House fire kills 2 in Garrett

by Jack Latta
STAFF WRITER
PRESTONSBURG — A fire in a two-story house on Front Street in Garrett Thursday killed two people early Thursday.

According to Terry Triplett, assistant chief of the Garrett Fire Department, his unit was dispatched just before 1 a.m. to a single-story structure fire on Front Street in Garrett. Triplett says that upon arriving at the scene, he was notified by a man that his brother and mother were in the home.

"We found one victim just inside the front door," said Triplett, adding that the other victim, a female, was found later in what appeared to be a bedroom. Triplett said the fire began in that bedroom.

According to Triplett, it took nearly three hours to completely put the flames out and allow investigators into the structure to begin their investigation. The cause of the fire is being investigated by the Kentucky State Police and the Kentucky Fire Marshall's office.

Triplett estimated that eight trucks, and 35 men from four different volunteer agencies were on scene to help extinguish the blaze. Garrett Volunteer Fire Department was assisted at the scene by Maytown Volunteer Fire Department, Left Beaver Volunteer Fire Department and South East Volunteer Fire Department.

The names of the victims have not yet been released, and according to the Floyd County Coroner's Office, one of the victims will have to be sent to Frankfort for identification. The victims were described as an 87-year-old woman and her 63-year-old son.

Kidney disease focus of health fair at HRMC

by Jack Latta
STAFF WRITER
PRESTONSBURG — A health fair and lecture for patients with chronic kidney disease was held Wednesday afternoon at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

The lecture, which was presented by Dr. Sujatha Reddy, a specialist in nephrology, or study of the kidneys, focused on patients with chronic kidney disease (CKD) and how they can improve their quality of life.

According to Reddy, CKD is a term used all over the world to "say what kind of problem patients are having when they have certain amount of kidney failure." Reddy says chronic kidney disease is most simply defined as having less than 60 percent of kidney function for three months or longer.

During Wednesday's health fair, Reddy says she was trying to make patients more aware of their disease.

Reddy says she is trying "to make patients aware of what risk groups get into kidney disease, what they need to be aware of, and what kind of health screenings they need to have every year, to see if they are developing any problems with their kidneys." Reddy also provided information on when patients should begin to consult with a nephrologist.

According to Reddy, there are five stages of chronic kidney disease, with stage one being relatively mild and stage five being end stage, where dialysis or a kidney transplant are needed.

Dialysis is a process whereby blood is transported out of the body and cleaned of most impurities before being returned to the body, replacing the function of an otherwise healthy kidney.

One of the topics discussed during the conference was the use of home dialysis machines. The Home Hemodialysis machine is one that allows patients to forgo costly hospital visits in favor of receiving their dialysis treatments at home.

Friends of Middle Creek honor 2 for Veterans Day

by Floyd Davis
CONTRIBUTING WRITER
"Thinning leaves rustled in the afternoon sunshine as The Col. A. J. May Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans; The Friends of Middle Creek; and The Appalachian Home Guard joined to honor two of Floyd County's Civil War Veterans this past Sunday.

The first honoree was Ephriam Hatcher, an African-American slave born on the Hatcher plantation near Harold. He followed his owner to war and ended up joining the Confederate Army before war's end. A confederate monument was set to honor his service.

Hatcher's obituary was summarized by Sam Hatcher, SCV Commander and descendant of the Hatcher Family as follows:

"Ephriam Hatcher, an

Afro-American, served in the 10 KY Calvary Confederate States Army. He was the former slave of Christina Hatcher at Harold. He served with Christina's son Anthony Hatcher. He was captured at Cyndiana. I thought that this was the end of Ephriam. However, upon reviewing the 1870 federal census, Ephriam is

Legislative Issues available

TIMES STAFF REPORT
FRANKFORT — A book containing issue briefs on topics likely to confront lawmakers during the Kentucky General Assembly's 2012 session is now available in print and online.

"Issues Confronting the 2012 Kentucky General Assembly" contains 47 issue briefs prepared by members of the Legislative Research Commission staff. The book is not meant as an exhaustive list of issues that lawmakers will consider, but reflects a balanced look at some of the main topics that have been discussed in legislative committee meetings.

The publication can be viewed online at: <http://www.lrc.ky.gov/lrcpubs/IB236.pdf>

Printed copies can also be picked up at the LRC Publications Office in the State Capitol.

The Kentucky General Assembly's 2012 session begins on Jan. 3 and is scheduled to adjourn on April 9.

Sherri Irene Hammel

Sherri Irene Hammel, 47, of 1640 Monroe Street was surrounded by her loving family when she passed away Monday. Sherri was born Dec. 3, 1963, the daughter of the late Harold and Ruby Abrams Tackett. Growing up, she shared her childhood with two sisters, Barb and Terri, and a brother, Harold. Sherri was a proud graduate of McDowell High School and later attended Pikeville College and Morehead State University.

On August 31, 1995, Sherri married the love of her life and best friend, Michael David Hammel, on the southeast shores of Lake Manito. Together, they shared 16 years of life's adventures. With an extraordinary knowledge of movies, avid movie buffs remember Sherri, who shared her expertise while working at the Movie Gallery and Blockbuster. When friends and customers would inquire for the perfect form of entertainment, it was Sherri who could make recommendations and suggested fitting them with the perfect movie, as she was always on the cutting edge.

An avid mushroom hunter, each spring would take her to the woods, private locales, to hunt the treasured morsel. An acclaimed poet, Sherri enjoyed expressing herself in written form.

She was recognized for her efforts with a variety of awards. Sherri enjoyed all types of music and Scoobie Doo was her favorite movie character. She loved her two fur babies Coco the Pomeranian-Chihuahua blend and Dakota her loving rat terrier.

Sherri is lovingly remembered by her husband, Mike, at home; a daughter, Brittany Newell, of Bloomington; a son Blayne Hammel, of Bloomington; three sisters, Barb Jones and husband John, of Ashland, Terri Murphy and husband, Beati, of Atlanta, Loretta Blessing and husband, Tom, of Elkhardt; three brothers, Harold Tackett and wife, Ruth Ann, of Prestonsburg, Jon Hammel and wife, Teresa, and Bill Hammel; her mother-in-law and father-in-law, Lois and Hal Hammel; Uncle Ivan and Aunt Carolyn Abrams; and numerous cousins, including special cousins Rhonda Abbott and husband Todd, all of Rochester. She also leaves behind her grandparents, Coco and Dakota.

A celebration of the life of Sherri Irene Hammel and a visitation for the family were held at the Little Rosa Church. She was laid to eternal rest at the Little Rosa Church on the family plot in the Morgan Hall Cemetery, at McDowell.

Roger Slone

Roger Slone, 60, of Blue River, died Tuesday, Nov. 8, 2011, at his residence. He was born Feb. 3, 1951, to the late Henry and Clara Goble Slone. He was the husband of Connie Brown Slone, a disabled EMT and member of the National Guard.

He was preceded in death by two sons, Tommy Lee Slone and Roger Dale Slone, and two brothers, Henry Slone Jr. and Stoney Lee "Red" Slone; and one sister, Norma Blair.

He is survived by two sons, Chester (Sally) Slone and Chris Slone, of Buckeye; two daughters, Angel (James) Stephens, of McDowell, and Kay (Robert) Webb, of Louisville; two brothers, William Slone, of Banner, and Steve Slone, of Prestonsburg; four sisters, Rebecca Clark, of Buckeye; two daughters, Patricia Ann Burke, all of Prestonsburg, and Mary Jane McCoy, of Buckeye; and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at noon, Friday, Nov. 11, at Nelson Frazier Funeral Home, with Kenneth Prater and Ellis Stevens officiating. Burial will follow the service at Stone Cemetery in Buckeye.

