Sept. 11 marathon cancelled

by RALPH B. DAVIS
MANAGING EDITOR

PRESTONSBURG — The second annual Patriot's Day Marathon, scheduled for this weekend, has been cancelled, following what organizers called a dearth of registrations.

However, those still looking to get their running fix will have that opportunity at the same time, date and place.

Prior to the deadline, only 13 people had signed up for the race, which in addition to the 26.1-mile marathon distance also included events at the 13.1-mile half-marathon and 6.2-mile 10K distances, as well as a one-mile kids' fun run.

Despite the cancellation, organizer Brent Graden said he still plans to set up running courses at the half-marathon and 10K distances, complete with water stations every 1.5 miles. Those looking to participate in the informal run can do so by going to the city stage in the municipal parking lot at 7 a.m. Saturday morning.

The formal marathon was a fundraiser for Faith Runners, a Johnson County group that seeks to raise awareness about colon cancer.

Local agencies could lose tax status

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

Nearly 40 nonprofit associations across Floyd County are in danger of losing tax exempt status, according to a recent announcement from the Internal Revenue Service, which is now offering a chance for them to preserve this status.

According to the IRS, the organizations, which include those in Floyd County such as the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad and volunteer fire departments such as the one in Wayland and many others, became at risk of losing their status because they failed to file required returns for 2007, 2008 and 2009.

However, the IRS is now offering a one-time special filing relief program for small charities, extending a deadline to file the proper paperwork until October.

"We're doing everything we can to help organizations comply with the law and keep their valuable tax exemption," said IRS

SMOKE IN THE STREETS

Car enthusiasts were in for a treat Saturday evening, as the "Star City Cruiz-In" was held in Prestonsburg. In addition to the burnout competition shown above, other events included a fall run, car show, live band and a drive-in movie in the city parking lot. Eddie Holbrook, shown at right, was the winner of the burnout competition. Based on the success of Saturday night's event, organizers say a similar function could be in the works for October.

Dewey Lake 'piranha' no cause for worry

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — Doug Marsillett was expecting to reel in a catfish or a bluegill with bologna for bait while fishing Sunday from his houseboat at the marina at Dewey Lake. Instead, he caught neither.

But Marsillett couldn't exactly set aside his fishing net just yet, as the Van Lear resident said what he was sure came up on the other end of his line was a piranha.

"I knew it was an odd fish," said Marsillett. "When I started pulling it up, I told my wife that I was pretty sure I had caught a piranha."

After notifying park authorities, it took a biologist with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife roughly 15 minutes to arrive at the marina and get a closer look at the foot-long fish. When they were able to make their examination, Marsillett's suspicions were confirmed.

PRESTONSBURG — County officials gave the green light last week to funding that will see park projects for Stonecrest, Drift and the Right Beaver area expanded.

During a special-called meeting, the Floyd County Fiscal Court approved checks for three projects spanning the county, aimed at improving parks and recreation.

Court members voted unanimously to issue a check for $19,111 for the Mountaintop Recreational Project at Stonecrest to the city of Prestonsburg, stipulating that the money will be given to city officials when funds become available.

Likewise, the court voted to give G&S Contracting $28,914 for work on park improvements to Drift Park during the meeting. As with the Stonecrest funding, members also earmarked this approval for when they receive the

IF YOU THINK A BICYCLE WRECK IS NO BIG DEAL, THE NEXT TIME YOU ARE IN YOUR CAR GOING 30 MPH, STRIP DOWN TO YOUR UNDERWEAR AND JUMP OUT

Cyclists are not a nuisance, an obstacle or in your way. In Kentucky, bicycles have the same rights to use roads and highways as cars and trucks. But keep in mind that cyclists are at greater risk of injury or death in the event of a wreck. That is why it is important to use caution and courtesy when you encounter a bicycle. Pass them only when it is clear, give them a few extra feet when passing, and never do anything to startle a cyclist, such as blowing your horn, passing too close or yelling at them.

Save a life. Share the road.

Card of Thanks

The family of Rev. Bobby G. Baldrige, would like to express their sincere appreciation to all who sent food, flowers, prayers or help to comfort us in any way during the passing of our love one. For each one who came by the funeral home to share our sorrow. A special thanks to the Ministers, Wendell Crager, David Garrett and Roger Music for their comforting message, the Sheriff's Department for their assistance in traffic control; and the Hall Funeral Home for their kind and professional care. All your love and support will never be forgotten.

