SIDNEY — A restaurant in Pike County was the target of an armed robbery this past weekend, and police are still looking for the suspects.

At 8:35 p.m., officers with Kentucky State Police Post 9 in Pikeville received a 911 call from Big Creek Pizza in Sidney, informing them the restaurant had been robbed.

According to the clerks who placed the call, a man entered with a gun and demanded money. After receiving the money he then left on foot, they said.

The exact amount taken has not been determined and store employees said the man was last seen fleeing the scene west on Route 3220 in the Sidney area.

The robbery is still under investigation by Trooper Donald White who was assisted at the scene by Trooper Randall Coats.

Anyone with information pertaining to the robbery may contact Post 9 at (606) 433-7711 or toll-free (800) 222-5555.

New board takes office

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

MARTIN — Despite the threat of treacherous weather conditions, the Floyd County Board of Education held its first meeting of 2009 at May Valley Elementary on Monday, which included the swearing in of two new members and Jeff Stumbo, who won his bid for reelection in November.

District Judge Eric Hall was on hand to swear in the members, praising the board for what it has accomplished in the past few years.

"I think we have one of the best boards in the state and one of the best superintendents in the state," Hall said.

Doug Hopkins, who was elected to replace Sherry Robinson, who did not run for reelection, was the first new board member to be sworn in.

LAYERED IN ICE

Freezing rain and sleet left much of Floyd County covered in ice Tuesday. The weather was also the cause of numerous power outages and fallen tree limbs throughout the day.

Woman says shooting dog was justified

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

BANNER — A woman who now faces charges for shooting a neighbor's dog says she was within her rights to do so.

Charlee Mullins, the Banner woman who saw charges filed against her for cruelty to animals last week by her neighbor, Juanita Bevins, contends she had the right to shoot Bevins' dog.

"I shot the dog inside my fence," Mullins said Tuesday. "The dog should have been kept on a leash."

Mullins says she is vindicated in her actions because the dog was in her yard and, most importantly, had bit at her 4-year-old daughter.

"My child never provoked the dog. When she turned to walk away it grabbed her coat," Mullins said.

According to Mullins, her daughter was in their yard playing with their dog and Bevins' dog was there as well. She said they had tried to "run" the dog off for more than an hour without luck.

"She was trying to pet her dog and their dog kept growling at her," said Mullins. "I told her to just walk away and when she tried to, it grabbed her. I think my child's the victim instead of them."

Mullins said she believes there is a law in Kentucky that states a person has the right to shoot a dog that bites another person.

"You can do that or you can call and have it put down," she said.

Mullins was served with a criminal summons last Friday on one charge of second degree cruelty to animals and must now appear in court to answer to that charge on Feb. 25.

Wreck victim had heart attack, cops say

by SHELDON COMPTON

MILLARD — A Pike County man is dead after suffering an apparent heart attack while driving along a gravel road in the Millard area of Pike County.

Harlan T. Davis, 45, of Cannel City, was traveling on a gravel strip job access road on Daniels Branch in the Millard area when police said he seemed to have suffered the heart attack, which, in turn, caused him to lose consciousness.

Kentucky State Police officers working the incident, which occurred at 4:40 a.m., said there was minor damage to the vehicle and that Davis suffered no injuries as a result. He was, however, pronounced dead by Dr. John Fleming at Pikeville Medical Center after Elkhorn Ambulance service transported him to the hospital.

The incident is still under investigation by accident reconstructionist Trooper Justin Cornett.

Appalachian Wireless named a best place to work

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

IVEL — The Floyd County company Appalachian Wireless has been named as one of the best places to work in Kentucky, according to a recent state announcement.

The Kentucky Society for Human Resource Management, in conjunction with the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, made the announcement on Jan. 23, naming Appalachian Wireless as one of 31 small or medium-sized companies across the state to earn the honor.

Of the 42 Kentucky companies named this year as the best places to work, Appalachian Wireless was the only company in the Big Sandy Valley on the list.

Ranking of the companies will be announced later at an awards dinner on April 21 at the Lexington Convention Center.

The program is a multi-year initiative designed to "motivate companies throughout the state to focus, measure and move their workplace environments toward excellence."

The categories of small-to-medium and large workplaces are considered based on 25 to 249 for small-to-medium companies and 250 or more employees for companies considered as large.

Card of Thanks

The family of Seth Addison Lafferty would like to express our appreciation to all who sent food, flowers, or perhaps said a kind word, and for the prayers that were spoken on our behalf. We especially want to thank Clergyman Graydon Howard for his comforting words; the Sheriff's Department for their assistance in traffic control; the Floyd County Rescue Squad; and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and professional care. All the acts of kindness will never be forgotten. Thank you, and God bless.

THE FAMILY OF SETH ADDISON LAFFERTY

Card of Thanks

The family of Astor Clay Collins would like to humbly thank each and every one who helped in any way during our recent loss, those who sent beautiful floral arrangements, food, or even words of encouragement. A special thanks to anyone that spoke kind words of comfort at the service; the Sheriff's Department for their assistance in traffic control; and the Hall Funeral Home staff for making our loss a little easier to bear. For anyone who may have helped in any other way, we lovingly say, thank you, and God bless.

THE FAMILY OF ASTOR CLAY COLLINS

Card of Thanks

The family of Jayne Frances Howland Pitts would like to sincerely say thank you to all of our wonderful friends and neighbors who helped to comfort our family during this difficult time. Thanks to those who sent flowers and food, or came by to share our loss; to Clergyman Larry Hall for his comforting words; the Sheriff's Department for providing us with an escort to the graveside; and to the staff at Hall Funeral Home for their kind and professional service. To all we thank you, God bless.

THE FAMILY OF JAYNE FRANCES HOWLAND PITTS

Card of Thanks

The Troy Hall family would like to thank friends and relatives who extended their prayers, condolences, services, visits, flowers, and food, during our bereavement period. We were truly blessed by the graciousness of the Hall Funeral Home staff; the Old Regular Baptist Church; the Allen Volunteer Fire Department; the remaining founding members of the fire department; and the escort provided by the police and fire departments. We would also like to thank the Brandy Keg Freewill Baptist Church for providing food at the funeral home, and the Allen Baptist Church for serving a dinner on the day of the funeral, January 21. We are extremely grateful to each of you and will carry a special place in our hearts for your loving kindness. Again, thank you, and may God bless each of you.

Card of Thanks

The family of Judge Hollie Conley wishes to express its heartfelt thank you to those who expressed condolences for the loss of our father. A special thank you to Arnold Turner, the Sheriff's Department; Hall Funeral Home; and our Conley Kentucky Food Store Family. Many thanks to Graceway Methodist Church and the ladies who kindly fed our family following the service.

The family would also like to express our sincere appreciation to all of the members of the community who shared many wonderful memories of the ways our father touched their lives. You may never know how much sharing these memories helped us through the most difficult time. May God bless each of you.

A reminder of rights we take for granted

We Americans sometimes take for granted even our most cherished freedoms, forgetting that people in much of the rest of the world do not enjoy such basic rights as freedom of speech.

Consider two events that made headlines this past week as the United States was inaugurating into office President Barack Obama, our new chief defender of freedoms.

Harry Nicolaides, an Australian working in Thailand, was sentenced to three years in prison for insulting the Thai monarchy in a novel he wrote. Now, this was not exactly Salman Rushdie's international best-seller, "The Satanic Verses," which prompted Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to issue a fatwa calling for Rushdie to be killed. Nicolaides' work was a self-published paperback that to date has sold exactly 10 copies.

The case against Nicolaides was brought under a Thai law that calls for prison terms of up to 15 years for anyone who "defames, insults or threatens" members of the royal family. Nicolaides was originally sentenced to six years, but that was cut in half when he agreed to plead guilty. He said he has endured "unspeakable suffering" in his five months of imprisonment so far.

