AGE AND YOUTH FIGURE IN DUAL SLAYING FRIDAY

VICTIM'S SON ACCUSED

Old age and youth shot it out, says one version of a Left Beaver gun duel, the son of the older man avenged the death of his father, says another, as the Floyd circuit court grand jury began an investigation Monday into the deaths from bullet wounds last Friday at Buckingham of Turman Isaacs, 63 years old, and Bert T. Little, a man of about 24 years.

Turman Isaacs was fatally wounded by fire from Little's revolver, Friday afternoon at Buckingham railway station at 2 o'clock, dying an hour later. As Little turned to run or as he was running from the scene of the shooting, he was shot through the back of his neck and died instantly.

Claude Isaacs, son of Turman Isaacs, claims that his father, fatally wounded, shot Little as he ran. His story is substantiated by a statement accredited to his mother. On the other hand, H. B. Hall, Mrs. Ann Little and Miss Piney Mae Little, a sister to Bert T., are quoted as saying that the Isaacs, father and son, had threatened the life of Bert T. Little and were in search of him when the three men met just before the shooting took place. They claim, it is said, that Claude Isaacs shot Little as the latter started running from the scene of the shooting.

Claude Isaacs was quoted Monday by his wife as saying that he and his father had returned to Buckingham Friday from Prestonsburg and that they had visited the site of Claude's new home which was under construction following the destruction by fire of his home near the railway station on March 21.

While at the station, he is said to have stated, Little approached them and asked the elder Isaacs what he had said about him in connection with the burning of the home. This version says that Turman Isaacs told Little that he had said nothing about him but that he had said that he would not care to kill the person who burned Claude's home. Thereupon, this story continues, the elder Isaacs and Little "shot it out."

Burials of the two victims of this brief but sanguinary gun battle were buried Saturday afternoon—Turman Isaacs in the family cemetery at the mouth of Jack's Creek, and Little at Buckingham. Funeral rites of Isaacs were conducted by Rev. Hawk Hall, of Knott county. He is survived by the following sons and daughters: Dewey, Claude and Oscar Isaacs, Mrs. Maggie McKenzie, Mrs. Chloe Martin, Mrs. Lula Sammons and Miss May Isaacs. Little is survived by his mother, Mrs. Ann Little, and three sisters.

Claude Isaacs was acquitted in 1933 in circuit court here of the slaying of Buck Gray.

DOAK SUCCEEDS MOORE

R. B. Doak, deputy state tax commissioner for Pike and Floyd counties, and a former Prestonsburg resident, has been named highway maintenance foreman in Pike county. He succeeds John M. Moore, who has been appointed U. S. Marshal for the Eastern Kentucky district.

LEGION POST TO MEET ON ANNIVERSARY OF ENTERING WORLD WAR

Floyd Post, American Legion, holds its next meeting at the courthouse here Saturday evening, April 6, exactly 18 years after the United States entered the World War from which the Legion came into existence.

Commander J. B. Clarke, though convalescing in the Veterans' hospital, Huntington, W. Va., from a recent operation, will be unable to attend. Vice-Commander Joe Hobson will preside in his stead. Every veteran is urged to attend this meeting at which much is hoped to be accomplished for the good of the Legion.

TO SPEND $20,000 ON RELIEF PROJECT

Three Hundred Men To Get Work on Removing Slides and Filling Washes

Removing slides and filling washes caused by the recent flood in this county has been approved by Perry A. Rowe, director of works for the Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration, and will require the labor of 300 men.

A total of $22,118.40 will be expended on this project, which will find work being done in every section of the county in which roads have been materially affected by high waters.

With the beginning of work on this project, 1890 men will be at work on relief jobs in this county, it was said last week.

FOUR COUPLES MARRIED HERE BY POLICE JUDGE

Police Judge Alex H. Spradlin is well on his way to establishing a Gretna Green here, his records showing that he solemnized four marriages within two days this week.

On Monday the contracting parties were Miss Carabelle Turner and Mr. Otis Mills, both of Wayland, and Miss Mary Martha McCarty, of Paintsville, and Mr. Raymond Fraley, of Drift. Tuesday the happy couples were Miss Patsie Triplett and Mr. Marvin Dixon, both of Wayland, and Miss Nattie Ray and Mr. Kyle Reed, also of Wayland.

All these young people are well-known and have the best wishes of a host of friends.

FORMER FLOYD WOMAN WRITES MOUNTAIN SONG

Mrs. Delphine Mann, of Wilton Junction, Iowa, a daughter of the late Milton Nelson, has had published by a Chicago publishing firm the song, "My Kentucky Hills and You," words and music for which she recently wrote.

Mrs. Mann was born and reared in this county. After attending school here, she was graduated from a business college in Iowa. Her song is highly meritorious, and is offered for sale in an art cover bearing a mountain scene and a photograph of the author.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dyer, of Baltimore, Md., spent the week-end at Hillsdale, near here, guest of his brother, R. C. Dyer, and other relatives. Mr. Dyer enlisted in the navy several years ago and is stationed at San Diego, California.

Miss Jean Thomas will be the houseguest here of Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James the latter part of this week.

EXPECT ROAD WORK SOFT COAL STRIKE TO START IN APRIL AVERTED TILL JUNE

Work orders for beginning of grade and drain construction of the Hunter + McDowell road on Left Beaver will be issued to contractors on the project, it was said this week, as soon as deeds to all right-of-way along the route have been procured. So it is expected that work will begin on the highway, the latter part of April.

Agreements between all property owners and county officials have been reached, but infant heirs have interests in two tracts through which the road passes, and title to right-of-way through these two farms must be obtained through court action. It is expected that the right-of-way will be ready by April 22.

Officials are hopeful of remainder of the Left Beaver highway being let to contract within the next 30 to 60 days, it was said recently.

Agreement of Operators and Miners to NRA Scale Relieves Tension

Prevention of a strike which was to take place April 1 through the soft coal industry, including the Eastern Kentucky field, was averted last week when coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America agreed to the NRA's present wage scale. A walkout of approximately half a million men was thus postponed at least until June 16.

The threatened strike had created considerable anxiety among business men throughout this section. With work prospects gloomy, miners were hesitant about buying and business in general suffered temporarily. All differences for the present settled, however, and with prospects of a fairly good coal business ahead, business conditions in this section are expected to improve.

