

COAL RATE SLASH UPHHELD BY COURT

Way Cleared for Construction of Tipple and River Terminal

IS MAJOR VICTORY

Ruling of the Supreme Court cleared the way for construction of the proposed coal tipple and river terminal at Catlettsburg by Big Sandy coal operators at a cost of $260,000.

Completion of this project will provide transportation of the coal product of this section by river from Catlettsburg on to market.

Soft coal operators in the Big Sandy field in northeast Kentucky Monday won their two-year fight for lower railroad rates equal to those of the competing Logan field in West Virginia.

The supreme court of the United States unanimously upheld the finding of a three-judge federal court at Charleston, W. Va., July 17 which ordered the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company to equalize its rates from the Kentucky field to the Ohio river with those from the West Virginia field to the river. The decision was read by Justice Hughes.

The Charleston court had held an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission in February. It found the Kentucky operators were forced to pay $1.17 a ton freight on the West Virginia operators paid 50 cents. The ICC ordered a 50 cent rate for the Kentucky operators.

The railroads appealed both the ICC and lower court rulings. Meanwhile it advanced the Logan rate from West Virginia to 75 cents and cut the Big Sandy rate from Kentucky to 87 cents, which left a 12 cent differential compared to the former 67 spread.

Through the lower federal court approved the ICC order. The supreme court had delayed its effective date. The government law attempted to have this set aside on October 13. The supreme court had advanced the entire argument on November 13.

ST BIG SANDY NEWSPAPER UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Big Sandy News, oldest Big Sandy weekly newspaper, published last week was published under new management, ownership of the publication passed to the hands of the publisher, M. F. Conley, and Earl W. Kinner associates.

TUBERCULOSIS CLAIMS LIFE OF ABBOTT MAN

Corbett Miller, 26 years old, of Cliff, succumbed Wednesday, last week, at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, to tuberculosis from which he had long suffered.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wash Miller, well-known Abbott Creek residents. Besides his parents, the victim is survived by several brothers and sisters. Mr. Miller was a young man of excellent character and had many friends and relatives who mourn his passing.

The body was returned to the Miller home and funeral services were conducted Friday, with burial following in the family cemetery under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

SAVING OF SEVEN MILLIONS PLANNED

By Tax Reduction Body; Meeting Held in Ashland Last Week

Means of saving the taxpayers $7,000,000 a year were discussed at a group meeting of members of the 1936 General Assembly in Ashland last week. This and other meetings in various Kentucky cities were arranged by the Kentucky Tax Reduction Association.

An explanation of the legislative measures advocated by the association was made by Judge Richard Priest Dietzman, former chief justice of the court of appeals and by George T. Holmes, secretary of the association. These measures include the following:

1. Unit plan of tax assessments for city and county, whereby one tax assessor shall make all assessments in the county.
2. Assessment of real estate every two years instead of annually.
3. Unit plan of tax collections whereby one tax collector in each county makes out tax bill for each taxpayer, showing the tax rate for each governmental unit separately and making the distribution after collection to each of these units.
4. Establish a single board of tax supervisors for city and county, eliminating present duplicate functions of present separated boards.
5. Abolish the salary of county law librarian and provide that the county attorney shall serve ex-officio in that capacity.
6. Abolish the fee system of paying county officials, the fees to be deposited in the public treasury and the officials to be paid a fixed salary. This procedure is now being followed in 36 of the states.

The Association estimates that the County Budget Law and other measures included in the 1934 legislative program made possible the saving of $5,000,000 a year in tax money, and that the measures to be advocated at the 1936 session will increase this amount to $7,000,000.

SHOTGUN FIRE CLAIMS TWO LIVES

RELIEF IN STATE TO END NOV. 30

Government To Offer Only Work After That Date, Goodman Says

Relief in Kentucky is over at the time this is published today, November 30, as far as the Federal Government is concerned.

Unless the state of Kentucky the various counties and municipalities formulate an immediate plan, 16,000 citizens and their approximately 65,000 dependents unable to work on any job face destitution. The Federal Government in the future offers only work to those persons eligible to work relief.

George H. Goodman, Works Progress and Kentucky Emergency Relief Administrator, received the instructions in the form of a terse telegram from Washington to end direct relief. The telegram allotted Mr. Goodman $205,000 with which to immediately liquidate the affairs of the KERA as soon after November 30 as possible. Previously the state had been allotted a sufficient sum for relief until November 30.

STREET PROJECT IS LOST, CLAIM

Friend Street Paving Work Loss Explanation Vague; Headquarters Queried

Somewhere between Louisville and Paintsville, The Times was told this week, the paving project for Friend street here has been lost.

This was learned upon inquiry why work had not been begun on the street while construction was already under way on a thoroughfare serving only a few property owners, a fraction of the number of persons accommodated by Friend street.

Mayor A. C. Carter said he had made diligent inquiry after the project and that the Paintsville WPA office made only vague replies, indicating that the project had been "lost in the shuffle." Residents of the section of town thus deprived of improvements now are seeking proper steps to take in order to be re-instated along with the remainder of the town in the improvement program.

FLOYD YOUTH GIVEN FLORIDA JAIL TERM, COMPANION RELEASED

Two Floyd county youths and another from Pike county were arrested in Jacksonville, Fla., last week in connection with breaking into a filling station there. One of the trio whose name was given as George Stidham, 20, of Garrett, was given a six months jail sentence. A companion booked as Charles Meade, also of Garrett, was released.

James Milam, 16, Pikeville, was released to Pike county authorities. He is alleged to have admitted breaking into two Pikeville stores.

