Six arrested in P'burg drug roundup

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER
PRESTONSBURG — Prestonsburg Police conducted a drug sweep Wednesday within the city that ended in six arrests. Those arrested were Jimmy Nelson, Shawn Allen, Terry

Hamilton, Millis Hall Jr., Shannon Stone and Jason Risner. All but Nelson have been charged with drug-trafficking. Police have not yet released the exact charges against any of the six suspects now in custody. Officers had obtained a total of 12 warrants and now, having picked up half the suspects, Assistant Police Chief Bryan Hall says there is no plan to slow down. "As long as we have the money to work with, this isn't going to stop," Hall said, who is one of several working within the police department on a city drug unit that also includes officers working undercover. In the past year, the city has made a move to form a unit of officers to concentrate exclusively in some cases on the drug problem both in the city and in outlying areas of the county, to which they

PRESTONSBURG — U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers served as a guest speaker Thursday during the Big Sandy Area Development District's regular meeting, addressing a number of issues in the forefront of concern for the region.

Rogers, who said it was "nice to get out of Washington for awhile" started by covering a number of things that have developed throughout his district lately, including an increase in the percentage of clean drinking water available to residents throughout the state since 1992. At that time, Rogers said, Kentucky saw only about 30 percent of residents with clean drinking water. That number, following numerous state and local efforts, now rests at about 90 percent.

"People always say to me, that's what you're focusing on? Clean drinking water?" Rogers told board members Thursday.

In addition, Rogers mentioned his pride in several completed and ongoing developments throughout the district, such as the opening of the federal prison in nearby Martin

Rosenberg receives AARP's highest award

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — John Rosenberg, the founder of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky, was the recipient of the AARP Kentucky 2010 Andrus Award for Community Service during an event held in his honor at the East Kentucky Science Center on Thursday.

The Andrus Award for Community Service is the highest volunteer recognition awarded by AARP. The award recognizes volunteers who, through community service, are enhancing the lives of AARP members in the areas of health, wellness, economic security, work, life transition issues and community service.

"We have 19 members from the AARP Jenny Wiley Chapter in attendance," said Jane Bond, president of the AARP Jenny Wiley Chapter. "They are here because we love John so much.

I can't think of anybody else who would be more deserving of this award."

After accepting the award, Rosenberg, 79, spoke to the large crowd about the importance of AARP and working together in the community.

"When you get a group of people together who are willing to engage in an important activity, good things can happen," Rosenberg said.

Nelda Barnett, president of AARP Kentucky, lauded Rosenberg's achievements as both an attorney and for his work with AARP.

"John has helped countless numbers of disadvantaged Kentuckians," Barnett said. "He is an inspiration to us all."

Along with receiving the Andrus Award, Rosenberg was also honored with a proclamation from Judge-Executive R.D. "Doc" Marshall designating Oct. 21 as John M.

Midway picks, but doesn't announce, new school's location

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — Midway College President William B. Drake said Thursday that he and officials at the college have decided on a location for the institution's new School of Pharmacy in Johnson County, but will not announce that location until some time in mid-November.

The pharmaceutical college has been using temporary offices in Paintsville since announcing in January its intention to locate the school in Johnson County.

And staff is growing, Drake said, with instructors moving to the area to teach and locals being hired for other jobs at the school.

"We've had no problems enticing professionals to locate to Johnson County," Drake said. "It's a beautiful county and we have instructors from Texas to Tennessee and also

Tourism plans Christmas open house Nov. 23

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — "People just don't know where the building is," said Mistie Cumutte, with Prestonsburg Tourism, of her agency's office.

In order to help people locate the building, which also houses the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, a special Christmas Open House has been scheduled to take place on Nov. 23.

"We want to get the public involved so people will come and see what we have to offer," said Mandy Stumbo, director of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce. "We want people to realize where we're at and what's located here."

According to Cumutte, people searching for the Prestonsburg Convention and Visitors Bureau tend to travel to the Prestonsburg

(See TOURISM, page 7)

The building that houses the offices of Prestonsburg Tourism and the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce is located on the corner of South Central and Court Street in Prestonsburg. A special open house is scheduled for Nov. 23 in order to promote the location of the building and the services that are offered inside.

Worth Repeating ...

"Life is a tragedy for those who feel, a comedy for those who think"

— Horace Walpole

Amendment 1

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people to peaceably assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

Our View Cobb apology unnecessary

University of Kentucky wide receiver Randall Cobb ignited something of a firestorm underneath the giant magnifying glass that is UK sports earlier this week.

Through his Twitter account, Cobb addressed a small contingent of UK "fans" who booed their own team before the Cats made a valiant comeback effort to obtain the school's biggest win in recent years. And he told them exactly what he thought of them.

The aftermath was predictable. The star player later deleted his post, then apologized for it. Coach Joker Phillips publicly mulled banning his players from using Twitter, then discarded that idea. And all the while, hotheaded loudmouths lit up sports radio talk shows and internet bulletin boards with cries of "How could he?"

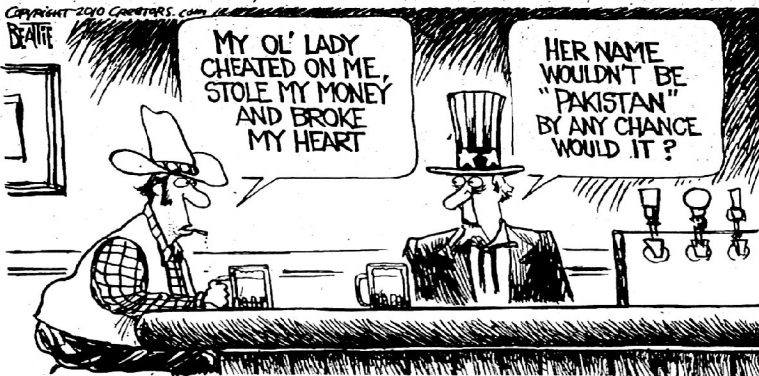

But really ... was he wrong?

Is it really unforgivable for Cobb to express his ire toward a group of hooligans who see nothing wrong with humiliating a team of college kids who are playing a game? Is it wrong for him to be honest?

It is somewhat remarkable that our culture elevates the game of football as a way to prepare boys to become men and leaders, and yet we castigate those same young men the moment they dare stray from the dull, uninformative sportspeak put upon them by agents and public relations hacks.

Whether you agree or disagree with Cobb, he should not be vilified for speaking his mind. To the contrary, in an age when so many shrink into the safety of the banal when confronted by the eye of the media, Cobb is deserving of admiration for braving popular backlash to defend himself and his teammates.

Make Halloween a safer and happier occasion

by SEN. JOHNNY RAY TURNER

Fall is in full swing making Halloween the perfect time for children and adults to enjoy a festive celebration. With the change of the season producing cool, crisp evenings and a rainbow of colorful leaves, autumn provides an ideal setting for good old-fashioned fun and merry-making. Fall just lends itself to spending time with the children in your life.