On behalf of the Carlos R. Conley family, we want to thank you for your kind words, thoughtfulness, and support during this difficult time.

Thank you for caring and sharing in our loss.

Beshear gets easy victory; Republican wins ag race

Hollenbach survives scare; Democrats take five races

By Ralph Davis
MAJORITY EDITOR
Gov. Steve Beshear coasted to a second term, Tuesday, fending off challenges from a Republican legislative leader and a popular independent to gain re-election.

With all precincts reporting Tuesday night, Beshear tallied 55 percent of the vote, to easily hold his two rivals at bay. Beshear accumulated 464,635 votes, compared to 295,434 for Republican Senate President David Williams. Independent Gatewood Galbraith ran a distant third, with 74,923.

Voters did not appear highly interested in Tuesday's election of constitutional officers. Only 28.6 percent of voters went to the polls.

With six statewide races on the ballot, Democrats enjoyed comfortable wins in most, but there were some exceptions.

In the most notable result of the night, Democrat Robert "Bob" Farmer was soundly defeated by Republican James R. Comer, by nearly a 2-to-1 margin. Comer received 520,708 votes, compared to 294,989 for Farmer.

Farmer was likely undone by video of him engaged in a standup comedy routine, early in the campaign. In the video, Farmer was shown telling jokes which many felt ridiculed Eastern Kentucky.

Democrats also had a scare in the state treasurer's race, in which incumbent L.J. "Todd" Hollenbach narrowly fended off two challengers to secure a second term. Hollenbach won a plurality of the vote, 48.7 percent, to defeat Republican K.C. Crossbie, a Lexington councilwoman, who tallied 46.7 percent, and Libertarian Kenneth C. McCallman Jr., who pulled 4.6 percent.

In the remaining three races, Democrats won by comfortable margins, ranging from 10 to 20 percent.

The remaining races had the following results:

- Secretary of state, Alison Lundergan Grimes, Democrat, 494,811 votes, 60.6 percent
- Bill Johnson, Republican, 322,377 votes, 39.4 percent
- Attorney general, Jack Conway, incumbent Democrat, 450,079 votes, 55 percent
- Todd P'Pool, Republican, 368,973 votes, 45 percent
- Auditor of public accounts, Adam H. Edelen, Democrat, 440,689 votes, 55.7 percent
- John T. Kemper III, Republican, 350,717 votes, 44.3 percent

Adams to have art show at college

By Jennifer Bailey
PUBLIC RELATIONS ASSISTANT
BIG SANDY COMMUNITY AND TECHNICAL COLLEGE PRESTONSBURG

Big Sandy Community and Technical College will feature award winning artist Doug Adams this month in their Art Gallery.

The Doug Adams Art Show will be on display through Nov. 15.

Here in this quiet and remote area, an intense wonderment in the beauty of nature was felt early in the artistic and personal development of Doug Adams. These early exposures are realized in his beautiful watercolor paintings, drawings, and sculpture.

"The rugged mountains, dark hollows, and clear mountain streams of Eastern Kentucky gave me my earliest "visual education," says Adams.

A master artist and watercolorist with more than 30 years experience, Doug developed early on the technical control of watercolor that allows those fleeting moments in nature to spring to life in an explosion of color and shape.

Doug Adams has worked with internationally known authors, Jesse Stuart and James Still. A series of five paintings inspired by the distinguished author, Jesse Stuart work, Kentucky Is My Land, include The Last Leave Home, Flower Gatherer, by Sandy Waters, Jesse Stuart Home, and Needles Eye.

Doug has exhibited and won awards in numerous exhibitions both regionally and nationally. His work is highly sought after by collectors, and hangs in many private and public collections across the nation, some of which include Morehead State University where he served as a full time instructor of art for 15 years.

Several of Doug's works currently hang in major private collections such as that of Art Collector and Gallery Owner, Doctor John Pellegrini of Whitesburg, Kentucky. Doug has exhibited his work at many prestigious venues including George Washington University and Speed Museum.

He has served as president of the Kentucky Art Education Association and has received many prestigious awards during his career, including a Residency in Rural and Arts Award from East Kentucky Leadership Foundation for Outstanding Contribution To The Advancement Of Arts

And Cultural in Eastern Kentucky.

Doug has always held a love and appreciation for nature and wild life. Always at home in the presence of nature much of his work depicts the harmony found in nature and wildlife. Doug has been awarded Wildlife Conservationist of the Year by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife for his ongoing efforts to help provide supportive habitats for wildlife.

The Big Sandy Community and Technical college Gallery is open Friday through Thursday, 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. and from 9 a.m. until noon Fridays. For more information about the Marge Fulton show or upcoming exhibitions please contact, Tim Sizemore at (606) 886- 3597 ext. 64746 or email timothy.sizemore@kctcs.edu.

University of Pikeville crowns first-ever Miss UPIKE

PIKEVILLE — As a member of the Bears' cross country team, Katelyn Minix ran her best time ever during a meet on Saturday morning. Her winning streak continued into the evening as Minix was crowned Miss UPIKE in the University of Pikeville's first scholarship pageant.

Minix will represent the University during the 2012 Miss Kentucky America Pageant in Lexington, on July 12-14. A nursing and psychology major, she is the daughter of Dale and Jackie Minix, of Salyersville.

Minix chose "Bone Marrow Donation Education and Awareness" as her pageant platform. It is an issue that is dear to her heart and a message she will share in the community over the next year.

After losing a family member to leukemia two years ago, Minix longed for a way to help others but wasn't sure how one person could make an impact. The Miss UPIKE pageant provided the opportunity she was looking for.

Asked about her interest in the Miss UPIKE pageant Minix said, "I did this in honor of my cousin, Justin Brown. He was special and like a brother to me. I want to keep his spirit alive so he is not forgotten. It is also important to me to help others by promoting awareness."

"Katelyn is a great representative of UPIKE and exactly the kind of young woman, student and community member the Miss Kentucky Program celebrates and rewards," said Katina Justice, executive director of the Miss University of Pikeville pageant. "She is a dedicated student-athlete with a passion for her personal platform."

The newly crowned Miss UPIKE received a $2,500 in-kind scholarship from the University of Pikeville, cash scholarship from the Miss America Program, gift cards from the UPIKE Bookstore/Barnes and Noble, Unique Boutique and Miss Priss, jewelry box from Helner's Jewelers and one-year membership at the Pikeville Area YMCA.

Hanna McIntosh, of Phelps, was named first runner-up in the pageant. A communication major, McIntosh's platform was "Diabetes Prevention, Education and Awareness." She is the daughter of James McIntosh and Lillie Dotson.

Kelly Kilburn, of Hazard, was named second runner-up. A biology major, Kilburn's platform was "Bullying Prevention: Commit to Prevent." She is the daughter of Allen and Nancy Kilburn.

Additional contestants included Cassie Robinson and Alexandria Allen Robinson is a criminal justice major from Lovely. Her platform was "Destiny's Hope." She is the daughter of Tim and Blanche Robinson.

An education major from Oil Springs, Allen's platform was the "Appalachian Pregnancy Care Center: Small Change Makes a Big Difference." She is the daughter of Dexter and Janie Allen.

The Miss University of Pikeville pageant hosted a distinguished panel of judges from across the state.

Angela Baldwin is a certified personal trainer, nutrition coach and childhood obesity specialist. She has been involved in pageantry for more than 30 years as a contestant, judge, director and more recently as a pageant mom.