The second incident came at the instant Obama uttered these words in his inaugural address: "Recall that earlier generations faced down fascism and communism not just with missiles and tanks, but with sturdy alliances and enduring convictions." As soon as he got to the word "communism," the censors at the state-run China Central Television could take no more. They cut away from the speech and went to an anchor interviewing an analyst.

Chinese translations of Obama's speech published by state-run news organizations censored the line about communism and another Obama passage about "those who cling to power through corruption and deceit and the silencing of dissent."

These are indeed precious things, our freedoms.

House week in review

by REP. HUBERT COLLINS

The state is anxious to see how much money would come our way from the over $800 billion federal stimulus bill proposed by President Obama. With a vote expected on the bill in the U.S. House next month, it could be only a matter of months before our state and local governments gets some relief should the bill clear Congress.

At the same time, we know better than to count chickens before they hatch, so to speak. The bill might not pass for quite a while. And even if it does, a state legislative economist told us last week not to expect much this fiscal year when the recession has about bled us dry. Any fiscal impact on the state, he said, will most likely take hold next fiscal year which begins on July 1.

First, let's look at what the bill proposes. The bill, in a nutshell, is a combination of tax cuts and increased spending to reduce get money flowing again and get the nearly 2 million people who lost their jobs in the recession, and then some, back to work. The tax cuts, which would include tax credits for workers and families and tax offsets for businesses, total around $275 billion. Increased spending to put people to work on infrastructure projects, fund unemployment insurance and other programs or projects would total around $550 billion.

If all goes well and the bill has the impact that the President and the bill's supporters hope, some estimate that an additional 3 to 4 million jobs would be created by the stimulus. That is great news if the stimulus works as planned. Right now, based on testimony from our staff economist in the Legislature, that is a big "if".

I know that isn't the most positive outlook, and the economist says he really can't say at this point what the impact will be because of shaky economic conditions. My point is that such uncertainty is the very reason we must be cautious about relying on any future stimulus windfall—we don't even know what the effect of the stimulus, if any, will be.

Here's what we know, from the staff economist's report: The stimulus can be very helpful to Kentucky if it occurs while we are still in deep recession since inflation would not be much of an issue. But if stimulus money and cuts take hold when the U.S. begins to move out of recession, whenever that may be, it could hurt the economy by putting more demand on goods and services and more pressure on inflation.

So, in other words, how much money will be allocated to the states under the bill won't make much of a difference if the money isn't pouring into the state at the right time, so say the experts.

Another factor in how well

Kentucky fares from any potential stimulus is the provisions under which allocations of federal money are made. It is a given that having more people at work will generate more income tax and sales tax by increasing citizen buying power. But states also have to consider an increase in federal funding for some programs would require additional state matching funds over what they have budgeted.

Some good news is the economist said he does not believe the bill would require the state to payback any funding it receives to boost its unemployment insurance trust fund, which is just months away from being depleted. And it requires the feds to pay more for Medicaid—a program that now consumes over 20 percent of state budgets.

He also told lawmakers that work projects planned in the bill to improve national road, transit and other systems could be temporary work or could sustain jobs depending on what kinds of projects are in place. That is what will determine long-term impact of those jobs, he said.

Some lawmakers sound hopeful about the stimulus, others less so. One lawmaker said he believes that any long-term economic recovery cannot really take place until the U.S. stabilizes its financial system. Others were hopeful that the bill would include funding for rural areas in need of help. Right now, there are no clear cut answers. It looks like all of us, even the experts, will just have to hope for the best and see what happens.

Bears end slide with win over St. Catharine

TIMES STAFF REPORT
PIKEVILLE - Pikeville College bounced back from back-to-back Mid-South Conference road losses to knock off St. Catharine College 88-77 Saturday afternoon.

The win evened the Bears at 2-2 in league play, 13-7 overall. Grity St. Catharine fell to 4-16 overall, 0-3 in the MSC. Pikeville's lead was 67-62 after junior Arthur Latham's free throw with 11:01 left, but the Bears needed only 2:28 to run off nine straight points. The first four came inside by junior Anthony Smith before senior J.B. Smiley scored on a layup and then hit a three.

The triple stretched the lead to 76-62 with 8:33 left, and while the Patriots managed to get as close as four, coming on another Latham free throw with 2:18 left, they couldn't get over the hump. From there, the Bears sank 7-of-8 from the line to outscore the Pats 9-2 the rest of the way. Pikeville won despite a stellar shooting day by St. Catharine. The Patriots hit 52.7 percent from the floor after scoring the nets for 65.2 percent shooting in the first half.

Valley fends off Prestonsburg, 73-37

by STEVE LeMASTER SPORTS EDITOR
PIKEVILLE - Prestonsburg earned its way into the 15th Region All "A" Classic championship game. The Blackcats posted wins over Sheldon Clark and Phelps en route to the title game versus Shelby Valley. Prestonsburg met Shelby Valley on Friday night in the 15th Region All "A" Classic championship game. The underdog in the title tilt, Prestonsburg fell behind early on and had to play from behind throughout. Shelby Valley outscored Prestonsburg 48-13 in the first half, beating the Blackcats 73-37.

good shots hard to come by in the championship contest. Senior Steven Patrick flipped in seven points and junior Joseph Jamerson added six. Michael Burchett and Cameron Tincer each had four points in the Prestonsburg setback. Alex Stumbo and Tyler Hall rounded out the Prestonsburg scoring with three points apiece. The Blackcats (9-8) were making their first appearance in this year's 15th Region All "A" Classic.

Blackcats top Tolsia

by STEVE LeMASTER SPORTS EDITOR
LOUISA - It didn't take the Prestonsburg Blackcats long to get back in the win column following a loss to Shelby Valley in the 15th Region All "A" Classic championship game Friday night. The Blackcats returned to the win column one day later, Saturday, defeating Tolsia, W.Va., 73-67 in the Border Battle at Lawrence County.

The Blackcats maintained a lead at the end of each quarter. Prestonsburg slipped out of the opening period ahead 9-8. The Blackcats enjoyed a balanced scoring effort. Prestonsburg owned a 29-24 lead when the game entered halftime.

Kentucky Afield Outdoors: Up-and-coming new year fishing destinations

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

FRANKFORT — Late January days last just a little longer than a month and offer anglers a ray of hope that fishing season lies right around the corner.

Anglers during this time of year daydream about catching fish on warm spring days. They think ahead of new waters to fish in the coming year.

Biologists and technicians for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' fisheries division compile the annual Fishing Forecast to fuel anglers' daydreams. The forecast provides current information about popular species in particular bodies of water based on population sampling and creel surveys. They spotlighted some up-and-coming fisheries for anglers to consider in 2009.

"Each fishery district looks at the data they compiled from spring and fall sampling in 2008 and predicts 'what they think the fishing will be for that species in that waterbody in 2009,'" said Jeff Ross, assistant director of fisheries for Kentucky Fish and Wildlife.

Most people associate Dale Hollow Lake with giant smallmouth bass as it is the home of the all-tackle world record and produces gobbs of hefty smallmouths each year. However, largemouth bass populations are improving with good numbers of 14-17 inch fish. Try fishing the willow trees and shoreline cover in the Wolf River embayment this spring. A willow leaf spinnerbait is a great choice to throw amongst the willows and helicopter down to waiting bass.

One of the most under-utilized fishing waters in the Commonwealth is our nameless Mill Creek Lake in the Kentucky River. Improving largemouth bass and crappie populations in the river should bring better fishing in 2009. For bass, target creek mouths, fallen trees or stumps, bank slides and in current breaks below dams with soft plastic jerkbaits and jigs.

