Train derails at Allen

Approximately 15 railroad cars filled with coal derailed Thursday morning at Allen near the home of Jerome Kinzer. CSX officials at the scene said Thursday that they did not know why the train cars derailed. No one was injured, but a vehicle owned by Kinzer was buried in coal. Twelve of the 15 train cars turned over, spilling tons of coal in the area. (photo by Susan Allen)

Progress applauded, but state will keep an eye on Floyd schools

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

There was good news Tuesday for the Floyd County School System when state school officials reported that progress is being made to improve conditions in the district, but they will continue to monitor the system.

Sandy Gubser, director for Management Assistance, reported to state school board members Tuesday that a review of the district in October showed that improvements are being made.

embarrassing, in some cases, and just suggest that the money isn't being used efficiently and calls into question the whole financing of school facilities around the state," Boysen said. "If you're going to get credibility with the state, and the money out there the state's going to spend, you're spend, you're likely to get more."

State Board Chairman Joe Kelly asked superintendent Steve Towler if changes had occurred in the Floyd County system because of a change of attitude rather than just as an attempt to eliminate the state's intervention.

Towler said he felt that attitudes were being changed in regard to improving the system because of the complete change of members on the school board and the addition of several key personnel in the central office.

Kelly urged the Floyd school officials to ensure that members of the community have an opportunity to be

(See Progress, page two)

"I am happy to report to you that we think there is progress in Floyd County," Gubser said. "There is a strong commitment to the improvement process both on the part of the superintendent and the board."

"There still are problems in Floyd County," Gubser continued. "There is still an atmosphere of mistrust and concern. There is still a mistrust of a number of people in the central office. There is still concern about inappropriate political influences, particularly as it relates to capital construction projects. There are some concerns related to the employment area, as well. But, overall, we thought there had been tremendous progress this time in the Floyd County school system."

Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen told Floyd officials that he felt things had "moved along in the right direction" in the district.

"Down in Barren River when we first talked about this topic... I felt that the district was requiring too much propping up by the department. I think there's been a significant shift in that balance."

"One of the reasons this is so important, in addition to what it means to the children of Floyd County, is as a symbol to the rest of the state... that we're getting our money's worth (with KERA)," Boysen said.

Boysen cautioned school officials to make sure that monies to build new school facilities are spent wisely.

"The facility problems that are...

School board to lower tax rate; board's revenues will increase

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Although property tax revenues for the Floyd County school system will increase by four percent, taxpayers will see a 1.7 cent decrease in their tax rates because of higher property assessments in Floyd County.

School board members voted to declare their intent Thursday to lower the property tax rate from 61.6 cents per $100 valuation to 59.9 cents. The personal property tax rate of 61.6 cents per $100 valuation will not change.

In order for the four percent revenue increase to become effective, the board must conduct a public hearing and the board voted Thursday to set that hearing for November 18 at 6 p.m. at Prestonsburg High School.

"Though the tax rate is lower than the previous year, the new rate is expected to generate about $150,000 more than last year.

Board member Brent Clark asked if Floyd County would "lose the stigma of being number one" on the highest property tax rates. Superintendent Steve Towler said there could be a "chance" of that happening.

Towler went on to say that rates could be even lower if Floyd County levied a three percent utility tax. The board took no action on Towler's comment.

The board had the option to select a compensating tax rate which would have produced the same revenue as last year and would have further reduced the property tax rate to 57.6 cents per $100 valuation.

Excess funds from the 1992-93 tax revenues, just under $140,000, will be allocated for increased construction and for the added cost of instruction and equipment. Approximately $50,000 will go toward construction and $89,513 for instruction and equipment.

The hearing on November 18 at Prestonsburg High School is to receive comments from citizens on the proposed 93-94 tax rate.

Marijuana confiscated; two arrested at PCC

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

A joint surveillance effort by Prestonsburg police, the Floyd County Sheriff and members of the Mountain Area Drug Task Force paid off Thursday when two men were arrested for peddling pot at PCC.

Prestonsburg police chief Greg Hall reported Thursday that the arrests came after "several days of surveillance" by task force members, who confiscated about two pounds of marijuana.

Felony charges of trafficking in marijuana within 1,000 yards of a school were filed Thursday against Larry Tackett, 28, of Betsy Layne, and James Blankenship, 21, of Ligon.

The two were arrested at 11:50 a.m. in the parking lot at Prestonsburg Community College by Hall, Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and other members of the Mountain Task Force.

Governor Jones to open prison at Wheelwright

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Kentucky Governor Breton Jones will dedicate the new Wheelwright prison Friday, November 19 beginning at 11 a.m.

Jones, along with other local officials, will participate in the opening ceremony for the Otter Creek Correctional Center located in the city of Wheelwright.

The 300-bed minimum security prison will be operated by U.S. Corrections Corporation and is expected to provide at least 85 jobs in the area.

Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson was instrumental in getting approval from the governor for the facility to be built.

Wheelwright city officials are hoping the new prison will provide a boost to their economy.

Three-year-old child killed in auto accident at Hueysville

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Police are continuing an investigation into an accident Wednesday in Floyd County which a three-year-old Hueysville child was killed.

James Joseph Case apparently ran into the east bound lane of Route 550 and was struck by a pickup truck driven by Charles Carter, state police said.

Case was pronounced dead at the scene by Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson. The accident happened around 6 p.m.

The accident is under investigation by Kentucky State Police trooper Byron Hansford.

Case was the son of James Martin Case and Clovis Stone of Hueysville. Funeral services will be Sunday at 11 a.m. at the First Baptist Church in Garrett.

Recanvass doesn't change results, election suit likely

by Ronnie Parsons
Staff Writer

Jerry Fannin remains mayor-elect of the city of Prestonsburg after Wednesday's recanvass of votes cast during last week's election, but George P. Archer, who lost by only one vote, is not willing to give up yet.

The recanvass of all voting machines and absentee ballots pertaining to the mayor's race was conducted in the Floyd County District Courtroom under the supervision of Carla Robinson Boyd, County Clerk.

The call for a recanvass came from Archer and Paul Joseph, both candidates for mayor in last week's election.

Fannin, Archer and Joseph were on hand and kept close watch on the count as Boyd called off the totals for each precinct.

A careful tabulation and double checking, Boyd announced that last week's totals remained the same, retaining Fannin as the winner of the election.

Archer said Thursday that he would file a contest of election suit after allegations that voters, who were not legal residents of the city, had cast their ballots in the mayor's race.

"If this had been a fair and clean race I would have been the first to congratulate Mr. Fannin," Archer said.

"I hate that it had to come to this," he said. "There are too many questions left unanswered about election day."

According to Archer's attorney, Phillip Damron, in a contest of election the statutes allow a candidate who received a certain percent of the vote to file an election contest and to state his reasons for the contest. Archer has 30 days to do so.

The reasons given by Archer's attorney for the contest is he had heard that a significant number of illegal votes were cast in the city election by people who do not live in the city.

"This gets down to an examination of the voter records to see who voted and where they live," said Damron.

"In Kentucky, you register one time to vote and unless you've changed that registration, it stays there your whole life," Damron said.

"We've got a lot of people that lived in the city at one time that are on the books in the city but never moved their registration to where they live now and we've got substantial evidence that a lot of those people in that category voted," Damron said.

Archer plans to file the contest petition because he had also heard allegations that one of Fannin's challengers illegally challenged voters in line, Damron said.

All too often high school seniors choose their prospective schools for the wrong reasons: a student thinks a certain school is "cool," parents push their child to go to their alma mater, kids like the look of a school but are unaware of what it's really like. Campus Clips: The Book was written to help students choose the right school for them.

In the belief that there are several colleges that are "best" for every student no matter what their skills, Campus Clips: The Book helps students investigate those schools that are the best fit. The first step in recognizing the schools is understanding yourself, so the book helps students investigate themselves first, and their prospective schools second.

Campus Clips: The Book is a book that students will want to read," says Sharon Whalen, the author. "Lively and straight forward text is accompanied with humorous illustrations, and the book is filled with quotes from actual college students on their experiences. It is a book students can relate to."

The first chapter, entitled "Who Am I?" guides students in realizing what their likes, dislikes, strengths, and weaknesses are. The questions presented are meant to be thought-provoking and prompt the reader to think about things they may overlook. Questions are divided by category: Off to College, Academics, Social Life, and Money, and Other Matters.

The following seven sections discuss the most important factors of college and college life, including: Getting Started, School Size, Academics, College Housing, Social Life, School Facilities, and the Campus Visit. Each section is divided into short chapters on key questions and topics that a student should know about when investigating a prospective college. Convenient work sheets in the back of the book sum up important questions to ask as well as whom to ask.