MORGAN SPRADLIN CALLED BY DEATH

Illness of Year Fatal Monday to Brother of Former County Official

B. Morgan Spradlin, 42 years old, well-known Floyd county man, died at the King's Daughters' hospital, Ashland, at 3 o'clock Monday morning, a victim of kidney complications and high blood pressure.

Mr. Spradlin had been in ill health for almost a year and had been taken to various hospitals for treatment. Though it was known that his condition was serious, his passing came as a severe shock to his many friends and relatives here and elsewhere throughout the county.

Ben Morgan Spradlin was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Martin F. Spradlin, and was born and reared at Dewey, this county. He lived the peaceful life of a farmer, and held the friendship of all who knew him.

The body was brought here to the home of his sister, Mrs. Bess S. Williams, from which a brief funeral service was conducted Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. Harry F. King, of the M. E. Church, South, and the Rev. A. C. Harlowe, of the Baptist Church. From here the body was taken to the home of his brother, Ex-Magistrate R. L. Spradlin, the old Spradlin home at Dewey, where funeral rites were conducted Wednesday at 10 o'clock, the Rev. Arnold T. Malmberg, of the Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

Mr. Spradlin is survived by one brother, R. L. Spradlin, Dewey, and two sisters, Mrs. Bess S. Williams and Miss Josephine Spradlin, Prestonsburg.

MARTIN MAN INJURED BY AUTO SUNDAY NIGHT

John Roberts, well-known Martin man, was struck and painfully injured by an automobile near Martin Sunday night. Officials here traced, through the license plates of the auto, ownership of the car to Clarence Logan, a son of E. E. Logan, of Estill.

The injured man was taken to the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, where he was said Monday morning not to be seriously injured. Young Logan had not been arrested Monday morning, The Times was told, and it is not known what charge will be placed against him. Details of the accident are not known here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rose left this week to spend Thanksgiving in Grayson with Mr. Rose's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Moore are spending Thanksgiving with Mr. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Moore, in Ashland.

TEACHER SHOT TO DEATH AS FAMILY FEUD IS RESUMED

Seland Cook Killed on Jack's Creek; Daniels Slain at Hunter

HALL JAILED HERE

Lead death from the muzzles of shotguns, one fired as the result of a drunken row, the other writing another tragedy in the record of a family feud, resulted in the slaying Saturday of two men on Left Beaver Creek, this county.

The victims were Jeff Daniels, youthful miner, of Hunter, and Seland Cook, 45, veteran Floyd county teacher.

Azzie Hall, 22, of Hunter, is in jail here, facing a murder charge in connection with Daniels' slaying, but Curtis Cook, 17, alleged slayer of Seland Cook, had not been arrested when this was written Monday.

Seland Cook was killed less than a week after he had been given a directed acquittal in the Knott circuit court for the slaying of Curtis Cook's father, Bill Cook, well-known Knott county merchant. One version of the slaying says the younger man called the teacher from a home on the head of Jack's Creek and pumped four charges from a repeating shotgun into his body. Another claims that he two met and that Curtis Cook fired only when the other reached for his revolver.

The Cook feud had its inception in the peaceful environs of a schoolroom on Jack's Creek in 1933. Seland Cook and his son Ralph were teachers, Ralph the principal. The latter is said to have sought to chastise one of the Cook brothers, Curtis or Barksdale for an alleged infraction of school rules.

As the Cooks, father and son, were going home they met the brothers. A fight followed, Ralph Cook was mortally wounded and Seland was so seriously shot that his life for a time hung in the balance.

Death From the Air Barring the Inventor The Republican Odds To Starve Italy

Warfare in Ethiopia consists largely in surprising the enemy in some narrow gorge or valley.

Arthur Brisbane

England really has free speech. On your soap box in Hyde Park you may say what you please, if you do not advocate crime.

But England does not like free speech from another country, through the ether. The British Broadcasting company will not let Marconi talk from Rome to Englishmen over the radio.

Those that make betting a business are often sound in their political judgments. They are at least cold, calculating; sentiment does not cloud their vision.

On the Republican Presidential nomination the betting now stands:

Senator William E. Borah, 8 to 1. Governor Landon of Kansas, 10 to 1. Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, 15 to 1. Col. Frank Knox of Illinois, 15 to 1. Governor Hoffman of New Jersey, Ogden L. Mills, Senator David A. Reed, all 20 to 1.

Professional bettors agree that Governor Landon is gaining, and will probably lead the procession at 6 to 1 in a few days. Band wagon climbers are more and more polite to Governor Landon.

The "sanctions" wall thrown by England and France around Italy, smaller nations co-operating, to "suffocate and starve Italy," as Mussolini puts it, is now complete. Two million young organized Italians protest against the effort to punish Italy for doing to Ethiopia what England and France have done to other, more nearly civilized countries.

H. G. Wells, aged sixty-nine, younger and more brilliant than when he wrote "Doctor Moreau's Island" and "The War of the Worlds," now in America on his way to see Hollywood, says, "The film is a finer art than the novel, stage or the opera."

Mr. Wells' open mind proves his youth. The moving picture is greater in its possibilities than book, stage or opera, because it contains all three, plus the marvelous power of photography.

Britain's ambassador is conferring with our State department concerning Japan's plan to seize Chinese provinces, containing 95,000,000 Chinese, 35,000,000 more than the total population of Japan.

If the Japanese could control, arm and use 100,000,000 Chinese in the air and on the ground, that would be interesting. But it would not be our business, and it is to be hoped that the British will not persuade our State department that this country ought to attend to it.

