A PROGRESSIVE PAPER FOR PROGRESSIVE PEOPLE

Eighth Year NUMBER 34 Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, Friday, March 29, 1935 $1.50 PER YEAR

LEFT BEAVER ROAD CONTRACT AWARDED TO FRANKFORT FIRM

Grade and Drain Work, Hunter to McDowell, To Cost $56,790

2ND CONTRACT PROMISED

Grade and drain of almost six miles of the Left Beaver road was assured Tuesday with the awarding by the state highway commission of a contract for construction of the highway from Hunter to a point above and near McDowell. The Ralph E. Mills Company, Inc., Frankfort, was the contract recipient, with a bid of $56,790.01.

Work on the project is expected to be begun at once. County Judge W. L. Stumbo, County Attorney Forrest D. Short and at least two magistrates, Willie Hall and Jim Clark, went to Left Beaver Creek, soon after learning the contract had been awarded, to negotiate for right-of-way deeds to the three or four farms through which right-of-way has not already been procured.

County officials expressed confidence this week that the remainder of the road from McDowell on to Wheelwright will be let to contract for grade and drain in April or May. This confidence, they say, arises directly from the promise of the highway commission. If this hope is realized, one of Floyd county's most important highways, one which will restore Left Beaver to Floyd county, will become not a dream but a reality.

KENTUCKY AUTHOR TO APPEAR HERE AS FOLK SONG FILM PRESENTED

Jean Thomas, well-known Kentucky author and collector of Mountain ballads, appears in person at the Unique theatre here, Thursday afternoon and night, concurrent with the local screen showing of the picturization of the 1934 American Folk Song Festival, it is announced by W. B. Boyd, manager of the Unique.

The film is of particular interest to residents of this section, since it portrays not the side of Mountain life exploited by fictionists and, instead, records revivification of old customs and the folk songs that are the heritage of this section, at the same time showing several Floyd countians as actors in the pageant that was the Folk Song Festival of last year.

Those from Floyd county who appear on the screen are: James and Edgar Stephens, Fred Francis and John Calvin Hopkins, as aides to Governor Ruby Laffoon; Mrs. Evelyn Salisbury and Miss Elizabeth Powers as ladies-in-waiting; Mrs. Josephine Harkins Browning in the leading role of the Infare scene; Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James, Mrs. Minerva Friend Johnson, John Hyden, Green Maggard, Tex Vanderpool and Tom James as musicians rendering music of the age portrayed in the picture.

Bradley Kincaid, radio singer of Mountain ballads, also appears in the film. Miss Thomas also will present the film at Wheelwright, it is announced.

Allen, and is a former student in Prestonsburg high school. Both Mr. and Mrs. Allen are members of two of Floyd county's oldest families, and have a host of friends who extend to them their best wishes.

FORENSIC LEAGUE TOURNAMENT, FRIDAY

Five Debate Teams To Compete Here for Floyd County Championship

Not a contest of athletic skill but a battle of wits starts here Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock with the opening of the Floyd County Forensic League's first tournament.

Five debate teams are entered in the tournament, which starts with Wayland contesting Lackey and Prestonsburg meeting Wheelwright at 1 o'clock. Garrett, which drew a first-round bye, debates one of the winners of the first two debates at 2:45, and at 7:30 the finals are held.

Winner of the tournament will be adjudged the Floyd county debate champion and will be awarded a handsome trophy. Names of judges have not been announced, but there will be six of these named to determine the winners of two debates in progress at the same time, three hearing each of the two contests.

A large number of students and patrons of the schools represented are expected to follow their teams here, and the tournament is expected to be one of the most interesting to be held in this section. Every team entered has an excellent record in competition with other teams of this section, Palmer L. Hall, president of the League, points out.

SUBPOENAS ISSUED IN SUIT FOR TAXES

Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company Defendants in Action Claiming Back Revenue Due

Issue of subpoenas for the appearance in the Floyd county court at its April 22 session of E. R. Clarke and Hugh Rabold, of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, was directed Monday by an order signed by Judge W. L. Stumbo as the latest step taken in the suit against the gas company to recover taxes which, it is contended, the gas company owes for the five years from 1928 to 1932, inclusive. With them, Mr. Clarke and Mr. Rabold are directed to bring books and records of the company showing original entries of expenses and income in the operation of the company in Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Magoffin and Martin counties.

