Couple faces sex abuse trial in January

PRESTONSBURG — A trial date has been set for the Martin couple charged with the sexual abuse of children under the age of 12.

According to the office of Commonwealth's Attorney Brent Turner, Michael and Martha Pitts are scheduled to go on trial on Jan. 11.

The trial date was set on Monday.

The Pittses were arrested and charged with multiple counts of criminal and sexual abuse on March 2. The couple were each charged with two counts of rapë, two counts of incest, two counts of sodomy, two counts of criminal abuse.

During the preliminary hearing in March. Kentucky State Police

Trooper Richard Russell gave his tes-timony in regards to the case, includ-ing the results of a medical examina-tion of the alleged female victim under the age of 6. Russell's testimony included the alleged acts of sexual abuse against one male child, between the of 6 and 8 at the time of the alleged abuse, and

A detailed look at where the city's money had been going of late was prompted by council member Gorman Collins, who asked first about purchases made for flowers and also inquired about whether or not the city could buy tires locally instead of in Perry County.

"These might be little things, but these add up," Collins said Monday. "I think we have a responsibility to look at the bills."

Various bills were discussed throughout the course of the meeting while other business was conducted before payment was approved by the attending council members. Members Kelly Moore, Donna Wells and B.D. Nunnery were not present for Monday's regular meeting.

Moore recently fell under scrutiny following a property transfer in which, according to documents filed in the county clerk's office, he sold a portion of land owned by the city. The council has been discussing what, if any, action should be taken against Moore following the transfer.

The city has also been considering a proposal from its director of economic

Parkway meeting needs local input

There seems to be a consistent theme developing this year, as we keep seeing the advent of things we thought would never happen, but which probably should have happened long ago.

We've seen it on the national scene, with the ascension of the first African American president. And we've seen it on the local scene, with the passage of a comprehensive smoking ban in the city of Prestonsburg.

Now we're seeing that trend once more, this time with the first serious talk of widening the full Mountain Parkway to four Tomorrow night, the state is holding a public meeting at the Lakefront Church of God, along Route 134 in Magoffin County, to discuss the project. Organizers have sent word of the meeting to residents of Magoffin, Morgan and Wolfe counties, where construction will actually take place, but any movement on this project is cer-tainly of importance to Floyd Countians as well.

Ironically, the effort to widen the Parkway finally comes at a time when the project is somewhat less vital for the local economy. With the improvement of other highways in the region and continued development over the years, the region and continued development over the years. Floyd County can hardly be considered the remote outpost it was when the Mountain Parkway first opened.

But any effort to improve the Parkway remains crucial for a much more important reason — safety. It is no secret that the bulk of accidents, and consequently deaths, on the highway take part in the area where construction will take

For that reason alone, any effort to make this long-held dream remains important to Floyd County, and should receive input from Floyd Countians. And despite some lessened economic importance, opening up the road will still pay dividends.

Needless to say, we hope to see Floyd County well represented Thursday night.

Guest Column

A legislative perspective

by REP. GREG STUMBO SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

Given the difficult economy the nation has seen in recent months, and the efforts by government to get it moving forward again, 2009 may long be remembered as the year of incentives.

Here in Kentucky, the General Assembly has authorized or expanded several programs, both temporary and long-term, that reward those looking to trade in their vehicle for a new one, purchase a newly constructed home, renovate a private historic site, or invest in their business. Other tax incentives make Kentucky more attractive to our men and women in uniform; the film and television industry; the Breeders Cup; and NASCAR.

Both of the incentive packages for Both of the incentive packages for Both of the incentive packages for new home and car buyers will run for a year. The first of those will benefit current homeowners who buy and then occupy a newly constructed home for a minimum of two years; this program began late last month and runs through next July. This income-tax credit, worth up to $5,000, is capped at $25 million, but the state's budget officials believe the actual impact to state government will be around $20 million.

Legislators created this incentive be around $20 million.