Prudie Thomas is a co-director of the Miss Cumberland Falls and Miss Southeast Kentucky Scholarship Pageants. She has served as the general chairperson, member of the Board of Directors and the Advisory Board of the Kentucky Mountain Laurel Festival.

David Braun is the pastor of Willard Church of Christ and teaches at Kentucky Christian University. Braun volunteers his time as a pageant interview coach.

Kimberly Brown is an assistant professor of education, chair of undergraduate education and director of the master's degree in teaching alternative certification program at the University of the Cumberland in Williamsburg, Ky. She has been involved in pageantry for more than two decades.

Whitney Bowles-Trowbridge graduated from the Youth Performing Arts School in Louisville and has more than 20 years of dance, acting and singing training experience. She was Miss Kentucky 2000 and was fourth runner-up to Miss America and a Preliminary Swimsuit winner.

Television and radio personality Jill Fraley of Pikeville hosted the competition. Fraley is a former Miss Sandy Valley, Miss Heart of Kentucky, Miss Morehead State and Miss Shelby County.

for the conference says that he has been using the Home Hemodialysis machine now for six months and is very happy with the results.

"It's going excellent," said Scheurmann, "I feel better. I don't have a lot of downtime where I feel sick, and have to relax and recover for hours."

Scheurmann says he has been on dialysis for more than 15 years, and that if it had been available, he would have done the home dialysis all along.

Reddy says dialysis or kidney transplants can be postponed or avoided altogether if patients take a proactive approach to their kidney ailments early on.

Reddy says many cultural factors play into kidney disease and Kentucky ranks high in many of the categories, including poor diet and overall obesity.

According to the Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services, 1-in-10 adult Kentuckians have been diagnosed with diabetes. In 1995, that number was only 1-in-25. It is estimated that as many as 1-in-40 Kentucky adults have diabetes but have not been diagnosed, leaving them at risk for serious complications. Forty percent of Kentuckians age 40-74 have pre-diabetes and are at very high risk for developing the disease.

Reddy says that working with doctors to make changes early on can potentially head off the progression to stage five kidney disease.

"Kidney disease does exist, it causes mortality, morbidity, and you can progress to end stage and end up on dialysis transplant, and you will have less lifespan," said Reddy. "But if you know you have these diseases that can cause kidney disease in the long run, you are better off partnering, not only with your primary doctor, but also a nephrologist in controlling all these things, and preventing the progression of kidney disease."

Guest View Never Forget: Show your appreciation to veterans for protecting our freedom

by Sen. Ray S. Jones II

A few years ago, one of the last survivors of World War I was asked how he would like to be remembered. The veteran, who died in 2009 in Great Britain, remained humble throughout his life. His reply was simply: "I want to be forgotten, remember the others."

Those sound like the words of a true soldier — always putting others before himself, always sacrificing so we don't have to. Don't worry about me, he says, but remember the others.

That is the reason we must pay tribute on Friday to the 42 million men and women who have worn this country's uniform over the last two-plus centuries. We must remember them and the sacrifices they have made. Without them, our way of life would not be possible. The opportunities we take for granted, the rights that we expect each and every day, the security we have come to expect these were all paid for by those 42 million men and women. They came forward to serve so we would not have to. They are the proof that freedom is never free.

The first Veterans Day celebration was held in 1919 on the one-year anniversary of the end of World War I.

Veterans Day, as we know it, became official in 1954. It is a day that unites us, and it is a day that offers us a chance to give something back to those who served.

It also gives us another opportunity to learn more than just the dates and places of various battles and wars. In honoring our veterans, it is very important that we do not remove their humanity from history.

We need to hear their stories, so that we have a better understanding and a deeper appreciation of what they did.

We do not ever need to take for granted the men and women serving in our military or our veterans.

Kentuckians are well aware of these things, because we have long had such a strong military presence with Fort Campbell, Fort Knox, and the 345,000 veterans who live here.

I am proud that the state has worked hard over the years to help those who have served or served our veterans and their families may face because of their service.

I am very proud of our veterans, including my own father, Ray Jones, a USMC vet who fought in Vietnam. When our veterans were called upon, they stepped forward and made a difference. They put this country's needs ahead of their own. Our challenge is for a day when everyone can enjoy true peace, but until that day comes, it is good to know that there are courageous men and women who continue to serve on the front line to protect our freedoms.

The simple truth is that our way of life would not be possible without our men and women in uniform.

They were and they are the foundation on which everything else rests. We can never fully repay them, but fortunately, they only ask of us one thing: To never forget.

Let each of us will take the time this week to show our appreciation to a veteran. A simple "thank you" and a handshake will go a long way in letting them know how much their service means.

Calvin Coolidge once said, "A nation that forgets its defenders will itself be forgotten."

Americans must never forget its veterans. Let us show the world that in America our brave defenders will never be forgotten.

Happy Veterans Day and God bless America.

Beyond the Beltway

A primer on wealth and taxes

by Donald Kaul
OTHERWORDS

In response to my now famous "the-class-war-is-over-the-rich-guyson" column, a gentleman from Kentucky writes a rather snarky letter posing several piercing questions that I will now answer.

Q: How much do we have to make to be "rich"?

A: There's no set number for richness. Generally, 250 grand a year is a good wage, but if you have four kids who expect to go to good college, you are a long way from rich. If you're single making the same wage, you at least have no trouble seeing rich from where you stand.

If, on the other hand, your kids have escaped college and you live in a nice house and have a nice second house (and a boat) at a vacation retreat, and you belong to one of the better country clubs in town, and head waters at the best restaurants know your name, you're probably rich.

If a politician wants to have their picture taken with you, rather than the other way round, you are definitely rich.

Q: What percentage of the nation's revenue should the "rich" pay: 50 percent, 60, 95?

A: That too is an impossible figure to quantify. Where do corporations fit in your tax world? Should they be taxed too or should they, like GE last year, get off scot-free?

If you filter out all the tax breaks, unwarranted deductions, and subsidies available to the rich and corporate (the courts tell us that corporations are people too, you know), you'd have some idea of what aggregate income is in this country and could start allocating taxes justly. Right now we're flying blind.

Q: At what income level should people begin to contribute through taxation?

This question assumes that poor people who don't pay income taxes are untaxed. They aren't. They pay Social Security taxes, gas taxes, property taxes (either directly or indirectly), and sales taxes.

They are exempted from income taxes because they have so little income. That's why they call them "poor." If I give you this, though: they don't pay many luxury taxes.

Q: How many "poor" people have ever hired someone or given someone a job?

A: All of them. Every time they buy a bottle of milk, or purchase a lottery ticket for that matter, they contribute to the economy. When enough of them do it, somebody gets hired.

(I'd be grateful if the Kentucky gentleman could point out a corporation that is "giving" people jobs. I thought people earned jobs.)

Q: Name a corporation/business that doesn't factor taxes into the cost of doing business and therefore into what the public (including the poor) pays for their product or service.

A: They all try to, but it's harder than you think. Pricing is as much art as science; failure to master it is one of the chief factors that send young, promising firms into bankruptcy.

Generally speaking, corporations charge as much as they think they can get away with. There's some play in that number of course, and when taxes or labor costs or the costs of materials rise, they try to raise prices accordingly. Sometimes it works, sometimes it doesn't.

But believe this, if a corporation can make a widget for $10 and sell it for $20, it will. And if it finds that it can sell that same widget for $100, it will do that too, regardless of taxes. It's called capitalism.

The issue that underlies these questions is the fairness of progressive taxation: making richer people pay more of their income in taxes than poorer people do.

