licted for murder in fatal car wrec

Vol. 8

PRI
A Pike County man was indicted last week on a charge of murder, resulting from a police chase which led to a fatal car accident.

James E. Mace, 22, of Pikeville, was indicted on one count of first-degree assault for his part in a May 15 car acci-dent which claimed the life of 63-year-old Brenda Montgomery. Mace was the driver of Mace was the driver of the 2000 Chevrolet Malibu which crashed into Jack-son resident Montgomery and her passenger, Elsie Colakley, Montgomery was transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center, where she was pronounced dead by Floyd County Coroner Greg Nelson. Oakley was transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center and then airifited to Cabell Huntington Hospital.

Police officials said, at the time of the accident, Mace was fleeling from sheriff's deputies who had spotted him and his passenger, Jonathan Crider, melting copper at an old strip mine. Deputies reported losing track of the webticle when they reached the main road. Moments lided head-on with Montgomery's on Route 114.

Mace was previously charged with two counts of first-degree wanton endangerment, receiving stolen property, first-degree fleeing or evading police, criminal trespassing, and tampering with physical evidence.

Once the patents expire, generic versions of the two drugs will be allowed on the market.

drugs will be allowed on the market.

What worries the two men, however, is that the generic versions of the drugs might lack some of the safeguards the commercial versions have.

Oxycontin and Opane each have tamper-resistant coatings which, while not foolproof, are believed to deter abuse. The coatings, make it more difficult for abusers to crush, the pills in an attempt to bypass their extended release mechanism.

Rogers issued a statement last Tuesday, asking the Pood and Drug Administration to act before Jan. 1 to require generic manufacturers to also implement tamper-resistant coatings.

"After Oxycontin came on the market 15 years ago, a wave of overdose deaths devastated entire towns in my region of the country."

"By crushing these pain pill abusers can experience a euphoric — but oftentimes deadly — high — Hal Re ueadly — high. But today, the FDA has an opportunity keep these crush-able pills out of our children's reach. A number of prescription medicines already on the market use tamper-resistant technologies that can cut back on abuse. No generic pill should come to market without these life-saving features."

No general market without these market without the features."
McConnell went a step fur-ther, calling Bill Schultz, act-ing general counsel for the Department of Health and Human Services, to his office last Wednesday to express his concerns in person.

The rescription drug abuse is a

Inmate charged with attacking guard

Jack Latta

PRESTONSBURG — An immate at the Floyd, County Detention Center could see significantly more time added to his sentence after allegedly desaudting a guard. The counting to a guard count of third-degree assault for allegedly attacking guard Parker DeRossett.

In the complaint, DeRossett alleges he opened Ison's cell door Dec. 12 to give him his tray of food, when the prisoner ran forward and at-tempted to spit on him. The inmate was forcibly restrained and during the confrontation-allegedly bit DeRossett's left hand.

Ison.was being held in the jail on a charge of driving under the influence, with a $200 cash bond. His bond has now been set to $50,000.

Third-degree assault is a class D felony, punishable by up to 5 years in prison, and $10,000 in fines.

Judge freezes questionable credit card

PRESTONSBURG — An order to freeze former David School director Danny Greene's credit card was issued in Floyd Circuit Court, after the school alleged questionable expenses charged to the account.

On Wednesday, The Times reported on a motion filed Dec. 14 by the David School's attorney, Michael Bndicott, which noted an existing credit card account with a bill of over $2,000.

Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf, who serves as vice chairman of the school's board, said in an affidavit that the charges appear to be mostly unrelated to school functions, and included charges in at least five different states.

At least one of the charges listed on the account was a single charge of $32.35 to Adult World Factory Outlet, in Widener, Ark.

to the government, even after it had been deducted from employee paychecks, and failing to file required forms.
"I have no hesitancy in representing to the court, that he (Greene) caused these charges," Pillersdorf siad.
Pillersdorf was accompanied in court by attorneys from the state Attorney General's Office, who indicated they would refer the matter of the tax liabilities to the prosecutorial division, to address criminal aspects of the case.

They also said they would try to help the David School with resolve the matter with the Internal Revenue Service.

A final tem of the motion was addressed in fourt', corewing addressed in fourt', corewing the school bought from Greene in 2005, at a price of $157,000, consisting of two tracts of land. Pillersdorf says that, a clerical error only accounted for one tract in the actual deed.

Pillersdorf said that school is currently in negotiations to sell the property and asked that a quitclaim deed be issued to establish both tracts as being part of the property to be sold. Greene and his wife only signed one of the deeds, leaving ownership of the other piece of land in question.

Celebrate the New Year with 10 free flowering trees from the Arbor Day Foundation

Residents of Kentucky can ring in the New Year with 10 free flowering trees by joining the Arbor Day Foundation any time during January 2013.

By becoming a part of the nonprofit Arbor Day Foundation, new members will receive two white flowering dogwoods, two flowering crabapples, two Washington hawthorns, two American rebusts and two goldenraintrees.

"These beautiful trees will give your home in Kentucky lovely flowers with pink, yellow and white colors," said John Rosenow, founder and chief executive of the Arbor Day Foundation. "These trees are perfect for large and small spaces, and they will provide food and habitat for songbirds."

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting, between February 1 and May 31, with enclosed planting instructions. The 6 to 12 inch tall trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

Members will also receive a subscription to the Foundation's bimonthly publication, Arbor Day, and The Tree Book, which includes information about tree planting and care.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 contribution to TEN FREE FLOWERING TREES, Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by Jan. 31. Kentucky residents can also join online at arborday.org/january.