Legislators created this incentive to complement a temporary federal incentive plan targeted at home buyers making their first purchase; it also should help clear a backlog of newly constructed but empty homes across the state. More information can be found at the Revenue Cabinet's web-constructed but empty homes across the state. More information can be found at the Revenue Cabinet's website, www.revenue.ky.gov.

The savings for home buyers will be realized at tax time, but new-car buyers who have a trade-in will benefit at the time of the sale, starting September 1st and running through August 2010. During that year, those making the purchase will get a credit for the value of their trade-in when it comes time to pay the 6 percent motor wehicle usage tax.

Here's how the $20,000, and your trade-in is valued at $10,000 by the dealer, you will only pay the usage tax on the difference instead of the full price. In this case, you'll pay $600 rather than $1,200. This is capped at $25 million and will also be available on a first-come-first-serve basis.

As we wait to see how effective these two programs are for families, it appears our plan to lure the film, television and touring-production industry to Kentucky is already paying off. Recently, we learned that a major motion picture centered on the horse Secretariat will be filmed at least in part here.

This program mirrors what many other states are doing but ensures that it has in other places. The incentives, for example, are only available for the work done here. There are other financial guidelines and qualifications well.

For the business community, several incentive packages that had become dated are now streamlined into one that should make us more competitive with other states.

Small businesses that hire and then retain at least one new employee for a year and invest at least $5,000 are also eligible for tax breaks, as are larger manufacturers who invest at least $2.5 million in new equipment and training.

manufactures who immilion in new equipment and training.

Historic property owners won't see many technical changes in the program that rewards them for their preservation efforts, but the funding will increase from $3 million to $5 million.

We also expect to see substantial growth in the number of military personnel calling Kentucky home, since we will be supported to the competitive duty person them to the program of th much more competitive with other states that have already taken this step.

The owners of the Kentucky Speedway are now a step closer to hosting a NASCAR Sprint Cup race, thanks to an expansion of the 13-year-old law designed to bring large and unique tourist attractions to the state. Kentucky is also in better position to host the Breeders. Cup horse race more often beyond the 2010 race at Churchill Downs.

These incentives are one prong of the state's effort to move the economy forward, and they complement the hundreds of millions of dollars we have set aside this year for such things as our schools and highways.

Time will tell how effective these investments are, but taken together. I think they have the potential to be the kind of boost we need.

"Any lady can join InHarmony," Hall said. "We would love to have beginners and experienced singers, aswell as everyone in-between."
The choir serves the BSCTC campuses of Pikeville, Prestonsburg, and Paintsville, so all eastern Kentucky citizens are welcome. However, those wishing to join should be 13 or older. The choir is accompanied by Alcia Hughes, pianist for the Kentucky Opry Orchestra, with Tim Cooley, Technical Director.

There is no audition for InHarmony, but the ladies in the group will have the opportunity to audition for an elite, singing ensemble comprised of InHarmony members called Big Sandy Serenade. To be a part of Serenade, ladies must also be a part of InHarmony. Serenade performs 15-20 shows per year.

InHarmony will meet every Monday at the same time until the final performances during December. Music will be provided for each member and there is no fee to join. "We express many thanks to our BSCTC President Dr. George Edwards, and Provost Dr. Nancy Johnson, and also to our music program sponsor Jennifer Reynolds State Farm Insurance." Hall added.

"Without the help these individuals, free programs like InHarmony and Screnade would not be possible."

BSCTC grows community garden

FRANKFORT — After already borrowing approximately $338 million to pay its unemployment benefits, Kentucky needs new solutions to keep its unemployment rust fund solven as the control of the control of the control of law makers last week. As of July, Kentucky's unemployment rate had risen slightly to 11 percent — the highest rate in the state in 26 years, Education and Workforce Development Cabinet Secretary Helen Mountjoy told the Interim

The Unemployment

Unemployment sk Force, led by Insurance Task Force, led by Mountjoy, is working with consultants to develop recommendations on employer rates, the appeals process and other issues affecting the system, she said. One of those issues is the state's $8,000 fixed taxable wage base used to determine unemployment system rev-mined," she said. "The previous system worked pretty well for 27 years...It began to falter because it has this fundamental imbalance."