What better way to spend an evening with children or grandchildren than carving a pumpkin or decorating the house and yard with scarecrows and Jack-o-lanterns? It is a great way to make memories that will last them and you a lifetime, but it is also a chance to talk to them and strengthen the family bond. Talks could range from what's happening to school to what is going on with friends and may encompass any concerns or topics that your children want to discuss. Opening the line of communication gives you more insight into their lives, allows you to get closer to them and gives you an opportunity to understand their fears and anxieties - as well as some of the things that get them excited.

And, speaking of getting excited, Halloween costumes, parties and trick-or-treating always gets children and young adults enthusiastic. Halloween is a magical time for them and by following a few tips and using a little common sense, we can help to make the most out of the Halloween season.

Costumes are a good place to start. Costumes should be fireproof and have eyeholes large enough for good peripheral vision. Jack-o-lanterns with candles on the porch should be placed out of the way enough not to be a danger to children in costumes. Costume props - such as a scythe, butcher knife or pitchfork - should have smooth, flexible tips so not to cause injury if there is a fall.

Dressing up and trick-or-treating is a treasured part of childhood. To keep the evening's fun safer on high, the Center for Disease Control and other health and safety groups advise:

- Allowing children to go out during daylight hours only, unless accompanied by a responsible adult.
- Allowing small children to go out alone on Halloween. Make sure an older sibling or adult is with them.
- Planning a safe route and know where your older children are at all times. Set a time for their return home.

■ Instructing them not to cut through back alleys and fields and to stay in well-lighted, populated areas. Warn them not to go off the beaten track.

■ Telling them to stop only at familiar houses in your own neighborhood unless you or another responsible adult is with them.

■ Instructing them not to eat any treats until they bring them home to be examined.

■ Instructing them not to go into the home of a stranger or get into anyone's car.

■ Making sure the trick-or-treaters carry a flashlight, glow stick or has reflective tape on their costumes so they are more visible to cars.

■ Letting them know that they should stay together as a group if they go trick-or-treating without an adult.

It is always better if an adult accompanies children and it is safer for them to trick-or-treat at locally sponsored events at businesses, churches, schools or festivals. We all have happy memories of Halloween and our children - and grandchildren - can have those too if we follow a few simple guidelines.

Happy Halloween!

Beyond the Beltway Tied to the tracks

by DONALD KAUL
OTHERWORDS

If life were an old-fashioned movie serial, we'd be at the scene where Barack Obama is tied to railroad tracks while an oncoming train sounds in the distance.

And if it were a movie, he'd escape. I'm not sure how, but at the last moment he'd slip his bonds and roll off the tracks just as the train roared by.

That's the difference between movies and real life.

It's beginning to look as though President Obama won't escape his current predicament, that indeed he's going to be run over by the train that is, for want of a better name, the Angry American Voter.

The polls going into the mid-term congressional elections, while improving some in recent weeks, are still a bloody nose for the Democrats. A recent Associated Press poll, for example, shows working-class whites favoring Republican candidates by twice the margin of the last two elections.

Democrats are used to losing out with this group. But to see that cohort abandon ship at this rate is alarming to those hoping the party will hang on to its control of Congress for the next two years.

And it's getting hard to find any polls that offer good news for Democrats. The latest one from Gallup has Republicans leading Democrats 53-41 in a high-turnout election; 56-39 with low turnout.

Conservative analyst Michael

Barone says it's beginning to look like the '94 election. Not 1994 when the Democrats lost about 50 House seats but 1894 when the Republicans gained 100. That election was conducted in the aftermath of the Panic of 1893, the nation's worst economic collapse up to that time.

OK, so the economy isn't so great right now but it could be worse and almost was.

I think people have forgotten just how bad things were when Obama took office. The economy was cratering and our financial system was on the brink of collapse. We were hemorrhaging jobs. The stock market was tanking, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average at about 8,000 and heading down.

Obama fixed that, kind of. He sta-

Pike County to break ground for $30.9 million judicial center Oct. 27

FRANKFORT — The public is invited to a groundbreaking ceremony for the planned Pike County Judicial Center on Wednesday, Oct. 27, at 2 p.m. EDT. The event will take place at the existing courthouse at 146 Main St. in Pikeville.

The Kentucky General Assembly authorized the judicial center project for Pike County in 2006 and approved funding in 2008. The total project cost is $30.9 million. The building will be approximately 94,900 square feet.

New judicial centers replace older, inadequate facilities, greatly increasing the efficiency of services and public flow. All new judicial centers are equipped with the modern infrastructure to support data, computer, video and networking technology. The facilities also provide the highest level of Kentucky court security through a single-point entry with magnetometers and security personnel.

Chief Justice of Kentucky John D. Minton Jr. said he appreciates the legislators and county officials who have supported this project for Pike County.

"Kentucky citizens generate more than 1 million court cases each year," Chief Justice Minton said. "Our citizens deserve safe, efficient facilities in which to conduct their business before the courts."

The Sherman Carter Barnhart architectural firm of Lexington designed the Pike County Judicial Center. Codell Construction Co. of Winchester is the construction manager for the project and Ross, Sinclair & Associates, which serves Kentucky and six other states, is the financial agent.

Chief Justice Minton and Pike County Judge-Executive Wayne T. Rutherford will be among the speakers at the ceremony. Other state and local officials expected to attend include judges, attorneys and the Pike County circuit court clerk. For more information, contact Judge-Executive Rutherford at 606-432-6247.

The Kentucky Administrative Office of the Courts provides oversight and administration of court facilities in accordance with House Bill 734, which was passed by the 2000 General Assembly. As a result of this legislation, the AOC created a process that would fairly and objectively determine facility needs. The AOC's Facilities Management System has earned the Kentucky Court of Justice a national reputation for being able to identify facilities with the greatest need for new construction, renovation, expansion and adaptation.

Once funding for a judicial center is authorized, the AOC Division of Capital Construction works with local communities to assemble a Project Development Board. This board ensures that county and court officials have input on all aspects of the project, including decisions on the site, architect and contractor. The PDB consists of the county judge-executive, a fiscal court representative, the chief circuit judge, the chief district judge, the circuit court clerk, a citizen at large, the AOC director or designee and a Kentucky Bar Association designee.

As the administrative and fiscal agent for the Kentucky Court of Justice, the AOC oversees the construction and maintenance of court facilities statewide. The AOC also supports the activities of approximately 3,400 Kentucky Court of Justice employees and 403 elected justices, judges and circuit court clerks.

Chamber to host 'Women across the Commonwealth' luncheon

PRESTONSBURG — The Floyd County Chamber of Commerce will be hosting a luncheon and seminar spotlighting women across the commonwealth. The event, scheduled for Nov. 16 at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park in Prestonsburg, will feature a diverse group of Kentucky women as well as exhibitors and entertainment.

"The primary focus of this luncheon is to motivate, inspire, and empower Eastern Kentucky women," said Mandy Stumbo, director of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce.

Stumbo said this luncheon and seminar will feature Miss Kentucky DeJuan Trent, Judge Sara Combs, Rep. Leslie Combs, Meredith Lane with the Lane Report Magazine, former First Lady Judi Patton and Laura Kretzer with Judi's Place For Kids, Trish Cieslak of The Perfect Setting Cafe, and Beth Mullins with Mary Kay Cosmetics. The keynote speaker for the event will be former Governor Martha Layne Collins.

