Beshear easily wins second term

Only 1-in-4 local voters went to the ballot box on Tuesday, leading to light but steady traffic at polling places, such as the Allen precinct, shown above.

Republican loses county vote in ag race, appears headed for win

by Ralph Davis
MANAGING EDITOR
Gov. Steve Beshear is well on his way to a second term last night, running well across the state and buoyed by a landslide margin in Floyd County.

Beshear received 63.5 percent of the vote in Floyd County, trouncing Republican Sen. President David Williams, who could only muster 27.07 percent. Independent Gateway Galbraith, in his sixth bid for the governorship, polled a distant 9.43 percent in the county.

With 50 percent of the statewide vote counted at press time, the three men were partnering very similar numbers as they did in Floyd County. Beshear was leading with 57.1 percent, Williams' 32.33 and Galbraith's 10.57.

Countywide, 24 percent of voters went to the polls on Tuesday. While that result is poor by any standard, it still was a considerable improvement over the May figure, when only 9 percent of local voters cast ballots.

"Even though that doesn't sound too good, to only get [24 percent] turnout, I think it will rank right up there, statewide," County Clerk Chris Vaughn said.

Board moves forward on turf fields, gym renovations

by Jack Latta
STAFF WRITER
Two area high schools could have new turf football fields after the Floyd County School Board voted during its last meeting to move forward with the project.

According to board chairman Jeff Stumbo, the board voted to hire architects to look at several projects and prepare estimates for the board to consider. Those projects include renovations to Prestonsburg High School and Allen Central Middle School gyms, and several other renovations, and the installation of turf fields at both Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne.

"We feel we have the money to do it with," said Stumbo of the proposed projects, adding the board is committed to building the new fields.

Prestonsburg Principal Jerry Butcher said he was not at the meeting when the vote took place, but he was happy to get the call from Supt. Henry Webb notifying him that the project was moving forward.

Prestonsburg has been lobbying for a new turf field for several years.

Stumbo says that the architects should have the estimates drawn up by the next meeting for the board to vote on. "We hope to have turf in by next season."

Stumbo says the list of renovations by the board is an effort to bring the school system's facilities up to date.

Major interstate pill network busted

PIKEVILLE — An interstate drug pipeline responsible for bringing tens of thousands of prescription pills into Pike County was broken up with the arrest of three people Friday.

"We delivered a major hit with these arrests," said Dan Smoot, deputy director of Operation UNITE. "This network was responsible for distributing approximately 50,000 oxycodone pills within Pike County during the past 12 months. It was definitely a multi-million dollar operation."

Arrested on federal charges of conspiracy to distribute Oxycodone were:

- Donnie "DK" Kinder, 79, of South River Road, Mouthhead
- Brenda Jo Branham, 50, of Weiner Drive, Albion, Michigan
- Janice Carol Branham, 54, of Green Street, Springport, Michigan

UNITE began its investigation in early October after receiving reports that Kinder was trafficking in a large quantity of pills.

"Numerous undercover purchases of pills were made at Kinder's residence over several weeks," Smoot said.

As a result of these buys police obtained a search warrant that was served on October 31. At the time officers seized approximately 80 methadone pills and $19,650 in cash.

Suit alleges seat belt defective

by Jack Latta

PIKEVILLE — A lawsuit against General Motors has been filed after the death of a Floyd County teenager in August 2010.

According to court records, Penny Pennington, administratrix of the estate of Lakyn Pennington, filed suit against both General Motors, the manufacturer of the car Pennington was driving, and TK Holdings, the company responsible for the seat belts.

In court records, Jerry Patton, attorney for the Pennington estate, says "the design, testing, manufacture and/or assembly of the 2002 GMC Envoy and the TK Seatbelt created such a risk of injury to occupants during foreseeable accidents that reasonably prudent designers, manufacturers, assemblers and/or marketers of motor vehicles and motor vehicle restraints, being fully aware of the risks, would not have placed the vehicle/restraint system on the market, as the defendants did."

The lawsuit goes on to claim that

Former Our Lady of the Way exec dies

by Ralph Davis
MANAGING EDITOR
MONTICELLO — A former chief operating officer of Our Lady of the Way Hospital has died.

John Osborne, who most recently served as chief executive officer of Wayne County Hospital, died Oct. 29, after having recently been diagnosed with a terminal illness.

"Our leadership and staff are overwhelmed with sadness due to this sudden loss," said Larry Bates, board chairman at Wayne County Hospital. "Our first concerns and thoughts are with his wife Sandy of 38 years, and their daughter Kara. They were truly the center of his life and our prayers are with them in this difficult time."

At St. Joseph Martin, which was formerly Our Lady of the Way Hospital, hospital president Kathy Stumbo remembered Osborne for his leadership and accomplishments.

"John was an excellent leader and will be sorely missed by the Saint Joseph — Martin family," Stumbo said. "During John's tenure as chief operating officer, we had many accomplishments, including being named one of the Top 100 Hospitals in the nation. This was not an easy feat and indicative of his drive for excellence. John's contributions to our hospital will always be remembered and our lives are richer because he shared a part of his with us."

Osborne apparently took that same drive to his position in Wayne County.

Ahead of net neutrality vote, questions of fairness

By Mark Scheerer
CHICAGO — The U.S. Senate may vote this week on overturning Federal Communications Commission (FCC) rules aimed at guaranteeing an open Internet, whereby corporations were forbidden to give some people better access to the Web than others. And the fate of the so-called "net neutrality" rules could affect future protests like Occupy Wall Street.

At Occupy Chicago, communications volunteers count more than 33,000 Facebook "likes," 20,000 Twitter followers, and several thousand website hits every day.

So, some are asking, what would happen if the corporate entities that are the targets of protests were able to limit Internet traffic? That was tried at one point by the Egyptian government during the Arab Spring protests, and Betty Yu with the Center for Media Justice says it's a legitimate concern.

"A lot of this organizing that happened — sure, it was organic — but it would not be able to happen the way it happened, the way it flourished, if there wasn't an open Internet, period."

Opponents of net neutrality rules say they're not necessary and stifle business growth. Yu says the consolidation of wireless phone companies — like the proposed AT&T and T-Mobile merger — could also lead to a shutdown about net neutrality something to be could hamper Twitter communications.

Andrew Smith volunteers in the communications area of Occupy Chicago, where he says social media are used not only to mobilize demonstrators, but to make sure mainstream media report accurately on the protest.

"If false information is reported, then we can be like, 'Whoa, no, this is what really happened and here's why.' And using social networks to keep ourselves on message and to keep people informed is critical."

Betty Yu says the role of the Internet in organizing the "Occupy" protests makes the possible Senate showdown about net neutrality something to be watched closely.

"Big Brother is watching. And I think that it'll be interesting to see how the net neutrality fight plays out now."

Yu says as social media no longer determine how protests get covered.

"There are about close to 40,000 videos up online of the Occupy movement. That just goes to show you how these tools have really democratized the process of capturing protests, capturing democracy in action and being able to share it."

Some contemporary protesters use the chant of the 1968 anti-war protesters in Chicago, "The Whole World is Watching." It could have much wider meaning some four decades later.

A member of First Baptist Church, in London, Osborne had been active as a member of Gideon's, Kiwanis and the Chamber of Commerce. Additionally, he has been affiliated with the Rotary Club, United Way, and numerous health care organizations.

Beshear

The county result portended a long night ahead for Farmer, who was perhaps undone by video that surfaced early in the race, showing him performing a comedy act in which he ridiculed Eastern Kentucky. Local voters appear to have taken offense at the jokes, giving Comer a 51-to-49 edge in Floyd County.

"If you're a Democrat running for statewide of-office, and you can't carry Floyd County, that doesn't say much for your chances," Waugh remarked.

And, indeed, voters across the state were giving Farmer a thumbs-down at press time, preferring Comer by a 62-38 margin.

In all other races, however, Floyd County was fertile ground for Democrats. The remaining races polled as follows:

- Secretary of state
- Alison Lundergan Grimes, Democrat, 77 percent in Floyd County, 64 percent statewide (with 50 percent of the state vote counted)
  - Bill Johnson, Republican, 23 percent in Floyd County, 36 percent statewide
- Attorney general
- Jack Conway, Democratic incumbent, 71 percent in Floyd County, 58 percent statewide
  - Todd P. Pool, Republican, 29 percent in Floyd County, 42 percent statewide

- Continued from p1
- Auditor of public accounts
- Adam H. Edelen, Democrat, 72 percent in Floyd County, 59 percent statewide
  - John T. Kemper III, Republican, 28 percent in Floyd County, 41 percent statewide

Pill

Continued investigation resulted in detectives learning that two Michigan women were responsible for bringing the prescription medications into Pike County.

On Friday, four UNITE detectives and six agents from the DEA's London Field Office met the two women in the Mouthcard area.

More than 2,000 pills — mostly oxycodone along with quantities of methadone and Xanax — were seized.

"These deliveries were being made on an almost daily basis," Smoot said, adding these pills were "for distribution through a variety of local dealers, including Kinder."

All three suspects were lodged in the Pike County Detention Center pending judicial proceedings in U.S. District Court.

The case has been turned over to the DEA for prosecution.

records, the lawsuit has been transferred from Floyd County Circuit Court to U.S. District Court in Pikeville.

The plaintiffs are seeking compensatory and punitive damages.

Lakyn Pennington, then 18, was driving on Route 1428 near Prestonsburg when she reportedly lost control of her vehicle. The vehicle rolled several times and Pennington was ejected. She was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident.

We should appreciate our veterans every day — not just on Veterans Day

by Sen. Johnny Ray Turner

"As we express our gratitude, we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words, but to live by them." — John Fitzgerald Kennedy

In 1919, President Wilson declared November 11th as a day of pride and gratitude for those who had served our country. The date was significant because it was the official end to the "war to end all wars" — World War I. The day was to be commemorated with thanksgiving and prayer and was primarily set aside to honor veterans of World War I. In 1938, Armistice Day — as it was originally called — became a legal holiday. A few years later in 1954 just after World War II ended, Congress changed the day from "Armistice" to "veterans' day." Since then, Veterans Day has been designated to honor American veterans of all wars and, with the exception of a few years in which it was celebrated on a Monday and November 11th has been that date.

Today, almost a hundred years later, Veterans Day is set aside so that we — as a country — can celebrate and honor all of our veterans for their patriotism, love of country and willingness to serve and sacrifice for the common good. Many have served and sacrificed since before the Revolution and until this very day and many more will continue to do the same. For this, we are grateful. For this, we will never be indebted. We should not have to set aside a day to show our appreciation to our veterans or to be thankful for those who have fought so that we can live in this great country with our many freedoms, but we should take that day — along with any other day to show our gratitude — We should always respect our veterans. If not for them, we might not have the freedom to pay such a tribute. However, we must do more than put on a show for one day, one celebration, one parade or one special event. We should carry our respect of our veterans with us each day. We should show our gratitude in the manner that we live our lives and the message we share with our children. It is our responsibility to teach each generation of the sacrifice made in order that we can live freely. We must teach them that freedom does not come without a price — and often that price is life.

