ALLEGED SLAYERS FUGITIVES AFTER JAIL BREAK HERE

Hicks, Bradley and Coleman
Uncaptured Following
Break Monday Morning

YOUTH NABBED

Two men charged with murder and two others held for lesser violations escaped the Floyd county jail Monday morning, between 2 and 3 o'clock, and three were yet at liberty when this was written Tuesday afternoon.

The fugitives are: Silas Hicks, alleged slayer of Mrs. Bethel Boggs, a few weeks ago at Gibson railway station.

Curtis Bradley, who was returned from Michigan to the Floyd county jail three weeks ago by Floyd officers and Cal Clark, one of his bondsmen, after Bradley had forfeited the bond he executed when he was indicted by the grand jury of the Floyd circuit court of the murder of Clyde Conley at Maytown.

Buster Coleman, accused of breaking into a drycleaning plant on Right Beaver Creek, but whose guilt had been doubted.

John Adkins, a youth, charged with possession of a deadly weapon.

Adkins was captured on Right Beaver Creek Monday night by Deputy Sheriff Ransie Marcum.

F. N. (Bud) Tackett and Mrs. B. L. Sturgill, wife of Jailer Sturgill, said the men were confined to cells in the second story of the jail, and, after breaking the locks to the "slam" doors, made their way to the third story, where they broke locks leading into a hallway at the end of which was an old opening caused by a previous jailbreak. From there they swung to the ground by means of blanket ropes without arousing members of the Sturgill family sleeping in rooms on the first floor of the jail. Jailer Sturgill was out of town at the time of the break.

'Greatest Subject In Ky.'

Is Floyd County, Judge Arnold Tells Huntington Business Men; Caudill, Milby on Program Welcoming Visitors

Judge E. P. Arnold spoke, he said Wednesday afternoon in his address before the members of the Huntington "Get-Acquainted Tour," on "the greatest subject in Kentucky—Floyd county." And Prestonsburg folk, assembled in the courtyard here, found these men, members of the Huntington Chamber of Commerce, "just folks," friendly, not asking the privilege of telling us about Huntington but, rather, asking us to tell them about Prestonsburg and Floyd county.

And they were told. Briefly and succinctly, because, perhaps, the time they could spare for this part of the program was short.

"I can't tell you in the five minutes I have been given what you should be told about Floyd county. The subject is too big. When you gentlemen left West Virginia this morning you entered Floyd county. When you leave Kentucky this afternoon, you will leave Floyd county. It all at one time was Floyd, the mother county."

Judge Arnold was introduced by Circuit Judge John W. Caudill, who extended a traditional Kentucky and Floyd

JOHN P. ADAMS DIES AT WEST PRESTONSBURG HOME OF HIS DAUGHTER

John P. Adams, 81 years old, died Sunday at the home in West Prestonsburg of his daughter, Mrs. Mollie Clay, following an illness of two months resulting from infirmities of advanced age.

Born and reared in the vicinity of Myrtle, where he had resided throughout life. Mr. Adams lived the peaceful life of a farmer and was one of the county's best men. He was born June 30, 1854.

His wife, Mrs. Rhoda Adams, died a year ago. He is survived by five daughters: Mrs. Clay, Mrs. C. L. Hyden and Mrs. Hattie Vanderpool, of West Prestonsburg; Mrs. Clarence Osborne and Mrs. Belle Howard, of Ashland. One brother and one sister also survive: G. W. Adams, of Myrtle, and Mrs. Martha Alley, of Kermit, W. Va.

Funeral rites were conducted at the graveside in the family cemetery at Myrtle, the Rev. Joel Conley and the Rev. Wendell Bayes officiating. Burial was made under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

HUGHES IS FOUND DEAD ON TRACKS

Millard Hughes, a son of Joe Hughes, Sunday morning was found dead on the railroad tracks at or near Northern where he was killed by a train. It was not learned if he was killed when he attempted to board the train or if while on the tracks.

One foot and a hand were severed, and the victim was injured internally. His body was taken to Knott county by E. P. Arnold and funeral rites were conducted there Tuesday. Other information was unavailable when The Times was published this week.

Mrs. M. J. Léete submitted to an operation last week at the Marting hospital, Ironton, O. Her condition, her many friends will be glad to learn, is favorable to her early recovery.

county welcome to the visitors, and who as "master of ceremonies" accentuated the need we all have of becoming better acquainted with each other. William D. Anderson, vice-president of the Huntington Chamber of Commerce, expressed for the visitors their pleasure in visiting Prestonsburg. Charles D. Milby, president of the Kiwanis Club here, concluded the program with a cordial invitation to the visitors to tour Prestonsburg and to become acquainted with its citizens and business men.