Fallen trees and other wood cover hold crappie. Crappie don't like much flow and hold in backwater areas and behind current breaks. Good numbers of crappie longer than 10 inches live in the Kentucky River. A white or chartreuse curly-tailed or boot-shaped grub rigged weedless makes a good lure to probe in fallen trees or washed-in tree branches for crappie.

Mill Creek Lake in the Natural Bridge State Park now has some chunky, healthy largemouth bass swimming in its waters. The numbers of largemouth bass 15 inches or longer increased in the lake from previous years. Try probing flooded timber in the upper lake in spring with light line and smaller lures.

AREA LAKES

• Dewey Lake

• Fishtrap Lake

• Yatesville Lake

Beaver Lake in Anderson County is on the upswing for redear sunfish, commonly called shellcrackers as well as bluegill and largemouth bass. Weeds infuse Beaver Lake and make bass fishing difficult, but a suspending or soft plastic jerkbait fished just above the weeds should produce. The lake holds many bass around 12 inches with good potential for a trophy bass over 20 inches. Most of the large bass live in the lower portions of the lake.

Beaver Lake has many bluegill from 7-9 inches with trophy bluegill 10 inches and longer. Fish weedlines and brush with small curly-tailed grubs or feather jigs tipped with meal or wax worms. Many fat redear sunfish swim in Beaver Lake and a yellow curly-tailed grub fished in vegetation draws strikes. In Greenbrier Creek arms produces bass. Suspending jerkbaits fished near fallen trees or other cover also works.

The weeds grew back at Elmer Davis Lake in Owsen County and the largemouth bass responded well. Stable numbers of largemouth bass over 15 inches long exist in the lake, with many bass in the 12-15 inch protective slot limit. Many bluegill longer than 9 inches and redear sunfish longer than 10 inches now live in Elmer Davis. Try fishing around heavier lodges for bluegill and around weedbeds in the upper lake for redear sunfish.

These spots should get your line tightened and your drag screaming this spring. Request a copy of the 2009 Fishing Forecast by calling 1-800-858-1549. It will also be available soon on the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife homepage on the Internet at fw.ky.gov.

UK football players pile up stats

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON — Statistics for the 2008 college football season have been finalized, with the University of Kentucky faring well in several categories nationally and in the Southeastern Conference.

Here are some nuggets from the NCAA statistics:

- One of the team offensive goals this season was to reduce negative plays and the Wildcats were able to do so. UK ranked fourth in the nation in fewest quarterback sacks allowed and 11th in fewest tackles for loss allowed.

- UK ranked third in the nation in kickoff returns, averaging 26.39 yards per return. This was just shy of the school record of 26.40 per return set in 2005. This marked the first time in school history that two different players — Derrick Locke and David Jones — returned kickoffs for touchdowns in the same season.
- Kentucky's significant improvement in defense stacked up this way: UK has gone from 99th (2006) to 80th (2007) to 35th (2008) in scoring defense.

- The Wildcats gave up 21.5 points per game in 2008. UK's improvement of 8.1 points per game vs. 2007 is the nation's 14th most improved defense.
- From 2006-08, UK has gone from 118th to 67th to 40th nationally in total defense. UK gave up 332.4 yards per game during the '08 season.

- UK ranked 13th in the nation for fewest first downs allowed.
- Tim Masthay was fifth in the nation at 45.2 yards per punt.

- From the final SEC statistics: Kentucky led the SEC in kickoff returns at 26.39 per return (see additional notes

- UK led the SEC in fewest quarterback sacks allowed, a total of 13 and an average of one per game.
- UK led the SEC in net kickoff coverage, the second year in a row the Wildcats have led the league in that category.

- Tim Masthay led the SEC in punting with a 45.2-yard average per punt. That is the second-best single-season average in school history.
- Linebacker Micah Johnson was third in the SEC in tackles per game. He made 93 tackles, 8.5 per game (missed two games because of injury).

- Cornerback Robbie McAtee was second in the SEC in fumble recoveries.
- Cornerback Treadway Lindley led the league in total passes defended per game. He totaled 15 passes defended (four interceptions, 11 breakups) for an average of 1.15 per game.

- McClinton to Play in Texas vs. the Nation Game: Free safety Marcus McClinton has committed to play in the Texas vs. the Nation all-star game set for Sat. Jan. 31 at 3 p.m. EST in the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Texas.

- McClinton led the Wildcats with four interceptions in 2008. He totaled 10 pickoffs in his career, fourth-best in school history. He also totaled 181 tackles, nine pass breakups and eight fumbles caused during his years at UK, helping lead the team to bowl victories in each of his final three seasons.

- McClinton has been assigned to the Texas team and will wear uniform No. 22. The game will be televised on the CBS College Sports cable channel.

- This will be the third edition of the Texas vs. the Nation game. McClinton is the sec-

- and Wildcat to play in this contest. Offensive lineman Eric Scott participated last year.
- Pryor, Williams Play well in Shrine Game: Defensive tackle Myron Pryor and linebacker Johnny Williams played well in helping the East team to a 24-19 victory in the East-West Shrine Game held last Saturday in Houston, Texas.

- Williams began the game in fine fashion, slicing through the blockers on the opening kickoff and dumping the return at the 15-yard line. He totaled four tackles during the game.

- Pryor had six tackles, including a quarterback sack, and also assisted on another tackle for loss. On the first series of the game, on fourth-and-goal at the East one-yard line, he combined with Duke linebacker Michael Tauiliili to throw the ballcarrier for a two-yard loss, stopping the West on downs.

- In the second quarter, Pryor notched the only quarterback sack of the game, forcing the West to punt.
- Early entries for the NFL: Fourteen juniors from the Southeastern Conference decided to declare for early entry in the National Football League draft, including 12 who would have played against Kentucky during the 2009 season.

- Here's the list: Alabama — TB Glen Coffee, OT Andre Smith; Arkansas — TE Andrew Davie; Auburn — DT Sen'Derrick Marks, CB Jeraud Powers; Florida — WR Percy Harvin; Georgia — CB Asher Allen, TB Knowshon Moreno, QB Matthew Stafford; LSU — DT Ricky Jean-Francois; South Carolina — S Emanuel Cook, TE Jared Cook, CB Captain Munnerlyn; Vanderbilt — CB D.J. Moore.

injury during the finals. During his junior season, the Bears began a stretch of five consecutive years of unbeaten play against conference competition as it went to the NIAA National Tournament for the first time, with Rudd going 14-3 in singles competition. As a senior, Rudd was again a key member of a conference-championship squad with a 20-5 record, playing in the NIAA tournament in Lexington. During both his junior and senior seasons, the tennis team finished ranked in the national top 25.

Honorary Members: Since 2001, Pikeville College has honored those who have contributed to the athletics department in unique ways with membership into the Honorary Hall of Fame. These members have supported the athletics department at the school with time, money and their exceptional talents.

When Brad Daniels came to Pikeville College, it had no pep band. But under his guidance the band was reborn and has flourished. Daniels' band made our programs and nearly every Mid-South Conference basketball tournament under his guidance, as well as the 2001 NIAA semifinals, punctuating every performance with its stirring rendition of "My Old Kentucky Home."

Jeremy Davis began his involvement with Pikeville College athletics through the work study program as a freshman and has remained with it nearly ever since. A holder of two degrees from the school, Davis has worked an operation of the shot clock at basketball games and the play clock for football contests. Now an educator and city councilman in his native Delbarton, W.Va., Davis has continued working scorer's tables and press boxes for the Bears.