Questions such as: What is a "good" college? as well as discussions of the different types of schools available, make up the "Getting Started" chapter. Some select chapters from each section are: How will school size affect my education? What resources are available? How accessible is the faculty? Courses, curriculums, and careers. Where will I live? Is off-campus housing worth it? What about the social scene? Where is the fun? The college dating game. How safe will I be on campus? Campus politics and what it means to you. What facilities are important? and more.

This chapter highlights reflect the diversity of issues addressed in the book. Most sections have "Point Checks," a graphic box that contains succinct questions that students can ask of their college.

Full sections are also devoted to the college application and financial aid. Application topics include: How the application is evaluated, early decision/action, recommendations, the essay, and the interview (including a list of questions commonly asked).

To order write to Leslies Smith Service Corp., P.O. Box 34, Waban, MA 02168, (617) 965-2247. The cost of the book is $9.95.

part of the improvement process. He added that a close eye should be kept on school construction projects to be sure projects were done properly.

State board member Tom Gish said, jokingly, that he felt Floyd County was progressing because of a decrease in the number of phone calls he had received from Floyd County residents.

"Going back a year or year and a half ago, I got at least one telephone call every day, sometimes two or three, from many people in Floyd County."

"They can dig as far as they want to dig. We ran an honest campaign," said Lamm.

Lamm went on to say, "We've done nothing illegal."

"Everything we've done as far as challengers see, we've checked to make sure nothing was approved until after the county clerk had signed it."

"What they're shocking for I don't know," Lamm said.

"I hate that they lost by just one vote but in this case it might as well be a thousand," Lamm added.

When asked about the alleged illegal challenge of voters in link by month challenge, Lamm said, "I've been in a challenge twice before. I'm going on some body who was given a challenge for the day to make to judge something they know nothing about."

"I guess allegations are part of it," Lamm said. "Next we'll use the court to disqualify Lamm or ask that the entire election be thrown out leading to a second municipal election for Prestonsburg."

County with complaints and suggestions," Gish said. "Now whole weeks go by without a single telephone call. I think that's progress."

Board chairman Eddie Patton and vice chairman Harri Owens and superintendent Steve Fowler attended Tuesday's state board meeting and offered their support for the state's assistance.

"I'd like to thank you and the Department of Education for the help you've given us in Floyd County," Patton told the state board. "I'd like to say that we did all this improvement by ourselves, but I know it wouldn't be right if I said that."

"I hope some day that we can be out there on our own," Patton added. "That every one in the county can be assured that we're doing the best job we can for the children of Floyd County."

Patton said that significant improvements have been in the operations division of the school system, especially in maintenance.

The latest state report noted severe problems in Floyd County's special education department.

Patton told the state board that Fowler was aware of the problems and will address the concerns.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Floyd County Board of Education will hold a public hearing at Prestonsburg High School on November 18, 1993, at 6:00 p.m. to hear public comments regarding a proposed general fund tax levy of 59.9 cents for real property and 61.6 cents for personal property.

The general fund tax levied in fiscal year 1992-93 was 61.6 cents and produced revenue of $3,697,002. The proposed General Fund tax rate of 59.9 cents for real property is expected to produce $2,824,770 and the rate of 61.6 cents for personal property is expected to produce $1,211,744. See also available information concerning collection rates.

The general fund tax which represents in excess of 1992-93 revenue of $3,697,002 will be approximately $3,100,000 to fund the general fund and $597,000 to fund the special instruction and equipment.

The competing tax rate for 1993-94 is 57.6 cents for real property and 59.9 cents for personal property. The proposed tax rate of 59.9 cents for real property and 61.6 cents for personal property will result in a net gain of $1,211,744 based on a 1993-94 assessment of $2,000,000,000.

The general fund tax levied in excess of 1992-93 revenue of $3,697,002 will be approximately $3,100,000 to fund the general fund and $597,000 to fund the special instruction and equipment.

The Prestonsburg unit of the Kentucky National Guard, B Co., 206th Combat Engineer Battalion, headed up by First Sergeant Dana E. Felner, of Hazard, departed the National Guard Army Friday evening for three days of field training at the National Guard Training Center located in Powell County.

Soldiers began loading up HMMWV's, 5-ton trucks and buses Friday evening for a three-day field training exercise that would also see the unit taking part in their parent unit's change of command.

Upon arrival at the National Guard Training Center soldiers began throwing up the tents, rolling out the sleeping bags and reviewing some of the basic skills each soldier would be tested on the next day.

After a 5 a.m. wake-up call and a (surprisingly) good breakfast, Bravo Company soldiers began moving to the test sites where they, along with four other companies in the 206th Engineer Battalion, would be tested on their basic knowledge of skills such as first aid, communications procedures, various aspects of land navigation and fifteen other randomly selected subjects.

After the testing was completed Saturday evening, the Bravo Company soldiers took part in a change of command ceremony where Lieutenant Colonel Clyde Johnson relinquished command of the battalion, which includes the Prestonsburg unit, to Major William May.

After the ceremony, Bravo Company soldiers retired to their tents for a short rest before they were called on to conduct reconnaissance patrols late that night in the freezing temperatures and light snow in an attempt to locate and identify mock enemy units and relay sighting reports back to company headquarters.

During these patrols soldiers were put in mock situations by their leaders where the skills they had been tested on that day had to be used.

"These are skills that are not only important during combat, but they are also important in time of emergencies when the National Guard unit here in Prestonsburg may get called out to help the community," said Staff Sergeant Darrell P. Vollet of Paintsville, the unit's operations Sergeant.

Commanding Officer Captain Lawrence M. Cable, of Winchester, Ky, and the Executive Officer First Lieutenant Wayne H. Harvey, of Hazard were on hand periodically during the training but most of their time was spent attending an officers meeting in Richmond, Kentucky.

During the upcoming January drill the soldiers of Bravo Company will re-deploy to the training center to put their skills to the test when they conduct war games against other units from Hazard, Jackson, Ashland, and Morehead.

The Prestonsburg unit was originally activated as B Co., 1/149th Infantry in 1977 and in 1987 the unit was redesignated as B Co., 206th Combat Engineer Battalion.

The last time the Prestonsburg unit was called out was during the spring of 1993 when a huge snowstorm hit bringing the area to a standstill.

During that emergency two of the Prestonsburg National Guard unit's soldiers, Staff Sergeant Calvin Setzer and Specialist Terry Wood received the highest award given by the state, the State Distinguished Service Medal with Valor attachment, for saving the life of an infant and the infant's mother.

The medal was presented to the soldiers by Major General Robert L. Dezar, Adjutant General of the Kentucky National Guard.

Newly-elected County Clerk Carla R. Boyd charged that her clerks and members of the public are suffering as a result of the volume of work left behind by her predecessor. County Judge-Executive John M. Stumbo was administered the oath of office by Ray "Shag" Campbell, school board member. In Pikeville, U.S. District Judge G. Wix Iribank heard preliminary motions in the trial of coal operator Edgar Jones, a Prestonsburg businessman, accused of plotting to force a rival coal company out of business. The case was closed to the public. Danny Bowman, accused of selling drugs to an undercover agent at a Middle Creek residence three years ago, was given a one-year jail term. Official results show the vote was 4 to 1 Democratic in Floyd County. There died: Thomas J. Leake, 78, of East Point, last Wednesday at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington; Curtis Stephens, 75, Monday at his home in Coble-Roberts Addition.