The Chamber is thrilled to have such an outstanding group of women scheduled for this event," Stumbo said. "With the creation of the Floyd County Women's Council just a few short months ago, it's important that women network together while continuing the journey toward economic opportunity, personal growth, and civic progress for the women in our area."

The luncheon and seminar will spotlight two local entrepreneurs and also a local women's agency.

The Chamber has sponsorship opportunities available for any interested business that would like to be a sponsor for this event. Tickets for the seminar and luncheon are $28 and may be purchased by calling the Chamber at (606) 886-0364. The luncheon and seminar will begin at 9 a.m. with registration.

For additional information contact Mandy Stumbo by e-mail at floydchamber@setel.com

The Floyd County Chamber of Commerce recently welcomed new chamber member East Kentucky Energy, the region's newest professional basketball team. East Kentucky Energy owners, Tom Hamilton, owner of Champs Sports Bar and Grill in Pikeville, and Jerry Boggs, editor for the Appalachian News-Express, are bringing the American Basketball Association team to Eastern Kentucky. The Energy will begin its inaugural season in the quickly-growing ABA on Dec. 5 and play 15 home games against other ABA teams. East Kentucky Energy is committed to being Eastern Kentucky's Team. Local native J.R. VanHoose, a Paintsville High School alumnus, was the first to commit to East Kentucky Energy.

Second Floyd County location added for heat assistance applicants

ALLEN — To better serve residents who need help paying for their home heating bills this winter, Big Sandy Area Community Action Program will be taking applications at two locations in Floyd County, beginning November 1, 2010.

In addition to the agency's community services office located at 193 East Court Street in Prestonsburg, Floyd Countians may apply for assistance through the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) at 60 Court Street in Allen. For the past few years, applications were also taken at the Old Wheelwright Gym in Wheelwright, but that location will not be available this year.

Applications will be taken at both locations from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The phone number for the Prestonsburg office is (606) 886-2929. The Allen office number is (606) 874-2420.

"We are pleased to offer this service to the people of Floyd County," said James Michael Howell, the agency's executive director. "Our goal is to serve as many people as possible and make the LIHEAP application process more convenient. With second location taking applications, we will be more accessible, and people will not have to travel as far. This is extremely important to households on fixed incomes. We want to help during these difficult economic times in any way we can."

LIHEAP is a federally-funded program designed to help needy individuals and families meet their home heating costs during the winter months, and is administered locally through the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program.

Beltway

bilized the economy at a price. But you didn't expect it to be free, did you? He got a health insurance bill passed. Not a perfect bill, but a lot of people who didn't have insurance are now going to. He managed to install some brakes into our financial system that might, just might, forestall another meltdown. He's too slow in getting out of wars. His economic advisers are too Wall Street. The health insurance plan sucks.

Stop already. This is politics.

Part of the problem, maybe a lot of it, is the Vast Right-Wing Conspiracy. Hillary Clinton coined that phrase when she was defending her husband against various right-wing attacks, many of them financed by Richard Scaife, the DuPont billionaire and right-wing nut.

She was on the mark, of course, but the mainstream "liberal" press ridiculed her for it. (Our press hates conspiracy theories.)

Well, I'm sorry to break the news to you but there is a right-wing conspiracy and it's more vast than ever. It centers now on Rupert Murdoch, owner of Fox News and The Wall Street Journal, among other things. He not only gave $1 million to a Republican campaign committee, he's got four Republican presidential hopefuls on his Fox News payroll. That's the "fair and balanced" network.

And he's a piker compared to Texas oilmen Charles and David Koch, who have financed just about every right-wing think tank and project that Scaife neglected.

No wonder a third of the American people think Obama's a Muslim.

In a year or two, they'll think he's a Martian.

Students can participate in slogan and essay contests

FRANKFORT — Students can win valuable prizes while becoming more civically engaged by participating in the 2010 Office of the Secretary of State Slogan and Essay Contests. The contests specifically center upon elections and allow teachers to work the contest into the classroom curriculum through relevance to current events, such as the upcoming mid-term election. All entries must be submitted electronically by 5 p.m. (EST) Wednesday, December 1, 2010 or postmarked by that day to be eligible for consideration. "In order for students to become more engaged in our society and eventually become active citizens, we must take civic education directly into the classroom. Activities such as the Voter Slogan and Essay Contests allow teachers to bring civics education to life while allowing them to focus on the current Core Content required by the Kentucky Department of Education," said Secretary of State Trey Grayson. The Office of the Secretary of State Voter Slogan and Essay Contest is also sponsored by the Kentucky Education Association (KEA) Retired and the University of Kentucky Scripps Howard First Amendment Center. For the past 22 years, the Office of the Secretary of State has held a statewide slogan and essay contest for Kentucky high school students. This year, 6th, 7th and 8th graders are invited to participate in the slogan contest, and 9th-12th graders are invited to participate in the essay contest. Prizes of up to a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond and four $1,500 U.S. Savings Bonds are available for winning slogans and essays, respectively. Under his administration, the contests have become part of Civics Month and Grayson's efforts to increase civic literacy among Kentucky's youth. Grayson's primary focus, the Civic Literacy Initiative of Kentucky (CLIK), is a multi-year effort for enhancing long-term civic engagement and civic literacy within the Commonwealth. CLIK established the Kentucky Teacher Network for Excellence in Civic Education and Civic Engagement, which seeks to provide a professional learning community for P-12 civic educators in order to share knowledge, skills, curriculum, and assessment tools. The initiative has been recognized as a national model to promote a better informed and engaged electorate. The Office of the Secretary of State also sponsors a number of programs that involve students directly within their classrooms. Currently, the Office is conducting a statewide mock election for Kentucky's elementary, middle, and high school students. The Office also hosts Constitution Day activities for classrooms of all ages. For more information about the Voter Slogan and Essay Contests or the CLIK, please visit the Office of the Secretary of State's website at www.sos.ky.gov/secdesk/initiatives/civics.

Former Pike deputy found innocent of rape

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

PIKEVILLE — A Pike County sheriff's deputy was found innocent in Pike Circuit Court of charges that he raped a woman in April of last year. The jury returned a not guilty verdict for former volunteer sheriff's deputy Bill Hatfield Wednesday evening, saying the charges that he raped a woman after investigating a car she was found parked in had been wrongly brought against him. The woman, who testified during the trial, claimed that Hatfield came upon her and a man parked in a car at the location. Hatfield testified the woman and the man were "fooling around." Hatfield told jurors during trial that he was friends with the woman's husband and that he and the woman did have sex, but that it was consensual, adding that she told him she would have sex with him if he agreed not to tell her husband about finding her with the other man. The incident started, according to Hatfield, when he was investigating the area at the strip mine he said was known as a hot spot for drug activity in the county and came upon the woman and the man in the car. The woman has claimed since filing rape charges last year that Hatfield raped her against the car after the man left the scene. But a jury thought differently Wednesday, concluding Hatfield's story about the incident was the more accurate description of what happened. For the past year and a half, Hatfield has maintained that the woman, who knew that Hatfield and her husband were friends, had sex with him in exchange for his silence about finding her with the other man. Hatfield did not speak to the media at the conclusion of the trial, however, his attorney, Steve Owens said they were obviously pleased with the verdict.

say drugs are being taken from the city and moved. The recent addition of a canine unit has been helpful, officers say. Officer Adam Dixon, who handles the canine unit, said, as in many cases in the past month, the dog has been a key part in making arrests possible at conclusion of what are often month-long investigations. The department said they will continue to seek the other six suspects who currently have active warrants outstanding. Police have asked anyone who might have information on Christopher Osborne, of Prestonsburg, or Scott C. Jarrrell, of Martin, to call them at (606) 886-1010.

offered to board members. The project is a renovation of an existing building owned by MCCC located along Shop Fork Road in the city. The facility would be a rehabilitation program for those with severe mental disabilities and would include office space, treatment and counseling programs, group counseling rooms and classroom space, according to development district records. The project is being referred to at this time as a "reuse" project because the contractors will use the existing structure, but renovation will include a "gut-ting and rebuilding" of the interior of the building, while also renovation of the outside of the building. Records also indicate that $500,000 in federal money has been marked for the project with an additional $235,000 included as applicant funds for a total on the project of $735,000.