Spiritually, politically and otherwise important is the proposed "merger" approved by bishops of the three branches of the Methodist Episcopal church. Together, the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and Methodist Protestant church would number 7,500,000 members, the largest Protestant group.

Young men are coming back into fashion. Dr. Alan Valentine, only thirty-four, former master of Pierson college at Yale, is made president of Rochester university and starts well by denouncing the "hallyhoop" of college athletics, football especially. He speaks with authority, not as a weakling bookworm, for he was a college athlete at Swarthmore, member of the Olympic team at Paris in 1928.

The American Bankers association reveals the interesting fact that our banks hold fifteen thousand million dollars' worth of government bonds—in figures, $15,000,000,000.

Well might a most important official of the government say: "Inflation! We have it now, biggest ever seen, frozen in the banks. Wait until it breaks loose."

After the Tory election in England prices went soaring on London's stock exchange. Companies that make war weapons and materials were most buoyant. The masses had voted for more, bigger and better battleships and navy necessary.

Japan Suddenly Squelches North China Autonomy Scheme—Italy Struggles Against Economic Sanctions—President Talks to Mayors About Taxes.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

JAPAN suddenly learned that the autonomy movement in the northern provinces of China, fostered by the Japanese army commanders, was likely to prejudice her case in the naval conference soon to open in London. Therefore the army high command in Tokyo told its subordinates on the continent to "lay off," and the ambitious schemes of Maj. Gen. Kenji Doihara came to naught, at least for the present. That plotter, who had become known as "the Lawrence of China," quietly departed from Peking and his early return was not expected.

Thus, for the first time in recent years, the Japanese militarists have been checked, by the Tokyo government, which informed them that the mission of the Japanese army in Manchukuo did not include intriguing for separation of the Chinese provinces and that it would not be permitted to pass south of the great wall without an imperial order.

Instead of the autonomy coup, the Nanking government was told by the Japanese authorities in China that it must institute reforms in the northern provinces. Akira Ariyoshi, Japanese ambassador, had a long conference with Dictator Chiang Kai-shek in Nanking, and told the press he had received assurance that the Chinese government was adequately prepared to cope with the situation in north China. Ariyoshi said he had also received assurance that Nanking desired to continue friendly relations with Japan.

Neutral observers in China are not convinced that the autonomy movement will not be revived at the first opportunity.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has gone to Warm Springs, Ga., for his annual visit, and for three weeks will divide his time among rest, politics and work. He was to deliver one speech at Atlanta; and after his return to Washington he will journey to Chicago to deliver an address on December 9 which probably will be an argument for a permanent AAA.

Following his Chicago speech, President Roosevelt will go to South Bend, Ind., to accept an honorary degree and make a brief address at the University of Notre Dame. The acceptance of this invitation was considered an adroit political move because of his recent refusal to take any action concerning the Catholic persecutions in Mexico.

SOMETHING new under the sun is now being tried out—an economic war to put a stop to a military war. Fifty-two nations are united in the imposition of sanctions against Italy, which became an outlaw nation on November 18 by decree of the League of Nations.

Four league nations, all unimportant, refused to participate. They are Austria, Hungary, Albania and Paraguay. Indirect support is given the league by two non-member nations, the United States and Germany. Nearly all the world's chief ports are closed to Italian goods, and exports to Italy of arms, war materials and a long list of key products has stopped. Loans and credits for the Italian government, public bodies, corporations and individuals are forbidden.

Should this momentous action succeed, it would seem that the end of Benito Mussolini and the Fascist regime in Italy is in sight. Should it fail, the League of Nations fails, the British communications in the Mediterranean were threatened, and the peace of the world would be menaced.

Standing steadfast against the sanctions, Premier Mussolini proclaimed the day on which they were established "a day of ignominy and infamy," as had been declared by the Fascist grand council. The day was made a holiday, flags flew from all buildings and there were numerous angry demonstrations against the member nations of the league. The frontiers of Italy and its ports were closed to goods of those nations except for certain necessities. Restrictions of food, fuel and light were put in force.

It was announced in Rome that 100,000 of the recently mobilized soldiers would be given a furlough of three months to aid industrial and agricultural production.

There were new negotiations for peace, fostered by the British and French, and the Italian authorities were deeply interested but said the war would not stop until Italy had possession of a large strip of Ethiopia.

As for the Ethiopian war itself, Mussolini announced an important change in commanders. Gen. Emilio de Bono was recalled with warm praise for having achieved his mission "under exremely difficult circumstances" and was to be elevated to the rank of marshal. Gen. Pietro Badoglio, chief of staff, was appointed to succeed De Bono as commander in chief of the invading armies.

Emperor Haile Selassie made two airplane trips to the fighting fronts, visiting Harar and Direwawa and inspecting his troops in the South. The government at Addis Ababa denied Italian claims that 2,000 Ethiopians had been killed in a terrific battle with Italian fliers. The communique said: "Information from the commander of troops in the region of Makale states the recent intensive bombardment of their positions by ten Italian planes caused thirty deaths and slightly wounded fifty. Instead of the 2,000 killed as mentioned in the press communique from Asmara."

POPE PIUS surprised the world by naming twenty new cardinals, who will be installed at a secret consistory December 16 and a public one December 19. In the group are fifteen Italians, two Frenchmen, one Argentine, one Spaniard and one Czechoslovakian. With these additions the sacred college will have sixty-nine members, the largest number in the history of the church and only one short of the full complement. The sacred college will now be composed of thirty-nine Italians and thirty non-Italians.