A graduate of the Pikeville College Academy, Howard Lockhart has been a staple at sporting events for decades. Considered by many an "ex-officio" coach for most sports, Lockhart has long banged the drum for Pikeville College and its athletics programs. "Pikeville College needs Howard Lockhart and more people like him," said men's basketball coach Kelly Wells. "He certainly adds a lot to our programs and is someone we've grown used to having around on a daily basis."

SPORTS EDITOR

PAINTSVILLE — Prestonsburg was outscored 22-2 in the first quarter and could never recover Monday night on the road at Paintsville. The Lady Tigers were too much for Prestonsburg, defeating the Lady Blackcats 72-34 in a non-district matchup.

Paintsville, which fell to eventual champion Sheldon Clark in the 15th Region All "A" Classic, placed three players in double figures in the scoring column. Leah VanHoose was the top scorer for Paintsville, finishing with 22 points. Brittanie Chaffins scored 18 points and Laura Carroll added 15.

The Lady Tigers led 43-19 at halftime outscored Prestonsburg 19-8 in the third quarter. Paintsville improved to 13-4 after recording the impressive win.

For Prestonsburg, Catie Burchett scored a team-high 11 points. Alex DeRossett added nine points and Lindsey Fields scored seven for the Lady Blackcats.

Prestonsburg dropped to 2-14 with the loss.

Eagles defeat Eastern Kentucky

TIMES STAFF REPORT

MOREHEAD — Maze Stallworth had 18 points, Leon Buchanan 15, points and Kenneth Fraser had a game-high 12 rebounds to lead Morehead State University to a 68-64 Ohio Valley Conference win over Eastern Kentucky in front of a raucous crowd of 5,350 Saturday evening in Johnson Arena.

"It was a great atmosphere, the energy in the arena was incredible," said MSU Coach Donnie Tyndall. "This was the best atmosphere we've had since I've been back at MSU as head coach. And, I want to thank all of our fans, students, alumni and the many members, everybody that came tonight."

"You've got to give Eastern Kentucky credit. The way they play, it's always a grind. Every single possession is tooth and nail. Both teams competed and played extremely hard."

Eastern Kentucky (11-9, 4-5 OVC) was led by Mike Rose who scored a game-high 22 points. Jorge Camacho had 15 points and seven rebounds, Joshua Jones had 11 points and Justin Stommes added 10 points for the Colonels.

Morehead State (11-10, 7-2 OVC) led by one point, 33-32, at halftime. After three second half ties, the Eagles took the lead for good on a three-pointer by Robert Murry with 8:05 remaining. But, MSU could never put the Colonels away. The Eagles were never able to lead by more than eight points, and EKU was still within one point, 65-64, with 10 seconds remaining. Two free throws by Brandon Shingles and one by Demonte Harper sandwiched an EKU turnover gave MSU the victory.

The Eagles won the rebounding battle, 33-24, but committed 16 turnovers to only six for the Colonels.

MSU now prepares to host OVC rival Tennessee State for a nationally televised contest on Thursday (Jan. 29). Tipoff for the ESPN game is scheduled for 9 p.m. The MSU-TSU women's game will tip off at 6:15 p.m.

EKU's Camacho named OVC Freshman of the Week: Jorge Camacho was named the Ohio Valley Conference Freshman of the Week for men's basketball as announced by the league office Monday. Camacho came off the bench to lead Eastern Kentucky University in rebounding in both games last week.

Camacho is the third Colonel to win the OVC Freshman of the Week award this season. The forward averaged 14.5 points and 7.0 rebounds in two games last week. He connected on 63.2 percent (12-of-19) of his shots from the floor and 5-of-7 (71.4 percent) from the free throw line. The native of Hermosillo, Mexico posted a season-high 14 points in a win at Chicago State on Jan. 16 before increasing that total by one (15) at Morehead State on Jan. 24. Camacho finished with seven rebounds in each contest.

Kentucky Speedway to be included in new Nationwide Insurance 'Dash 4 Cash'

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

SPARTA — Kentucky Speedway's "Meijer 300 Presented by Ritz" will be one of four 2009 NASCAR Nationwide Series races included in the new "Nationwide Insurance Dash 4 Cash." In addition to the "Meijer 300 Presented by Ritz," the "Dash 4 Cash" will add $25,000 to the winner's purse for one of two NASCAR Nationwide Series races staged at Nashville Superspeedway as well as events at Iowa Speedway Aug. 1 and Memphis Motorsports Park Oct. 24.

All NASCAR Nationwide Series participants including NASCAR Sprint Cup Series drivers running a full series schedule will be eligible for the bonus. If a driver who is not eligible wins one of the races, prize money will be rolled over to the next race in the competition. The program also includes a $50,000 season-end bonus to the eligible driver with the highest points total over the four races.

"We wanted to provide some additional support for drivers on our series. We also hope that these bonuses encourage competition and contribute to more exciting racing for the fans," said John Amn, associate vice president of strategic sponsorships for Nationwide.

Nationwide Insurance also will drive additional series interest among fans by partnering with ESPN.com to conduct an interactive weekly Nationwide "Driver Pick 'Em" contest. Fans can log-in to ESPN.com to select winners of 10 head-to-head match-ups for each of the 35 scheduled NASCAR Nationwide Series races this season. The contest will award weekly and season-long cash prizes to winners.

Nationwide, based in Columbus, Ohio, is one of the largest diversified insurance and financial services organizations in the world. Nationwide ranks 108 on the Fortune 500 list. The company provides a full range of insurance and financial services, including auto insurance, motorcycle, boat, homeowners, life, farm, commercial insurance, administrative services, annuities, mortgages, mutual funds, pensions, long-term savings plans and health and productivity services. MSU women roll over EKU, 63-46

MOREHEAD — The Morehead State University women's basketball team used a 16-2 run in the final nine minutes of the first half Saturday against Eastern Kentucky to vault them to a double digit halftime lead, and MSU never let the lead slip under double figures in the final half in defeating the Lady Colonels 63-46 at Johnson Arena. It marked the fifth straight win for MSU over EKU and moved the Eagles to 12-9 overall and 6-3 in the Ohio Valley Conference. EKU fell to 6-12 and 3-6.

MSU won its 13th straight home game, improving to a perfect 10-0 in Johnson Arena this season.

Junior Brittany Pittman recorded her eighth double-double of the season with 20 points and a game-high 13 rebounds to go along with four blocks. Sophomore Chynna Bozeman led the Eagles with 22 points and also had five rebounds and a team best five assists in 35 minutes on the floor.

Eastern Kentucky was led by Iona Muszak with 18 points on a 5-for-12 day from three-point range. Nadia Mossong had 10 points and eight boards.

The Eagles shot 46 percent for the game and upped that to an efficient 60 percent (12-of-20) in the second half. On defense, MSU held the Lady Colonels to 29 percent from the field and just 21 percent (5-of-23) in the opening half when the Eagles led 27-14. MSU also out-rebounded EKU 39-32.

The Lady Colonels led 13-9 at the 9:19 mark of the first half after a Muszak layup. Tiffany Hamilton converted a layup to pull the Eagles to within two (13-11). That would be the last points for the Lady Colonels until a Sarah Fraser-Jones' jumper at 3:27. Tiffany Stephens hit a three-pointer at the 7:47 time space, and the Eagles took a 14-13 lead they never relinquished. The Eagles ended the half on a 16-2 run and scored the first four for a 20-2 run that was capped off with a Hamilton layup with 18:42 left in the game.

The Eagles built their largest lead of the night at the 3:36 point after a Pittman jumper pushed MSU's advantage to 21 (58-37).

Morehead State University junior guard Maze Stallworth (Elizabethown) elevated for a shot over an Eastern Kentucky University defender when the two teams met Saturday.