Board to meet Monday

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

EASTERN — The October meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education is scheduled for Monday at Allen Central Middle/Duff Elementary School, and the current agenda for the meeting includes various memorandums of agreement and contracts to be considered. Among the agenda items are the consideration of bids for diesel particulate filter and a diesel particulate filter thermal regenerator, creating a part-time position for the alternative education program at Betsy Layne High School, a memorandum of understanding with the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority for a Kentucky College Coach at South Floyd High School, an agreement between the Commonwealth of Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet, Office of Career and Technical Education and the Floyd County Board of Education, a report on implementation and progress of the School Improvement Grant for South Floyd High School and Betsy Layne High School, permission for the South Floyd High School Incentive Trip for Honor Students to travel to New York on March 24, 2011, a contract with Multicultural America, Inc. for Larry Bell, a speaker, for a two-day training program, a contract with Premier Speakers Bureau for Ron Clark on Nov. 2, and more. The regular monthly meetings of the Floyd County Board of Education begin at 6:30 p.m. Full agendas are available at the meetings.

Rosenberg Day in Floyd County. The proclamation was presented by Floyd County Clerk Chris Waugh. "We're very proud of you, John," Waugh said. "You're one of us and you represent us very well." Kentucky Gov. Steve Beshear also honored Rosenberg with an acclamation recognizing his accomplishments. The acclamation was read by Kentucky Court of Appeals Judge Janet Stumbo. "I could stand up here and talk about John and what he has meant to me, the legal community and Kentucky for two hours and not even repeat myself," Stumbo said. Brett Davis, executive director of LINKS, echoed the sentiments of all those in attendance. "John is a scholar and a gentleman," Davis said. "He is a tremendous human being."

office of the attorney general, which used to serve as the tourism building. "We also still have people coming in here thinking it's the post office," Curmutte said. "The post office moved out in 1995." The open house, scheduled to start at 10 a.m. and last until 2 p.m., will include a gingerbread house decorating contest, sweets, door prizes, unique shopping and more. For more information about the Prestonsburg Tourism and the Convention locals now on staff and ready." In January, at an announcement at Johnson Central High School, Drake said a date for when the college would be open at its permanent place in the county was yet to be determined. However, on Thursday, the school's president said that by Dec. 1 not only would a location be picked, but staff would then be moved from the temporary offices and into the new building or buildings. School officials expect the need for 100 new jobs at the school, with a great majority of those being faculty positions paying between $130,000 and $140,000 a year. Annual average tuition per student will be $31,000, officials said. The college will offer a fully accredited Doctor of Pharmacy degree and will enroll up to 80 students a year, with a maximum enrollment of 320 students when fully operational. A scholarship fund has already seen several students granted scholarships, some 70 percent of those local students from the region. Drake has said one of the key reasons Midway College wanted to build a school of pharmacy was the current shortage of pharmacists, while Johnson County Judge-Executive Tucker Daniel has called the school's arrival in his county the most important economic advancement for Johnson County in his lifetime.

Rogers

County that now employs some 400 local residents and also the health care industry. "Besides coal, the other big economic engine in our area is health care," the congressman said. "Pikeville College, Pikeville Medical Center and Highlands, and now Midway College, have been and will continue to be a part of this health care engine." Rogers recently visited Pikeville College for a groundbreaking to expand infrastructure at the Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine, a school that has now graduated over 600 doctors, 200 of which have stayed in Kentucky to practice.

Another point of focus Rogers moved to in his address to the board members Thursday was the continued efforts of Operation UNITE to combat the growing drug epidemic in the area. "UNITE is working better than I ever expected," said Rogers. "Some of our smaller counties, and you all know the ones I'm talking about, have been taken over by the drug culture. One of those, and this is public record, is Clay County. Without UNITE in there and turning the covers up on that county, it wouldn't have been possible." With notes from reports in hand, Rogers told those in attendance that the most recent numbers his office had reflected that in this region alone, there were 114 overdose deaths in the first two months of this year. One new initiative Rogers mentioned in regard to the growing drug problem was the effort to encourage residents to clean out their medicine cabinets of unused or out-of-date prescription medications and brought to a drop-off station in respective counties to be dispensed in what has been called the "Pill Dragon," a machine that burns the turned in drugs. Last week, some 47,000 pills were destroyed in this machine in Magoffin County alone.

Bears' recruiting class features multiple D-I transfers

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

PIKEVILLE — Pikeville College men's basketball fans had an opportunity to see the Bears in action Tuesday evening at the annual Basketball Blastoff. Several newcomers are poised to lead the Pikeville College men's basketball program.

Kentucky Wildcat Landon Stone is now a Pikeville College Bear. In fact, Pikeville College Coach Kelly Wells could nearly field a starting-five comprised solely of players with NCAA Division I ties. Other talented newcomers to the Pikeville College men's basketball program include transfers Vance Cooksey (6-0, G, Sr., Youngstown State), Andre Thornton (6-6, F, Sr., Central Florida) and Quincy Hankins-Cole (6-8, F, Sr., Nebraska). Carlos Woodard, a 6-6 post player from Volunteer State Community College, has also signed on with the Bears.

Hankins-Cole is a 6-8, 240-pound forward who played last season at the University of Nebraska. He averaged just under 10 minutes a game for the Huskers, scoring 4.0 points and pulling down 2.4 rebounds per contest. He scored a season-high 15 points in two separate games.

Prior to Nebraska, Hankins-Cole was an All-FCCAA selection at Polk Community College in Lakeland, Fla. As a sophomore, Hankins-Cole averaged a double-double of 15.8 points and 12.3 rebounds per game.

Three starters — senior guard Justin Hicks, sophomore forward Trevor Setty and senior forward Chris Donald — return for the Bears. Hicks was an Honorable Mention All-Mid-South Conference selection last season.

Starters lost from last season's Pikeville men's basketball team were First Team All-Mid South Conference selection JC

Clark and Anthony Smith; Clark transferred to Pikeville after playing three seasons at Louisiana Tech. Last season, Clark was second in the league in scoring with an average of 17.4 points per game. In addition, the 6-0 senior from Charlotte, N.C., led the conference with an average of 3.92 assists per game.