Twenty Years Ago

(November 14, 1973)

Lack of interest in a county election campaign in which six Democratic candidates for office were without opposition is blamed for the fact that between 7,000 and 8,000 of the county's 18,000 registered voters stayed home. Of the total of 817 acres of land covered by surface mining permits issued since last Jan. 1 for Floyd county operations, 339 acres lie in the Dewey Lake watershed, and an application to mine an additional 126 acres there is pending. The Prestonsburg Public Building Properties Corporation will advertise next week for bids from contractors on the construction of the long-planned municipal building here, it was learned Tuesday. Dan Scott, 30, of Turkey Creek, was instantly killed Sunday when the auto in which he and another man were driving hit a headwall on the Turkey Creek road and plunged over an embankment. Mike Blankenship was named president of the Prestonsburg Business and Professional Association at its organizational meeting held Monday at the Floyd County Library. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Conley, of Ashland, a daughter, Nov. 2 at Ashland to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hunt Thompson, of Prestonsburg, a son, Charles Jeffrey, Nov. 4 at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville; to Mr. and Mrs. Doug Wells, of Auxier, a daughter, Tracie Louise, October 20 at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville. There died: Thomas Jefferson (T. J.) Bingham, 72, well-known Prestonsburg man, last Wednesday at Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Ollie Akers Boyd, 67, of Dana, last Thursday at Methodist Hospital, Pikeville; Clem Martin, 51, last Monday, Nov. 5, at his home at Eastman; Ballard N. Harris, 87, formerly of the Cow Creek section, last Tuesday in Charleston, W. Va.; Leonard Engle, 66, of Wheelwright, last Tuesday at McDowell; Billy Gene Sizemore, 42, of Martin, last Monday at Topmost; Mrs. Grace Stanley Ward, 69, formerly of Bonanza, Friday at Detroit; Mrs. Anna Lafferty Gray, 63, of Water Gap, last Tuesday here; William J. (Bill) Clark, 63, formerly of Prestonsburg, Thursday at Hampton, Va.; Wernet D. Adkins, 89, of Printer, Monday at McDowell; Mrs. Dorthila Spradlin, 98, of Staunville, Sunday at Martin; Raymond Davis, 51, of Hueysville, Tuesday at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Thirty Years Ago

(November 14, 1963)

An area-wide alert was sounded by Kentucky State Police Tuesday afternoon after two men had held up at gunpoint the wife of a Little Paint merchant and a customer and had robbed the two of approximately $235. The Reynolds Body Company, a brand-new Floyd county business, will open Friday in its new building which was recently completed near Allen by Marcom Reynolds, owner of the firm. Kentucky's per-capita personal income reached an all-time high of $1,645 in 1961, the University of Kentucky Bureau of Business Research reports in its latest income study. Floyd county's per-capita figure was $1,058. Sale of bonds to refinance $538,000 worth of old water and revenue bonds was effected Friday night at a net saving to the City of Prestonsburg of $104,601, it was announced. There died: Mrs. Cynthia Burchett Layne, 63, of Ivel, Tuesday at the home of a daughter, Paul Vernon Sexton, 23, of Printer, at the Williamson Appalachian Regional Hospital; Mrs. Lona Roberts, Mulkey, 73, of Harrod, last Thursday at home; Mrs. Evelyn Cook Kiser, 66, Saturday at her home at Topmost; Mrs. Nicie E. Kenney, 86, of Prestonsburg, Monday at the home of a daughter here.

Forty Years Ago

(November 19, 1953)

Floyd county is one of the hardest hit forest fire areas in the state, with an estimated 5,000 of the county's 174,000 woodland acres having been burned this season. The 13-year receivership of the Elk Horn Coal Corporation was lifted in a final order entered last week in Letcher circuit court at Whitesburg. Capt. Harry D. Lyons, of Estill, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for extraordinary achievement in flying an unarmed plane on a photographic mission over Korea and refusing to be beaten off by concentrated fire from radar-controlled anti-aircraft batteries and automatic weapons. All except minor details of the state move to purchase the Brandy Keg boat dock at Dewey Lake are now complete, State Representative-elect Lon C. Hill, of Prestonsburg, informed The Times, Wednesday. Office of Ray R. Allen, Martin accountant, was partially gutted by fire Saturday night, causing estimated damage of $2,500. Reba Joyce Salyers, 15-year-old Maytown 4-H club member, will be the first delegate this county has ever had at a National 4-H club congress when she attends the Congress in Chicago, November 28. Born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rippe, of Prestonsburg, a daughter, Claudia Ann, November 10, at the Prestonsburg General Hospital. There died: Mrs. Judith F. Friend, 82, of Prestonsburg, Friday at the home of her daughter in Paris, Kentucky; Bill Patton, 91, former Garrett resident, Saturday at the home of a son in Ashland; Mrs. Hattie Jones, 86, of Trani, at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, last Thursday; Harsy Preston Webb, 43, former Floyd citizen, November 11, to the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin; Johnnie Robinson, 70, of Wayland, at the Pikeville Clinic, Saturday.

Fifty Years Ago

(November 18, 1943)

The Princess Ikhom Coal Company announced that it will begin construction next week of a second tippie on Middle Creek, approximately one mile below the town of David. The Baptist Church here without a home since its church structure was destroyed by fire in January, 1942, and the Presbyterian Church, which currently is without a pastor, joined by the Baptist church, the Rev. Robert Smith, occupying the pulpit. The Court of Appeals has restored ownership of the Martin Church of Christ to the original congregation which had been ousted by action of A. E. Harper, an evangelist. Pvt. Floyd Laferty, 24, formerly of Allen, succumbed October 21 to wounds received in the battle for Italy. Major William E. Sutton, native of Langley, who has been decorated for conspicuous service in the African and Italian campaigns, has also been honored by the State of Texas. Homes of Grover Pratt on Stone Coal, John Hutton, near Bosco, and Coet Messer on Salt Lick Creek were destroyed by fire during last week's cold snap. There died: Mrs. Susan Allen Sturgill, 80, mother of Ex-Sheriff B. J. Sturgill, at Amba last Friday; Mrs. Virgie Hothbrook, 86, Tuesday at her home on Middle Creek; Albert Fielder, 68, Monday at the home here of his daughter; Mrs. Bill Vaughan, Jr.; Mrs. Elizabeth May Rice, 89, Prestonsburg native, November 5 at her home in Spokane, Washington; Mrs. Lee Sammons, 32, Sunday at the Prestonsburg General Hospital.

-Letters-

This issue is not about money it is about the dignity and the fairness that all workers should share in. This can only be achieved by Union representation.

In the past year Mrs. Owens has made decisions affecting the lives of the bus drivers without asking any input from the drivers themselves. It is obvious while Mrs. Owens is saying her only concern is for the children and the taxpayers' dollars, her real concern is she may give up some of her powers, and allow the bus drivers to have some say over their working conditions. I also would like to point out to Mrs. Owens, these bus drivers pay taxes and have children in this school system also. The bus drivers are very concerned over what happens to this school system's future. While Mrs. Owens says she's not against unions in private business her actions and deeds belie her words.

In closing, the real issue is not high wages and benefits, but an effort to have Mrs. Owens deal with the bus drivers in a fair and reasonable fashion.

Straight talk about NAFTA

by Dr. Richard Leshar
The only thing that working people really need to know about the North American Free Trade Agreement is that even though wages are much higher north of the Rio Grande, it still costs more to assemble a car in Mexico than it does in the United States.

True, there is a huge gap between wages in the U.S. and Mexico. The average factory worker in Mexico makes only $2.35. But that is because U.S. workers are roughly seven times as productive as Mexican workers. In fact, U.S. workers are the most productive in the world. That being the case, U.S. workers do not need to be protected from competition with workers in Mexico or anywhere else.

Labor costs simply are not a major part of production expenses. Labor accounts for only 2 percent of the cost of assembling a car in Mexico, and only 8 percent in the U.S., a difference more than offset by the superior productivity of American workers. Thus, it costs $9,180 to assemble a car in Mexico, but only $8,770 in the U.S.

The same principle applies across the board to any industry you may care to name. It is true that Mexican workers are rapidly becoming more productive, but their wages are keeping pace. Since 1982, wages in Mexico have risen 135 percent.

Best of all, most of that new purchasing power in Mexico is going to buy U.S. exports. In 1986, scarcely 2 percent of sales in Mexican supermarkets were U.S. products, largely because of restrictive trade rules. That year, our trade deficit with Mexico was $6 billion.

Today, thanks to removal of many trade barriers, more than 30 percent of supermarket sales in Mexico are U.S. products, and the U.S. enjoys a $5.4 billion trade surplus with Mexico. That surplus led directly to creation of 400,000 jobs in the U.S. NAFTA will bring the elimination of remaining trade barriers between U.S. and Mexico and the creation of at least 200,000 more jobs by 1995.

It is a fact of life that breaking down trade barriers benefits everybody. In 1986, for example, the nations of Europe admitted Spain and Portugal into their common market over loud objections from critics who warned that business would not pay German workers $18,000 when the Spaniards and Portuguese would work for $2,000 a year.

But commerce has magical power to foster wealth. Almost immediately, wages began rising rapidly in Spain and Portugal, and most of the increased income went to buy products and services from the wealthier European nations. Workers benefited in both the high wage and the low-wage countries.

The same thing is happening in North America now as incomes in Mexico rise, a process that NAFTA will speed up considerably. NAFTA means more jobs and a better life for Mexicans; NAFTA means more jobs and a better life for workers in the U.S.

That "giant sucking sound" Ross Perot refers to is actually the noise made by the surging flow of U.S. exports into Mexico. It is a gentle, comforting sound we need to hear more of.

State Police to begin using pepper-based spray

Kentucky State Police Commissioner Jerry W. Lovitt announced today that state police officers will begin using cayenne pepper-based spray as a defensive device when arresting persons who resist arrest or who threaten officers or the general public.