The suit, in which A. B. Rouse, state revenue collector, is the plaintiff, was filed by H. D. Kremer, Louisville attorney, and County Attorney Forrest D. Short March 6. Original hearing of the action is to be in county court.

Taxes the plaintiff hopes to recover for the six counties named will total $100,000, it is estimated. Seventy per cent of the property owned by the company is in the counties named.

The county in 1932, valued at $2,866,000, the petition claims. The fiscal court last year authorized Attorneys Kremer and Short to sue for collection of taxes alleged to be due the state and counties in which property lies on a 40 per cent commission basis.

Foundation of the action rests on the plaintiff's charge that misleading tax returns were made to the state and commission by the company.

BROTHERS HELD TO FLOYD GRAND JURY IN BATES SLAYING

Tivis and George Newman Charged With Killing of Wilson Bates

ACCUSED SURRENDER

Tivis and George Newman, of Jack's Creek, this county, were released Monday under $5,000 bond each from the Floyd county jail where they had been held since Thursday, last week, in the death of Wilson Bates, 34 years old, of Halo, who was shot and fatally wounded March 19 near the home of the Newmans.

In a deathbed statement at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, where he died last Wednesday, Bates named both Tivis and George Newman, brothers, as the persons responsible for the shooting. He also stated that he was about 75 yards from the Newmans when three shots were fired, one bullet striking him in the back.

Counsel for the Newmans told The Times Tuesday that the defense had no statement at this time to make.

Fred Bates, Lackey officer and a brother of the victim, said Wilson had been visiting him at Wayland and was on his way home when shot. He said that he could produce evidence that his brother was walking along the railroad, away from the Newmans, when the shooting took place. The bullet from a .32-calibre automatic struck Bates above his right hip and emerged from his left side. John Newman, father of the accused men, surrendered them to Sheriff M. T. Stumbo, Deputy Sheriff R. Allen, Bill Wills, Vernon Castle and Mitchell Thomas, who went to Jack's Creek Thursday in search of the Newmans.

The victim is a son of the late Ben Bates, of Knott county. Surviving Bates are his widow, Mrs. Sallie Hall Bates, five children and the following brothers and sisters: Fred Bates, of Wayland; Creed Bates, Pikeville; Joe Bates, Pinetop; Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Ida Hall, of Hall, Ky., and Mrs. Anna Martin, of Kite. Burial of the victim was made at Halo Thursday.

Loans of any amount needed and for which adequate security is furnished may be procured on livestock and farm machinery. The maximum term of these loans is 12 months, but this time may be extended for proper cause. The interest rate is five per cent.

Average time of closing a loan is 10 to 14 days and the average cost of procuring such a loan is $5.50, Mr. Bond said. Money may be borrowed for the payment of debts or for any general farm purpose, it was said.

In A Class By Itself

THERE is no way to compare the Ford V-8 with any other car because there is no other car like it.

The Ford enables you to step up into the fine-car class in performance, beauty, comfort and safety. But there is no stepping up in price. That is kept down by Ford low-profit policies and unique manufacturing methods. These are as different as the car itself.

It takes eight cylinders to give the modern performance you need these days. The Ford is powered by a V-8 — the finest type of eight-cylinder engine. You have to pay more than $2000 for that in any other car.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

SPRAY COMMENDS TOURNAMENT CONDUCT

The following letter from Max L. Spray, one of the referees at the recent basketball tournament, at Garrett, to Curtis Owens, principal of the Garrett school, highly commends the conduct of the tournament and also the ability and sportsmanship of the teams competing:

"I am writing a few lines to congratulate you and your co-workers on the fine way the recent district tournament was conducted. I have been refereeing basketball in Eastern Kentucky for the past seven years, and in that time have never seen any athletic event go off any smoother and with less trouble than the 59th tourney.