Two special buses bore the visitors here, and they were accompanied by two sound-equipped cars, one of which was the West Virginia safety car. Among those visiting Prestonsburg and other towns of the Big Sandy valley were:

W. B. Anderson, Jr., Wm. Ayers, Fred Bätz, Nick Carter, M. L. Clovis, Mayor Martin V. Chapman, A. J. Darragh, Herman P. Dean, H. T. Diehl, W. L. Gebhardt, Byrd Gwinn, George W. Hanshaw, D. W. County Court Official Here
Flies to Bedside of Brother

Robert Allen, 48 years old, native Floyd county man, died at St. Joseph's hospital, St. Paul, Minnesota, at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning as the result, it was said by relatives here, of a blood clot on the brain. He had been ill about two weeks.

One of Prestonsburg's Best
Men Succumbs to Pneumonia Saturday

In the death at his home here Saturday morning of N. Y. Beavers this section lost one of its oldest and best citizens. Mr. Beavers succumbed to pneumonia which developed two days prior to his passing, and his death, unexpected as it was, came as a severe shock to his host of friends.

Nathan Yancey Beavers was born October 16, 1848 in Bakersville, North Carolina and died at the age of 86 years, 10 months and 16 days.

As a boy he moved to Virginia and later came to Floyd county. He was married on September 7, 1878 to Charity Scutchfield, of Bull Creek. To this union were born seven children, four of whom preceded their father in death. The three who survive are Palmer Beavers, of Ashland, Ky.; Mrs. W. C. Goble and Henry Beavers, of Prestonsburg. He is also survived by three grandchildren, James Y., Naomi and Dora Goble, and one great-grandchild, Patricia Sue Goble, and other relatives.

He had been a Christian for more than 40 years and had been a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church for 25 years. His simple, child-like faith and consistent Christian life have been a testimony to his family and his host of friends who mourn his loss.

Following a brief service at the home Sunday afternoon, the body was taken to the Presbyterian Church from which the funeral rites were conducted by the Rev. Arnold T. Malmberg, of Prestonsburg, and the Rev. W. E. Donaldson, of Pikeville. Both ministers paid high tribute to the life of Mr. Beavers, and the Rev. Robert A. Potter, pastor of the church, whose illness prevented his officiating at the funeral, contributed a beautiful tribute which was read at the service. Favorite songs of the deceased were rendered by the church choir. Burial was made in the Mayo cemetery under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

TO PLAN PROGRAM

A congregational meeting will be held at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock when a program for the church for the following year will be considered. The Rev. Robert A. Potter is not expected to be able to attend because of illness which has confined him to his room since a few days after his return here from a vacation spent with his parents in Texas, but he asks that all members of the church help by being present and by taking part in planning the year's work.

MRS. FRED PATTON PASSES SUDDENLY

Heart Attack Held Responsible for Death of Well-Known Woman Here

Mrs. Fred Patton, 44 years old, died suddenly at the Patton family's apartment in the residence of W. H. Brown Monday evening at 5 o'clock, a victim, it is held, of a heart attack.

Mrs. Patton, wife of a driller in the local gas field and a highly respected woman, had been ill for some time, but her sudden death came as a shock to her many friends in this section. She had been able to be about her rooms, had eaten dinner and was talking to a girl employed in the apartment, it is said, when the fatal seizure came. She died before medical aid could be summoned.

The victim was a daughter of Green Stone, well-known Knott county farmer, and was a sister of Dr. C. R. Stone, prominent Prestonsburg dentist. Besides her husband, she is survived by two young sons. The body was taken by E. P. Arnold to Raven, Knott county, her old home, for burial Wednesday in the family cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Straughan of Campbellton, W. Va., are guests here of their daughters, Mrs. C. H. Corbin, and Mr. Corbin.

Records Achieved by Floyd Judging Teams Outstanding

Scoring 1,328 points out of a possible 1,500, three Floyd county 4-H club boys last week won the poultry judging championship in competition with teams from 14 other counties at the Kentucky State Fair.

Thus was furnished the climax to a judging team record made under the coaching of County Agent S. L. Isbell which is one of the finest ever achieved in Kentucky. During the last five years Isbell-coached judging teams have won two second places, one third, one sixth, and, this year, the championship. His demonstration team at Junior Week, Lexington, a few years ago was a champion.