Officers at the Mayfield, Dry Ridge and London Posts will be trained in the use of pepper spray and then participate in a three-month pilot project beginning this month. If all goes as expected, the program will be expanded to include all state police troopers and detectives in early 1994.

According to Commissioner Lovitt, the pepper spray has definite advantages over other defensive devices. "Mace" isn't always effective on people, especially those using drugs. A nightstick can cause injuries. On the other hand, pepper spray is an inflammatory agent and reacts similarly on all persons. But just as important, it reduces the need to use force that might otherwise cause injury to someone who is being arrested or restrained from committing some type of illegal activity.

Pepper spray is becoming the defensive device of choice for many police departments. Over 2,000 police agencies, including most state police agencies around Kentucky, use some type of the spray. — Staff Report

Judge lets Letcher charges stand

A special judge Tuesday denied motions to dismiss corruption charges against several Letcher County officials and executive trial dates in their cases.

A lawyer for Judge Executive Ruben Watts asked Fayette Circuit Judge John Adams to dismiss 24 theft counts and 10 forgery-related charges against Watts. Eugene Goss argued that the special grand jury returning indictments was illegally empaneled. Lawyers for the other defendants joined in Goss' motions.

The probe has netted 10 people, including former Circuit Judge Larry Collins, Commonwealth's Attorney James Wiley Craft and former jailer Gene Banks. Collins resigned and pleaded guilty to accepting bribes, and Banks resigned last month.

Watts is scheduled to stand trial March 7, along with area businessman Mike Orick and Ted Ambrugey. An indictment charged them with pocketing nearly $2,000 for road materials that were never delivered.

Watts and Ambrugey also face trial April 4 along with Banks and the former jailer's wife, Barbara. They are charged with scheming to use $2,000 in county money to buy furniture for the Banks' home. — Journal-Courier Journal

Martin sheriff candidate calls for investigation

Martin County Republican Sheriff's candidate Jay Hinkle has called for an investigation into the November 2 election, saying the computerized machines were tampered with.

Hinkle, the county's long-time coroner, lost the sheriff's race by just 16 votes to Democratic opponent Darrel Young.

"The procedure for what Mr. Hinkle is asking is not one I'm familiar with," said Martin County Deputy Judge-Executive Mike Cassidy, relating that the request entails "opening up the machines and counting the votes manually."

"The discrepancy was in the total that the election officers came up with at the Grassy Precinct and the recomputed machine total," Cassidy said.

It will take at least ten days for the election to be certified by state election officials. — Martin County Sun

Fired miners rehired at coal mine

Two Kentucky coal miners fired by Locust Grove Coal Company in Wolfe County for refusing to operate mining equipment in oppressive heat and hazardous conditions, were rehired after the miners filed a discrimination complaint with the Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA).

Edward Phillips, Jr., and Benjamin Holder, front-end loader operators at Locust Grove Coal Company's No. 4 surface mine, complained several times to their foreman about inoperable air conditioning units in their loaders.

Because of very hot weather and no air conditioning, each miner faced a choice of operating the loader with the cab door closed and becoming subjected to 115 to 130 degree temperatures, or opening the cab door and being exposed to heat, exhaust fumes from other machinery, and roadway dust. Eventually, a heavy concentration of mine dust led to visibility so poor that the miners refused to operate their loader, because of unsafe conditions. Phillips and Holder were fired the next day and subsequently filed a discrimination complaint against the company.

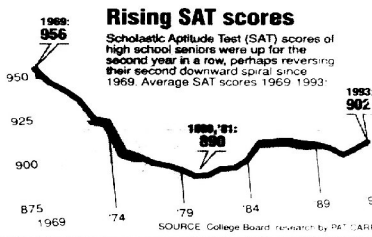

Under section 105 (c) of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act, miners are protected from discrimination when in good faith they refuse to work in conditions that they reasonably believe are not safe or healthful.

Although the coal company did not admit any fact or issue, the company did agree to make efforts to maintain the air conditioning units in all front-end loaders. An agreement was reached prior to a hearing before a Federal Mine Safety and Health Review Commission administrative law judge in which the company agreed to permanently re-assign both miners at the same pay, benefits and seniority. Locust Grove further agreed to pay Phillips $7,147 in back wages and $1,800 in expenses, and Holder received $3,362 in back pay and $900 in expenses. The coal company also agreed to pay $4,500 in attorney fees to private counsel for the miners.

Investigation working from MSHA's district office in Barboursville conducted the investigation of the discrimination complaint. — Staff Report

President welcomed to Kentucky

President Bill Clinton paid a visit to the state on Thursday, November 4. The President arrived at Bluegrass Airport in Lexington late in the morning for a visit to the Lexmark printer and typewriter plant.

He smiled, greeted some of the crowd and signed autographs at the airport. In the terminal's observation tower, another crowd watched his arrival at the Bluegrass.

Clinton was in Lexington to promote the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA). He made brief remarks to a gathering of about 1,000 workers at the manufacturing facility, then sat on a stool and fielded questions from his audience.

The first vote on NAFTA is scheduled to take place in the U.S. House of Representatives on November 17.

Following his appearance at Lexmark, Clinton visited with prominent members of the Democratic Party at a reception.

Promoting NAFTA

President Bill Clinton arrived at Bluegrass Airport in Lexington on Thursday, November 4. Accompanied by Kentucky Governor Breton Jones, he visited the Lexmark plant in Lexington where he talked with workers about the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Who killed JFK debate at PCC

On November 22, 1963, President John Fitzgerald Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas. Since that day, there has been, and continues to be, debate about who really shot JFK and who benefited from his murder.

On November 23 and November 30, Continuing Education/Community Services of Prestonsburg Community College will sponsor a seminar/debate entitled "The Kennedy Assassination: Thirtieth Anniversary and Still Questions." During the seminar/debate, different theories concerning the death of JFK will be presented, and participants will then present their theories and evidence to prove their suppositions.

Rick Roberts, of Paintsville, will be the moderator of the debate which will be held in the Johnson Building, Room 132, from 6-8 p.m. The debate is free, and everyone is invited to attend.

Children and parents learn about science

From preschoolers to high schoolers, young people from across the area took part in the second Community Biology Club activity of the semester at Prestonsburg Community College on November 6.

The activity centered on "How To Care For and Use the Compound/Light Microscope." Dr. John Shiber, associate professor of biology, and originator of the club, taught the 2-1/2-hour session.

Those who had never used a microscope came a half-hour earlier so Shiber could familiarize them with the instrument, which he refers to as the "scientist's toy."

Parents of the smaller children were there to help the youngsters understand directions and guide them through the procedures. One mother remarked, "I had no idea that lab work could be so much fun. It's fascinating!"

Before long, everyone was looking at all sorts of organisms under both the compound/light microscope and the stereoscope, which gives a three-dimensional view of the larger organisms. Some of the slides available were of ticks, mites, head lice, fleas, mosquitoes, and various types of insect wings and legs.

Shiber showed the budding scientists how to prepare a wet mount, putting live specimens on clean microscopic slides to view under the microscope.

They observed micro-crustaceans, such as water fleas and copepods, along with flatworms, hydrozoans and protozoans. They even prepared slides of their own cheek cells and hair.

Shiber had prepared a booklet with full instructions, including how to draw the organisms the students saw under the microscope. "This is standard procedure," he said, "in all laboratory classes."

"These hands-on involvements are wonderful for the kids and for us," one parent commented.

The CBC is free and open to everyone, Shiber said. Anyone who wishes to be involved in the educational science activities may call PCC's continuing education and community service office at 886-3863 and ask about coming events.

The next CBC activity is set for Friday, November 19, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. Math instructor Dwight Smith will talk about the lunar eclipse that will occur on November 29.

On December 4, the club will sponsor "Educational Science Games People Play."

*This time of year is really hard. The saddest of them all. I remember clearly you would say, I simply love the fall. You winter people don't want to go. It's beautiful when it snows. I think about the seasons, the things that you would say. And realize how badly you wanted to stay. The Lord gives, and the Lord taketh away. To our family, the Lord give us. 13 years of happiness and a smiling face. On November 12th, the Lord taketh him away. Only to a better place. You've leave the memories we treasure every day. ## Young Authors

Jesse Chaffin

The Floyd County Times and the Department of Instruction of Floyd County Schools jointly wish to feature the student work of Jesse Chaffin, a primary Young Authors' winner from Betty Minix's class at Prestonsburg Elementary. Jesse is the son of Randall and Anita Chaffin of Prestonsburg. His book, "The Fisherman in the Dale," printed with permission, was the winner in the primary "Books Without Words" book competition.