I think it fair, particularly in difficult waters, to ask the strongest in the boat to dip their oars a little deeper, to do more than their share in the interest of group survival.

It's not fair to ask sacrifices only from those least able to afford it simply because they have the least political power.

Oh, and if you have any more questions, please send them to George Will. You'll like his answers better.

The Usual Eccentric

It's open season on subterranean spiders

by Will E. Sanders
CREATORS SYNDICATE

I cleaned out my basement this week, which is alarming because it's scary down there and mostly filled with spiders. Even if spiders don't scare you, the spider content per cubic yard in my basement is remarkably off the charts and sure to frighten the likes of overly aggressive boyfriends the world over.

Once, I caught a documentary on some biologist dumbly who lived in a house filled with spiders of all shapes and sizes. They were everywhere, clinging to the walls, crawling on the countertops and even tiptoeing across the toast. It was creepy because this dude actually had a wife and three kids. You could just tell the wife wanted to blow her husband's head off, or possibly her own.

So maybe not to those people, but my basement would give the heebie-jeebies to just about anyone else. It's like Spiders Gone Wild down there.

Female spiders are showing their egg sacks to all the drunken male spiders who throw miniature bead necklaces and everything. And I hate it when they've been drinking. Those spiders have developed a rather impressive criminal enterprise down there.

Some of the spiders in my basement are huge. It's not uncommon for me to catch them in mousetraps. Which is why, in preparation for spider Armageddon, I bought some of that heavy-duty spider killing stuff they have in the I-need-to-kill-stuff-now aisle at Walmart. It turned out to be pretty effective at thinning the herd, but then came the second wave!

But after a while — especially in an unventilated, subterranean, spider-saturated basement — your mind can wander, on account of the chemicals found in many of today's insect killers. A few lungfuls worth of the spider-killing agent Bifenthrin, and the world grows fuzzy and your mind starts playing tricks on you. The task of spider killing becomes three times as terrifying once the hallucinations kick in.

It does, however, make me feel fortunate. Hunting spiders in my basement is as close as I will get to going on safari. I guess it's like a spider safari of sorts, and adding to the ambience of it all is a pile of a dozen or so discarded Christmas trees mysteriously acquired over a decade, each one more spider-filled than the next.

I don't mind killing spiders because they lack souls. Plus, I just don't trust them. I mean, if, through some miraculous act of evolution (or radiation), spiders grew as large as humans, the world as we know it would be finished. Just trust me on this, OK?

For those do-it-yourselfers out there, I recommend long denim jeans (tucked into socks to prevent spider sneak attacks), a sturdy pair of spider-squashing sneakers and a long-sleeved flannel shirt. Headgear is highly recommended, but not entirely necessary. I wore a wool ski mask and racquetball goggles, but that's just me. Preparing for spider apocalypse may or may not require thinking off the cuff, so go nuts.

I don't have one of those finished basements like the people two tax back-ets above me do. My basement is the pits; you dig? It's a subterranean nightmare, complete with a cement floor covered in garden slugs. During the months of April through September, it looks like the snake pit scene from "Indiana Jones and the Raiders of the Lost Ark" down there.

The basement is dangerous to begin with, and every time I walk down the stairs, I feel like I should take a caged canary with me just like they did in the olden days.

For the sake of theatrics, I could even carry a clanky old oil lantern and spout turn-of-the-19th century remarks, beginning every sentence with the phrase, "Well, I reckon ought to..."

Unfortunately, when one is whetting his beak in spider genocide, one must deal with the unpleasant scenario of a spider actually getting on him. If such a scenario arises, conventional wisdom dictates that the victim whistles spasm and thrash his body about whilst emitting a high-pitched series of screams.

So I considered a kingdom of spiders when this happens so that you can frantically shriek, "Are there any spiders on me?" over and over. My girlfriend, Christine, worked well for me, but absolutely anyone will do.

So I conquered a kingdom of spiders with sacrificing only my masculinity and a vast majority of my brain cells.

Well, I reckon I ought to do something about those slugs next. To contact Will E. Sanders, visit his website at willesanders.com, or send him an email at wille@willesanders.com.

Honor

found living in the household of Christina Hatcher, at Harold. A couple of his sons were also residing in the same household. It is believed he died around 1896. I believe he is buried at the Hatcher Cemetery located at Harold. I remember being told that several field stones located just outside of the Hatcher Cemetery were the graves of former slaves. I believe Ephriam was one of these.

The second honoree was Joel ("Little Joel") Allen, of Alpharetta, the son of one of Floyd County's pioneering families. Mr. Allen's Obituary was read by Bill May:

"Joel Allen was born in Kentucky circa 1843. His parents were Felix and Rhoda (Martin) Allen and, as of 1860, he had three brothers, George, James and John, and two sisters, Maranda and Rebecca. His nearest neighbor, also named Joel Allen, was 28 years of age and almost certainly a near relative ... Probably an uncle. It is the author's opinion that both Joel Allens enlisted in Ben Caudill's Company A, 13th Cavalry simultaneously, making it nearly impossible to separate their records. Their payroll muster cards list their names as Sr. and Jr., which though not strictly correct, is probably how the company clerk kept them separate. Community records refer to him as "Little Joel Allen," suggesting that this is how his contemporaries achieved the separation. He was apparently born on Beaver Creek in Floyd County, near the Alpharetta community where he lived most of his life."

"He enlisted in the Confederate 13th Cavalry on Oct. 14, 1862, at the mouth of Salt Lick Branch of Beaver, a route into Pound Gap, Va., via Whitesburg known as the Rebel Trace, explaining why and how he ended up in a unit commanded by a Letcher County Native. His term of enlistment (three years) would have run though the duration of the war. Federal records indicate that the 13th Cavalry was merged into several different units during the course of the war, including Company F, 13th Ky Regiment; Caudill's Infantry, Kentucky Infantry; 10th Regiment Ky Infantry; 10th Regiment Ky Mounted Rifles. As a member of these units, Mr. Allen served in many engagements and may have ridden with Morgan's Men on their final raid into Kentucky, culminating in the Second Battle of Cynthia in 1864.

"Little Joel Allen returned to Alpharetta after the war and (with the exception of a short stay in Greenup County) lived there his entire life. He was married to Arty (Armintha) Patton, on either 11-30- or 12-5/1869. He fathered eight children by this union: Jerry, Samuel, Felix, Martin, John, Jack, James, and Armintha before Arty's death. His second marriage was to Cynthia Patton in 1893. Eight children were also born to this union. Tavis, Joe, Charles, Buck, Eliza, Virgie, Madge, and Grace.

"He died in 1922 and is buried on the Thomas G. May Cemetery at Dinwood, his old home place, in the shade of a great oak which has grown near his grave. His children were known as substantial citizens and were employed in government, business, religion, and the infant natural gas and carbon-black industries of Floyd County. Joel's Family enjoys many connections to members of the Friends of Middle Creek and the Appalachian Home Guard by both blood and marriage. The Friends of Middle Creek extend their appreciation to these soldiers of another time as well, as to those who took the time and trouble to honor their memory this Veterans Day.

Lizzie B's a unique addition to East Ky.'s restaurant landscape

by Don Fields
PRESTONSBURG — A new and unique restaurant has opened in Prestonsburg, but as soon as you step through the double swinging wood doors, you will swear you are not in Kentucky, anymore.

The decor is a collage of antique southern American, Indonesian, Hawaiian, Australian, and of course a hint of Appalachian design, a mixture of styles you may never see anywhere else. Attention to detail was a priority for the owner and designer, Tim Branham, an Eastern Kentucky boy who has more than a few miles of international travel under his belt. Having surfed every major ocean on planet Earth, more than once, Tim has collected artifacts from all over the world, most of which can be seen, sat on, or eaten off of, at Lizzie B's Cafe Bakery. Along with chef Tommy Smith, expertise in cooking, baking and brewing are always on hand at Lizzie B's.