Big weekend ahead for area Sports fans

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

Lots of things to cover, so let's start plowing through them to kick off a gigantic weekend.

— It's kind of unusual to say, so allow my 22 years of (hopefully) goodwill to carry me through on this opener. You should come out to the Pikeville College football game on Saturday night.

The Bears will play U.Va.-Wise at 7 p.m. at the W.C. Hambley Athletics Complex, and it is Homecoming. If you're an alum, that should do it. If you're a football fan, it should be a relatively easy sell.

So why should you, the casual fan, come out to watch an 0-7 team?

Let me answer that question in two words: Trevor Hoskins.

The sophomore from Middlesboro is having the most prolific season in Pikeville College history. He's throwing better than Ken Jones, who held every record. He's having a better season than Chip English and Dan Wideman, the top two quarterbacks on the list of the career passing lists.

The kid is simply sensational. On Saturday he threw for 607 yards — 607 yards and six touchdowns, which were both school records. By the way, he already either owned or shared both records, and he has played a total of seven games.

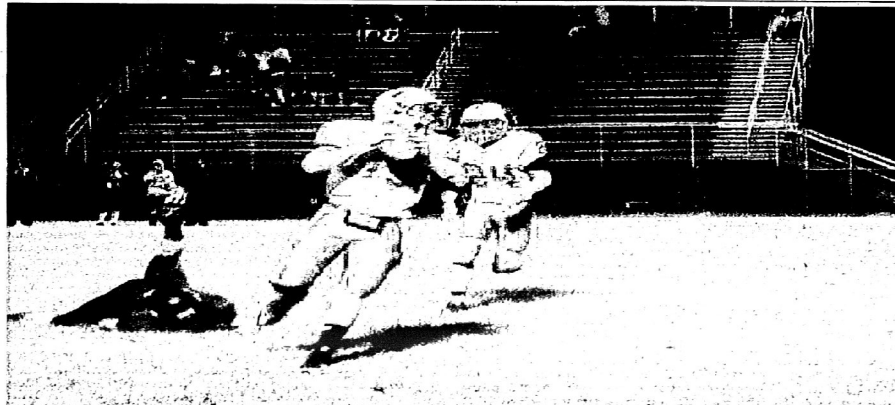

Look, he's not doing this alone. He had three different receivers catch for more than 150 yards in a single game. Consider this: In the first 100 games of Pikeville College football, receivers had caught for at least 150 yards five times. It happened three times in a single game.

In fact, consider this for one in Hoskins' column: Of the eight 150-or-more yard receiving games in school history, he has thrown five of them.

The kid is absolutely prolific. You should do your best to come see him play. He's white hot right now. And he plays right here, a home-grown mountain boy playing at your local college.

You should be there Saturday night at 7. It's that

MSU inducts four into Athletics Hall of Fame

TIMES STAFF REPORT

MOREHEAD — Morehead State University inducted four former standout student-athletes into the MSU Athletics Hall of Fame on Friday night, Oct. 15 during the annual Hall of Fame banquet.

Missy Abbott Marsh (volleyball), Jodi McMackin Armstrong (softball), Chris Berry (football, baseball, basketball), and David Dinkins (football) were bestowed the highest honor for MSU athletic alumni.

Director of Athletics Brian Hutchinson presented each with a plaque commemorating their induction, and the quartet was also honored at the halftime of MSU's football game versus Davidson. Dinkins also had his #8 football jersey retired during the halftime ceremony.

Betsy Layne advances to title match

Pike Central ousts host P'burg in semis

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

PRESTONSBURG — One season after finishing as the regional runner-up, reigning 58th District Champion Betsy Layne advanced to face Pike County Central in the 15th Region Tournament title match at the Prestonsburg High School Fieldhouse. Betsy Layne, which outlasted 5th District runner-up Paintsville 2-1 (25-9, 24-26, 25-19) in the opening round of the 15th Region Tournament Monday evening, blanked longtime regional championship contender Belfry 2-0 Wednesday evening. The Lady Cats defeated Belfry in back-to-back sets, winning 25-22, 25-16.

Betsy Layne — the defending 15th Region All "A" Classic champion — ended the 2009 season runner-up in the 15th Region behind champion Allen Central.

At press time Thursday evening, Betsy Layne was facing Pike County Central in the 15th Region championship match.

Pike County Central reached the 15th Region championship match following a hard-fought 2-0 win over Prestonsburg Wednesday evening. The Lady Hawks edged Prestonsburg 28-26, 26-24.

In tournament matches from Tuesday, Pike County Central blanked Pikeville 2-0 (26-24, 25-22) and Prestonsburg edged Johnson Central 2-1 (26-24, 12-25, 25-18).

Bellarmine University's Knights Hall in Louisville will host the KHSAA State Volleyball Tournament Oct. 29-30.

The Betsy Layne-Pike County Central match ended too late to make this edition.

COLLEGE VOLLEYBALL

PC falls in straight sets to U.Va.-Wise

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIKEVILLE - Tuesday night's festivities at the Pikeville College Gym opened with a volleyball match that saw U.Va.-Wise knock off the Bears 3-0.

The match was followed by the school's annual Basketball Blastoff, where the basketball teams are introduced to the crowd of students, alumni and community members. The events combined to fill the facility.

U.Va.-Wise won the three games by scores of 25-8, 27-25, 25-20. Pikeville was led on offense by freshman Kelsey Jones (Allen Central High School) with 10 kills. The Bears got 12 assists from sophomore Brooke Parrott. Senior Leah Harris delivered a pair of service aces for the Pikeville College club.

Defensively it was again Jones leading the way, recording 14 digs. Senior Kayla Hatton added 13 digs, while Prevt and junior Shelbi White had 10 digs apiece.

Pikeville was back in action Thursday night, visiting the University of Rio Grande for more Mid-South Conference play. The Pikeville-Rio Grande match ended too late to make this edition. The Bears will be back at home tonight, hosting Shawnee State University at 7 p.m.

Three starters return for Alice Lloyd

by STEVE LeMASTER SPORTS EDITOR

PIPPA PASSES - The Alice Lloyd College men's basketball program, under the direction of Coach J.R. Hammond, heads into the 2010-11 season looking to make the most of two tough preseason games versus in-state opponents. Alice Lloyd is scheduled to face Ohio Valley Conference (OVC) member Eastern Kentucky University and Lindsey Wilson College during the upcoming preseason. The matchup versus EKV will afford Alice Lloyd a challenging matchup against an NCAA Division I opponent.

The Eagles compiled an 8-20 overall record and a 3-10 mark in the KICAC (Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference) last season. Alice Lloyd took an early exit from the postseason following a loss in the KICAC Tournament.

Hammond welcomes back three starters - Van Ferguson (Jr., G, 6-3), Daniel Combs (Sr., F, 6-1) and Brandon Hayes (Jr., F, 6-4). Alice Lloyd lost two starters - Nick Brumback (F, 6-6) and Keith Warner (G, 5-10) - from the 2009-10 season. Each of the three returning starters helped to lead the Eagles.

Sophomore center Deven Adams (6-10) returns inside for the Eagles after contributing as a freshman.

