Stumbo's attorney to request summary judgement :

Three who took "the Fifth" to be questioned

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Three witnesses who took the Fifth Amendment in a civil vote fraud suit, filed by a Democrat challenger in the May primary, will be questioned Thursday in Perry County Circuit Court.

Subpoenas were issued Monday for Kenneth Roberts, Velma Banks and Calvin Howell to appear in Perry Circuit Court Thursday at 1 p.m. to give testimony in the case of Dale McKinney versus John M. Stumbo and the Floyd County Board of Elections.

McKinney, who sought the Democratic nomination for county judge-executive, filed suit against Stumbo in June alleging that Stumbo violated state election laws in the May election.

None of 29 witnesses who have given depositions in the case have said that they knew of any infractions committed by Stumbo in the May primary.

Based on the apparent lack of evidence, Stumbo's attorney, Arnold Turner Jr., will request that special judge Doug Combs issue a verdict in favor of Stumbo.

In a proposed motion for summary judgement, Turner claims that McKinney has failed to provide evidence that Stumbo committed any election infractions and that tape recordings, allegedly of witnesses in the case, provided by McKinney's attorney offer no evidence to prove allegations against Stumbo.

Turner's motion also asks that McKinney be directed to pay attorney's fees and costs.

In a hearing Friday before special judge Doug Combs, Judge Combs granted a motion for Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond to withdraw from the case.

Hammond asked to withdraw from the case, he said, because McKinney

"was a valued friend" and because he is "blood-related" to Stumbo. In a letter to County Court Clerk Carla Boyd from Hammond, the county attorney said that he was a relative of Stumbo's.

Hammond's letter to Boyd also said that he had asked the state's attorney general on two prior occasions to withdraw from the case.

In an October 7 letter to Hammond from deputy attorney general Brent Caldwell, Caldwell said that the attorney general has no authority to relieve Hammond from the case and that it would be up to the court to decide if he could be dismissed from the case.

Caldwell did say that there was no objection for Hammond to withdraw from the matters related to alleged criminal violations by McKinney.

Since the board of elections has not been accused on any wrongdoing-

Fired director of Head Start blames politics

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A multi-million dollar federal lawsuit was filed last week against the Floyd County School Board, the system's superintendent and the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program by the former director of Floyd County's Head Start program.

Janie Bailey, who was fired along with Head Start bookkeeper Ruth DeRossett in September for alleged misappropriation of funds and unauthorized and improper credit practices, filed the federal lawsuit claiming she lost her job because she spoke out about moving the Head Start program into the school system's "Family Resource Center" and because of her political affiliations.

The lawsuit claims that Bailey is also being punished because she and her family supported Jim Hammond in his candidacy for Floyd County Attorney when the majority of the school board favored an opposing candidate.

None of the current members of the Floyd County School Board were in office when Hammond was elected as county attorney in November 1989.

Bailey's attorney, Larry Webster of Pikeville, also claims that Bailey was denied her due process rights to have a hearing prior to her dismissal.

"The plaintiff was given no prehearing notice of any alleged violations or grounds for suspension or termination," the lawsuit claims.

(Also, her attorney of record in the matter was not notified of the hearing and she had no reasonable opportunity to cross-examine witnesses. The only notice that the plaintiff had of any charges were vague and incapable of defense."

Webster also contends in the lawsuit that the charges against Bailey were "minor violations."

Bailey and DeRossett were suspended by Floyd superintendent Steve Towler on July 28 pending the outcome of an investigation by the state's Office of Education Accountability (OEA) into allegations of mismanagement. School officials asked OEA to conduct an investigation into the department after "a large bill" concerning Head Start travel was sub-

Part of city lot to be sold to Pike National

by Ronnie Parsons
Staff Writer

The Prestonsburg Municipal Holding Corporation has approved the sale of a 14 x 25 foot tract of the city's municipal parking lot to Pikeville National Bank.

During the corporation's meeting Monday night, Mayor Ann Latta announced County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo gave her the go-ahead to sell the 14 x 25 foot tract of the parking lot to Pikeville National.

According to Latta, Stumbo said the sale would not interfere with the county's plans to build a new courthouse and government facility on the parking lot.

Before a vote could be taken by the corporation to sell the tract of land, the matter of a deed of correction needed to be addressed.

When the parking lot was transferred to the Municipal Holding Corporation in 1989 from the old Municipal Improvements Corporation, the parking lot was in three separate tracts.

The deed of correction was put to a vote and unanimously accepted by

Top ranking is no surprise at Harold school

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Although the results of the 1992-93 school test scores surprised a few, it was no surprise that Harold Elementary students continue to make some of the highest scores in the state.

Harold's eighth grade students attained the highest test scores statewide and fourth grade students also received high marks.

"Teachers, students, parents, staff and principals have all teamed up to encourage high levels of learning at Harold," Terry Spears, the district's communications director, said Tuesday. "The school has had the highest percentage of daily attendance in Floyd County for seven years in a row."

Floyd superintendent Steve Towler said parental involvement and high attendance contributed to the school's success.

"High attendance and strong parental support are two factors which have helped Harold achieve at a high level," Towler said. "Harold also has an innovative staff which has embraced KERA. We are extremely pleased with Harold Elementary's continued success."

Other schools which scored high marks in testing include Duff Elementary, Osborne Elementary, Maytown Elementary and Prater Elementary.

Phil Page, director of student assessment, said that test results won't be released until January 1994 and that some scores could change because state education officials are not releasing writing scores.

For Floyd County schools that did not show marked improvement in their test scores, Page said that an effort will begin immediately to address the problems in area schools.

Under Page's assessment, 43 percent of fourth grade students in the county did not show at least 50 percent improvement; 46 percent of eighth grade students failed to show significant progress; and three out of four high school's achievement results were below 50 percent.

"We are going to try to target our weaknesses with this information,"

City seeks regulatory control of TV service

by Ronnie Parsons
Staff Writer

Prestonsburg City Council is moving forward on an ordinance that will give the city regulatory authority over cable television services and programming offered under a local franchise.

A draft ordinance authorizing the renewal of a cable franchise held by Rifkin/CCG Inc. was reviewed briefly by council Monday evening, with final action expected soon.

That regulatory authority was granted cities under the new federal laws.

Council also announced the approval of $11,000 in funding by the state for the city's Traffic Alcohol Program (TAP).

TAP is money allotted by the state to pay police officers to work overtime and patrol exclusively for drunk drivers.

City Police Chief Greg Hall said that last year the average DUI arrests were from 13 to 14 a month.

Under the TAP program, used for Approximately 20 pounds of marijuana were seized and two people were arrested over the weekend in two separate raids which came about after a short investigation by the Mountain Area Drug Task Force.

A Floyd County father and daughter were arrested as a result of the raids which began in Pike County and ended at Raleigh Branch in Floyd County.

Billy Charles Reed, 59, and his daughter, Donna Boyd, 32, were arrested in Pike County early Saturday morning after they allegedly sold approximately three pounds of marijuana to undercover officers.

Pike County Sheriff Charles "Fuzzy" Keesece and deputies arrested Reed and Boyd at the scene of the alleged drug transfer on Little Robinson Creek near the Pike/Floyd County line.

A search warrant was obtained for Reed's Floyd County home after his arrest and Floyd County Sheriff Paul

Board scraps Billips' plan; okays Betsy Layne projects

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County school board members voted Friday to proceed with plans to build a classroom addition at Betsy Layne Elementary and to build a new middle school in the Betsy Layne area.

The decision on the Betsy Layne projects came at a special meeting Friday during discussions to reauthorize school building projects on the district's facility plan.

Over $7 million in state school construction monies allocated in 1988 and 1990 must be expended by the board before September 1994 or those funds will revert to the state's general fund. The board must spend those funds on school projects on the district's current facility plan.

Under the reauthorized plan adopted Friday, the board will complete the Adams Middle School and the South Floyd gym, build a new Martin/Maytown Elementary, renovate Prestonsburg High School, and build the two Betsy Layne projects.

Board members apparently rejected a plan offered last month by outgoing board member Eddie Billips, who was absent from Friday's meeting which called for building additions at five elementary schools—Betsy Layne, Osborne, Stumbo, McDowell, and Clark. Billips' plan would have put a new Betsy Layne Middle School as the next project on the district's facility plan after the other projects were completed.

Wasting no time Friday in proceeding with the Betsy Layne Middle School, the board hired architect Nick Feldman and voted to ask the Local Planning Committee to select at least two sites on which to build the middle school.

In action concerning the Betsy Layne elementary addition, the board directed superintendent Steve Towler to contact board attorney Cliff Latta to look at the status of the architect and construction manager contracts on the project.

The validity of those contracts has been questioned by state school officials because the local board apparently did not ratify those contracts.

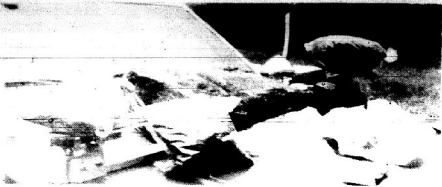

Latta is to make a report to the board at an October 19 regular meeting.

Also Friday, the board voted to hire Feldman to review the status of the Betsy Layne elementary project and to determine if some aspects of

The defendant's attorney, Jeffrey Bell, requested that the court set aside the jury verdict. Bell argued that the jury was misled by the testimony of the witnesses and that the evidence was insufficient to support the verdict. He also argued that the state failed to prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt.

At the hearing, Bell presented evidence that the witnesses were inconsistent in their testimony and that the state's case was based on circumstantial evidence. He argued that the jury should have been instructed to view the evidence with skepticism and that the verdict was unjust.

Hammond said it would be up to the registry to determine if any change is to be made. McKimsey said that the county judge executive, Tom Hammond, said it would be up to the registry to determine if any change is to be made. McKimsey said that the county judge executive, Tom Hammond, said it would be up to the registry to determine if any change is to be made.

Turner and Bellisen agreed that the three witnesses who testified that Turner had admitted to the crime were credible. Turner said that point in his motion to dismiss the case should be reviewed after the witnesses are questioned. Turner also asked that Bellisen be ordered to turn over copies of tape recordings of witnesses he claimed to have.

As of Tuesday, no judicial complaint had been filed with the registry against McKimsey, according to the registry's legal counsel, Jim Schull. A spokesperson at the attorney general's office said Tuesday that the state would file a judicial complaint against McKimsey if the evidence was sufficient to do so.

Bellisen said he would provide Turner the tape recordings by Monday if he had access to as many as possible. He would provide a summary of the recordings in his response to a question from Judge Combs. Bellisen said that the tape recordings of witnesses would show election law violations had occurred in the May primary. The state could not rule on Turner's motion to dismiss the case, but took the motion under advisement. McKimsey's attorney, Jeffrey Bell, said that he would be questioning witnesses on Monday. Judge Combs said that he would be resolving the issue.

To the Citizens of Prestonsburg

In this "position paper" I want to review some of the positive aspects relating to tourism either already in place or those that are "in the wings" waiting to add to our area's already bright recreational picture.

1. ARCHER PARK
This is the crown jewel of our REGIONAL tourism package. As Doc George envisioned this over 20 years ago, so it has become a family facility offering activities for young and old year 'round. It is a regionally used park that can NOW host ball tournaments, horse shows and reunions and fairs. These events, along with the use by local schools, churches, etc. means MONEY pumped into the local economy for food and lodging and other services. Why could ask for more from this well run and managed ASSE. To our community? The Park Board and the Park Management (Raiph Little) are owed a great debt or thanks from this city. But we can't stop there. More improvements should be looked into for the Park, as well as the possibility of flood control which would not only help the park, but save one of our oldest neighborhoods and one of our largest industrial areas. A massive Timber and Action Penitentiary, West Prestonsburg. I am proud that the park carries my father's name, but even if it did not, I would be for keeping it as good as it is, and making it better if humanly possible. The Recreation and Tourism Board must realize that ANYONE, not from here who comes to the Park for an event and spends any money is just as much a tourist as someone who comes from New York to see the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre productions. Regional dollar spends just as good as out of state money. I am 110% behind the growth and expansion of Archer Park.

2. THE MOUNTAIN ARTS CENTER (home of the KY. Ops)
This center needs to be built and set as the cornerstone of our future tourist expansion. It will drive the growth in Prestonsburg's newest business district. Everyone needs to get behind this project for it will set the tone for this section of town. Remember, this project not only uses Prestonsburg talent, but involves people from Floyd County and the entire Eastern Kentucky area. The stars of tomorrow COULD come from this group, and as a community will benefit. But this center is so much more. It will be host to stage productions (local and road companies) and concerts. The area around it is also to be developed and if planned and handled properly, this too will add much to the area's economy.

3. THE RE-VITALIZATION OF JENNY WILEY STATE PARK
I am for the legislation that is supposed to be presented to the state leaders in January of 1994 that will fund the rebuilding of our state park system. Jenny Wiley is part of what use to be referred to as "the finest park system in the nation." The system and Jenny Wiley have fallen on hard times and the state NEEDS to come to the system's rescue. With the new management so willing to work with the local community, I feel it would pay the 5 county area community to fight for these needed upgrades and improvements. These are just 3 areas we need to explore as a community, all are good and deserve our help. Help me fight for these and other community interest projects that will add to our hometown.

Sincerely,
George P. Archer

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

Particular quality

by Scott Perry

Greek philosopher Aristotle once noted that "men acquire a particular quality by constantly acting in a particular way."

He's right, you know. Harold Elementary students have acquired a particular quality, in the educational sense, by constantly acting in a particular way.

They have established a tradition of excellence along that way.

In three out of the past five years, Harold Elementary has been ranked among the state's top ten performers on tests of student skills.

Their recipe for success is fairly simple.

Take equal portions of dedication, encouragement and enthusiasm and spread them evenly over the teachers, students, parents, staff and administrators.

Can't miss a blue ribbon with those ingredients.

Education reform is alive and well in Floyd County. Harold Elementary is proof positive.

Stand up folks and take a bow.

On with the show

While Harold students have certainly earned top billing in Floyd County's production of education reform, others are positioning themselves for co-starring roles.

Duff Elementary, with dramatic gains on this year's assessments, has been recognized among the state's most-improved schools.

Steady improvement has also been noted at Osborne, Prater and Maytown elementary schools.

A cast of thousands has helped stage this scene and each deserves a round of applause.

Here's hoping this show is in for a record run.

The whole truth?

Editor:
As one who has followed each and every deposition of people identified by Dale McKinney as his witnesses in the lawsuit against John M. Stumbo, I am very upset by the slanted way in which these depositions are being reported by the Floyd County Times. In the first round of depositions of the people Dale McKinney said he would use to prove his charges, 18 witnesses testified. All who would answer the questions testified they knew nothing that John M. Stumbo did that would support Dale McKinney's charges. Nevertheless, when your paper reported the taking of these depositions, you refused to clearly reveal this fact. Why?

In the latest group of depositions taken last week, Dale McKinney added 10 more witnesses to his list, all of which again testified they knew of nothing John M. Stumbo did that would support the charges of Dale McKinney. Your paper did not clearly report this fact. Why?

In last Friday's edition, you chose to report that one witness, Delbert Mullins, testified that a bridge had been built on private property six months before the election. What you chose not to report is that Mr. Mullins admitted some people claim that the roadway is public, that he has had no contact with John M. Stumbo, never saw John M. Stumbo in that area when work was performed, and he had no knowledge of anything that would support the allegations of Dale McKinney. Your story didn't mention this. Why?

When you reported on the testimony of Mr. Braxton Thompson, you stated that he bought two loads of gravel from "a county worker." This is a lie and is contrary to the testimony given in the deposition. Dale McKinney's attorney attempted to identify Cline Woods, the man who sold the gravel, as a county employee but was expressly pointed out in the depositions that Cline Woods has never worked for the county. Your reporter surely knew this, for Cline Woods has already been called as a witness for Dale McKinney and testified that he never worked for the county. Nevertheless, you reported in your story that he was a county employee who sold gravel before the election. You also refused to report that Mr. Braxton Thompson testified he had not talked to John M. Stumbo in about a year and a half and that he is a registered Republican. Why? Finally, in your Friday issue, you reported on the testimony of Larry and Clova Fuller, who stated that they complicated to John M. Stumbo about county workers building a road on their private property. What you did not report is that Larry and Clova Fuller testified that they talked to John M. Stumbo on May 19th, before the election, and that John M. Stumbo did not even ask for their vote. They also testified that they did not vote for John M. Stumbo, but in fact Mr. Fuller is an employee of Dale McKinney's and supported him in the election. The Fullers also testified they knew of no facts that would support any of the charges in Dale McKinney's lawsuit. You did report that Mrs. Fuller stated that her brother, Tony Scott, apparently supported John M. Stumbo in the election but you refused to report that she also said her brother would never sell his vote for a load of red dog, as apparently inferred by Dale McKinney. Why?

