the summer series gathering, few are chosen for regular season programming.)

If these limited-run shows don't quite catch your viewing fancy, there are some interesting programs you might appreciate.

* Mark your calendar for June 21 when "Star Trek: The Next Generation" season finale airs a remarkable episode called "Descent," featuring Brent Spiner playing poker on the holodeck (the area on the spacecraft that creates holograms which can interact with real people; even real androids) with Albert Einstein, Sir Isaac Newton, and Stephen Hawking. Now while all three are historical figures in Data's time, for us, Professor Hawking is a very real scientific presence. A brilliant physicist whose book, "A Brief History of Time" was made into a fascinating film (released by Paramount on videocassette June 9), Hawking suffers from ALS (Lou Gehrig's Disease) and although largely incapacitated these past few years, he continues to use his mind to probe the mysteries of the universe. (P.S. The cliffhanger will, once again, involve the Borg, and the fate of a crewmember.)

* Louie Anderson stars in "Louie in St. Louis" for Showtime, premiering June 12. The comic explores modern life, including why hotel maids guard toiletries with their lives, and inept gas station attendants had to let you have the toilet key.

* Clive James, sometimes called England's cross between Linda Ellerbee and Russell Baker, serves up a new offering for PBS, "Fame in the 20th Century," based on his book of the same name. The eight-part series examines how and why fame is bestowed on some people. Is it talent and achievement that we idolize in Madonna, Elvis, Chaplin, et al? Or are they the creations of the media?

* Finally, Lifetime Television's CableACE-winning anthology series, "The Hidden Room," makes its new season debut June 12. Stars who will appear in the new weekly segments include Ally Sheedy, Helen Mirren, Amanda Donohoe, Stephanie Zimbalist, Mayim Bialik, and Harley Jane Kozak. The focus each week will be on the main character who must confront a compelling choice; how she makes that choice will determine her destiny.

LOST IN YONKERS

Neil Simon has to be one of the more prolific playwrights around today. His plays usually make it to the big screen, and there have also been some TV sitcom renditions of his work. This movie, the screen version of his 1991 Pulitzer Prize winner, promises much, but doesn't really deliver. In fact, I take exception to the promiss which promise you a "heartwarming" film. This movie is anything but "heartwarming."

Ray and Arty (portrayed by newcomers Brad Stoll and Mike Damus) are two brothers, 15 and 13 respectively. They have been left in the care of their German-Jewish grandmother (Irene Worth) while their widower father pursues his shambles of a career in 1942. Grandma lives above a candy store in Yonkers, which should be heaven for two kids, but she doesn't make it so. She is a stern, humorless, cold individual with nothing in common with the stereotypical Jewish-mother image most of us harbor.

The only bright spot in the kids' lives is their Aunt Bella (Mercedes Ruehl, reprising her original stage role). She is wacky and zany, and a breath of fresh air in that dysfunctional household. Uncle Lonnie (Richard Dreyfuss), the black sheep of the family, isn't too shabby either. He's about the only one who seems to have the gumption to stand up to the old tyrant.

As you would expect, Dreyfuss and Ruehl are excellent, as is Worth. However, what bothered me was the lack of cohesion they had. Perhaps they are such strong actors, they simply overpowered the material. I don't know, but they seemed to be giving very disjointed, individual performances.

By the way, if you do go, take some tissues along. There are some pretty touchy moments, but not enough to redeem this film all the way around.

CELEBRATIONS: "Lovin' marks its 10th anniversary this month. Coming about to help celebrate the event is newcomer Michael Lora, formerly Billy on "As the World Turns." He'll be playing Curtis. And if his previous performance as Billy on "ATWT" is any indication, we can predict this new Curtis could have a very interesting new edge to him.

Agnes Nixon, who co-created "Lovin' with the late Douglas Marland, also created (besides "All My Children," of course) "One Life to Live," which celebrates its silver anniversary in July.

Also celebrating a special event is Heather Thom, the talented young actress who plays Victoria on "Young and the Restless." Heather is graduating from high school, and hopes to begin college courses as soon as possible. "My work schedule makes it difficult," she says, "but I've always wanted to go to college, so I'm sure I'll find a way to do it."