Waste coal technology aired before lawmakers

FRANKFORT — The reuse of waste coal particles called "fines" to produce electricity got a full hearing last week as scientists and coal industry representatives filled in state lawmakers on the latest waste coal technology.

Dr. Darrell Taulbee of the University of Kentucky's Center for Applied Energy Research (CAER) told the Interim Joint Committee on Natural Resources and Environment how waste coal fines are processed for reuse. Briquetting, which creates a larger mass of fines from smaller ones, is one such technology as is pan or disk pelletization—a process that Taulbee praised for its ability to rid waste coal of problem-causing moisture.

"That's a really, the key to these coal fines-getting things dried," said Taulbee. But coal fines typically have a high moisture content, are expensive to dry, and freeze in the winter, he added, which makes coal fines' abundance about 2 to 3 billion tons of the waste coal is believed to be in the U.S.—a challenge when it comes to recovery.

A solution is co-briquetting fines with biomass that helps lower carbon dioxide and other power plant emissions, said Taulbee, although the process requires a "binder" that holds the waste coal to biomass. Fibrous material, like certain grasses, is favored since they bind better than sawdust and other types of biomass, he said.

When asked by Rep. Don Pasley, D-Winchester, if more work needs to be done to make biomass a better binder, Taulbee said switchgrass and straw grasses work quite well.

"I prefer to go with what we know at this time," Taulbee said.

Also testifying was KeLa Energy representative Larry Umstadter, whose Orlando-based company has worked with utilities on the issue of waste to fuel several years ago. He said the companies tiptoed around the issue of binding biomass with coal fines in the early years, and are hesitant now because of a lack of direction on the regulation front.

Another concern Umstadter said is biomass supply. After a plant in Ohio converted to biomass for electric generation, Umstadter said environmental groups organized against how the biomass, particularly timber, is harvested.

"My big concern about biomass is supply," he said. Committee Co-Chair Sen. Brandon Smith, R-Hazard, was reminded of the situation surrounding the Gulf oil spill after hearing Umstadter's account of the situation in Ohio.

"Case in point, people have vilified BP for deep offshore drilling, but they (BP) were only out there because that is where (people) wanted them to go," Smith said.

The final presentation of the day was from Georgia-based CoalTek which spoke to the committee about the benefits of clean coal and the workings of its Calvert City plant that produces clean coal from low-grade raw coal by reducing moisture content, thereby increasing the coal's heat value.

Calendar set for 2011 legislative session

FRANKFORT — The 2011 Regular Session of the Kentucky General Assembly is scheduled to begin on Jan. 4 and will last 30 days, the maximum number of session days allowed by the state constitution in odd-numbered years.

As usual during an odd-numbered year, the session will have two parts. The first four days of the session — Jan. 4 to Jan. 7 — will focus on organizational work, such as electing legislative leaders, adopting rules of procedure and organizing committees. The introduction and consideration of legislation can also begin during this time.

The second part of the session — when the pace of bills moving through the process picks up — begins on Feb. 1, with final adjournment scheduled for March 22.

Legislators will not meet on Feb. 21, in observance of Presidents' Day.

The veto recess — the period of time when lawmakers commonly return to their home districts to see which bills, if any, the governor chooses to veto — begins on March 8, with lawmakers returning to the Capitol on March 21 and March 22 for the final two days of the session.

The 2011 session calendar can be viewed online at http://www.lrc.ky.gov/sch_visit/lrs_calendar.pdf.

McDonald's of East Kentucky and owners Bob and Tom Hutchison recently donated a pop tab canister to John M. Stumbo Elementary school for the collection of pop tabs for the Ronald McDonald House. The pop tabs' donations received are redeemed for cash and go directly to help with the many expenses of the everyday running of the Ronald McDonald House. The Ronald McDonald House provides a safe haven for families of sick children by providing a place to stay free of charge. Thanks to Stumbo Elementary and McDonald's of East Kentucky for lending a hand to this worthy cause! Pictured are kindergarten students from Stumbo Elementary who posed about their new pop tab canister.

State Parks celebrate National Public Lands Day

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky State Parks will be participating in National Public Lands Day on Sept. 25, 2010, a day set aside to recognize the importance of parks and encourage volunteer work.

National Public Lands Day began in 1994 with three federal agencies and 700 volunteers. Last year, some 150,000 volunteers worked in 2,000 locations in every state. The purpose of this day is to keep the promise of the Civilian Conservation Corps alive and to preserve and protect America's natural heritage.