At the State Fair last week, Carmel Clark, a member of the Floyd county judging team, made 470 of a possible 500 points for the high score of the competition. W. L. Baldrige, Jr., and Harvey Howard, the other team members, scored 434 and 424 points, respectively. An outstanding feature of their work in this competition was their perfect written tests.

One former 4-H club member who, last year, attended agricultural college, said that the training he received under County Agent Isbell made his "ag" course duck soup for

COURT ADJOURNS UNTIL U. S. COURT TRIAL IS FINISHED

Dewey Shepherd Draws Three-Year Term in Shooting of Woman

INDICTMENTS LISTED

The Floyd circuit court Tuesday noon was obliged to bow to U. S. district court at Catlettsburg. The local court did so by adjourning until Thursday when, it is expected, the relief case trial at Catlettsburg will be near enough to completion to permit witnesses and officials to return home.

Circuit Judge John W. Caudill explained that so many persons needed to expedite the trials at the circuit court term were in Catlettsburg, and that so many not already gone were wanting to go, he saw no other course open other than to adjourn circuit court until Thursday.

Last week, the only case of importance on the felony docket was that of Dewey Shepherd, who Friday received a three-year penitentiary term for shooting and wounding with intent to kill Rebecca Hicks on Open Fork of Middle Creek recently. The Hicks woman, aged about 23, was shot in the back, a bullet allegedly fired by Shepherd entering near her shoulder blade and emerging from her arm. Shepherd executed bond, pending appeal.

Indictments on felony charges returned by the grand jury since The Times' last report follow:

Herman Perry, robbery of James Hopson in a Prestonsburg poolroom, of $7.

Claude and Milt Mosely, breaking from McDowell jail.

Lillian Craft (or Leah Hall) and Bill Adams, robbery of William Hall, from whom they are alleged to have taken $635.19 on Jack's Creek.

Dick Mosely and Harry Moore, escape from McDowell jail.

The annual poultry culling contest to determine the personnel of the team to represent the county at the State Fair is one of the annual features of the 4-H club program in Floyd county. This, County Agent Isbell emphasizes, provides a thorough training in poultry raising and judging, a training which is invaluable in an industry from which Floyd farmers derive a main source of income.

In the statewide competition at Louisville last week Garrard county won second place, Pike third and Knott fourth. The competition was unusually keen, and the victory scored by the Floyd county boys is thus all the greater.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Martin and daughter, Helene, of Roanoke, Va., arrived Sunday for a two-weeks visit here Mrs. Martin's parents, Col. and Mrs. S. C. Ferguson.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Combs left this week, going to North Carolina, where they will spend the next fortnight.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Clark and daughter, Doris Ann, left Saturday for a 10-day vacation in Michigan.

MINE FIRST AID WINNERS NAMED

Eastern Ky. Contest Held At Stearns Is Witnessed By 1,300

Stearns, Ky., Sept. 15—The Van Lear first aid team of the Consolidation Coal Company today ranked first in the Eastern coal field, holding the championship trophy awarded at the mine rescue contest here yesterday. The contest events were witnessed by a crowd estimated at 1,300 persons.

Second prize in the Eastern Kentucky contest in which 34 teams from practically every mine in this part of the state were entered, was won by the team representing the Inland Steel Company, Wheelwright. The Consolidation Coal Company's team from Jenkins was awarded first honors in the mine rescue contest.

Pain Passes Off

When your head aches; when Neuralgia tortures you; when Muscular Pains make you miserable—take a Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pill.

Mr. Smith is one of millions who have found this easy way to prompt relief. He says:—

"I keep Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills in my pocket and when I get a dull heavy feeling in my head, I take a Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pill and the pain passes off."

DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS

Forty-five judges from the state mining departments of Tennessee and Virginia picked the winners. The contest was sponsored by the Kentucky State Department of Mines and Minerals, under John F. Daniels, superintendent, Joseph F. Davies, of the United States Bureau of Mines, stationed at Norton, Va., was in charge of the events.

Two explosions in a miniature coal mine constructed on the baseball field here featured the afternoon program. The blasts were arranged as a demonstration of what actually occurs when an explosion happens. Dust from the mines in Harlan, Elkton and Stearns fields was used in the blast.