FORMER JOHNSON OFFICIAL, VICTIM

John M. Spradlin, 82 years old, a native of this county, died at his home in Paintsville March 23, a victim of senility. Mr. Spradlin was one of Johnson county's best-known citizens.

Born in this county August 22, 1852, Mr. Spradlin was a teacher for 14 years and a devout Christian since 1875. In 1903 he was elected Magistrate in District No. 1, Johnson county, an office he held till 1915. He was clerk of the Johnson county quarterly court from 1921 to 1926, and was admitted to the Johnson county bar in April, 1918.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Joanna Easterling Spradlin, two sons and two daughters: Mrs. H. B. Sherman, Walter and Dennis Spradlin, of Paintsville, and Mrs. S. H. McCausland, Pt. Pleasant, W. Va.

Burial was made in the Bridgeford addition to Paintsville.

TO GIVE BAKE SALE

The Methodist Missionary Society will have a bake sale on Saturday, April 29. Place of sale will be announced later.

MEDICAL SOCIETY IN MONTHLY MEET

Regular monthly meeting of the Floyd County Medical Society was held at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, March 27, with Dr. O. T. Stephens, vice-president, presiding in the absence of Dr. M. V. Wicker, president of the society.

Drs. O. T. Stephens, A. J. Davidson, J. E. Allen, Marvin Ransdell, L. A. Donoho, J. G. Archer, U. V. Massie, S. B. Casebolt, W. M. Townsend and John E. Looney attended the meeting.

Various committees were appointed and an interesting program was arranged for the next meeting which will be held at Martin Apr. 24. Dr. Marvin Ransdell will present a paper on Scarlet Fever, and Dr. Casebolt will hold a clinic. Dr. J. E. Allen, of Wayland, will have a case of tetany in a child to present before the meeting.

Misses Maurine Mayo and Susan Allen returned Tuesday from a visit of several days in Lexington and Cave City, Ky. In the latter place they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Salisbury.

Ford First Democratic Federal Judge In This District To Be Appointed

Lexington, Ky., March 30—Circuit Judge H. Church Ford of Georgetown was elevated to the federal bench here today when he was sworn in as judge of the Eastern Kentucky federal district.

Clad in the traditional black robe of the bench, Judge C. C. Moorman, of Louisville, senior member of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati, administered the oath of office.

More than 500 spectators, including Gov. Ruby Laffoon and other officials, thronged the courtroom in the new $75,000 federal building to witness the installation ceremony. The bench and the clerk's table were covered with floral greetings from bar associations, lawyers' clubs, individuals and close friends of the jurist. Judge Ford was escorted into the courtroom by Judge Moorman, who made a brief talk explaining the circumstances of the appointment.

With his right hand on verses 16 and 17 of the first chapter of Deuteronomy, Judge Ford swore to administer justice equally between the rich and the poor. This custom has been observed by every member of the federal bench since the first oath was administered in 1789. The Biblical verses furnish the pattern for the oath administered to federal judges.

The robe of office was placed about Judge Ford's shoulders by the U. S. Marshal. The jurist then took his chair and adjourned court. He plans to conduct his first term at Covington. He intends to take a recess Wednesday to go to

CANDIDACY OF CAUDILL FOR SUPERINTENDENT URGED IN THIS SECTION

Friends of Prof. W. M. Caudill, of Murray, Ky., brother of Circuit Judge John W. Caudill and former principal of schools here, are urging him to enter the race for the Democratic nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction. Nine Knott county officials recently issued a statement endorsing Professor Caudill for the office.

Professor Caudill has never hitherto engaged in politics. He is 47 years old. Mr. Caudill was the first member of the Murray State Normal faculty to be employed by the college board, and ever since has taught there.

ONE GIVEN LIFE IN MURDER OF HICKS

Estill Conley Convicted of Knott Murder-Robbery; Father Indicted

Estill Conley, 22 years old, was convicted in the Knott circuit court Friday of the murder of Hence Hicks, aged Knott farmer on Ball's fork two months ago, and was given a life sentence in the penitentiary. He was removed to the Clark county jail at Winchester for safekeeping.

Elisha Bolen, 19, and Silas Conley, father of the convicted man, held as his alleged accomplices, were not placed on trial during the court term at Hindman which ended Saturday. They are slated for trial in July.

The jury deliberated circumstantial evidence built up by the commonwealth for 26 hours. The prosecution produced testimony claiming that two sets of men's tracks led from the place where Conley and Bolen were working splitting rails to the spot on the Hicks farm where the aged farmer's body was found, and that these tracks returned to the scene of their work. It was also shown that Conley, before the slaying of Hicks known as a man high-penniless, had on the day following the discovery of Hicks' body a sum of money. Semi-expert testimony claimed that the .22-calibre bullet taken from Hicks' head was fired from a rifle found in the home of Silas Conley, the defendant's father.

The defense offered no testimony.

During the Knott court term 10 pleas of guilty to felony charges were made. One of these pleas resulted in Chester Isom, negro, drawing a 10-year term for the slaying of another of his race.

Strauda Bolen was convicted of the slaying of a youth named Taylor and was given an eight-year penitentiary term.

Elisha Bolen was released Monday under $7,000 bond for the first time since his arrest in the Hicks murder and robbery. Silas Conley is under $5,000 bond.

LIGON MINER TAKEN BY DEATH MARCH 28

Bud Wallace, Ligon miner, died at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, a victim of Bright's disease. He was about 60 years old.

Mr. Wallace came to this county from Carter county several years ago, and was a former employe of the mines on Stephens Branch, this county. He had many friends in this section. Mr. Wallace is survived by his widow. The body was returned to Ligon for burial.

GRAND JURY FILES FOUR INDICTMENTS IN MURDER CASES

Three Others Ready To Be Returned; Triplett Trial April 8

COURT RECESSES

Four murder indictments were returned Tuesday by the grand jury of the Floyd circuit court at the close of the second day of the present session, and indictments were drawn but not yet filed against three others accused of murder.