Located on Route 321, one mile north of Prestonsburg, at the entrance to Stonecrest, Lizzie B's (named after his daughter) is the most unusual, eclectic and unique eatery in the Appalachian foothills. Long before you have finished admiring the interior design, you will be looking at a menu like you have never seen. The selection includes sandwiches like the Happy Hippie, Hungry Hawaiian, The North Shore Teriyaki or simply Lizzie's BLT, with ingredients like sprouts, hummus, pesto, eggplant, zucchini, avocado and provolone, all served on house baked breads, with your choice of pan-baked turkey, chicken, meatballs or tuna salad, all pleasingly served with the usual accompaniments you would expect and more. Add a side salad, a bowl of soup, organic chips or protein chips to make a combo lunch you will not forget, but will leave you wanting to try every other item on the menu.

If pizza is more your style, look at the California Club, The Trifecta, or the Wiseguy, with toppings like oven roasted veggies, parsley, sprouts, squash, Pecorina Romano, provolone, or freshly grated feta cheese. All these toppings in addition to the usual favorites, along with fresh turkey, chicken, meatballs or authentically cooked chorizo, all served on a very low calorie pita crust or whole wheat Naan bread crust. It's unlikely you will see a familiar looking pizza delivered to a table while you are there, however, you can have any sandwich or pizza served just the way you want it.

Specialty pizzas and sandwiches are only half of what Lizzie B's Cafe Bakery is all about!

If you are a connoisseur of fine coffee, choose a cappuccino, latte, espresso, or the house special Vanilla Whip hot coffee, along with various flavored coffees made to suit your taste. Not in the mood for coffee? Ask for a freshly brewed agave lemonade or one of their smoothie specials blended with different combinations of fresh berries, including acai, all made with yogurt, natural peanut butter or even buckwheat, which may be the best smoothie you have never tried.

One look at the bakery counter and you will not resist a freshly baked specialty like the Beachcomber, or a more traditional oatmeal, chocolate chip, or peanut butter cookie, not to mention muffins, cinnamon rolls, pies, cakes and other confectionery treats as a desert or to go.

With this combination of coffees, smoothies and baked goods, 7 a.m. cannot come soon enough. Where else can you get a breakfast pizza that included eggs, bacon and sausage, with grilled veggies and sprouts? Or just ask for a more traditional sandwich made with your choice of ingredients. One thing is for sure — you will be coming back to Lizzie B's to sample all of the unusual and delightful combinations of soups, sandwiches, pizza, coffee, tea, smoothies, baked goods and more, not to mention several trips just to enjoy looking at the varied decor this establishment has brought to Eastern Kentucky.

Pikeville women pick up first win over Alice Lloyd

Whitney Belle Jackson

TIMES STAFF REPORT
PIPPA PASSES — Freshman Whitney Belle Jackson recorded her first double-double to lead the University of Pikeville to a 78-53 win over Alice Lloyd College Tuesday night.

Jackson, a freshman from Manchester, poured in 24 points on 10-of-15 shooting and pulled down 11 rebounds in only her second collegiate game. In addition, she dished out four assists in the win.

Pikeville had a 34-28 lead at the half but turned around 34.2 percent shooting by hitting on 59.3 percent of its second-half shots.

The hot hands led the Bears to a 44-25 scoring advantage in the second half to pick up the easy win.

Sophomore Brogan Conley followed Jackson with 16 markers, adding four rebounds, four assists and a pair of steals in 24 minutes.

Senior Megan Mosley had nine points, six assists and two rebounds.

Alice Lloyd (0-3) got 24 points from Ariel Nickell. She also compiled nine rebounds, three steals, three blocks and a pair of assists.

Betsy Layne product Taylor, Holt was 3-of-4 from the arc for 13 points and five rebounds.

UPIKE had 16 offensive rebounds on a night it enjoyed a 49-35 advantage on the glass. Alice Lloyd committed 19 turnovers while the Bears gave it up 15 times.

Pikeville will return to the floor on Monday, Nov. 14 when it visits Bluefield College for a 7 p.m. opening tip.

Wesley, Piarist to play in Preseason Showcase

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

LEXINGTON — A pair of boys' high school basketball teams from Floyd County will compete in the Kentucky Preseason Showcase presented by Bleid Sports on Sunday, Nov. 27 in Rupp Arena, home of the University of Kentucky Wildcats.

Wesley Christian High School and the Piarist School will both compete in the preseason event. Both squads will compete against teams from the 10th Region in games played back to back.

A first-year program, Wesley Christian is matched up against Augusta. Piarist will face Silver Grove.

Other scrimmages will feature the following boys' high school basketball teams: Model, Ludlow, Blue Ridge, LaLamere, University Heights, Nicholas County, Sayre and Western Hills.

The Preseason Showcase will feature one girls' high school basketball game (Tates Creek vs. Barbourville). Two middle school girls' basketball games are also a part of the schedule.

BLES captures Shag Campbell, Right Beaver Classic titles

TIMES STAFF REPORT
BETSY LAYNE — The Betsy Layne Elementary School K-5 boys' basketball team has already captured a pair of tournament titles.

On Saturday, Betsy Layne claimed the 2011 Right Beaver Classic championship. Betsy

Layne secured an early lead and pulled away in each matchup, never faltering en route to the title.

The Bobcats defeated RW Combs 33-9, bested May Valley 35-16 and pulled away to beat McDowell 46-13.

In the Shag Campbell Tournament, Betsy Layne cruised past Prestonsburg, 58-15 in the first round. Following the opening round win, Betsy Layne defeated Wesley Christian 31-8. Finishing strong, Betsy Layne won easily over Prestonsburg in the championship game, defeating the Blackcats 33-4.

Isaac Wilson has emerged as a leader for the Alice Lloyd College men's basketball team.

Eagles break down Crown

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

PIPPA PASSES — Sophomore Isaac Wilson and senior Brandon Hayes combined for 39 points to help lead the Alice Lloyd College Eagles to an 83-71 victory over the visiting Crown College Royal Crusaders Tuesday night.

With the win, ALC remained undefeated, moving to 4-0.

Crown College enjoyed an early advantage, leading Alice Lloyd, 24-16 with nine minutes expired from the first half scoreclock.

Then the Eagles heated up. Wilson and freshmen

Clint Stepp and Tyler Ailshie drained three-point baskets for the surging Eagles, Alice Lloyd went ahead 25-24 and never trailed again.

The Eagles led 40-34 at intermission. Hayes netted nine points for Alice Lloyd in the opening half.

In the second half, Wilson heated up, tossing in 14 points. Alice Lloyd extended its lead to 22 points and was never seriously threatened.

Wilson led all scorers with a game-high 21 points. He also tied Stepp for game-high assist honors. Wilson and Stepp dished out four assists each.

Hayes tossed in 18 points and pulled down a game-high nine rebounds for the Eagles. Junior Brent Hall flipped in nine points and sophomores Terry Muse and Shawn Thompson contributed eight each to help Alice Lloyd prevail.

Guard Nate Humphrey paced the Royal Crusaders (1-1) with 19 points.

Following a break, the Alice Lloyd College men's basketball team will visit Virginia Military Institute on Nov. 15. Tip-off for the ALC-VMI game is set for 7 p.m.