Heather loves playing Victoria. "She's a very nice person. She is vulnerable, though, and she's been hurt. But she's grown up a lot in the past year and I feel she's much stronger now."

As for Victoria's growing friendship with Cole (who may or may not be Victor Newman's son with Elve Howard, hence, possibly, Victoria's half-brother), Heather says, "That's going to be very interesting as the story develops."

Over at "Bold and the Beautiful," there's been a shift in job responsibilities for Supervising Producer Bradley Bell, who now becomes head writer for the popular CBS soap. I asked Wally Kurth, who plays Ned on "General Hospital," what the fans say when they meet him. "They tell me," Wally said, "that Ned's a jerk." And what does Wally reply? "I tell them that that's one way to describe him, but I also say that, because he gets involved in so many schemes, he's also a lot of fun to play."

"Come on in, Max! It's not locked!"

NOT JUST ANOTHER NOVEL.

When June 14, 1811, Harriet Beecher Stowe was the daughter of clergyman Lyman Beecher, sister of the prominent Rev. Amos A. Phelps, and wife of Calvin Ellis Stowe, a theological seminary professor. But she is best remembered as the author of the anti-slavery novel, Uncle Tom's Cabin. The farce surrounding the book's publication in 1852 resulted in unparalleled popularity. It was translated into at least 23 languages and created a profound political impact, so much so that it can rightly be counted among the contributing causes to the Civil War. President Lincoln acknowledged this when he met Mrs. Stowe during the war and is said to have said to her, "So you're the little woman who wrote the book that made this great war."

Those who do not feel pain seldom think that it is felt.

Tucker, Damron lead Kentucky past West Virginia

An explosive performance on offense and outstanding pitching led Kentucky to a 21-2 win over West Virginia in the 2nd Annual Kentucky-West Virginia All-Star Game played Sunday at Lefty Hamilton Park in West Williamson.

Prestonsburg standouts Aaron Tucker and Sean Damron provided most of the firepower as the two seniors collected eight hits between them in the game.

Tucker had four hits in six plate appearances and Damron was four of five at the plate. The Blackcat catcher drove in five runs with Damron picking up four runs batted in.

"They both did a great job," said Prestonsburg coach Russell Shepherd, who was the first base coach for the Kentucky team. "I certainly was proud of them and their performance."

Tucker had the honor of winning the home run derby held before the game last weekend. Tucker hit eight baseballs over the fence to claim the title.

"Some of the other ones that he hit went over also, but foul," explained Tucker. "Sean pitched two innings in the game and he may have gotten the win."

The game featured recently graduated seniors from high schools in southern West Virginia and eastern Kentucky.

West Virginia grabbed an early 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning as leadoff hitter Phillip Watson reached base on a throwing error by Damron at shortstop, eventually moved around to third base, and later scored on a wild pitch.

In the top of the second as Bo Wolford led off with a single, then moved to second on Mark Carroll's bunt single. Damron followed with a single to plate Wolford and tie the score at 1-1.

Dan Fraley hit into a force out at second with Carroll scoring from third on the play for a 2-1 Kentucky advantage.

From that point, it was all Kentucky as West Virginia would get only two hits and one run the rest of the way.

Both West Virginia hits were singles, one by Doug Browning in the second inning and the other by Shawn Adkins in the third frame. Both hits came off Kentucky starter Danny Kidd, who hurled three innings before yielding to Damron.

Damron pitched the fourth and fifth innings. Fraley worked the sixth and Kevin Varney, who fanned seven batters, worked the final three.

Coach Denny Paul May's Kentucky squad began to flex their muscles in the fourth inning as Wolford led off the inning by blasting a solo home run deep over the left-center field fence to touch off a four-run rally which increased the Kentucky lead to 6-1.

The Kentucky advantage grew to 10-1 in the fifth inning as Gray, Carroll, Damron and Shane Lockard crossed the plate.

Kentucky's big inning came in the sixth with six more runs going up on the scoreboard to make it a 16-1 game.