Those against whom murder indictments have already been returned are:

Claude Isaacs, charged with the slaying of Bert T. Little; "Pistol" Joe Hall, charged with the murder of Estill Little; Harrison Combs, alleged slayer of Milford Hicks; Tavis Flanery, Martin policeman, charged with the slaying of Walter Kiser, at Martin.

Joe Hall was convicted of the slaying of Willard Little at Wheelwright and was given a 15-year penitentiary term. He now stands indicted of the murder of Estill, Willard's son, who was fatally wounded in the fight in which his father died.

Those for whom murder indictments have been drawn but not returned are Frank Turner, negro, accused of the fatal stabbing of McKinley Williams, also colored; Tavis and George Newman, charged with the murder of Wilson Bates on Jack's Creek.

Trial of Cash Triplett, charged with the murder of Constable Bev Scott at Lackey, is the first murder case to appear on the present court docket, and is slated for April 8. Milton Tackett, who was indicted in the death of Reed Gunnels when struck by a car driven by Tackett, is to be given trial April 10.

Circuit court here adjourned until Monday with the close of Tuesday's session. The adjournment was made to permit attorneys to attend the state bar association in Louisville. Only misdemeanor cases were heard during Monday and Tuesday. Allen Triplett, of Wayland, was named foreman of the grand jury.

82-YEAR-OLD WOMAN PNEUMONIA VICTIM

Mrs. Susan Pennington, 82 years old, died at the home near here of her son, Walter Pennington, March 27 a victim of pneumonia.

Mrs. Pennington, one of the county's oldest women, had been a member of the Methodist Church for half a century. She is survived by her son here and a daughter, Mrs. Amanda Perkins, of Huntington, W. Va.

Funeral rites were conducted by Revs. Isaac Stratton and W. B. Craft, and burial was made in the Bingham cemetery on Town Branch.

ANOTHER UNION DAILY BIBLE SCHOOL PLANNED

Decision to hold another union daily vacation Bible school this summer was reached by the Prestonsburg Ministers' association at its regular monthly meeting Monday. Date for the school and other details are to be determined later. H. F. King, pastor of the Methodist Church, and Robert A. Potter, Presbyterian pastor, were named as a committee to investigate curricula material.

Odd Names Given To Creeks In Floyd County, Survey Says

The following letter was received from a former Floyd countian, who comments upon odd names given to creeks and localities in his native county:

As most of the creeks and branches in Greenup county are well known, I am submitting a list of some of the odd names of the creeks in Floyd county and see how they compare with the names in this county.

I was raised in Floyd county and lived there all my life until we moved to this county about eight years ago. I have played and traveled over all these creeks and know them like a book. There are no fictitious names on the list, as any Floyd countian will tell you.

We will begin with "Katy Friend" branch. Just over the hill is "Bull Creek." Then "Cow Creek," "Calf Creek," and "Heifer Creek." I have hunted coons and possums on all of these creeks many dark nights.

Then we have "Goose Creek," "Gosling Fork," and "Turkey Creek." And then there are "Buzzard's Roost" and "Pigeon's Roost." Those are all the creeks I remember now that are named after fowls. On Turkey Creek is a place called "Turkey Pen," so called because of the many turkeys which used to be captured there. The people built a large pen or trap in which to catch wild turkeys. They tolled them into the pen by strewing grain along the way and led them into the trap or pen. They could not get out, so hundreds of wild turkeys were caught there.

Then there is "Holly Bush," "Buckeye," "Brush Creek," "Beechy," and "Plum Fork." Most of these creeks got their names from the extensive growth of certain timber or shrubbery in that section. For instance, "Holly Bush" is fairly lined on both sides of the creek with holly. Laurel and holly used to fairly cover the mountains there. "Plum Fork" was a dense mat of wild plum growing everywhere. "Beechy" was a dense forest of heavy beech timber, and so it goes. Each creek is named for something it was once noted for. I do not know the particular origin of some of these creeks, although I was born and grew up among them.

Next, we have "Salt Lick," "Lick Fork," both getting their names from the huge salt rocks where cattle gathered to lick salt in the olden days when cattle ran on free range in the mountains.

Then there is a list of creeks such as "Jones Fork," "Jennys Creek," "Peters Creek" and "Wileys Branch." Most of these creeks were named after the first settlers who came there. Then we find "Punchoon," "Wildcat" and "Rough and Tough."

"Wild Cat" got its name from the many wildcats that once denned in that place. "Bear Creek" was once a dreaded locality for black grizzly bears. People were afraid to go through this part of Floyd county without a rifle on account of these animals. I have heard many thrilling bear tales repeated on "Bear Creek."

Some of the finest timber I have ever seen grows on these creeks, but how ruthlessly it is cut down and destroyed! Many a giant birch tree I have seen chopped to the ground by thoughtless boys, only to peel the bark for the juicy birch sap and eat all we wanted. I say "we," because I was often one of the group, and we thought nothing of cutting thought nothing about cutting down fine chestnut trees and leaving them on the ground to rot, merely to obtain a bushel of chestnuts. If a squirrel or coon climbed to the top of some fine tree and was hard to get out, we just chopped it down and left it to rot. We thought nothing about the destruction, because we were raised that way. No one gave any heed to destruction of timber. It grew in abundance everywhere, and its value was not appreciated.

I hope the people have awakened to the fact that these trees are valuable, and do not destroy them as ruthlessly as they did a few years ago. I certainly have learned better myself. I now think twice before I fall a tree. They are easy to fall, but oh, so hard to replace! And a hillside devoid of trees is desolate indeed.

AVERAGE AGE OF BUICK EMPLOYEES IS 40 YEARS

Flint, Mich., April 4—Approximately half of all hourly-paid employees of the Buick Motor Company are 40 or over and more than 43 per cent of the entire factory payroll have worked for the company continuously for 10 years or more.

Four out of five Buick workmen—a total of 79.5 per cent of the current working force—have been employed by the company continuously for five years or more. Older employees, from the standpoint of service and invariably from the standpoint of age, are given preference in all hiring for Buick jobs.

The average age of the factory personnel is 40 years.

This unusual employment record, believed to be outstanding in the automobile industry, was revealed in a survey of wage groups of the company made public today by Harlow H. Curtice, president and general manager.