Funeral services set for MSU athletics staff member

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

MOREHEAD — Funeral services will be conducted Thursday, Jan. 29, for Larry W. Stephenson, 68, longtime student personnel officer, at Morehead State University, who died Saturday at a Lexington hospital. He was currently serving Eagle athletics as a staff assistant working with tickets and game-day operations.

An MSU alumnus, he held a bachelor's degree in health and physical education, a master's degree in education and a master's degree in higher education degree, Rank I, and elementary principal certification.

Stephenson started working for Morehead State in 1967 and held several positions, including residence hall director, director of student housing, dean of students and director of administrative services and director of student activities.

He retired from full-time service to MSU in 2000 but returned later to work in athletics. He also was assistant tournament director for numerous 16th Region high school basketball tournaments.

Stephenson advised MSU's Student Government Association for nearly 20 years and the SGA showed its appreciation by naming its scholarship endowment fund in his honor.

A graduate of Raceland High School, he received MSU's Distinguished Staff Service Award in 2000.

Funeral services will be conducted 11 a.m. Thursday, at the Morehead United Methodist Church with the Rev. Bruce Nettleton officiating. Burial will follow in Lee Cemetery. Visitation will be after 3 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 28, at Northcutt & Son Home for Funerals.

He is survived by one daughter, Kerry Conrad and husband

Dale of Falmouth; one son, Robert (Cray) Stephenson and wife Michelle of Milton, Fla.; and four grandchildren, Brandon Stephenson and wife Hailey, Megan Ross, Patrick Stephenson, and Kelton Stephenson. Also surviving are one brother, Michael Stephenson and wife Mary of Bardstown; and one sister, Sue Crouch of Cold Spring.

In lieu of flowers, memorials are suggested to the MSU Foundation, designated to the Larry Stephenson SGA Endowment Fellowship, Palmer Development House, Morehead, Ky. 40351 or the Morehead United Methodist Church Memorial Fund or Building Fund, 227 West Main Street, Morehead, Ky. 40351.

Moore named new head football coach at KCU

TIMES STAFF REPORT

GRAYSON — Zack Moore has been named the new head football coach at Kentucky Christian University in Grayson. Moore has served on the KCU Football Staff since the Fall of 2006. This past season, he was the team's defensive coordinator and assistant head coach. Moore played linebacker at Morehead State from 1996-1998. He then spent 8 years on the MSU staff before coming to KCU.

"We feel extremely fortunate to have Zack Moore running our football program," commented KCU Athletic Director Rick Cooper. "To have someone of his caliber already on staff here at KCU made his promotion an easy decision. I appreciate his passion to win, his commitment to win the right way, and his willingness to invest in our guys both on and off the field."

Moore and his wife Kelley reside in Grayson. They have three children: MacKenzie (6), Maci (4), and Madelyn (1).

Moore replaces Dane Dameron, KCU's first head football coach. Dameron accepted a position on the Eastern Kentucky University football staff in late December.

Verizon to sponsor Penske Nationwide No. 12 in 2009

TIMES STAFF REPORT

MOORESVILLE, N.C. — Penske Racing announced Monday that it will team with Verizon Wireless to field a full-season entry in the 2009 Nationwide Series. The No. 12 Verizon Wireless Dodge will be driven by Justin Allgaier, the 2008 ARCA Re/Max Series champion. Allgaier, 22, made four Nationwide starts for Penske Racing in '08 after joining the team in late September.

Penske Racing will also continue its participation in the Cup Series with the No. 12 Dodge driven by David Stremme. He will be joined by teammates Kurt Busch in the No. 2 and Sam Hanks Jr. driving the No. 77 in the three-car effort. Stremme, the 2003 Nationwide Series rookie of the year, also promises to be extremely competitive in the coming season in Cup Series competition. The

No. 12 Cup Series team also retains its crew chief and will debut a new paint scheme in 2009, beginning with the Budweiser Shootout on Saturday, Feb. 7.

"Penske Racing enjoyed a productive, winning relationship with Alltel over the last decade," said Roger Penske, chairman of Penske Racing. "We look forward to building on that solid foundation and in sharing many future successes with our new partner, Verizon Wireless."

"Everyone at Verizon Wireless is very excited to join the Penske Racing team," said Mike Lanman, chief marketing officer for Verizon Wireless. "Innovation, reliability and technology are the cornerstones of our business and we know our partners at Penske Racing value those same ideals. We can't wait for the start of the 2009 racing season."

Beshear declares emergency following snow and ice storms

Declaration enables state resources to be mobilized against winter storm

FRANKFORT — Gov. Steve Beshear declared an emergency Tuesday in Kentucky because of a powerful winter storm. The declaration enables state resources to be mobilized to assist cities and counties in coping with power outages and other damage wrought by ice and snow.

"When winter weather hits, it is crucial that our citizens know that their state government is doing everything possible to ensure their safety and well-being," the governor said in a news conference. "We are prepared to use every available resource to help Kentuckians make it through these rough conditions, whatever may come."

A winter storm that blew into Kentucky on Monday has much of the commonwealth encased in ice and snow today. Some 60,000 Kentuckians are reported without power this afternoon, mostly in western Kentucky. Outage reports have come mostly west of Interstate 65 and south of I-64.

Gov. Beshear said primary areas of concern are roads, electric power, heating assistance and shelter.

Kentucky Transportation Cabinet road crews worked through the night and are still working today to keep main routes at least passable. Crews have been hampered by downed trees and sagging power lines in many areas, especially in the Jackson Purchase and Pennyrite. At one point this morning, plows were out in 105 counties.

Snow turning to rain this afternoon raises the danger of more ice tonight and an additional hazard of water ponding on roadways.

In his news conference at the Transportation Operations Center (TOC), in Frankfort, Gov. Beshear said he and Transportation Secretary Joe Prather have directed all

Department of Highways district offices to directly contact local government leaders to offer assistance and ensure efforts are coordinated.

The governor said the Kentucky Division of Emergency Management (KYEM) has been tracking this weather system since late last week and has maintained open communications with the National Weather Service Offices and state and local officials.

Emergency Management regional response managers will continue to monitor their counties and facilitate any local official's request for assistance.

As of noon today, no weather-related injuries or deaths had been reported. However, 11 counties had declared states of emergency. Elsewhere, Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government implemented its snow emergency plan, mostly to assist road crews. A shelter was opened in Hopkins County at the First Methodist Church, Madisonville, and is housing nine people.

Gov. Beshear also drew attention to the state's Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), a short-term aid program that is now in its "crisis" phase. Assistance during this component helps families facing home heating emergencies.

Community Action Kentucky (CAK) administrators LIHEAP benefits through its network of 23 community action agencies under a contract with the Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services. Every county has at least one community action agency office.

The crisis component runs through March 31, or until funds are depleted. In the crisis assistance phase, maximum benefits vary depending on families' fuel source.

As of mid-January, more than 49,500 applications had been approved for crisis assistance. Assistance may take the form of utility payment, service reconnection, blankets, space heaters on loan or deliveries of fuel like firewood, coal or propane. Relief is provided within 48 hours, or 18 hours in an emergency.

The governor also announced that nonessential state government employees were being sent home at 3 p.m. today and encouraged to use their best judgment about reporting to duty stations on Wednesday. "Safety is our top priority," the governor said.

Work

aged by Best Companies Group, is based on an internal employee survey. The idea behind part of the program is for companies to use the surveys as guidelines for how to improve the workplace for employees.

At its core, the program is based on the well-known Fortune magazine's "100 Best Companies to Work for in America" list.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Kentucky has more than 14,000 privately-owned businesses with 20 or more employees.

Board

by Hall.

"I'm excited to be part of this team and to get started," Hopkins said.

The second member to take the oath of office was Rhonda Meade, who replaces long-term member Carol Stumbo. Stumbo did not seek reelection to the position.