"Though the teams were evenly matched, the games hard-fought from the opening tip-off to the final gun, and each and every player was giving every bit of skill and every ounce of strength that his team might win, each gave his efforts in a fine, clean, sportsmanlike way.

"Despite the rivalry between the various towns and schools,

I did not see either a player or a fan take any unfair advantage over another player or spectator. Your teams play a fast, hard, fighting brand of ball and the people of Floyd county are to be congratulated on their stand toward basketball and other sports.

"I enjoyed my stay in your town very much and I hope to have the privilege to come back there again in the future."

Is a constant backache keeping you miserable? Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; attacks of dizziness, rheumatic pains, swollen feet and ankles? Do you feel tired, nervous — all unstrung?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly, for functional kidney disorder permits poisons to stay in the blood and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They help the kidneys cleanse the blood of health-destroying poisonous waste. Doan's Pills are used and recommended the world over. Get them from any druggist.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A lovely St. Patrick's party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Lon Roberts, honoring their daughter, Elaine, who will be 11 years old. The pleasant party was from 3 to 5 p. m., and after a series of games popular with children of that age, little Billie Doris Johnstone sang "Happy Birthday to You, Elaine," accompanied by her sister, Louise, at the piano, and Mr. Wilburn on the guitar.

A CHILD'S LAXATIVE SHOULD BE LIQUID

(Ask any doctor)

For your own comfort, and for your children's safety and future welfare, you should read this:

The bowels cannot be helped to regularly by any laxative that can't be regulated as to dose. That is why doctors use liquid laxatives.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

The right liquid laxative dose gives the right amount of help. When repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, natural laxatives that form no habit—even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will clear up a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upsets. Every druggist has it.

THE NARRATIVE

CHAPTER I.—David Ransdell, approaching New York on the liner Europa, receives a succession of radiograms offering him $1,000, finally $20,000, for an exclusive newspaper interview divulging the mission that brings him from South Africa. Ransdell, noted aviator, has been secretly commissioned at Capetown by Lord Rhondin and Professor Bronson, the astronomer, to fly across the Mediterranean to the fast liner, with a large traveling case containing photographic plates. His instructions are to deliver them to Dr. Cole Hendron, in New York. Tony Drake calls at the Hendrons' apartment. Ransdell arrives and Eve Hendron, with whom Tony is deeply in love, introduces Tony to Ransdell.

CHAPTER II.—New York newspapers publish a statement made by Hendron and concurred in by sixty of the world's greatest scientists. The prepared statement says that Professor Bronson has discovered two planets, which must have broken away from another star or sun and traveled through interstellar space for an incalculable time, until they came to a region of the heavens which brought them at last under the attraction of the sun. The statement ends: "Their previous course, consequently, has been modified by the sun, and as a result, they are now approaching us." The result of the inevitable collision must be the end of the earth. The approaching bodies are referred to as Bronson Alpha and Bronson Beta, the latter being the smaller—about the size of the earth.

CHAPTER III.—"It's going to be doomsday, isn't it?" Tony Drake asks Eve. "No, Tony—more than doomsday. Dawn is the doomsday," she tells him. She explains that the first time the Bronson Bodies approach the earth they will not hit it, but the second time, one, Bronson Beta, will pass, and the other will hit the earth and demolish it. To devise means of transferring to Bronson Beta, so much like the earth, is what is occupying the minds of the members of the League of the Last Days.

CHAPTER IV.—Hendron tells Tony he is to be a member of the selected crew of the projected Space Ship which Hendron plans to launch with the idea of landing on Bronson Beta, and the scientist advises him to gain a knowledge of agriculture and proficiency in manual arts and elementary mechanics. Tony rounds up suitable men and women to build the ship at a cantonment Hendron established in northern Michigan.

CHAPTER V.—Hendron has not been able to find a metal or an alloy which will withstand the heat and pressure of atomic energy to be used in propelling the Space Ship. The night before Hendron and his immediate party are to fly to Michigan the idea rush through the streets of New York.