During last year's celebration, volunteers across the country removed an estimated 900,000 pounds of trash, collected an estimated 20,000 pounds of invasive plants, built and maintained an estimated 1,320 miles of trails and planted an estimated 100,000 trees, shrubs and native plants.

Gov. Steve Beshear issued a proclamation for National Public Lands Day, noting that public lands such as state parks "provide locally accessible natural and cultural resources for environmental learning, wildlife appreciation and recreation."

For more information about National Public Lands Day and events being held throughout Kentucky and other states, visit www.publiclandsday.org. For information about Kentucky State Parks, visit www.parks.ky.gov.

Here is a listing of Kentucky State Park events for Public Lands Day. All are on Saturday, Sept. 25, unless otherwise noted. Call the park for details. All times are local.

Board to discuss taxes during meeting tonight

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

MARTIN — The Floyd County Board of Education will meet tonight at May Valley Elementary to discuss new tax rates for the 2010-11 fiscal year, with one recommendation for an increase that will be on the table.

The two rates that will be discussed at the meeting, set for 6 p.m., are those considered each fiscal year, those of rates for property and for motor vehicle or watercraft.

According to records pertaining to the upcoming meeting, the board will consider raising property taxes due to a decrease in taxable property across the county, which generated more than $8.6 million at 48.9 cents per $100 for real property and 52.8 cents per $100 for personal property.

If the recommendation is passed tonight, those rates would be adjusted to 55.5 cents per $100 for both real and personal property.

Taxes on motor vehicle and watercraft will also be on the table tonight, but are not subject to being raised or lowered. The rate from the last fiscal year was 55.4 cents per $100, the same as the past fiscal year.

In the past several years, the revenue generated on motor vehicle and watercraft property tax has fluctuated bringing in more than $1.38 million in 2008 and then falling to $1.24 million in 2009. However, according to board records, there was a slight increase in revenue in 2010 to $1.28 million.

It was a gearhead's dream come true Saturday evening, as North Lake Drive was lined with classic cars as far as the eye could see for the "Star City Cruiz-In."

Piranha

The fish was indeed a piranha, but not exactly the species that has long been a source of indigenous folklore and modern day horror movies worldwide.

The Dewey Lake find, according to authorities, was a Pacu piranha, a fish, though from the same family as its better-known cousin, is also known informally as a "vegetarian piranha" and is often found in aquariums as pets, living mostly on a diet of seeds and nuts. However, the Pacu is not, according to biologists, exclusively against living when needed as a meat-eater and can pack a harmful bite due to strong jaw system, much like their more carnivorous relatives, who also differ in the size and positioning of the notoriously sharp teeth. The Pacu's teeth are more concealed within the mouth, lacking the visible overbite found in the more infamous piranha.

It is not uncommon for the Pacu, often bought as pets which then outgrow their owner's aquariums, to find themselves released into bodies of water such as Dewey Lake.

"The biologist said that probably somebody had it in an aquarium and that it grew too big and they just put in in the lake," said Marsillett, who posed for pictures Sunday with the fish, which measured a full 12 inches long.

Also not surprising was that the Pacu piranha

Marsillett snagged during his Labor Day fishing trip was dead. According to studies, experts, have advised against disposing of Pacu that have outgrown their welcome in home aquariums, saying that as a tropical fish, the Pacu will die in cold weather and also suffer from lack of available food, habitat and other resources.

But, despite an attack by Pacu piranha being unlikely and rarely, if ever fatal, will Marsillett be swimming in Dewey Lake anytime soon?

Not so much. "I'm not going to get in there, I can tell you that," he said.

Parks

money from the Kentucky Local Government Economic Development Fund.

Another parks and recreation project that was approved for funding was the Right Beaver Park. Court members voted across the board to issue a check to the city of Wayland for an even $20,000 when the money becomes available.

During the same meeting, a resolution fell short that would have seen a water truck and backhoe given from the county to the city of Martin when a motion to do so from Floyd County Judge Executive R.D. "Doc" Marshall was only seconded by Magistrate Hattie Owens. Magistrates John Coble and Ronnie Akers voted against the exchange.

In other business, the fiscal court:

- Passed a resolution to pay 4.4 percent interest on the newly taken out $500,000 line of credit that members hope will sustain them to make payments relating to the flooding that swept the county in May 2009. Court members have been awaiting money from FEMA to help pay for this and recently made the decision to take out the line of credit again in the event the wait becomes longer than anticipated.

- Accepted claims presented for payment of services from: C&C Construction ($34,200); Big Sandy Area Development District ($10,728); Floyd County PVA Office ($7,221); and Hamilton Construction ($39,360).