Meade was the first new board member to participate, seconding a motion by Dr. Chandra Varia to adopt the agenda for the meeting.

The final member to take the oath of office was Jeff Stumbo, chair of the board of education. Stumbo was praised by Hall and by other board members, and was reelected to another term as chair at the end of the meeting. Linda Gearheart was selected to serve as vice-chair.

Also at the meeting, Steve Little, an officer with the Prestonsburg Police Department, accepted recognition from the board for the Shop With a Cop program. The program provided a Christmas shopping spree for 67 children in 2008.

May Valley Elementary School was also honored at the meeting, with Supt. Henry Webb presenting Principal Tonya Williams and her staff with a large medallion for being a Blue Ribbon School.

The Blue Ribbon Schools Program is a United States government program created to honor schools. The Blue Ribbon award is considered to be the highest honor that an American school can achieve.

Obituaries

Burial will be in Brushy Chapel Cemetery.

Visitation is Tuesday, January 27, 2-7 p.m., at the funeral home.

Jewelry artist featured at Pikeville College's Weber Gallery

PIKEVILLE — For jewelry artist Courtney Starrett, her work blurs the boundaries between knit, craft, fashion, fibers, metalsmithing and jewelry design. Her creative approach also includes a special interest in alternative materials, computer aided design and rapid prototyping technologies.

Starrett's works will be featured in Pikeville College's Weber Art Gallery beginning Monday, Feb. 2, with an opening reception at 10 a.m. and an artist lecture and demonstration at 11 a.m. The show, titled RubberMade, will be on display through March 5. The campus and community are cordially invited to attend.

RubberMade is a collection of wearable objects created by exploring materials and forms from the kitchen and the laboratory. The 1950s were a time defined by new and exciting products for the home thanks to government-funded wartime projects and research scientists, Starrett explained, adding that Tupperware(G), Technicolor and the ranch-style house with the private yard were "must haves" in order to keep up with the Joneses.

"In the last 60 years, these tokens of the ideal lifestyle have become ubiquitous elements of the American Dream," Starrett said. "It is impossible to live life in America free of pop culture influence and stereotype stigmas. A young girl is either influenced to be like her mother or rebel against the model she witnessed growing up. I spent my younger years as a tomboy, certain that I would never be a wife who enjoyed baking, keeping house and reading Martha Stewart."

"Years later, when I married and moved into my own 1950s suburban home, I found that I had an inexplicable desire to collect kitchen tools, wear a bright colored apron and bake sweet treats for my new husband," said Starrett. "Fascinated by my desire to do all the things that I had always rejected, I started to contemplate the internal conflicts that arise when social pressures and personal preference differ. I realized that I now have choices: the apron no longer represents the woman's expected place in the kitchen, but the freedom to be there if I so desire. The objects I create are meant to provoke questions about the social standards and how they came to be."

Starrett currently serves as assistant professor of metals/jewelry at Winthrop University in South Carolina. She earned a bachelor of fine arts in design, with emphasis in jewelry and metals, from the University of Kansas. The artist continued her education in Philadelphia where she earned a master's degree in fine arts from Tyler School of Art. Starrett has participated in exhibitions across the United States and in Germany and her work is included in the permanent interactive collection at the Museum of Contemporary Craft in Portland, Ore. Her art and research have been published in Art Jewelry magazine, Lark Books "500 Necklaces," and was most recently featured on the cover of the August 2008 Metalsmith Magazine Exhibition in Print. For more information on the featured artist or for Weber Art Gallery hours, please contact Rae Goodwin at (606) 218-5759 or e-mail rgoodwin@pc.edu, or contact Pat Kowalok at (606) 218-5758 or e-mail pkowalok@pc.edu.

Kentucky Folklife Program collecting documentation of inaugural celebration

FRANKFORT — Did your organization or church record a sermon or oration about the significance of President Barack Obama's inauguration? The American Folklife Center (AFC) would like to receive a copy of recordings made between Jan. 16 and Jan. 25 to include in their collection.

In an effort to document this historic time around the country, the AFC is seeking as wide a representation of orations as possible, including religious and secular celebrations. Audio and video recordings in any format, photos, and printed programs will be accepted by the AFC and will become part of the Library of Congress American Folklife Center collections.

The Kentucky Folklife Program (KFP), an interagency program of the Kentucky Historical Society and the Kentucky Arts Council, joined the initiative of the AFC by collecting recordings of local orations and sermons regarding the significance of the inauguration from citizens in the commonwealth.

If you have a recording of a local inaugural event and would like to submit it to the AFC, please call the staff of the KFP for assistance. Required release forms and information sheets can be found on the AFC Web site at www.loc.gov/folklife/inaugural/index.html.

The KFP staff can assist with the required forms and mailing regulations for any interested parties that submit recordings by Feb. 26.

The mission of the KFP is to identify, document, and conserve the state's diverse cultural traditions, generally referred to as folklife. The KFP strives to increase awareness of the state's folklife through diverse cultural programming.

For more information about the KFP or for assistance with submitting inaugural documentation to the AFC, contact Bob Gates, KHS folklife program director, at 502-564-1792, ext. 4481 or by email at bob.gates@ky.gov.

Go Red for Women

February is American Heart Month

February 6th marks the 6th annual American Heart Association's Go Red for Women Day! Join the millions of women who will wear red to help raise awareness of heart disease as the No. 1 killer of women. Show your support of the Go Red For Women movement by wearing red and becoming a part of reducing heart disease in America's women.

It's not hard to reduce your risk for heart disease. Start today with small, simple actions like these:

- Celebrate with a checkup. Let each birthday remind you that it's time for your yearly checkup and a talk with your doctor about how you can reduce your risk for heart disease.
- Get off the couch. Step, march or jog in place for at least 30 minutes most days of the week — you can even do it while watching TV.
- Quit smoking in four steps. Can't go "cold turkey"? Cut the number of cigarettes you smoke each day in half, then cut that number in half, cut it in half again, finally, cut down to zero!
- Drop a pound or two. Cutting out just 200 to 300 calories a day — about one candy bar's worth — can help you lose up to two pounds per week and gradually bring you closer to a heart-healthy weight.
- Become a salt detective. Check out the Nutrition Facts panel on packaged foods to see how much sodium (salt) they contain. Aim for a total intake of no more than 2,300 milligrams (about a teaspoon of salt) per day.

POISON OAK

On a Sunday afternoon

by CLYDE PACK

With old familiar hymns bouncing from one hill to another in true Bible belt fashion, one of the most exciting community events when I was growing up in eastern Kentucky was a baptism. I say "community event" because practically everybody, church-goers and dirty-dog sinners alike, seemed to forget the war raging in Europe and thus the absence of most of their young men between the ages of 17 and 30, and would assemble on those summer Sunday afternoons to participate in, or simply watch, the familiar religious rite.

Clyde Pack

Since few churches in those days had baptistries, most of the time baptisms were conducted in the muddy waters of the dammed-up creek that ran in front of the church house. Young boys sat with their feet dangling over the edge of the bank, and little girls, all dressed up in their Sunday finest, and the adults, stood anywhere there was a place level enough for them to stand. Sometimes, if it was real hot, some of the older women held umbrellas over themselves to keep the sun off the backs of their necks, while they waved funeral home fans with their free hands.

As the crowd would edge closer to the water, each person trying for just a little better view, someone, usually one of the half dozen preachers in the crowd—but not necessarily one who could carry a tune—would begin, "Shall we gather at the river, the beautiful, beautiful river..." and knowing the words by heart, those who wished would join in.