Freedom should never be taken for granted. I am thankful for all those who have paid the price to give me that right. We are blessed that our freedom is such that it can be taken for granted. However, it is also a blessing to be able to appreciate those who paid for our freedom.

Happy Veterans Day to all those who are serving and who have served our country — you are the reason this is a great nation!

Senator Johnny Ray Turner represents Breathitt, Floyd, Knott and Letcher counties.

STAR TRIBUNE

A legislative perspective

by Rep. Greg Stumbo

SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE
Veterans Day is always a special time for our country, but it promises to be even more memorable on Friday because of its location on the calendar.

That's because, for the first time ever, the year aligns perfectly with the holiday's specific time of remembrance. It will be another century before anyone else can pause to honor those who have served our country on the eleventh hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of the 11th year.

The holiday, originally called Armistice Day, was first set aside to commemorate the end of World War I. More than four million Americans served during the four years of fighting, and the last of those passed away in February at the age of 110. Now, only one WWI veteran remains, a former member of the Women's Royal Air Force in the United Kingdom. In 1954, Congress expanded the holiday to include veterans from all wars. Overall, about 42 million men and women have served their country since the Revolutionary War, and it's estimated that more than half of them are still with us.

Kentucky, not surprisingly, has long played a major role when it comes to answering the call of duty, from the War of 1812 and the Civil War forward. About 84,000 Kentuckians took part in WWI, and more than 300,000 in World War II. Tens of thousands followed them in Korea, Vietnam, Iraq and Afghanistan.

The state has worked to help the men and women who serve however we can. This past August, for example, marked 20 years since Kentucky's first nursing home for veterans opened its doors in Jessamine County. More than 2,400 have been admitted since then, and hundreds more have been helped by the other two veteran nursing homes, one in Western Kentucky, the other in Hazard — that will celebrate a decade of service early next year.

Veterans Day was made a state holiday in 1998, and the Kentucky

Department of Veterans Affairs was established that year, too. Since 2000 the General Assembly has authorized several new state cemeteries for veterans, made it easier for older veterans to obtain their high school diploma if they joined the military before completing their degree, and increased employment opportunities in state government.

According to the Department of Veterans Affairs, there are about 385,000 veterans who now call Kentucky home. The Department estimated the various benefits they earned topped $1.7 billion in 2010, or almost three times as much as they received in 2000.

These Kentucky heroes are among the ones we will recall as we gather this Friday at Veterans Day events here locally and across the nation. It may be a little early, but for those who are among this elite group, I want to take this opportunity to say how much we appreciate all that you did, often at great personal sacrifice. We can never fully repay you, but always know that you and your actions will never be forgotten, especially on the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month for many years to come.

House week in review

by Rep. Hubert Collins

Fall has definitely arrived in Eastern Kentucky. During this season, we enjoy the beautiful colors of the changing leaves and the traditions that accompany them: harvests, festivals, football, and more. As we approach a time typically associated with family gatherings, holidays, and delicious meals, we also reflect on those who fought to make our way of life possible and who continue to protect it today.

On Nov. 11, the 93rd anniversary of an end to fighting in World War I, we pause to honor our veterans. And while I am incredibly appreciative of veterans throughout the year, I feel it especially important to express my gratitude as Veterans Day draws near.

It can be easy to take safety and security for granted, but it is far from simple to guarantee them.

There are few places in the world where one can express her thoughts and opinions openly, choose his religion freely, and elect her leaders independently with no fear of persecution. Countless men and women fought diligently to make that our reality in America.

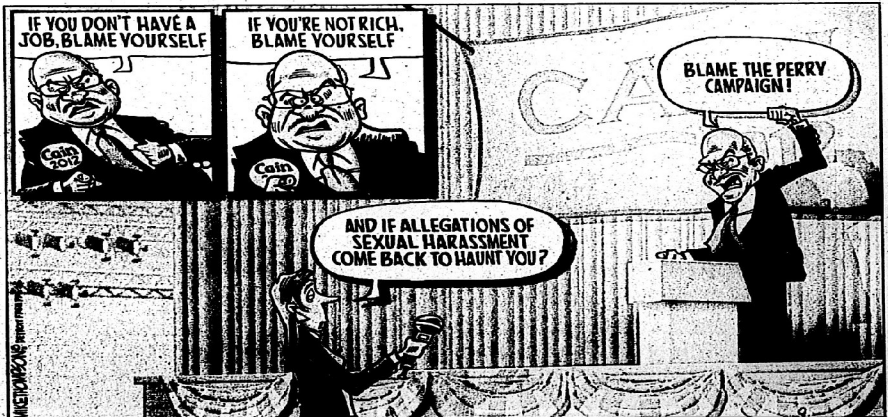

We thank veterans not only for defending our basic rights and freedoms, but also for the lifestyle we enjoy. Our ability to work, shop, travel, and live in peace can be accredited to veterans. It is indeed difficult to determine just how far reaching their contributions to society are.

When thinking of everything our military men and women have afforded us, it is impossible not to recognize what they have sacrificed. Our armed forces put their own life on hold for the mission of our country. In amazing acts of selflessness, they left their family, their home, their job, and their life, to fight to protect ours. Some never returned. Others came back with permanent reminders of service through injuries and scars, both visible and invisible. Those sacrifices should never be diluted or forgotten. I make it a priority in the work I do in our capital to address their unique needs and concerns.

I am grateful to all the nation's veterans, but especially to those in the district I serve. More than 8,500 veterans live in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, and Pike counties. These men and women are our neighbors, co-workers, friends, and relatives. While their individual service spans decades, multiple conflicts, and a variety of duties, they all contributed to the peace and freedom we enjoy in our nation, our state, and our community.

I encourage everyone to join me in saluting them — on Veterans Day and every day. Have a good week ahead.

Coal ash rules to be costly for Kentucky, lawmakers told

FRANKFORT—Proposed changes to federal rules governing the disposal of coal ash—the material left after coal is burned for electricity—will cost Kentucky's electric utilities at least $1.2 billion over 10 years, an LG&E/KU executive told a state legislative committee Friday.

John Voyles, who is vice president of transmission and generation services at LG&E/KU, told the Interim Joint Committee on Natural Resources and Environment that the cost to comply with the proposed coal ash regulatory changes, combined with other changes expected in new federal Environmental Protection Agency rules, will cost the LG&E/KU alone approximately $4 billion over 10 years.

Some estimate the total cost of current EPA regulatory changes to Kentucky's regulated utilities could run between $6 billion to $8 billion over the 10-year period, Committee co-chair Rep. Jim Gooch, D-Providence, said.

A draft rule governing disposal of the ash, or coal combustion residuals (CCR), is expected in late 2012 or early 2013, with compliance expected within five years of final rule approval, Voyles said. Changes would likely require "dry" or landfill storage of ash and closing of ash ponds where a percentage of "wet" coal ash is stored.

There are currently 43 coal ash ponds statewide, according to Kentucky Department for Environmental Protection Commissioner Bruce Scott.

Scott said although the federal EPA proposed regulating CCR as a hazardous waste initially, all 50 states want the ash to be regulated as a non-hazardous waste.

"A lot of folks, including ourselves, believe the material has a lot of value ... in re-use," said Scott.

If CCR were labeled as hazardous waste, it could create problems in industries where the ash is re-used, including the manufacture of materials like wallboard and concrete.

Sen. Brandon Smith, R-Hazard, who is a co-chair of the committee, said coal ash is also used for composting in Europe.

"It's sought after and used over there because it cuts ... in half the bioconversion (time)," Smith said.

Gooch said there are many beneficial uses of coal ash.

"When we burn coal, we do emit carbon—we all recognize that—but when you (make) concrete, that is also a process that emits a lot of carbon,"

Rep. Kevin Sinnotte, D-Ashland, right, shows Rep. Hubert Collins, D-Wittensville, coal products used to make construction materials during the November meeting of the Interim Joint Committee on Natural Resources and Environment.

he said. "So, by using this process that's already gone through the carbon emission, you can actually save the carbon that would be emitted through the concrete process." Coal ash is commonly used to replace cement in concrete production, according to testimony on coal ash management from Danny Gray of Charah, Inc. of Louisville. Gray said replacing cement with ash reduces carbon dioxide emissions. Legislation is now pending in the U.S. Senate that would essentially require CCR to be treated as non-hazardous, municipal landfill waste, Scott explained.

The proposed legislation has the support of Kentucky and other state governments, he said. Scott added that it is highly likely that state action will be required to comply with any new CCR rule.

PRESTONSBURG — The Alpha Nu Zeta chapter of Phi Theta Kappa (PTK) at Big Sandy Community and Technical College recently collected money for the Faces of Hunger project for God's Pantry.

Bill Loftus, PTK sponsor, and Jarrod Bailey and other members traveled around campus dressed in black, collecting money as the Faces of Hunger. All donations made to God's Pantry are roughly multiplied by 10, so a dime is a dollar and a dollar is worth $10 in food.

This year's event was a success for all those involved. On a very cold, wet and dreary day, $370 was raised by donations from faculty, staff and students at Big Sandy and later donated by PTK Members.

Columbia Gas encourages customers to prepare now for winter heating bills

Budget payment plans, weatherization, energy assistance can help

LEXINGTON — Columbia Gas of Kentucky is encouraging customers to take steps now to prepare for winter heating season. Budget payment plans, weatherization programs and various forms of energy assistance are available to help customers of varying income levels be prepared for the colder months ahead.

"The Budget Payment Plan is one of the best ways to lessen the impact of winter heating costs by spreading them across several months," said Carolyn Woodford, manager of customer programs at Columbia Gas of Kentucky. "Although the 'budget year' begins in May, customers can join the Budget Payment Plan anytime during the year." To enroll in the program, customers should call Columbia Gas of Kentucky's Customer Service line at 800-432-9345 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Although natural gas prices have remained relatively stable in recent years and are expected to remain so this winter, many Kentuckians may find themselves in need of assistance this winter.

The Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), a federal energy assistance program which helps over 250,000 Kentuckians each year, is administered on a local level by Community Action agencies. Applications for the LIHEAP Subsidy Program will be accepted from November 7 through December 6, 2011 by Community Action agencies throughout the state. To find out if they are eligible for LIHEAP assistance or other types of energy assistance programs, customers should call their local community action agency or visit www.capky.org.