Jesse was a room winner, a school winner, and a county-wide winner for the 1992-93 school year for his book. He received a $50 U.S. Savings Bond at a spring awards ceremony. Approximately 5,000 elementary and middle school students participated in competition throughout the county.

New happenings at Floyd County Technical High School

Doris Lawson, Office Technology instructor, has three students participating in the cooperative on-the-job training program. Linnie Jarrell has been placed at the Floyd County Board of Education. Sherry Stone and Chris Kligore are placed at Floyd County Technical High School.

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) at Floyd Technical recently elected their officers. They are as follows: President, Lena Brown; Vice President, Shawn Chaffin; Secretary, Raymond Cole; Treasurer, John Moore; Reporter, Burnis Newsome; Parliamentarian, Adam Lafferty; and Historian—David Clark; Shawn Chaffins, David Clark, and Robert Prater, three Mine Maintenance students, attended the Jenny Wiley Festival on the weekend of the 8-9th of October. They had hydraulic, pneumatic and electrical panels on display as well as a computer numerical control (CNC).

The health services class participated in a field trip to Highlands Regional Medical Center on Friday, October 7. The students took a tour of the laboratory and watched how the red and white blood cells are separated. The students also took a tour of the emergency room and learned how the nurses get ready in an emergency situation and how all the machines in that specific area of the hospital work. The students left the hospital and went to the CDS Home Health Care Center. On Friday, October 15, the health services students took a field trip to the Rehabilitation Center in Thelma.

During the weekend of October 8 and 9, at the Jenny Wiley Festival, two students, Raymond Goble and Billy Bentley and their instructor Gary Mullins of Auto Tech, had a demonstration of a model glass engine to explain how an engine in an automobile operates. Students from several vocational classes from Floyd Tech also had demonstrations from their shops, and even though it did rain a little they didn't let it stop them from having fun with their demonstrations.

Two students from Floyd Tech took charge of the machining shop display. The students, Robert Prater and Bobby Spears are both second-year students at the school. Robert Prater is in control of the CNC, Dyna Myte 2400 milling machine. Bobby Spears is in charge of some of the most recent machining operations.

In the Electronics class, the second-year students are now working on regular electronic projects such as radios, car stereos, etc. The first-year students are now working on soldering course and are now working on the color codes of resistors. Anyone who needs a car stereo or a CB worked on should get in touch with Lena Brown or Crystal Blackburn at Floyd Tech, 285-3088, to set up an appointment to get it repaired.

Think about it

by Sheldon Lee Compton

The lemon
Every teenager in America shares one dream, to own a great looking, sleek, powerful car. We can all just imagine roaring down the highway, shifting gears and listening to some tapes or CD's while every person we pass throws a smirk and turns green with envy. Yeah, we all imagine this and some of the lucky ones actually fool around and get the opportunity to live it; but then you have me and my ugly but faithful lemon.

The lemon, the car of all cars, is a 1978 Dodge Aspen. Not just anybody can find the proudest essence in this car. You would've had to live the events that I have in her before you could really appreciate this mechanical work of art. Oh, she's a beauty. A gun metal gray paint job with flecks of rust around the fenders and bumper and a faded top to add just enough color to make it interesting. The interior is a bit torn to pieces but what can you expect with as many people as she's hauled around? The red interior works. I know that's not that big of a deal, but give me a little slack. I gotta be thankful for what I get. If I'm not mistaken, I don't believe I've ever recalled the car being over half full. Most of the time I just ride it on empty for as long as I can before she starts kicking and bucking and panting. It's no big deal. I know the lemon can take it.

This had been my point of view about the lemon up until a couple of weeks ago. That's when she gave up on me. I couldn't believe it! After all that we had been through, the busted-loose muffler that I had to tie in with my shoestring, those ever-missed blow outs and mornings when the lemon just didn't really feel like starting, after all this, she just up and died on me... on top of Abner Mountain. I couldn't have expected less from the one and only lemon.

It was just any other ordinary day.

the lemon and I spitting along coming back from my dad's for the weekend. I had stopped and got a half a tank of gas at the mouth of Abner Creek before starting over the dead Abner. I had enough money to fill her up but I found no good reason to break a long-standing tradition. I did notice that she had started bucking a little earlier than usual but being a trustworthy owner that I am, I overlooked it. Mid-way up Abner I was just starting through a curve and suddenly the lemon failed me. It was a first for me, a car dying in the middle of the road, not to mention it was my ugly, old, faithful lemon and not to mention I was in the middle of a blind curve on Abner Mountain! Now all I could see in the lemon was that she was ugly. No longer could she be called faithful.

My mind raced but found no answers. I couldn't leave the old thing to go call somebody or I would surely have been hit and I couldn't flag and be on my way so there was only one thing left to do. Believe me, I cranked and I cranked, begging the lemon to once again get me out of a bind, but nothing worked. My only option left was the unmentionable, to back off Abner. I slammed the dead silent lemon into neutral and found instantly that I had no brakes or backup lights and nearly no steering whatsoever. This was just great. Here I went backing off Abner in the right lane in the middle of night with my only lights. Could it get any worse? Yes, while I was backing off, three cars passed me. Did they move over to give me a little more room? No, they bright-lighted me and nearly caused me to back over Abner Mountain. Thanks, guys, wherever you are out there.

Well, I made it off the mountain, crash-landing into some very kind and understanding people's yard and I suppose one day the lemon has been parked ever since.

I'M IN THE MOOD

Even before I read it I knew bad moods were contagious. What I didn't know is that bad moods are more contagious than colds. It's probably true that bad moods might prove to be more life-threatening than the common cold, but who would have thought bad moods could be spread as easily as a virus?

Show me a person who inhales oxygen and exhales carbon dioxide, and I'll show you someone who becomes like the person they're associated with simply through osmosis. Sneezes and touching the same doorknob don't even have to come into play.

Through personal observation, I am compelled to believe that bad moods are also more contagious than good moods. If I'm in a bad mood it's not long before everyone around me is in a bad mood. I can't help it. I think that's natural. Love begets love, hate begets hate, Noah beget Shem, misery loves company, que sera, sera, and all that.

My family knows when I'm in a bad mood. A cloud forms above my head, my nostrils flare and I breathe fire. (The latter of which is a dead giveaway that I'm upset. When experiencing a bad mood, my breath has been known to singe the car hair from unsuspecting victims.)

If bad moods are contagious, the most logical assumption would be that the opposite is also true: good moods beget good moods. This is quite the contrary.

When I'm in a good mood, other's bad moods supersede my own. My positive frame of mind can be altered immediately by family or friends who are emitting bad vibes in my direction.

Our son is a perfect example of "bad mood alteration." In less than a second, I can determine his mood just by looking at his face. If he's upset, I'm upset. Researchers say that this is part of our primate heritage—to communicate by gesture. Yet this is not really scientific. Anybody who lives with a teenager becomes adept at learning to decipher gestures, because the English language is as useless to them as parents.

In a cheery tone of voice I might ask, "How was your day, Son?" Shrugging shoulders can mean anything from "I'm great" to "I might get expelled." Shaking of the head can mean, "Awful," or "Who cares."

That's when his bad mood becomes my bad mood. The next thing that happens is when my husband enters the room and casually asks, "How was everyone's day?" Between our son's grunts and my sneer, my husband doesn't even try to decide what's wrong. By bedtime nobody is speaking to anyone.

One day last week I awoke in a terrific frame of mind, but it ended the minute my feet hit the floor. "What's wrong? Get up on the wrong side of the bed?" one of my co-workers asked when I got to work.

After I thought about it for awhile I decided that she might have been right. I'd heard that expression all my life, but I'd never lentled much credence to it. Maybe I did get up on the wrong side of the bed. But if I did, was Jimmie getting up on the right side? I'd heard that she why he always wakes up in a better mood than I do. That in itself put me in a blue funk.

The bottom line is this: If bad moods are more contagious than colds, how long do you think it will be before they have a pill out on the market to combat it?

Christmas parade at Pikeville

Pikeville Main Street Program's promotion committee is gearing up for its Christmas season.

Christmas festivities begin with a tree lighting service on December 1. The ceremony begins at 6:30 p.m. in the Pikeville City Park.

A Christmas parade will be held on December 3, beginning at 7 p.m.

"Even though it rained last year, we were very pleased with the turnout and Park a spectacular Christmas display.

"We will officially light the City Park on December 1. We hope this will be the beginning of creating the Christmas spirit downtown so that people will be ready for the Christmas parade," Chico said.

the.Pikeville Fire Department and the Pikeville Volunteer Fire Department to again make the entire Pikeville City very pleased with the turnout and Park a spectacular Christmas display.