Actually, there was very little beauty to our "beautiful river" just a few unidentified weeds and a saw briar or two, now hidden by the 50 or so onlookers who filled the afternoon with song. Ours was the same "river" from which, Monday through Saturday, we'd seine for minnows and crawdads with an old split coffee sack, it was the same "river" from which we'd get on our bellies and drink, if we got hot and thirsty from playing. But when the crowds would gather as far as we were concerned, the now thigh-high-to-a-grown-man water was the mighty Jordan.

Most of the baptisms I remember were the result of a week-long (or longer) revival, usually held by a big preacher from off. And most of the time, at least a dozen or more newly-saved (or back-slided) Christians, after having been convinced by the word of God, or dragged kicking and screaming from their pews (the Free Will have been accused from time to time of being overly persuasive), would take the plunge.

Anyway, my young boys in the community thoroughly enjoyed a good baptismal service, and perhaps, without really meaning to, rated each immersion. It's not like we held up numbered cards like at the Olympics, but we'd say things like, "Boy, he really shouted a lot didn't he?" Or, "Well, she sure didn't shout much."

"Yeah, that's the way she done the last time."
 That's what we did sometimes on a Sunday afternoon. Nowadays, we just go to the mall.

Students from May Valley Elementary recently visited the National Science Center's Mobile Discovery Center van at Allen Central Middle School. The van was scheduled for multiple visits at several county schools, but the snowy weather caused the cancellation of school on those dates.

CURIOUS MINDS

Snow day can't keep May Valley students from science exercise

by JARRID DEATON
 FEATURES WRITER

The winter weather has kept the doors of Floyd County schools closed for the majority of the month, but some students from May Valley Elementary recently took advantage of a relatively fair day to visit the National Science Center's Mobile Discovery Center at Allen Central Middle School. The mobile unit is housed in an 18-wheeler van that is staffed by the U.S. Army and Department of Army civilian personnel. The van serves as both a classroom and an exhibit hall, promoting science, technology, and math to the students at the schools that it visits.

"Discovering the wonders of science and math comes in many forms and can be accomplished in a variety of ways," said Waymon Steward, program manager for the Mobile Discovery Center. "When the National Science Center's Mobile Discovery Center van visits schools, students and teachers alike are immersed in the excitement of hands-on science."

The Discovery Center was originally supposed to visit Allen Central Middle School, Allen Central High School, Duff Elementary School, May Valley Elementary School, and Osborne Elementary School, but the bad weather and road conditions caused the cancellation of school on all the scheduled dates.

The group of May Valley students, from third and fifth-grade, asked plenty of questions during the time that they spent with the Discovery Center van and its staff, and were able to participate in hands-on science demonstrations, small interactive exhibits, and other displays. Each presentation takes around 50 minutes, with up to six sessions conducted each day on a normal schedule. The sessions can accommodate around 40 students per visit.

"We hope they will be able to come back when the weather gets better," said Beverly Crissman, director of community education for the Floyd County Board of Education. "It's a great thing and the kids from May Valley really enjoyed it." The Mobile Discovery Center programs are made possible by a partnership between the U.S. Army and the National Science Center, Inc. For more information about the programs and services offered by the National Science Center, visit the website at <http://www.nationalsciencecenter.org>.

InHarmony: women's community chorus begins new year

PRESTONSBURG — All Eastern Kentucky women ages 13 plus are invited to join The Big Sandy Community and Technical College community-based female singing group, InHarmony, as they begin a new semester of rehearsals and performances. Ladies can join the group by attending the first rehearsal on either Monday, Feb. 2, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in Gearheart Auditorium, Pike Building, Prestonsburg Campus. There are no auditions and no fee to join. Choir Director Laura Ford Hall welcomes girls of all ages. "We welcome our students, faculty, staff, and especially community members to join us. We have a wonderful women's chorus, and I look forward to a new semester of good music and fun." InHarmony will be singing a variety of music this semester including pop, country, oldies, and gospel. Songs include a medley of 80's tunes that include "Walk Like an Egyptian," "Mickey," "Girls Just Wanna Have Fun." The group will also be singing "All American Girl" by Carrie Underwood, "Listen to the Music" an oldies favorite, as well as Sarah Brightman and Andrea Bocelli's "Time to Say Goodbye" and much more! "Any lady can join InHarmony," Hall said. "We would love to have beginners and experienced singers, as well as everyone in-between." The choir serves the BSCTC campuses of Pikeville, Prestonsburg, and Paintsville, so all eastern Kentucky citizens are welcome. However, those wishing to join should be thirteen or older. The choir is accompanied by Alicia Hughes, pianist for the Kentucky Opry Orchestra, with Tim Cooley Technical Director. The group will meet every Monday at the same time until the final performances during April and May. Music and a performance shirt will be provided for each member. Questions can be directed by emailing Hall at laura.hall@kctcs.edu.

Ten Years Ago

(Jan. 22 and 27, 1999)

Richard H.C. Clay, President of the Kentucky Bar Association, is in town today to meet with local attorneys, and speak to young people. The Louisville lawyer will meet with the area's volunteer lawyer organization at 8 a.m., and with other members of the Floyd County Bar Association at 8:30, in the Justice Center.

Floyd County Board of Education members took almost six hours to deal with the items on the regularly-scheduled board meeting at Adams Middle School, Tuesday night, and Wednesday morning, with the meeting adjourning after midnight.

The Central Kentucky Blood Center is sponsoring its fifth annual Children's Art and High School Scholarship Essay Contest, with the theme "Give Blood—The Gift of Life."

Although it closed the Adams Middle School parking lot, a diesel spill early Thursday morning did not stop school from starting on time. Prestonsburg firefighters used sand to stop the spill from spreading and then used orange cones to cordon off the area.

Pam Blackburn has been working long hours since the first of the month, learning the Floyd County tax collection system and helping her husband, Sheriff John K. Blackburn, in his role as the county's tax collector. Whether she can receive pay as a full-time, regular employee of the sheriff's office is still up in the air.

Last weekend, Jodi Shepherd's dance team made their third trip to St. Louis' old Union Station, and for the third straight year they have returned home national champions. But this year, they are the Grand National Champions.

The case of Billy J. "Bailey" Little, 57, of Town Branch Road, arrested earlier this month on a charge of conspiracy to commit murder, will go before a Floyd County grand jury. That was the ruling yesterday of District Judge Eric Hall who presided at the pretrial hearing.

The board of Floyd County Solid Waste officially turned the organization's finances over to the county's administrative office at Monday evening's meeting. In an agreement with Judge-Executive Paul H. Thompson, the solid waste group passed a resolution to let the fiscal court handle its assets and pay its payroll and other debts.

Even though the water and sewage problems facing the city were not on the agenda for Monday night's regularly-scheduled meeting, the topics came up several times during the Martin City Council meeting.

State Senator Benny Ray Bailey, prison officials, and local leaders were on hand, Thursday, as about 250 visitors witnessed the dedication and ribbon-cutting ceremony for Outer Creek Correctional Center's (OCCC) 256-bed expansion at Wheelwright.

If predictions from the Kentucky State Data Center hold up, Floyd County will continue to lose population in the next census, and well beyond.

Floyd County sports editor Ed Taylor says that Floyd County's grade schools basketball tournament is the "greatest show in the county." East Kentucky Women in Leadership will present the second annual Vision for East Kentucky Women Award, in conjunction with the 12th annual East Kentucky Leadership Conference, April 23-24.

Although Environmental Protection Agency investigators found no evidence of emissions over regulatory limits, some Dwale residents maintained that fumes were escaping from a plant in the area.

James Poston Jr., 29, of Abbott Creek, and Ronnie D. Hall, 29, of Galveston, were convicted of the first degree robbery of a store at Toler Creek.

Hearing officer Susan Johnson, a Paintsville attorney, recommended that the State Department of Surface Mining drop its case against Gary Branham and Triple B Mining, which had been accused of mining without a permit at a site on US 23, north of Prestonsburg. Sneezgs and sniffles abounding in the school district, prompted officials to close school for the rest of the week.