The Floyd County Times has always been an aggressive but honorable newspaper. Your predecessor, Norman Allen, earned a reputation for honesty and willingness to "print all the news that is fit to print." Unfortunately, your reputation is quickly becoming one of willingness to print "all the news that's print to fit," your own agenda or personal preferences. If any reader desires to see the real truth of the nature of the testimony that is coming forth, these depositions, which I observed, have been reported and are on file in the Floyd County Circuit Clerk's Office for anyone to see. It appears it will be necessary for anyone who wants to know the full truth to do so. Why?

Janet Tackett
Prestonsburg

Editor's Note: Two articles detailing testimony given in depositions in the civil case referred to in the above letter have been published by the Floyd County Times. In the first sentence of an October 1 story, the reporter noted that "...no evidence of vote fraud emerged from depositions of witnesses Thursday."

In the first sentence of an October 8 article, the reporter noted "...no damaging testimony was given against Stumbo..."

In the caption of a photograph published October 1, the reporter noted, "None of the 20 witnesses testified that they knew of any wrongdoing on Stumbo's part during the May primary election."

Chamber asks clarification

Editor:
On behalf of the Executive Committee of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, we would like to ask that you publish this letter and the attached letter from one of our new members, RND, Inc. This is in response to recent political advertisements on the radio that have made misleading statements about RND. We believe the facts, as outlined by Mr. Ralph Bowen in the attached letter, speak for themselves.

We want to emphasize that the Chamber of Commerce is a non-partisan, non-political body. We are, however, pro-business and would simply like to set the record straight on this matter. We feel that RND has been wrongfully used in a partisan political campaign, which is both unfair to the company and our efforts to attract new jobs to Floyd County. We welcome them as the first new industrial plant to locate in our county in many years, and the first success of our renewed economic development efforts. As badly as we need new jobs in Floyd County, we all need to be working to encourage new businesses and not against them.

Keith Akers
Executive Director
Floyd County Chamber of Commerce

RND responds

This letter is to clarify the details of the agreement between RND, Inc. and Floyd County concerning the relocation of the company to this area.

Recent political advertisements induced me to write this letter to you and the members of your organization. I do not wish to be drawn into local political disputes but I do want to make your organization aware of the facts concerning our move to Floyd County.

As I understand, a local political advertisement states:
"RND has or will transfer all workers to be employed at Martin from California."

"The company will pay $72,000 per employee."

The facts are:
"Today, we have transferred three managers from California and one additional manager will be transferred after the first of the year."

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

The folks down at NASA are planning to send 48 rats into outer space this week to determine the effects of weightlessness on the critters, but the space agency has offered no explanation why they aren't sending all 100 on the trip. Cops, our mistake. We thought they were referring to the U.S. Senate. Next trip, maybe.

Get along little ratite. Kentucky Living magazine reports this month that American cuisine is on the verge of a flight of fancy and flightless birds are the main course. Yep, ostrich farming is coming. In Texas, folks are already dining on ostrich steaks, burgers and sausage and University of Kentucky poultry specialists say breeding is "really catching on" in the Bluegrass. Before you start planning your very own ostrich ranch, though, you should know that it could take up to a hundred thousand bucks to get a pair of prime breeding birds. And what does the discriminating rancher feed his fowl? Why, Purina Ostrich Chow, of course.

If you thought health care was our only money-eating concern, get this... Most states are now spending more taxpayer money to send people to jail than they are spending to send people to school. For the third year in a row, funding for corrections will surpass the expenditures for higher education at the state level, the Advisory Commission of Intergovernmental Relations reports. Spending on prisons and prisoners has increased by 232 percent in 20 years. What a sorry state of affairs. It costs an awful lot to make certain that crime doesn't pay.

This week is pretty important to those of us in the business of bringing you the word of the world around you, though we don't tend to make much of it. It's National Newspaper Week. We like to think that newspapers play a vital role in protecting our country's freedoms, and the fact that you may agree or disagree, believe or disbelieve, or cuss or discuss our efforts is the proof in the pudding. You may join us in our quiet celebration or throw darts at our pictures if you like. It's a free country, after all.

Speaking of celebrations... Eastern Kentucky has had few chances to toot its educational whistle, but this week the opportunity comes knocking. Kentucky native Phillip Sharp was named a co-winner Monday of the 1993 Nobel Prize in medicine for his research in genetics. Sharp may be a northern Kentuckian by birth, but his college education came here in the mountains, at Union College in Barbourville. There's no denying it, he's one of ours.

Letters to the editor

Of the thirteen people now employed at the plant, the three managers mentioned above, plus the General Contractor are the only non-Floyd County residents employed.

"Floyd County will advance approximately $95,000 to RND for building renovations. This amount is a secured loan and repayment will begin in November 1993.

"There is no arrangement between Floyd County and RND concerning $72,000 (or any other amount) per employee.

"I have not been questioned about the details of the agreement by anyone since my arrival in Floyd County.

"All details of the agreement between Floyd County and RND Inc. are a matter of public record.

Finally, I have put up almost $2 million cash, inventory and equipment to complete the deal with Floyd County. All county funds are well secured and the stockholders of RND will be the only losers if RND is not successful in Floyd County.

I will be happy to review further details of the move with you any time.

Silver lining to dark cloud

Editor:
I've been proud to make Floyd County my home. As the mother of three children, I believe Floyd County to be the kind of place where my children will also be proud to live. Floyd County has been making progress in recent times. We've been building a strong foundation for our children's future.

Our Jenny Wiley Festival, the Red, White, and Blue Day Parade, and the Festival of FACES grow every year. The Kentucky Opry and the Junior Opry offer new and exciting opportunities to all Floyd Countians. Our hospitals are expanding to offer the latest services to the area. The Children's Museum of Art is bringing to light the enormous potential and talent of our young artists. We have a new convention center at our state park. Prestonsburg Community College is growing in enrollment every semester and reaching out into the community as never before. For example, the Walking/Nature Trail located on campus, the Wellness Program, and Dr. Shiber's Biology Club which brings the world of science and nature to the children of Floyd County Schools. A new attitude of growth and positivism has brought the promise of factories, a race track, and a new golf course. All of Floyd County's progress can be attributed in part to this new attitude of a bright future. However, there are those who would injure the optimism of those persons looking to the future of Floyd County.

Recently I have seen two things which detract from this optimistic vision of our future. The first is a bumper sticker that reads FLOYD COUNTY HAS THE BEST POLITICIANS MONEY CAN BUY. Although this bumper sticker is the product of an election effort aimed at a single office, it characterizes all of Floyd County's elected officials as criminal. Floyd County has worked hard to develop its tourism industry, to draw new businesses, and to locate factories in the area. What kind of image are we presenting to potential investors when our cars display this negative image and attitude about our local government?

The second dark cloud in Floyd County's bright future is the allegation by Dale McKinney of wholesale corruption in Floyd County Government. Mr. McKinney seems bent on expanding upon the initial negativism of the Bumper Sticker Campaign. He alleges that our government is corrupt and that public funds have been squandered. His campaign tactics were in appallingly poor taste and wholly inaccurate. The State Department of Local Government found Floyd County to be among the most fiscally sound governments in the Commonwealth. Moreover, I've been a voter in Floyd County for fourteen years. I have never been approached at a polling place by anyone who would attempt to influence my vote. Also, I have never witnessed any wrong doing at the polls. This is not to say that there have never been any violations of elections laws. I am suggesting that election law violations are not the norm as Mr. McKinney would have us believe.

The Bumper Sticker Campaign and Mr. McKinney's allegations are examples of uncontrolled displays of an attitude that has as its purpose the destruction of the public good of our local government. This attitude is damaging not only the image of local government, but also the new found pride that every Floyd Countian should feel about their home. These are indeed setbacks. But Floyd Countians are resilient. They will overcome this nonsense as soon as the election is over, and then get back to the business of working toward that vision of our future that our children deserve.

Why are we discriminated against?

Editor:
We, the citizens of Floyd County, who live on Rt. 7 above Wayland close to the Knott County line, would like to know why we are being discriminated against?

We have telephone services supplied by Thacker and Grigsby Telephone Company, though we pay Floyd County taxes. We have no ambulance service where we live. We feel this is due to us living in Floyd County and having a 447 phone number provided by Thacker and Grigsby Telephone Company in Knott County.

We need 911 ambulance services, regardless.

Editor:
I am trying to locate James Morton Morell Jr. and his son, James Morion Morell III, the latter who attend the Kentucky Military Institute from 1949 to 1950.

The last information indicated that they were living in Texas. If you, or anyone you know have their addresses, please send them to me, as I am now compiling Volume II of Reactions: A Portrait-Biography of the Kentucky Military Institute (1845-1971), Volume II. If James III can be located, his biographical sketch will be included in this edition of the KMI story.

Thank you for any information given.

Telephone discrimination

Editor:
I live in Floyd County, a county to be proud of, two miles above Wayland on Rt. 7. We pay taxes in Floyd County and in Knott County.

We do not have one of the services in our community most needed, a Floyd County telephone service. I had a 358 number since 1968-1975 and later my phone was changed to a Knott County number 447. Thacker and Grigsby telephone company out of Knott County. I can't call my daughter, doctor, dentist, bank, courthouse, friends and most of all an ambulance, if the number is other than 447 without it being long distance. We are being discriminated against in the worst way.

We pay taxes in one county and have a phone service and pay taxes in another county.

I believe everyone should have access to a phone service in the county in which they live.

Remembering Mr. Stumbo

Editor:
I am writing the following letter to the local paper where Mr. Stumbo had lived since 1959. I hope you will print this in your paper because many of his relatives and close friends need to know how much he meant to me. The days of summer are coming to an end. The advertisements for "Back to School" supplies and clothes appear and the thoughts of beginning the next step of learning fills the minds of many young people.

Teaching is a wonderful profession. In my experience there are many times where I have seen the contribution that a teacher can make in the life of a child. Not only teachers, but the entire learning community (secretaries, bus drivers, custodians, educational assistants, etc.) play an important role in the school life of a youngster.

It seems that as I grow older, I often think back to the people who have influenced me in my education during my early years. Growing up in Plattville, Illinois, was a special experience. I remember peddling to Corrigan's General Store on a Saturday morning to watch them cut some bacon from the slab. He would ask how thick, holding up his thumb and forefinger. Lal'orge's Store was my frequent stop for baseball cards, hoping that I would get one of my Yankee heroes.

At Plattville, where I spent my first eight years of school, I remember Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Ragnes, Mrs. Wallen, Mrs. Westphal and Mr. Stumbo, who was also my principal. Mr. Stumbo has been on my mind lately as I watch the bird feeders in my yard. I enjoy the finches, the woodpeckers and the cardinals and a recent visit from a house wren. It's really exciting to see a Baltimore Oriole on occasion. My interest and love for birds came from the lessons from the seventh and eighth grade room at Plattville with Mr. Stumbo. I remember the pictures placed all around the room and the excursions around Plattville to observe the variety of birds in the community.

I spent a recent afternoon golfing with my son, Jeremy. I went to the basement to get out my clubs for what has in recent years become only an annual outing. Reaching deep into my golf bag to find some tees, I found one with the name Jerry, Troy (our millman on the Plattville route) and Ed. Ed., of course, is Mr. Stumbo. I told Nancy, "I think we should keep this."

Mr. Stumbo has passed away now. I'll always remember the stories, the lessons that I learned, the good times that I had with him golfing at Earville. The love of birds is special, not only for me, but for my family as well. Jeremy and I saw an Indigo Bunting and Scarlet Tanager this spring. Jeremy said, "It was awesome."

Mr. Stumbo was my principal, my teacher and my friend. I remember him not for what he knew, but for how much he cared.

Teen rafter killed

A teen-age rafter was killed this weekend on the Russell Fork River—the first fatality to occur since white-water releases have taken place there.

A spokeswoman from the Breaks Interstate Park said 17-year-old Jason Chad Campbell of Erwin, Tennessee, was killed Saturday after falling from the raft in which he was riding.

According to Todd Rowe, an emergency medical technician with the Elkhorn City Ambulance Service, Campbell's foot got tangled in a rope which caused him to be held under water for about 20 minutes.

After his body was pulled from the river, the guide operating the Todd Rowe, an emergency medical technician with the Elkhorn City Ambulance Service, Campbell's foot got tangled in a rope which caused him to be held under water for about 20 minutes.

Med-Tech Ambulance owner Rick Branham said rescue workers had to walk about one and one-half miles to the scene of the accident and hand carry Campbell out.

Once they had reached the ambulance, Branham said advanced life support measures were begun, but Campbell did not respond. The teen-ager was taken to the Dickenson County, Virginia Medical Center.

Whitewater rafting has been available on the Russell Fork for only four years prior to this, but it has been rated one of the 10 wildest rafting experiences east of the Mississippi River.

Last year, the river attracted about 2,000 people, generating about $300,000 in local tourism revenue. — Appalachian News-Express

Mother and child killed in Johnson County traffic accident

A one-vehicle accident Monday afternoon has claimed the life of a Lawrence County woman and her daughter, and injured another passenger.

Dixie M. Stambaugh, 28, and her two-year-old daughter Jessica of Martha, were killed when Stambaugh apparently lost control of the 1970 Toyota pickup she was driving.

Stambaugh was traveling northbound on Ky-201 at Sucka in Johnson County when she dropped off the roadway and attempted to steer back onto the roadway and crossed both lanes, hitting a utility pole. Both victims were pronounced dead at the scene by Johnson County Coroner J. R. Frisby.

Charlie Clark, 41, of Paintsville, was a passenger in the vehicle. He was transported to Park B. Hall Medical Center in Paintsville and then transferred to Cabell-Huntington Hospital in Huntington, West Virginia where he is in stable condition. According to a Kentucky State Police report, there were no seat belts nor child safety seats in use. Trooper DeWayne Price was the investigating officer. — Staff report

"Sticking" with Christmas Seals helps fight lung disease in Eastern Kentucky

Beginning in October, and running throughout the holiday season the American Lung Association of Kentucky will send Christmas Seals to over 100,000 households statewide. Kentuckyans can show their support for the fight against lung disease, the nation's third leading killer by sucking the colorful seals on their holiday mail and packages.

Now in its 83rd year, the annual Christmas Seal campaign continues to be a leading source of funds for the fight against lung disease. Ninety cents out of every dollar contributed to Christmas Seals in Kentucky stays here to help fund research that the state's medical schools and provide a variety of programs and services statewide including support groups for adults with chronic lung disease, clinics for both adults and teens who want to quit smoking and elementary school education programs. In the Eastern Kentucky area, the Association works with volunteers to staff health fairs and speak to community and civic groups. This summer, in conjunction with Highlands Regional Medical Center and a corps of local volunteers, the Lung Association sponsored Eastern Kentucky's first "Camp Incredible," a week-long day camp for children with asthma.

Although the nature and treatment of lung disease have changed dramatically since proceeds from the first Christmas Seals were used to combat tuberculosis, Bob Florio, president of the American Lung Association of Kentucky says that now is no time to take strong, healthy lungs for granted. Says Florio, "With the death rate from lung disease growing faster than any other major illness, and with TB making a comeback, the need to fight lung disease is more urgent than ever."

An estimated 25 million Americans suffer from chronic lung disease, including nearly one in every ten Kentuckians. Kentucky ranks sixth in the nation from deaths due to chronic lung disease.

As to tuberculosis, after many decades of continuing to decline, even while national rates were increasing in 1992, Kentucky saw a 16 percent increase in reported cases of TB. A national Lung Association report shows that in 1992 Kentucky was among the eight states nationwide with the greatest increase of TB cases. According to the state Department of Health Services, in 1992 Cumberland County reported the state's highest rate of TB and the Lincoln Trail Region (Breckinridge, Cravens, Hardin, Letcher, Marion, Meade, Nelson and Washington counties) had the highest regional increase.

Florio notes that while these statistics are significant, they should not be discouraging. "We've seen some incredible advances in treating and preventing lung disease since the days when every man, woman, and child in this country were at risk from TB," he says, "and with the resources made possible by donations to Christmas Seals, we'll keep on working so that one day nobody in Kentucky will have to know what it's like to struggle to breathe."

To learn more about the Lung Association's programs and services, or to receive this year's Christmas Seals, contact the American Lung Association of Kentucky at 1-800-LUNGUSA.

the corporation. After Mayor Latta got the thumbs up from the city council to sell the tract to Pikeville National if it didn't interfere with the county's plans during the last city council meeting, two appraisals were completed.