The survey is based upon reports of three separate agencies; the finance sta., of General Motors Corporation, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and the Personal Division of the Buick Motor Company. It gives an age accounting of all employees on the company's payrolls during year ending Sept. 4, 1934, together with an insurance analysis for purposes of group coverage and service record data based on current Buick payrolls.

Are You Undecided?

PERHAPS you and your family have given serious thought to having a telephone in your home, but are not quite sure you really need it.

It is a matter which concerns everyone in the family. Think how much a telephone would help Mother with her shopping and household duties, and how Father would find it handy in many ways. The young folks too, would use it frequently in arranging social activities with their friends.

In addition, a telephone assures you prompt assistance in emergencies and quick personal touch with friends and relatives both in and out-of-town.

When you sum up the many advantages of telephone service, compared with the small cost of only a few cents a day, you will probably decide it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

Order your telephone today. Your friends will be glad to know you have one and every member of your family will enjoy it. Just call the telephone business office.

LINCOLN'S LETTER TO HOOKER

In a booklet bearing the title "Get Out or Get In Line," Elbert Hubbard extols the wisdom, patience and tact which President Lincoln revealed in a letter to General Hooker.

Hooker, says the Imperial Type Metal Magazine, by his outspoken criticism of the administration, had given Lincoln cause to fire him. He had also embarrassed his ranking officer, General Burnside. Despite this, Lincoln determined to promote Hooker to head the Army of the Potomac. In doing this, however, he realized that Hooker must be told something for his own good. In no other document is Lincoln's understanding of human nature so beautifully disclosed. Note how deftly he praises Hooker and how effectively he rebukes him:

Washington, Jan. 26, 1863
Executive Mansion

Major-General Hooker:

General: I have placed you at the head of the Army of the Potomac. Of course, I have done this upon what appears to me to be sufficient reasons, and yet I think it best for you to know that there are some things in regard to which I am not quite satisfied with you.

I believe you to be a brave and skillful soldier, which, of course, I like.

I also believe you do not mix politics with your profession, in which you are right.

You have confidence in yourself, which is a valuable if not an indispensable quality.

You are ambitious, which, within reasonable bounds, always does good rather than harm, but I think that during General Burnside's command of the army you have taken counsel of your ambition and thwarted him as much as you could, in which you did a great wrong to the country and to a most meritorious and honorable brother officer.

I have heard, in such a way as to believe it, of your recently saying that both the army and the government needed a dictator. Of course, it was not for this, but in spite of it, that I have given you the command. Only those generals who gain successes can set up dictators. What I now ask of you is military success, and I will risk the dictatorship. The Government will support you to the utmost of its ability, which is nothing more nor less than it has done and will do for its commanders. I much fear that the spirit you have aided to infuse into the army, of criticising their commander and withholding confidence from him, will now turn upon you. I shall assist you as far as I can to put it down. Neither you nor Napoleon, if he were alive again, could get any good out of an army while such a spirit prevails in it. And now, beware of rashness, but with energy and sleepless vigilance go forward and give us victories.

Yours very truly,
A. LINCOLN

In his comment on the letter, Hubbard points out that Hooker, in command, will probably be plagued by the very spirit he helped to engender. This leads to a condemnation of inside bickering, fault-finding and scoffing. Finally Hubbard launches the famous command: "If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him!" "If he pays you wages that supply you your bread and butter, work for him—speak well of him, think well of him and stand by the institution he represents."

He closes his exhortation with this fine paragraph:

"When you say to other employes that the Old Man is a curmudgeon, you reveal the fact that you are one; and when you tell that the policy of the institution is 'rotten,' you surely show that yours is. "Hooker got his promotion even in spite of his failings; but the chances are that your employer does not have the love that Lincoln had—the love that suffereth long and is kind. But even Lincoln could not protect Hooker forever. Hooker failed to do the work, and Lincoln had to try someone else. So there came a time when Hooker was superseded by a Silent Man, who criticized no one, railed at nobody—not even the enemy. And this Silent Man, who rules his own spirit, took the cities. He minded his own business, and did the work that no man ever can do unless he gives absolute loyalty, perfect confidence and untiring devotion."

THE NARRATIVE

CHAPTER I.—David Ransdell, approaching New York on the liner Europa, receives a succession of radiograms offering him $1,000, finally $20,000, for an exclusive newspaper interview divulging the mission that brings him from South Africa. Ransdell, noted aviator, has been secretly commissioned at Capetown by Lord Rhondin and Professor Bronson, the astronomer, to fly across the Mediterranean to the fast liner, with a large traveling case containing photographic plates. His instructions are to deliver them to Dr. Cole Hendron in New York. Tony Drake calls at the Hendrons' apartment. Ransdell arrives and Eva Hendron, with whom Tony is deeply in love, introduces Tony to Ransdell.

CHAPTER II.—New York newspapers publish a statement made by Hendron and Bronson in six by six of the world's greatest scientists. The prepared statement says that Professor Bronson has discovered two planets, which must have broken away from another star or sun and traveled through interstellar space for an incalculable time, until they came to a region of the heavens which brought them at last under the attraction of the sun. The statement ends: "Their previous course, consequently, has been modified by the sun, and as a result, they are now approaching us." The result of the inevitable collision must be the end of the earth. The approaching bodies are referred to as Bronson Alpha and Bronson Beta, the latter being the smaller—about the size of the earth.

CHAPTER III.—"It's going to be doomsday, isn't it?" Tony Drake asks Eva. "No, Tony—more than doomsday. Dawn after doomsday," she tells him. She explains that the first time the Bronson Bodies approach the earth they will not hit it, but the second time, one, Bronson Beta, will pass, and the other will hit the earth and demolish it. To devise means of transferring to Bronson Beta, so much like the earth, is what is occupying the minds of the members of the League of the Last Days.

CHAPTER IV.—Hendron tells Tony he is to be a member of the selected crew of the projected Space Ship which Hendron plans to build. The first time the Bronson Bodies approach the earth, the scientist advises him to gain a knowledge of agriculture and proficiency in manual arts and elementary mechanics. Tony rounds up suitable men and women to build the ship at a cantonment in Michigan established in northern Michigan.

CHAPTER V.—Hendron has not been able to find a metal or an alloy which will withstand the heat and pressure of atomic energy to be used in propelling the Space Ship. The night before Hendron and his immediate party are to fly to Michigan to take rush through the streets of New York.