District winners in the first aid events were: Big Sandy, Consolidation Coal Company, Van Lear; Cumberland River, Stearns Coal and Lumber Company, and Hazard, Hardy-Burlington Coal Company, Hard-burly.

'CALL OF CUMBERLANDS' LAUDED BY 'RADIO DIAL'

The column, "Around the Dial," regular feature of "Radio Dial," thus lauds Harrison Elliott, author, and the cast of "The Call of the Cumberlands," which was broadcast over the National Broadcasting System August 24:

"Whether it's the 'American opera' the critics keep talking about, I'm not prepared to say. But I'm certain Harrison Elliott's 'The Call of the Cumberlands' (NBC from WLW, Aug. 24) was exceptionally enjoyable. It had a freshness and indigenous vigor that lifted it far above ordinary. Even the lack of professional slickness enhanced its genuine charm. WLW did something worth while when it aired this arrestingly original work."

An interesting article, accompanied by Mr. Elliott's photo, appeared in "Musical America," rated as the country's leading musical publication; and on August 24 "News Week" published a story of young Elliott and his work.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

BY Gordon Wilson, Ph.D.
WESTERN KENTUCKY TEACHERS COLLEGE
BOWLING GREEN, KY.

Civilization, in spite of its blessings, is the enemy of most of the things that make up our cultural education. With education comes sophistication, which rarely sees any value in customs that differ from standardized forms, which sells the old furniture and buys the new, which doubts the value of anything that has attained a great age. Such rapid changes are taking place that a middle-aged man of our time finds it difficult to create the conditions of his childhood. The student of folk-lore, like the lover of antique furniture, sees a value in customs that are passing and tries to rescue them from oblivion. He has no desire to oppose inevitable change; he hopes, rather, to record what men have thought and done, so that students of other times may be able to visualize a little more accurately the conditions under which their ancestors lived.

Kentucky is rich in folk-lore. Because of the late development of our educational system we still have in many parts of the state almost primitive conditions. It is a challenge to the student of folk-lore to study vanishing mantras and habits before they have utterly disappeared. The pioneers came to Kentucky almost in a body. Within a lifetime of the earliest settlers the state grew from a few forts in the wilderness to a populous commonwealth. It was less than 50 years between the settlement of Harrodstown and Boonesborough and the complete occupancy of the Jackson Purchase, the "last West" of Kentucky. Most of the settlers were English, Scotch, and Scotch-Irish, but there were a few Germans from Pennsylvania and Huguenots from the Carolinas. There is, then, a fairly close relationship between any two sections of the state. While numerous bodies of immigrants have settled in Kentucky since Pioneer times, few of these have left any very noticeable influence, except in the coal-mining areas in the mountains and in the cities along the Ohio River. The early settlers and their descendants always have been dominant in determining the customs peculiar to our state.

Our folk-lore is largely that of the time of Queen Elizabeth, when the earliest settlements were emigrating in large numbers to northern Ireland, taking with them their age-old customs and traditions. Potato famines and the lure of free land drove thousands of the Scotch-Irish to America. In language and traditions they were quite similar to the English of the tidewater areas of Virginia and the Carolinas. Conservative of their customs, language and traditions, as all emigrants are, especially in places remote from the main lines of travel, these early settlers and their descendants have preserved almost intact what has elsewhere been wholly or partially lost.

For longtime Kentucky was the half-way house between the older settlements and the new. Boford roads and railroads were built across Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, Kentucky, with its Wilderness Road and Ohio River, was the point of departure for the unsettled regions to the north, south and west. Some of the pioneers on their way to the newer regions got only so far as Kentucky; others returned after a stay on the borders. In these ways we have received all sorts of stories, songs, and customs that owe their origin to regions far away, to supplement those brought by the first settlers.

From time to time I shall discuss in this column various phrases of Kentucky folk-lore; songs and ballads, superstitions, folk customs, folk industries, language, and passing institutions. Various members of the Kentucky folk-lore Society, who have done original investigations in these fields, will aid me in the preparation of such articles as are concerned with their individual researches. It is hoped that these brief sketches and essays will awaken Kentuckians to the value of our folk backgrounds and will promote further investigations by professional and amateur alike.

WHICH WAY SOUTH?

I have just returned from a trip south on U. S. 23, the Mayo Trail, as far as Kingsport, Tenn., and a return trip over U. S. 25, the Dixie Highway. As these are rival routes for north and south travel to the district around Asheville, and on to Florida, perhaps my impression of the two will interest some of my readers.