CHAPTER VI.—The tides sweep back to the Appalachians on the east and to the mountains on the Pacific side, and quakes change the entire surface of the earth. The Washington government moves its many millions as possible to the great Mississippi valley. The Hendron settlement survives unprecedented earthquakes.

CHAPTER VII.—Bronson Alpha collides with the moon and wipes it out. Ransdell and Elliot James, an English poet whom Hendron has invited to join the colony, leave on an aerial reconnaissance, as the Hendron colony is in ignorance of conditions elsewhere. They return safely, reporting almost universal destruction throughout the country.

CHAPTER VIII

"Mr. Ransdell and myself," Elliot James began, "took our ship off the ground this morning at eight o'clock. We flew due north for about seventy-five miles. Then we made a circle of which that distance was the radius, covering the territory that formerly constituted parts of Michigan and Wisconsin.

"I say 'formerly' because our flight was like a journey of discovery. You have already been told that the Great Lakes have disappeared. They are, however, not entirely gone, and I should say that about one-third of Lake Superior, possibly now landlocked, remains in its bed.

"The country we covered, as you doubtless know, was formerly heavily wooded and hilly," the young author continued. "It contained many lakes, and was a mining center. I will make no attempt to describe the astonishing aspect of the empty lake bed, the chasms and flat beaches which were revealed when the water uncovered them, or the broad cracks and crevices which stretch across the bed. Most of the forests have been burned away. Seams have opened underneath them, which are in reality mighty canyons, abysses in the naked earth. Steam pours from them and hovers in them. All about the landscape are fumaroles, hot springs, geysers and boiling wells.

"In the course of our flight we observed the ruins of a moderate sized town and of several villages. We also saw the charred remains of farms, lumber and mining camps. Not only have great clefts been made, but hills have been created, and in innumerable places the earth shows raw and multi-colored—the purplish red of iron veins, the glaring white of quartz, the dark monotony of basalt intermingled in a giant's conglomerate. I can only suggest the majesty and the unearthliness of the scene by saying it closely resembled my conception of what the lunar landscape must have been.

"We observed a few areas which, like our own, were relatively undisturbed. This district, as you know, is sparsely settled. I will complete my wholly inadequate report to you by satisfying what must be your major curiosity: we saw in the course of our flying a number of human beings. Some of them wandered over this nude, tumultuous country alone and obviously without resources for their sustenance. Others were gathered together in small communities in the sheltered places. They had fires going, and they were apparently secure at least for the time being. All of them attempted to attract our attention to themselves, and it is with regret that I must say that not only is their rescue inadvisable from the sheer necessity of our own self-preservation, but that in most cases it would be difficult if not impossible, as we found no place in which we might have landed a plane, if the surface of the water that remains in Lake Superior be expected, and a few other ponds and lakes."

After the speech, people crowded around James. Peter Vanderbilt, moving through the crowd, glimpsed Ransdell as he was walking through the front doors of the hall. The New Yorker stepped out on the porch beside the pilot; the sophisticated Manhattan dilettante with his smooth, graying hair, his worldly-wise and weary eyes, his sveite accent, beside the rugged, tan-faced, blue-eyed, powerful adventurer.

"I wanted to ask you something," Vanderbilt said. Ransdell turned, and as usual he did not speak but simply waited. "Do you think it would be possible to hop around the country during the next few months?"

"With a good ship—an amphibian." Vanderbilt tapped his cigarette holder against one of the posts on the porch. "You and I are both super-numeraries around here, in a sense. I was wondering if it might not be a good idea to make an expedition around the country and see for ourselves just what has happened."

Ransdell thought inarticulately. "I was drawn to her as never to any girl before; but, he reckoned, she must remain here. Not only that, but under the discipline which was clamped upon the settlement no rival could claim her while he would be gone. And the adventure that Vanderbilt offered tremendously allured him.

"I'd like to try it," Ransdell replied simply.

"Then I'll see Hendron." Ransdell was struck by a thought. "Shall we take James, too? He'll join, I think."

"Excellent," Vanderbilt accepted. "He could write up the trip. It would be ignominious, if any of us got to Bronson Beta with no record of the real history of this old earth's last days."