The pope also named the Most Rev. Joseph C. Plagens, recently auxiliary bishop of Detroit, as bishop of the diocese of Marquette—Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Most Rev. Gerald P. O'Hara, auxiliary bishop of Philadelphia, as bishop of the Savannah diocese.

WHEN a hundred mayors, assembled in Washington to discuss the work relief program, called on the President, he talked chiefly about taxes, which he said "have grown up like Topsy in this country."

Mayor La Guardia

He then announced that he planned to call a conference of city and state officials late in the winter for the purpose of studying the whole system of taxation which, he said, should be simplified. Concerning the matter of continuance of relief, Mr. Roosevelt told the mayors:

"It is a question that you have to combat. My answer, and I am sure yours will be the same for city governments, is that we do not propose to let people starve. Some people will be surprised to find that the gigantic works program will be substantially carried out by the end of November, just as it was planned last spring."

The mayors elected F. H. La Guardia of New York president of their annual conference and Edward J. Kelly of Chicago vice president, a position usually leading to the presidency the following year. La Guardia succeeds Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee.

The mayors recommended that the social security act be amended to include old age pensions for municipal employees and urged co-operation by cities with the Department of Justice for the suppression of crime.

CHAIRMAN HENRY P. FLETCHER of the Republican national committee issued a call for a meeting of the committee in Washington on December 16 to fix the time and place of the party's national convention of 1936 and to consider the apportionment of delegates. It was reported that Chicago was in the lead among the cities seeking the convention.

Mr. Fletcher also announced the appointment of a committee of sixteen prominent industrialists and lawyers to raise a big campaign fund. William B. Bell of New York, president of the American Cyanamid company, will be chairman of the committee, and Charles B. Goodspeed, assistant treasurer of the Republican national committee, Chicago lawyer, will be vice chairman. Many of the members have never before participated actively in national politics.

DAVID A. REED, former senator from Pennsylvania, heretofore considered a possibility for the Republican Presidential nomination, has eliminated himself from the competition, explaining that he lacks "political sex appeal." What that is he couldn't exactly define, but he said: "Roosevelt has it. But I discovered last year that I didn't. I'm not a candidate for any public office."

JESSE H. JONES, chairman of the RFC, let it be known that the New York Central railroad has agreed to repay $15,000,000 which it borrowed from the corporation. The loan, which matures December 1, will be repaid out of the road's $25,000,000 cash balance. The repayment will be the largest ever received by the RFC from a railroad. In return the RFC agreed to extend until July 1, 1941, the remaining $11,809,000 which the New York Central owes to it.

STAR DUST Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

I HOPE you heard ZaSu Pitts when she did "Dulcy" on the radio; it was a relief to hear her and not one of her imitators. Incidentally, she's quite interested in those girls who do impersonations of her; says she's always wanted to hear one, but somehow she just never has. And I wish you might know that same ZaSu Pitts; you'd like her so much.

ZaSu Pitts.

She journeyed to New York to do that broadcast, and spent most of her time shopping for her children—her daughter, who is thirteen, and her adopted son (Barbara La Marr's little boy, you'll recall), who is a little younger. She started out at the crack of dawn each morning and was on hand when the stores opened, to buy simple frocks and sweaters and suits. And very smart she looked, too, dressed in dark blue—her favorite color.

She was besieged with offers to do more broadcasts; Ben Bernie, for one, wanted her on his program. She was urged to go on the stage; one remarkably good offer was made for her to do a sketch in a new show—but she turned them all down. Wanted to go home to her family. For she's a family woman; children and husband come first, and her career afterward.

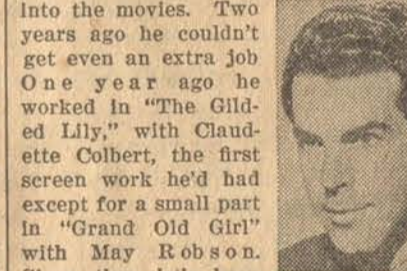

Nancy Carroll seems to have sidetracked her screen career in favor of night clubs. She is seen about a lot, looking a bit plump.

Have you heard that early, early morning program on the radio—the Milkmen's Matinee? It's very popular, not only with the milkmen, but also at open-air-night lunch carts, and lots of requests pour in for special numbers.

Remember Julia Faye, without whom no DeMille picture was complete in the old days? She recently married a scenario writer, in California.

Major Bowes' genial "All right, all right" is fast becoming a byword all over the country; one of our best football announcers loves to use it. Incidentally, honors are being heaped on the Major so fast that it's hard to keep track of them. Recently a new wing of the Kerner Hospital for Crippled Children, in Baltimore, was dedicated to him.

Fred MacMurray's rapid climb to the movie heights should encourage every one who wants to go into the movies. Two years ago he couldn't get even an extra job. One year ago he worked in "The Gilded Lily," with Claudette Colbert, the first screen work he'd had except for a small part in "Grand Old Girl" with May Robson. Since then he's been rushed from one picture to another, because you and I and all the people like us liked him. He's played opposite Katharine Hepburn, Carole Lombard and Claudette Colbert again.

Fred MacMurray

Well, we had our Dickens cycle in pictures (and it isn't over yet, apparently, for W. C. Fields will probably do "Pickwick Papers"), and now we're in for a round of Kipling, "The Light that Failed," "Kim" and "Captains Courageous" being the first of his stories to reach the screen. And unless Paramount's Gary Cooper plays the hero in the first named of these, there's no justice!

It looks as if "She Married Her Boss" might prove to be Claudette Colbert's most successful picture; theaters in the big cities have been holding it over.