Another concern raised by Mountjoy is the issue of "reimbursing employers" — a category of employers including state and local governments and not-for-profits that are not required to pay regular unemployment insurance tax like most employers but only pay into the system when a claim is made against them. Mountjoy said nearly a quarter of all wages paid in the state come from reimbursing employers.

The trouble. Mountjoy explained, is that the unemployment insurance trust fund loses interest since reimbursing employers don't pay in advance.

ing employers don't pay in advance.

Rep. Bill Farmer. R-Lexington, asked how much Mountjoy expects the state to have to borrow to keep pace with unemployment claims. Based on reports to the committee, Farmer said the state has already borrowed about $30 million more this month than it borrowed last month. "Can we expect to see about a $30 million growth every month because a majority of employers paying into unemployment have probably already paid their total balance." he asked.

Mountjoy said she is not certain about future rates, although the system tries to project at least three months in advance.

Committee Co-Chair Rep. Rick Nelson, D-Middlesboro, Rick Nelson, D-Middlesboro, asked Mountjoy, why some Kentučkians aren't receiving benefits. "It's not because they don't know they can apply, but what do you think a couple of reasons are? Maybe they don't mention?" he wait

"Even in this economy.

drawing unemployment insur-ance benefits is seen as a stig-ma in many parts of Kentucky, and in many segments of our population, so we have many people who choose not to apply." she said. Other reasons are that some people don't qualify, or were able to build up reserves to live on when they were employed.

"We estimate that only about 50 percent of people who could qualify for unemployment benefits actually apply and are awarded in Kentucky," said Mountjoy.

The task force hopes to finish its recommendations by the end of October, she said.

Make adjustments when using steel shot for doves

TIMES STAFF REPORT

FRANKFORT - Public dove fields near areas used by waterfowl, such as those at Taylorsville Lake or Green River Lake Wildlife Management Area, require hunters to use non-toxic shot only. Lead is toxic to waterfowl, raptors and other wildlife.

coming dove season must realize this.

Hunters should shoot a few steel shells into a patterning board to determine how those loads respond in their shotgun before hitting the field.

"You need to practice with steel shot," said Rocky Pritchert, migratory bird program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "It shoots a lot different than lead, It holds its pattern much truer because the pellets don't deform in the barrel. All of those pellets arrive on target quicker."

The lack of malleability in steel means you don't want a tight choke on your shotgun. "I never use more than improved cylinder," Pritchert said. "I use it the whole season. If I can Pritchert feels he ters tend to overestimate how are away a dove is in a field and this can lead to using too much choke with steel or lead. "Hunters generally can't hit a dove over 30 yards away," he said. "A 30-yard dove is a small target. Hunters overestimate distance because doves are so small and move so fast. doves in steel loads. The price of steel is also decreasing as it becomes more common. As suppliers put more steel shells on shelves, the cost goes down. This is happening when the cost of lead is increasing."

Because steel is less dense than lead, a 12-gauge field load in size 7 steel shot holds just 1 ounce of shot. Hunters may think they are losing some firepower. They aren't. "Doves don't take a lot of hits to come down," Pritchert said. "One or two steel pellets can bring down a dove. Steel is faster than lead. Now, you don't want to shoot them in the tail. # Busch wins Sharpie 500

Young driver claims two victories in one week

TIMES STAFF REPORT

BRISTOL, Tenn. - For the second time this week. Kyle Busch played the role of spoiler as he denied Mark Martin a win in the Sharpie 500 at Bristol Motor Speedway Saturday night during his 1,000th NASCAR series start.
Martin, who started from the pole, showed plenty of emotion during pre-race festivities honoring his milestone and almost took home a victory to celebrate his accomplishment.