Together they broached the subject to Hendron. He considered for several minutes without replying, and then said: "You realize, of course, that such an expedition will be extremely hazardous? You could carry fuel and provisions for a long flight, but nothing like what you'd need. You'd have to take pot-luck everywhere you went; and whenever you set the ship down, you would be a target for any and every person lurking in the vicinity. The conditions prevailing, physically, socially and morally, must be wholly without precedent."

"That," replied Vanderbilt calmly, "is precisely why we cannot be men and fear to study them."

"Exactly," jerked Hendron; and he gazed at Ransdell. The gray-blue eyes fixed steadily on Hendron's, and the scientist abruptly decided: "Very well, I'll sanction it."

Ransdell and Vanderbilt knocked on the door of Elliot James' room, from which issued the sound of typewriting. The poet swung wide the door. They told him their plans.

"Go?" James repeated, his face alight with excitement. "Of course I'll go. What a record to write—whether or not anyone lives to read it!"

Tony realized that his position as vice to Hendron in command of the cantonment did not leave him free for adventure, yet it was almost with shame that he assisted in the take-off of the big plane two days later. Eve emerged from the crowd at the edge of the landing field and walked to Ransdell; and Tony saw the light in her eyes which comes to a woman watching a man embark on high adventure. Tony walked around to the other side of the plane and stayed there until Eve had said good-by to the pilot.

Many of the more prominent members of the colony were shaking hands with Vanderbilt and Elliot James. Vanderbilt's farewells were debonair and light. "We'll send you postcards picturing latest developments," Elliot James was receiving last-minute advice from the scientists, who had burdened him with questions, the answers of which they wished him to discover by observation. Ransdell came around the fuselage of the plane, Eve behind him.

He cast one look at the sky, and one at the available half of the landing field.

"Let's go," he said. The plane made a long bumpy run across the field, rose slowly, circled once over the heads of the waving throng, and gradually disappeared toward the south.

Eve signaled Tony. "Aren't they fine, those three men? Going off into nowhere like that. I like Dave Ransdell."

"No one could help liking him," Tony agreed.

"He's so interested in everything, and yet so aloof," went on Eve, still watching. "In spite of all he's been through with us, he's still absolutely terrified of me."

"I can understand that," said Tony grimly.

"But you've never been that way about me?"

"I didn't show it that way; no. But I know—and you know—what it means."

"Yes, I know," Eve replied simply. The sun, which had been shielded by a cloud, suddenly shone on them, and both glanced toward it. Off there to the side of the sun, and hidden by its glare, moved the Bronson Bodies on their paths which would cause them to circle the sun and return—one to pass close to the earth and the other to shatter the world—in little more than seven months more.

"If they are away only thirty days, we're not to count them missing," Eve was saying—of the crew of the airplane, of course. "If they're not back in thirty—we're to forget them. Especially we're not to send anyone to search for them."

"Who said so?"

"David. It's the last thing he asked."

The thirty days raced by. Under the circumstances, time could not drag. Nine-tenths of the people at Hendron's encampment spent their waking and sleeping hours under a death-sentence. No one could be sure of a place on the Space Ship. No one, in fact, was positive that the colossal rocket would be able to leave the earth.

Hendron spent most of his time in the rocket's vast hangar, the laboratories and the machine shop. Under the pressure of impending doom, the group laboring under him had "liberated" the amazing energy in the atom—under laboratory conditions. They had possessed, therefore, a potential power enormously in excess of that ever made available before. They could "break up" the atom at will, and set its almost endless energies to work; but what material could harness that energy and direct it into a driving force for the Space Ship?

Hendron and his group experimented for hour after desperate hour through their days, with one metal, another alloy and another after another. The Space Ship still lacked its engine.

Tony perceived an evidence of the increasing tension in Eve when they walked, late one afternoon, through the nearby woods.

She saw on the pine-needle carpet of the forest a white flower. She plucked it, looked at it, smelled it and carried it away. After they had proceeded silently for some distance, she said: "It's strange to think about matters like this flower. To think that there will never be any more flowers like this again in the universe—unless we take seeds with us! Did David ever tell you that, in his first conference at Capetown with Lord Rhondin and Professor Bronson, they were excited over realizing there would be no more lions?"