The first appraisal, by Hanson and Cooley, estimated the value of the tract at $3,000. The second appraisal, by Dixon Numery, estimated the value at $3,150.

The corporation, after assuring the price was compatible with the overall appraisal of the parking lot, also done by Hanson and Cooley, and Dixon Numery, called for a vote and unanimously approved the sale to Pikeville National for $3,150.

The Corporation then went into executive session to discuss the sale of property.

Flu shots can be life savers for high-risk Kentuckians

With the flu bug making early news in some parts of the country this year, many Kentuckians are wondering if and when they should get a flu shot.

Kentucky Department of Health Services officials say that several groups of "high-risk" people should have the shots. Those people include anyone with chronic heart, lung or kidney disease or diabetes, as well as nursing home residents.

Plus, anyone older than age 65, regardless of their health, should be immunized. Physicians, nurses and other health care professionals who have contact with high-risk patients should also have a flu shot.

Although nearly anyone who wants to prevent catching the flu can get a shot, health officials recommend the immunizations particularly for high-risk groups because of the possibility of dangerous complications for elderly or chronically ill people.

"Likely people and those with chronic diseases are more likely to come down with potentially life-threatening complications, such as pneumonia," said Clarkson Palmer, M.D., the department's communicable disease branch manager.

"People in high-risk groups need a flu shot every year," he said.

Palmer says that the best time to get the shot for maximum protection is now through early November.

"Although the season in some areas is beginning earlier than usual, flu cases will inevitably be around well into January and February," he said. "In fact, flu season can linger into March, so it's important to have the protection for as long as possible."

Flu shots are available from private physicians and through local health departments. Kentuckians who plan to get their shots from the health department in their county should call to schedule an appointment.

Flu shots can be given to most people, except those with a severe allergy to eggs. People with short-term illnesses that include fever should put off getting the shot until they have recovered.

Pregnant women should consult with a doctor before having a flu shot.

People younger than 18 who come down with a flu-like illness should not take aspirin while sick because of the risk of Reye Syndrome, Palmer said. Reye Syndrome is a disease that affects the central nervous system and liver and is associated with the combination of flu and aspirin use in children and teenagers. The syndrome is fatal in 10 to 40 percent of the cases.

Parents should contact their child's doctor for alternatives to aspirin use during flu-like illnesses.

Biology interest group forms at PCC

A display of animal specimens, a video presentation on Alaskan brown bears, and a discussion of future activities occupied the science teachers, children and parents who attended the first meeting of the Community Biology Club on October 2 at Prestonsburg Community College.

Persons from throughout the Big Sandy area attended the meeting in PCC's zoology lab, led by animal biology professor Dr. John Shiber and sponsored by the college's Office of Continuing Education and Community Service.

The animal display proved to be an attention-getter, with older children copying written descriptions of the specimens, younger children drawing pictures of them, and parents reading to the younger ones.

The video of the bears, filmed last July by a friend of Shiber's at Katmai National Park in Alaska, showed how the animals poise themselves over the edge of the waterfall to catch the red salmon that are going upstream to spawn.

In the discussion session, participants agreed that future activities should be fun as well as instructional. They also decided to call on friends and acquaintances, as well as their own expertise, for future educational activities.

"The more people from the community involved, the more exciting and interesting the club will be," advised Shiber who gave participants articles he has written and brochures on such animals as turtles, snakes, shrimp and hermit crabs.

Future meetings and activities of the newly-formed club will be announced. For information, call Shiber at 886-3863, ext. 513, or the Continuing Education office at ext. 240.

"It is not a formal club," Shiber said, "so anyone can come to any of the meetings and activities that interest them."

The Community Biology Club is free and open to anyone with an interest in making science fun and understandable.

TO ALL FAIR-MINDED FLOYD COUNTIANS.

As your candidate for Floyd County Judge-Executive, I have had the unpleasant experience of being opposed by local radio station owners in both the past May primary and the upcoming general election. I have learned FIRST HAND that local radio station ownership gives QUICK AND CONTINUAL ACCESS to the airways and an UNLIMITED MEANS to LIE, SLANDER AND FALSELY ACCUSE. NEVER before have I experienced such MALICE AND EAGERNESS to INFLICT upon me, PERSONAL AND POLITICAL PAIN in an effort to GAIN for THEMSELVES, the Floyd County Judge/Executive's OFFICE.

I, along with every fair-minded Floyd Countain, CANNOT allow this to happen. Now more than ever, it is important that Floyd Countains choose to believe WHAT THEY CAN SEE, not what they hear. This is what you can SEE if you will LOOK:

* 617 FIRE HYDRANTS installed to provide fire protection.

- * 250 MILES of new WATER LINES to insure clean drinking water for our people.
- * 275 MILES of newly surfaced BLACKTOP, the first time in 20 years that blacktop has been placed in this county.
- * 9 recreational PARKS & FACILITIES for Floyd Countains.
- * 3 New SENIOR CITIZENS CENTERS, BETSY LAYNE, WAYLAND and WHEELWRIGHT.
- * 173 low rent HOUSING UNITS, 15 at Mud Creek, 50 at Minnie, 40 at Ivy Creek and 68 at Warco.
- * A new 105 BED COUNTY JAIL will be advertised for bids in October.
- * Participation with Martin and Johnson Counties for the completion of a NEW VETERANS HOSPITAL extended care facility, bringing 350 JOBS to Floyd County.
- * The location of RND Design, Inc. with 300 NEW JOBS for our people.
- * 4 NEW concrete BRIDGES and ONE now UNDER CONSTRUCTION at IVEL.

ALL of the above HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED through DILIGENT WORK by ME and MANY other COMMITTED PUBLIC and PRIVATE CITIZENS. This is TANGIBLE PROOF of MY COMMITMENT to YOU. This should speak louder to every fair-minded Floyd Countain than the words of my mean-spirited and malicious opponent. I CHALLENGE HIM to RAISE THE LEVEL OF HIS CAMPAIGN—FROM THE MUD—INTO THE LIGHT OF DAY. We are at a CRUCIAL TIME in our COUNTY'S HISTORY. Our citizens are WORTHY of a campaign that GIVES AN ACCOUNT for THAT URGENCY. Our PEOPLE ARE DESPERATE for JOBS and a NEW PROSPERITY. Your County JUDGE CAN CONTRIBUTE to meeting these NEEDS by diligent EFFORTS to BUILD THE ROAD SYSTEMS, WATER SYSTEMS AND SEWAGE SYSTEMS. VA distributes commemorative medal

The nation is honoring its World War I veterans one last time to honor them with a special medals commemorating their wartime service on the 75th anniversary of the armistice that ended "the war to end all wars." The medal is intended for every living U.S. veteran of World War I, estimated by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) at between 30,000 and 40,000.

John W. Hagan Jr., director of the VA Regional Office in Louisville, said an estimated 680 World War I veterans live in Kentucky.
The first medals were presented at ceremonies in Chicago on August 30, during the annual convention of the Veterans of World War I.

To receive the medal, World War I veterans or their representatives can obtain an application from the VA Regional Office or call toll free 1-800-827-1000, Hagan said.

In Loving Memory of my precious husband,

Paul Osborne
God called home
10-26-92 to be at rest.

God saw he was getting tired, And a cure was not to be. So, he put his arms around him, And whispered "Come with Me."

With tearful eyes we watched him suffer, And saw him fade away. Although we loved him dearly, We could not make him stay. A golden heart stopped beating, Hard-working hands to rest, God broke our hearts to prove to us, He only takes the best, I'll always love you dear, and sadly miss you forever.

Loving wife,
Alma and family

Alesha Ann Hunter

Alesha Ann Hunter born one bright sunny day August 12, 1980. The daughter of Roger Lee and Patricia Ann (Akers) Hunter. At birth she weighed 10 lbs. 9 ozs. She used to laugh about her weight and say she was the biggest baby in our whole family. As she grew up she used to worry about being short and didn't like to be called shorty. Then at the age of 11 she had a growth change and developed into a beautiful young lady. She had the creamiest dark brown eyes, like her mother. As she grew each year I saw so many things that she did that I used to do. The gestures, the smile, the warmth and love she gave. She was the most loving and giving person. Always worrying about the other person's feelings. She never complained when asked to help out and always willing, wanting to help please. Our child was one that always wanted things perfect. She would take hours doing her homework just to make it right. She was on the academic team for a while, often striving to be as smart and bright as the others. Many times I would say to her, be yourself little girl and that's good enough.

She had a spark about herself that could make everyone laugh. The joy our family shared with her will be forever remembered.

Her thirteenth birthday was last Thursday. She had friends in for a slumber party. They had been celebrating practice prior to the party. She was so excited and anxious for the girls to come. Everything was so perfect. She said to me the night before, "Mommy, I never want to get old," and she will now be forever young.

Our daughter was always concerned about being pretty. Her beautiful long hair had to be fixed just right. I reassured her over and over that she was a very pretty young lady.
Her brother and sister were very dear to her. She once wrote a paper for the young authors about her big brother and his basketball games. She idolized him and was very proud to be called Brian's little sister. It was exciting for her to go to the games and be a part of the activity. Her sister was special too, and she enjoyed going to cheerleading practice with her. They disagreed like all children, but she loved them both. We want them to always remember this and never have regret. Remember the happy times and the joy she brought.

Alesha loved to participate in cheerleading and was cheerleader for 9 years. She enjoyed dancing and loved to sing. Her father and she often disagreed on the radio stations. She loved rock-and-roll and the liked country music. There will never be a time that I turn the radio on that I won't think of her.
Our laughter was the apple of her father's eye. She was always teasing him about his figure. She would many times put on his stomach and laugh and say "fat belly." One could never get mad at her for her straight forwardness because she always did it in a joking way. The evening before her accident she helped her father take the yard, never turning a word.

Our daughter loved to go to work with me at the nursing home. She delighted in being around the elderly. So many children have that special gift that she had. She seemed to know what to say to make them laugh and be on their level. Children usually have other interests rather than being with the sick and old. My daughter had asked repeatedly to go to the nursing home to work with me last week. I refused each time because she was sick. Then on Wednesday I agreed to take her. It was my last day to work that week. She got up and humbly got ready, afraid she would make me late. I fixed her breakfast and then we left. I wish many times that I had never agreed, but then in my heart I know she was doing what she loved and that God must have had a better purpose for her when he took her away.
The accident we had to make concerning our child were hard to make but I have no regrets. I realized I had to let her go that night for she had already left us the day of the accident and only her body was being maintained. Her little spirit is with us looking down saying "Don't cry mommy, daddy, Brian and Elaine. I'll always be with you in your memories and now I'm with God." Every time we see or hear little things that will always be a reminder of something she did or said, and I guess we were blessed to have had her as long as we did. For she brought great joy and happiness to us all.

For all her little classmates and friends, I know you loved her dearly and are hurting, and it is a hurt that you don't quite understand. You may feel fear, confusion and a great loss. Often not knowing what to say, but remember, Alesha loved you all, each and every one of you have a special little memory of her. So think on the bright side and with time the hurt will eventually fade. Don't be afraid to cry, for tears are what heal, as never know what life may bring and one day they may not be there to show them. Don't put off things they want to do, because there again, the time may never come. I often think of things Alesha wanted to do and I would say we will when we get time, but time never came.
For all my nieces and nephews, I ask that you be good to each other. It's nature to quarrel and disagree, but you must always take time to say, "I love you."
For the grandparents, I know you feel as lost as we do, but Alesha could not have asked for any better ones. You loved her and she knew it. You now are left with the memories she gave you and the love she always had for you.

For Roger, Elaine, and Brian, we now have each other, and I hope and pray God will keep us safe and protected from harm for the rest of our lives together. My greatest fear was always that I would lose one of my children, and I guess the Lord had a purpose to try and prepare me.
Alesha's maternal grandparents are Elmer Walter Lee and Minnie Akers of Hotaker. Her paternal grandparents are Carter and Betty Jean Hunter of Little Mad.

She is the oldest of many uncles, aunts and cousins that will forever miss her presence and she still will always be in their thoughts.
Alesha loved you all very much, and it won't ever be the same without her.

Roger and I would like to thank each and every one of their prayers and for coming to be with us. The flowers were beautiful. I feel my heart would have said, "Mommy, look at all my beautiful flowers and all of the nice people here." For she was a flower herself and she loved everyone.

Alesha Ann Hunter passed away on August 19, 1993 at Cabell Huntington Hospital from injuries sustained in an automobile accident on August 18, 1993.

In Loving Memory, from her Mommy,
Patricia Ann Hunter

It's good to know it's all taken care of...

When a death occurs, many decisions have to be made for a funeral and burial. And they're all part of a seemingly endless number of things that need attention. Rather than leaving these decisions to your family, you can take care of them ahead of time with Forethought funeral planning.

Then, when the time comes, a single call to the funeral home should be all that's needed to put the process in motion.

The Prestonsburg Church of Christ held its first service on Sunday morning, January 2, 1966, in a rented building on North Lake Drive. Sixteen were present for that first service.

Bennie Blankenship, the congregation's minister, had left his job in the coal mines; and he and his family had moved to Prestonsburg from Weeksbury to establish the congregation; and he is still its minister today, after almost 28 years.

In the spring of 1966, a dwelling house on Earl Street was purchased and converted into a meeting place which served the congregation until February of 1969, at which time the present building (near the southern entrance to Jenny Wiley State Park) was completed.

Since its beginning on that wintry morning in 1966, the congregation has had tremendous growth and now averages about 200 in attendance. The congregation takes pride in the fact that in almost 28 years only three services have not been held: a Wednesday night service during the flood of 1977, because water surrounded the building; and two Sunday services during the blizzard of 1993, because no vehicles other than emergency vehicles were permitted to travel that day.

The congregation has a large group of young people, and its members are very active in the Lord's work. Recently, working with other area congregations, the congregation filled to capacity a large U-Haul truck with supplies for the flood victims in the midwest. Also, we are helping support five mission points besides our local work.

The Prestonsburg Church of Christ extends a warm welcome to you. We are just common, "everyday" people who believe the Bible to be the inspired word of God and who attempt to obey our Lord to the best of our ability. 2 Tim. 3:16,17.

We will begin a Gospel Meeting on Sunday, October 24th, which will run through Wednesday, October 27th. Service time each evening will be 7:00 p.m. Brother George Spivey of Sevierville, Tennessee, will be doing the preaching.

Come and worship with us! Bring your Bible, ask questions and study along with us. We would love to see you!

Isa. 1:18—Come let us reason together saith the Lord.

Kentuckians can apply for HEAP Winter heating help beginning Nov. 8

Fall's early arrival is a reminder for low-income Kentuckians who will need help with heating bills this winter to apply for the Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) beginning Nov. 8. HEAP subsidies for coal, electricity, fuel oil, gas and bottled gas or wood will be available for all eligible residents who apply between Nov. 8 and Dec. 10, through 23 local community action agencies. Mike Robinson, commissioner of the Department for Social Insurance (DSI) that oversees the federal HEAP program in Kentucky, said community action agencies will take applications on an alphabetical schedule again this year.

"If people can apply on a certain day according to their last name, they and other applicants can avoid waiting in long lines," he said. Residents should watch their local media for announcement of application locations in their area.

The department has earmarked around $14 million for the subsidy phase of HEAP, Robinson said. Last winter was fairly mild, he noted, and $14,082,065 was distributed in heating subsidies averaging just under $112 per family.

However, for families that find themselves in emergencies they could not have anticipated—facing fuel shutoff or eviction—about $5.8 million in HEAP funds has been set aside for crisis help beginning in January.

The regional agencies handling HEAP subsidies try to make the process simple, said Pat Bishop, Social Insurance energy assistance branch manager.

Those applying for heating help should bring their most recent heating bill, social security numbers of everyone in the household, and proof of family income. Proof may be in the form of paycheck stubs, benefit checks or award letters, or direct deposit slips.

Bishop said residents should also keep the application schedule handy for prompt help. "Also, if the head of the household or spouse can't apply in person, he or she should call the local community action agency to see if someone else can be designated to make the application."

No cash payments are made to recipients, he said.

For more information, call a local community action agency, the Kentucky Association for Community Action Agencies at 1-800-456-3452, or the Cabinet for Human Resources Ombudsman's Office at 1-800-372-2973 (TTY available). Schedule for Applying for Home Energy Assistance Program: A—Nov. 8; B—Nov. 9 and 10; C—Nov. 12 and 15; D, E—Nov. 16; F, G—Nov. 17; H—Nov. 18 and 22; I, J—Nov. 23; K, L—Nov. 24; M—Nov. 29 and 30; N, O, P—Dec. 1; Q, R—Dec. 2; S—Dec. 6 and 7; T, U, V—Dec. 8; W—Dec. 9; and X, Y, Z—Dec. 10.