"Heating assistance funds are limited and the need for that assistance is great," Kentucky Public Service Commission spokesman Andrew Melnykovich said. "The PSC is concerned that funding might prove very tight this winter and therefore is urging customers to prepare now by planning their budgets and taking steps to reduce energy consumption."

Columbia Gas of Kentucky offers a series of residential energy efficiency programs, called WarmWise, to help customers save energy. WarmWise includes furnace replacements for eligible low-income customers, free home energy audits for customers who own single-family homes with natural gas heat, and natural gas appliance rebates up to $400 for a variety of high-efficiency natural gas heating, water heating and hearth products.

Columbia Gas is partnering with Community Action Council and its weatherization program for its WarmWise furnace replacement program. To determine if they are eligible for a free furnace replacement and to register for the weatherization program, customers should call Community Action Council at 800-444-2275.

To request a free WarmWise home energy audit, customers should call 800-300-8709 or complete the online request form at www.columbiagas.com. Efficiency requirements and other details about the appliance rebate program are also available at the company's website.

Caudill, Harris and Marshall participate in Circuit Judges College

FRANKFORT — Circuit Court judges representing 114 Kentucky counties participated in the 2011 Kentucky Circuit Judges College that took place Oct. 9-12 in Frankfort. The Administrative Office of the Courts provided the judicial education program for the state's Circuit Court and Family Court judges.

Representing Floyd County at the college were Circuit Judges John David Caudill and Johnny Ray Harris and Family Court Judge Dwight S. Marshall, who also serves in Magoffin and Knott counties.

The judges received a case law update and attended sessions on domestic violence, digital evidence and investigation, social media's effect on the courts, court interpreters, and Kentucky Drug Court. The college also offered a course on e-Warrants, the electronic warrant management system that makes processing warrants more efficient for judges and law enforcement.

"Technology is dramatically improving the way courts do business and this college devoted several sessions to its impact on the justice system," said Circuit Court Judge Paul F. Isaacs, who serves Bourbon, Scott and Woodford counties and is the newly elected president of the Kentucky Association of Circuit Judges.

"The Kentucky State Police demonstrated how they're investigating crimes that people commit through computers and other electronic devices, several judges shared their experiences with social media and we received training on the e-Warrants system. These courses were great opportunities to learn about digital advances that apply to the work of Circuit Court."

Circuit judges also participated in courses on foreclosure, conciliation programs in Kentucky, search and seizure, and the implementation of House Bill 463. HB 463 took effect in June 2011 and is the most comprehensive overhaul of Kentucky's penal code in more than 30 years. All three branches of government supported the legislation, which is designed to curb the cost of incarceration without compromising public safety. Circuit Court is the court of general jurisdiction that hears civil matters involving more than $5,000, capital offenses, adoptions, termination of parental rights, land dispute title cases, and contested probate cases.

Sessions specifically for Family Court judges covered the Interstate Compact on the Placement of Children, parental relocation, and child fatalities in Kentucky. The college also offered a course on handling cases involving children who have experienced traumatic events. Family Court is a division of Circuit Court and has primary jurisdiction in cases involving family issues, including divorces, adoption, child support, domestic violence and juvenile status offenses.

The AOC is the operations arm for the state court system. It oversees the activities of nearly 3,300 court system employees and 403 elected justices, judges and circuit court clerks. The AOC Division of Judicial Branch Education provides continuing education for the elected officials. As the fiscal agent for the state court system, the AOC also executes the Judicial Branch budget.

Other judges from around the region who participated in the college include:

Johnson County
Circuit Court Judge John David Preston (serves Johnson, Lawrence and Martin counties)

Family Court Judge Janie McKenzie-Wells (serves Johnson, Lawrence and Martin counties)

Magoffin County
Circuit Court Judge Kim Cornett Childers (serves Knott and Magoffin counties)

Martin County

Family Court Judge Janie McKenzie-Wells (serves Johnson, Lawrence and Martin counties)

Perry County
Circuit Court Judge William Engle III

Pike County

PRIDE honors Jackson County Schools for energy conservation

ANNVILLE — The Jackson County School District's Energy Team has earned southern and eastern Kentucky's PRIDE Environmental Education Project of the Month Award.

The award recognizes the team's success in conserving energy and saving money in the 2010/2011 school year. The school district cut its energy costs by $46,521, an 11 percent reduction.

Congressman Hal Rogers (KY-5), who co-founded PRIDE, presented the award yesterday during PRIDE's energy conservation workshop in Annnville.

"PRIDE has transformed southern and eastern Kentucky for 14 years with the help of leaders across the region," said Rogers. "When individuals volunteer their time and efforts for a common cause, we can make a difference. I commend the Jackson County School District's Energy Team for taking the initiative to conserve energy and for implementing preventative, cost-saving measures for the school system."

The school district formed an Energy Team last fall when it joined the Kentucky School Board's State Energy Managers Program (SEMP), which pays a portion of the salary for district-wide energy managers. Led by Superintendent Mike Smith and Facilities Director Ed Morgan, the team has worked closely with its SEMP energy manager, Diane Wombles, and its electric cooperative, Jackson Energy. The team conducted energy audits at every school and now reviews utility bills each month. Actions taken so far include installing programmable thermostats, setting thermostats to 68 degrees during the heating season and 75 degrees in the cooling season, and removing light bulbs from the vending machines.

Thousands of dollars were saved by changing old fluorescent lighting to more energy efficient bulbs. The upgrade costs were minimal, thanks to Jackson Energy's Commercial Advanced Lighting Rebate Program for businesses and schools. For example, replacing the old lighting system at Tyner Elementary cost $1,112, and the rebate was $850. The new lights save $94 on every electric bill, so in just three months the district recouped the cost that wasn't covered by the rebate.

The PRIDE Environmental Education Project of the Month program rewards creative, effective ways of promoting environmental awareness and stewardship.

"We give awards to thank people and to showcase the great things going on in our region, so please contact us if you want to nominate a person, school, business or organization that is helping our environment or inspiring others to care for nature," said PRIDE's Tammy Wilcox. "Our toll-free number is 888-577-4339, or you can contact us through our website, which is www.kypride.org."

Cabinet announces availability of energy assistance funds

FRANKFORT — The Cabinet for Health and Family Services announced Monday that $24 million in federal funding has been released to Kentucky to help low-income families heat their homes this winter.

The U.S. Department for Health and Human Services (HHS) this week released funding for states' Low Income Home Energy Assistance Programs (LIHEAP), which help families pay their energy bills, particularly during the very cold and hot months.

In Kentucky, the Cabinet for Health and Family Services (CHFS) administers the program through a contract with Community Action Kentucky (CAK), which disburses benefits through Community Action Agencies (CAA) across the state. Every county has at least one staffed CAA office.

Rat Wilson, commissioner of CHFS's Department for Community Based Services, said her agency staff knows the significance of the federal energy assistance for Kentucky families.

"We've already seen a glimpse of the colder season ahead," Commissioner Wilson said. "Once winter is here, families who need the most help heating their homes will have it because of this funding."

Through the CAA staff, "we try to help as many families as possible with the available LIHEAP funds," she said. "In addition, several community organizations and utilities also offer programs that can provide home energy assistance."

Commissioner Wilson said the eligible households that can benefit most — seniors, the disabled and families with young children — are encouraged to take advantage of LIHEAP assistance.

LIHEAP is a short-term aid program that operates its first phase of subsidies in November and December and is available to customers at or below 130 percent of the federal poverty guidelines. For example, a family of four must have a monthly income of no more than $2,422.

Applications for the subsidy phase of the program will be accepted alphabetically at all community action agencies from today through Friday, Dec. 16, based on the first letter of the household's last name. The crisis phase, for families in a home heating emergency, begins on Jan. 4, 2012.

The $24 million is the amount of the first funding allocation from HHS. Also, Kentucky carried forward $3.1 million in LIHEAP funding from last fiscal year, bringing the current total funding allocation to $27.1 million.

Funds provided by HHS for LIHEAP in 2011 are less than the amount Kentucky received last year. Individuals are encouraged to apply early while funds are available.

For more information about applying for assistance, visit www.communityactionky.org or call (800) 456-3452 to find a local Community Action Agency.

Patton, Rogers and Wilhoit honored by Forward in the Fifth

HAZARD — Three of Kentucky's top education supporters were recognized for their work in helping advance education in Southern and Eastern Kentucky at Forward in the Fifth's 25th anniversary celebration and "Unbridled Learning" Educational Summit on Monday, Nov. 7, on the campus of Hazard Community and Technical College.

U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-05)—the visionary behind the creation of Forward in the Fifth—was presented Forward in the Fifth's inaugural AppLE (Appalachian Leaders in Education) award for his role in establishing the nonprofit organization in 1986.

Rogers, in turn, personally recognized two other education leaders at the event for their contributions to education reform.

Gene Wilhoit, executive director of the national Council of Chief State School Officers (CCSSO) and former Kentucky Commissioner of Education, and Paul E. Patton, president of the University of Pikeville and two-term Kentucky governor, were presented Difference Maker Awards from Congressman Rogers for making a positive impact on education in the region and throughout the entire commonwealth.

The award presentations were made before nearly 200 educators, business leaders, parents, and students in attendance at the First Federal Building on the Hazard Community and Technical College campus to celebrate Forward in the Fifth's success and accomplishments over the last 25 years.

"In order to truly progress and move forward in the Fifth Congressional District, we must focus on education," said Rogers. "I worked with a group of leaders to launch Forward in the Fifth, because I wanted to transform the region, improve access to higher education, and find ways to retain our best and brightest students at home."

During Wilhoit's tenure

as Kentucky's Education Commissioner from 2000-2006, leadership, finance reform, equity initiatives, preschool and technology enhancement were implemented as part of the historic Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA).

Wilhoit addressed educators and community leaders at the anniversary event's "Unbridled Learning" Educational Summit, which highlighted the state's new Unbridled Learning accountability system mandated by Kentucky Senate Bill 1. The new system replaces testing systems established under KERA.

Participants at the summit attended breakout sessions on common core standards, college and career readiness, dropout prevention, and the new accountability system.