Governor Beshear's Blue Ribbon Commission on Tax Reform has released its final recommendations on Kentucky's tax structure — and their plan would mean bad news for Kentucky seniors.

The plan recommends that seniors bear the burden of the state's fiscal challenges through increased taxes on retirement income. At the same time, the Commission also recommends cutting income taxes on Kentuckians in the highest tax brackets and lowering corporate tax rates.

This unbalanced approach will unfairly burden retirees, many of whom have endured significant losses to their retirement savings in the economic recession and simply do not have time or ability to adjust their retirement savings of the same o

House Week in Review

Rep. Hubert Collins

As we continue to look at issues that are likely to come before the 2013 Kentucky General Assembly in a couple weeks. I want to express my sadness and concern in the wake of the Dec. 14 shooting at Sandy Hook Elementary in Connecticut. The loss of children and innocent adults to such brutality in these United States is inexcusable and, I'm sure, we will be reviewing the causes and looking for solutions as a nation in the months to come.

EPA releases update on ongoing fracking study

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency provided an update last week on its ongoing national study currently underway to better understand any potential impacts of hydraulic fracturing on drinking water resources.

Results of the study, which Congress requested EPA to complete, are expected to be released in a draft for public and peer review in 2014. The update provided Dec. 21 outlines work currently underway, including the status of research projects that will inform the final study. It is important to note that while this progress report outlines the framework for the final study, it does not draw conclusions about the potential impacts of hydraulic fracturing on drinking water resources, which will be made in the final study.

As the administration and EPA has made clear, natural gas has a central role to play in our energy future, and this important domestic fuel source has extensive economic, energy security, and environmental benefits. The study EPA is currently undertaking is part of EPAs focus to ensure that so to work to expand production of this important domestic resource safely and responsibly.

Among the information released today are updates on 18 research projects and details on the agency's research approach as well as next steps for these ongoing projects and analyses.
Today's update follows the public release, in November 2011,
of the agency's final study plan, which underwent scientific peer review and public comment.
EPA has engaged stakeholders, including industry, to ensure that the study reflects current practices in hydraulic fracturing.
EPA continues to request data and information from the public and stakeholders and has put out a formal request for information which can be accessed through the federal register https://atwww.federalregister.gov/articles/2012/11/09/2012-27452/request-for-information-to-inform-hydraulic-fracturing-research-related-to-drinking-water-resolurces.

EPA also expects to release a draft report of results from the study in late 2014. The study has been designated a Highly Influential Scientific Assessment, meaning it will receive the highest level of peer review in accordance with EPA's peer review handbook before it is finalized. The 2014 draft report will synthesize the results from the ongoing projects to-gether with the scientific lit-erature to answer the study's main research questions. EPA's Science Advisory Board (SAB) is forming a panel of in-dependent experts which will re-view and provide their individual input on the ongoing study to EPA. The SAB will provide an opportunity for the public to of-fer comments for consideration by the individual panel members. For more information on the SAB process, please visit: http:// yosemite.epa.gov/sab/sabpeople. nsf/WebCommittees/BOARD. For more information, see

Wildcats ranked eighth in preseason poll

Times Staff Report

LEXINGTON - The University of Kentucky baseball program has been tabbed as the No. 8 team in the preseason in the 2013 Collegiate Baseball Newspaper top-40 poll, its highest preseason ranking in the 117-year history of the program, it was announced on Thursday afternoon.

With the Wildcats ranked No. 8, it is their highest preseason ranking by the Collegiate Baseball Newspaper in program history, a poll that dates back to 1958. UK had last been ranked in the preseason as high as No. 19 in 2009 and No. 20 in 2008 by Collegiate Baseball. UK was last ranked by Baseball America in the preseason in 2007, checking in No. 30. Conclusive preseason polls have been located back to 1999.

Kentucky is coming off the best season in the 117-year history of the program, claiming a school-record 45 wins in 2012 and owning the best finishes in the Southeastern Conference and NCAA Tournaments in UK annals. The Wildcats went 45-18 in 2012 in UKs 103rd official season of collegiate baseball, setting a bevy of records and owning 20 total wins against league foes.

Bowling Green to host '13 South Floyd falls to East Carter, Kentucky State Amateur

Times Staff Report

BOWLING GREEN
Even as the weather changes to a less favorable season for those wanting to be on the golf course, many are looking forward to the next year of golf in Kentucky. It won't be that long until the Bluegrass turns green and golfers flock to courses around the state. The Kentucky Golf Association is finalizing the 2013 championship sched-ule and it will be released in the next few weeks. The 2013 Kentucky State Ama-

John got in the game with a wide range of sports, movies and more & saved up to $850!

2013 Kentucky State Ama-teur Championship is set for June 18-20 and will be hosted by Bowling Green Country Club. BGCC will Celebrates its 100th anniversary in 2013. Murray State University senior Patrick Newcomb is the two-time reigning KGA Player of the Year. Newcomb won his sec-ond straight KGA State Amateur Championship at The Cardinal Club back at The Cardinal Club back in June. He added more points with a tie for run-ner-up position at the Fred Allen Team Championship and thrived with his per-formance at the 2012 U.S. Amateur Championship, where he made it to the round of 16 in match play.