World Food Day teleconference scheduled for Friday at PCC

Continuing Education/Community Services of Prestonsburg Community College will present a World Food Day PBS Teleconference entitled "Seeds of Conflict: Biodiversity in the Food Supply" on Friday, October 15, from 12:00-3:00 p.m. in Johnson 102 on the PCC Campus.

The program will provide participants and other interested individuals with the latest information about hunger and aid programs throughout the world. This year, an expert group of panelists will discuss how the safety of the global food supplies in the 21st century will depend on how quickly and forcefully governments and the international community act to preserve and protect the world's plant genetic resource base.

A local panel consisting of area social agency officials and PCC professors, including Debbie Amburgey, Keith Smallwood, Floyd Davis, and Dr. John Shiber, will join the national and international panelists.

The workshop is free and everyone is welcome to attend.

New KET spots features crafts, talented artisans

Terry Rathiff, a native of Floyd County will be featured in a short KET program depicting talented crafts people.

The path leading to the crafts seems as interesting and varied as the craftsmen themselves, says Marsha Hilliard, director of new short programs depicting the craft process as practiced by some of Kentucky's most talented artists. The five-minute programs, produced by KET, commemorate the Year of the American Craft with a focus on programs beginning this month on KET 1.

The crafts and crafts people featured in the KET spots were selected by KET from recommendations by the Kentucky Art & Craft Foundation and the Kentucky Craft Marketing Program, a division of the Kentucky Arts Council in the Education, Arts and Humanities Cabinet. They include Rathiff, a furniture maker who uses hand tools to fashion beautiful furniture from trees felled by his native Floyd County.

Social Security Number

Do you have a Social Security Number? Do you know where you got someone as going for your Social Security number? Many businesses and schools use the Social Security number as an identification number for their records. Employers use the Social Security number to report tax information required by the Internal Revenue Service. And of course we use your Social Security numbers to keep a record of your earnings while you're working and a record of your benefits once you're receiving Social Security checks.

It's important to know that you must apply for a Social Security Number. You can't just get one because you're a child in the United States or the age of one needs a Social Security number to be claimed as a dependent on his or her parent's income tax return.

If you do not have a Social Security number, you should apply for one. Social Security has a toll-free telephone for this service. To apply by telephone, call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, and ask for a form SS-5. Application for a Social Security Card. You may also ask for this form at a Social Security office near where you live. There are 450 offices, your first call to a Social Security office is free of charge.

You must provide your birth certificate and some form of identification. You may use a school record or medical record as identification. If you're not a U.S. citizen, other documents are necessary to get a number. Check with Social Security for more information.

If you have lost your card, you can get a replacement card by filling out the same form and providing identification.

You also may apply for a Social Security card if you have a foreign birth date so you can get a new Social Security card. The new card will have your old Social Security number but will show your new birth date. You do not need a Social Security number to get a new Social Security card. To apply by telephone, call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, and ask for a form SS-5. You may also apply for a new Social Security card at a Social Security office near where you live.

old name and your new name. For example, a marriage certificate, a divorce decree or a court order that changes your name.

All documents which you use for identification purposes must be original documents or certified copies of the documents. Uncertified photocopies of these documents are not acceptable. Take or mail the completed SS-5 and the documents to your nearest Social Security office. Your documents will be returned to you right away.

If you have any questions about applying for a Social Security card, or about the documents you need to show us, contact your nearest Social Security office. You may also call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, business days between 7:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. for help.

Happy Birthday wishes

A big happy birthday wish to Jason Bevins of the Allen Central Rebels. Jason turned 16 this past Friday. His present? A new truck. Happy birthday, Jason!

There's still another one...

A belated happy birthday to Jon Morris of the Prestonsburg Blackcats. Jon turned 15 yesterday, October 12. Happy birthday, Jon!

Good to be back!

It's good to be back at the old desk and pecking away at the computer keys once again. I have missed some events, but several got in the sports section anyway.

I made a trip to St. Mary's, Ohio to visit with my sister and other family members. Had a great trip. The weather was just right (like baby bears soup).

Massacres!

Are they necessary?

I do want to touch on something that took place just prior to going on vacation and that is the two massacres that took place against two Floyd County teams.

Jenkins roughed up the Allen Central Rebels 81-0 in a home football contest and Pikeville blitzed the South Floyd Raiders by the same score.

I didn't get to see the Allen Central ambush, but I was at the South Floyd game. I do not think it is necessary for one team to pour it on another the way Jenkins and Pikeville did.

I know the saying, "You can't tell your players to not try." No, you can't. But you can take the opportunity to play some of your younger players.

Pikeville did in the final minute of the game. I think we need a ruling in high school football — a "mercy rule" much like baseball. If a team is down drastically, then the game should be called. There is no use in demoralizing a group of young men when it is not necessary.

Jenkins ran their score up the week before Pikeville played South Floyd. Pikeville, who was scheduled to play Jenkins in a district game a week later, played like they had a point to make — that being that they can score big also. With the score 80-0 in the waning seconds, the Panthers went for the PAT rather than run the two-point conversion play to make it 81-0.

On the sidelines you could see the dejection, as a result of the beating, in the South Floyd players. I again, I say that the Pikeville score was not necessary just as the Jenkins score was not necessary. I have seen the Prestonsburg Blackcats have several opponents down by a large margin at half-time and, if they wanted to, could have embarrassed some teams by running the score up. But Coach Bill Letton is too much of a class act to do that. In the second half, he will insert his junior varsity and even go down to his freshmen team in the fourth period.

Allen Central fans who attended the Jenkins game came away with a sour opinion of the Jenkins' program. Several thought the massacre was deliberate. I don't know. But the Pikeville game could have been more controlled than what it was. I do know that.

Basketball practice starts Friday...

Football's regular season has three weeks to run its course and the Blackcats will be going into the playoffs in November. Allen Central still has an outside shot of a playoff berth, but they will have to win their remaining two district games against South Floyd and Phelps. It is really a long shot but they could do it.

While the football season is winding down, the basketball season is just ahead of us. High schools will officially start practice this Friday (October 15) and I know some coaches who are

Contests, prizes, old cars just part of Red, White and Blue

It all happens this Saturday at the First Guaranty National Bank parking lot.

The 6th Annual First Guaranty National Bank Red, White and Blue Car Show will feature some of the area's top antiques cars as well as some modern day entries.

The show is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday with the registration of cars that motor in. It will be one busy place as car enthusiasts from all over converge on the parking lot. According to show director Tina Mills, the show is being geared up for the kids this year.

"We are going to have a lot of things for the kids," she said. "We will have the Purple Dinosaur in attendance. We are going to have the Hooola Hoop contest as well. We're just adding more and more all the time."

Mills confessed that she is praying that the rains will once again stay away as the show begins its sixth season.

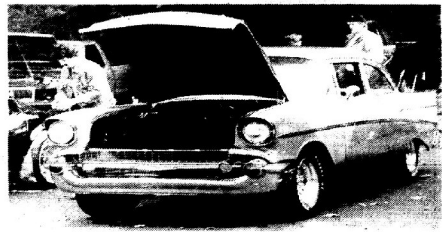

"God has smiled down on us and not let it rain on any of the other shows," she said. "We're praying that it doesn't rain this year."

PRIZES GALORE...

It will be just about like Christmas around the car show with all the prizes to be given away. A $1,000 savings bond will awarded to the Best of Show out of the 40 different classes that will be judged.

Other saving bonds in the amount of $100 and $50 will also be given

Everyone plays!

Junior varsity quarterback Keith Marsillett prepared to hand off to Matt Porter as the Prestonsburg Blackcats faced Magoffin County last Friday night. Blackcats win over Magoffin, 47-7

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Take your pick. Whoddyou like? There were many standouts in the Magoffin County and Prestonsburg game last Friday night at the Prestonsburg stadium.

Before a huge homecoming crowd, Prestonsburg defeated the Hornets 47-7 in go 7-0 on the season. The Blackcats lead their district with a perfect 4-0 mark.

Picking an outstanding player or unit in this game is most difficult. The defense for the Blackcats made things miserable all night for sophomore quarterback Mike Caba. The rush of Kevin Vaughn, Brad Wells, Kyle Fitzpatrick and Ryan Elliott kept the Hornet signal caller scampering all night.

The defense all but shut down any holes for Magoffin's running game as they held the Hornets to just plus three yards rushing.

The Hornets only netted 132 yards on offense and 129 of those came through the air. Caba, who's going to be a very strong quarterback, had seven completions for the yardage.

The longest gainers for the Hornets on the ground came on 8-yard runs by Caba and running back Grayson Smith. Magoffin County just could not open up any holes in the Prestonsburg line.

Then there was the Prestonsburg offense. If anyone is still looking for signs of timidity on the part of Dwayne Garza and Seth Hyden, forget it. Both were their old selves. Adding the running of Jody Cornette, they accounted for 299 yards of the Blackcats' 424 yards rushing.

Hyden had a "season" with 121 yards on just seven carries. The tailback ran the ball into the end zone for three touchdowns with runs of 37, 14 and 45 yards.

Cornette continues to run the football strong for his ballclub. He carried the ball only three times for 107 yards. He took the ball from his own 15-yard line and galloped 85 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter. That play gave the Blackcats a 27-0 lead.

Garza seems to be running like the "old" Garza fans knew before he injured his knee last year in the playoffs. The fullback totaled 71 yards on nine carries.

Clint Shutts had three receptions for 48 yards and made two sensational catches. Cory Reitz had one reception for a 56-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Thomas Rath.

John Stout drilled five extra points kicking the football. Stout has been consistently splitting the uprights all season.

Magoffin County became only the third team to score against Prestonsburg this season and only the second team to score a touchdown.

The strike came in the final period against the Blackcats junior varsity with 4:33 left to play. Caba hit end Chad Weddington with a 58-yard completion that put the ball on the Blackcats 4-yard line. Smith carried the football into the end zone for the

Keith Hamilton's late interception gives Betsy Layne Bobcats 20-14 win at Berea

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach John Derosset's Betsy Layne Bobcats won their second consecutive game and went over 500 with a 4-3 mark in one of the best seasons a Bobcat team has enjoyed in recent years.

The Cats traveled to Berea and clawed out a 20-14 win for their second straight victory.

Keith Hamilton came up with what proved to be the big play when he pulled down an interception of a Berea pass and returned the football 78 yards for the winning touchdown in the fourth period.

The two teams battled to a 14-14 standoff in the first half and it was a defensive duel in the third and fourth periods until Hamilton came up with the big play.

Betsy Layne was playing without the services of Craig Hamilton, who broke his arm in practice and will miss the remainder of the season. The freshman back was a big part of the Bobcats' offense as well as defense.

Betsy Layne kicked off to Berea to start the game, but the Bobcats' defense held as Rodney Hamilton came up with a fumble recovery.

On their first possession, the Bobcats matched up the field and scored on a 7-yard run by Rocky Hamilton. Brent Akers two-point conversion run gave Betsy Layne a 8-0 lead.

Anthony Justice scored for Berea when he ran in from 12 yards out and the two-point conversion was good for a 8-8 ball game.

In the second period, quarterback Keith Hamilton scored on a keeper from 5 yards out to give the Bobcats a 14-6 advantage. The conversion run failed.

Berea struck quickly to tie the game at 14-14 and the first half ended the same.

In the fourth quarter, Berea was on a drive and looking to score until Hamilton made the big interception play.

Later in the fourth quarter after the score, Betsy Layne again had the football and marched 78 yards only to see it stall out. However, the drive ran some time off the clock and Berea did not have time to put together any offense as the clock expired.

On the defensive side of the football, Rocky Hamilton, Jason Hamilton and Bubba Combs came up with some big defensive plays for Coach Derosset. Jamie Robinette and Jackie Bush, along with Adam Roberts, had impressive outings.

When the Bobcats needed short yardage they went to the right man in Rocky Hamilton. Hamilton, who finished with 138 yards on 27 carries, picked up several Bobcat first downs with short yardage runs.

"Adam (Roberts) had a good game for us rushing," said Coach Derosset. "He ran the ball up the middle and played hard for us." Roberts finished with 42 yards on six carries.

"Rocky came up with some big plays for us on short yardage," said Derosset. "Bret (Akers) had two key first down receptions for us on third and long."

"Loving Craig (Hamilton) in practice this week to a broken arm forced us to move some people around," Derosset said. "Our players responded real well and picked up the slack in Craig's absence."

Coach Derosset said that it was a great game for his ballclub, but the bottom line is that he won.

"I tell our players we will be in a fight to win any game we play," he

Rebels win led by Floyd, Jenkins in 32-8 victory

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Glenn Reeves' Allen Central Rebels came back from a stunning loss to Betsy Layne two weeks ago and handed 3A school McCreary Central a 32-8 setback this past Friday night. The Rebels improved to 3-4 on the season.

Fullback Glenn Floyd continued to carry the football for the Rebels and racked up 160 yards on 17 carries. Floyd, who totaled 228 yards versus Betsy Layne, has rushed for 388 yards in his last two games.

He also scored two touchdowns in the win over McCreary Central, both coming in the first period. He scored on a 23-yard run in the first quarter. Then toward the end of the period he crossed the goal line from 35 yards out and gave the Rebels' a 14-0 lead. James Osborne ran both conversion plays.

Floyd had help in the win last Friday night as freshman Thomas Jenkins continued to look like a seasoned veteran with two receptions for 82 yards in the game. Both catches were for touchdowns. His first reception was for 7 yards in the second quarter and he then pulled down a 75-yard reception for a score, also in the second period.

"Thomas hadn't played much football before this year, but he certainly is doing a good job for us," said Coach Reeves.

Jenkins' two TDs gave the Rebels a 26-0 halftime lead. McCreary Central put eight points on the scoreboard in the third period for a 26-8 game.

The Rebels' final score came on a 3-yard run by Shawn Howard. Howard had 68 yards rushing on 10 carries and he is having the football put into his hands more on offense.

Coach Reeves made one change in his lineup which proved to be a good move. Adam Coleman, backup quarterback, was inserted into a starting role as the signal caller for the Rebels Friday night. He responded with five completions for 129 yards passing.

"It was a move we felt we needed to make," said Coach Reeves. "He had only one interception and that was because of a young mistake."

Brad Blackburn, who started his first six games at quarterback, was moved to a linebacker slot where he also proved that was a good move. Blackburn came up with three solo hits and seven assists.

"Brad did a fantastic job for us at the linebacker position," said Reeves. "I think Brad was happy with the move. He likes to play defense and he does such a great job of it."

Osborne carried the football nine times for the Rebels in rushing for 35 yards. Beau Tackett saw some time in the backfield and carried for 20 yards on two attempts.

Defensively, a trio of defenders stood out for the Rebels. Josh Reeves had 12 tackles with two first hits and 10 assists. Scott Bellemey came up with 12 tackles and five were solo hits and seven assists.

Charlie Wade had 10 tackles (seven first hits and three assists). Shawn Howard had five (one solo and four assists). Howard also had a fumble recovery.

A Look At Sports

chomping at the bits to get started. Allen Central has been named for the top spot in the 15th Region. Many are courting the Elkhorn City Cougars, but I will go with the Rebels.

South Floyd, A definite surprise this year. The Raiders will have a very successful first year as a new school. A good blend of players returns from Wheelwright and McDowell. Look for a top five ranking in the region.

Prestonsburg Blackcats. Small but quick. The Blackcats will be missing all the height in the middle but look for the refs to run down. Don't overlook this team in the region. A good seventh place team in the region.

Betsy Layne Bobcats. The Bobcats will return a good balanced ballclub this season. Like everyone else, they will be hurting for height.

Betsy Layne will have the scorers from the outside and must develop an inside game to keep the defense honest. Region's 10th best.

Women's district should be close one.

This should be a good year for the women's 58th District race. All four teams will have a shot at it this season. The Allen Central Lady Rebels will be shooting for a fourth straight district championship. But there may be a little more competition than the Lady Rebs have seen in the past three seasons.

Betsy Layne Lady Cats. Definitely the top choice for a district title this year. A strong team returns that knows how to shoot the basketball as well as play defense.

The Lady Cats should be one of the 15th Region's top five teams.

Allen Central Lady Rebels. The Lady Rebs were hit hard by graduation last season but don't shed any tears for this ballclub. They will still be a very strong and competitive team in 1993-94.

With the right chemistry, they could possibly win a fourth consecutive title.

Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats. Like Allen Central, a lot of talent departed after last season. The Lady Blackcats will have to look to some young, but talented, players to carry the load this season.