Busch and Martin raced hard in the closing laps, surviving a late race red flag, to battle side-by-side to the finish. Marcos Ambrose, who told fans during the special driver intros that he just hoped to finish the race, brought his car across the line with a third place finish. Greg Biffle finished fourth and Denny Hamlin claimed fifth.

Busch, who snagged his third win at the World's Fastest Half Mile, completed the first Bristol season sweep since his older brother Kurt did so in 2003. While he relished his victory, Busch acknowledged that racing against Martin was even more special.

"I drove as hard as I could," Busch explained. "Mark deserved it. I know how bad he wanted it. He raced me clean."

"It is fun when you can race against guys you respect and that respect you back. I look up to him a-lot. Since I got here, he is one of the ones I spend time with most."

Martin said the respect the two drivers have for each other was the reason he did not put the bumper to Busch at the end of the race.

"I'd like to have won, but we got a decent finish." Martin said. "I expect Kyle to race me hard and clean, and he did. He can expect the same from me. I didn't need to use the bumper. Kyle gave me all the room in the world and it was good because I was in over my head when I went into that corner."

Busch echoed Martin's sentiments.

"It is such an honor to race with him," said Busch, "to give him the room he needed and for him to give me the room I needed was awesome."

For Ambrose, a driver who began competing in NASCAR after making a trip to Bristol to witness the track's atmosphere, racing up front with some of the sport's best drivers was one of dreams.

"It was a wonderful night for me," he explained. "To race against Mark in his 1000th start and against Kyle Busch, who will go down as one of the greatest. I was in special territory up here?

The sold-out Sharpic 500 always has a spectacular feel about it, and Saturday night's event was no different. From a pre-race show that featured a tribute to America's soldiers to a side-by-side tussle for the win at the end of the race, the evening was pure Bristo, and the recognition of Martin's 1000th NASCAR series start brought tears to the veter of the the v an's eyes.

"It was incredible what the fans did tonight," he said, voice cracking. "To me, 10d starrs is not much, but what they did, it made me cry. I'm thankful to do what I did tonight: drive a fast race car and finish where we should. I bet we had the fans on their et."

The thrilling atmosphere also was noticed by someone with a lot of experience dealing with large, charged up crowds.
"That crowd may be one of the best sporting crowds I've been around," said Busch at owner, Joe Gibbs. "It was electric out there."

UK WR Fields to have surgery

TIMES STAFF REPORT

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON – University of Kentucky wide receiver E.J. Fields will have surgery to repair a foot injury and is expected to miss most of the season. Coach Rich Brooks annothed the season of the Saturday's scrimmage. The extent of the injury will become more apparent in the next few days, although Conner appeared to be improved on Monday. The coach also said that offensive guard Jake, Lanefski began running on Monday. The sophomore from Mobile, Ala, has been sidelined because of a knee cartilage repair but could return to practice later in the week.

"We had a pretty good practice," Brooks said. "We're trying to clean up a lot of mistakes and assignments. (We're doing a) Lot of team work, trying to polish up the mistakes that we've been making the last few days."

The coach was asked his evaluation of the film from Saturday's scrimmage.
"Lot of good plays on both sides and there were some mistakes on both sides," Brooks said. "That's what we're going to try now, to polish up assignment-wise, and in some cases, technique-wise, in the next ment-wise, and in some cases, technique-wise, in the next eight or nine days."

The team returned to the practice field on Tuesday. The Wildcats will have the day off today, which is the first day of classes. Kentucky is preparing for the season opener on Sept. 5 versus Miami.

Former Magoffin official gets 20 years for sex crime

by SHELDON COMPTON STAFF WRITER

LEXINGTON - Former Magoffin County Deputy Judge-Executive Walter Edward Hardin was sentenced to 20 years in federal prison Monday for using a computer to entice a minor to have sex and receiving child pornogra-and receiving child pomogra-phy.

Under federal guidelines, Hardin, 29, will be required to serve out at least 17 years of his sentence, if not the full 20 years. In addition the count of ficial will also count of ficial will subject to the count of t release.