Alice Lloyd features numerous underclassmen on its 2010-11 roster, some of whom are incoming freshmen or redshirted last season.

Among the newcomers for the Alice Lloyd men's basketball program is local product Clint Stepp (Pippa Passes), a prolific scorer for the June Buchanan School during his high school career.

Alice Lloyd will compete for the KICAC title. IU Southeast is the reigning KICAC champion. The Grenadiers ended the 2009-10 season in the NAIA Tournament semifinals. IU Southeast closed out the campaign 27-5 overall (11-1 KICAC). Brescia (23-10 overall, 10-3 KICAC), Berea (19-10, 8-4), IU East (14-14, 6-7), Asbury (15-17, 6-7), Cincinnati Christian (16-16, 4-9), Alice Lloyd (8-20, 3-10) and SLCOP (1-24, 0-7) all finished behind IU Southeast in the final 2009-10 KICAC standings.

Alice Lloyd is scheduled to compete in tournaments at Union and Pikeville during the first half of the 2010-11 season. Familiar non-conference foes Union, Pikeville, Kentucky Christian, UVA-Wise and Milligan remain on Alice Lloyd's schedule.

The Eagles will open the 2010-11 season on Nov. 2 at Kentucky Christian.

simple. - Speaking of locals and records, how about the day recently had by J.J. Jude?

The junior from Johnson Central ran for 584 yards in Friday night's 68-35 win over Woodford County and ran for six touchdowns.

Talk about dominant - He had eight different carries of at least 50 yards. Wow.

The Eagles finished with 775 rushing yards, which means on a night one guy gained something like half a county, his teammates still managed nearly 200 additional yards on the ground.

For anyone who thinks this may have been running it up, I disagree. We're talking about rushing yards here, not passing. Woodford did score 35, so it was relatively competitive.

Besides, what would you have them do, punt on first down?

The League Championship Series' have been all we could ask.

- Speaking of Johnson

Central football, many associated with the Eagles had hoped the new football realignment - to take effect next year - would have them in a different class than nemesis Highlands, a team that has taken them 'out of the playoffs regularly in the past.

When the new proposal was released, both schools dropped from 5A to 4A, and it was widely reported the Eagles were debating asking the KHSAA to allow them to 'play up' and remain 5A.

It didn't happen. The approved proposal was recently released, and both are 4A.

Speaking of the realignment, Kentucky now owns the toughest single district in the country.

I love the competitiveness of the local district that features Sheldon Clark, Belfry and new Football power Pike Central. It's a serious district, and poor East Ridge, improving as they are, have struggled just largely because of its geographic location.

Continued from p1 But we all bow to the new 6A District 4, which features three of the state's most proud programs - Trinity, St. X and Male. All in one district.

The fourth? Manual, which is absolutely nobody's huckleberry.

By the way, the realignment will last through the 2014 season except 6A, which will be reviewed after 2012. I'm guessing this monstrosity of a district is largely the reason for that.

By the way, can somebody please tell Pittsburgh linebacker James Harrison to get over himself? He can complain all he wants about the league deciding to have the gall to enforce the rules it already had in place about hits that shorten or end careers, but threatening to retire is childish.

Does he really think the league would back off just because he doesn't approve?

As they say on ESPN, c'mon man.

Lady Eagles picked seventh in preseason poll

by STEVE LeMASTER SPORTS EDITOR

BEREA - The 2010-2011 Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (KICAC) preseason women's basketball poll was released Wednesday.

Indiana University - Southeast, receiving four first place votes, was selected to repeat as the league's women's basketball champion.

Receiving two first-place votes and selected to finish second is Brescia University, which was last season's tournament runner-up. The regular season runner-up from last season, Berea College, is selected to finish third.

Cincinnati Christian University and Ashby University share the fourth spot in the poll. Midway College, Alice Lloyd College, and St. Louis College of Pharmacy complete positions 6-8 in the coaches' poll.

John Mills is headed into his first season at the helm of the Alice Lloyd College women's basketball program. Alice Lloyd compiled a 9-17 overall record while finishing 5-8 in the KICAC last season.

The KICAC 2010-11 pre-season women's basketball poll shapes up as follows (Place, School, Points): 1, Indiana University Southeast (4), 46; 2, Brescia University (2), 41; 3, Berea College, 30; 4, Ashby University, 27; 5, Cincinnati Christian University, 27; 6, Midway College, 21; 7, Alice Lloyd College, 18; 8, St. Louis College of Pharmacy, 6.

MOVIES FROM THE BLACK LAGOON 'Pray for the Wildcats'

by TOM DOTY

"Mad Men" meets "Deliverance" in this made-for-television thriller that pits three morally ambiguous ad execs against a tyrannical client while motorcycle riding through Mexico. Here's another argument for bringing 1970s TV movies out on DVD. Where else will you get a thriller that features Andy Griffith, William Shatner, Robert Redd and Angie Dickinson? Add plenty of melodrama, adultery, hippies and gratuitous second-unit motorcycle footage and you have one of the tastiest TV treats you can devour without microwaving.

The story focuses on a trio of working stiffs at an advertising agency. Warren is the top guy, but he's no longer hip enough to work the room and the agency is letting him go. He's just passed his physical and purchased a huge life insurance policy on himself.

Paul is the second-tier guy trying to get his name on the door by putting in so many hours that he drives his sexy wife (Nancy) into Warren's arms.

Then there is Terry from the art department. He's not a great schmoozer but he can design a

Editor's Note: For years, Floyd County Times founder and former publisher Norman Allen wrote a weekly column that looked at Floyd County through his eyes. His columns are being reprinted due to request.

Red, White and Blue Day is the Fourth of July, Armistice Day and Veterans Day, all rolled into one in this county. This is something worth having a part in and if we can't do that we can at least acknowledge its worth by showing up for the day's program and applauding those who can. In short, everybody is invited.

LONG REMEMBER

Some weeks back I made the mistake in one of my less lucid moments of telling about using the berries (or fruit) of dog fennel for marbles on occasions when, a few years ago, nothing better was at hand. I, of course, meant "bull nettles," and I shall not lose my marbles to the extent of forgetting that fact again. I have an excellent reminder at hand. Delmas Saunders, last Sunday, left me a jar of these "berries" neatly encapsulated in a plastic jar which was labelled "Dog Fennel Berries—Salt Lick Marbles." Think I'll have 'em pickled.

The leaves, as any householder knows without looking upward, are on their way out of the picture. And what a kaleidoscope of color they have been! They belong on the trees, not in our yards, we may say, but the old must give way to the new. Maybe the sure knowl-

MCDOWELL — Senior citizens from McDowell and Minnie recently celebrated National Senior Citizens Day at the McDowell Senior Citizens Center, and the event included gospel singing by Bobby Caudill, games and a special lunch.

"Some of the seniors joined in making a joyful sound with Bobby Caudill," said Ruby Damron. "They made several requests of songs that were special to them. Lunch was served along with a cake baked by Nancy Gibson. Everything was very tasty. After lunch, a game planned by Karen Hunt was great. The seniors had a ball finding everything on their list. They really were scavengers searching in every nook and corner. Willie Elliott and Bill Brisson entertained the group with a few jokes."