Paramount will cast Charles Boyer opposite Marlene Dietrich in "Invitation to Happiness." Welcome news to all the Boyer enthusiasts, isn't it? Perhaps he'll inspire Marlene to greater heights.

Leslie Howard wants Anita Louise to go to New York to play "Ophelia" to his "Hamlet" on the stage. Well, she'd look too lovely for words, but whether or not she could handle the role is something else again. However, the talented Howard doesn't usually make mistakes.

ODDS AND ENDS . . . Wallace Beery is doing excerpts from his pictures on the air, and it looks as if Sophie Tucker would do the roles played by Marie Dressler . . . When rehearsing for a broadcast, Joan Bennett wore bedroom slippers . . . Under similar circumstances, Joan Crawford worked in her stocking feet . . . All the interviewers are cheering for Eleanor Powell, because she's so likeable . . . Connie Boswell is back on the air, after a long absence, but her sisters aren't . . . The French Academy decorated Frank Black for giving us so many French compositions on the air . . . All the movie companies want Joe Louis, who defeated Max Baer.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Wales' Fancy Pants. SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—All is excitement in London. The prince of Wales has adopted a new style in trouserings called the "straight outline."

With no desire to be morbid, I've gone into the fascinating details. I glean from the cablegrams that they touch the wearer in but one place, and only then if his royal highness is sitting down. When walking, he has to take two steps while the trousers are taking one. It's as though Slim Summerville swiped my things and was trying to escape with the goods on. I shall not follow the royal example. As a snappy dresser I never seem to get anywhere, somehow. George Ade once said no matter what I put on I still looked like Paducah, Ky., and when I read what the well-dressed man will wear I sorrowfully admit there's nothing correct about me except my back collar button and I'm not so sure about that. It's one of those plain bone ones—nothing flashy.

Irvin S. Cobb.

So I shall continue to stick to the garments enclosing me at the moment. They are, as you might say, my pre-depression pants. In youth they sheltered me; I'll not desert them now. Besides, I might be arrested.

Hollywood Hermits. IF YOU'VE been to Movieland, you've seen our fur-bearing hermits. As true recluses, these gentlemen have the innate desire to avoid being conspicuous, which is ever characteristic of Hollywood. So they march the principal streets all day, with their long hair and their ditto whiskers waving in the climate, and wearing as few clothes as the law allows—and out here we allow few indeed.

There is a single member of the group who's different. He's just as woolly as the others, but he doesn't parade up and down. Nor will he tell you his name or the address of his cave, or where he came from or where he's going. Some think he has a secret past. But I think he has a great ambition.

It's my idea he wants to go down in history as the one who was not commissioned a colonel on the staff of the governor of Kentucky.

The Legacy of Youth. IN THE brave days before '28 the future of an ambitious young graduate was assured. He sold bonds. Statistics show there was a salesman for every bond. Shortly thereafter, any fellow who owned a bond was his own salesman.

I still have some very beautiful ones which I'd like to swap for a pair of moss-agate cuff buttons, a ukulele, a collection of postage stamps or what have you?

Then followed the dreary years when the youth with a diploma had nowhere to head in—desperate, hopeless years. But now—now he needn't worry any more about a career. It's all fixed. He can step out of college right into a CCC camp.

I am ashamed—trying to be funny over a most grim tragedy. It doesn't matter about our generation, the mad architects of this disaster. We're too numbed by blows, some of us, to start over; too old, some of us, even to try; too stupid to admit that, by futile war, by speculation, by crazed extravagance, we laid this burden upon our children and our children's children.

We have sowed in folly; they must reap the bitter grain.

The Return of Prosperity. GOOD times are certainly coming back—at least to the fur business. I hear prices are so high that only the wealthier minks can afford their own skins; the rest of them will go through the winter wearing dyed rabbit.

I went to a party and nearly every woman there was up to her ears in ermine or chinchilla or silver fox or some other very exclusive peltry. There was one large lady who had on at least three kinds of expensive wild animals. If somebody had left the door open, her wrap would have stolen right back to the zoo.

It's fine prosperity is returning. Wouldn't it be grand if, instead of being visited on a favored few, it could be passed around?

Crooning to Oysters. THE professional crooner has found his musical soul-mate. It's our famous Pacific coast bi-valve, that winsome creature which is about the size of a suspender button.

A Seattle judge experimented on the harmonic affinities of shell fish. He didn't get anywhere with the clam, clams being proverbially dumb, but, working on our cunning little native oyster, he first established its natural vibration, then found a note to correspond. Do that, and an oyster opens right up.

"They open easiest," says the discoverer, "when crooners are performing."

Now let's establish what form of animal life responds spiritually to a columnist.

All Around the House

A little olive oil rubbed over paper that has stuck to a polished surface softens paper and makes it easier to remove.

Rings of canned pineapple browned and sprinkled with chopped green peppers and pimientos make an attractive garnish for steak, chops or roasts.

When pressing neckties, cut a piece of cardboard the shape of the tie and slip inside of it. Cover tie with a cloth and press with hot iron. There will then be no marks left by seams and hems.

House palms should not be exposed to the direct rays of the sun nor should they be placed near a radiator.

ANY mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage, Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

The ordinary laxatives, of even ordinary strength, must be carefully regulated as to dosage. A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult. The doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative most families use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist has it.

WHY MILLIONS CARRY TUMS!

MILLIONS now know the smart thing is to carry a roll of Tums, always. Heartburn, gas, and other symptoms of acid indigestion have a habit of occurring at unexpected times. You don't have to drench your stomach with harsh alkalies which physicians have long warned may make the tendency toward acid indigestion worse. Tums, a real scientific advancement, contain no soda or other alkalies. Instead a wonderful antacid that simply neutralizes stomach acidity, the balance passing out of the body intact. Pleasant to eat as candy. Only 10c a roll. Put a roll in your pocket now.