Should be a quick team with excellent outside scoring ability. A sleeper in the 58th district race for a district title.

South Floyd Lady Raiders. When you have a school consolidation, the tendency is to not have too much respect for the new program until it proves itself. Not so with the Lady Raiders. They will be competition for anyone from the first game on.

A good combination of players will make up this ballclub with strong inside play as well as the outside shot. The Cinderella of the 58th District. Not to be overlooked.

The women and men's teams will play on separate dates. Even the conference schedule will be an afterthought. Look for a very competitive race for the district championship this year.

Elementary basketball.

The elementary girls gets underway around the middle of November and should be a great grade school season.

Grade school basketball is the quality single sport. It ranks as number one in fan support. And it ranks as if the chess of the county championship will be a good one this season.

We will have our first Floyd County Elementary Basketball Lab this basketball season if the business will cooperate with me. Pictures, stories and prizes will fill the pages.

To all grade school basketball coaches. I would like to have your schedules as soon as you can get them to me.

Get well, Ronnie...

We all wish Ronnie Sammons of Allentown a speedy recovery. Ronnie had knee surgery on a torn cartilage in his right knee. Get well soon, old buddy.

Finally this...

Some have been wondering why Jeremy Rogers hasn't been playing football for the Betsy Layne Bobcats. His mother, Rita Rogers, tells us that he injured himself back in the first part of September. He has a torn knee ligament.

Says Mrs. Rogers, "Jeremy loved playing football and will probably play again next year."

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports. It's good to be back.

Blackcats

score and Caba added the PAT. Sophomore Chris Spurlock scored the final touchdown for the Blackcats that gave them a 47-0 lead. Spurlock ran the ball in from 2 yards out and Stout kicked the extra point.

Freshman Tom Morris had a good game with 73 yards on five carries, all in the fourth quarter. Junior Blake Leske had his turn in the backfield and rushed for 43 yards on three attempts.

Prestonsburg scored on their first possession of the football game as keeper by Ratliff. Ratliff scored on a 63 yard run and Stout's extra point made it 7-0.

In the drive that took 10 plays and covered 74 yards, the Blackcats were faced with a fourth and five situation. Heading to go for the first down, Corneer ran for 18 yards, putting the ball on the Hornets 22-yard line. Eight-yard pick ups by Garza and Hayden set the ball up for the Hornets six. On a third-and-one with 11:51 left in the second quarter, Ratliff hit Kentz with a 56-yard touchdown pass and Stout's PAT put the Cats up 14-0.

It was three downs and out for the Hornets as they could find no running room against the Blackcats line. With 8:26 left in the half, Seth Hayden broke tackle and raced 31 yards for his first of three TDs and a 20-0 ball game.

The Blackcats took a 34-0 half-time lead to the locker room after Corneer's long 88 yard scoring run and Hayden's 14 yard romp with 55 seconds left in the half. Stout made good on both PATs.

Magoffin County finally moved into Blackcats territory in the third period where they made it to the Blackcats 37. But the Hornets were forced to punt the football and the Cats took over on their own 1 yard line. An out-of-side call put the ball half the distance and the Blackcats found themselves in a hole.

The hole wasn't deep enough to hold the Blackcats as pick ups of four and seven yards by Garza moved the ball out to the 13. Following a delay of game penalty against Prestonsburg, Hayden picked up 3 yards and then Ratliff hit Shotts with a 32-yard completion that Shotts made a super catch of.

With the ball on the Hornets 45, Hayden broke around end and went the 45 yards for the score and a 40-0 game.

The Hornets had excellent field position on the Blackcats as they recovered a Prestonsburg fumble on a punt return at the Blackcats' 30-yard line. But the Hornets had a pass intercepted with two seconds left in the third quarter to end the drive.

Prestonsburg had 528 yards on offense and fumbled the football one time. Ratliff had one pass intercepted.

The Cats were penalized six times for 30 yards.

Magoffin County totaled only 132 yards on offense. Smith was the leading rusher with 15 yards on five carries. Weddington had one reception for 58 yards and Ward had two for 39 yards.

Prestonsburg will travel to Shelton

Clark for a district game with the Cardinals this Friday night.

said. "This season's playoffs will be the toughest for me."

The fan support for the Bobcats has been outstanding all season and over 200 fans tracked their way to Berea to watch the Bobcats win.

The fan support for this team is unbelievable," said the Bobcats coach. "Over 200 fans traveled three hours to watch us play."

After the game the parents of the players put together a tailgate party. It was really appreciated by the players," Derross said.

Three games remain on the Bobcats schedule and according to Derross, they will be three of his team's toughest.

We will face some of our best competition all year," he said. "Kentucky's top of the line KSD has the Patrick Harris kid. He's the top of player that if you miss him, you won't have a second chance. So we want to stop him before he gets started."

We're really not looking any farther than the KSD game," said Derross. "We're just taking them one game at a time. KSD is 7-0 this season so that would be a huge win for our program."

Betsy Layne totaled 279 yards on offense in Friday night's contest. Rocky Hamilton's 138 yards led the ground game. Robinette picked up 45 yards on two receptions. Akers two catches covered 28 yards.

Betsy Layne will face KSD this Thursday night in the schools' 15th homecoming game. The festivities will get under way around 6:10 p.m. with kickoff scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

Efforts begin to restore Dewey Lake back to fishing paradise

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

State Representative Greg Stumbo is spearheading a drive to bring fishing respectability back to the Dewey Lake "fishing hole" after complaints from local sportsmanship over the lack of fish in the lake.

"Dewey Lake does have some problems with the fish population and several sportsmen have registered complaints about it and justifiably so," said Stumbo. "We hope to begin resolving these problems and restore the lake back to being a good fishing spot."

Stumbo confesses he is not a biologist, so he has enlisted the help of new Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Resource commissioner Tom Bennett.

"We have taken the problem to Tom," said Stumbo, "and he has gotten right on it. He is a very energetic person and a nice guy to go with it."

While other experiments to improve the fishing population at other lakes such as Carr Fork have been successful, the same experiments will not work at Dewey Lake, Stumbo said he was told.

"At Carr Fork they used a liquid fertilizer to cause the algae to grow, but they say the experiment will not work here at Dewey Lake. They say they need clean water for the experiment to work."

Stumbo plans to send a letter to Congressman Hal Rogers outlining a plan to bring Dewey Lake back to the prominence it once knew as a favorite fishing spot. However, the State Representative believes now is the time to act and, if not, then the problem will become worse.

"We are hopeful we have started a mode to get others to look into the problem at Dewey Lake," said Stumbo. "They have stocked the lake with 17,000 stripe hybrid bass with 5,000 more to come."

"I am going to ask for a meeting with the Corp of Engineers and ask Hal Rogers to get with the corp and see what can be done. We also want the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Resource people to meet with us also and help us get the lake back to being a good place to fish."

Stumbo said that while stocking the lake with fish is good, it is for a short term.

"We want to provide a sporting opportunity for our area sportsmen," he said. "I believe one of the problems we have at Dewey Lake is that when they built the lake, they did not leave any trees or rock formations."

"Like I said, I am not a biologist, but maybe if they could draw the lake down and create construction of the things needed it would help."

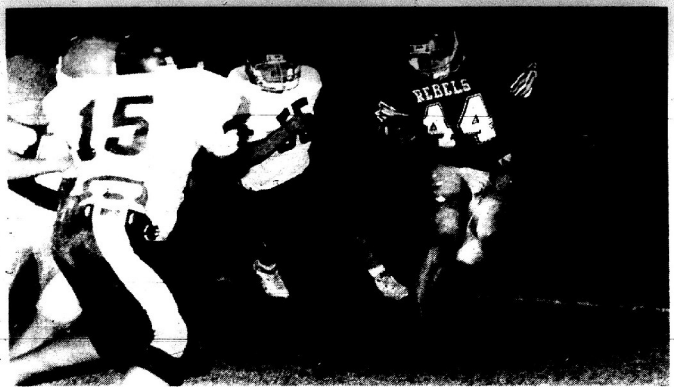

"It would cost some bucks and help would have to come from the federal government. We are looking into it and are trying to find a solution to the problem."

While a meeting with all concerned has not taken place yet, Stumbo thinks that all involved parties could get together very soon in search for a solution.

Patrick Harris single-handedly dismantles South Floyd 46-11

By Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Kentucky School of the Deaf (KSD) running back Patrick Harris took a ticking but kept on ticking, as he continued to be the second top rusher in the state after a stellar performance against South Floyd last Thursday night.

Harris rambled for 339 yards against the Raiders in leading his ballclub to a 46-11 win. The victory improved KSD to 6-0 on the season. South Floyd is still looking for their first win with three games to play. The Raiders are 0-2.

Harris took things into his own hands as he scored six touchdowns to single-handedly defeat the Raiders. "At one time, and I'm not kidding," said Coach Donnie Daniels, "we hit him four times and could not stop him. He was like a popcorn kernel — he would pop up and go."

He just hurdled a group of our tacklers and went for the touchdown. I believe the kid is twice as strong as he was last year.

Harris scored the first of his six TDs on a 33-yard run in the first period. Matt Callahan added the PAT for a 7-0 game. "I didn't take long for the fleet-footed Harris to make it 14-0 as he scampered 26 yards for the goal line and Callahan again added the extra point.

The Raiders made it a 14-11 game after Chad Stone took a pass from quarterback Aaron Hall for a 28-yard touchdown pass. Hall on a keeper scored the two-point conversion. Jimmy Mason later kicked a 31-yard field goal.

Harris scored on a 14-yard run and Mike Schilling added the extra point as KSD took a 22-11 lead into the locker room.

In the second half, it was still all Harris who scored runs of 43 and 84 yards. The defense scored on TD for KSD when Ed Beane III picked off a Raider pass and returned it 35 yards for the touchdown. Harris scored the final TD for KSD on a 35-yard run.

"We had a lot of first hits," said

Coach Daniels of his team's defense, but we did not have any tackles." South Floyd totaled 84 yards on the ground and had 96 yards through the air. Coach Daniels experimented in the second half moving Hall from the quarterback position to fullback and bringing in Terrence Mellins at QB. But the change was only an experiment.

"Aaron is still my starting quarterback," said Daniels of the move. "We just wanted to look at some things for next year."

Stone was the Raiders' leading rusher with 31 yards on 11 carries. Hall picked up 16 yards on seven attempts. Stone had the one reception for 28 yards and a touchdown.

With the six touchdowns, Harris continues to lead the state in scoring. Harris has scored 28 touchdowns and five two-point conversions for 178 points and has rushed for 1,147 yards on 90 carries.

"It was a sweep then a toss right, toss left," said Daniels of Harris' performance. "KSD is a good ball club. Their line is better than in past years. They have a good, scrappy bunch of kids."

Daniels was not all that disappointed in the way his players played. "I thought Chad (Stone) played a good game for us," said Daniels. "He and Adam Wright played well. I think they could run harder than they have been. They need to show more quickness. I believe they have more quickness and are not utilizing it."

receptions tonight for over 30 yards on both catches. Cruse Caudill played a solid game for us on defense as did John Caudill. John was our defensive player of the game.

"We have two games left on the schedule and we will just go out and play hard and try our best. We're looking toward the year. We have Allen Central coming up next and we always play hard against them."

While his team did not get a whole lot done at KSD, Daniels said that his team was still in the playoff picture, but barely.

"We still have a chance, although it is a slim one," said the Raiders' coach. "Hopefully we can get there. We'll just regroup and go on."

South Floyd turned the football over twice on a fumble and one interception.

Bear Stephens had three good returns for the Raiders and "he is going to be a good one if I can ever teach him how to catch the football," said Daniels.

"We'll play hard in these last two games. If we keep mentally sound we'll have no problems."

The Raiders have been playing with the loss of two top players who were suspended three weeks ago.

South Floyd will enter the "Battle of the Beavers" this Friday night when they travel to the Don Daniels Athletic Complex at Allen Central. They then will have an open date and then close out the season at home against Elkhorn City.

Bobcats hope to make it three in a row...

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Riding a two-game winning streak, the Betsy Layne Bobcats have set themselves to welcome the Kentucky School for the Deaf at tomorrow night's homecoming game at the Lloyd Hamilton Athletic Complex.

KSD comes into the contest as one of the state's undefeated teams with a perfect 7-0 record.

Betsy Layne, who has taken care of Allen Central and Berea in their last two games, would like nothing more than to be the first team that hands the Colonels their first loss of the season.

Coach John Derossett's ballclub is currently 4-3 on the season and they are not taking KSD lightly as they prepare to hold their 15th annual homecoming event. The Bobcats know the reputation Patrick Harris brings to the Hamilton Complex.

"They have the Harris kid who is one of the top rushers in the state," said Coach Derossett. Derossett said that a win over the Colonels tomorrow night would be a boost to the Bobcats' season.

"A win over KSD would be a huge win for this football program," said Coach Derossett earlier.

One of the reasons for the Bobcats' success the last two weeks has been the play of Rocky Hamilton and quarterback Keith Hamilton. Rocky Hamilton has been on a tear of late and scored three touchdowns while rushing for 168 yards against Berea last Friday night.

Keith Hamilton has become one of the better option quarterbacks and can run as well as pass the football.

Hamilton had five completions against Berea for 76 yards passing. He also carried the football five times for 17 yards.

Adam Roberts came out of the backfield for the Bobcats and picked up 42 yards rushing, and he played a strong game on the defensive side of the football.

Hamilton has the targets to throw to in Jamie Robinette and Bret Akers. Robinette had two catches for 45 yards last Friday. Akers had two for 28 yards.

Brandon "Bubba" Combs continues to lead the defensive line along with Jason Hamilton, Jackie Bush, Robinette and Roberts.

Betsy Layne's defense will have their hands full against Harris who is just as quick and possesses very good speed. Getting to Harris before he gets his jump will be important to the Bobcats' defense. Derossett said that Harris was the kind of runner that if you miss him the first time, "you won't have a second chance."

Lost to the Bobcats' offense and defense in tomorrow night's homecoming game will be freshman Craig Johnson. Johnson has been one of the top rushers for Derossett's ballclub this season, as well as a defensive standout.

Johnson broke his arm last week in practice and, in all probability, he will be lost for the remaining three games. The loss of Johnson forced Coach Derossett to move some key players around, but the response was positive.

Game time for the homecoming has been changed from the original scheduled time of 7:30 p.m. Homecoming activities will get underway at 6:10 p.m. and kickoff for the game has been moved back to 6:30 p.m. A large crowd is expected for the game.

State's leading scorer visits Betsy Layne....

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Football fans who will be attending the homecoming game at Betsy Layne tomorrow night will want to keep their eye on player number 11 of the Kentucky School for the Deaf. Patrick Harris will be wearing number 11 and he is one of the state's best.

A sophomore at KSD, Harris is currently the leading scorer in the state of Kentucky and the state second leading rusher. He has carried the football 90 times this season in accumulating 1,147 yards. He has scored 28 touchdowns and five two-point conversions to lead the state.

Last Thursday, Harris blitzed the South Floyd Raiders with 339 yards and scored six touchdowns in leading his team to their seventh consecutive win against no losses.

Harris appears to be much quicker and stronger this season and could prove to be a problem for the Betsy Layne Bobcats tomorrow night when he comes to town.

The key, if there is one, to stopping Harris may be what Betsy Layne Coach John Derosssett has in mind -- stop him early. Once outside on the sweep, Harris is hard to contain because of his quickness.

Not only is he quick, but he is a strong running back. Coach Donny Daniels of the South Floyd Raiders stated that his team hit Harris four times and he came popping back and going on.

The defensive line, while not so big for the Colonels, is surprisingly quick.

While Harris appears to be the Colonels' top offensive player, there are others. A.J. Butts will be the team's quarterback and will look for Harris most of the time. The Colonels are not a passing team and will keep the football on the ground. The Colonels are an excellent third and short, as well as fourth and short, team.

Butts will throw out in the flats for Harris as well as Mike Schilling. But mostly it's a swing pass right or left, looking for Harris.

The only common team that the two have played against this season has been South Floyd. Betsy Layne owns a season opening win over the Raiders and the Colonels posted a 46-11 setback on South Floyd last weekend.

The Colonels will not go very big on the line with Brad Rigney, tackle, weighing in at 295. Another tackle is Scotty Weaver at 251.

Anthony Jackson will join Harris in the backfield but mostly as a blocking back. Ed Greer will be at the fullback slot.

Betsy Layne, who has some good defensive outings, will have their work cut out for them against the Colonels.

However, the Bobcats take pride in their defensive efforts and if they are capable of slowing down Harris, win number five could become a reality.