CHAPTER VI.—The tides sweep back to the Appalachians on the east and to the mountains on the Pacific side, and quakes change the entire surface of the earth. The Washington government moves as many millions as possible to the great Mississippi valley. The Hendron settlement survives unprecedented earthquakes.

CHAPTER VII.—Bronson Alpha collides with the moon and wipes it out. Ransdell and Elliot James, an English poet whom Hendron has invited to join the colony, leave on an aerial reconnaissance, as the Hendron colony is in ignorance of conditions elsewhere. They return safely, reporting almost universal destruction throughout the country.

The first sun rays tipped the lowest clouds with gold.

Then the sound came unmistakably. For a full minute they heard the rise and fall of a churning motor—remote, soft, yet unmistakable.

"It's coming!" Eva said. She rushed to Tony and held his shoulder. Their eyes swept the heavens. Then they saw it simultaneously—a speck in the dawn atmosphere.

The ship was not flying well. It lurched and staggered in its course. Tony rushed to the cot where Dodson slept. "They're coming," he said, shaking the doctor. "And they may need you."

The ship was nearer. Those who beheld it now appreciated not only the irregularity of its course, but the fact that it was flying slowly.

"They've only got two motors," somebody said.

The plane made a dizzy line toward them. It flew like a duck mortally wounded. There was no sign of the men in the cabin. The pilot did not wiggle his wings or circle. In a shambling slip he dropped toward the ground.

"She's going to crash!" some one yelled.

Tony, Dodson and Jack Taylor were already in a light truck. Fire apparatus and stretchers were in the space behind them. The truck's engine raced.

The plane touched the ground heavily, bounced, touched again, ran forward and slowed. It nosed over. The propeller on the forward engine bent.

Tony threw in the clutch of the car and shot to it. With the doctor and Jack at his heels, he flung open the cabin door and looked into the canted chamber.

Everything that the comfortable cabin had once contained was gone. Two men lay on the floor at the forward end—Vanderbilt and James. Ransdell was unconscious over the instrument panel. Vanderbilt looked up at Tony. His face was paper-white; his shirt was blood-soaked. And yet there showed momentarily in the fading light in his eyes a spark of unquenchable, deathless, reckless and almost diabolical glee. His voice was quite distinct. He said: "In the words of the immortal Lindbergh, 'Here we are.'" Then he fainted. James was unconscious.

The truck came back toward the throng very slowly and carefully. In its bed Dodson looked up from his three charges. He announced briefly as way was made for them: "They've been through hell. They're shot, bruised, half-starved. But so far, I've found nothing surely fatal."

An hour later, with every member of the community who could leave his post assembled, Hendron stepped to the rostrum in the dining hall.

"All three will live," he said simply.

Cheering made it impossible for him to continue. He waited for silence. "James has a broken arm and concussion. Vanderbilt has been shot through the shoulder. Ransdell brought in the ship with a compound fracture of the left arm, and five machine-gun bullets in his right thigh. They undoubtedly have traveled for some time in that state. Ransdell's feat is one of distinguished heroism."

Again cheering broke tumultuously through the hall. Again Hendron stood quietly until it subsided. "This evening we will meet again. At that time I shall read to you from the diary which James kept during the past thirty days. I have skimmed some of its pages. It is a remarkable document. I must prepare you by saying, my friends, that those of our fellow human beings who have not perished have reverted to savagery, almost without notable exception."

When Hendron stepped from the platform, he went over to his daughter. He seemed excited. "Eve," he said, "I want you and Drake to come to the office right away."

Bronson and Dodson were already there when they arrived. A dozen other men joined them; and last to appear was Hendron himself. It was easy to perceive his excitement now. He commenced to speak immediately.

"My friends, the word I have to add to my announcement in the hall is of stupendous importance!"

"When we took off Ransdell's clothes, we found belted to his body, and heavily wrapped, a note, a map, and a chunk of metal. You will remember, doubtless, that Ransdell was once a miner and a prospector. His main interest had always been diamonds. And his knowledge of geology and metallurgy is self-taught and of the practical sort."

Bronson, unable to control himself, burst into speech. "Good G—d, Hendron! He found it!"

The scientist continued impassively: "The eruptions caused by the passage of the Bodies were of so intense a nature that they brought to earth not only modern rock, but cast quantities of the internal substance of the earth—which, as you know, is presumably of metal, as the earth's total density is slightly greater than that of iron. Ransdell noticed on the edge of such a flow a quantity of solid unmelted material. Realizing that the heat surrounding it had been enormous, he made a landing and secured specimens. He found the substance to be a metal or natural alloy, hard but malleable. Remembering our dilemma here in the matter of lining for the power tubes for the Space Ship, he carefully carried back a sample—protecting it, in fact, with his life."

"My friends,"—Hendron's voice began to tremble—"for the past seventy-five minutes this metal has withstood not only the heat of an atomic blast, but the immeasurably greater heat of Professor Kane's recently developed atomic furnace. We are at the end of the quest!"

Suddenly, to the astonishment of his hearers, Hendron bowed his head in his arms and cried like a woman.

Hendron stood before an audience of nearly a thousand persons. It was a feverish audience. He bowed to the applause.

"I speak to you tonight, my friends, in the first full flush of the knowledge that your sacrifices and sufferings have not been in vain. Ransdell has solved our last technical problem. We have assured ourselves by observation that life on the planet-to-be will be possible; man shall live; we are the forefathers of his new history. The wild applause proclaimed the hopes no one had dared to declare before.

"But tonight I do not wish to talk of the future. There is time enough for that. I wish to talk—or rather to read—of the present." He picked up from a small table the topmost of a number of ordinary note books. "I have here James' record of the journey that brought us salvation. I cannot read you all of it. This is the first of the seven notebooks James filed."

He opened the book. He read: "August 10. Tonight Ransdell, Vanderbilt and I descended at six o'clock precisely on a small body of water which is a residue in a bed of Lake Michigan. We are lying at anchor about a mile from Chicago."

"Following south along what was once the coast of Lake Michigan we flew over scenes of desolation and destruction identical with those described after our first reconnaissance. The world has indeed been wrecked."