Top-ranked Bears move to 3-0 after win over KCU

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIKEVILLE — The University of Pikeville Bears shot 58 percent from the field and dominated the glass against a much smaller Kentucky Christian University team in a 94-41 win on Tuesday night.

Pikeville, 3-0 and ranked No. 1 in the nation in NAIA Div. I, put three players in double figures as 13 of the 15 in uniform scored. The Bears enjoyed a 49-30 advantage on the glass en route to their eighth straight win dating back to last March's national tournament.

A jump shot by Jared Ravenscroft cut the Bears' early lead to 16-5, but the Bears followed that with 19 unanswered points, ending with a three-point bucket by junior Trevor Setty to make it 35-5 with 7:14 to play.

The advantage was 51-26 at the break as the Bears hit 62.5 percent from the floor and cruised to the win.

Pikeville enjoyed 28 assists compared to only 10 turnovers and forced the Knights into 16 miscues with 11 steals.

Senior center Shane Burrell led UPIKE with 20 points and with eight rebounds. The Los Angeles native was 9-of-11 from the field in only 16 minutes of playing time. Senior Jamar Board nailed three three-point shots to follow with 13, while junior forward Chris Watson came off the bench with 11 markers and seven rebounds.

Kentucky Christian (0-2), which lost in the second round of the NCAA Div. I national tournament a year ago, got 21 of its 41 from Drew Johnson, who nailed 5-of-7 from the arc in the contest and led his team with four assists.

The Bears will host the Appalachian Wireless Classic this weekend. On Friday night, the 6 p.m. opener will see U.Va.-Wise take on Bluefield College, followed by the Bears playing Miami-Middletown, a team with wins over Mid-South Conference teams Campbellsville and Rio Grande already this season, at 8 p.m.

On Saturday, Wise will play Middletown at 6 followed by the Bears battling Bluefield in the nightcap.

UK football practice moved inside

TIMES STAFF REPORT
LEXINGTON — Several University of Kentucky football players, including tailback Raymond Sanders and wide receiver Matt Roark, returned to the practice fields on Wednesday after sitting out of practice earlier this week because of injuries.

Kentucky, which practiced indoors on Wednesday because of high winds and the threat of rain in the Lexington area, had two key parts of its defensive front also return to the practice fields in defensive linemen Mister Cobble and Dontie Rumph, while junior tightback/end Ridge Wilson did not practice on Wednesday. UK head coach Joker Phillips said having Cobble and Rumph emerge as starters this season has changed how teams have played UK.

"Those guys have changed the way people have tried to attack us now," Phillips said about the defensive front of Cobble and Rumph.

"Those guys are big (bodies) that hold the point of attack and get off blocks by using their hands and making plays for us. Those guys are really important for us."

"Ridge is important for us also because when that happens they usually bounce his way. He has done a good job of making plays, both he and Winston (Guy) on the perimeter."

Phillips said he is expecting a big crowd and for Vanderbilt to play with a lot of emotion on Saturday because that is what he has seen from the Commodores all season. The UK head coach said the Wildcats will need their fans to show up in Nashville as well.

"You watch them all year and they have played with a lot of emotions and had some big crowds," Phillips said. "We expect a big crowd and expect our people to come out also. There is still a lot for us out there to play for so we need our fans to show up..."

Phillips also said after practice that junior Gene McCaskill will return with punts on Saturday, while senior Mychal Bailey and freshman Ashley Lowery will return kickoffs. Greater Nashville UK

UK places three on Coaches Preseason All-SEC Teams

TIMES STAFF REPORT
LEXINGTON — The University of Kentucky men's basketball team had three players selected to the SEC Coaches Preseason All-SEC teams as announced by the SEC on Monday.

Terrence Jones was named a first-team member, while Doron Lamb and Darius Miller were both second-team selections.

Kentucky was one of four schools (Alabama, Florida, and Vanderbilt) to have three players selected. Thirty-two different players around the league received votes.

Jones was also a first-team selection by select SEC media and was the choice of the media for SEC Men's Basketball Player of the Year.

Lamb and Miller were both second team selections by the media as well.

Lamb was named to the 2011 Southeastern Conference All-Freshman Team by the league coaches and was also named Yahoo! Sports' National Sixth Man of the Year. He averaged 12.3 points while shooting an SEC-leading 48.6 percent from 3-point range.

Miller was named the 2011 SEC Tournament

MVP and is the lone four-year senior on the squad this year. Averaging 10.9 points and 4.6 rebounds per game last season, Miller is on pace to become the 58th player in school history to reach the 1,000 point milestone.

The Wildcats will officially open the 2011-12 season on Friday, hosting Marist. Tickets are still available by visiting the UK Ticket Office between the hours of 9:00-4:00 p.m. ET or by calling 1.800.928.2287. Fans can also obtain tickets by going online to UKAthletics.com and TicketMaster.com.

Pikeville teams fare well in Brunswick Southern

TIMES STAFF REPORT
PIKEVILLE — The University of Pikeville bowling teams finished second and sixth in their first Tier One tournament of the year.

The teams competed in the Brunswick Southern Collegiate Classic in Marietta, Ga., over the weekend. The women came in second for the second consecutive tournament while the men finished sixth.

Tier One tournaments are significant for the top teams in the country as they offer double points differentials for the power rankings. Only 10 tournaments in the country are considered Tier One events.

Morehead State won the men's draw with a 12-game total of 11,148.

They were followed by Webber International, Lindenwood, Florida State and Martin Methodist in the Top Five. Pikeville finished sixth with a total of 10,200.

Some 26 teams took part in the weekend tournament. Junior Mark Allen finished 10th in the individual draw with an average of 204.83. Three teammates joined him in the Top 100 of the event.

They were freshman Lucas Hohnstein and sophomore Jeff Blind with averages of 185.2 and sophomore John Bartosiewicz Jr., who averaged 187.2.

Lindenwood won the women's side with a finish of 10,650.

The Bears came in 180 shy to take second place in the 14-team field, followed by Webber International, Florida State and Bellarmine.

Senior Natasha Martin qualified for the all-tournament team and led four UPKE bowlers in the Top 10 with her average of 194.17, which was good for fourth place.

She was joined in the Top 10 by junior Brandy Hensley with a 190.67, senior Megan Kyle, who averaged 185.83 and senior Kim Yioulos with a 185.67. They finished eighth, ninth and 10th, respectively.

The University of Pikeville bowling teams will head back to Ohio this weekend where they will compete in the Raider Classic in Dayton.

Jude breaks career rushing record

TIMES STAFF REPORT
PAINTSVILLE — Johnson Central senior running back J.J. Jude broke Derek

Homer's 15-year-old state record for career rushing yards in the Golden Eagles' 66-20 win over

In statistics submitted to the KHSAA, Jude had rushed for 2,663 yards entering last Friday's Class 4A first-round playoff game, a career total less than 200 yards short of the mark of 2,224 set by Derek Homer of Fort Knox from 1993-96.

Jude finished with 441 rushing yards and six touchdowns against the Bulldogs, giving him 2,964 yards thus far this season along with 41 scores.

Jude's career mark currently stands at 8,539 yards. According to Johnson Central head football coach Jim Matney, totals from each game of Jude's career are being audited by Johnson Central coaches, statisticians and school officials to verify the record's accuracy and authenticity.

Jude, a two-time state wrestling champion, will have an opportunity to add to the record as Johnson Central faces Highlanders in a second-round playoff contest on Friday.