To sum it up in the beginning, I believe that a traveler who lives east of a line running north and south through Columbus, O., would find U. S. 23 by far the more attractive route south, and certainly much shorter.

The section between Louisa and Paintsville has been very much improved by the oiling of the road to the Johnson county line. This is now a wide, level road. Of the approximately 10 miles left, between three and four miles will soon be concreted and the rest will probably be oiled in the near future.

From Paintsville through Pikeville to Jenkins is fine, broad highway in good condition with the exception of a few miles of oil on the Jenkins end. Within a few days that will have dried sufficiently to give no trouble whatsoever. From Jenkins to Norton, Va., is fair blacktop road, as good as the average, and from Norton on to Kingsport, Tenn., is now very fine road, much improved by recent repairs near Gate City, Va.

Now to consider U. S. 25.

port at Tate Springs. From there strike this much more direct route, which is toward until you reach Clinch River. From there to Tazewell, a distance of more than 20 miles, it is not paved, more dusty than 23 has ever been at any point and very rough. Certainly that would more than decide me in favor of 23. It is far worse and much longer than the small unimproved stretch left in Johnson county.

The Kentucky part of 25 is good except for about 10 miles between Richmond and the Kentucky river, which is now under construction and very rough.

As to the distance, a tourist living in Columbus, for example, who wished to drive to Florida would find it fully 50 miles shorter to take U. S. 23 than to drive to Cincinnati or Lexington and strike 25. He would find himself passing through much more attractive country scenically and would be able to make better average time because of the better surfaces.

Tourists soon learn these things and the automobile clubs who direct them probably already know them. Travel to the southward later this year should be heavy because of generally improved conditions.

Many more people are going to Florida than for five or six years past. This should be an advantage to Eastern Kentucky, through which the Mayo Trail runs. The final paving of every mile of that highway in Kentucky is now in sight and should be an accomplished fact by the end of next year.

Already one sees along that route cars from many states. The serving and entertaining of tourists will be a continually increasing source of income along this route.

For those who live in Ashland, Jenkins and points between, the improvement in facilities for rapid and comfortable travel is pleasing and mutually beneficial. — Ashland Daily Independent.

DAVIS, A SOPHOMORE, STARRING IN PRACTICE

The outlook for a successful football season at the University of Kentucky, promising when Coach Chet Wynne called his squad together for the first practice on Sept. 2, grows more rosy as the opening of the season approaches. With two weeks of preliminaries behind them, the Wildcats are fit and ready for the curtain raiser on Stoll field September 21, with the Maryville College Highlanders.

The squad of more than 40 husky candidates, representing all sections of the state, has been working out twice a day since the beginning of the practice season and the few scrimmages have demonstrated to the coaching staff that Kentucky will be well represented on the gridiron this fall despite the terrific schedule which must be faced.

Even at this late date, with the opening game just around the corner, Coach Wynne has not determined just who will compose the first team line-up.

It is evident, however, that sophomores will play an important part in the development of the 1935 edition.

Outstanding sophs include three fine, stalwarts backs, Bob Davis, a speedy, shifty halfback from Dayton, Ky., whose running, passing and punting already have stamped him as a real triple-threat man; Vincent Robinson, 177-pound quarterback from Richmond, who passes and punts from the port side, and Elmore Simpson, a crashing fullback from Bessemer, Ala., playing at 123 pounds, are causing plenty of favorable comment.

Shining sophs seeking line positions are topped by Sherman Kinkebein, center; 'Red' Hagan, Russell Ellington and Jim Goforth, Louisville ends; Homer Nicholas, Ashland, guard; and Harris Rhodes, Stanford, tackle.

Blue Grass Firm Earns
10 Per Cent for Quarter

Lexington Grocery Company, Lexington, Ky., which is mainly owned by Eastern Kentucky men, held its stockholders' meeting August 28, at which time it announced net earnings of 10 per cent for the quarter ending June 30. The company also earned 10 per cent in the first quarter of the year, and the June 30 report shows their earnings boosted to 20 per cent for the first six months of the year.

At the August 28 meeting, Homer Elam, of West Liberty, was elected first vice-president, and Everett Nickell, of Elk Fork, was elected director.

The Lexington firm has shown exceptional progress since it was organized in March of last year, having paid dividends of 14 per cent at the end of the first year. It is headed by H. H. Wheeler, of Paintsville, who is also president of the Sandy Valley Grocery Company there, with branches in Ashland, Louisa, Pikeville, Prestonsburg, West Liberty and Salersville.