FREE This week—your druggist—has a free Tums roll and a color 1936-1937 Calendar. Remember when you buy a roll of Tums in a 50c box of NR (The All Vegetable Laxative).

The Christmas Seal is a symbol. It symbolizes the determination of millions of persons to wipe out tuberculosis in the United States. Your purchase of Christmas Seals will help make that wish a fact.

Hubbard Francis, Jr., is ill with scarlet fever. Morris, little son of County Agent and Mrs. S. L. Isbell, is recovering from the same disease but is still suffering from complications.

The Christmas Seal this year depicts a young lady of the 1860's mailing a letter. In those days nobody knew the cause of tuberculosis. But we know today. And what is better, we know how to prevent and cure it. Christmas Seals raise money to help pay the cost of prevention.

RELIEF IN STATE TO END

30. "It is hard to believe, Mr. Goodman said, "and is nothing short of a calamity for 16,000 helpless families of our state. There is no alternative excepting for the local governmental units to take up where we are leaving off within two weeks."

In a conversation some days ago with Mr. Goodman, Governor Laffoon expressed his intent to assist towns and counties with state funds when the impending crisis was reached. "I have hope and believe," Mr. Goodman said, "that Governor Chandler and his administration also will step into the breach upon assuming office."

Mr. Goodman directed attention to the County Budget Act and its effect in placing most counties in a position of being able to help in the crisis. The law, he said, requires each county to make its budget as of June 30. Once made, funds in the various county budgets cannot be diverted, nor can additional appropriations be made. Kentucky has about 60 pauper counties to further complicate the problem.

But at the current date the state of Kentucky is $1,850,000 in arrears in its agreement with Federal Relief authorities to contribute $200,000 monthly to the program in Kentucky. The promised support to come from proceeds of the 3 per cent sales tax, to match federal funds spent by the Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration.

"One of the most pressing obligations I see now," Mr. Goodman said, "is for local governmental units to lead every effort to get Works Progress Administration projects going in order that we can care for the 67,000 needy workables charged to WPA without delay. There will be nothing but work after November 30, as far as the government is concerned. Any certified worker not employed on a work relief project is on his own responsibility."

With an expression of sympathy for the indigents of the state, Mr. Goodman briefly reviewed his plans for relief during the bitter months of winter. He had set aside $50,000 out of the general relief fund and had asked Washington for a like amount to be used in buying school children clothing that they might attend school without undue exposure to the elements. He also had laid plans and compiled his figures for relief through next March.

"I would feel much better," he said, "had we been allowed to carry on through the winter when needs are the greatest and suffering most intense."

"The Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration has developed a foundation for a State Welfare Division of a thoroughly well qualified personnel in social service work if the incoming legislature sees fit to utilize it by tying in with the National Security Act."

All employees of the National Emergency Relief Administration throughout the state have been notified their services would terminate November 30, excepting a few who will be retained to wind up affairs. County offices will be closed and records stored in suitable and safe places.

2 KILLED BY SHOTGUN

balance. This first shooting was done with a shotgun. For the slaying Barksdale Cook was given a 21-year reform school and penitentiary sentence, his age at the time preventing him from being committed to the penitentiary. Curtis was probated to his father, Bill Cook.

Then, a few months ago, as he was driving a mule team hitched to a wagon down a steep mountain road, Bill Cook was shot from ambush and killed. Again a shotgun was used. For the slaying Clyde, a son of Seland Cook, drew a life pen term. Seland last week was acquitted of the murder charge placed against him in the same killing.

The last victim of the Cook family war is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter.

When arrested Sunday by Deputy Sheriffs O. H. Stumbo, R. R. Allen, W. A. Wills and Mitchell Thomas, Hall, who is charged with the Daniels slaying, denied knowledge of the murder. He was found home at Hunter.

Following an altercation at or near the home of Lewis Lykins, a relative of the victim is quoted as saying Daniels, Ed Fitzpatrick, Ivel Salisbury and Claude Mullins went to the home of Polly Martin, below Hunter. Hall followed them there, this version of the affair continues, and called Daniels outside. A few moments later a shotgun was fired. Daniels was found shot through his chest. He died a few minutes after being taken inside the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin.

The victim was a son of Lee Daniels, of Hunter. The alleged slayer is a son of Buddy Hall. Daniels' body was taken to Emma for burial Tuesday under the direction of G. D. Ryan.

BIRTH OF DAUGHTER

Birth of a fine daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Leslie at Martin on November 13 is announced. The little miss has not been christened.

the writer has ever seen in this city at one and the same time.

In the main, these visitors, both country and otherwise, were orderly. Many of our business houses did a whale of a business on that day.

These happenings seem to bring forth a trend of thought with respect to county seats in neighboring mountain states, where fewer high schools are maintained, and students are transported by bus from home to school.

Fewer high schools can be maintained in a more up-to-date manner and at a lesser cost per tax payer, at least we are so informed. More pupils would attend each of these schools than is now the case here in this county.

More pupils would, of course, afford a greater selection of football team aspirants, more reserve material, etc. This situation would permit competition with larger high schools.

Is there any reason to believe that competition with larger high schools would prevent Prestonsburg from having a large crowd of visitors on each Saturday of the football season, if they had a larger school, more pupils from the outlying districts, more interested parents, etc., to be attracted here? Would it not be well for our business houses? Can 13 high schools be modernly operated in this county at the one and same time?