Along with the numerous activities, local business people donated gift certificates to be handed out as door prizes. The donations were from S&J Restaurant, Rita's His and Her Beauty Shop, Hi Lite Pizza, Parkview Pharmacy, Hamilton's Hardware, Shirley's Beauty Shop, The Perfect Setting, Champs Home Cooking, Brenda's Place, Allen's Hardware and the McDowell IGA.

Fall fruit

Can you feel the crispness in the fall air? The leaves are changing. The nights are colder. It's sweeter weather. It's harvest time. I love this time of year. It's finally cool enough to do some serious cooking without worrying about heating up your kitchen and the abundance of fresh fruits and vegetables has never been better.

Let's focus a bit on those fruits. Although they are great to eat just as Mother Nature created them, there are lots we can do to add some kick to our traditional meals as well. Have you ever tried chicken with apricots? How about pork chops with honey and apples? And adding an assortment of berries when roasting meats is simply divine!

Try baking up some of those apples. Just remove the core then add some raisins, a little honey and cinnamon in the empty space. Bake for thirty minutes at 350 degrees. YUM! And just think of all the calories you just saved yourself by skipping the traditional apple pie (save that for Thanksgiving).

Another fun way to serve up your fruitful bounty is in a Fall Fruit Salad. I've included a recipe for you below but feel free to get creative with this one. Add or subtract fruits to your heart's content. For a flavor that is more tart try adding some dried cranberries. You can add some extra crunch with a few almonds or even chopped cel-

Martha A. Simpson, D.O., M.B.A.
Associate Professor of Family Medicine

Q I'm in my 60s, and my doctor says I should see my eye doctor every year to be checked for macular degeneration. What is this condition, and what are the symptoms?

A Age-related macular degeneration (AMD) is the leading cause of central vision loss in people over 65. It affects an area of the eye called the macula lutea, located in the central part of the retina in the back part of the eye. The retina is where the eye's light-sensing cells are located. In AMD, the cells in the macula stop working and die, possibly due to genetic and environmental causes.

AMD usually begins after the age of 50 and is most common in white women over 65 who smoke. Typically, onset is gradual and affects both eyes.

There are two types of AMD, dry and wet. Dry AMD is the more common, less debilitating type. Dry AMD is caused when the process that removes normal debris in the retina via small blood vessels stops working. No one knows why. There are no medical treatments available, but you can take actions that seem to slow the disease's progress. These include eating green leafy vegetables, ingesting daily doses of antioxidants and zinc, and avoiding bright sunlight.

Wet AMD accounts for about 15 percent of all AMD cases but causes 80 percent of AMD disability. In wet AMD, new blood vessels form in the back of the eye. The new vessels create an overgrowth that interferes with vision. These new vessels tend to be fragile and often leak fluid into spaces around the light-sensing cells.

Pegaptanib is one of the few drug treatments available for wet AMD. It's administered by injecting the drug into the numbed eyeball, where it halts abnormal blood vessel growth.

Photodynamic therapy, where lasers are used to destroy the extra blood vessels, is also used. But, it's only effective for about 30 percent of AMD patients.

Regular checkups from your eye doctor are very important for detecting AMD, especially the dry type, which develops gradually over a number of years. In contrast, wet AMD tends to come on very quickly. See your eye doctor immediately if you experience a sudden, rapid loss of vision or a new blank or dark spot in the center of your vision, or if straight lines suddenly appear wavy or an object's size or shape appears distorted.

AMD of either type causes central vision loss, while your side, or peripheral, vision remains intact. Although AMD is disabling, it's not as debilitating as diseases that result in a total loss of vision.

Many people who develop AMD have to discontinue activities that require very sharp vision, such as driving, threading a sewing needle, or reading fine print. However, with the use of visual aids and low vision rehabilitation programs, most people with AMD can lead full, independent lives.

Salome's Stars Weekly Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Deciding to work out that pesky problem (even though you might have been bored, bored, bored with it) should be paying off right about now. Expect to hear some very welcome news very soon.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Unexpected news might cause you to rethink a previous conclusion. Don't be bullheaded and try to bluff it out. Make the needed change, and then take a bow for your objectivity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Money-matters should be considered as you continue to work out your holiday plans. This is a good time to scout out discounts before demand for them outstrips their availability.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A calm period early in the week helps you complete most, if not all, of your unfinished tasks. A new project appears by midweek, and this one could carry some big career potential.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Positive results from recent ventures continue to pump up those self-esteem levels, making you Fabulous Felines feel you can tackle any challenge anyone wants to throw at you.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Family and friends might feel neglected because of your almost total focus on a project. Try to rework your schedule so you can have time for both your loved ones and your work.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Don't be surprised if you suddenly hear from someone from your past who wants to contact you about the possibility of renewing a long-dormant (if not dead) relationship.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) This is a good time to check over what went right and what went wrong with recent efforts. This can provide valuable lessons for projects that will be coming up soon.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Dealing with people who feel they're always right about everything might be a problem for some. But the savvy Archer should be able to deflate their over-size egos.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) This week favors a balance between the demands of your work and your need for fun times out. Taking breaks helps restore and keep your energy levels high.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) There could be an occasional setback in what you're working on. But look at them as lessons on how to do better as you move along. More supporters turn up to cheer you on.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Although a more positive aspect influences this week's course, you still need to be sure that those who will work with you have no reason to work against you. Good luck.

BORN THIS WEEK: You believe in keeping your promises. It's not always easy to do, but somehow you do it.

Another is Lois Laid, an Old English hen that cackled all the way from Gallipolis, O., and she is the current world champ with a flight in last year's event of 163 feet, two inches. Two years ago, the show flopped as the winner, Orville the Flying Fool, stayed aloft only 3 1/2 feet. All other contestants took off in the wrong direction.

The flight director is a professor of veterinary medicine and poultry science at Ohio University, and it's his job to see that there are no "ringers" posing as chickens in the contest. He recalls spotting a pheasant out on the back of his beak. "Somebody might enter a bird that's not a chicken," he explained, "and it would fly to West Virginia. Just so they don't get a stool pigeon on this scaffold."

Tom and Ray settle a bet, but not in reader's favor

by TOM and RAY MAGLIOZZI

Dear Tom and Ray: Please help me settle a bet with my father-in-law ... the winner will buy the loser his next battery. My father-in-law claims that even though car batteries may be marked "maintenance-free," if the battery has vent caps you can pry off, you should do so, and check and — when necessary — refill the electrolyte levels as needed. I say no, that modern car batteries do not require checking electrolyte levels, and that by prying off the vent caps, you actually could cause some harm to a maintenance-free battery. Can you help settle our bet? — Michael RAY: We can, but you're not going to like the settlement, Michael. TOM: Back in the 1970s, battery manufacturers switched over to calcium lead plates, because they seriously reduced outgassing.

RAY: Outgassing, aside from being a byproduct of eating a beef-cheese-chorizo burrito, is when the fluid inside the battery heats up and "sizzles" similar to what happens when water boils and gives off vapor — eventually, you run out of water.

TOM: Because calcium lead grids reduced outgassing significantly, and all but eliminated the need to add water to the battery cells, these batteries were called "maintenance-free."

RAY: But they don't eliminate outgassing completely. And if the engine compartment is subject to extremely high temperatures, even a maintenance-free battery can lose fluid.