"No," said Tony, very quietly. "He never mentioned it to me."

"Tell me, Tony," she asked quickly, "you aren't jealous?"

"How, under the conditions laid down by your father," retorted Tony, "could anybody be 'jealous'? You're not going to be free to pick or choose your own husband—or mate—or whatever he'll be called, on Bronson Beta. And if we never get there, certainly I'll have nothing to be jealous about!"

"The strain was telling, too, on Tony. "He may not even return to us here," Eve reminded. "And we would never know what happened to the three of them."

"It would have to be a good deal, to stop them. Each one's d—n resourceful in his own way; and Ransdell is sure a flyer," Tony granted ungrudgingly. "Yet if the plane cracked, they'd never get back. This certainly has become a mess of a world; and I suppose the best we can expect is some such state awaiting us." Tony smiled grimly, "if we get across to Bronson Beta."

"No. If we get across to Bronson Beta, we'll find far less damage there."

"Why?" Tony had not happened to be with the scientists when this had been discussed.

"Because Bronson Beta seems certain to be a world a lot like this. It wasn't the passing of Bronson that tore us up so badly; it was the passing of the big one, Bronson Alpha. Now, Bronson Beta has never been nearly so close to Bronson Alpha as we have been. Beta circles Alpha, but never gets within half a million miles of it. So if we ever step upon that world, we'll find it about as it has been."

"As it has been—for how many years?" Tony asked.

"The ages and epochs of travel through space. . . . You ought to talk more with Professor Bronson, Tony. He just lives there. He's so sure we'll get there! Exactly how, he doesn't bother about; he's passed that on to Father. He starts with the landing; what may we reasonably expect to find there, beyond water and air—and soil? Which of us, who make up the possible crew of the ship, will have most chances to survive under the probable conditions? What immediate supplies and implements—food and so on—must we have with us? What ultimate supplies—seeds and seedlings to furnish us with food later? What animals, what birds and insects and crustacea, should we take along?"

"You see, that world must be dead, Tony. It must have been dead, preserved in the frightful, complete cold of absolute zero for millions of years. . . . You'd be surprised at some of the assumptions Professor Bronson makes. He assumes, among other things, that we can find some edible food—some sort of grain, probably, which absolute zero would have preserved. He assumes that some vegetable life—the vegetation that springs from spores, which mere cold cannot destroy—will spring to life automatically."

"Tony, you must see his lists of most essential things to take with us. What animals, do you suppose, he's figured we must take with us to help us to survive?"

The three explorers had agreed on September 14 as the first possible day for their return; but so great was the longing to learn the state of the outside world that on the twelfth even those who felt no particular concern for the men who ventured in the airplane began to watch the sky.

No one went to bed that night until long after the usual hour. Tony was in charge of the landing arrangements. At three a. m. he was sitting on the edge of the field with Eve. They sat with straining eyes and ears. Doctor Dodson lay on a cot, ready in case the landing should result in accident.

At four, nothing had changed. It began to grow light. Eve stood up stiffly and stretched. "Maybe I'd better leave. I have some work laid out for morning."

But she had not walked more than ten steps when she halted.

"I thought I heard motors," she said.

Tony nodded, unwilling to break the stillness. A dog barked in the camp.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't take for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute. 25-cent drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

HELP FOR CRIPPLES TO BE ASKED SOON

Every citizen in Kentucky will have an opportunity in the near future to give the state's crippled child a "lift." The opportunity to help this handicapped and needy boy or girl—and more than 12,000 others similarly afflicted—will come with the observance of Crippled Children's Week, April 7-13, when the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children renews its annual membership campaign and sponsors a sale of Easter seals for the purpose of furthering the work being done by the Kentucky Crippled Children's Commission to promote the rehabilitation and general welfare of the crippled child.