Jason Keith Taylor led off the frame with an infield single, stole second and scored on a base hit by Tucker.

choice hit into by Carroll who eventually crossed the plate, along with teammate Damron, on a base hit by Lockard. Jason Dales followed with a hit to drive in Lockard, then later scored on a wild pitch.

Kentucky added another run in the top of the seventh to increase the lead to 17-1, before West Virginia countered with a run of their own in the bottom of the frame to make it 17-2. Kentucky finished the scoring with four runs in the ninth.

Besides Tucker and Damron, Taylor and Wolford each rapped out a trio of safeties while Varney Carroll and Lockard had two hits each. Dales also chipped in with a single.

For Coach Shepherd, coaching first base was a treat.

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

GOINS WANTS TO SET RECORD STRAIGHT

Beaver Creek Little League President Jimmy Goins was unavailable for comments in an earlier article in A Look At Sports on the controversy that has surrounded Billy Hall, a member of the Drift Astros Little League team.

Hall has been declared ineligible to take part in the all-star tournaments next month because he earlier in the year signed up to play in the Prestonsburg Little League before going back to Drift.

The finger of guilt has been pointed at Goins as league president, not only by Clinis Hall coach of the Astros, but the Southern Regional Little League office in St. Petersburg, Florida.

But Goins contends that he was not aware of the situation concerning Billy Hall until he attended the District 7 meeting this past Sunday night.

"I did not know anything about Billy up until that time," said a confused Goins. "I would not do something about the matter if I didn't know anything about it."

Goins said that he knew that Hall was playing in the Beaver Creek Little League and had been for the past three years.

"But I didn't know that he went down and signed up to play in the Prestonsburg League," said Goins.

Frank Goins, who is assisting Jimmy in the Beaver Creek Little League, echoed the same thing.

"Billy's mom called me at work and said that Billy wanted to play at Drift and could he play ball," said Goins. "I asked her if he had played any games with the team in Prestonsburg and she told me no that he had only practiced with them."

"I told her that I didn't see any reason why he (Billy) could not play for Drift."

Goins contends with brother Jimmy that he had no idea that Billy had gone through the draft at Prestonsburg.

"If we had known things would have been different," said Frank.

Jimmy received a fax from the Southern Regional office in Florida explaining the ruling on the situation.

The letter was addressed to Mr. Goins and the reference was to an "inquiry about a player who moved out of the Beaver Creek Little League's boundaries and was registered, tried-out and was placed on a team in the League he now resides."

The ruling was quoted from Regulation 11(d) which stated "a waiver request under Regulation 11(d) must be filed within 14 days after the start of the regular season for a player to be eligible for that season. We have no such waiver on file. If a player registers, tries out, and is placed on a team in a League where he or she resides, he or she is eligible to participate only in that League."

The letter was signed by Lance Van Auken, Assistant Southern Regional Director.

"Like all the others, Jimmy Goins says that wish there were some way Billy could still play in the all-star competition. But, according to the ruling, the 12-year-old kid will have to wait until one from the sidelines and he is the only loser in this game."

Goins brought up a valid point when he stated that had everyone (including Dickie Jarvis) closed their eyes to the matter in last Sunday's meeting and not spoken up, then it could have caused problems down the road (should a team advance on in tournament play) for the rest of the team should they advance.

"They check everything very close," said Goins. "And if someone else knew about it they probably would have spoken up and then the team would have to go back and forfeit all their games."

The problem here is just a matter of ignoring all the rules that apply. The rules are, that if a player signs up, tries out, goes through the draft and is placed on a team,

Tries for double play

Fleming homers as... Prestonsburg Yankees slip past Indians 7-6

Eric Fleming hammered a third inning home run and Ryan Fitzpatrick picked up a two-run double in the first inning as the Prestonsburg Yankees slipped past the Prestonsburg Indians in Little League play at Archer Park Monday evening.

Gabriel Shepherd picked up the win for the Yankees, even though he worked only the first three innings. Shepherd left the mound after three innings with his team owning a 5-4 lead.

Kyle Shepherd came on to pitch the final three for the Yankees.