Status

Commissioner Doug Shulman. "So if you do not have your filings up to date, now's the time to take action and get back on track."

Two types of relief are available for small exempt organizations — a filing extension called the Form 990-N for the smallest organizations and a Voluntary Compliance Program (VCP) for small organizations eligible to file what is called the short form return of organization exempt from income tax.

Small organizations needing to file the 990-N form can visit the IRS website and supply the eight information items called for on the form and electronically file by Oct. 15. Those needing to file through VCP need to file their delinquent annual information returns by the same date and pay a compliance fee. Details about this option can also be found at the IRS website.

Preventing tragedy of drunk driving

The friends and family of a loved one lost at the hands of an impaired driver never truly recover from the shock and sorrow of their tragedy. Unfortunately, this senseless loss of human life is a daily reality all over the nation — year after year.

Imagine the public outrage if 29 jumbo jets — each carrying 400 passengers — crashed every year in America, killing all on board. That's the equivalent of the toll our country suffers annually due to impaired driving. But where's the indignation over this catastrophe?

The fact is that impaired driving deaths did dramatically decline during the 1980s through the early 1990s. Social activism, including the rise of organizations such as Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD), led to tougher laws that helped lower the death toll. During that period, every state in the nation and the District of Columbia made it illegal to drive with a blood alcohol concentration (BAC) of 0.08 grams per deciliter or above. In addition, the legal drinking age was raised from 18 to 21.

Although data show that impaired driving fatalities across the country have declined by almost 10 percent in the last year, the numbers are still too high. In 2008 alone, the latest year for which we have national data, nearly 12,000 people died in crashes in which a driver or motorcycle rider was at or above the legal limit according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Last year, Kentucky recorded more than 6,400 crashes related to drugs and alcohol, resulting in 442 deaths and more than 3,600 injuries. During the Labor Day 2009 holiday weekend, 10 people were killed and more than 340 were injured on our roadways. Six of those deaths involved alcohol.

Because my administration is committed to ending this tragedy, the Kentucky Office of Highway Safety will join state and local law enforcement for an intensive crackdown on impaired driving from Aug. 20 through Sept. 6, which includes the Labor Day holiday. Our message during this crackdown, and all year long, is clear and unwavering — Drunk Driving: Over the Limit, Under Arrest!

It is important to remember that much of the tragedy that is caused by drunk driving can be prevented if everyone takes these few simple precautions:

- Plan ahead and have a designated driver, call a taxi, or have a sober friend or family member drive you home.
- If someone you know is about to drive while impaired, take their keys.
- If you see an impaired driver on the road, call the police.
- Wear your seat belt in the car or use a helmet and protective gear when on a motorcycle, as these are your best defenses against an impaired driver.

With stepped-up law enforcement — including sobriety checkpoints and saturation patrols — if you are caught driving drunk, you will face serious consequences. No matter what you drive — a passenger car, pickup, sport utility vehicle or a motorcycle — if you are stopped for driving while impaired, you will be arrested. No exceptions. No excuses.

Guest Column

A legislative perspective

by REP. GREG STUMBO
SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE

With Labor Day in our rear-view mirror, and hopefully the brutally hot weather as well, most of us are understandably looking forward to fall.

Interests may range from football to festivals, but getting ready for hunting season or casting a line in the nearest lake or river ranks high on the list for many. Native Americans called Kentucky the Happy Hunting Ground for a reason, and now more than ever, there is no shortage of people who love getting outdoors.

Proof of that can be found in the nearly one million licenses sold for sporting activities last year, a number that doesn't include children who are exempt or those who legally hunt or fish on their own property.

According to the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, these outdoor sports bring in a significant amount of money into our economy. Those visiting from other states alone account for more than $100 million each year.

Wildlife-related recreation supports nearly 34,000 jobs, and more Kentuckians hunt and fish than play golf and tennis combined.

In an effort to preserve the rights of those who want to see that outdoor spirit preserved for generations to come, many of my colleagues in the Kentucky

House of Representatives and I are supporting a constitutional amendment that would give voters the opportunity to enshrine these rights in Kentucky's constitution.

This legislation, unveiled last week in the House chamber with Rep. Leslie Combs and me serving as the top sponsors, will be discussed during the 2011 Regular Session, and would be on the ballot in November 2012 if it passes the legislature.

If approved, it would have no effect on current laws that regulate hunting and fishing, such as length of seasons or licensing requirements. It would, however, re-affirm their importance by adding another layer of protection that applies statewide.