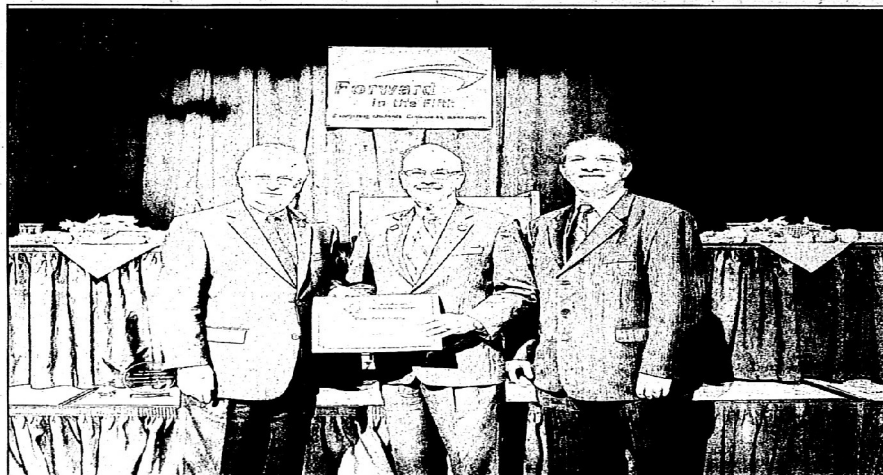

Patton, who spoke earlier in the day at a combined meeting of the Kentucky River and Big Sandy P-10 Councils, helped overhaul Kentucky's higher education system after being elected governor in 1995. Those sweeping reforms included making the state's community colleges and technical schools independent of the University of Kentucky and organizing them into the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS).

Patton served two terms as Kentucky governor from 1995 to 2003, and was named president of the University of Pikeville in early 2010.

Attendees at Monday's anniversary event also heard from others who have had a significant role in the history of Forward in the Fifth, such as Fowell Balltrip, president and CEO of the National Institute for Hometown Security.

Balltrip was among the original group of leaders who worked with Rogers in the mid-1980s to make his vision for Forward in the Fifth a reality.

"We advocated for change. We advocated for improvement. We advocated for a better future for the Fifth District," Balltrip said. "But we did so from a platform that recognized for the change to be meaningful, for the improvements to be lasting and for the future to be secure, the driving forces had to come from within the district and the people who live here."

U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-05), left, and Jim Tackett, right, executive director of Forward in the Fifth, present University of Pikeville President Paul E. Patton a "Difference Maker Award" in recognition of his role in education reform in Kentucky during his two terms as Kentucky governor. The presentation occurred during Forward in the Fifth's 25th anniversary celebration on Nov. 7 on the campus of Hazard Community and Technical College. Rogers was also recognized with the Inaugural AppLE (Appalachian Leader in Education) Award.

To honor citizens who have accepted Rogers' charge to better education in the region, Forward in the Fifth also used the occasion to launch the AppLE (Appalachian Leaders in Education) awards program within its 42-county service area.

Forward in the Fifth Executive Director Jim Tackett and Board Chair Dr.

Dessie Bowling explained the awards will raise awareness of school and community interdependence, and showcase the best practices of individuals, schools, and communities that are making a positive impact toward educational progress.

"Our course is clear. Education and learning must not be stagnant in a world that is changing daily," Tackett said. "We must be bold in our ideas, innovative in our strategies, and steadfast in our actions."

As the first AppLE award recipient, Rogers was presented a gift of appreciation acknowledging his work with Forward in the Fifth until a special commissioned regional artist's rendering of the AppLE award trophy is released early next year.

Beginning in 2012, Forward in the Fifth will accept nominations for the AppLE awards in four categories:

parent or parent group; educator or related staff; and business, civic group, or community leaders.

"Forward in the Fifth's 25th anniversary provided an opportunity to honor the dedicated individuals who long ago recognized the need to improve education in the Fifth Congressional District, celebrate past accomplishments, and challenge all of us to work collaboratively today and in the future to ensure that our youth have access to a high-quality education," Bowling said.

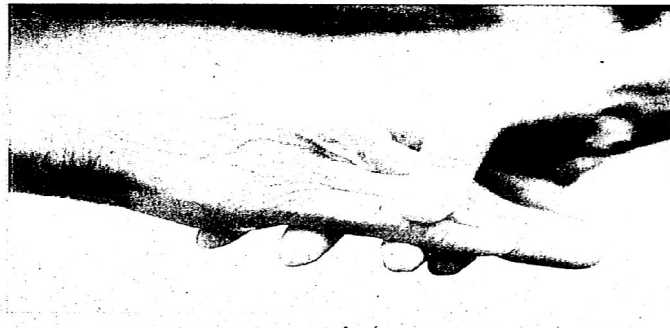

"The Forward in the Fifth staff and board of directors remain committed to supporting educational efforts that will improve the quality of life for all people in Kentucky."

Forward in the Fifth, located at 2292 South U.S. 27 (at Traffic Light 15) in Somerset, is an affiliate of The Center for Rural Development.

For more information about Forward in the Fifth, contact executive director Jim Tackett at 606-677-6000 or via email at jttcett@centertech.com.

Forward in the Fifth, a non-profit organization and an affiliate of The Center for Rural Development, was formed in 1986 by U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-05) and other leaders to work to reverse low educational attainment levels in the Fifth Congressional District. The organization strives to engage community stakeholders to advance the value of education, serves as advocates to advance all education systems to improve educational attainment; and supports schools and stakeholders to secure needed resources to improve the quality of education within their local communities.

Physicians warn not to take flu lightly

WASHINGTON — As cooler temperatures settle in throughout much of the country, the chance of catching the flu is going up. About 5 to 20 percent of the population gets the flu each year and more than 200,000 people are hospitalized because of flu-related complications, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). More than 20,000 people die each year.

"Everyone, especially those over age 65, people with chronic medical conditions, pregnant women and young children need to take steps now to help prevent the flu or at least decrease its severity," said Dr. David Seaberg, president of the American College of Emergency Physicians. "The flu is not a minor head cold, and you can end up in the ER with serious problems if you don't take care of yourselves."

The flu is caused by a virus and is spread from person to person by direct contact or through virus-infected droplets coughed or sneezed in the air. Most people recover completely in one or two weeks, but some develop serious and potentially life-threatening illness, such as pneumonia.

Flu symptoms tend to develop between one and four days after a person is exposed to the virus, and people are contagious from 24 hours before they become ill until their symptoms resolve.

Symptoms of influenza include:

- High fever
- Headache
- Muscle aches
- Extreme fatigue
- Sore throat
- Runny or stuffy nose
- Body aches
- Diarrhea and vomiting
- Dizziness
- Chills
- Loss of appetite

Call your doctor right away if there are signs of dehydration, seizures, earache or a cough that produces discolored mucus. Seek emergency care if you have difficulty breathing, experience pain or pressure in the chest or abdomen, have sudden dizziness, become confused or have severe or persistent vomiting.

If a child's symptoms get worse over several days and if they have a temperature greater than 102 degrees Fahrenheit for more than a few days, see a doctor. Children with chronic conditions, such as severe asthma or cystic fibrosis, may require hospitalization.

If you develop flu symptoms, get plenty of rest. Drink clear fluids such as water, broth, sports drinks, or electrolyte beverages made for infants to prevent becoming dehydrated.

"Emergency physicians highly recommend that persons who are at high risk of having serious flu complications and those who work and live with them get vaccinated each year," said Dr. Seaberg.

The best way to protect against the flu is to get vaccinated every year. Now is the best time to do that, if you haven't already.

Gov. Beshear announces honorary committee for 11-11-11 Veterans Initiative

Esteemed lawmakers, veterans groups named to committee

FRANKFORT — Two lawmakers and four veterans' groups have been named by Governor Steve Beshear to the Honorary Committee of his 11-11-11 initiative, which has highlighted state veterans and active duty service members over the last 6 months.

"The esteemed members of this committee are champions of our veterans and have advised my office over the last 6 months on our 11-11-11 initiative," Gov. Beshear said. "We can never repay the huge debt we owe our veterans or fully express our appreciation to them. Our work over the last several years and our current initiative are small efforts to show our continued appreciation for their service."

On Veterans Day this Friday — or 11-11-11 — members of the committee will join Gov. Beshear and First Lady Jane Beshear at 11 a.m. for a ceremony to honor Kentucky veterans at the Old Capitol in downtown Frankfort.

The Co-Chairs of the Interim Joint Committee on Veterans, Military Affairs and Public Protection, Representative Tanya Pullin, of South Shore and Senator Jack Westwood, of Erlanger, are the two lawmakers on the honorary committee. All members of the legislative committee have been invited to Friday's event. Representatives from the Kentucky American Legion, the Kentucky State Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans and the AM-VETS of Kentucky have served on the honorary committee and will participate in the ceremony on Friday.

Since the launch of the 11-11-11 initiative, numerous veterans have told their stories and several personal letters by citizens to veterans have been faceted thanks to the Beshear administration's 11-11-11 website.

"On this website, you can search for veterans events around the state, submit your community's event for veterans, and read personal stories about some of our state's most outstanding military service men and women," said First Lady Jane Beshear.

The First Lady encourages all veterans to submit their own essays about their work in the armed forces and asks that citizens write a message for veterans living in the state's veterans nursing homes. "We will collect notes left by the public and deliver them to the state's three veteran nursing homes," she said. "Several letters will be delivered this week."

Over the last four years, the Governor's Office and the Kentucky Department of Veterans Affairs have helped soldiers, veterans and their families deal with financial hardships, overcome logistical nightmares and gain deserving recognition.

Gov. Beshear has signed an array of legislation and has supported a number of initiatives ranging from exempting active duty military personnel from paying Kentucky income tax to giving veterans preference in state hiring. The Governor also traveled overseas in August to visit U.S. Troops in Afghanistan and Iraq.

"As governor and a former member of the U.S. Army Reserve, I am awed by the courage, dedication and sacrifice of our veterans and men and women in uniform — just as every Kentuckian should be," Gov. Beshear said. "I hope you will join Jane and me in honoring all our veterans on this very special day."

More young adults living in parents' homes

Between 2005 and 2011, the proportion of young adults living in their parents' home increased, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. The percentage of men age 25 to 34 living in the home of their parents rose from 14 percent in 2005 to 19 percent in 2011 and from 8 percent to 10 percent over the period for women.

These statistics come from America's Families and Living Arrangements: 2011, a series of tables from the 2011 Current Population Survey providing a look at the socioeconomic characteristics of families and households at the national level.

The increase in 25 to 34 year olds living in their parents' home began before the recent recession, and has continued beyond it, the author, Rose Kreider, a family demographer with the Fertility and Family Statistics Branch. Similarly, 59 percent of men age 18 to 24 and 50 percent of women that age resided in their parents' home in 2011, up from 53 percent and 46 percent, respectively, in 2005. It should be noted that college students living in a dormitory are counted in their parents' home, so they are included in these percentages.

Other highlights:

- In general, the percent of all households that contain just one person has risen over the last half of the 20th century and into the 21st century. The percentage of such households rose from 13 percent in 1960 to 28 percent in 2011. While the percentage may not differ significantly from one year to the next, the overall trend has been an upward one. The percentage did decline, however, from 2008 to 2010.

- Of the 74.6 million children younger than 18 in 2011, most (69 percent) lived with two parents, while another 2 percent lived with one parent and 4 percent with no parents. Of those children who lived with two parents, 92 percent lived with two biological or two adoptive parents.