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Just a Little Smile. Ruth was a sweet girl. She was reading a book that gave the meaning of names. Her mother was watching her, and thinking of all the young men who were attracted to her.

Who Cares? The Hollywood magnate told an assistant that in his opinion a certain writer was the only man for a film they had under consideration. The assistant was tactfully doubtful.

A Good Record. "Madam," said the hobo, "I once had a wife and family of my own—but I couldn't be contented. I growled and grumbled at everything—and finally I left home."

Oh, That Decision. "He asked me to marry him and make him happy." "Which did you decide to do?"—Stray Stories Magazine.

BANG! BANG! Charlie Cook, manager of Ford Smith, used to be a taxi jockey and a bartender. . . . Paul Berlenbach, former light-heavyweight champion, is a bouncer in a Yorkville dance hall. . . .

Even So. "I believe," said the neglected wife, "that mine will be the fate of Abel." "Why so?" queried her husband.

A Slick Answer. Teacher—If Columbus discovered this country, why was he sent home in chains? Boy—So he wouldn't skid on the wet roads, I guess.

So Are Ours. "Tommy," asked the teacher, "what can you tell me of America's foreign relations at the present time?" "They're all broke," answered the brightest boy in the class.

WALKING TO AVOID TRAGEDY

Tragedy on the highway is not all the fault of the motorist. The pedestrian has his responsibility. And that responsibility ignored, the result is appalling.

Pedestrians know as little about how to walk the highways of the land as do motorists about how to drive them. All are ignorant, criminally negligent and unwilling to learn.

For a pedestrian to walk on the highway, his back to the traffic approaching from his side of the road, is to invite injury or death, not only to himself but also to some motorist.

Every teacher should instruct his or her pupils how to walk the highway, if indeed they must walk on the pavement or the part of the highway traversed by automobiles.

No, you don't walk on the right side of the highway. You're not walking a sidewalk, meeting only those on foot. If you do walk the right side of the highway, your back is turned to automobiles on your side of the road and you have no way of seeing the danger that approaches.

If you don't believe this, try it out. The first trial may not give results, but eventually you'll wind up on the business end of a bad accident.

You don't have to read the newspapers, you don't have to be an undertaker, to know the terrible toll taken not annually but daily, monthly by carelessness on the highways.

Automobile drivers often, all too often, have a bestial disregard of the rights of other motorists and of pedestrians. At the same time those walking the highways make it next to impossible for the most careful of drivers to avoid hitting them.

We all can do something to reduce the horrifying death-toll taken on the nation's highways.

KENTUCKY NEWS BRIEFS

The state, Gov. Laffoon announced, will pick up the burden of supporting 60,000 Kentucky unemployables on December 1, after the federal dole is withdrawn. Some 68,000 other families have been placed on federal relief work.

At Owensboro, a near tragedy resulted when Joseph Goodwin, told he could not get on relief rolls, shot Hubert Hule, relief administrator employe. "I'd rather die in the electric chair than starve to death," Goodwin said at his arraignment. A vest button deflected the bullet, which probably saved Hule's life.

Drys rallied their forces for a last stand against repeal. The Rev. J. B. Head, Louisville, announced that the drys would bring court action to force a recount in Jefferson county, and probably would follow with other recount petitions in cities where repeal won an overwhelming majority. At Paris, Circuit Judge Joseph C. Jones held the repeal proposal did not contain two questions as claimed by the drys (repeal and regulation) but only one general subject.

The court of appeals quickly dissolved an injunction by which Judge Jones would have given the drys 20 days to appeal before the state board of election commissioners could certify the result.

This week may bring a court of appeals decision on whether or not the repeal proposal was properly stated on the ballot.

Gov. Laffoon's special prison advisory commission concluded from its state crime survey that changes should be made in the methods of handling criminals. It recommended the emasculation of desperate and degenerate felons; establishment of a new and self-supporting prison and farm for less dangerous types of prisoners; transfer of the pardoning power from the governor to a board. It urged scientific instead of political management of state institutions; recommended repairs and improvements at state penal and charitable institutions, some of which were fire-traps.

As to the pardon power, the commission found no fault with Gov. Laffoon but suggested "it is too great a burden for one man to bear."

Shortly after receiving the commission's report, the governor pardon 28 indictments against a score of national guard officers and enlisted men growing out of the troop occupation of Harlan at the August primary.

Foreshadowing an extensive state wide program of highway improvement and grade crossing elimination, a Washington announcement said Kentucky has been granted $6,000,000 for such work. The University of Kentucky meanwhile received a PWA loan of $389,333, and a grant of $165,000 to add to the $360,000 already received for buildings and improvements.

Governor-elect A. B. "Happy" Chandler came back to Kentucky after a two weeks' vacation with Mrs. Chandler at Hot Springs. Indicating he expects to cut out the work he expects the state legislature to accomplish, he announced he may ask the legislature to take a recess after they convene in January if his program is not worked out.

The state Board of Bar Commissioners asked the court of appeals to disbar State Senator John T. Murphy, Covington, and County Attorney W. J. Ward, Paintsville, and to suspend Commonwealth's Attorney John L. Harrington, for alleged unprofessional conduct. They have 20 days to file answers.

BREAKS O' SANDY LORE

The annual meeting of the Seventh District Women's Club was held in Maytown Oct. 9. At this meeting several resolutions were adopted. Among these, none was dearer to the heart of every Kenturkian (whether native or by adoption) than that which pledged support to the movement for creation of a national park in the breaks of the mountains of the Big Sandy

I'M SOLD

It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a liquid laxative, and you can bring yourself to clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

A bill sponsoring this was introduced by Congressman A. J. May and Congressman Flanagan, of Virginia. It is hoped that it may yet pass the House.