This amendment mirrors similar constitutional language already found in a dozen other states, and four more, including Tennessee, could be added this fall if voters agree. That's likely to not be a problem; in Oklahoma's case, for example, the amendment drew the support of 80 percent of those voting.

While it may have been quite some time since most families had to depend on hunting and fishing for their next meal, these activities still play crucial roles in our lives by helping to keep the populations of certain species in proper balance while also preserving a significant amount of land for generations to come.

With the aid of license fees, the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is able to, either own or help maintain well over a half million acres, while stocking our lakes, rivers and streams with about four million fish each year. Hunters, meanwhile, continue to see strong results. There are expected to be about 120,000 deer harvested this year, and the 36,000 wild turkeys taken during the 23-day spring season was 24 percent higher than in 2009. That number would have been even higher if not for a period of poor weather.

It has been a dozen years since Kentucky re-introduced elk within its borders, and now their numbers are estimated at 10,000. This growth has proven to be especially popular among hunters, since about 45,000 people from across the country apply for the 800 to 1,000 permits the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources now makes available each year.

For those who may need two more examples that hunting and fishing is popular in Kentucky, consider that "Kentucky Archery," which began in 1953, is the nation's longest-running outdoor show in the nation and that the Department's "Archery in the Schools" program can now be found in 850 schools, giving our students a wonderful opportunity to learn a sport that rewards patience and poise.

I will of course keep you updated on the progress of our constitutional amendment once the legislative session begins. In the meantime, if you have any thoughts about this or other issues involving state government, please don't hesitate to contact me. You can always reach me or any legislator at 800-372-7181. Kentucky Coal A C A D E M Y

Dear Coal Miners,

The Kentucky Coal Academy (KCA) was established at four KCTCS campuses all located near Kentucky's rich coalfields. The academy introduces new and current miners to technological and safety advancements in the mining industry, and prepares students for careers in mining and mining engineering.

When the Kentucky Coal Academy began five years ago, in the fall of 2005, the Kentucky Coal Baron and Kentucky Coal Baroness Honorary Commissions were created to honor the many people who support the coal industry and the mission of the Kentucky Coal Academy in particular.

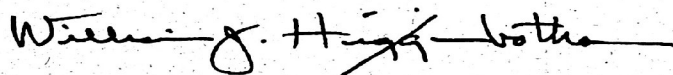

In Kentucky alone, the increasing demand for coal has sparked an immediate need for new miners and with what job experts say are paying in excess of $50,000 annually. At the same time, the coal mining workforce is aging. Many current miners will reach retirement age within the next decade. Mining techniques and safety standards are developing rapidly as the demand increases for younger, versatile, safety-conscious miners.

After the explosion at the Sago Mine, where 12 men were killed, Congress strengthened mine safety standards. While waiting for those standards to be implemented, the Upper Big Branch mine disaster occurred, killing 29 miners. That disaster has been our country's worst mine disaster in four decades.

In the future, miner rescue teams will need better equipment and training. I am pleased to say our mine rescue team won the KEMI competition. We also offer training on the self-contained, self-rescuers. This training won the Grand Prize, and the Mixed Media Public Award in the Mine, Safety and Health Administration's annual national Materials Training competition.

KCA is excited about what has been accomplished, and what will be done in the future. We are proud to provide training to the mining industry to improve safety and training applications to save lives in the future. We hope the situation of needing a mine rescue team or a self-rescuer is never needed; but in the event they are, we hope the training they receive will allow all miners to respond quickly and safely. I care about coal miners and their families.

Sincerely,

Bill Higginbotham

Bodine wins NASCAR truck race at Kentucky Speedway

TIMES STAFF REPORT

SPARTA — Germain Racing veteran Todd Bodine drove to his second career Kentucky Speedway victory and first in the NASCAR Camping World Truck Series by taking the "Built Ford Tough 225 presented by the Greater Cincinnati Ford Dealers" title Friday night.

The current NCWTS championship leader started 14th, rebounded from a Lap 81 solo spin in Turn 4 while battling Kyle Busch for the lead and clawed his way back to lead the closing 14 laps while conserving fuel.

His No. 30 truck crossed the finish line a comfortable 5.630 seconds ahead of Johnny Sauter in the No. 13 ThorSport Racing machine. Aric Almirola took third in the No. 51 Billy Ballew Motorsports truck, Jason White placed fourth in the No. 23 SS Green Light Racing Ford F-150 and Ricky Carmichael rounded out the top five in the No. 4 Turner Motorsports machine.