MRS. MAYO WINS PRIZE IN NATIONAL CONTEST

Mrs. J. D. Mayo, of Prestonsburg, is the winner of a $5 cash prize in the nationwide "Make It Yourself" contest conducted by Sears, Roebuck and Co. Mrs. Mayo was awarded one of the ten fifth regional prizes in the senior division class for wearing apparel for women and children.

More than 47,000 entries from all of the 48 states were received in the Sears contest, it was announced. To provide an opportunity for as many as possible to participate and share the $15,000 in prize money, Sears divided the contest into six classes, $10,500 being offered for 1,080 regional awards in the senior division, $2,700 being reserved for 480 junior winners and $1,800 going to the ten survivors in the national elimination.

Church organizations, clubs and schools also were eligible to enter the contest the same as individuals. Workmanship, color selections, design, neatness, cleanliness and individuality are the qualities by which entries have been appraised by the judges.

GOES TO WILLIAMSON

Miss Mabel Layne, former teacher in the Paintsville Public Schools, left for Williamson, W. Va., last week where she has accepted a position as teacher in the Williamson city schools. Miss Layne is a splendid teacher and is one of the most deserving young ladies Paintsville ever produced. She is a graduate of Berea College and is the youngest graduate to finish from that institution. Miss Layne's mother, Mrs. May Layne, will go to Williamson with her daughter where the family will reside in the future.—The Paintsville News.

Miss Layne a few years ago was a teacher in the Prestonsburg schools.

CLUBWOMAN DISCUSSES PROBLEMS OF TOWN

To the Editor of The Times: We, a committee appointed by the Woman's Club at its regular meeting, Sept. 10, 1935, to report on conditions in Prestonsburg, make the following statement:

Is Prestonsburg a good town morally and sanitarily for me in which to rear my son and daughter?

What have we as a town to offer as an inducement to outsiders to come into our town?

We have some of the best people on earth. But are we blind to the dirt and rubbish on our streets, to the open saloon on most every public corner, to signs saying "Whiskey sold here?"

Is that any inducement for anyone to come to Prestonsburg?

We do have good schools and good teachers, but on the streets leading to those schools are saloons. Perhaps they wouldn't use the old name, "Saloon," but what else could it be when whiskey, beer, gin and other drinks are sold here and you meet drunken men and boys reeling from these places at all times of day and night? Is that a safe place for your little son and daughter to pass? "Vice is a monster of so frightful a mien, to be hated is but to be seen; but seen too oft, familiar with its face, we first endure, then pity, then embrace." There was a time not so long ago when we had a clean town. Our young folks helped. Each had something to do in their churches and we had no saloons.

But have we become satisfied "first to endure, then pity, then embrace," destruction? And are we traveling leisurely along with them? It is told of a drunkard starting to the saloon through the snow: on looking back, he saw his little son jumping after him, and asked what he was doing. He replied, "I am stepping in your tracks, Father." Is your boy stepping in your tracks? Are you setting an example for your son and daughter? Do we want a clean town? It's up to the mothers and fathers of Prestonsburg to decide whether we want a clean town or not.

There's an election in November. Stop and think before casting your vote. Ask yourself the question, "Is this man I'm voting for of good moral character, one whom I can trust to set the right example before my children, a man who can and will give us a cleaner and better town?" We also will be called upon to vote on a constitutional amendment — whether it will be legal to sell whiskey in Kentucky.

Mothers, fathers, how will your vote be cast?

RETURN FROM TOUR

Mr. and Mrs. Joe I. May, of Betsy Layne, returned recently from a western tour which Mr. May won as a result of his success as salesman for the Business Men's Assurance Company. The tour, all expenses of which were paid by the company, included Colorado and other western states. Mr. May was one of the 55 of the company's 500 representatives who won this honor.

Settlement Expedited Rehabilitation Program

Plans to expedite the rural rehabilitation program in Kentucky whereby farm families are being taken off relief rolls and helped to economic independence were announced this week by the Resettlement Administration. Homer H. B. Mask, of Raleigh, N. C., regional director, Rural Resettlement, also made public new regulations to govern extension of rehabilitation loans.

Farm families now on relief rolls, or farm families which have exhausted farm credit in an attempt to keep off relief, are eligible to apply for rehabilitation loans. Families are to be selected on the basis of experience, character and the ability to conduct farming operations.