The Indians used a duo of pitchers, led by Ryan Martin who started and suffered the loss. Martin went the first three before giving way to Jarrod Hall.

The Yankees sent eight batters to the plate in the first inning when they scored four times for a 4-0 lead. Fitzpatrick drilled a double that scored two runs and another came home on Brooks Sunnett's RBI double.

Adam Hall doubled home a run in the bottom of the inning for the Indians and he scored on a wild pitch for a 4-2 game.

After both teams went out in order in the second, the Yankees got a run in the third when Fleming led off with a long drive over the center field fence for a solo home run and a 5-2 game.

With two out in the bottom of the third, the Yankees elected to walk Hall as he came to bat with two runners on at second and third. The move backfired on coach Bobby Shepherd when Jarrod Hall singled home two runs for a 5-4 game.

The Yankees picked up what turned out to be insurance runs in the fourth and sixth inning to take a 7-4 lead.

In the fourth, Gabriel Shepherd singled and scored on a wild pitch to make it 6-4. Kyle Shepherd came home in the sixth inning on a bases-loaded walk to Sunnett and the Yankees held a three run cushion.

The Indians put together a rally in the bottom of the fifth and left the tying run at third base when Adam Hall grounded out to second to end the game.

Ryan Martin got the inning started off with a base hit before Leslie struck out. Matt Turner walked and Crockett doubled home Martin but Turner was out at the plate for the second out.

Crockett came in to score as the ball was overthrown at third base and it was a 7-6 game. John Dixon walked and Shepherd hit Josh Turner with a pitch, putting the tying and winning runners on base.

Adam Hall stroled to the plate with bat in hand and a base open. However, the power-hitting catcher grounded to second to end the game.

Gabriel Shepherd had six strikeouts in the three innings that he worked. He fanned five consecutive batters, getting the side in order in the second. He walked six batters.

Kyle Shepherd allowed two runs on just two hits while striking out two and he issued two walks.

Martin struck out three and walked three. He hit one batter. Hall struck out three and walked five.

Mud Creek Cubs win over Astros amid protest

The Mud Creek Cubs moved a game closer to first place in the Harold-Allen-Prairie Little League with a 8-3 win over the front-running Allen Astros Tuesday evening at Stumbo Park.

However, there is a chance the game will have to be replayed after Allen coach Jackie Day Crisp filed a protest with league director Robert Damron.

The protest was over the use of Kenneth Johnson as the Cubs pitcher. Crisp contends that he was an ineligible hurler since he pitched this past Saturday against the Ivel Reds.

"I asked the Cubs coach how he did against the Reds Saturday and he said that he won," explained Crisp. "I then asked him who he pitched and he said Kenny (Johnson). I went to the rule book and it says clearly that if a pitcher pitches more than four innings, he has to have four days rest. He went six innings against the Reds and started against us. He was not eligible to pitch again until Wednesday which made him an illegal pitcher."

Johnson went the six innings against the Astros and fanned 10 batters in the process. He allowed only three base on balls while giving up seven hits.

Seth Crisp suffered the loss for the Astros, working the first two innings and allowing seven runs. Chris Hall pitched the third and fourth and was relieved in the fifth by Nathan Leslie.

The Cubs scored three times in the first inning on a double by Johnson, Tojo Hamilton's bunt single and a two-run single by Adam Tackett. Ryan Hall drove in the third run with a base hit.

The Astros had taken a 1-0 lead in the inning on a single by Crisp, a base hit from Scotty Walls and Leslie's RBI double.

The Cubs chased Crisp in the second when they pushed home four runs for a 7-1 game.

After Crisp plunked Johnson and Hamilton with pitches to load the bases, Chris Hall came on to face Tackett. Tackett greeted the right-hander with a two-run double, scoring Leroy Adkins, who had walked, and Johnson. Hamilton scored on Ryan Hall's sacrifice fly to right. Tackett scored the fourth run on a base hit by Jonathan Howell.

Crisp accounted for one of the Astros' runs in the third inning with a solo home run over the left field fence. A double by Walls and Leslie's RBI double made it a 7-3 game.

The Cubs scored their final run on a base hit by Tackett, who also stole home.