"We didn't get into the fence with the spin, so our misfortune became our fortune tonight," Bodine said after recording the win. "Spinning out was what gave us the fuel to get to the end. We didn't get into the fence. The guys did a great job fixing the truck and everything fell the way we needed it. The race went green the whole way and everybody else had to pit under green."

"You never give up. We had a good enough truck to get through the field and pass those guys. I started pedaling with about 20 to go to save fuel and we had enough to get to the end."

He recorded his first Kentucky Speedway victory in an equally dramatic fashion in the closest of 10 Nationwide Series races at the track by fending off a spinning Greg Biffle, at the finish line by .036 of a second on June 16, 2002.

Bodine peeled off his fourth NCWTS victory of the season and third in his past five starts. He owns a total of 13 top-five and 15 top-10 finishes through 18 events. He will hold a 261-point championship lead over Almirola, who took his seventh top-five and 14th top-10 of the season Friday night.

Sauter ground out his second straight and third top-five finish in his past four outings. He will roll to the series Sept. 18 race at New Hampshire Motor Speedway with nine top-five and 10 top-10 finishes.

"The guys made a great call to bring me down (pit road) to get gas and tires there (on Lap 92)," Sauter said. "We kind of had a hunch we would be going green the rest of the way there. I argued with them and they made the right call. We had a fourth-, fifth-place truck the all night and we got second out of it. We just have to keep going on to our next race and I think I am pretty damn good there so I may win that race."

Both White and Carmichael posted their second top-five and fifth top-10 finishes of the season.

RCR, Shepherd form Shepherd Racing Ventures

TIMES STAFF REPORT

Richard Childress Racing and Morgan Shepherd's Racing for Jesus have formed Shepherd Racing Ventures, a partnership to run the No. 21 for the remainder of the 2010 Nationwide Series season.

Chit Bowyer drove RCR's No. 21 Zaxby's Chevrolet at Atlanta Saturday. He will also drive the car in Richmond (Sept.

10), Charlotte (Oct. 15) and Texas (Nov. 6). Shepherd will drive the No. 21 Shepherd Racing Ventures Chevrolet in the seven other races.

"Morgan and I have been friends for a long time and he is a direct link back to the days when we raced together in the '60s, '70s and '80s," Richard Childress said. "He's been a great representative of NASCAR for all that time so I'm honored to be working with Morgan in continuing his racing career."

Shepherd earned four Cup Series victories in a career that began in 1970 and spanned 41 races. He finished four seasons in the top 10 of the point standings, with a career-best fifth in '90. He also has earned 15 victories in 280 starts in the Nationwide Series. He has competed in 19 of 24 Nationwide races in 2010.

Turnovers plague Eagles in road game at James Madison

TIMES STAFF REPORT

HARRISONBURG, Va. — The Morehead State University football team committed five turnovers, and could not recover from the mistakes at 15th-ranked (RCS) James Madison University defeated the Eagles 48-7 Saturday in both team's season openers at Bridgeforth Stadium before a crowd of 16,612.

Sophomore Blake Stanley scored on a four-yard run late in the fourth quarter to help MSU avoid the shutout. Stanley led the Eagles on the ground with 46 yards on 11 carries. He gained his entire night's total in the second quarter. Raymond rounded out Raymond accumulated eight total tackles, including 2.5 for losses, and came up with two fumble recoveries.

While the Eagles did lose five turnovers, the defense came up with four, including three fumbles and an interception from D.J. Smith.

The Dukes took the opening kickoff and drove 63 yards in nine plays before quarterback Drew Dudzik finished the drive with a one-yard scoring run. MSU had the Dukes in a third-and-long situation at the 50-yard line but Dudzik completed a 47-yard strike over the middle to get JMUI in the red zone. JMUI then forced a Zach Lewis fumble on the Eagles' third play and turned it into seven points just five plays later as Dudzik went around the right end for an eight-yard score.

Lewis was picked off on the Eagles' second play of the second drive by Jonathan Williams, but Raymond helped the Eagles catch a break. On third-and-goal from the Eagles' 12, he forced Dudzik to fumble and picked the ball out of the air.

Raymond's interception was shot at the end zone but was dragged down after moving out to the 35-yard line. Billy Hopewell added a pair of field goals, and the Dukes got 47-yard touchdown pass from Dudzik, along with a two-yard run by Jamal Sullivan, to take a 34-0 halftime lead.