Hardin pleaded guilty in March and admitted that, between April and October of 2008, he communicated online with an individual he believed to be a 14-year-old cheerleader from Lexington.

In truth, Hardin had been chatting and exchanging mes-sages with an undercover officer with the Kentucky State Police Electronic Crime Branch posing as a the teen cheerleader in a chatroom. Among the things Hardin admitted to as part of his plea was having conversations with the individual he thought to be the teenager about having intercourse with her and making arrangements during those chat sessions to meet her at an agreed upon location in Lexington to have intercourse with her.

"For the community's sake, it's fortunate he met with an undercover detective and not real 14-year-old girl," said Assistant U.S. Hardin was sentenced Monday. "This man was definitely a danger to the community."

After officials seized Hardin's work computer from his office at the Magoffin County Judge-Executive's office, the 29-year-old admitted that it contained about 14 videos and several hundred photographs of children under the age of 18 engaging in sex-ual explicit acts. Some of the children depicted were as young as 4 years old. Hardin told prosecutors he construct a dog park within city limits.

The park would cost a maximum of $16,000 to build, according to figures offered to the council by Graden earlier this month, but will take a back seat for the time being to costs connected with construc-tion of a new soccer field.

Mayor Jerry Fannin said the soccer field was budgeted for construction costs of $20,000 and that any surplus left from that project could be used to start looking more closely at the dog park proposal.

Other business taken care of Monday included setting a time the city would officially observe Halloween and conduct trick-or-treat. The council voted to have trick-or-treat on Saturday, Oct., 31, from 6 p.m. until 8 p.m. The date was set earlier than usual due to a growing number of calls from city residents hoping to plan events and eager for a date. Fannin told fellow council members.

Also, in hopes of curbing weekly fundraising efforts with roadblocks which have landed a few complaints in the laps of city leaders from motorists in the city, the council agreed to allow only 12 roadblock fundraisers each year, once a month. Enforcement of the limit would be the new focus, according to council members.

Early on a stumbling block for county officials had been forging agreements with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife.

The general plan has been to form a looping 56-mile long trail around Jenny

Wiley State Resort Park carrying over to German Bridge Campground with connecting access to the Equine Center, along with the theatre and other spots.

This would be accomplished, if all goes to plan, by opening up access to some existing trails through the hard fought agreements with the Corps and Fish and Wildlife and also by creating

As of now, the county has not released exact plans for how they might start in utilizing the more than $1 million.
Runyon has said in the past that the project could completed in time for when the state hosts the 2010 Equestrian Games at Kentucky Horse Park.

Michael Kimmel, of Betsy Layne, and Larry Blackburn, of Gulnare, were charged in connection to the break-in with individual counts of theft.

connection to the break-in with individual counts of theft. The two men were arrested last week and jailed in Pike County on unrelated charges. Police at that time said they discovered 5,000 of what Prestonsburg police now believe were an original 10,000 pills taken from the Rite-Aid just over a week ago. At the time of the initial investigation, officers with the Prestonsburg police said the job looked planned out ahead of time, with the suspects entering the premises while the store was closed through a hole taken out in the back of the building.

Found at the scene then was a backpack with various tools often used during break-ins, and police said they felt that must have been how Kimmel and Blackburn gainedentry.

There were no other items missing from the pharmacy's inventory, according to reports following the break-in, other than the pills, which were counted by pharmacists and then given in list form to the police to aid in their search for suspects.

That's how I feel about all the new grown-up toys out there-gadgets smaller than a deck of cards, on which you can watch a movie, make a date, file your taxes, find the Meaning of Life-all on a screen about the size of four postage stamps. But the thing is, the older I get, the more I want the screen to be bigger, not smaller!

So I admit I can't keep up with all the "new stuff" that's flooding in. I also admit that I'm losing track of time, core of the more of the state of the second of the state of the st

The Huffmans were our nextdoor neighbors on Hager Street in Prestonsburg for as long as I can remember. They had six kids and we had four, so there was an age-appropriate playmate for me and each of my siblings. John was the handyman of the neighborhood, and his wife.
Marguerite (Marg), was the caretaker. She looked out for all her neighbors, but especially kids.