"We will officially light the City Park on December 1. We hope this will be the beginning of creating the Christmas spirit downtown so that people will be ready for the Christmas parade," Chico said.

The Christmas decorations that will be in the city park are owned by the City of Pikeville and a large portion of those decorations were donated last year by Tom and Bob Hutchinson of McDonald's.

To register for the parade, contact the Appalachian News Express for a registration form, or call the Pikeville Main Street Program at 432-9174.

Editor's note: Geoff let his mind wander off again and it never came back, so filling in this week is our resident advice columnist/fitness guru/social arbiter Dr. Bubba, who is also filling in for our regular fill-in columnist, Skippy the Chimp. Skippy resigned last week and has since been appointed as domestic policy advisor for President Bill Clinton.

News flash (courtesy of the Associated Press): "Hundreds of people showed up at a shopping mall in Costa Mesa, California to check out Fabio. The romance novel cover boy, hugged admirers and signed autographs Tuesday after Bullock's department store while promoting his new fragrance, Mediterranean

"I give them a little time of joy," the Italian model said. "Annie Chandler, 28, of Lake Forest, said she sleeps with a photo of Fabio under her pillow." "What a buncha morons," "Ah'm sick an' tired o' hearin' about this here 'Fabio' dude," "Fabio" this, "Fabio" that, "Fabio's got 'is own novels,'" "Fabio's got 'is own calendars,'" "Fabio's got 'is own fan club'" "Now Fabio's got 'is own 'fragrance.'" "BULL HOCKEY, I say. His own fragrance. What's it smell like, PANSIES?!" "What's this Fabio feller got that I ain't got, anyways? Okay, so he's got hair. Big deal. An' he's got muscles. So what? Guns don't kill people, cheeseburgers kill people. That undoubtedly explains why Irvine, California police this week pumped 43 bullets into a cow that threatened to wander into freeway traffic.

No kidding. When the cow refused to obey officers' directions that it not stroll out onto the freeway, the cops mowed it down with more lead than Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway attracted in Bonnie and Clyde.

Since the incident occurred in California, involved police and a victim that had committed no real crime, we suspect the issue will attract the attention of the national media and big money lawyers, who will stir up the emotions of underprivileged, mistreated cows throughout the land who will then stampeede through Los Angeles, terrorizing the citizenry and trampling innocent bystanders to death.

The officers involved in the slaughter of the innocent beast will be hauled into court for violating the cow's constitutional right to equal access to the freeways, but they will be acquitted when an alert attorney introduces into evidence a report published last week in the Journal of the American Medical Association, which contended that more Americans die each year from eating greasy foods than all those killed by firearms.

Yep, the AMA Journal reported that in 1990, more than 300,000 people died as a result of poor eating habits, while a mere 25,000 were picked off by gunfire.

Despite these alarming statistics, gun control continues to be a front-burner issue while the real public enemy...lard...gets no press at all.

But the California Cow-Killing Cops could change all that if they claim self-defense motivated their "air-conditioning" of the Freeway Stray. One less cow.

A huddled pounds less of artery-clogging hamburger on the market. A life saved.

And who knows how many traffic accidents averted?

Allen, 34, was convicted of attempted burglars in San Antonio, Texas, in October after having been caught red-handed by police as he was removing burglar bars from the window of a beauty salon. He told the judge he was guilty of simple theft, but not of the more serious crime of attempted burglary because he was not trying to break into the beauty salon; he was merely trying to steal the burglar bars to take home to put on his own windows to protect himself from burglars. ## NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Some business appointments may be changed this week. However, the time is favorable for new starts in business and important decisions. Talk with higher-ups are productive. Intense feelings may undermine romantic harmony. Frigid gatherings with friends are not favored this weekend.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) A relative scarcity of affairs of her plans this week. Business deals may get set down for a while, but things pick up faster for you later in the week. There is a special week this week on romances and children's interests. Precious plans this week end in a nice way.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Don't be upset if someone does not give you the feedback you want for your ideas. A financial matter may be held in abeyance. You may be jealous of your accomplishments. You get the green light now to proceed with home repairs. Family celebrations are highlighted this week.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Some money that is owed to you may be late in coming. A partner changes his or her mind about a shopping matter. You may have to say no to a gift with strings attached. Communicate skills at a top. Make important phone calls.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A partner may be reluctant to go along with one of your plans early in the week. Some money seem withheld at work. You are charismatic and impress others favorably. Surprise developments later in the week are to your liking. Judgment is good where money is concerned.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Things seem to go at a snail's pace as the week begins. You will be enjoying a career or financial success. Shopping leads to a special purchase. The best qualities of your self shine forth this week. Your self-assurance impresses others favorably.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Some friends are hard to pin down now, and a child may test your patience. A friend's attitude toward money may turn you off this week. Hot, busy activities are favored over relaxing now. Time to visit. Self-love is rewarded now.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You will have to give an older relative time to make up his or her mind. I hope some tired mees, sales in the store, or a work week will end on a bright note. This is a happy week where social interests are concerned. You are not ready to take someone into your confidence now.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Some people are slow in getting back to you now. You may incur some extra expenses this week. Innovative ideas bring you successes now. Seek changes for financial gain this week. Present your views to higher-ups. An ethical matter may be a cause of concern.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Financial matters seem involved this week, but an important breakthrough comes in business now. Some of you will meet with a romantic introduction through work. Meetings with advisers are favored. You may get a sudden urge to take a trip or to explore new intellectual horizons.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Family and financial interests are highlighted this week. Someone in business rubs you the wrong way. Attend to record keeping, and invest in a new investment option. You must be careful now not to throw cold water on someone's good ideas. Be supportive.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Don't let inner doubts hold you back. Once you put a plan in motion, you will find that things will indeed go better than you had expected. Have confidence! The signing of contracts is favored later in the week. Partners are in accord.

It's round two as:

Lawrence County visits Prestonsburg

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Round two of the regional playoffs gets underway at the Prestonsburg stadium Friday night when the second-ranked Prestonsburg Blackcats host the Lawrence County Bulldogs in the semifinal game. It was against Lawrence County that the Cats won the region last year in a thrilling 22-8 finish.

After Prestonsburg jumped out to a 7-0 lead on a 6-yard run by Seth Hyden and Araujo's PAT, the Bulldogs took their only lead of the game when Lee Abshire crossed the goal line and the two-point conversion gave the Bulldogs a 8-7 halftime lead. That was the extent of the Lawrence County lead. Dwayne Garza put the Cats ahead to stay on a plunge from the 1-yard line.

Last year's game also saw Garza suffer an injury that caused him to sit out against Danville in the state's final four.

Garza had just taken a punt on his own 33-yard line and returned the football to the Bulldogs' 1-yard line when he was hit hard by Abshire. The play damaged Garza's knee and he was lost for the rest of the playoffs.

It is hard to find words that describe this year's edition of Blackcat football that hasn't already been said. Much has been made of the Cats' defense, as well as the well-oiled offense that has averaged over 40 points per game.

It has been a stingy defense that has allowed the opposition an average of only three points per game.

Outside of the Sheldon Clark game, when the Cards took a 8-0 lead, all other touchdowns have come in the fourth quarter against the Blackcats reserves. Belfry did kick a 36-yard first quarter field goal, but did not score again.

Lawrence enters tonight's semifinal after posting a 14-8 win over M.C. Napier last Friday night at home.

Prestonsburg comes into tonight's contest by way of a 54-8 win over Lewis County, a team that won over the Bulldogs 14-12 in the season's first week. But Lewis County coach Corky Prater said this was a different Lawrence County team and "I wouldn't want to play them now."

Prestonsburg has been a totally dominating football team that has been knocked lately by critics because of the type of schedule they have played this season. However, the Blackcats are not responsible for their district schedule and must play the teams that make up their district. Clay County and Belfry, along with South Floyd, made up the other three contests. Two of the three are 3A schools.

The fact that the Cats have handled other teams so well is not necessarily because the other teams are average, but because the Cats are a strong, well-balanced, solid football team that is guided by one of the best coaching staffs in the state.

Experience, talent and determination have made Prestonsburg a very strong football team, something that didn't happen overnight.

The Cats had their best season last year, finishing 12-2 in reaching the final four. They are in position to better that if they pull off another victory tonight.

But before the 12-2 season last year, Prestonsburg struggled to win and had a mediocre season the year before in reaching the playoffs.

But Coach Bill Letton and his staff have brought this team on from their freshmen days to where they are today, one of the state's premier teams which is currently 11-0 and ranked behind number one Danville in the polls.

No one player has stood out for the Blackcats over the course of the season, because their play has been a complete team effort. The kids that make up this team are an unselfish group who cheer for their teammates from the sidelines. They have handled their success very well.