Betsy Layne should matchup well with KSD on the defensive line. The mismatch is going to be in the backfield, but some ground could be picked up in the passing game in which Betsy Layne should have the advantage.

Game Notes

- Missing from the Bobcats lineup will be Craig Hamilton who has a broken arm.
- Betsy Layne will be looking to go 5-3 for the first time since the late 70s.
- Senior Sherman Sanders of KSD is from Betsy Layne.
- Note time change.

Watch for deer on roads

The Kentucky archery deer season opened October 1 and that signals the time to become especially alert for deer crossing roads and highways.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is encouraging motorists to take extra care during the fall season. The peak of the whitetail mating season doesn't occur until mid-November. This is the time when bucks in particular begin moving more frequently from area to area in search of does that are ready to breed. White-tail bucks may breed with over 20 does a season; however, it is the doe that determines when breeding will take place. Bucks continually check for does that are receptive, which occurs from October sometimes into January.

The increased human activity in the woods at the onset of the deer hunting season will also cause deer to venture into places they may not usually be found. Deer generally try to avoid contact with humans.

Kentucky motorists should be aware that while deer can cross roads and highways at anytime, more deer/vehicle collisions occur during the fall mating period than any other time.

Deer hunters go shopping for rifles

by Lowell Branham
Scripps Howard News Service

With the opening of the gun season on deer being only a few months away in most states, this is the time of year when a lot of hunters go shopping for new deer rifles.

Nothing better serves to kindle a new-gun itch than remembering a missed chance at a deer last year. Most of the time, the fault lies with the shooter rather than the gun, but if hunters ever start admitting that fact, lots of people who make guns for a living will be looking for new jobs.

There was once a time when choosing a deer gun was as easy as falling off a log. Three-fourths of the guns you saw in the deer woods were lever-actions, and about 90 percent of those were chambered for the trusty '30-06.

No more. Once by far the most popular centerfire cartridge in America, the '30/06 has been left to molder in the dust by a host of fast-stepping new introductions. Today the deer hunter who goes looking for a new gun is faced with a bewildering array of choices.

Counting both old and new, there are around three dozen standard factory loaded centerfire cartridges suitable for deer hunting. Add needlessly powerful belted magnums to the mix and the list climbs to more than half a hundred.

Oddly enough, the cartridge that's now at the top of the popularity heap is one that's been around almost as long as the venerable '30/06. The '30/06 first saw the light of day when it was adopted as the official U.S. military cartridge back in 1903.

In 1906—which accounts for the '06 part of the designation—the military slightly revamped the case and loaded it with a lighter bullet for higher velocity. Thus modified, it was the cartridge that saw America through two world wars and the Korean Conflict, and it remained in the arsenal until it was supplanted by the 7.62mm NATO round in 1954.

The '30/06 had been around for half a century before it began to develop a strong following among sportsmen. Before it could come into its own, hunters had to get over their love affair with light, handy, fast-shooting lever-actions and become sophisticated enough to appreciate the vastly superior strength and accuracy inherent in bolt-action guns.

Despite its age, the '30/06 is one of the best deer cartridges ever to come down the pike. Among its advantages is the fact that it's loaded in a wide variety of bullet weights ranging from 110 to 220 grains. It's at its best for deer when loaded with 150- or 165-grain bullets.

The '30/06 has inspired several closely related offspring that are all excellent deer cartridges. The first was the '270 Winchester, introduced in 1925 and popularized by the late Jack O'Connor who wielded great influence in the arms world from his longtime post-as shooting editor of Outdoor Life. The '270 is nothing in the world but a '30/06 case necked down to take a smaller '277-caliber bullet.

The '280 Remington is basically the '30/06 case loaded with a '284 caliber bullet. But in this instance, the case is stretched slightly to prevent it from being chambered in a '270 rifle, a miscue that could produce disastrous results.

UK AND LOUISVILLE ON DANCE CARD WITH TWO BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

Mid-October. Perfect time for a fast-break glimpse into basketball recruiting.

Two of America's hottest high school prospects have Kentucky and Louisville on their last dance cards. Dance because it's a time of year when coaches and players do a little "how much do you love me?" waltz. Corey Louis is a 6-9 prize at Miami Northwest UK has courted ardently. But there is a risk he will be a Prop 48 which, under SEC rules, would eliminate him from a scholarship at UK.

But UofL is hot after Louis too, but must beat out Miami and Georgia Tech.

Jerod Ward, a 6-9 prospect at Clinton, Miss., is in UK (this week) and would remind Wildcat fans of a former Wildcat.

The "surprise of the summer," according to talent scout Rick Bolus, Ward is physically and otherwise, similar to Kenny Walker. "A Skywalker," Bolus calls him, would receive a glowing reception in the Bluegrass.

NEXT WEEK: A closer look at these and other hoop prospects.

CURRY GLOW OR GLOAT?

As media critics beat a busy retreat changing the subject and resorting to comedy routines, Kentucky's coach kept to his script, pause (open date), glow in the warmth of a win streak, examine how to make it three straight, and enjoy the new mandate of genius placed on his shoulders by come-back fans.

Curry won't say it, but I will, coaches are responsible for integrity and flawless preparation, players are accountable for discipline and execution. Against Ole Miss, UK's team brought the two to a point.

Kentucky's victory over Ole Miss, the ways it was achieved, marks this as a "turn game" for Curry's program.

Hole talk to bowl talk. Proving the distance between hole talk and bowl talk is too tight to measure, this: Two Mondays ago a throng of fans and a knot of media-types had a fresh 6-foot hole dug and ready for Curry's cadaver. By 11 p.m. Oct. 2, six of the first 10 callers to a Lexington postgame radio show put the word bowl in a sentence with Kentucky. By the weekend the media had fallen in step.

Ole Miss coach Billy Brewer looked up to cheering fans and applauded as he walked off the field at Commonwealth Stadium Oct. 2. A statement of respect for Curry and his team.

In his Sunday television show from Oxford, Brewer had more praise for UK and Curry. "They did everything right, played a near-perfect first half. Kentucky just didn't make any mistakes," he said. "They wouldn't let us do things we wanted."

Brewer implied that Kentucky is on the cusp of asserting itself in the SEC East Division.

And, one fan said last week, "Just think UK is only three seconds from first place."

Canvass the fans. In an unofficial but most revealing canvass of UK fans this week, came this unanimous statement: "I'm happy for UK's big win over Ole Miss, but I'm more happy for Bill Curry."

HOOPS SEASON BITS

Kentucky fans miss Jamal Mashburn already, right?

After Antwanne Hardaway's $64 million, does anybody else, this side of C.M. and Jamal's mother of course, dread hearing what he's going to sign for?

Uh-oh. The key for Kentucky, Dick Vitale says, is Rodrick Rhodes. And he's going to have a banner sophomore season, the Sage of college hoops predicts. "Rhodes will really step up to be the electrifying player who sets the tone for Kentucky."

UK'S DALE BROWN
On the same day ex-Kentucky guard Dale Brown signed with Sacramento for $150 grand last week, Antwanne Hardaway signed with Orlando for $65 million.

Something strange about Brown guarding Hardaway this winter. Seems more likely the former should be carrying the latter's sneakers.

ODE TO MICHAEL
Is it me or has it been sporting Michael Jordans lately?

Poor Billy Packer. CBS Sports hoops mouthpiece was in mourning last week. "In our lifetime, we've had Jim Brown, Muhammad Ali and now Michael Jordan who retired at the very peak of their careers. We wish we could see them play again."

Quick, somebody pass Packer some oxygen.

In our lifetime we have seen a cure for polio and a man walk on the moon, but nobody cared if Jonas Salk and Neil Armstrong retired early?

One problem in sports today is metro media-types have been throwing g-r-r-r-e-a-t around like a nurf ball in a McDonald's McPlay-pin for so long fans are numb, and some sports writers can no longer see their shoe strings because they're so bloated by their own eloquence.

Last week a columnist here in Kentucky thapsodized that Michael Jordan's departure from the NBA would leave the league in darkness, deprive it (and you) of its brilliant light.

Excuse me? Tell it to Sir Charles, Shaq, Patrick, or Good Mourning. Then tell it to the marketers, image makers and product busters.

Hey, Packer! Pass that oxygen tank down press row to that media guy in Louisville.

Will Jordan stay retired? How many farewell parties did Magic Johnson have? He was playing in Europe this week, and will do a barnstorm tour of the CBA next.

Michael will be back all right. Soon as he grows weary of cartoon watching with the kids, channel surfing, and playing golf week-day mornings with a club pro.

Then somebody will sing Jordan a few bars of Patti Page's refrain, "Is that all there is?"

But the real shock will come to Jordan's ego when someone steps on an elevator with him and says, "Excuse me, Mister, would you push No. 4, please?"

The list of entertainers for whom the spotlight grew too hot, but the cold outside was unbearable, is as long as your mother-in-law's Walmart list.

Michael says he wants some privacy, time with his family (with all the comforts).

Suggesting Gather up the family and move into Biosphere for a couple months. Hook up a satellite dish.

Packer and a few reporters will be standing around outside watching hawkers sell count-down tee-shirts.

JUST WONDERING DEPT.
UK Football. Say, aren't you the guy who said "Let's move on to the basketball season?"

Ranking for Kentucky? Pencil in Oct. 18 USA Today will list the Wildcats 24th.

Win next seven. Said in this space after the IU game: Kentucky can win its next seven. Now that the laughing has died down, Curry's team reads for LSU (2-3).

Schedule sidebar. UK's next string of foes.

Georgia plays at Florida the Saturday after Kentucky.

Next, UK is Mississippi State's homecoming foe.

Vanderbilt will be coming out of an open date in two weeks to prepare for the Wildcats.

East Carolina is 1-4. And Tennessee will roll into Lexington coming off an open date after hosting Louisville Nov. 6.

Fall forest fire reminder

The Kentucky fall forest fire season began on October 1 and will run through December 15 of this year.

During this period, the Corps of Engineers at Paintsville Lake urges all park visitors, hunters and fishermen to be extra careful with fires when visiting the lake.

The accumulation of dry ground litter combined with gusty winds and a careless person can result in devastation to a forest.

It is unlawful during the fire season to set a fire to any flammable material capable of spreading a fire located in or within 150 feet of any private woodland or brushland, except between the hours of 4:30 p.m. to midnight.

Paintsville Lake fires are not permitted except when contained in fire grills designed especially for that purpose. When fires are built, care must be taken to completely extinguish them to prevent restart that could get out of control. Smokers should make sure that a cigarette is completely safe before it is discarded.

For additional information, contact the Resource Manager or Park Ranger at Paintsville Lake at (606) 297-6312 or write Resource Manager, Paintsville Lake, 807 Ky. Rt. 2275, Staffordsville, Ky. 41256-9035.

What do you expect from your next Magistrate?

The situation is unusual in District 3 this November 2nd. It is the first time I can remember there being no incumbent on the ballot. Since neither my opponent nor I have ever served in this capacity, we should choose our next magistrate by QUALIFICATION rather than PARTY AFFILIATION.

I believe I am fully qualified to serve you for the next five years. First, I make no promises I cannot keep. Any promise made trying to secure a vote is prohibited by law as a Class D felony under KRS 119.205.

We are definitely in for a change, so let's try to make it a positive one. Whoever is elected will have his "hands full" trying to follow the Caudills, who date back into the 1950's when Johnny Caudill (Eddie's dad) was elected Magistrate after serving as Constable. I know very well how strongly people feel about them. I challenged them in 1985 and again in 1989, and I admit I cannot give you all the things the Caudills' have given you over the years. In my opinion, NEITHER CAN MY OPPONENT! However, I will apply myself to the problems that are facing us over the next five years, and I take my job duties very seriously.

I have served from June 1983 to June 1991 as Republican Commissioner on the Floyd County Board of Elections, where I tried to keep elections clean and honest. I never missed a meeting or was even late for one. Not once did I ever leave the courthouse on Election Day (night) until all votes were counted, including the absentee. I am also responsible for getting the American flag over each polling place in Floyd County.

I also served as Chairman of my party from June 1991 to October 1993. In addition, I have served on the Left Beaver Fire Tax District Board of Trustees from the time the tax was voted on by the Floyd Fiscal Court until present. Once again, I have never missed a meeting.

I also served for two years on the McDowell High School Site-Based Decision Making Council, where I never missed a meeting. Therefore, I know what it is like to sit down with an open mind and negotiate, discuss issues, solve problems, work with the public, and spend your tax dollars wisely.

Most magistrates go beyond the call of duty and supervise all road building, maintenance, ditching, draining, etc. I believe I can qualify for this too. I have more than 30 years of experience operating and repairing heavy equipment.

It is my desire that I personally visit each of you in my district before November 2nd. However, the hours I work on my present job will not permit me to do so. I will continue to see as many of you as possible. Since my job is my only means of support, I cannot afford to quit at this time. If you elect me as your next magistrate, then I will give you the same dedicated service I am giving my present employer.

I have nothing to hide. If you know me, tell someone! If you do not, ask someone who does!! Remember, '98 will be too late!!
 I remain committed to a better Floyd County!

Ask Dr. Bubba

Editor's Note: Dr. Bubba is not a licensed, practicing therapist, but has received degrees in analytical psychology and short-order cooking from the prestigious Skinner/Shoney's Institute of Bethesda, Maryland. Dr. Bubba combines these two vocations in his next self-help book, "Cheeseburger in Paradise: A Sensitive Observation O' The True/False Euphoria Experienced By Big Fat Slobs On A Binge," available around Thanksgiving from BubbaPress.

Dear Dr. Bubba: I'm a terminal procrastinator. It's gotten me in trouble with my boss several times because I'm always letting my work go until the very last minute—and it got me in BIG trouble with my wife because I didn't take the garbage out for like six months. I've had this problem for years and really, really meant to do something about it, but I just kept putting it off. Finally, I decided to join Procrastinator's Anonymous, but they kept rescheduling their meeting and I never got around to finding out the new dates. What should I do? A Day Late and a Dollar Short, Prestonsburg

Dear Day: I'll haveta get back to ya later on that.

Dear Dr. Bubba: My husband snores like a mortally-wounded bull moose in heat and it's driving me crazy. I put up with it for the first couple of years we were married, both because I was "in love" and because I was stupid enough to sign a prenuptial agreement that keeps me from getting one red cent if we divorce. Now all I care about is getting a decent night's sleep without having to listen to that FAT PIG'S %&$#@ CHAINSAW IMITATION EVERY *%&$ NIGHT!!!! Please, Dr. Bubba, tell me what to do. Should I put D-Con in his oatmeal or disconnect his brakes? Sleepless in Sitka

Dear Sleepless: First of all, I should advise ya that violence never solved anything. Sure, it makes ya feel better for a little while, but then ya end up in a four-by-eight cell, married to whoever has the most cigarettes. Instead o' killin' the guy, why don'tcha try talkin' to 'im. Tell 'im how ya feel. Explain to 'im that he's wreckin' yer life an' there's a half-dozen medical procedures to correct the problem if he'd just get off his lazy butt an' go to a doctor. If that don't work, BUY SOME DANG EARPLUGS AN' QUIT YER WHININ'!!! An' if yer still keen on offin' the guy, D-Con's really easy to trace an' disconnect 'is brakes'll probably cause an accident, but ya gotta make sure he's gone' real fast down a curvy road on a steep hill before he's likely to hit the big one. Stick a pilla over his face one night while he's asleep. If he wakes up, at least he'll stop snorin'. If he don't, well, end of problem. But ya didn't hear that from me, got me?

That's about all the space we got for today, folks. Keep them cards an' letters pourin' in to "Ask Dr. Bubba," c/o The Big Sandy News, P.O. Box 766, Louisa, Ky. 41230. In the meantime, remember election season's comin' up an' ya gotta get a license before ya show any o' them politicians. Otherwise, they'll be a big fine

Kiwaniannes build communities through hard work and goodwill

The Kiwanians of Prestonsburg is a women's civic organization that has been in Floyd County for 43 years. During these four decades, the club has served many functions, including contributing both volunteers and money to worthwhile projects and organizations, and as an off-shoot of the Kiwanis Club. The club was organized March 23, 1950 following a Kiwanis meeting at the Old Brown Hotel in Prestonsburg. At that time, only the wives of Kiwanis members in good standing were admitted to the club. The Kiwanis Club motto is, "We Build." The Kiwanians adopted the motto, "We help build," and the club has been providing services to area communities ever since.

Three purposes
The club was organized with three purposes: to aid the Kiwanis Club of Prestonsburg with its projects; to be a means of forming friendships; and to build a better community. Through the years the club has maintained its original purposes, but it has also changed with the times. No longer does a Kiwanian have to be the wife of a Kiwanis member.