SPECIAL GUEST SPEAKER Charlotte Wethington "CASEY'S LAW"

Charlotte Wethington, mom of Casey, is an advocate for those suffering from the potentially fatal disease of addiction. After the untimely death of her own son, Casey Wethington, at age 23, Mrs. Wethington began her crusade to make it acceptable for parents and family members to be able to seek involuntary treatment for their loved ones suffering from addiction in a time when this was discouraged. Ultimately, Casey's Law was passed in 2004, allowing family members to petition the court for involuntary substance abuse treatment for their loved ones in hopes of saving lives.

Confederate soldier recognized for service

When brothers Mike and Bill May played cowboys and Indians with friends back in their youth, on the May Farm at Langley, they usually played around an old grave. They assumed it was the grave of an Indian. As time passed, they learned the grave was that of a Confederate soldier, who is buried on the site with his wife, Artie.

As years passed, Bill May began to learn information about this Confederate soldier, Joel Allen. He was born in Floyd County in 1843. His parents were Felix and Rhoda (Martin) Allen. As of 1860, he had three brothers, George, James and Reuben, and two sisters, Maranda and Rebecca. He was apparently born on Beaver Creek, near the Alpharetta community, where he lived most of his life.

His nearest neighbor was also named Joel Allen, and was probably an uncle. It is believed that both Joel Allens enlisted into Ben Caudill's Company A, 13th Kentucky Cavalry simultaneously, making it nearly impossible to keep their records separate. They payroll muster cards list their names as Sr. and Jr., which though not strictly correct, is probably how the company clerk kept them separate. Community records refer to him as "Little Joel Allen," suggesting that is how his contemporaries distinguished the two.

He enlisted in the Confederate 13th Cavalry on Oct. 14, 1862, at the mouth of Salt Lick Branch of Beaver, a route into Pound Gap, Va., via Whitesburg, known as the Rebel Trace, which explains how he ended up in a unit commanded by a Letcher County native. His term of enlistment (three years) would have run through the duration of the war.

Federal records indicate that the 13th Kentucky Cavalry was merged into several different units during the course of the war, including Company F, 13th Kentucky Regiment, Caudill's Infantry, Kentucky Infantry and the 10th Regiment of Mounted Rifles. As a member of these units, Allen served in many engagements and may have ridden with Gen. John M. Hunt Morgan's men on their final raid into Kentucky, culminating in the Second Battle of Cynthia, in 1864.

Little Joel Allen returned to Alpharetta after the war, and with the exception of a short stay in Greenup County, lived there his entire life. He was married to Artie (Armintha) Patton on either Nov. 30 or Dec. 5, 1869. He fathered six children by this union, Jerry, Samuel, Martin, John, Jack and Armintha, before Artie's death in 1874. His second marriage was to Cynthia Patton in 1893. Eight children were born to this union, Travis, Joe, Charles, Buck, Eliza, Virgie, Madge and Grace.

He died in 1922 — the same year Mike and Bill May's dad, Thomas C. May, was born. He is buried on a mountaintop, above the Thomas C. May Cemetery, at Langley, his old homeplace.

With this information, Mike and Bill May, with help from the Friends of Middle Creek and others, had a flag raising last weekend to recognize this soldier. Linda Elliott sang "Go Rest High on that Mountain" and Bill May sang "I Believe." The Friends of Middle Creek gave a 26-gun salute and played "Taps" as part of the ceremony.

Members of the Friends of Middle Creek who attended were Capt. Patrick Davis, Sgt. Michael Warren, Pvt. Bruce Ison (who played "Taps") and his wife Navajo, Pvt. John C. Ison (who shot the last shot of the salute) and his wife Regina, Pvt. Jacob Ison (the drummer), Pvt. Nicholas Sparks, Pvt. Dustin Burchett and Pvt. Samuel Hatcher.

Bill May said he felt it was important to honor the soldier for his service, particularly during the week of Veterans Day. He also thanked John C. Ison for his contributions.

A Viking warrior protects a young woman and her son from barbarians in this excellent remake of "Shane" from legendary Italian director Mario Bava. Bava is best known for his horror flicks, but he got his start doing special effects, before tackling adventure epics on his way to becoming a maestro of the macabre. Here, he manages to craft a decent action drama that pits a lone warrior against a band of buccaners.

The story begins with a young woman, Karin, seeking shelter for herself and her son, when a gang of warriors, led by the evil

Hagen, arrive looking to settle scores with her family. Turns out her husband, Arald, now missing and presumed dead, really infuriated these guys by winning over the village leader when he proposed peace with a neighboring kingdom, ruled by Rurik.

Taking care of frostbite

by Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Many years ago, when I was still a teen, I went skiing with my older brother. He was a much better skier than I, so we went out several times. I remember I saw a group huddling around one skier who looked a lot like my brother. It was my brother. He lost one of his gloves, and he had two frostbitten fingers. His only permanent damage was the loss of a fingertip. Ever since, I have been careful about dressing warm, often with two pair of gloves in cold weather. I don't know what to do about frostbite. Will you run the basics by me?

ANSWER: Frostbite happens when the temperature drops to 32 F (0 degrees C) or lower. Actually, the temperature has to be lower than 32, since the minerals in the fluids bathing the tissues lower their freezing point.

The places most susceptible are the fingers, hands, toes, feet, nose and ears. The first sign of trouble is pain, which the skin turns quite pale. After that, numbness sets in. People might think that nothing is wrong at this stage, but numbness is a sign that frostbite is imminent. The skin and involved tissues become hard and firm.

Ice crystals form in the spaces between cells. They pull water out of the cells and dehydrate them. The dehydration, decreased blood flow and ice crystals all work together to cause tissue damage. One of the most destructive factors is the lack of oxygen that comes from artery constriction to prevent heat loss from the rest of the body.

Fast rewarming is the treatment. It should not begin if you are in a place where there's a chance of refreezing. Refreezing is a more destructive process than leaving things alone until you are in a place where the person can be kept warm.

The affected part should be immersed in a bath of hot water whose temperature is around 104 F (40 C). The water has to be kept warm by adding more hot water as the bath begins to cool. You should gently rub the frozen part. If the affected area cannot be warmed in a water bath, then use hot packs.

Rewarming is painful. Tylenol or a stronger medicine should be given. In 12 to 24 hours, blisters form. Do not break them. At this point, have a doctor examine the patient for definitive care.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What can I do to improve my chipping, splitting fingernails? I was getting a weekly manicure but stopped due to economic reasons. My nails had grown stronger. Now they've become a disaster again. Please help. I take vitamins and calcium. — M.H.

ANSWER: Aging makes nails brittle, thin and fragile for quite a few people. Dryness fosters brittleness. After every handwashing and before going to bed, coat your nails with a moisturizer. Petroleum jelly (the many Vaseline products) works well. When washing dishes or putting your hands in water, wear water-proof gloves. Don't use nail polish remover often.

The B vitamin biotin toughens nails for some. You'll need 2.5 mg daily.

Neither calcium nor gelatin strengthens nails. *Dr. Donohue regrets that he is unable to answer individual questions but he will incorporate them in his column whenever possible. This makes it easier for you to weigh your options and make decisions. LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Ask your partner for an explanation of what seems to be a sign of strain in your relationship. The sooner you understand the problem, the sooner you can both act to resolve it.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A new challenge in the workplace holds an exciting promise for the future. But be aware of the fact that you haven't been told about all the demands you might have to meet.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your financial picture brightens as you get into sorting out realistic goals and those that are not reachable at this time. "Caution" remains your fiscal watchword.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You're deep into your new project, and that's just fine. But don't neglect your family and friends. Spending time with people you care for is always a wise investment.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Past feelings are suddenly emotionally vulnerable. Be careful about decisions you might be asked to make at this time.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You've come to a place where you'll be facing important decisions that can affect your future. Rely on your strong moral compass to guide you toward making the right choices.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're gifted with both natural wisdom and wit, a good combination for success as a writer, a teacher and, most importantly, a parent.