- Among the children who lived with one parent, 87 percent lived with their mother.

- Of the children living with no parents present, 57 percent lived with at least one grandparent.

- In 2011, 10 percent of children under 18 lived with at least one grandparent. Seventy-eight percent of these children also lived with at least one parent.

- Of the 67.8 million opposite sex couples who lived together, 89 percent were married couples, while the remaining 11 percent were unmarried.

- In 2011, there were about 7.6 million unmarried couples living together.
- In 2011, married couples with children made up 20 percent of all households, half what they were in 1970 (40 percent).

- In 2011, 10 percent of married couple family groups with children younger than age 15 had a stay-at-home mother. This proportion decreased in the last few years during the recession. In 2007 — before the recession began — the corresponding figure was 24 percent.

Great American Smokeout coming Nov. 17

lung health advocate

The American Cancer Society is marking the 36th Great American Smokeout on Nov. 17 by encouraging smokers to use the date to make a plan to quit, or to plan in advance and quit smoking that day. By doing so, smokers take an important step toward a healthier life — one that can lead to reducing cancer risk.

Shawna Stevens, tobacco cessation educator at King's Daughters Medical Center, says smokers and smokeless tobacco users can look to KDMC for support to help them quit any time of the year.

"We go out into our surrounding communities and let people know what KDMC can do to help them quit smoking. We provide tobacco cessation classes every week in our Health Education Center — one on Tuesdays from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. and the second on Wednesdays from noon to 1 p.m.," said Stevens.

The weekly classes are free and open to the public, according to Stevens. Discussion of tobacco cessation products, behavior modification, and group support are the cornerstones of this highly successful program that is medically supervised by oncologist David Goebel, M.D.

KDMC's program offers tobacco counseling to patients and community members on a daily basis. The tobacco cessation team provided more than 2,000 individual consults throughout the year.

Tobacco cessation products, such as Chantix and nicotine replacement therapy may be used as part of the program, but are not required. Participants are responsible for the purchase of these products.

According to the American Cancer Society, tobacco use remains the single largest preventable cause of disease and premature death in the U.S., yet more than 46 million Americans still smoke. However, more than half of these smokers have attempted to quit for at least one day in the past year.

Quitting is difficult, but individuals can increase chances of success with help. For more information about the tobacco cessation program at King's Daughters or to register for the program, please call (606) 408-6400 or toll free at 1-888-377-KDMC (5362) to speak with a tobacco cessation specialist.

Archer Park getting ready for Christmas

by Jack Latta
PRESTONSBURG

Archer Park is getting ready for the holiday season to life later this month, as the lights come on for Christmas. This year Archer Park's "Winter Wonderland" Christmas light show will begin on Nov. 24, with the "Christmas in the Park" event being held on Thursday, Dec. 15, at 6 p.m. Santa Claus is expected to make an appearance and there will be gifts, games, face painting and food.

Archer Park will be offering several new events this year, including a stage set up to allow different church groups to decorate for holiday singing or a live nativity. Archer Park is also encouraging youth groups to participate. Use of the stage will be free of charge.

"We know that people are busy at this time of year, but this would be a great way of letting the community know the real reason for Christmas," said Park Director Richie Schoolcraft. Schoolcraft says that every Friday and Saturday from 6 to 8 p.m. will be open for churches, beginning Thanksgiving and running until New Year's. The park will also be featuring a display contest for area businesses on the tennis courts. Businesses must have their space decorated by Dec. 1, and the public will be allowed to vote for the best display. A $500 prize to be donated to the charity chosen by the business that wins.

According to Schoolcraft, there are only 28 spots available to decorate, so those interested should call soon. Schoolcraft says that if the display will use lights, that they be LED to cut down on power demands. Entry fee for contestants is $25.

Churches wishing to reserve the stage, or businesses wanted to reserve a spot for their display contest, should call the Archer Park Office at (606) 886-6390.

Schoolcraft says that he is also planning to work with the Floyd County School system to have ornaments made by headstart, kindergartners, and first-grade students used to decorate the park.

Crimm profiles bill dealing with Kentucky's retirement system

FRANKFORT — Rep. Ron Crimm, R-Louisville (33rd District) announced last week he has prefilled a bill for the 2012 session of the General Assembly that if passed would seek to overturn a 2008 law allowing legislators to combine their retirement plan with other state funded plans.

"Recent stories in the press about former and current legislators receiving six-figure pensions while our state retirement system is billions in debt is not only troubling to me but to the taxpayers of our great Commonwealth," said Rep. Crimm in filing the bill. "By trying to right a previous wrong I'm hoping that we as lawmakers can gain some degree of confidence back from those who elect us to serve them."

Rep. Crimm's proposal would allow legislators to consolidate their retirement accounts with any in the Kentucky State Police Retirement System, the Kentucky Employees Retirement System, the County Employees Retirement System, and the Kentucky Teachers' Retirement System if any legislator is receiving benefits. His bill would make this rule retroactive to members contributing to a retirement plan on or after June 20, 2005 and have service credit in any of the other state pension systems prior to August 1, 2012 unable to combine previous income under their retirement accounts.

The 2005 date is when a previous bill, HB 299 which passed in the 2005 session and became law without the signature of former Governor Ernie Fletcher, allowed current and former members of the General Assembly to combine incomes which equates to higher annual pensions. "I like many of my fellow legislators voted yes on HB 299 in the 2005 session. However I now realize our action in passing this bill has led to unintended consequences and increased the strain on our state retirement system. I'm hoping this bill will right that wrong," added Rep. Crimm.

"The bill is prefilled as BR 323 for the 2012 Regular Session.

Montell profiles tax credit scholarship bill

FRANKFORT — Rep. Brad Montell, R-Shepherdsville (58th District) announced last week he is prefiling legislation for the 2012 Regular Legislative Session that if passed would authorize a tax credit for individuals and corporate donors to non-profit agencies that provide scholarships to needy children to attend the public or private school of their choice.

"The goal of this legislation is to provide every parent with the opportunity to send their child to the school that best meets the child's needs regardless of their family's income," said Rep. Montell in filing the bill.

"The legislation, which will be known as the Great Schools Tax Credit Program, would provide a tax credit of up to $2,000 for a contribution from individuals or business entities to non-profit organizations that provide educational scholarships to eligible children, which could then be used for tuition allowing them to attend any elementary or secondary school, both public or private, of their choice. This proposal directs that at least 90 percent of the donated amounts go directly to scholarships, and only go to needy children who live in a free or reduced income household and are currently enrolled in a school classified as a "school for opportunity" by the No Child Left Behind program.

"The need for scholarship assistance is obviously greatest among low-income families," Rep. Montell added.

"This law will ensure that scholarship assistance is given to those families least able financially to send their child to the school of their choice. Hopefully this bill will give more students in Kentucky the opportunity to receive the best education possible. A number of other states have introduced programs like this with great success."

The bill is prefilled as BR 116 for the 2012 Regular Session.

Blackcats drop opening round game to Danville

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

PRESTONSBURG — Prestonsburg took a 16-13 lead into the fourth quarter Friday night but couldn't close the door on visiting Danville. The Admirals paid a visit to Prestonsburg for the opening round of the Class 2A State Playoffs and saved their best for last. Danville scored 19 unanswered points in the fourth quarter to double up Prestonsburg 32-16.

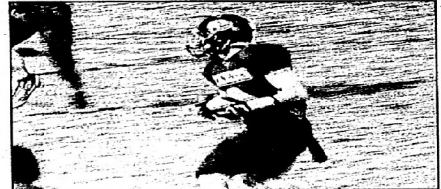

The loss eliminated the Blackcats from the postseason. Prestonsburg finished its latest gridiron campaign 5-6.

Danville (8-3), thanks to the win, moves on to meet District 7 rival Somerset in the second round of the Class 2A State Playoffs. The Briar Jumpers beat Danville 23-6 when the two teams met Sept. 23 in a key regular-season matchup.

Danville excelled on the ground, rushing for 371 yards. The Admirals were put on the road in the opening round of the playoffs after a disappointing 14-13 loss to Lexington Christian three weeks ago.

Adam Crisp, Joseph Jamerson, Bryson Williams and Kain Collins continued to lead the Prestonsburg offense.

cent from the floor the first half and found themselves facing a 30-12 deficit at the half.

"We didn't shoot well at all the entire first half," stated Wesley Christian Coach Jack Jarrell. "We were getting open looks but just didn't have any legs under us in the first half."

During the second half, Wesley Christian battled back, cutting the deficit to five late in the game before falling to Woods Charter, 49-38.

WV Tech doubles up UPIKE, ends losing streak

TIMES STAFF REPORT
MONTGOMERY
W.Va. — The Golden Bears of WVU Tech sent their seniors out in style on Saturday, taking advantage of seven University of Pikeville turnovers to end a 13-game losing skid with a 42-21 win.

The loss for Pikeville was its fourth straight and was its first in six meetings with Tech. The Bears, who have now turned the ball over 15 times in its last two games, are now 4-5 on the season and need a win next Saturday when they host Kentucky Christian University in the season finale to salvage a .500 season after winning four of their first five games.

The loss also spoiled a phenomenal day by sophomore Hunter Adams. The Middlesboro native, getting his first career start at tailback after moving from receiver, ran for 233 yards and all three Pikeville scores. It was the fourth time in school history a Bear had ran for more than 200 yards and the first time since 2005.

Adams had scoring runs of 14 and 50 yards in the first quarter to put his team on top 14-6.

But Tech posted three second-quarter touchdowns to take a 26-14 lead to the break. The scores came on a one-yard run by quarterback Julian Bernard and passes from Mitch Brumfield — with whom he split the all-day — of nine yards to Cody Sneed and 59 yards to Darry Reynolds.

Brumfield stretched the lead to 34-14 when he hit Robby Anzuini for a 28-yard score with 8:56 to play. In the third and then Reynolds for the conversion.

Adams drew the Bears to within 13 when he scored from eight yards out with 6:15 left in the half. But the only fourth-quarter score was a 47-yard scamper by Najee Curry to set the final score. With the run, Curry finished with 125 yards on 14 carries.

Junior quarterback Trevor Hoskins struggled to a 15-of-28 passing day, finishing with 199 yards and three interceptions. He hit senior Axel Rivas five times for 51 yards to lead the receiving corps.

Tech's combination was 17-of-25 for 212 yards and four touchdowns.

Auzuini caught five passes for 56 yards while Ryan Bowden, who hauled in a 13-yard scoring pass to get Tech on the first-quarter scoreboard, also caught five for 34 yards.

On the defensive side, sophomore Taylor Woods led Pikeville with eight tackles, six of them unassisted. Sophomore Josh Sammons had seven solo tackles.