Dudzik added another touchdown toss in the third to make it 41-0 and Leg Reynolds found paydirt from a yard out for the 48-0 lead.

In the fourth quarter, Raymond recovered his second JMUI fumble at the Dukes' 26. Lewis completed an 18-yard pass to Ronnie McDermott to get the ball down to the four-yard line, and Stanley crashed across the goal line on the next play — his first career touchdown. Freshman kicker Ryan Ullrich added his first career PAT.

The Eagles' offense was held to 152 yards, while JMUI compiled 483 balanced yards. The Dukes' ground out 294 rushing yards and threw for 189 yards; Dudzik was 8-for-15, accounting for four of the Dukes' touchdowns.

Lewis finished 12-of-24 for 85 yards. Drew Morgan led the Eagles with three catches. Desmond Cox tallied 126 all-purpose yards, including 97 kickoff return yards.

On defense, Tony Bachman topped the Eagles with 11 tackles, while Smith had nine — including six solo stops. Steve Francis and Keaton May notched seven tackles apiece, while May had 1.5 tackles for losses.

Pikeville

play. Pikeville, meanwhile, finished with only 88 yards and averaged 1.6 yards per play.

Sophomore tailback Brandon Ross had the first two scores of the game, on runs of one and three yards, to give the Jags a 14-0 lead with 11:14 to play in the first half. Bryson James returned an interception 22 yards and Myles Gibbon hit Courtney Smith from six yards out before the half, where the Jags led 22-0.

In the third period, USA got a 31-yard scoring pass from C.J. Bennett to T.J. Glover and a 22-yard field goal by Michel Chapuisaux to lead 37-0.

On Lavender, the scoring came on a 56-yard run by Ellis Hill, a 54-yard punt return by Jerome Jones and a one-yard run by Johnny Lockett.

Pikeville never got closer than the South Alabama 41 yard line in the entire game.

South Alabama had 12 different players carry the ball, finishing with 242 yards on 39 carries (6.2 yards per carry). Hill, who had only two carries, led the way with 55 yards thanks to the scoring effort.

Three different Jags threw passes, combining to go 13-of-18 for 222 yards. Gibbon, the starter, was 7-of-8 for 112 yards with a touchdown. The leading receiver was Bryant Lavender, who had four catches for 67 yards.

Pikeville's leading ball carrier was freshman Tavarus Pickney, who had 11 yards on two carries.

Starting quarterback Trevor Hoskins, a sophomore from Middleboro, was 11-of-25 for 85 yards with two interceptions. Junior Bobby Owens caught four passes for 30 yards.

Senior Anson Cunningham led the defensive effort with eight tackles, six being solo. Three were for loss totaling 13 yards. Senior Traynel Jones followed with six tackles.

Pikeville will be back in action next Saturday night. The team will visit Kentucky Wesleyan for a 7 p.m. EDT start.

EVERYBODY'S SCIENCE

America needs ... your back yard

by SANDY MILLER HAYS
AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH SERVICE

Now that we're headed into the fall, perhaps your flower garden is starting to look a bit funeral; mine certainly is. But now's a perfect time to start thinking about what to plant next spring!

If you're thinking that it's time for "something completely different," as they used to say between Monty Python skits, you might want to consider a "bee pasture."

Bee pastures are just small patches of wildflowers—but specifically wildflowers that are particularly alluring to bees. That's the idea from an Agricultural Research Service (ARS) entomologist who says bee pastures can help grow larger generations of healthy, hardworking bees needed to pollinate our crops.

Today millions of bees are needed every year to pollinate orchards and fields. But the "heavy hitters" of pollination are honey bees, and as you've no doubt heard, they're having a hard time these days, thanks to a mysterious malady called Colony Collapse Disorder, or CCD.

When CCD first came on the scene in the winter of 2006-2007, some beekeepers were reporting losses of 30 to 90 percent of their hives. The situation has improved in recent years, but in the most recent survey conducted, about 26 percent of beekeepers reported that at least some of their bees died of CCD.

The idea of bee pastures is to encourage other types of bees to be fruitful and multiply so they can carry some of the pollination load. Over the past few years, the ARS scientists have been studying these wild "non-honey bees" and trying to figure out how we can put them to work on pollination chores.

For example, there's a fairly new contender, a good-sized, metallic green creature called the Osmia bee, that's turning out to be a prolific pollinator of raspberries and blackberries. These plants are actually self-pollinating, which means they can supply their own pollen and form fruit without visits from pollen-bearing insects—but the insect visits can make the plump berries up to 30 percent bigger.