"Today," says long-time member-Garnett Fairchild, "we invite any woman who is interested in helping us attain our goals."
And although the Kiwanians still assist the Kiwanis Club with its projects, the club has taken on several service projects of its own.

The health department and other service projects
"Through the years, Kiwanians have helped with the many clinics that the Floyd County Health Department sponsors," said Fairchild. "The Kiwanians help financially with the refreshments for the patients from the five counties who come to the clinics."

The club's association with the health department began several years ago when Kiwanians worked as volunteers in the Floyd County Health Department's Crippled Children's Clinic, coordinating a luncheon for patients. When the program was no longer offered at the health department, the Kiwanians adopted the health department's heart clinic.

"They coordinate a luncheon for patients and, the doctors who come from Lexington," said Jane Bond of the Floyd County Health Department, who is also a Kiwanian. "They contact local church women to bring in food. They serve a lot of the patients, some who come from quite a distance, such as Powell and Morgan counties. Several of the patients have said that they are so appreciative that the volunteers were here. Some of the women at the clinic had no money to buy their children food.

"The volunteers have been a real blessing to me," she added. "We enjoy having them here. They always have a smile on their faces."

Bond noted that a few years ago, the club won a group award from the Kentucky Public Health Association for its work with the health department.

Other service projects have included contributing to the Girl Scouts and paying the expenses of a camper; paying the expenses of sending a delegate to the State Youth Assembly; purchasing glasses for the needy; assisting with the school free milk program; and helping with fund drives for various associations, such as the Floyd County Mental Health — Mental Retardation Association, and the March of Dimes.

The organization has also financially contributed to Prestonsburg Community College, the Children's Theater and has sponsored a float in the annual Christmas parade.

This year the club has donated money to Hospice of Big Sandy, the American Cancer Society, the local rescue squad, the Red Cross, and "Friends of the May House," a project designed to restore the oldest brick house in the Big Sandy Valley. And the members also help with Kiwanis' projects, including "Pancake Day."

"These were the major projects," said Fairchild. "But Kiwanians have always been, too, a social activity where members have enjoyed good friendship and fellowship."

A time of fellowship
The opportunity for fellowship is an appealing aspect of the club that keeps

Fellowship and service

many of the long-time members active. Jane Wallace, the club's program planner, said that "the fellowship we have together" is what she enjoys most about being a Kiwanian. "We enjoy being together and talking and going over all the programs we are involved in."

Wallace also lines up a guest speaker for each meeting. Past speakers have been representatives from Prestonsburg Community College and the Floyd County Health Department, among other organizations.

Ada Meade, recently elected president of the club, who said that she has been a member "several years," echoed Wallace's sentiments. "I enjoy the fellowship. But our numbers get smaller."

Recently, the Kiwanians gathered for their monthly luncheon meeting in a dining room of May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park. Although the Kiwanians has 23 members, only ten attended the meeting. But the small number didn't dampen the spirits of those in attendance.

Still, Wallace said, "We need new members."
Women of all ages from Floyd, and particularly Prestonsburg, are invited to join the Kiwanians. Any woman who is interested in joining, Wallace said, "Come (to a meeting) and let us know."

The club meets the fourth Thursday of every month at 12:30 p.m. at May Lodge. The exceptions are the months of November and December when the group meets the third Thursdays of these months due to the holidays.

A CHANGE OF ATTITUDE

I have been to three reunions since Labor Day. I've just got about decided that that's too many. I mean, I don't think it's healthy to have so many reminders so close together that some of us aren't aging too gracefully.

Oh sure, there were the usual preparations: the "I'd have known you anywhere" and the "you haven't changed a bit" routine.

Yeah, right. I suppose I looked just like this when I was a senior in high school!

Despite the foolishness and the familiar chit-chat, though, for the most part, what I picked up on more than anything else, was that creeping baldness and more frequent wrinkles weren't exactly greeted with shouts of joy. As a matter of fact, there was more than a little bit of griping and a whole lot of dissatisfaction with the whole aging process. I got the general impression that most of the people my age didn't care for it at all.

As a matter of fact, one lady said as much: "I hate growing old. It's such a nuisance."

Personally, I've decided to change my attitude about the whole thing, and try to accept one day at a time. I'm sure we all know older citizens who are so crabby we can't stand to be around them. I don't want to be like that.

Fortunately, even when I was a kid, I knew many old people who could have served as perfect role models in this regard. One particular old gentleman who comes to mind, however, is a man I wasn't fortunate enough to have met until I was an adult. His name was Jack Meek. He was my wife's grandfather. If there was ever a man to pattern an attitude after, it was Mr. Meek. He was in his late seventies when I first met him, but he was still as spry as a man 20 years younger. Even in his later years, when his gait slowed and his vision faded, nothing could dim the sparkle in his eyes nor hide the goodness in his heart.

Wilma and I were visiting him one Sunday afternoon shortly after we married in 1963. "You know, Clyde," he said softly, "I believe that God made a certain woman for every man. I believe you've got yours."

Jack Meek died in 1975 at the age of 92, and even though I knew him for a relatively short time, he made an impression on me. If I'm fortunate enough to grow as old as he did—and even if I'm not—I'd like to have his outlook on life and be one of those old folks that even young folks enjoy being around.

After all, as Majorie Barstow Greenbie once wrote, "Beautiful young people are accidents of nature. But beautiful old people are works of art."

Realizing that if often takes year to create a work of art, I'm going to start now. The next time I go to a reunion, I think I'll wear those tell-tale signs of fading youth like a badge of courage. I'd just love for somebody, someday, to remember me as I remember Jack Meek.

FUN HAVING A GIRL AROUND FOR A CHANGE
The baby girl standing on my lap grinned at me and reached for my glasses.

Her eyes seemed to be smiling at me, too. She looked ready for the "daddy lift," the classic two-hand push into the air that inspired giggles from her older brother when he was her age.

But hardly off my lap, her lips quivered and her blue eyes watered.

My little girl, seven months old then, was scared.

Maybe she was just too young for it or perhaps siblings are different. But her reaction made me realize I had a long way to go in figuring out this girl business.

When she came along early last year, Jordan Adams broke four decades of boy-only-births in my father's family.

My mother, with two sons and three grandsons, raved. My grandmother Adams, who has eight grandsons or great-grandsons, performed no backflips at age 85 but probably thought about it.

"I was about to give up," she said when I called with the news. "Having a girl around the house was no biggie for my wife. She has two sisters and was practically a mother to the younger. But this daughter stuff was one big curve ball for ole' dad, although I was ready for it at one point."

I just knew our first child would be a girl when my wife got pregnant four years ago.

How could I be wrong? The family boy streak couldn't last forever and besides, intuition was on my side. I had suspected for years our first would be a girl.

But come delivery time, I had to look three times to believe my eyes.

Adams family: boys 7, girls zip.

When my wife became pregnant two years later, I was resigned to fate: Adams types have guys.

Not even a sonogram fazed me. No sign of a guy and the picture wasn't likely to change, they said. But what did the doctors know?

In my family you bank on boys. Just ask my grandmother. Bet me and I'll take your money.

Glad I'm not a betting man. Jordan became the first Adams family girl since 1947. Healthy. Elongated. Just like his mother. No visible resemblance to dad, thank goodness.

So far, so good. It's the living together part that's been a bit bumpier.

Jordan's brother, now 4, loved her from the start. His first word to her at the hospital was "Ahhhhhhhh." He gendly hugged her and kissed her cheek. He nearly went into convulsions the first time a nurse took her from her mother's room and back to the nursery.

When we got home, he dubbed her "the mean, mean pooping machine."

"Hey dad! I want to hold her on the couch" was a common request. Now it's more like "Dad, get her out of my room!"

A mere touch of his toys hits some kind of silent panic button inside him. But no matter how mean he gets with her, he's still the only person who can make her giggle.

As for me, I'm trying to catch on to such things as fashion for young ladies.

Boys are easy. You pull out some socks and shoes, dig out the Ninja Turtle shirt and matching underwear, throw on some shorts pants and you're ready for the world.

With my daughter, I have to go back to her dresser three times before I get the right outfit for the right occasion.

NO MORE ABC'S

Parents are going to have one heck of a time putting an average or acceptance on their children's grades this year and from the way it sounds, for years to come.

By Kim Frasure

No more, as parents can we say A's and B's or no basketball. No more can we say A's and B's or no cheerleading.

No more can we say B's and C's or no bike is square. We will see instead, 1's, 2's, 3's, 4's and 5's. Five being the ultimate and, I understand it, no child will receive a 5. For a 4 shows no room for improvement and well, we all know, everyone has room for improvement. No one is perfect, regardless of what we think.

No being the "break it down figure out" person I am, I figured I'd call a 4 an A, a 3 a B, a 2 a C, and a 1 a D and tell my child I'd better see all 4's and 3's if she wishes to stand along the sidelines and cheer on those middle school Blackcats.

Well, so much for my figuring. I can't do that either. 1's, 2's, 3's, 4's and 5's are "nothing" like A's, B's, C's and D's. So, I associate them as totally "unfair" to my child. No mention confusing the daylight out of me.

I've heard time and time again that KERA's objective is to have our educators make every children feel special.

Now, I'm speculating here, but I think these numbers and percentages are replacing the old letter grades for that reason, also.

Assessments are taking place to evaluate our children's understanding of each of the subjects they are taking.

This is a "new" experience both children and parents are going to have to get used to. In all fairness, it's a new experience for our children's educators.

Now, some folks don't like to change, kindly and sometimes change isn't always for the best. But not every child's attitude is not so well either.

However, it is more acceptable to accept "change" in our adult lives than it is in our children's lives.

This new concept of making each child feel special, in my opinion, has its pros and cons as well as its use in life.

The way I see it is this: I'd love for every single teacher in our daughters' encounter to see them as special as their dad and I. I'd love it if they never had to compete for anything, be it a position on the student council, a spot on the basketball team, or as a cheerleader.

But, in reality, my daughters' lives are now on wheels, competing with other children for the same things they need to succeed.

I feel very strongly that it is my responsibility to see that my daughters understand that it is more than just a grade that is in their files, it is a reflection of their lives.

Thank you for your attention.

Safe sitter classes planned at Pikeville Methodist

Baby sitters in the area will soon be offered special training and certification in basic child care with the Safe Sitters program.

The Safe Sitters program is designed for 11 to 13-year-olds and is a two-day course which includes: safety precautions, rescue breathing techniques, care for a choking infant or child, recognizing emergencies, and calling for emergency help.

Safe Sitter covers the basics of child care. Topics range from how to feed and diaper an infant to what problems to expect with each age group from infant to school age. Principles of the ethical and business aspects of baby sitting are also discussed. The students are then expected to pass a written and practical exam. Upon completion of the course, there is a ceremony recognizing these students and a certificate is awarded. Graduates of the program may advertise that they are a certified "Safe Sitter".

Safe Sitters is a nationally recognized program founded in 1980 by an Indianapolis pediatrician, Dr. Patricia Keener, in response to a tragedy involving the death of a toddler who was being cared for by a sitter.

Nurses will be teaching the program and have received special training from the Safe Sitters as certified instructors.

For more information on the Safe Sitter classes, contact Cheryl Hickman, director of children's services at Pikeville Methodist Hospital, at 437-3500, extension 3977. Pikeville Methodist Hospital is a certified teaching site for this program.

trials and tribulations at an early age if they wish to participate, especially in extra-curricular activities.

In curricular aspects, if one of my girls wants a higher percentage than Susie (we'll say) then they're gonna have to buckle down and study just as hard as Susie.

If in the extra-curricular aspect one wishes to cheer (we'll say), then she needs to learn the skills.

Children have to understand in order to achieve certain goals, they have to apply themselves and "work" to achieve them. No matter how "special" they are. To simply say "each child is special" and make these achievements possible without the child working towards a goal, is not only unrealistic, but very unfair to the child.

Our educators have their work cut out for them, indeed. Not only are they required to "teach" our children, assess our children, but make our children feel individually "special" in the process.

I understand these assessments are endless hours of paper work for our teachers, excluding the time and preparation it takes these educators to prepare a lesson plan for our children.

With all due respect and nothing but good intentions meant, having our educators take on the responsibility of making each child "feel" special, seems to me to be taking a responsibility that belongs to parents.

Like I said earlier, it would be extremely nice if all my girls' teachers thought they were as special as Ronnie and I do, but come on. Wake up and smell the coffee, it's not likely they do.

For me to expect a teacher to make my children feel special is ludicrous.

I'm not in any way saying I don't want teachers to treat my children as they are nobodies, like they don't exist, and their mere presence in their classrooms is nothing but a figment of the imagination.

What I am saying is that it is not a teacher's responsibility to make it possible for my children or anyone else's to feel "special" in the aspect that any subject they endure, or any sport they may wish to play is an opportunity made possible without my children's work toward the criteria expected.

Not just whatever amount of effort my children put forth is okay, acceptable, and labeled "special." Because, it is not!

It's not acceptable to me as their mother and when they hit the real world it won't be, either. I can see it now, little Henry becomes a freshman, walks on to the football field, struts up to the coach and announces he's there to play.

Grades—Henry is not up to average (whatever average is). Skill, he's never played before. But, hey, Henry's special and he can do whatever he wants. And then the coach looks at Henry and says "Sorry son, you didn't smack. THE TEAM." WHAM, SMACK. CRUSH. Henry's in shock!

It's fiction and thank goodness it is. But folks, it's our responsibility to prepare our children for incidents like I just mentioned. Leaving this preparation to our children's educators is ridiculous.

What we now have to do together is come up with some point of "average" academically to allow these extra-curricular activities for participants. If we don't we're not teaching our children a very valuable lesson.

No company accepts half-done financial reports and says your efforts were yours and that's okay, you're special, anyway!

And our extra-curricular standards should not accept less efforts either. What's that ole cliché, "if you play, you pay?" That's it!

Fill next week.

Mothers can't sneak a smoke

A mother who smokes can hurt her baby in more ways than one. Researchers at the University of Chile in Santiago compared the babies of 10 nursing mothers who smoked at least four cigarettes a day to babies of non-smoking mothers. They found that the smoking mothers produced significantly less milk, and their babies were smaller.

Many breast-feeding mothers assume that they can avoid harming their babies by smoking in another room. It's not that easy.

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between November 1 and December 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free of charge.

Sunshine Lines

by Beverly Carroll

This is a new weekly column dedicated to Kentucky residents 60 years of age and older, our senior citizens. This series is sponsored by the Floyd County Times and the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program (KBPC) of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky, Inc. at Prestonsburg. This weekly column is an outreach effort to inform senior citizens of the public and private assistance programs available to those who qualify. Through this weekly series I will discuss the many services available to senior citizens. You will be encouraged to apply for any benefits that may be legally and rightfully yours. Because the KBPC is sponsored by federal and state monies there is no charge to you. This service is free. In my opinion, it is an example of our government using money wisely. The KBPC's employees and volunteers, is your advocate. We are here to help you. Now that you know we exist for you, we must know of your needs before we can help you.

In this first article, my primary objective is to let you know that this program is exclusively for senior citizens. In next week's Sunshine Lines, I will give you a broad overview of the many services available to you. You will find all forthcoming information in this series helpful. This week I also want to share some of the ways the KBPC works to assist our senior citizens.

The KBPC was designed to work on your behalf. Throughout the state there are Benefits Counseling Coordinators assigned to oversee several counties. The Benefits Counseling Coordinators, with trained Volunteer Benefits Counselors, are responsible for reaching senior citizens within a specified geographic area. My office, in Prestonsburg, covers five counties—Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Magoffin, and Martin. We are a dedicated, caring team committed to serving you. We will listen to your concerns and needs. We will direct you to the service organization that may be able to help you. If you do not know what is requested of you, or if you need help making application for any of the services available, we are here to help. If you encounter red tape or roadblocks, we are here for you. If you have been rejected or denied a claim or benefit, and feel the denial was unjustified, we want to be made aware of this. Sometimes, upon reevaluation, your particular need can be satisfied. It may be that we would suggest intervention through Legal Services. Their attorneys and paralegals are most supportive of this program. The KBPC is structured to serve you, the senior citizen, in many ways. You can help others by telling your friends about us.

Until next week, should you have any questions about this program or ways it could help you, call your local Legal Services office and ask for the Benefits Counseling Coordinator. If you live in one of the counties mentioned in this article, call toll free, 1-800-556-3876. We are here to serve you. Watch our call-in program on WPRB-TV Thursday evening, October 21 at 7 p.m.