John was born at Island Creek in Pike County, Kentucky, one mile from Pikeville, on September 28, 1924, four months before my mother's birth date. He is the son of John Harrison and Frona Thornsberry who was a friend of the family, he was one of seven children.

John's family lived at the mouth of Island Creek on Marion's Branch, and his future wife lived farther up the creek. His uncle was married to Marg's aunt, and she boarded with them while she was working as a bookkeeper for a coal company. They began seeing one another and at talk about marriage and decided the couple of the state of the couple of the John attended and the walked a mile to get to there. The trustees took care of the grounds. He remembers a man who lived in the reaw who would take out his fodder sled filled with hay and give the kids rides to school in winter weather.

John completed eighth grade, but did not go on to high school: however, he received formal education both in the military and during his carcer as a Heating and Cooling, and plumbing licenses. His places of employment sent him for special training where he took courses and received college credit.

There were two reasons John did not attend high school. One reason was that his father had lost his leg in an accident in the early 30's, and as he was no longer able to work, the family fell to John's mother and her family fell to John's mother and her children. John even travelled with a man named Smitty so that he could help ease the family's financed. Smitty had a shop a few miles outside Pikeville where he made animal figurines out of plaster of Paris and John drove from Pikeville to Charleston. ### ASSEMBLIES OF GOD

Pastors are often asked, what does your church teach? The Assemblies of God is a Pentecostal church based on the New Testament teachings founded from the day of Pentecost, when the church started.

Missions is a big part of the Assemblies of God. We know our heavenly headquarters in heaven, However, earthly headquarters are needed to systematically disperse monies to missionaries. A farmer purchased a piece of ground and worked hard to remove weeds and till the ground.

to missionaries. A farmer purchased a piece of ground and worked hard to remove week and till the ground.

A stranger said, "The Lord has surely given you a beautiful peace of land." The farmer replied, "You should have seen the land when the Lord owned this by himself."

The Assemblies of God has 2,691 full-time foreign missionaries serving in 200 different foreign countries. In 2008 the Assemblies of God churches gave $204,608,023 to missions. The Assemblies of God have 18 colleges and one Theological seminary in the United States. Education is very important to the church, especially the minister.

Going "green" with your electricity use is easy with Kentucky Power's Green Pricing Option. With the option customers can volunteer to purchase Renewable Energy Certificates (RECs) for a small premium over their standard electricity rate. The RECs represent electricity certified to be produced by renewable generation sources such as wind, solar or hydro power. While (if you choose to participate) you won't be getting your electricity directly from renewable sources, you will be encouraging the further expansion of green generation by helping Kentucky Pow-er purchase RECs.

Family

the officer threw John down and covered him, and his ship mates shot the plane out of the sky. Pretry close call, and I think it is interesting that he forgot to tell me about it initially. I think that speaks to his attitude that he was; just doing his job, that being shot at is part of war.

John Huffman is a trueblue, genuine good guy, a bona fide member of what Tom Brokaw calls the "greatest generation." He enlisted in the U.S. Navy the day after his country was attacked, and he served with homoor from war years, and the strength of the served with homoor from the "neighborhood" and hus been a faithful family man all his life. He worked hard to advance himself in his profession so that he could provide for his family. At his retirement he was Superintendant of Mechanical Operations in the Appalachian Regional Hospital system. He was always the guy in the neighborhood that people swouldn't work, or their refrig-erators weren't cooling. I know wouldn't work, or their refrigerators weren't cooling. I know he helped my family many times, and there was never a time when he refused to come to our house to check out a problem.

At the end of our talk, he offered me a bologna sandwich, then he left to play golf with his grandson. Did I mention that he is now close to 85 and has had a hip replacement?

He was an avid bowler up until the time he had surgery a cou-ple of years ago, and he contin-ues to fish whenever he can. He enjoys a large family with