There died: Lewis Adkins, 86, of Martin, January 18, at the Mountain View Health Care Center.

Offie F. Ellis, 44, of Prestonsburg, January 17, at St. Joseph Hospital; Joe H. Gayheart, 67, of Garret, January 16, at the Veterans' Hospital in Lexington.

Several hundred Floyd County residents were indirect sufferers from the Big Sandy River which, last week, threatened, but did not reach flood stage.

After receiving a consultant's report on the asbestos situation at Prestonsburg High School, the task force named by Governor Carroll recommended, Monday, that the Floyd County Board of Education move immediately to remove the cancer-causing agent from the school.

Alternating freezes and thaws, snow and rain, have created road conditions that actual flooding would have found hard to match. It was indicated, this week, in reports from vari-

2005, by a deed recorded on November 28, 2005, in Deed Book 518, Page 538.

Terms of Sale:
(a) At the time of sale, the successful bidder, if the other than the Plaintiff, shall either pay cash or 20% of purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days.

(b) The successful bidder shall be required to execute a bond with good surety thereon for the unpaid purchase price of said property, if any, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum, from the date of sale until paid, having the force and effect of a judgment.

(c) The property shall be sold subject to any easements and restrictions of record in the Floyd County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption as may exist in favor of the United States of America and/or the record owners thereof, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 2410 or KRS 426.530.

(d) The purchaser shall be required to assume and pay all city and county ad valorem taxes for the year 2009, and all subsequent years which are not yet due and payable. Any and all delinquent city and county ad valorem taxes will be paid from the sale proceeds.

(e) In the event the Plaintiff is the purchaser of the above-described property, for an amount equal to, or less than, its first lien, it shall take a credit against said lien for the amount of the bid, and no bond shall be required of the Plaintiff, and it shall only be obligated to pay court costs, the fees and costs of the Master of Commission, and any real estate taxes assessed against the real estate.

Any announcements made on date of sale take precedence over printed matter contained herein.
Hon. William S. Kendrick, Floyd Master Commissioner

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant to Application Number 836-9028

In accordance with KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Landfill Mining, Incorporated, P.O. Box 376, Shelbiana, Kentucky 41562, has applied for a permit for a surface refuse recovery operation and reclamation operation, affecting 31.1 acres, located 0.1 mile northeast of Wayland, in Floyd County.

HOME FIRES America's Biggest Disaster Threat

4 Out Of 5 Americans Are Unaware That Home Fires Are The Most Common Disaster Threat.

Preparedness is your best defense against deadly fires. Use these checklists to make your home safe and prepare your family.

To prevent fires before they start:
 Never leave burning candles unattended
 Keep fuel (paper, clothing, bedding) at least three feet away from heat sources

To stay safe from fires:
 Create a home fire escape plan
 Practice your plan at least twice a year
 Install smoke alarms and escape ladders
 Replace smoke alarm batteries at least once a year
 Purchase and learn how to use fire extinguishers safely

Visit www.redcross.org or contact your local American Red Cross chapter today to learn more.

Nearly 3 in 4 people killed in home heating fires used space heaters

Nearly three in four people killed in home heating fires in 2006 died in fires that involved (stationary or portable) space heaters, according to a new report released by the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA).

In 2006, heating equipment was involved in an estimated 64,100 U.S. home structure fires, 540 civilian deaths, 1,400 civilian injuries, and $943 million in direct property damage. The peak months for home heating fires are December, January and February. NFPA urges the public to be cautious when using heating equipment.

Other key findings from Home Fires Involving Heating Equipment report:

- Home heating fires are more likely to occur in the evening and peak between 6:00 p.m. and 11:00 p.m.

- Fatal home heating fires are more likely to occur between midnight and 10:00 a.m.
- The leading factor contributing to home heating fires was when heating equipment was left too close to things that can burn.
- Sixty percent of the confined chimney and flue fires (2003-2006) occurred because the chimney was not cleaned.
- NFPA offers the following heating safety tips:
 - Keep anything that can burn at least three feet away from heating equipment, such as the furnace, fireplace, wood stove, or portable heater.
 - Only use heating equipment that has the label of a recognized testing laboratory.
 - Never use your oven for heating.
 - Have a qualified professional install stationary space heating equipment, water - heaters, or central heating equipment according to the local codes and manufacturer's instructions.

- Maintain heating equipment and chimneys by having them cleaned and inspected annually by a qualified professional.
- Turn portable heaters off when leaving the room or going to bed.
- For fuel burning space heaters, always use the proper fuel as specified by the manufacturer.
- Make sure the fireplace has a sturdy screen to prevent sparks from flying into the room and burn only dry, seasoned wood. Allow ashes to cool before disposing in a metal container, which is kept a safe distance from the home.
- For wood burning stoves, install chimney connectors and chimneys following manufacturer's instructions or have a professional do the installation.
- Make sure all fuel-burning equipment is vented to the outside to avoid carbon monoxide poisoning.
- Install and maintain car- bon monoxide (CO) alarms to avoid the risk of CO poisoning.

- If you smell gas in your

- gas heater, do not attempt to light the appliance. Turn off all the controls and open doors and windows. Call a gas serv- ice person.

- Test smoke alarms at least monthly.

IRS recruiting for positions in Lexington, Louisville

INDIANAPOLIS — The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is seeking qualified Revenue Officer candidates for positions in the Lexington and Louisville IRS Offices.

Applicants must apply by Feb. 20. See www.usajobs.opm.gov for more information on how to apply.

Interested applicants must be a United States citizen and have a bachelor's degree (with superior academic achievement — 3.0 or higher overall or 3.5 or higher in major) or equivalent work experience or a combination of work experience and related work experience.

Examples of related work experience include:

- Reviewing individual/business financial condition, ability to pay debt
- Evaluating assets, equity and credit
- Collecting delinquent payments
- Establishing or operating a small business and/or administering a budget
- Counseling individuals on tax filing and paying obligations
- Dealing with various legal instruments (i.e.: leases, wills, deeds and trusts)

Revenue officers are trained in both tax law and collection techniques necessary for the collection of delinquent taxes and delinquent tax returns.

Duties include conducting research, interviews, investigations and analysis of financial information for assigned cases, often at the taxpayer's home or business. Revenue officers counsel taxpayers on their tax obligations and determine how they can best resolve their delinquencies, while also ensuring that their rights are protected.

Starting salary varies by geographic area based on costs of living adjustments and range between $38,177 to $44,976.

Individuals interested in a challenging career with excellent benefits, training and strong growth potential are encouraged to apply. Get the details at www.jobs.irs.gov/home.html. Application information is available at www.usajobs.opm.gov. The IRS is an equal opportunity employer.

Five highway deaths on Kentucky roads last week

FRANKFORT — Preliminary statistics indicate that five people died in five separate crashes on Kentucky roadways from Monday, Jan. 19, through Sunday, Jan. 25.

All of the crashes involved motor vehicles and two of the victims were not wearing seat belts. Single-vehicle crashes occurred in Green, Marshall, McCracken, Shelby and Warren counties. One crash involved the suspected use of alcohol.

Through Jan. 25, preliminary statistics indicate that 38 people have lost their lives on Kentucky roadways during 2009. This is 12 fewer than reported for this time period in 2008. Of the 35 motor vehicle fatalities, 19 victims were not wearing seat belts. Three pedestrian have been killed. A total of 10 fatalities have resulted from crashes involving the suspected use of alcohol.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555. Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

These statistics are still preliminary as KSP waits for all local law enforcement agencies throughout the state to report any crashes and fatalities that may have occurred in their areas.