"When we anchored here, sharply outlined against the late afternoon sun stood the memorable skyline of the metropolis—relatively undamaged! I recognized the Wrigley building, the Tribune tower, the 333 North Michigan Avenue building and others."

"We had landed on the water from the north. We anchored near shore and quickly made our way to land. All of us were armed. Lots were drawn to determine whether Ransdell or Vanderbilt would remain on guard beside the ship. I was useless in that capacity, as I would be unable to fly it in case of emergency. It was agreed that the lone guard was to take off instantly upon the approach of any persons whatever. Our ship was our only refuge."

"Vanderbilt was elected to remain. Ransdell and I started off at once toward the city. The pool on which we lay was approximately a mile in diameter and some two hundred feet below the level of the city. We started across the weird water-bottom. Mud, weeds, wrecks, debris, puddles, cracks, cliffs, and steep ascents impeded our progress."

"As we scrambled to the top of a sea-wall, the streets of the metropolis stretched before us—empty. Chicago was a dead city. We strained our ears and eyes. There was nothing. No light in the staring windows. No plume of steam on the lofty buildings. Unconsciously, we had both drawn our revolvers."

"Directly ahead of us were the skyscrapers of the northern business district. Large sections of brick and stonework had been shaken from the sides of the buildings, leaving yawning holes which looked as if caused by shell-fire. The great windows had been shaken into the street, and the sidewalks were literally buried in broken glass. A still more amazing phenomenon was noticeable from our position on the lake shore: the skyscrapers were visibly out of plumb, perhaps by as much as fifteen or twenty feet."

"We moved forward into the business district. We had crossed the railroad tracks before we found any holes; but on the other side they appeared here and there. It was necessary at times to circumvent an enormous pile of debris which had cascaded from the side of a building. It was immediately manifest that the people who had left Chicago had taken with them every object upon which they could lay their hands. The stores were like open bazaars; their glass windows had been broken in by marauders or burst out by the quakes, and their contents had been ravaged."

"We continued to notice that the dead on the street did not represent even a tithe of the metropolitan population, and I expressed the opinion that the passing of the Bronson Bodies must have caused a mighty exodus."

"Ransdell's reply was a shrug, and abruptly my mind was discharged upon a new course. 'You think they're all upstairs?' I asked."

"He nodded. A block farther along we came to an open fissure. It was not a large fissure in comparison with the gigantic openings in the earth which we had seen hitherto, but it appeared to go deep into the earth, and a thin veil of steam escaped from it. As we approached it, the wind blew toward us a wisp of this exuding gas, and instantly we were thrown into fits of coughing. Our lungs burned, our eyes stung and we snatched each other's arms and ran uncertainly from the place."

"Gas," Ransdell said, gasping. "No other words were necessary to interpret the frightful fate of Chicago; nothing could better demonstrate how profound was the disturbance under the earth's crust. For in this region noted for its freedom from seismic shocks and remote from the recognized volcanic region, it was evident that deadly, suffocating gases such as previously had found the surface only through volcanoes, here had seeped up and blotted out the population. These gases, largely hydrochloric, were heavier than air; and apparently they lay like a choking cloud on the ground. When those who escaped the first suffocating currents—and apparently they were in the majority—climbed to upper floors to escape, they were followed by the rising vapors. That frightful theory explained why there were so few dead on the street, and why no one had returned to the silent city."

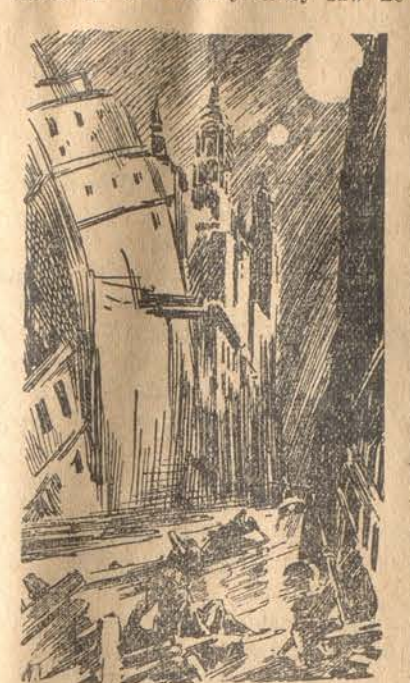

"Darkness was approaching, and moreover our single experience with the potency of the gas even in dilution warned us that a deeper penetration of the metropolitan area was more than dangerous."

"We found Vanderbilt sitting upon a stone on the shore beside the piano. We pushed out to it in the collapsible boat, and while we ate supper, we told him what we had seen."

"His comment perhaps is suitable for closing this record of the great city of Chicago: 'Sitting alone, I realized what you were investigating; for the first time, gentlemen, I understand what the end of the world would mean. I have never come so close to losing my nerve. It was awful.'"

Hendron turned a few pages. "I now skipping a portion of Mr. James' record. It covers their investigation of the Great Lakes and describes with care the geological uplifting of that basin. From Chicago they flew to Detroit. In Detroit they found a different form of desolation. The waters of Lake Huron had poured through the city and the surrounding district, completely depopulating it and largely destroying it. They were able to land their plane on a large boulevard, a section of which was unbroken, and they refueled in the vicinity. They saw no one. Cleveland had suffered a similar fate. They then continued their flight to Pittsburgh. I read from Mr. James' record:

"Like God leading the children of Israel, Pittsburgh remains in my memory as a pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night. As we approached the city, we saw smoke arising against the sky. Vanderbilt damped the motors and we dropped toward the Monongahela river, which was full to the brim of the levees and threatened to inundate the city. Earthquakes had half wrecked its structures. They lay broken and battered on 'The Point' which lies between the two rivers. Smoke and steam emerged from a rent in Mount Washington. The bridges were all down."

"Our ship came to rest, and we taxied cautiously toward one of the submerged bridges. I threw a rope over one of the girders, and we made fast. We went ashore by way of the taut rope."

"It was easy to perceive the cause of the smoke. A large area of what remained of Pittsburgh was in flames, and to our ears came clearly the din of battle. Rifles cracked incessantly; machine-guns clattered; and occasionally we heard the cough of a hand-grenade."