"Kenneth's a fine pitcher," said Crisp, "and a hard thrower. But he is being pitched to death. We've been beaten twice, but that's the thing. They use him all the time against us and the Reds."

Crisp was concerned about Johnson hurting himself by pitching so much.

"I should have protested the game sooner," he said, "but I didn't. After I protested, he kept on pitching when he was suppose to be taken out."

then he or she must play in that league where they reside. The Hall family lives in Auxier, which is in the Prestonsburg League district.

However, the way I understand it, if Billy Hall had never signed up in the Prestonsburg League, he would have been allowed, according to Little League rules, to return to Little League and finish out his Little League career with the Astros, regardless if he did live in Auxier.

The mistake was when he signed up in the Prestonsburg League and decided to play instead for the Astros which violated Little League rules.

Question?
Wouldn't a signed waiver from Beaver Creek Little League President Jimmy Goins have been required first before Hall could have registered with the Prestonsburg League?

Didn't Hall have to first be released from the Beaver Creek Little League before he could even sign up?

Is there an answer to the question?

I know one thing, I certainly have learned a lot from this little ordeal. I don't envy any Little League President that is trying to do his job and do it right.

The latest episode (as of Thursday morning) has to do with the boundary map that determines which league players must play in. The Wheelwright Little League comes into view now and they were short changed last year when two of their top players were ruled ineligible for all-star competition in both the Wheelwright and Beaver Creek leagues.

Now, the problem has come up that six other players may be declared ineligible for the upcoming all-star tournament and some are from the Wheelwright area.

Why doesn't someone that has authority get a map, determine what the boundaries are and go by that? Why does there have to be all the confusion and keep these kids wondering if they are eligible or not? This needs to be done before the first pitch is thrown next season. If they don't, they are asking for more problems and Little League baseball, here in Floyd County, doesn't need anymore confusion.

Do away with the Beaver Creek, Prestonsburg, Wheelwright and Harold-Allen-Prater leagues and make it the Floyd County Little League Association.

Everyone plays under one commissioner and we have three Floyd County All-Star teams out of the league.

The present leagues could still play their separate schedule and at the end of the regular season have a Floyd County Tournament involving all the teams and declare a county champion.

Just think how strong of an All-Star team that could represent the county in the tournament in July.

Ed, will that ever happen? No. Simply because there is too much politics in the system just like everything else in the county.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports even to Little League Presidents.

Kentucky

"I really enjoyed it," said Shepherd. "Your team plays against some of the players that made up the Kentucky team, and then you are coaching them. You find out that they are really a good group of kids and they all got along so well."

"I would like to have been able to coach a team like that over the summer months."

"Someone like Kevin Varney, that struggled against us in the regionals, and then come back and pitch the way he did against West Virginia makes you feel good."

Tucker and Shepherd will be traveling to Louisville next weekend as Tucker will be a member of the East-West All-Star game at Pleasant Ridge Park on Saturday and Sunday. Tucker will play for the East squad and Shepherd will be assisting Pikeville coach Dave Thomas on the base lines.

Barkley blocking Bulls' road to three-peat

by Mike "Mister" Rosenberg

Michael.
Charles.
Bulls.
Suns.
Game time.

The Bulls are on course to become the first NBA team in quite a number of years to win back-to-back titles. All they have to do is get by the team with the best record in the NBA and a very large, very angry, very bald man named Barkley.

The Bulls did their yearly two-step through the playoffs, pausing only for a moment in New York to get the Knicks' hopes up, then letting Scottie Pippen gun them down. The Suns stumbled, almost eliminated by the Lakers, going six with the Admiral and the Spurs and taking the full seven games to oust the Sonics. (Do watch out for them once Shawn Kemp fully comes into his own.)

So, here we go, in prime time, not just two good teams, but the best two players in the league square off to find out which team gets the banner and just who is The Man.

Here's a breakdown of the combatants:

Center: Chicago, Bill Cartwright; Phoenix, Mark West — Under almost any other circumstance, "Medical Bill" would be overmatched in the post. Here, Phoenix's real weakness is exposed. West is a big body that would be riding pine if he didn't block a couple of shots a game. Edge: Bulls.