TIMES COLUMNIST
An epic series comes to a close for movie fans and television addicts as two key releases this week.

"Law and Order" — NBC broke all kinds of records with this hard-hitting crime series that unsated "Hawaii Five-O" as the longest running crime drama. This series hit it all, with cases based on headline crimes as it traced the arrest and subsequent trial of accused criminals. The series benefited from cracking the code of a revolving door of top notch talent that included Sam Waterston, Michael Moriarty, Chris Noth and the great Jerry Orbach. You also can't beat that incidental music that announced scene changes. New York City locations were also a big factor and your wallet will have to be huge to drop $450 on this puppy. The upside is that it will take you 40 hours to watch it all, and that's not including the extras.

"Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2" — JK Rowling's epic series about a school for sorcerers comes full circle in this film adaptation of the second half of her final novel. The children of Hogwarts School are grown up now and the titular character comes into his own when he squares off against the evil Voldemort. This is gruesome at times and some characters don't make it to the end, but it is a fine adaptation of the book that rarely falters.

"13" — A young man takes his chances when he steals the identity of a high rolling gambler in this flashy remake of a foreign film. A game cat is quite far, near and includes Jason Statham, Mickey Rourke and Ray Winstone. Good stuff, but the original was better. It was directed by the same guy, too, but he can't be expected to make the same film in a foreign language and expect his kung fu success. His brains pulled the same move on Hideo Nakata when they hired him to remake "Ring."

"The Way, Way Back" — Wrestling fans will be reduced to tears by this excellent chronicle of the tragic Van Dyke family. They ruled wrestling as the sport's biggest dynasty, until a combination of bad luck and very bad habits tore them apart. There was directed by the same guy, too, but only one would live to see 34, and he is present here.

Next week, things will lighten up with a new Tom Hanks comedy that pairs him with Julia Roberts.

Lagoon

Via flashback, we learn the leader loved this plan so much, he gave the dagger to Arald as a reward for keeping the peace.

Unfortunately, Hagen missed the memo and shows up in time to proudly hurl down the scalps of Rurik's wife and child. He gets the same chilly reception you get when Tabby brings home a deceased mouse.

The end result of all of this hoo-ha is that Rurik plunders the village and kills their leader, while Hagen gets kicked out by Arald, who is then forced to leave the village to gather food. Unfortunately, his boat disappears and his wife goes into hiding when she hears Hagen is coming back.

In the present, a warrior stumbles upon her hideout. He is actually Rurik, who is out to get Hagen and deeply regrets plundering the village. He recognizes Karin because she actually assaulted her during the raid. He wore his fierce pillaging mask that day, so she doesn't know that he is the guy who killed her dad.

Karin winds up being happy to make Rurik's acquaintance, as he shows up at her hideout just as two thugs break in and attempt to assault her. He throws a knife through one dude's throat but has to take out the other one up close and personal. He appears to enjoy the struggle and is pleased the guy he just killed had nice clothes (hey, this was way before guys bought off the rack).

Rurik winds up bonding with her son (who may actually be his son, too) by showing him how to hit a Viking, the Vikings, so morality has to be adjusted). He even saves the boy from a few of Hagen's goons who are excited that Hagen is back and heads to town for a showdown.

Their brawl is a highlight until Hagen sees he is outmatched and runs away like a little girl. Hagen decides to have the last laugh by kidnapping Karin's boy and demanding a boat out of town and a bag of money. Luckily, Arald shows up in time to team up with Rurik for a little payback.

This is fun stuff and a great introduction to Viking cinema. Basically, this movie is a series of red hats and a little bit of the red stuff thrown in for good measure. The film is solidly put together by Lars and features his trademark visual style.

The cast is badly dubbed, but that's Cameron Mitchell, with a blond crew cut, as Rurik. His voice is done by some clown in a studio, but that's par for the course with a lot of Italian films from the 1960s.

In fact, most of the voices sound the same, which puts me in mind of an old "Saturday Night Live" sketch where Bill Murray played a voice actor providing all of the voices for a Hercules film. The stunts are good, too, though it is pretty obvious that Mitchell is being doubled as he suddenly sprouts longer hair, that is now red in the fight scenes.

Best Line: "You vicious idiot."
1966, unrated.

"YOUR HALF OF OUR JOINT CHECKING ACCOUNT SEEMS TO BE MISSING."

Jacqueline Bigar's HOROSCOPE

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday, Nov. 11, 2011:
 This year you often become overwhelmed. You might wish that others would work with you more often than challenge you. Use others' ideas positively, learning to work better with disagreement. If you are single, many people will want to come in close. The real issue is whether you will allow this intimacy. Sorting through all your admirers could help you work through a lot. If you are attached, accept your sweetie and his or her views and emotions. You will be a lot happier as a couple if you do. GEMINI zeros in on bottom lines.
 The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult
ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 ★★★★★ Focus on business in the morning. Remember to return certain key calls as the weekend drops in on you. Wonder all you want, but remain firm once you have made a choice. Schedule a late lunch. Tonight: Swap news with a friend.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 ★★★★★ You beam until someone becomes cranky. You wonder what to do next. You have handled many difficult situations, but none quite like this. Stop and review your liabilities before acting. Tonight: Treat a friend to dinner.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 ★★★★★ Keep it easy until the afternoon, when you just know. You feel empowered as you want, but handle it all and more. Don't settle for anything less than what you want. Enjoy a friend's or group of friends' light and mischievous spirit. Tonight: Lots to smile about.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 ★★★★★ You know what you want and where you are going. Use that information to the max this morning. You have some important decisions to make. A response might force you to go back in your head and rethink your actions. Remember, you can only control yourself, not others. Tonight: Choose something restful.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 ★★★★★ Sometimes you sell yourself short in an attempt to get situations to work like you want. Other times, by allowing a little more chaos in, you get better results. Dip into your imagination when making plans. Tonight: And the party goes on.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 ★★★★★ Try another form of experimenting when discussing an issue. Do be careful, as you are more likely to lose your temper out of the blue, surprising not only yourself but also others. A close associate comes through for you. Tonight: Till the woe hours.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
 ★★★★★ Your discomfort becomes obvious when someone abruptly changes his or her tune. Don't wonder how, why and when this attitude change occurred; just accept this person's new turn as a passage without personalizing it. Tonight: Try a new spot.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
 ★★★★★ Others remain touchy and controversial. You might want to try another approach or a different style. Make plans and schedule meetings with only those who are friendly. Plan on a late meeting going into dinner. Tonight: Finally, a point of agreement.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
 ★★★★★ Clear out what you must. You'll accomplish a lot if you can maintain your focus. Fatigue could mark your decisions if you're not careful. Make a point of having a discussion with a key associate. Let a meeting flow into Friday-afternoon fun. Tonight: Hang out with work friends.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 ★★★★★ Your creativity and imagination come forward when faced with a problem. Don't push a boss beyond his or her level of tolerance. You don't want to see the results. Be careful with an expert or someone who could be touchy and at a distance. Tonight: Follow your imagination.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
 ★★★★★ Stay centered with family and personal matters. Keep opening up to new possibilities that involve your home and security. You might have been thinking about a change involving your work, home and office. Add more lightness to the day. Tonight: Put 100 percent of yourself into whatever you do.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
 ★★★★★ Stay on top of your work. You might not be interested in an associate's offer. Use care as to how you present your disinterest. You could start more projects than are really worth it. Someone close could become unusually touchy. Tonight: Make it easy.