The benefits of direct deposit

by Jim Kelly
Social Security District Director
For the Big Sandy Area

Social Security is trying to increase the number of beneficiaries whose direct deposit Research conducted for the Social Security Administration indicates that beneficiaries who have their monthly checks deposited directly into their bank accounts are 10 times less likely to report problems with their benefits than those who are receiving paper checks.

When you use direct deposit:

- * you won't need to worry about your checks being lost, stolen, or misplaced;
- * you can be away from home without the worry of a check sitting unprotected in your mailbox; and
- * you won't have to make a special trip to your bank or stand in line to deposit your checks.

Currently about 20 million Social Security beneficiaries take advantage of direct deposit. But that represents only about half of all current Social Security beneficiaries. One of our goals is to ensure benefits are delivered on time and to the right place, and direct deposit helps us do that. For more information about how to begin direct deposit of your monthly Social Security check, call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, any business day between 7:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. When you call, have your Social Security number and your checkbook, bank statement, or any papers that show your bank account number handy. You can also ask about direct deposit where you bank and the bank's service representative can help you enroll on the spot.

Host families are sought for foreign students

American Host families are being sought for high school students from Western and Eastern Europe, Asia, South America, and Australia for the 1994-95 school year in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE). Semester students from Brazil and Australia are need of homes from January 1994 through June, 1994.

These exceptional students ages 16-18 (with arms and legs) attend States in August, attend a local high school, and return to their home countries in June of 1994. The students, all fluent in English, have been carefully selected by the local representatives in their home countries, and have had a minimum of two insurance and spending monies.

AISE's main focus is teaching young people about the importance of the acceptance of other cultures. Cultural sensitivity is necessary to the continued betterment of civilization as we know it. Without acceptance of the validity of differing cultures, we as Americans are in great danger of becoming culturally ignorant.

For more information, contact your local AISE representative. Call 1-800-NITE-1500 for a free brochure.

TO THE CITIZENS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

Elections, who needs them? The truth is, we do. Yes, we sometimes get tired of all the campaigning, commercials, and hoopla that surround an election. And yes, we are always glad when it is over. Yet we rarely think about what our lives might be like without them. This year's election contains a special ballot of particular interest to you as a voter in the 7th Judicial District. The results of that ballot will affect the entire Commonwealth of Kentucky for several years to come. I am speaking, of course, about the role of a Supreme Court Justice.

You live in one of the 22 counties which will decide who sits on the Supreme Court bench for the three years left on an unexpired term. Your vote will not only reflect on Eastern Kentucky, but will affect all of Kentucky in the way our laws are interpreted in the years to come. Sara Combs was appointed to fill that position from July to November of this year, and she needs your vote to keep that position.

Having already assumed the role of Supreme Court Justice, Sara has found this experience to be more demanding, challenging, and fulfilling than even she anticipated. Her extremely varied law practice has prepared her well for the issues which come before our highest court, and she has been found most capable. Following her first session in Frankfort, I personally heard two of the Justices commend her on the excellent job she is doing.

Sara is an extremely bright, energetic, and forthright woman. Having worked with her, I have repeatedly seen her stand on her integrity and honor. I believe there are no limits to her abilities to serve our district and our state with utmost fervor. Furthermore, it should not go without saying that Sara, as the Bible says, "is no respecter of persons." That is to say that she treats everyone the same—regardless of social status, race, or anything else. She will greet you as sincerely and warmly as she would a king. And she will represent all of the people fairly—thus our campaign slogan, "Justice for all."

I entreat you to exercise your right and privilege to vote in this year's election. And I appeal to you to help us keep a person of honor as the representative from Eastern Kentucky on the bench of the Supreme Court—Sara Combs. I guarantee she'll make you proud.

Taking the safe route to farm injury prevention

Planting and harvesting are the two most critical times in the life of a farmer. The combined pressures of time, weather, finances and labor supply can escalate the farmer's stress load, creating potentially hazardous situations.

Pamela Kidd, assistant professor at the University of Kentucky College of Nursing, and research assistant Carol Koedee, UK preventive medicine department, have devoted their energies and skills to identifying potential hazards and finding answers for farmers and their families.

Kidd, as the principal investigator of three studies dealing with farm safety issues, has sought input from farmers to propose viable solutions.

"There are tasks which are part of the farmer's daily life that are hazardous. It's part of the nature of their occupation. Those tasks take a different light when their workload demands increase. One of the farmer's biggest problems is having access to a trained labor supply," says Kidd.

One idea under consideration is initiating independent study programs where high school students earn credit for working on a farm during the summer. Part of the contract would mean the student would agree to work a certain number of hours each week.

They can develop learning objectives with their teachers and contract with the farmer for a reasonable pay rate. Before starting the program, students would go through farm safety training. The farmer would get dependable labor and the student would earn income and school credit. It's a win-win situation. However, before this could be implemented, the school board and the farming community would need to collaborate.

Many farmers feel that agriculture is not valued in our state. One fact that supports their statement is that if students take agricultural courses in high school, they don't always count as a science course, despite the fact that they are studying agronomy, soil science, or biology.

"If they can't take it as part of a pre-college curriculum, what does that say about our values as a state?" asks Kidd.

As farmers strive to maintain productivity, they are often confronted with tough choices. "They are faced with making a lot of supervisory decisions simultaneously and this is where the children may come in. Due to unexpected demands, like someone didn't show up or the weather is changing and they need to get something in or out of the ground, farmers may decide to delegate a task to a child," says Kidd.

Using and storing apple cider

Fresh apple cider has a unique flavor some people prefer to apple juice. However, unpasteurized apple cider is perishable. It will spoil if improperly stored or kept too long.

"Unpasteurized apple cider deteriorates and loses quality rapidly if stored at room temperature," said Fudeko Maruyama, extension food and nutrition specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "So buy cider that was refrigerated immediately after pressing. And refrigerate it when you get home. Apple cider stored at 32 to 36 degrees F. will retain its quality for up to one week."

Maruyama said apple cider also can be frozen to maintain quality for longer-term use.

"Freeze it at 0 degrees in freezer jars or containers and leave one inch of headspace to allow for expansion," she said. "Frozen apple cider can be held up to one year with no quality deterioration.

"Pasteurization is another way to extend the shelf life of apple cider. Just heat cider to a simmering temperature (180 degrees) for five to 10 minutes. However, heating will change the cider's flavor."

In addition to sipping, apple cider can be used to prepare main dishes, sauces to accompany meats, desserts and beverages.

Sometimes consumers are confused about the difference between apple cider and apple juice.

"In most people's minds, apple cider has no preservatives," said Jerry Brown, Extension horticulturist at the UK Research and Education Center in Princeton. "Apple cider is liquid released when apples are crushed. The cider is cloudy because it has not been filtered; the cloudiness is a result of suspended solids."

Brown said most Kentucky-produced apple cider has no preservatives added.

"Apple juice has fewer suspended solids because it is clarified by use of filtration and/or specific enzymes," he added. "Pasteurization, filtration and chemical preservatives, such as potassium sorbate, are used to extend the shelf life of apple juice. It is treated to create a stable product that will have a long shelf life."

Fall is time to fertilize lawns

Fall is the best time of the year to fertilize lawns.

Phosphorus and potassium are not always needed in Kentucky, but nitrogen is necessary for quality lawns, said A.J. Powell, Extension turf specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Timing is critical to the success of lawn fertilization," he said.

Fall fertilization will promote more lateral growth and increased density, so it won't drastically increase mowing.

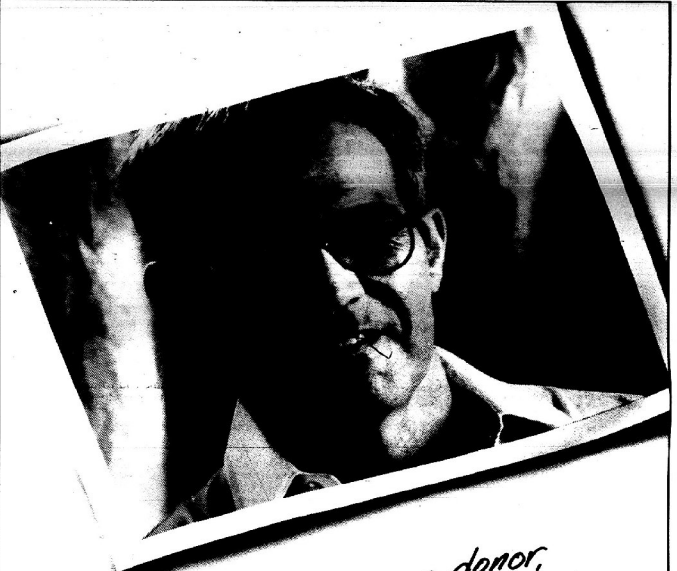

"Top growth is not what we want," said Powell. "We're more interested in caring for what is left after mowing than what is taken off."

September through December is the best time to fertilize cool-season lawn grasses like Kentucky bluegrass, tall fescue, and fine fescues," said Powell. "However, autumn fertilization is not advisable for warm-season grasses such as zoysia."

Fall fertilization helps lawns recover from diseases and other stresses of the summer growing season. It also encourages root growth which increases the lawn's vigor against future disease outbreaks, added Powell.

"One and a half pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet will give a good application," said Bill Fountain, Extension horticulturist. "Fertilization can be repeated two or three times during the fall."

For more information on fall fertilization of lawns, contact the county Extension office.

Every day, 5 people die waiting for organ transplants. That's because most people don't know how easy it is to become an organ donor.

All you have to do is sign the back of your driver's license, have it witnessed by 2 people and let your family know. It really is that easy. And with 220 Kentuckyans on the waiting list, you will be helping your community too.

What's more, since a lot of people here in Kentucky aren't organ donors, the waiting list for donations gets longer every day.

MOLLY PITCHER

During the American Revolution, many women worked alongside their menfolk in the battlefields. Called "Molly Pitchers," thanks to their tireless efforts fetching water for their men, many also helped by swabbing cannons after each firing. The best known of these women was Mary Hays. Born on October 13, 1742 in Horton, New Jersey, Mary spent some of the Battle of Monmouth on June 28, 1778. While Mary was loading and firing a cannon after her husband, John, was wounded, an enemy cannonball passed between her ankles, tearing away the fringe of her petticoat. Indignant, she resumed her valiant work. General Washington, who named her a warrant as a non-commissioned officer.

Money Management

OBTAINING A SMALL BUSINESS LOAN: WHAT ARE BANKERS LOOKING FOR?

Bankers' limited resources and wariness of risks are making it exceedingly difficult for small business owners to obtain loans they may need to expand their businesses—or keep them afloat. However, the Kentucky Society of CPAs points out that obtaining a clearer understanding of what banks and other lenders expect from you and your business can help to increase your chances of having your loan approved.

Your primary objective should be to strengthen the bank's confidence in your ability to repay the loan. Knowing what bankers are looking for can help you prepare to meet the requirements. While precise lending requirements vary from bank to bank, and even from banker to banker, lenders often cite the four C's of commercial lending—collateral, creditworthiness, capability to manage, and character—as the general criteria they use in evaluating loan proposals.

COLLATERAL CAN HELP MITIGATE THE BANK'S RISK. When making a business loan, lenders generally assume that the debt will be repaid out of the company's future earnings. Since the possibility exists that those earnings will not materialize and that you will be unable to repay the loan, most lenders will request some form of security or collateral to protect their investment. Collateral, in the form of real estate equipment, receivables, or inventory, reduces the lender's risk. If your business runs into hard times and you can't keep up with your loan payments, the bank can sell the collateral and recoup some of its losses.

If your company doesn't have sufficient assets to serve as collateral, as is often the case with service businesses which generally have little in the way of equipment and inventory, the bank may require you to put personal property, such as your house, as collateral.

CREDITWORTHINESS IS CRITICAL TO LOAN APPROVAL

Before the bank decides if it will lend you money, it will investigate whether you pay your personal and professional bills on time. To determine your credit track record, the loan officer will order a credit report on your company and also on you and other company principals.

The bank may also check the bankers and suppliers you have worked with to see how well you meet your obligations. Your credit rating plays an important role in the approval process. As a precautionary measure, it's a good idea to regularly monitor your credit rating. Contact a credit

ABILITY TO MANAGE

One of the most common reasons for a business failure is mismanagement. Because bankers have learned that there is a direct relationship between previous experience and business success, they are more likely to lend money to a business managed by someone who has extensive business experience. Therefore, your loan proposal should provide the lender with information on your professional background and previous successes as well as the levels of experience and relevant education for each person involved in running the business.

It's also very important to show your bank that your company has a strong management team in place and that it doesn't depend totally on any one person. No matter how talented you are, the bank wants to be sure that your company will run smoothly—and your loan will be repaid—even if you're not at the helm. Demonstrating that your company has a sound organizational structure and management succession plan in place can ease a lender's concerns.

CHARACTER IS A KEY FACTOR

It's often been said that bankers make loans to people, not to corporations. That's because, over the years, banks have found that individuals with solid character and honest reputations make good credit risks. To be perceived in the best possible light, be open with your banker about your past achievements and previous problems, such as failure to repay previous debts or a job loss. As part of the loan review process, banks thoroughly investigate your financial, professional and business background. If there are any skeletons in your closet, advising the loan officer up front is your best approach.

If there are other principals involved in the business, be prepared to identify them and explain that the bank will do an equally thorough investigation of their backgrounds.

When it comes to your business, make every effort to present it in a candid and honest manner, pointing out the company's weaknesses as well as its strengths. Doing so demonstrates that you are realistic and have identified challenges and areas for improvement.

Borrowing money to finance your small business may very well be one of the greatest challenges you'll face as a small business owner. CPAs says that presenting your banker with a well conceived business plan that addresses how you plan to manage the business and repay the loan, and demonstrates your qualifications and previous work experience can help you to meet that challenge.

PC-keyboard to be released by Ergologic

Ergologic Enterprises Inc. of Fremont, California has just announced its first PC-computer keyboard. Its new convertible keyboard, slated for November shipment, the Ergologic X-Keyboard is being manufactured by the leading keyboard manufacturer, Key-Tronics Corporation of Spokane.

The Ergologic X-Keyboard will be the first adjustable keyboard to allow the user complete adjustability. It can be used in a standard low-profile QWERTY layout, or in any of a range of configurations in which the keyboard is symmetrically raised and angled. The adjustment can be customized within seconds to align the keyboard with the relaxed, natural position of each user's hands and forearms.

The Ergologic X-Keyboard is designed to reduce the risk of repetitive strain injuries (RSI) by allowing the user to maintain a neutral, relaxed hand position. The hand rests permit the user to rest the forearm against the hand, a feature that helps to maintain the hand in a neutral position. This is important, with hand movement during regular input.

An especially novel feature of the new keyboard is its reverse-adjustable non-pneumatic switch, in addition to its standard operation, allows the thumb to work in its most natural motion—that is the way it works when you pick something up. This spacerbar also gives you the option of control of the Backspace and Return keys with your thumbs.

QWERLY in the field of workplace ergonomics seems prepared to point the finger at keyboards as the cause of widespread computer-based repetitive strain injuries. However, many articles have linked the twisted wrists and strained forearm positions of long hours at the conventional keyboard to such health problems as carpal tunnel syndrome, tendonitis, and other conditions. In fact, many of these conditions are being attributed to the workplace. This has been recognized in many states, including New York and California.

Unemployment rate Kentucky's lowest of year

Kentucky's unemployment rate, based on a 12 percent trim from July to August, the lowest point of the year as the state's employment administration and labor force all fell to their lowest levels.

Kentucky's unemployment rate for August was 7.1 percent, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. The U.S. rate dropped from 7.6 percent in July to 7.5 percent in August. Comparing state and national rates are not seasonally adjusted. It was the 11th month of the last 18 that the state rate was below the national rate.

Kentucky's job market showed relatively the same from July to August," said Carlos Carratal, the state's chief labor market analyst. "Although we had gains in most of the major job categories, the normal decrease in agriculture for this time of year offset the gains."

"When students begin returning to school, we usually see a drop in the labor force, because they've been holding down temporary jobs and doing work on family farms."

It doesn't matter what it is, from cars to furniture, or from boats to baseball cards, we'll find the appropriate spot to list it.

Your potential buyers are just a phone call away when you list in our classifieds. They can reach you for more information or make an appointment to see the item for sale.

When you sell your seldom used things through our classifieds, you can convert excess items into cash and free up space in your home.

It's a bargain. The cost of placing a classified ad with us is incredibly low, compared to most other media. And you'll probably make back the cost of the ad...and then some!

You get fast action from our classifieds. Place the ad today and start getting responses tomorrow.

For a limited time, you'll get an additional 10% off the total cost of your ad by paying in advance.