"It was not wise to proceed farther. Nevertheless, I insisted on going forward while my companions returned to guard our precious ship. I had not invaded the city deeply before bullets buzzed overhead. I took cover. Not far away, in a street that was a shambles, I saw men moving. They carried rifles which they fired frequently; and they wore the tattered remnants of the uniform of the National Guard."

"A squad of these men retreated toward me, and as they did so, I perceived their enemy. Far down the street a mass of people surged over the barricade-like ruins of a building. They were terrible to see, even at that distance. Half naked, savage, screaming, armed with every tool that might be used as a weapon—a mob of the most desperate sort. The retreating squad stopped, took aim and several of the approaching savages fell. In their united voices I detected the tones of women."

"As the guardsmen reached my vicinity, one of them clapped his hand to his arm and staggered away from his fellows to shelter. The squad was at that instant reinforced by a number of soldiers who carried a machine gun. The mob was temporarily checked by its clatter."

"I made my way to the wounded man, and he gratefully accepted the ministrations I could offer from the small kit I carried in my pocket. His right arm had been pierced. It was from him that I was able to learn the story of Pittsburgh."

5,335 NEW PONTIACS DELIVERED, MARCH 10-20

Pontiac dealers throughout the United States delivered 5,334 new cars during the second 10 days of March, which, with one exception, is the largest 10-day period the company has had since 1929.

This record just established exceeds the first 10 days of the month by 900 cars and forecasts a total for March of 16,200 deliveries, which has not been equaled since July 1929.

March deliveries of Pontiacs are running far ahead of last month as well as March of 1934, it was pointed out by factory executives. In February, the best ten day period produced 3,884 deliveries which in its turn was a record.

The total for the 20 days of March surpassed the total for the month a year ago by more than 1,700 units, while the second 10-day period in March 1934 was only 2,634, or less than one-half of the period just closed.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels, this poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the fall end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25¢ at drug stores.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET IS HELD

Thirty-four boys and 30 fathers attended the Father and Son banquet held at the M. E. Church, South, here Thursday evening and found in this group gathering a camaraderie too often missing from paternal and filial comradeship.

The Rev. Harry F. King presided as toastmaster. An interesting feature of the program was the stories told by the fathers present of their boyhood experiences in the traditional woodshed and the admissions made by the youngsters in telling of the times they should have been taken to the woodshed but were not.

The banquet was in every way a success, and Prestonsburg fathers and sons are hopeful that it will be an annual event. The banquet was sponsored by the Men's and Women's Bible classes of the Methodist Church.

Child, Aged 6; Victim After Drinking Whisky

A six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Crum, of Dwale, died Sunday, shortly after drinking, it is reported, a pint of red whisky his older brother had secreted in the home.

The little victim was buried Monday in the cemetery at Dwale under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, and of Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for April 7 THE HEAVENLY FATHER

LESSON TEXT—John 14:8-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him. Psalm 103:13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Heavenly Father. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Heavenly Father. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why We Call God Father. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Fatherhood of God.

The aim in the lessons of this quarter is to place before the pupils of the Sunday school some of the great doctrines of the Christian faith, as set forth in God's Word, with their practical application to the common relations of life.

I. Who Is the Heavenly Father (Gen. 1:1).

He is the almighty God who created the universe (Ps. 90:2). He was before all things. God is the infinite and perfect Spirit in whom we live and move and have our being. He is omnipotent, omniscient, and omnipresent. He was not only before all things, but the cause of all things.

II. What the Heavenly Father Does. 1. He created the universe (Gen. 1:1; cf. vv. 26, 27). The universe came into being by the will and act of the personal Being called God. Man himself is a creation of God.

2. He has provided salvation for lost men (1 John 4:9). He gave his only Son, that whosoever believeth in him might live through him (John 3:16).

3. He preserves us (Ps. 103:1-14). The preserving mercy of God embraces the following gracious beneficent acts:

a. He forgives all our iniquities (v. 3). This he is able to do because of the righteous provision he made for sin in the atonement wrought out by Jesus Christ.

b. He heals all our diseases (v. 3). This healing refers to the body and the soul. He first renovates man's moral nature and then his physical nature.

c. He redeems the life from destruction (v. 4). Redemption implies the payment of all demands against the debtor.

d. He satisfies the mouth (v. 5). God satisfies all legitimate desires, so that youth is renewed like the eagles. In redemption man's original capacities are restored to their native vigor.

e. He executes righteousness and judgment (vv. 6-12). The wrongs of life are righted and man is thus relieved of the burdens which they entail.

f. He pities his children (vv. 13, 14). The pity of an earthly father is but a faint suggestion of the sympathetic compassion of the heavenly Father.

4. He chastens his children (Heb. 12:5-11).

a. The fact (vv. 5, 6). Every one who is God's spiritual child experiences chastening, an unmistakable evidence of sonship.

b. How it should be received (vv. 6-8). It is the token of his love (v. 6).

c. The purpose of (vv. 9-11). It is to bring the child into subjection to induce reverence (v. 9). It is to produce holiness (v. 10). It is to develop fruits of righteousness (v. 11).

5. He cares for his children (Matt. 6:11, 25). The child of God who has come to know his heavenly Father as the almighty Creator and Preserver, whose very essential being is love, will trust the Father for daily bread without anxiety or fear.

III. The Heavenly Father Revealed in Jesus Christ (John 14:8, 9).

The supreme purpose of the coming of the Son of God was to reveal God (John 1:8). Only a being of God's essential nature could reveal him. Jesus Christ became man in order that he might reveal God to man. Only the one who knows Jesus Christ knows God.

IV. How Men Come to Know God as the Father (John 3:3-6).

It is through regeneration. The new birth is absolutely essential to a knowledge of God as the Father. We are children of God by faith in Jesus Christ (Gal. 3:26).

V. Our Responsibility to the Heavenly Father (Matt. 6:24-34).

The true child who has come to know his Father

1. Will give him undivided affection (v. 24). The child of God makes the unequivocal choice between the heavenly Father and the world.

2. He will not be anxious about food and clothing, as stated above.

3. He will diligently seek the kingdom of God and his righteousness (vv. 33, 34). He will subordinate temporal things to the things of the Spirit. This is not a warning against legitimate forethought but against anxious worry.