"The purpose of these rehabilitation loans," said Mr. Mask, "is to provide employment and to assist farm families in making their own way. We are extending loans to families which satisfy the Resettlement Administration of their desire and ability to become self-supporting if given some small assistance in the form of a loan with which to carry on farming operations. Funds which the Resettlement Administration is advancing is to be repaid."

In Region IV, comprising the states of Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia, 19,359 farm families are now receiving such aid through the rehabilitation program formulated last year by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. Families accepted under the past program have been transferred to the Resettlement Administration, and will continue to receive loans in accordance with previous agreements.

MAY REUNION HELD NEAR HERE AUG. 25

On Sunday, August 25, the annual reunion of the May family was held at the home of Bascom May near Prestonsburg.

This was the ninth annual meeting of the May family, the entire family of the late Samuel May. The first reunion was held at the home of Dr. W. B. Rubin son, of Mt. Sterling, Ky., whose mother was the eldest daughter of Samuel May. At all of these meetings each family of this generation was well represented. The register at this meeting showed 260 present. Among these were Mr. and Mrs. John May, of Colorado, others from Ohio, Virginia, Mt. Sterling, Sharpsburg, Nicholasville, Cynthiana, Winchester, Harrodsburg, Salyersville and Pikeville.

At an early hour the members of the various families began to arrive, bringing with them baskets of food which was spread upon a large table at 12 o'clock. Just before the word was passed that those present should partake of the good things to eat, David May, a patriarch of 88

Additional applications for rehabilitation loans are now being considered. Careful investigations are made of each applicant's assets and record before action is taken on the application.

"The nature of this program," Mr. Mask said, "demands close attention to each family's problem. It is hoped that the extension of a loan will make it possible for these families to become self-supporting. In each county the farm and home demonstration agents are available to work out a sound management plan which will offer the best opportunity for profit. Loans will be extended only after all details covering the investment of money, and a plan of repayment, have been worked out."

If their individual farms require it, farmers will be financed with loans to purchase farm tools, livestock, feed, fertilizer, building material, and other needed equipment. When necessary, loans may also be utilized for the payment of land rent, farm labor, breeding fees and for needed food and clothing.

"We are not going to extend loans to help families try to make a living on submarginal land," Mr. Mask emphasized. "Good farmland is the first requisite in carrying out a practical farm operation such as these rehabilitation plans constitute."

Rehabilitation loans may be extended from terms probably ranging from two to five years. Five per cent interest will be charged. Amortization plans in general will provide for retirement of the principal in two to five equal installments.

years and a devout Christian, offered a solemn prayer of thanks to the Great Physician to look down from His throne of grace and shed His tender mercies upon those present at this memorable occasion.

After all appetites had been satisfied, Dr. Robinson, president, called the meeting to order. Business was transacted and interesting talks were made by David May, Frank May, William May, H. F. Patton, Tom H. Lauhon, Rev. Isaac Stratton and R. A. Burke. About 4 p. m., the relatives began to take their departure and while all expressed themselves as having spent an enjoyable day, still the parting of friends, as usual, brought a feeling of sadness tinged with fear that within another year some face might be missed or a voice stilled forever. Many voices, blended in rendering that beautiful hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

The next meeting will be held at the home of Dixie May Polley, Winchester, Ky., a daughter of William May, of Pike county.

SPEAKING OF GOLF— TRY MATCHING RECORD MADE BY BIG SANDIAN

Now that the summer golf season is over, and all the winners have been lauded by the column, it is within the province of The Times to tell of a record made in a golf tournament in this section recently that hangs it all over anything we've heard in these parts.

It was the recent Big Sandy golf tournament held at the Paintsville Country Club. Dr. Paul B. Hall, titleholder in the Big Sandy for the last two years, was defending his title and was considered the favorite to retain it. There were numerous contenders, and some were given a fair chance of winning. Denny Blair whose sensational driving last year made him a strong contender, but who lacked just enough finesse in iron play and putting to win, was one of those competing this year.

Denny had played but three rounds this year previous to entering the tournament qualifying rounds. Everybody knew he would knock the ball a "country mile" down the middle of the tee, but what about his iron play? Well...

In the two qualifying rounds he shot a 34, even par, and a 39. The same screaming wood shots, and more—definitely iron play onto the greens and sensational putting. Then in the tournament itself:

Defeated C. H. Corbin, Prestonsburg, 6 up and 5 to play, shooting even par.

Defeated Coach Walker, Paintsville, 8 and 7, one under par.