Tech was paced by Henry Barber, who had 13 tackles, all but one a solo.

UK Football: Trevathan, Mansour honored; Smith sets record

TIMES STAFF REPORT
LEXINGTON — University of Kentucky linebacker Danny Trevathan and offensive specialist Joe Mansour have been named honorable-mention Performers of the Week at their positions by the College Football Performance Awards.

Trevathan had yet another monster game in Saturday's 30-13 win over Ole Miss. Trevathan collected 17 tackles, tying his career high, including an assisted tackle for loss. He also had his fourth pass interception of the season, including his third consecutive game with a pick.

Mansour had six kickoffs, including five deep kickoffs and one squib kick. He had three touchbacks and Ole Miss' average starting field position on the deep kickoffs was inside the Rebels' own 22-yard line.

Trevathan gets ESPN Helmet Sticker Linebacker Danny Trevathan received a "Helmet Sticker" from Southwestern Conference beat writers Edward Aschoff and Chris Low of ESPN.com in recognition of his outstanding performance in the win over Ole Miss.

Trevathan received one of five helmet stickers given out for Saturday's SEC game, along with running back Jeff Demps of Florida, quarterback Aaron Murray of Georgia, Arkansas running back Dennis Johnson and LSU punter Brad Wing.

More on the Cat Comeback: Trailing 13-10 entering the fourth quarter, Kentucky scored 20 unanswered points to claim the victory over Ole Miss. It marked the 14th time since 2006, a span of 66 games, that the Wildcats came from behind in the fourth quarter to win.

To put that achievement in perspective, prior to midseason 2006, one had to go back 191 games — all the way back to the 1989 season — to find 14 more fourth-quarter comeback victories for the Cats.

Smith Sets Record: Quarterback Maxwell Smith completed 19 of 36 passes for 283 yards and two touchdowns in the win over Ole Miss. His 283 passing yards is the most ever in one game for a Kentucky true freshman (non-redshirt) quarterback. The old record was 208 yards by Larry McCrimmon vs. Florida in 1978.

Cramer leads Morehead State over Campbell on Senior Day

TIMES STAFF REPORT
BUITES CREEK, N.C. — Jared Cramer set a school record with 170 rushing yards and tied a school standard with four touchdowns in his final game at Barker-Lane Stadium to help Campbell register a 41-31 win over Morehead State before a crowd of 3,417 on Saturday afternoon.

The Camels improve to 6-3 overall and 5-2 in the Pioneer Football League with their school-record fifth consecutive win, while the Eagles slip to 2-7 on the season and 1-5 in conference play with their fourth straight setback. The two schools have now split four meetings in the all-time series.

Cramer, a fifth-year running back, entered the contest averaging just five carries and 26.0 rushing yards per game. He eclipsed that in the first quarter and never looked back.

Cramer, who carried 18 times, tallied touchdown runs of nine yards in the first and 15 yards in the second. He added scoring sprints of 16 and 63 yards in the third to help put the contest out of reach.

Junior quarterback Zach Lewis set MSU single-game records for completions (44) and attempts (68) for the loss. The PFL's top passer finished with 400 yards through the air, four touchdowns and just one interception.

Junior wide receiver Donte Sawyer was MSU's top receiver with 11 grabs for 105 yards and three touchdowns, while senior halfback Ronnie McDermott added nine catches for 106 yards.

All three of Sawyer's scores came in the second half and each cut the deficit to 10 points. He found the end zone 14 and 16 yards away in the third stanza, then sprinted to the goal line from 17 yards out in the final period.

Campbell scored 14 points off Morehead State turnovers in the first half to open up a 20-3 advantage by interception. The showdown was never closer than 10 points the rest of the way.

Campbell recorded 415 total yards, including 276 on the ground. Morehead State finished with 514 total yards in the setback.

Campbell junior quarterback Braden Smith closed out the tilt 13-of-23 for 139 yards, with one touchdown and one interception. His top target was senior Harrison Jordan, who pulled in three receptions for 61 yards.

Senior defensive end Kyle Manley posted a career-best 17 tackles for Morehead State, while senior linebacker Tony Bachman added 12 stops.

The Eagles, who began the day with just five miscues over the past five affairs, turned the football over three times. Campbell coughed up the pigskin twice.

Morehead State has two games remaining this season. The Eagles travel to Davidson on Nov. 12 and finish the campaign at home against Butler on Nov. 19. Both contests are slated for 1 p.m. ET.

quarter as Allen Central packed a slim 14-12 lead into halftime. Handshoe added a 33-yard scoring run in the second quarter but not before Nicholas County got on the scoreboard with a 14-yard touchdown scamper from Charby

Pope. The Bluejackets added another touchdown on a 4-yard scoring run from Austin Allison to close to within two points before intermission. Pope scored on a run for Nicholas County in the third quarter to move the Bluejackets out in front of Allen Central. Allison hauled in a pass from Pope for the two-point conversion after the touchdown. Handshoe, continuing to pace the Allen Central offense, scored on a 27-yard run later in the third period.

Allison hauled in a 12-yard scoring pass from Pope in the fourth quarter. Then, Pope capped the touchdown with a two-point conversion pass to Zach Howard. Micah Harlow scored Allen Central's other touchdown on a 2-yard run in the fourth quarter. Allen Central attempted to tie the contest with a pass but the two-point conversion attempt failed. Nicholas County (7-4) will visit undefeated Fairview in the second round of the Class A State Playoffs.

TIMES STAFF REPORT
PIKEVILLE — Top-ranked University of Pikeville used its size advantage to its benefit in the second half and knocked off Warren Wilson (N.C.) College 88-58 on Sunday in the BB&T Classic.

The Bears (2-0) came out a little road wear after completing the drive from Friday's exhibition game in Starkville, Miss., on Saturday afternoon, and led 38-31 at the break. But the second-half effort to get the ball to the post players paid off with a 50-27 advantage to cruise to the win.

After hitting 4-of-7 from the arc in the first half the Owls cooled to 1-of-6 after intermission. Seniors Shane Burrell and Andrew Young and junior Chris Watson, all post players, combined to score 43 points and pull down 22 rebounds in the win. All but nine points and eight rebounds came in the second half.

Burrell, a senior from Los Angeles, led six players in double figures with 17 points and added six rebounds. He had the first eight points of the second half to double the lead before the Owls were able to score.

Young and Watson, who share time at the power forward slot, each had 13 points and eight rebounds.

Thanks to the efforts of those players, the Bears enjoyed a 44-27 rebounding edge with 22 coming off the offensive glass.

Senior guard Jamar Board hit three three-point shots to finish with 16 markers, while junior Trevor Setty added 13.

Senior guard Chris McHenry scored 10 points, five assists, five steals and four rebounds.

Bears stumble in second half, fall to Mississippi State

TIMES STAFF REPORT
STARKVILLE, Miss. — Mississippi State University put six players in double figures and clamped down defensively in the second half to pull out a 94-70 win over the University of Pikeville Friday night in Humphrey Coliseum.

The Bulldog win came in the final exhibition game for both teams. Mississippi State opens its season on Monday night when it hosts Eastern Kentucky in the 2K Sports Classic.

Pikeville, 1-0 on the regular season, will head home to host the BB&T

Classic on Sunday at the East Kentucky Expo Center. The Bears will play Warren Wilson College at 2 p.m. while Alice Lloyd meets Shawnee State in the 4 p.m. contest.

UPIKE played well in the first half. After falling behind 1-0, a jumper by junior Trevor Setty put the Bears in front with 19:19 to play and they maintained the lead for the next 11 minutes. It was extended to six, 14-8, when senior Jamar Board nailed a three with 16:05 to play.

Setty had 18 points in the game while Board tossed in 17. They were the only Bears in double figures in the game.

But the Bulldogs caught up and regained the lead with 8:10 left when senior guard Dee Bost hit a jump shot to put his team back on top 23-22. Pikeville tied the game two more times before recess but never lead again.

Mississippi State led 40-38 at halftime.

In the second half, Pikeville's 50 percent shooting fell to 34.2 percent, while the Bulldogs continued their torrid pace, hitting 55.6 percent to outscore the nation's top-ranked NAAIA team 54-32 and pull away for the win.

Sophomore Jalen Steele and freshman Rodney Hood led the Bulldogs with 17 points apiece. Senior Brian Bryant and junior Renardo Sidney finished with 12 each, while junior Arnett Moultrie, a transfer from UTEP, had his second double-double of the preseason with 11 points and 11 rebounds.

Mississippi State edged the Bears on the glass 41-39 despite 15 offensive rebounds for the guests, who had 20 in their regular-season opener. The Bulldogs forced 13 turnovers and committed only eight.

Bobcats

er set defense registered three sacks. Somerset forced Betsy Layne to fumble five times during the post-season matchup. The Briarcliff blocked one of Betsy Layne's five punts.

Sophomore Devin Griffith led a balanced Somerset offense, rushing eight times for 66 yards and two touchdowns.

Somerset quarterbacks Will Lange and Tanner Gadberry passed for two touchdowns apiece.

Josh Salisbury recorded a sack for the Betsy Layne defense in the season-ending loss.

For Betsy Layne, Ryan Lawson completed eight-of-13 passes for 101 yards and one touchdown. Lawson threw two interceptions in the setback. Sophomore Dylan Hamilton, Betsy Layne's regular starting quarterback, finished one-of-five passing. Hamilton threw one interception.

Kory Jarrell was Betsy Layne's leading receiver, netting 78 yards and one touchdown on six receptions. Jarrell also led Betsy Layne on the ground, rushing a dozen times for 21 yards.

The Bobcats avoided the shutout when Lawson hooked up with Jarrell on a 60-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter.

Subway renews as Bluegrass State Games' Presenting Sponsor

TIMES STAFF REPORT
LEXINGTON - The Bluegrass Sports Commission announced last week that Subway Restaurants has renewed its agreement to be the presenting sponsor of the Bluegrass State Games, the signature event of the Commission, for two more years. The agreement, which covers the 2012 and 2013 events, ensures that the very popular restaurant will be the presenting sponsor for a minimum of five years, having initially signed on in 2009. "Subway restaurants is excited to renew our sponsorship of the Bluegrass State Games," stated Sharon Pfister of the Asher Agency, which represents Subway owner/operators in Kentucky. "The core mission of the Games - promoting healthy and active lifestyles by providing fun, family-oriented sports competitions - is very much in line with Subway's mission to provide fresh, healthy eating choices to all Kentuckians. As part of the agreement, Subway will continue to provide food for volunteers, marketing and promotional activities, as well as in-store displays and registration information as part of its support. "This event has provided generations of Kentuckians the opportunity to get out, be active and enjoy themselves," stated Terry Johnson, Executive Director of the Bluegrass Sports Commission. "Our partnership with Subway is a big part of the reason we can continue to provide a quality event nearly 30 years after it was started." Heading into its 28th year, the Bluegrass State Games, presented by Subway, is the nation's largest (16,325 in 2011) and longest-running (27 years) State Games. The estimated economic impact of the event to central Kentucky is $6.2 million annually.