Interestingly, the Osmia bees are more efficient than the honey bee, because they're into multi-tasking. They combine their outdoor errands, always gathering both pollen and nectar in a single visit to a bloom, whereas a honey bee might just drop by to sip some nectar and ignore the pollen on that trip.

And then there's the blue orchard bee, another gentle but hard-working wild bee. The ARS scientists say planting bee pastures as welcoming homes for native blue orchard bees could boost the bees' populations by as much as four- to five-fold per year.

Done on a commercial basis, here's how the bee pastures would work: Blue orchard bees would be taken out of a bee manager's winter storage and brought to the pasture, where they would emerge from their cocoons, mate, and if female, lay eggs before dying.

The next year, some of the new generation of bees that developed from those eggs would be brought to commercial almond orchards to pollinate the trees' creamy blossoms. But most of that generation would be returned to their parents' pasture to produce another, hopefully larger, generation.

Because one of the greatest pollination needs is in the California almond orchards, the ARS scientists thus far have studied wildflowers that might be ideal for planting bee pastures in California, particularly early-flowering annuals.

They've come up with a first-ever list of five top-choice, bee-friendly wildflowers for tomorrow's bee pas-

Medical school's class of 2014 to receive symbolic 'white coat of compassion'

PIKEVILLE — Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine will formally welcome members of the Class of 2014 during a traditional White Coat Ceremony on Saturday, Sept. 11, at 7 p.m. in Booth Auditorium.

White coat ceremonies are rites of passage for beginning medical students. White represents purity, healing and the professional ideals of the medical profession that focus on compassionate care-giving. The long white coat is the quintessential symbol of a physician and conveys to patients and the public the wearer's identity as a physician. The short white coat indicates the wearer's status as medical student or student-doctor.

The white coat ceremony tradition among medical schools was begun by the Arnold P. Gold Foundation in 1993 to promote humanism in medicine. The Gold Foundation provides a gold pin to PCSOM student-doctors to wear on their white coats to symbolize commitment to providing compassionate and competent patient care.

In the presence of family members, friends and the campus community, students from the Class of 2014 will be "coated" by the students from the medical school's Class of 2013.

The keynote speaker for the ceremony will be William G. Anderson I, D.O., F.A.C.O.S. Anderson is past president of the American Osteopathic Association, senior advisor to the dean at Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine and vice president of Academic Affairs, Osteopathic Medical Education, responsible for the development of osteopathic medical education programs for students, interns and residents at hospitals within the Detroit Medical Center's Sinai-Grace Hospital. Anderson began his professional career in medicine and surgery in Albany, Ga., where he practiced for six years. During that time, he was a founder and first president of the Albany Movement, which spearheaded the Civil Rights Movement in Southwest Georgia. He completed his training in general surgery in Detroit where he conducted a successful group surgical practice until 1984. He also served as executive vice president and chief medical officer of the Michigan Health Corporation, a director of governmental affairs for the Detroit Osteopathic Hospital and as associate director of medical education at Detroit Riverview Hospital until assuming his current position.

Anderson is a graduate of the Des Moines University College of Osteopathic Medicine. He is board certified in general surgery and a Fellow of the American College of Osteopathic Surgeons. Recognized for his distinguished service and leadership, Anderson has received Doctorate of Humane Letters degrees from Ohio University, the University of New England College of Osteopathic Medicine and the Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine. He also received a Doctorate of Science, Degree from the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine and a Doctorate of Public Service from the University of North Texas Health Science Center.

Along with his late wife Norma, Anderson is the proud parent of five children, three of whom have followed him into careers in osteopathic medicine. The community is cordially invited to attend the White Coat Ceremony. For more information, contact the Pikeville College Public Affairs office at (606) 218-5270.

tures in almond-growing regions. These native California plants are Chinese houses (Collinsia heterophylla), California five-spot (Nemophila maculata), baby blue eyes (Nemophila menziesii), lacy or tansy phacelia (Phacelia tanacetifolia), and California bluebell (Phacelia campanularia). These wildflowers are rich in pollen and nectar, and are reasonably easy to grow.

Also, their seed is commercially available. Maybe you don't live anywhere near California, and these flowers might not grow in your area—but there are other bee-friendly flowers like Echinacea that will grow as far east as my backyard in Maryland. Just ask at your local garden center about bee-attracting flowers, and they'll be able to advise you. So wherever you are, when you're planning your next spring garden, you can do your bit to boost our pollinator populations—just remember "More bees, please!"