Power Forward: Chicago, Horace Grant; Phoenix, Charles Barkley — Grant has said all year that people don't give him enough credit. Now he's got his chance to prove it against the most driven man in the playoffs. Grant may be a good defender, but he's overmatched by a longshot. It's never fun playing head-up against a man on a mission. Edge: Suns.

Small Forward: Chicago, Scottie Pippen; Phoenix, Tom Chambers — Chambers will probably get the start over Richard Dumas just for matchup size. He's still got a good jumper, but defensively, he's a turnstile. Pippen's soft, but he's coming off the best playoff game of his career and shouldn't have to worry about getting manhandled against Chambers. Heck, the Sta-Puf Marshall-low Man wouldn't have to worry against Chambers. Edge: Bulls.

Shooting Guard: Chicago, Michael Jordan; Phoenix, Dan Majerle — "Thunder Dan" has had a record for threes in a game, played stifling defense, hustled, rebounded, and it just doesn't matter. Edge: Bulls.

Point Guard: Chicago, B.J. Armstrong; Phoenix, Kevin Johnson — Armstrong's shot the ball well and responded with steady ball handling. He hasn't really gone up against a guard that will pressure him. KJ will do that. He'll also leave Armstrong standing at the top of the key, wishing he could pry himself from the floor. Edge: Suns.

Key Reserves: Chicago, Scott Williams (F/C), Stacey King (F/C), John Paxson (G), Trent Tucker (G), Will Perdue (C), Phoenix, Richard Dumas (F/C), Phoenix, Richard Oliver Miller (C), Frank Johnson (G). With the loss of Cedric Ceballos, the

Suns are thin, especially up front. The Bulls can send a lot of beef in to crash the boards. Offensively, the Suns are stronger off the pines, especially if Dumas comes out fired up, but in this series, offense isn't what a team needs. Edge: Bulls.

Miscellaneous: The two teams split games during the regular season, each winning on the other's home floor. Give Phil Jackson the edge over Paul Westphal in coaching, just because he's been there. Defensively, the Bulls are simply a better team. The Suns don't play well from be-

Martin tosses shutout as Pee Wee Reds win over Smurfs

The Reds defeated the Smurfs in the Mud Creek Pee Wee League this past Saturday with a 6-0 whitewash as Justin Martin picked up the win.

Martin struck out six batters in the win and he issued two walks. He fanned the side in the third inning. Devon Reynolds was the losing pitcher striking out eight Reds batters and walking nine. Reynolds allowed six runs on 15 hits.

The Reds scored three runs in the third inning and put single runs on the board in the first, fourth and fifth inning.

Adam Newsome had an RBI single in the third inning and Brandon Hall picked up a base hit. Adam Parson singled to center field.

The Smurfs collected three hits in the first inning but were unable to score when two runners collided on the baspaths. Ryan Mitchell had a base hit as did Frank Mitchell and Ryan Mitchell. Ryan Mitchell was called out before he reached home when another player made contact with him.

Casey Tackett had a fifth inning base hit for the Smurfs but a double play took the Smurfs out of the inning.

Martin added to the Reds' offense when he hit a home run in the fifth inning. Joe Hall had a double in the frame, was ruled safe by the base umpire but the home plate ump ruled him out. Heather Johnson and Adam Newsome had singles in the inning.

Florida Marlins to conduct tryout camp

The Florida Marlins will conduct an open tryout camp on Monday, June 21, at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. with the camp starting promptly at 9:30 a.m. All players ages 16-22 are invited to attend.

All American Legion players must have written permission from their coach or Post Commander. Players should bring their glove and shoes and be in uniform.

The camp will be conducted by Marlins' area scout Brad Del Barba and Lexington Recommending Scout Dick Robinson.

Cubs edge Ivel Reds 11-7

The Mud Creek Cubs continued to lead the Harold-Allen-Prater Little League standings after edging the Ivel Reds this past Saturday at Sumbro Park.