Fight Your Habits

The most truly religious thing that a man can do is to fight his way through habits and deficiencies, and back to pure, manlike elements in his nature, which are the ineffaceable traces of the Divine workmanship, and alone really worth fighting for.—Weiss.

Immortality

When, by nobler culture, by purer experience, by breathing the air of a higher duty, vitality at length creeps into the soul, the instincts of immortality will wake within us.

MISS THOMAS APPEARS HERE WITH FILM OF FOLK SONG FESTIVAL

Jean Thomas, founder of the American Folk Song Society, this week exhibited at the Unique Theater a silent film of the American Folk Song Festival held each year in the foothills of Kentucky under Miss Thomas' direction. Appearing with Miss Thomas was Tex Vanderpool, of Troublesome Creek, who sang a rare, old ballad, "The Cherry Tree Carol," which dates the birth of Christ as January 6, the day which many Kentucky mountain people still recognize as "Old Christmas." Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James and Tom James also appeared on the program and sang an ancient ballad, "The Twelve Apostles," and the "Ten Commandments."

ADAMS AMONG SELECT AT MOREHEAD COLLEGE

FARM FOR SALE

350 acres in Boyd County, Ky. on hard surface road known as the Princess Country Club road, 2 and one half miles from Princess and 8 and 1-2 miles from Ashland. There are approximately 100 acres or more in well drained bottom land in high state of cultivation, about 75 acres in good timber, 30 acres of timothy and clover, 9 acres of excellent alfalfa, and 100 acres in grass. The hill land all lays well. This is one of the best improved farms in Boyd County, the improvements consisting of the main dwelling, an eight room frame house with metal roof, four tenant houses, one large tobacco barn, one large stock barn, one concrete block dairy barn, cribs, scale house, granary, two silos, chicken house and other necessary outbuildings, farming implements and tools. ALSO included is a one-half interest in a herd of Registered Herefords. This is probably the finest herd of Registered Herefords in this end of the State and consists of twenty cows, seven calves and a good herd bull. This is one of the best farms, equipped and stocked, in Eastern Kentucky. It is at present operated by a good farm manager who has built up a fine business in the sale of horses and mules, and is an established buying place for teams, which business alone should pay a good interest on the investment. Price $21,000.00, one third down, balance may be financed over a long period of years at a low rate of interest. For further information address

You need 4 Refrigerators

A safe food preservation temperature alone is not complete refrigeration. You need four different temperatures—each for a different purpose.

ONE for the making of large quantities of frozen desserts and salads, quickly

another for keeping fish, meat or game indefinitely at below-freezing temperatures

another for
record fast freezing—emergency freezing of ice cubes and frozen delicacies and a 4th for keeping food at a safe preservation temperature in the food compartment

YOU GET ALL 4 in 1 in a KELVINATOR

The beautiful, new SD Kelvinator models have these 4 different refrigeration services in the one cabinet—an exclusive feature.

Come in and let us show you and explain this great feature in detail. And you will easily understand why 4 refrigerators in 1 is generally regarded as the outstanding the most desirable feature in electric refrigeration to-day. No obligation to buy.

METROPOLITAN STAR ON FORD HOUR, APR. 7

Rose Bampton, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company and considered one of the most beautiful feminine artists in opera, will be guest soloist with the Ford symphony orchestra and chorus, under the direction of Victor Kolar, in the Ford Sunday evening hour broadcast on Sunday, April 7. The program is heard from 9 to 10, Eastern Standard time, over a coast-to-coast network of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Miss Bampton is another in the list of purely American artists who have been presented in the Ford Sunday evening hour broadcasts. She was born in Cleveland, but was brought up in Buffalo. Most of her musical training was received at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, and her professional career was launched with the Chautauqua Opera Association, thus linking her early life with another distinctively American institution. She was only 20 when she made her debut with the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, and since that time has been an artist of the world, rather than one of purely national prominence.

Ford First Democrat

Louisville for the annual meeting of the Kentucky State Bar Association.

Judge Ford, who was appointed by President Roosevelt to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge A. M. J. Cochran, of Maysville, became the second judge of the Eastern District. He is the first Democratic judge of that district and the first Democratic federal judge in Kentucky since the War Between the States. Cochran, a Republican, presided over the district for nearly 33 years.

Circuit Judge of the fourteenth judicial district since 1931, Judge Ford attracted state-wide recognition by the manner in which he passed on important state cases at Frankfort.

After the installation ceremonies, Judge Ford held an impromptu reception in the judge's office behind the courtroom, where part of the throng gathered to greet him. He was accompanied by Mrs. Ford and their two daughters, Alice and Katherine.

WAYLAND DEBATE TEAM IS WINNER

In First Debate Tourney To Be Held Here; Wheelwright, Runner-Up

Wayland's debating team, as was predicted by one debate coach after hearing the upper Right Beaver debaters in the debating competition at Pikeville recently, won the championship of the Floyd County Forensic League in the tournament held here Friday. Wheelwright's team was the runner-up.

Wayland, Wheelwright, Lackey, Garrett and Prestonsburg high schools entered teams in the tournament, which was held in the auditorium of Prestonsburg high school. In the first round, Wayland defeated the neighboring Lackey trio, and Wheelwright eliminated Prestonsburg. It was determined by lot that Wayland then should debate Garrett's team, the former emerging winner.

Names of the winning debaters, three girls, are Laura McComas, Herma Daniels and Lucille Fannin. As county debate champions they were presented for a one-year custodianship a beautiful cup donated to the Forensic League by County Clerk A. B. Meade. A gold medal also was presented to each member of the championship team.

Judges of the series of debates were Mr. Williams, principal of Paintsville schools; Mr. Branham, Johnson county attendance officer; Rev. H. F. King, Rev. Josef Nordenhaug; A. C. Harlowe, B. F. Combs and Miss Minnie Grace Harris, all of Prestonsburg.

School and League officials, as well as others who participated in or attended the tournament, expressed the opinion that the Forensic League had been very successful in its first year's work in organized debating, as was shown by the close contests and fine debating skill featuring the tourney. The annual oratorical contest will be held here April 26, it is announced by Palmer L. Hall, Auxier, originator of the oratorical competition and also president of the Forensic League.