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio - The Alice Lloyd College Lady Eagles traveled north to face the highly-regarded Mount Vernon Nazarene Cougars. Sparked by a 3-point shooting barrage, host Mount Vernon Nazarene defeated the Lady Eagles 93-65.

In the first half, Nazarene thrived, connecting on seven of its first 10 three-point field goal attempts to take a 36-15 lead at the 6:39 mark. behind the arc in the decisive 20-minute run. Alice Lloyd opened the second half on a 12-4 run and looked as if it would post a comeback. The Lady Cougars, however, allowed their guests to get no closer, steadily pulling away for the win. The final score was Nazarene's largest lead of the night. For ALC (0-2), sophomore Ariel Nickell led the way with 17 points and 11 rebounds. Gemma Gray topped in 14 points and Freshman Taylor Hott (Betsy Layne) added 11. Sierra Fletcher paced Mount Vernon (1-0) with a game-high 20 points.

"I was pleased with our second half effort," Jarrell added. "We're a young ball team with nine freshmen and sophomores, two juniors and one senior. We stepped off the bus into a packed house that was loud and full of energy. You couldn't ask for a better environment to play in."

The Riders were led by 6-6 junior forward Stephen Goble, who had his second double-double in as many games. Goble hauled down a season-high 15 rebounds and netted 12 points. Freshman Matt Kidd contributed 15 points and grabbed five rebounds for Wesley Christian in the loss.

The Riders met another team from the Central Carolina Athletic League on Saturday when they faced Hopewell Academy. Wesley Christian jumped out early and never looked back, cruising to an easy 97-25 victory over the Hopewell Academy team. "Unlike last night, we shot great this morning," Jarrell said, following his team's convincing win.

Ten Riders proved scoring with freshman guard Matt Kidd leading the way with a game-high 24 points. Matthew Ison followed with 20 points. While in the Central Carolina area, the Wesley Christian High School boys' basketball program

"This was an amazing experience for these young men that I'm sure they'll remember for a long time," Jarrell commented.

Wesley Christian will be back in action Saturday, Nov. 12 in a 1:30 p.m. tipoff as they travel to Mouth of Wilson, Va. to face Oak Hill Academy (Red Team). This contest will be followed by Oak Hill Academy (Gold Team) facing Cesar Chavez High School from Washington DC.

After Danville went ahead 7-0, Prestonsburg answered. Crisp connected with Collins on a 17-yard scoring pass for Prestonsburg's first touchdown. Collins's scoring catch capped an 11-play, 80-yard scoring drive for the Blackcats. Following a missed extra-point attempt, Prestonsburg trailed 7-6.

Danville stretched its lead out to 13-6 before the Blackcats answered prior to intermission.

The Blackcats tied the contest 13-13 on another Crisp touchdown pass just before halftime.

Prestonsburg packed the hard-fought 16-13 lead into the final quarter.

Senior running back Tryston Ford carried the biggest offensive load for the Admirals. Ford rushed for a game-high 131 yards on 18 carries. He also led the Admirals in scoring. Ford scored three touchdowns, finding the endzone on scoring runs of 8, 13 and 14 yards. Marcus Brown, also a senior running back, rushed for 99 yards and a touchdown for the Admirals.

Prestonsburg owned the 16-13 lead at the start of the fourth quarter when Danville charged back. Ford scored on a 13-yard run on the first play of the fourth quarter to push the Admirals out in front 20-16. His scoring run capped an eight-play, 88-yard drive. Danville scored at the start of the fourth quarter and never looked back.

ed the South Floyd defense. Caudill rushed five times for 155 yards and two touchdowns.

Raceland scored first to move out in front. But South Floyd answered with a touchdown of its own. Then Raceland scored again. Ultimately, Raceland proved to have too much offensive firepower for the Raiders to match.

Weston Little led the way for the Raiders. Little rushed for 145 yards and three of South Floyd's touchdowns on 26 carries in the postseason contest.

Little entered the postseason with 1,830 rushing yards and 24 rushing touchdowns. Raceland used quick-strike offensive scoring drives to fend off the Raiders. Freshman Rodney Vance returned a kickoff for an 83-yard touchdown in the Rams' win.

In addition to Raceland and Pikeville, other opening round winners in the Class A State Playoffs were Mayfield, Kentucky Country Day, Holy Cross (Louisville), Russellville, Frankfort, Bellevue, Beechwood, Ludlow, Williamsburg, Harlan, Hazard, Campbellsville, Fairview and Nicholas County.

In Loving Memory of Our Beloved Son Anthony Paul Osborne

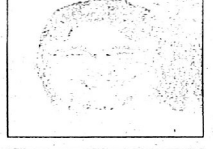

Feb. 19, 1987 - Nov. 10, 2006

Anthony,
It's been five years (1,825 days) since you left us. When the Angels carried you away that day, you didn't go alone, because our hearts went with you. How we've made it this long without you, only God knows. There's so much we love like to say. We miss seeing your handsome face, your beautiful smile. Oh, God, just to hear your voice calling Mom or Dad! To let you know you were always our pride and joy, and always will be. We miss you more everyday. We'll be together again soon in Heaven, where we'll never be apart again. No more tears or pain.

Together forever, never to part, maybe in distance but not by heart.
Love Always and Forever
Mom, Dad, and All the Family

*When tomorrow starts without me, And I'm not there to see,
If the sun should rise and find your eyes filled with tears for me,
I wish so much you wouldn't cry the way you did today,
While thinking of the many things, we didn't get to say,
I know how much you love me, as much as I love you,
And each time that you think of me, I know you'll miss me, too,
But when tomorrow starts without me, please try to understand,
That an angel came and called my name, and took me by the hand,
And said my place was ready - in heaven far above,
And that I'd have to leave behind all those I dearly love,
But as I turned to walk away, a tear fell from my eye,
For all my life, I'd always thought, I didn't want to die,
I had so much to live for, so much left yet to do,
It seemed almost impossible that I was leaving you,
I thought of all the yesterdays, the good ones and the bad,
I thought of all the love we shared, and all the fun we had,
If I could relive yesterday, just even for a while,
I'd say good-bye and kiss you and maybe see you smile,
But then I fully realized that this could never be,
For emptiness and memories would take the place of me,
And when I thought of worldly things, I might miss come tomorrow,
I thought of you and when I did, my heart was filled with sorrow,
But when I walked through heaven's gates, I felt so much at home,
When God looked down and smiled at me, from His great golden throne,
He said, "This is eternity and all I've promised you, Today your life on earth is past,
But here life starts anew, I promise no tomorrow, But today will always last,
And since each day's the same way there's no longing for the past,
You have been so faithful, so trusting and so true,
Though there were times you did some things you knew you shouldn't do,
But you have been forgiven and now at last you're free,
So won't you come and take my hand and share my life with me?"
So when tomorrow starts without me, don't think we're far apart,
For every time you think of me, I'm right here in your heart.*

The Big Sandy Singers, the elite singing ensemble from Big Sandy Community and Technical College, performed a "Halloween Show: Block Party" for trick-or-treat Night in Pikeville. Audience members of over 800 passers-by and those who sat to watch, enjoyed songs like "Thriller," "Monster Mash," "Phantom of the Opera," and more Halloween favorites. "The best part was dancing with the children," said Director Laura Ford Hall. "We danced with any child who wanted to get in the spotlight, and it made our night!" The Singers plan on making the show an annual event in Pikeville. Pictured are the group's members, from left, Hall, Emily Mills, Kandyce Hannah, Sarah Adams, Andrew Hiner, Brandon Lafferty, Brad Lafferty, Charles Mims, Ryan Shepherd, and Dustin Newsome. Jonathon Bryant also performed but is not pictured. "We hope people will join you year after year," added Hall. "Sometimes it is just great to 'be a kid again.'" The hidden stars of South Africa

by Sandy Miller Hays
AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH SERVICE

If you won the lottery tomorrow, what would you buy?

Of course, I know that answer depends a lot on how much you've won; if the sum in question is $100, you're not likely to go shopping for a megayacht. But it's still fun to contemplate.

In the parts of the world where people aren't generally as affluent as we are in this country, the response to an influx of extra income is surprisingly predictable: They buy more meat, regardless of whether they live in a tiny village in China or a tiny village in Somalia.

It's a long, long way from the wide open spaces of Montana to the villages of South Africa, but a scientist with the Agricultural Research Service (ARS) has been reaching across that gap since 2004, for that very reason: meat.

His goal is to help equip the scientists of South Africa with the tools they need to boost the economic prospect of the cattle breeders and farmers in remote and underdeveloped areas, where the big "food problem" isn't obesity, but simply getting enough to eat. And there's a second motive: These research findings could lead not only to better cattle in South Africa, but better cattle right here in the States and around the world.

In the rural areas of South Africa, the cattle you're most likely to see are the Nguni (pronounced "en-GOO-nee"), if you're familiar with cattle breeds, you might think the Nguni was a distant cousin of our more familiar Brahman breed, with its floppy skin and pronounced shoulder hump.

The Nguni have adapted well to their rugged environment. They're fertile, tolerant of harsh conditions, resistant to ticks and tolerant of the diseases that those ticks carry. But while they're a common sight in South Africa, they've never really been improved, intensively managed or properly studied, so there's much that is still unknown about this breed.

For all their positive qualities, the Nguni are not the lush cattle we see grazing on American pastures. They tend to be small and they deposit too much fat before reaching market weight, which makes them undesirable to commercial feedlot operators.

But the ARS scientist, in collaboration with his colleagues in South Africa, has been exploring ways to get around those problems. They've examined factors that the South African breeders could explore and exploit to improve the offspring of their Nguni cows, such as mating those cows with bigger, beefier Angus or Charolais bulls. The idea: a cross-bred calf would retain the Nguni toughness and adaptability, while taking on the improved beef aspects of their Angus or Charolais fathers.

At this point, you might well be asking yourself, "This is all well and good, but what's in it for us?" The one-word answer is "ticks"—specifically, tolerance to those creepy creatures and the diseases they carry.

As part of this collaboration, a South African scientist has been searching the genome of her country's cattle to find specific areas on the Nguni genome (sites called quantitative trait loci, or QTLs) that confer this tolerance. She's been crossing the tick-resistant Nguni with tick-susceptible Angus and looking for genes that confer resistance to the ticks.

The ARS scientist says his South African colleague's quest for the right QTLs could pay dividends for cattle breeders not only in South Africa, but anywhere cattle are produced, to reduce losses from ticks.