Dwayne Garza, Seth Hyden and Jody Cornette have been terriers to opposing defenses all season. No one has dominated the stat sheets because it has been a combined effort on the part of all three.

Cornette is currently the team's leading rusher with over a 1,000 yards (unofficially). Hyden has over 900 yards and missed two games plus, Garza has rushed for over 800 yards.

The success story continues with the emergence of Thomas Ratliff as a top quarterback, a position that was questionable after the loss of Aaron Tucker from last year's club.

Ratliff has come on to become an excellent option QB who has three receivers in Clint Shuttis, Jason Spurlock and senior Cory Reitz.

When you think about the Blackcat's defense, familiar names come to mind. The big front defensive line has made football teams throw the ball when they don't normally do it. Kyle Fitzpatrick, Brad Wells, Ryan Elliott, Paul Collins, Tim Lewis and Kevin Vaughn have made things miserable for opposing quarterbacks.

Cornette summed up the defense (See Prestonsburg, B 7)

Flash from last year!

Tonight the Prestonsburg Blackcats will host the Lawrence County Bulldogs in the second round of the regional playoffs. The Bulldogs know they must contain the running of Seth Hyden, who carried the football against them last season. The Cats won over Lawrence County last year 22-8. Tonight will be a rematch. ## Conley tosses in 16 points as Mullins falls to Allen

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Allen Eagles opened their 1993 elementary basketball schedule against the Mullins Tigers and had to hold on to preserve the victory.

Kyle Conley scored 16 points and hauled down seven rebounds as he led the Eagles to a 48-42 win over a stubborn Mullins ballclub.

The Tigers refused to quit, although they fell behind early in the game in what appeared to be a cruise-in for the Eagles.

However, a tired-looking Eagle team had to hold off a fourth quarter rally to hold for the victory.

A layup by Conley and two free throws by Jason Keathley to start the fourth quarter gave the Eagles their biggest lead of the game at 17 points, 39-22.

But a 12-foot jumper by Jamie Lowe off the baseline and a three-point play by J.R. Goodman cut the lead back to 12, 39-27.

Ian Stone missed two free throws for the Eagles and a three-point play by Jody Hinkle cut the margin to nine, 39-30 with 3:51 left in the game.

Stone grabbed a missed shot and stuck it back in the basket to pull his team back out by 11, 41-30.

Josh Hinkle just missed the third consecutive three-point try for the Tigers. A basket by Dennis Lafferty off a great assist by Conley and two charity tosses by Conley made it a 45-32 game.

Late in the fourth quarter, Allen failed to connect on their free throws and the Tigers began clawing against the clock. The Tigers missed some key free throws down the stretch and the clock expired on them.

Allen led 10-3 at the end of the first quarter, outscoring the Tigers 10-2 in one stretch. It was Allen leading at the half 25-13. Allen scored the first nine points of the second period to go on top 19-3.

Stone finished with nine points for the Eagles. Billy Mitchell, who played a good floor game at point guard, finished with five points. Lafferty had five points with Scotty Walls tossing in four.

Keathley scored three, Seth Crisp and Eddie Rowe had two each.

Jody Hinkle led the Tigers with his 15 points. Goodman added 10 for Mullins and Jimmy Dan Johnson scored five.

Jamie Lowe and Josh Hinkle scored four each with Brian Sammons getting one point.

Allen will be taking part in the Right Beaver Classic next week at Allen Central. They face Duff Elementary Tuesday night.

Garza just wants to play hard and forget last year

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was almost a year ago that Prestonsburg fullback Dwayne Garza suffered his worst injury since playing football at Prestonsburg.

It was against Lawrence County last year in the regional playoffs when Garza took a punt on his own 33-yard line and returned the football to the Bulldogs' two.

It was then that Garza was hit hard by Lee Abshire, one of the Bulldogs' leading rushers this season. The play took place in the third period and Garza was lost for the rest of that game. Plus, he missed the Danville game in the semi-state game.

But for the hard-running fullback, that was last year, and he just wants to concentrate and stay focused on what is to take place tonight.

"I'm glad we are playing Lawrence County tonight," he said. "We just want to prove what kind of team we have this year."

Is there any grudge over what happened last year?

"A little grudge," he said, "but I'm not that concerned about it. I just want to go out and play hard."

Garza, by his own admission, has been a little timid in carrying the football this season — until the Sheldon Clark game.

Coach (Bill) Letton talked to me and told me that I was going to have to forget about hurting the knee and the chance of hurting it again," said Garza. "He told me that if I didn't, I could get hurt again."

The talk had a positive affect on the four-year runner as he had his best game of the season against the Cardinals of Sheldon Clark. He rushed for 184 yards that night and has been running hard ever since. Even Blackcat fans say they can see a difference in his playing compared to last season.

"I just had to learn not to be so passive about it," he explained. "At the start of the season it was in the back of my mind about being hurt again."

Garza had corrective surgery done on the knee last summer and immediately began a rehabilitation program that had the knee at 100 percent when the season began.

The Prestonsburg running back likes this year's Blackcat team and credits the defense for the success of the team through their hard work.

"Our defense started to come on toward the end of the season last year," said Garza. "They work so hard to be better than they were the game before. They deserve a lot of credit for what he has accomplished."

Garza said that he and his other teammates were not taking Lawrence County lightly.

"They are a dangerous team," he said. "They throw the football well and they are full of surprises. They have two top notch backs in (Lee) Abshire and McKenzie."

"We have come together more this year as a team," he continued. "This is going to be a different year. We're working hard to get things done."

Garza said the Prestonsburg coaching staff has been preparing them for tonight's game by stressing one game at a time.

"We're not looking toward Russell," he said. "Coach Letton has stressed one game at a time to us. He told us that when it comes to the playoffs that we can just throw the records out the window and he wanted us to guard against becoming overconfident."

A key to beating the Bulldogs, according to Garza, is to get out early "on them like we did against Lewis County last week."

"We need to have a big first quarter. We need to just go out there and do what we are capable of doing. We just need a quick start. That's going to be a big key for us."

Coach Bobby Goldsmith said that is one area program that had the knee at 100 percent when the season began.

The Prestonsburg running back likes this year's Blackcat team and credits the defense for the success of the team through their hard work.

"Our defense started to come on toward the end of the season last year," said Garza. "They work so hard to be better than they were the game before. They deserve a lot of credit for what he has accomplished."

Garza said that he and his other teammates were not taking Lawrence County lightly. "They are a dangerous team," he said. "They throw the football well and they are full of surprises. They have two top notch backs in (Lee) Abshire and McKenzie."

Tonight the Lawrence County Bulldogs will provide the opposition for the Prestonsburg Blackcats as round two of the regional playoffs continue at the Prestonsburg stadium. A scene from last year's contest gives an indication of what to expect. The Cats won last year's matchup 22-8 in the championship game. Tonight's game is a semifinal game. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Goldsmith: "Prestonsburg is an awesome football team..."

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

High school football enters its 12th week as the state playoffs continue throughout the state.

Tonight, the Lawrence County Bulldogs will meet the second-ranked Prestonsburg Blackcats on the Cats home turf when they face each other for the second time in two years -- both times in the playoffs.

Last year, the two teams met in the regional finals with Prestonsburg coming away with a 22-8 win after trailing 8-7 at the half.

It will be a determined Lawrence County team that visits Prestonsburg tonight when they bring their 9-2 overall record to the stadium, as well as a six game winning streak.

The Bulldogs last lost to Russell, 42-8, in their fourth game of the season. Their only other loss was to Lewis County, whom the Blackcats worked over pretty much to the tune of 54-8 last Friday night.

The Bulldogs had a barn-burner before finally subduing East Carter, 36-35, in their last regular season game.

Coach Goldsmith's scouting report...

This Friday night, the two teams will be meeting in the semifinals of the regional tournament after the Bulldogs finished second in Region IV, District I to Russell.

Coach Bobby Goldsmith, in his 11th season at Lawrence County where he has posted a 62-59 overall record, finds coming to Prestonsburg very difficult.

"Prestonsburg is an awesome football team," he said. "They are the best team that I have played against in the 11 years I have been at Lawrence County. They do so many things so well. They are a complete team. A solid football program, no doubt about it."

Coach Goldsmith has paid particular attention to the Blackcats' defense where he took note of the point spread on offense and defense.

"They are averaging over 40 points a game while only giving up three," he said in amazement. "No team has gotten over 5 yards on two consecutive plays all season. They are a remarkable football team."

Coach Goldsmith likes the backfield of Prestonsburg, as well as their look defensively.