Kenneth Johnson was master of the mound as he fanned 14 Reds batters on the way to an 11-7 win. Johnson struck out the side in both the fifth and sixth innings and K'd 14 of the last 18 outs.

The Cubs scored three runs in the fifth inning to give Johnson some breathing room after the Reds scored four in the third and one in the fourth to take a 7-6 lead.

Johnson helped his own cause in the fifth when he doubled home Jonathan Howell and Adam Tackett unloaded his seventh home run of the season, scoring Johnson ahead of him. Tackett entered the game carrying a .697 batting average.

The Reds trailed 6-2 entering the top of the third inning but tied the game 6-6 when they stole home three times in the inning. Dale Mullins, Eugene Miller and Lonzo Stephens each scored by stealing home.

The Reds held their only lead in the fourth when Ricky Hall, who walked, stole second, third and home to give the Reds the 7-6 lead.

Mud Creek reclaimed the lead in the bottom of the inning with two runs and never looked back. Leroy Adkins had a RBI double in the inning. Johnson went the six innings for the Cubs and faced 28 batters of which he fanned 14. He allowed seven runs while scattering six hits. He walked six batters.

Reds score two in bottom of fifth for 4-2 win over Tigers

The Mud Creek Reds scored two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to break a 2-2 tie and post a 4-2 win over the Mud Creek Tigers in Pee Wee League action.

Dan Osborne collected a one-out base hit for the Reds in the fifth inning. Nathan Hamilton doubled home Parsons with what was the winning run. But Osborne scored himself (and it counted) when he came around on an error from shortstop to second base.

The Reds, who trailed 2-1 after one inning, tied the game in the third on a base hit by Osborne and Joe Hall's RBI single.

The Tigers moved out to a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning on a Bubba Hamilton base hit and Brian Roberts' double. Hamilton scored when Kim Tackett grounded out and Roberts came home on Matt Slone's ground out.

The Reds plated a run in the bottom of the first on a walk to Parsons and Hall's run-scoring base hit.

Matt Slone had a base hit in the fourth inning for the Tigers but was left stranded.

Miller suffered the loss for the Reds, hurling five innings. He faced 31 batters, had four strikeouts and four walks. He allowed 11 runs on 11 hits.

Reds score two in bottom of fifth for 4-2 win over Tigers

Justin Martin picked up the win for the Reds with Bubba Hamilton taking the loss. Martin had four strikeouts and 11 Hamilton fanned eight.

"This was a big win for us," said Reds coach James Hall. "They made us forget our last game because we had a player arrive late after it had just quit raining. This was the number one team in the league."

The loss was the second for the Tigers who entered the game with a 6-1 mark and it moved them into a three way tie for first place with the Reds and Braves. The Reds improved to 5-2.

Harold Sharks hold off Wayland Yankees 12-11

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

There were plenty of runs scored as the Harold Sharks and Wayland Yankees hooked up at Stumbo Park in a Floyd County Babe Ruth League game this past Tuesday night. The Sharks kept hold on first place with a 12-11 win over the Yankees. It was a come-from-behind effort to a hold them off effort for the Sharks as they tried to stay afloat in the game. Harold fell behind 7-1 after three and half innings as the Yankees took advantage of the misfortunes of Brandon Castle.

Castle started on the mound for the Sharks but had to leave the hill and eventually the game because of a pulled groin. The mound at the Allen Park is not regulation, with the mound sticking up three inches above the ground. When Castle made the delivery he stepped into a hole that caused the groin pull. With the score tied at 1-1, the Yankees played four runs in the third and added two in the fourth to take the 7-1 lead against Willie Meade, who relieved Castle.

Sharks' coach Eddie Rose made the move and brought in Shawn Rose from behind the plate to the mound and Rose, despite walking eight batters, picked up the win.

Brad Allen started for Wayland and was sailing along with a good lead until the bottom fell out on defense for the Yankees as they committed four errors in the fifth inning and permitted the Sharks to score eight times for a 12-8 lead.

Brad Kimbler, who entered the game in the fourth inning, singled home two runs that snapped a 8-8 tie. Two more runs scored on a two-base error on the Yankees. Rose belted his own cause in the inning by driving in two runs. Twelve batters paraded to the plate for the Sharks.