TOM: With maintenance-free batteries, outgassing is most likely to happen in areas of the country that get extremely hot in the summer, or where cars are in constant stop-and-go conditions and their engine compartments get up to very high temperatures.

RAY: Most people will never need to add water to their maintenance-free batteries. In fact, the vast majority of batteries don't even allow you to check the fluid levels anymore. But if your maintenance-free battery does have removable caps, there certainly is no harm in removing them and adding water if the fluid happens to be low.

TOM: It's not a regular maintenance item, like it was 20 or 30 years ago, Michael. But you owe your pop-in-law his next battery. If you're really lucky, his next battery will be for his flashlight.

Reader shouldn't take shop's bad advice

Dear Tom and Ray: I have a 2002 Subaru Forester.

Upon my monthly check of fluids, I was shocked to see that there was no cooling fluid in the reservoir. I immediately took it to the shop, where they told me the head gasket was blown, and it would cost $2,000 to fix. After doing some research, I found that Subaru had a service bulletin about this problem and advocated the use of a special Subaru additive for the coolant that could "possibly" stop the leak. So, I asked the mechanics to put the additive in my coolant. My mechanics then advised that I should just drive the car until it overheats, and only then fix my head gasket. So I have two questions: (1) Is it truly possible that this "additive" will fix my leak? And (2) if the additive doesn't fix my leak, should I really wait until my car overheats to fix it? Thanks. — Catherine

TOM: It IS possible that the additive will fix your leak. For years, Subaru has had problems with its head gaskets "seeping." They would remain intact (i.e., not torn or broken), but would allow fluid to seep through or around them. And if your head gasket is just seeping, and not actually blown, the additive may work.

RAY: I've tried the additive on my scalp, but somehow bald spots are still seeping into the regions where I once had hair. TOM: The fact that you check your levels every month is actually discouraging to us, Catherine. Because that means the coolant reservoir went from full to empty in less than a month. That suggests that the solution may involve your home equity line in addition to the additive. But by all means, try the additive first.

RAY: But don't just wait for the engine to overheat. That's bad advice.

TOM: Right. Let's say your head gasket really is broken. You try the additive, it doesn't work and the car overheats. If it overheats badly enough, you could crack or warp the heads or damage the block. Or you could degrade the oil so badly that you damage the engine's bearings, which will shorten the life of the engine considerably. So you really don't want the car to overheat, ever.

RAY: Instead, now that the additive is in there, check your coolant reservoir every day for a while. See if you can assess whether the level is continuing to drop, and if so, how quickly. If it stops losing coolant, then have your garage do a pressure test and, hopefully, proclaim the problem solved.

TOM: But if the coolant level continues to drop, you want to find someone to fix it before the car that person be a different-mechanic.

RAY: Right. Your current guys didn't know about the Subaru additive, and they gave you bad advice about what to do next. Ask friends who own Subarus who they use in your area. Or check out The Mechanics. Files at www.cartalk.com. And let us know how it works out, Catherine.

Lagoon

logo and kiss the client's hinder like nobody's business.

Their client happens to be a pompous windbag/entrepreneur named Farragut. He's a captain of industry with an eye for the ladies, but he is way too dependent on his wealth acting as an aphrodisiac. He also suffers from macho posturing which makes you think he might be compensating for something, but we won't go there. When he insists that the ad guys join him on a cycling trip through the Baja, you just know he will award them the contract only after they have bowed and scraped enough to fuel his titanic ego.

"Titanic" turns out to be the right word for this trip. It isn't long before a food-and-fuel break leads to trouble for Farragut. Turns out he missed out on the whole "free love" movement and thinks that any woman with a long-haired boyfriend will be happy to show him the way to paradise. This leads to an altercation with said boyfriend and the ad guys wisely get him out of there.

Later on they pass the couple, who are camped out on the beach, and you just know that Farragut will invent a ploy to seek them out. He comes up with an excuse but gets saddled with Terry (who takes sucking up to a new low). Farragut winds up destroying the couple's van when they flee from his advances and Terry manages to talk him into going back to camp.

A police officer appears the next day and informs our band that a young man is dead and his girlfriend lies critically injured. He insists that they stay put during the investigation. It doesn't take Warren long to figure out who the culprit was. Getting anyone to stand with him against their client proves useless and we know this will all come down to a battle between Farragut and Warren.

The only question is whether this dilemma will be enough to put Warren off of his own plan to check out permanently. Who cares as long as there is a shot of one guy taking his motorcycle off a mountaintop at full throttle?

This is about as good as cheesy melodrama gets thanks to the powerhouse cast. Griffith gets the meatiest role as Farragut and he hits it out of the park. This character bears none of his trademark charm, but Griffith ups the ante by giving him a dead stare that implies the character feels absolutely nothing and is thus capable of anything. Shatner fares well as Warren. He is the conscience of the group and the one you root for despite the fashion disasters he sports throughout the movie (ever yellow turtlesnecks, wewer in?).

Robert Reed breaks away from his "Brady Bunch" image here by diving into his role as a self-serving weasel whose moral compass is somewhat shaky.

Angie Dickinson looks gorgeous as Nancy but her character is so shallow that you care very little for what happens to her.

The only downside here is that one-third of the film consists of riding footage.

Continued from p1 but that gives you plenty of time for bathroom breaks should you catch this on commercial television.

Best line: "Both of them were stark naked. Grabbing each other like monkeys. They were stoned out on drugs. Most hippies are." 1974, unrated.

Lots of horror films were on the pre-Halloween menu this week, but the best one turned out to be a documentary about the franchise that has thrilled baby boomers for 50 years.

"Predators" — This is the Predator film that fans have been waiting for. A group of shady characters wake up on an alien world and soon discover that the only thing they have in common is a lack of moral restraint. They may not be enough to help them survive what amounts to a cosmic gaming preserve operated by the titular creatures. Adrien Brody leads an eclectic cast that includes Laurence Fishburne, Danny "Machete" Trejo and Topher Grace.

"Giallo" — Dario Argento continued to crank out horror flicks in his native Italy and this one ranks higher than most of his output in the last 10 years. Adrien Brody, once again this week, stars and is well cast as an obsessive detective. He teams with a young woman whose sister has been kidnapped by a killer known only as "Yellow." Several gruesome murders ensue as they figure out who the guy is and where he may be holed up. Great atmosphere, though the pacing sags around the middle.

"Night of the Demons" — A few lousy remakes of 1980s horror films should kill that trend. This one is about the last nail in the coffin. The plot is the same as the 1988 original, with a party turning into a bloodbath once demons get into the punch. Actually they get into the guests, but you'll want to punch whoever keeps green-lighting these awful remakes.

"Psycho: The Legacy" — Documentaries about horror movies are usually just a collection of clips, but this one is a cut above the rest. It focuses on the original thriller that Alfred Hitchcock made as a follow up to "North By Northwest" and then goes on to explore the entire series of films that followed. This is great stuff that includes talks with much of the talent that labored on these films. The real coup is an interview with Norman Bates himself (Anthony Perkins) that has never been seen.

Next week brings the sequel to "The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo" and the next cinematic installment of "Sex and the City."