Another plus of the Nguni population is their adaptability to a harsh environment—information that could prove useful in certain cattle-producing parts of the United States. The scientists are collecting blood samples from about 600 Nguni cattle scattered throughout South Africa. They plan to study the DNA in each sample to understand the genetic makeup of the herds, partly in hopes of identifying the genetic basis for the traits that make the Nguni so adaptable.

Here among the richness of the United States, it may seem improbable that the rough conditions of South Africa and the tough animals who survive there have much to teach us. But it may be that the keys to vital improvements in our beautiful American cattle breeds lie waiting in the farms and villages of South Africa.

Food City to utilize solar panel technology

ABINGDON, Va. — Food City company officials announced plans last week to install solar panels at the Food City location in Piney Flats, Tenn.

In 2009, Food City implemented a comprehensive energy conservation objective (ECO) across their supermarket chain. The plan encompassed several components and included a concentrated focus on proper usage/timing of interior/exterior and display case lighting, equipment settings, usage, cleaning and maintenance procedures and the use of daily departmental conservation checklists. The initiative reduced same store energy usage by 5.1 million kilowatt hours in the first year and achieved a reduction of 6.5 million kilowatt hours of energy in this, its second year.

Last year, the retailer debuted several new energy saving concepts in their new store plan designs, including energy efficient glass doors on all dairy, frozen and lunch meat cases; energy efficient LED lighting in all refrigerated door cases; accent lighting, store front and gas no go signage; upgrading refrigeration fan motors and converting in store lighting to more energy efficient models; the installation of a skylight system designed for maximum energy efficiency, motion sensor controlled lighting and new ECO friendly polished concrete floors that require no waxing.

"We are continually researching, testing and investing in proven technology to reduce our energy consumption," says Steven C. Smith, Food City president and chief executive officer. "While we remain committed to reducing our

With Democrats holding a 13-to-1 edge in voter registration, Tuesday's general election balloting in Floyd County was a predictable one-party runaway, offering no surprises and few friendly fires for state GOP candidates who wandered into the stronghold. As expected, Floyd County's general election outcome was set with the finalization of the Democratic ticket in last May's primary, with only the final margins to be determined Tuesday. And, from the Governor's race down, Democratic candidates drew lopsided victories.

A Floyd County man was killed Saturday night after he was thrown from a vehicle that overturned on the road near Drift. Donnie Columbus Patton, 43, of Allen, was pronounced dead of a fractured neck by Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson. Two other occupants, a 17-year-old male and a 17-year-old female, were taken to McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, Nelson said.

Forest fires in eastern Kentucky appear to be under control, but extremely dry conditions still pose a threat to the brittle timberlands. Steve Brackett, spokesman for the state Forestry Department, said Tuesday that a 10-acre fire at Tram, in Floyd County, and an unconfirmed report of a fire at Frasures Creek were the only fires the department were concerned with at the time.

Stay out of the woods or go to jail, was the message issued by Governor Wallace Wilkinson's office October 31. The emergency order, issued to avoid outbreaks of forest fires, bans entry or travel in wooded areas in 25 eastern Kentucky counties, including Floyd. Violators could face six months in jail, and a $100-$500 fine, said Pat Able, legal counsel for the governor's office. Able said he did not know how long the ban will last.

"It depends on the circumstances," he said, referring to the numerous forest fires currently blazing in eastern Kentucky.

An elementary school principal filed a federal lawsuit last Wednesday against Floyd County superintendent Ron Hager and the board of education, alleging her first amendment rights of free speech and free association were violated.

Prestonsburg Police Chief Greg Hall was undoubtedly surprised Monday morning when one of his policemen kicked in his door. That unannounced visit was to alert the chief that his house was on fire. Policeman Anthony "Harpo" Castle was on his way to work Monday when he drove past Hall's home at Lancer Addition and noticed smoke coming from the attic at approximately 7 a.m., said Prestonsburg fire chief Tom Blackburn. Castle burst through the door and woke up Hall and his family to warn them of the fire, Blackburn said.

The jackpot for Wednesday night's Lotto Kentucky drawing has grown to a record high $42 million, and ticket sales in the 17-county region served by the Prestonsburg office of the Kentucky Lottery Corporation are soaring. Regional lottery manager Jeff Riley said Tuesday that Lotto Kentucky ticket sales in the Prestonsburg region had increased by approximately 33 percent over the past two weeks, jumping from a total of $1 million during the week of October 20-26 to $1.33 million last week.

A Prestonsburg City Councilman who was not re-elected in Tuesday's election filed Thursday for a canvass because of voting problems in the Cliff number two precinct. Dr. Gary Brown served notice to the Floyd County Board of Elections for a canvass of votes in the seven precincts in the city limits.

The director of the Floyd County Head Start program was elected to the Kentucky Head Start executive committee last month. Janie Bailey Smith was elected to serve on the committee during the October meeting in Owensboro.

A third suspect in a four-county theft ring was taken into custody Thursday by the Floyd County Sheriff's Department. Harold Brown, 19, of Prestonsburg, was charged with burglary and theft by unlawful taking. Brown is a suspect in a theft ring being investigated by the sheriff's department and the Kentucky State Police. A House-Senate conference report containing $596 million for education programs serving needy areas passed the House of Representatives Wednesday. Concentration grants, a formula created by Congressman Chris Perkins that funnels federal dollars to school districts with the highest concentration of low income families, received the funds.

There died Dudley Jack Martin, 67, of Price, October 31, at the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington. Ernie James Mitchell, 44, of Grethel, Monday, at his residence. Myrtle M. gia; Millie Jane Mullins, 78, October 3, at Morgan County A.R.H. in West Liberty; Leonard Ousley, 85, of Silver Lake, Ind., formerly of Floyd County, Saturday, in Dukess Memorial Hospital in Peru, Ind.; Wanda Bray Cobb, 64, of Emma, November 1, at her residence; Robert Ellis Samons, 88, of Martin, Friday, in the Riverview Manor Nursing Home; Don Columbus Patton, 43, of Allen, Saturday, at Hunter, from injuries sustained in an automobile accident; Ivory Mae Stratton, 86, of Stanville, Sunday, at the Highlands Regional Medical Center; Luther Wicker, 66, of Lima, Oh., Tuesday, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital; Sallie Conley, 96, of Ivel, Thursday, at her residence; Benjamin Fred Sackett, 79, of Bristol, Tenn., Thursday, at his home; Mary Nancy Daniels, 64, of Prestonsburg, Monday, at her residence; Ballard Whitaker, 76, Sunday, at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington; Jerome Cade, 62, of North Highland, Ca., Friday, at his residence.

In last Tuesday's election of the governorship, Wendell Ford, Democrat, defeated Tom Emberton, Republican, by almost 60,000 votes and swept into office the entire Democratic ticket.

The new board of directors of Comprehensive Health Care Inc., which has the task of formulating a new program for Floyd County, held its first meeting Friday.

A cash register at Jerry's Restaurant here was looted last Thursday night of $100—the same amount taken in the first break into the restaurant three weeks earlier.

The uncertainties of the president's wage and price control program may have prevented the Floyd County Board of Education from receiving a bid on construction of a 12-room school building and two smaller construction projects last week.

It was the first time the board had ever failed to receive at least one bid on such projects.

Pack 146, Boy Scouts of America, was organized October 27, at Wheelwright.

The campaign for votes reached the long trail's end Tuesday, and early that night the voting machine results showed a whopping victory for the entire Democratic ticket in heavily Democratic Floyd County.

Voters in two Floyd towns wrote in names of four candidates for municipal office often enough, Tuesday, to elect them.

City Attorney Joe Hobson said this week that the I. Richmond estate will make available to the people of Prestonsburg the old Colonial mine here as a community fallout shelter.

Location of the proposed postal center at Martin will be on Main Street, south of the new First Guaranty Bank building, it was announced last week by Congressman Carl D. Perkins.

The former Adams & George Hardware here recently came under new management of Lloyd Crum, of Allen.

There died: William M. Greenwade, 82, former Cliff postmaster, last Thursday at his home at Cliff; William Thomas Cartmell, 78, of Emma, last Thursday, at Our Lady of the Way Hospital; Martin Elizabeth Hayes, 70, of Martin, Monday, at the McDowell Memorial Hospital; Della Akers, 34, formerly of Dana, Friday, at her home in Vermillion, O.; Maggie Howell, 62, of Hueysville, Monday, at the Beaver Valley Hospital, Martin.

Solar

energy consumption, we are also looking for ways to further reduce our impact upon the environment. We believe the generation of energy from renewable sources, such as solar is a great place to start.

The company's first solar panel project is a medium scale solar array, which will require the installation of 221 photovoltaic panels on the store's roof top. The unit is a 51.9 kilowatt solar system with an anticipated energy production of around 63,074 kWh per year, making it the largest solar array in the Johnson City Power Board operating area.

"We have received approvals from the TVA and plan to begin work on solar panel installation soon," adds Smith. "We anticipate commissioning of the system in December of this year."

Over a 25-year period, the company anticipates that the unit will result in a reduction of 3,911,700 pounds of carbon dioxide (the leading greenhouse gas), 10,200 pounds of nitrous oxide (causes smog and adverse health effects) and 20,400 pounds of sulfur dioxide (causes acid rain), which is the equivalent of taking 255 cars off the road or planting 383 acres of trees.

Headquartered in Abingdon, Virginia, KVA-T Food Stores operates 105 retail food outlets throughout the tri-state regions of Southeast Kentucky, Southwest Virginia and Northeast Tennessee.

Construction will begin immediately on a central lodge and dining hall for the new Boy Scout camp on Dewey Lake.

It was announced this week that an option has been taken on a tract of land at the mouth of Doty Creek, near McDowell, as a possible site for a hospital planned by the UMWA.

With snow on the ground last Sunday, Dewey Lake had the fewest number of visitors since the earliest thaws last spring, but Roy Moore, reservoir manager, said he is hopeful that the total number of visitors this year will reach or exceed the half-million mark.

There died: Clark Clemmons, 59, of Hunter, in a slatefall in the Kathryn Elkhorn mine at Drift; Commodore Cole, 43, of Drift, victim of a heart attack; James Nunneery, 86, lifelong resident of Johns Creek section; Alex Jarrell, 78, victim of a heart attack near his home on Cow Creek.

If heart rhythm problems — flutter, skipping, irregular beats or racing — are keeping you from your duties, you really should see a specialist.

King's Daughters electrophysiologists are the experts when it comes to the rhythms of the heart. They have extensive backgrounds in treating all types of cardiac rhythm problems, offer medical management and interventional procedures, graduated from top programs in the country and are board certified or board eligible.

There are effective treatments — but it takes a specialist to know what's right for you.