Wayland pushed home two runs in the top of the sixth and one in the seventh to make it a one run, 12-11 game. Matt Crawford bounced out to second baseman Chris Holbrook to end the game and the tying run standing at third base.

Allen went through the first four innings with little difficulty although Harold did reach him for three runs in the fourth to make the score 7-4. An error at third base opened the door for the Sharks as Castle singled and Wes Collins lined an RBI double to center field. Mark Tackett singled home two runs in the inning.

Tim Bellemly had a two-base hit in the first but was left stranded for the Yankees.

The Yankees did strike in the second without a base on hit. Allen scored when he was safe on an error leading off. Castle's second inning triple accounted for the Sharks first run. Castle looked as if he was going to be stranded but scored on a wild pitch to tie the game.

The Sharks improved to 5-1 on the season and the Yankees fell to 4-2.

Tiller, Blair lead 15th All-Region balloting

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Four Floyd County high school baseball players were recently named to the All 15th Region baseball team this past week with Pikeville's J.P. Blair and Brad Tiller of Sheldon Clark tying for Player of the Year Award.

Pikeville's Dave Thomas was named Coach of the Year in the poll involving the news media in the 15th Region.

Named to the first team at first base was Betsy Layne's Barry Clark. A player could not be named to either the first, second or third team roster as a pitcher and also be named to a fielder's position.

Clark was also one of the top vote getters on the pitching ballot but, because of his strong showing on the field, he was placed at first base.

Prestonsburg's Seth Hyden was the other Floyd County player who was picked for first team infield honors. Hyden starred at third base for coach Russell Shepherd's Blackcats, who were the region's runners-up this season.

Hyden, known for his defensive

Floyd County Connie Mack League to meet this Saturday

An organizational meeting of the Floyd County Connie Mack baseball team will be held tomorrow (Saturday) at the Allen Central baseball field at 11 a.m. All players in Floyd County are invited to attend the meeting called by J.D. Deaton, who will be the team's coach.

The hastily called meeting was needed to determine the interest in the county for the new 16 to 18 year old baseball team. "I just need to speak to them Saturday," said Deaton. "I need to find out how many want to play. I have to go to Knott Central in Hindman for an organizational meeting on Sunday and I have to be able to tell them we want to be in the league."

All players between the ages of 16 and 18-years old are urged to be at the meeting tomorrow.

The team is open to any player in the county.

prosess, batted over .300. The first team outfield included two from the county in Barry Collins and Anthony Howell. It had to be an honor of sorts for Howell after having to sit out last season because of an injury.

Howell was named to the first team because of his ability to chase down long drives.

Collins ranks among the best in center field for Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats.

Howell and Collins were joined by a defensive specialist himself in Johns Creek's Jason K. Taylor. Taylor also played center field for the Bearcats and was deserving of the honor on the first team.

The only unanimous choice for a position was Paintsville's Jon Holbrook at second base.

Ray Collins (Sheldon Clark) nosed out Aaron Tucker of Prestonsburg in the catcher's position. Collins collected 36 votes and Tucker had 33.

Tucker, by consensus of many, was a premier catcher for Coach Shepherd's ball club. He recently played in the Kentucky-West Virginia All-Star game where he collected four hits and drove in four runs.

Of course, Brad Tiller rounds out the first team players. Tiller is considered to be major league material and has one year left in school. Blair, Morgan Cyrus, Don Montgomery, Kevin Varney and J.R. Melvin were chosen for the first team pitching roster.

Prestonsburg's Sean Damron was named to the second team pitching roster. He joined Belfry's Shane Hensley, Pikeville's Scott Anderson, Sheldon Clark's Jesse Watts and Johnson Central's Jesse McCarty.

Toby Vance of Allen Central made the third team roster.

Tucker and Derrick Newsome were second team All-Region players, according to the poll. Newsome was named to the second base position and Tucker at the catcher's spot.

Chris Potter of Betsy Layne and Cory Reitz of Prestonsburg made the third team. Potter was the third team shortstop and Reitz was named to the third team outfielder's position.