A recent survey reveals that in the ranks of Kentucky crippled children there are from 12,000 to 15,000 children. More than half this number, it is estimated, can be corrected; one-third can be helped and another one-third can be educated to be self-supporting. The Commission's effort to meet this appalling need is definitely restricted because of an insufficient appropriation from the state and, hence, funds raised by the Society are to enable the Commission to continue its free clinical examinations, free medical and surgical care and follow-up service to urgently and vitally necessary if the crippled child is to receive correction before it is everlastingly too late.

Heading the state campaign this year is Prentiss M. Terry, Louisville, whose appointment as chairman has been announced by Harry V. McChesney, Frankfort, Ky., president of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children. Mr. Terry has announced that the Society membership and Easter Seal Sale campaigns will include every county in Kentucky with the state being divided into 26 districts and centering, principally, in those localities where the commission is conducting free clinical activities during the year. The chairman for Floyd county is Mrs. Edward P. Hill, of Prestonsburg.

Mrs. Hill announced the naming of the following committees:

Special donations—Mrs. B. F. Combs, chairman, Miss Ella Noel White, Seal sale—Mrs. A. C. Harlowe, chairman; Mrs. W. C. Rimmer, Mrs. J. D. Mayo, Mrs. J. B. Clarke, Mrs. C. V. Watson, Mrs. Joe Jarrell; Benefit committees—Mrs. F. L. Heinze, chairman; Mrs. E. Sowards; Club representatives—Charles D. Milby, Kiwanis Club; Mrs. Winnie F. Johns, Business and Professional Women's Club; Mrs. J. R. Hurt, publicity chairman.

The Maytown and Garrett Woman's Club will have charge of the Seal sale in their respective districts.

(b) "Public Office Holder," as used herein shall include:

1. Those duly elected by public vote.

2. Those appointed by the federal government, except army and navy officers. (Ordinary civil service appointments not included).

3. Those official executives and (or) administrators, appointed for a term of not less than one year, by the Governor of the state, judge of the county and (or) mayor of first and second class cities.

(c) "Area," as used herein, shall include the several KERA areas and in addition thereto the city of Louisville and county of Jefferson and the KERA state office which shall be considered as separate Areas.

"I have been advised by the Louisville office that funds are allotted each county upon a basis of 50 per cent additional for average relief families which are workable and assigned to projects. This means that the average paid for workers will be 50 per cent greater than the allowed indigent cases or workable clients who are unassigned and receive direct help.

"Every interested citizen should be aware of this fact, as it means the more people we have working the more money there is to spend in the county. We are very anxious to have, so far as possible, every employable Relief Client working. Example is this: If we are allotted $20,000,000 for direct relief and we put enough people to work to take $10,000,000 from direct relief, we will then be allotted $30,000,000 for work in place of the $20,000,000 for direct."

TRAFFIC HAZARD REMOVAL SOUGHT

Club Petitions Public Improvements Here; Speed Limit Set at 20 Miles

Elimination of traffic hazards, designation of Clean-Up week and improvement of dilapidated sidewalks and streets are urged to Mayor A. C. Carter and the city council by resolutions drafted by Mrs. J. D. Mayo and Mrs. S. C. Ferguson, the committee on Public Affairs of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club.

Already, the Mayor and council have ordered compliance with some of the traffic regulations which the committee urges, and it is hoped that most, if not all, of other suggested improvements will be effected. A speed limit of 20 miles an hour was ordered and parking on the north side of Court street was forbidden this week.

The resolutions suggest that a speed limit within the city limits of Prestonsburg be established and enforced, thereby protecting our children and others who must thru necessity cross the city streets.

That parking of autos be permitted only on one side of First and Court streets, and that First avenue from the First National Bank to the Town Branch bridge be made a one-way street, allowing traffic to go south.

That the Mayor set aside the week of April 1 as Clean-Up Week and urge every property owner to have his premises cleared of unsightly debris and garbage, with special reference to our roadsides and river banks which would be natural beauty spots if they were kept clean and orderly.

That dangerous cracks and holes in city sidewalks and streets be repaired, thereby lessening danger to life and limb.

The Woman's Club, through the Public Affairs committee, expressed its appreciation of the improvements already made, approving in particular installation of the traffic light at the intersection of Court street and the Trail.