"They have three backs that no one can match," he said. "They have a quarterback who can throw the football as well as run the option. I've watched six or seven films on them and nobody has come close to moving the football against them. I'm serious. They are a top state team."

The Lawrence County coach said that his team was in summer camp with Prestonsburg and the two teams got to know each other well.

"They are a good bunch of kids," said Goldsmith of Prestonsburg. "We got to know them in camp this year and they are a good football team."

"They will run so many different formations at you. They will run the 53 (on defense) and really that's all they need to run. They don't need to run nothing else."

"Their defense doesn't give up much yardage. It's going to be a tough game. This will be a big game for us."

Big games are not strange to the Bulldogs as they have put together a strong season while finishing second.

"We have a dominant senior class," he said. "We have played big games before and we will be trying to win this one, which is an even bigger game. We're 9-2 on the season and we are a good football team."

Lawrence County defeated M.C. Napier 14-8 to reach the semifinals.

For Bulldogs, they must play with emotion...

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

The Lawrence County Bulldogs will come into Prestonsburg a heavy underdog to one of only two undefeated teams in Class 2A this season.

Bulldog coach Bobby Goldsmith said that while his team will play hard, they must also play with a lot of emotion.

"We have to come out strong early," he said. "We will have to play with a lot of emotion and our seniors must show that emotion."

"We can't get down to them early in the game. The first quarter will be a crucial quarter for us. It's important that we get out early and play our game."

Coach Goldsmith said that his team has to stay with Prestonsburg early in the game to avoid what other Prestonsburg opponents have faced -- being blown out early.

Prestonsburg, a team not accustomed to big first quarters, proved that they could score early and score big when they put 27 points on the scoreboard in the first quarter last Friday against Lewis County.

"We have had 40 wins in the four years that our seniors have been with us," said the Bulldog coach. "We feel that we can compete against Prestonsburg, but it will take an all out effort."

Goldsmith said that his biggest fear is that if his team gets down early, they may suffer loss of confidence.

"They had Napier down 33-0 and last week had Lewis County down 42-0. They have had some injuries but seem to be hitting on all cylinders right now. We will have to play with that emotion that I talked about earlier."

Is there a negative in this Prestonsburg team?

"There is only one that I can see," said the Lawrence County mentor. "They haven't really been in a football game for a long time and hopefully they will be this Friday night."

Goldsmith was just echoing what all other football fans have been saying: Prestonsburg hasn't had a chance to play many strong teams this season.

"But that may also be because they are so good, there aren't many teams around that can play with them."

Coach Goldsmith is expecting his team to go all out for tonight's game and, hopefully, will upset the number two-ranked Blackcats.

"We will play as good as we can play," he said. "We will do everything we can to win."

Goldsmith likes this year's Bulldog team and their attitude.

A Look at the Bulldogs...

Lawrence County has two backs who have rushed for over a 1,000 yards this season. Tater McKenzie (5-10, 165, junior) has totaled over 1,300 yards and Lee Abshire (6-1, 205, senior) has rushed for over 1,100.

"They are both hard runners," said Coach Goldsmith. Abshire scored the only touchdown for Lawrence County in last year's contest.

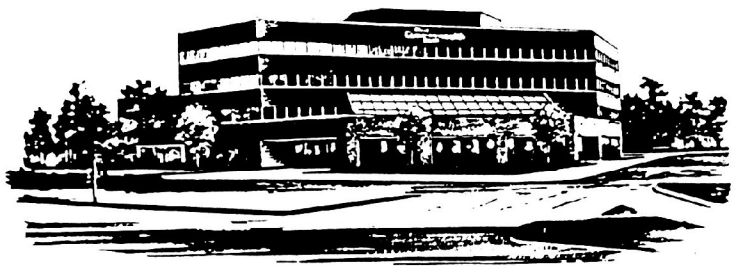

Heath Preston (6-3, 220, senior) is a big-quarterback who can do it all. He is an excellent option quarterback who can throw the football as well as run.

"Heath has done an excellent job for us this season," said his coach.

Larry Mears (6-2, 230, senior) leads the Bulldogs' defensive line. He has 136 tackles through the first 11 games. Mears also plays tight end for the Bulldogs. Lawrence County will run out of the wishbone.

Georgia Tibbs scored 10 points and Sabrina Yates added nine as the Betsy Layne Elementary Lady Bobcats posted a 34-14 win over the Harold Lady Red Devils Monday night at Betsy Layne.

Harold was held scoreless in the third period when the Lady Cats built a 32-4 lead.

In the fourth period, Harold showed better ball movement and outscored the Lady Cats 10-2.

Ashley Gearheart scored all five of her points in the final period in an effort to bring her team back. Gearheart, who played the point guard spot, had a basket off a steal, a layup and free throw in the final period.

Betsy Layne's press hurt the Lady Devils as Gearheart was double, and sometimes, triple teamed while bringing the ball up court.

Betsy Layne led 10-2 after the first period. They took a 20-4 lead to the locker room at the half.

Natasha Clark had four points for the Lady Devils and Brandy Stevens scored two as did Jessica Lykens. Andrea Keathley had one point.

Mindy Robinette scored four points for the winners. Rachel Thompson, Jessica Hill, Tracy Robinson, Dusty Crum and Kelly Bevins had two each. Armande Clark scored one.

from Bret Stone and Mark Burkett with Byron Stapleton scoring one point.

Daniel Risner, a former member of the Falcon team, led Buchanan with 19 points. Risner had the three-point circle marked well at his former school when he drilled four consecutive treys in the third period.

Mullins had three points for the Eagles, and Arnette added four. Goins and Kibler each scored two points.

In the "B" team game, Alvin Reed hit a free throw in the closing seconds to lead the young Falcons to a 28-27 win over the Buchanan five. Bret Stone led the Falcons with seven points and Mark Burkett added six. Reed finished with three and Jeremy Collins scored four.

The game was tied at 27-27 when Reed was fouled. He sank the first one and missed on the second try.

Arnette scored 12 points for Buchanan to lead all scorers. Bailey added six and Pace scored five. Bentley tossed in four.

The Falcons are coached by Tim Potter and Bobby Hackworth.

after the Lewis County game when he said, "They just keep getting better and better. Our secondary is stronger and has stopped the passing game as well."

Larry Morris, Robbie Risner and Matt Porter at linebacker have been consistent in a defense that seems designed for to make the tackles.

What else can be said of the secondary work of Cornette, Hyden and Garza?

Balance. That describes a strong second-ranked Prestonsburg team that certainly is focused for tonight. No looking toward a possible rematch with Russell. They are just staying tuned to the effort in front of them tonight.

Game time is 8 p.m., and all Blackcat fans are urged to be there in full force.

Wildcat fans go for a repeat win during the Sixth Annual Big Blue Crush

Central Kentucky Blood Center looks to once again "crush" Tennessee in this year's Big Blue Crush, November 15-19. The annual Kentucky-Tennessee blood drive competition promises to be a heated battle for blood, with Tennessee out to revenge a 2,350 pints to 1,977 pints loss from last year. Each team now has two wins and a tie; however, Kentucky's home field advantage this year could help boost Wildcat fans over the top in the win column for the first time in the competition's history.

The blood collected during Big Blue Crush will help ensure an adequate blood supply for area hospital patients during the Thanksgiving holiday season. Donors are urged to take part in the competition to be part of the life-saving effort needed every day to make sure blood is available when it's needed.

"This yearly contest always presents a challenge to Kentucky and Tennessee blood donors and is a spirited way to give our communities the opportunity to help save lives," said CKBC Chief Executive Officer Jim Spiker. "Here in Kentucky, we're going all out for a repeat victory. And in the process, we hope to inspire healthy donors to give blood regularly throughout the year."

All donors who would like to help "crush" the Orange of Tennessee may give blood at the Prestonsburg Donor Center located at North Lake Drive, from 11-7 on November 30th and from 10-6 on December 1st and 2nd. For more information about a CKBC mobile site in your area or the blood donation process, call Georgia Sanders at 886-1557.

...WHEN YOU LET US DO HIS JOB!

The number of shopping days left keeps shrinking. And you still haven't figured out what to get for your nephew at college. Or your parents who are spending the winter with your sister and brother-in-law. Or whomever you know who's out of town for awhile. You've been in every store, and still, the answer hasn't come to you.

Maybe the answer should come to them! Our gift subscriptions can be sent anywhere in the country, at a very affordable price. Just $25 inside Floyd County, $20 for Senior Citizens; and $35 outside Floyd County, $30 for Senior Citizens. They'll get updates on all the local politics, sports, social events and the arts, so they won't feel like they're missing anything.

Send your loved ones far away a Christmas present that'll give them a good read on their hometown. Call now and use your MC/Visa or send check or money order to Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.