Defeated Dr. Paul B. Hall, defending champion, 5 and 4, two under par.

Defeated Dr. Thompson, Pikeville, 7 and 6, two under par.

In the four matches young Blair lost only one hole, the seventh, on his first round with Dr. Hall, and was five under par.

Which is shooting golf in any company, take it from a duffer who sometimes has nightmares dreaming about par.

DEATHS LEARNED DATA LACKING FOR OBITUARIES

Mrs. Mexico Pitts died Friday night at her home on Middle Creek.

Mrs. Hyden, mother of Roe Hyden, of Prestonsburg, died at her home on Johns Creek.

INTRODUCE COURT RECORDS IN TRIAL

Floyd Murder Trial Figures in Pike Case; Newsome, Defendant

Circuit Clerk Troy B. Sturgill and Deputy Circuit Clerk W. C. Goble were called to Pikeville Saturday to present Floyd circuit court records in the trial of Robert Newsome, charged with the murder of Cline Tackett, Pike county deputy constable. The records introduced in the trial by Mr. Sturgill and Mr. Goble were of Newsome's trial here, a few years ago, for the murder of a man named Daniels at Drift. This evidence was introduced because Newsome is being tried under the habitual criminal act.

Trial of the case was continued on into this week.

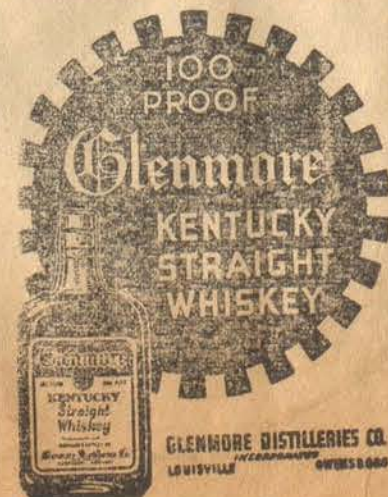

Glen Osborne, a deputy constable, was the first witness introduced. A short time before Tackett was killed he and Taikett, while in a truck with Garrett Johnson, met and passed Newsome and his two brothers, Earl and Dave, on the Mayo Trail, near Joe Ramsey's store on Shelby Creek. They decided to go back and arrest them and charge them with being drunk, he said. When they came upon the three he left the truck and told them they were under arrest, Osborne said, and attempted to search Earl Newsome. Earl refused to be searched. In the meantime, Osborne testified, he started to take hold of Robert Newsome when Robert shot Tackett in the shoulder, and as Tackett sank to the ground fired a shot into his back. Neither Tackett nor Roberts spoke, he said. Tackett died instantly. Shortly after the shooting a car stopped on the scene bearing Magistrate Burke and others who placed the three Newsomes under arrest. Osborne testified that Tackett had arrested Robert Newsome about a week before on charge of drunkenness. A half other witnesses described the shooting.

Monday testifying in his own defense Newsome told the jury that he shot the deputy constable, after Tackett seized him by the shoulder, shoved him around and exclaimed with an oath, "I would rather kill you than arrest you." At the time, Tackett was in the act of drawing his pistol, Newsome said, and Tackett's hand remained on his pistol as he sank after he was shot, and Newsome fired a second shot for fear Tackett would shoot.

Newsome said he could not account for firing any other shots at the time. He had shot twice at a snake at the side of the road a short time before, he said. He denied being drunk and said he had attended a United Mine Workers meeting at Pikeville, earlier that day. He had taken one drink that day, he added. He also denied being drunk a week before when Tackett arrested him.

Traffic Warning—Don't Frighten The 'Hosses'

The Big Sandy News-Recorder in its "37 Years Ago Column," published last week, turns back the pages of time thusly:

"Bicycle riders were warned not to run swiftly past a horse drawing a buggy, as horses wearing 'blind' bridles were apt to be frightened by sudden and noiseless appearance of bicycles from the rear."

The whole world then, from this present-day perspective, was "country." A horse that frightens, these days, at any noise less than a bomb explosion is a "country hoss." Horses "broke" to modern ways are undismayed by automobiles and trains, though it is possible they might become excited at the rare sight of a bicycle.

To reverse the order of 37 years ago, as so briefly and sentimentally told by The Times' contemporary, it might be said drivers of horses should have a care about rounding a curve too fast into the view of some of these moderns who have been reared to believe that the only system of locomotion is by automobile. Aside from being unused to the spectacle of a horse, what some drivers imbibes makes them "see things, anyhow."