Members of the Woman's Clubs are intensely interested in roadside beautification, establishment of parks, etc., town and home improvement, etc. This bill will have the constant backing of the clubs in this section.

The grandeur of the breaks needs no comment. Words fail to describe it fully. Thousands who know of the beauty there visit the scene each year. Making it a park, enhancing its natural attributes would bring tourists here the year round.

Some of the state's loveliest native shrubs and trees abound there. Rhododendron is plentiful. Azaleas and mountain laurel are also present in profuse quantity. The famed Frasier magnolia, with its unique auricle-ears, may be seen in the Breaks. This species of the magnolia is not found elsewhere in Kentucky. Here it grows 40 and 50 feet high and sends forth its gorgeous blooms in the late spring and early summer. Hemlock, cedar, sprucepine and other evergreens keep lone vigil in winter time when leaves of neighboring trees form a brown carpet underfoot.

Every lover of beauty, every citizen who has civic pride is asked to assist when possible in forwarding this movement which will some day be realized. Every civic organization should immediately go on record as favoring same and exert every effort to promote it.

CHAPTER I

The Chechahcos.

Garth knelt upon the planks of the small floating wharf to fasten a pitch-smear patch on the bottom of his upturned birchbark canoe. In the midst of his work he paused to listen. A faraway drone was just audible above the ting and hum of insects. He turned to peer at the southerly sky above the vast flood of the Mackenzie. The drone became more distinct.

A plane was coming downriver towards the emergency refueling station at the old abandoned trading post. Yet the regular schedule of the line did not call for the northbound Belanca for several days. In all probability, the Commercial Airways had sent out its emergency plane from Fort McMurray, Alberta.

Though his thoughts lingered on the approaching plane, his eyes and hands returned to the patching of the canoe. The craft must be made ready for the weeks of upriver paddling. There would be none too much time for the thousand-mile trip out before the winter freeze-up.

As he finished the patch the loud drone of the motor swelled into a staccato roar. He turned to watch the white monoplane swoop down and take the water like a squatter duck.

The pilot started to taxi shoreward. Garth again set about patching the small leak. A sudden silence told that the motor had been stilled. Across the hush came a curt order:

"To, Jack, fend off and snub her." Garth leisurely twisted around to eye the incoming craft. She was a beautiful medium-sized plane with a cabin behind the semi-enclosed cockpit. Between her headway and the river current, she was driving towards the upstream side of the wharf at a speed that promised to smash the pontoons.

Yet neither of the two helmeted persons in the cockpit made a move to climb down in readiness to ward off the shock. Nor did either work the controls to veer the craft clear. Both were hastily putting on headnets and gloves to protect themselves from the buzzing swarms of mosquitoes and buldog flies. They seemed to take for granted that the worker on the wharf would rush to give them service.

In the North able-bodied men are supposed to wait upon themselves. More, the pilot's tone had been that of a master commanding an inferior. Garth stayed motionless, waiting for the crackup with cool curiosity.

At that the smaller person cried out in a sharp, almost shrill voice: "Quick, you gawping dummy!"

The fact that one of the pair was a woman made a vast difference. Garth caught the end of the mooring flung by the pilot, and snatched up along pikepole. Its outthrust point at the tip of the nearer pontoon. As the plane came low, Garth put all of his weight into his angling shove against the pole. The momentum of the landing plane forced him back onto the other. Then his moccasins made a holding grip against the upper edge of a plank.

Instead of driving in against the wharf at the blunt angle with which it had approached, the head of the plane began to swing off. With another outthrust of strength, Garth swung it parallel with the upstream side of the wharf.

Aided by a slight swerve in the current, he was able to walk the plane to the outer end of the wharf before the nearer pontoon could hit the float logs. As the aircraft glided clear, he made the line fast to a ringbolt and returned to his canoe.

"What the devil!" snapped the pilot. "Come back, you fool. Take in the back—moor us."

Garth swung his canoe into the current and stepped aboard to test the mooring. The airplane, having drifted upstream to the end of the line, swung around and lay nosing the current. Neither the man or the woman made a movement until Garth drove his canoe ashore and lifted it atop the stony bank.

As he climbed to the front of the old post store, above the base of the wharf, he saw the pilot at last swing down to haul on the line. Inside the big log cabin he crossed to one of the rear rooms and put a light hand on the forehead of the snoring man in the nearest bunk.

"Turn out, Tobin. Visitors." The grizzle-bearded station tender roused up to blink and peer.

"Visitors? You're not stringin' me, Mr. Garth?"

"No. Rover plane." Tobin slipped on his moccasins and hobbled out into the storeroom. The pilot had moored his plane head and tail to the lower side of the landing stage. He was handing his woman companion down from the cockpit. Both had replaced their leather flying helmets with hats and mosquito nets.

They went in under the overhanging wing to the screened door of the cabin. It opened to the outthrust of a portly man in city clothes. Assisted by the pilot, he managed to get down upon the wharf by means of steps lowered from inside the cabin. After hurriedly putting on a headnet and gloves, he started inshore between his two companions. He limped as if slightly crippled. But the lameness might have been due to cramp from long sitting.

Garth spoke to the supply tender: "I'm only a stray prospector, Tobin. Understand?"

"Aye, sir," grunted Tobin. Without a word of greeting, he hobbled back a few steps as the pilot and his passenger stepped in over the rough threshold.

The portly man opened a gold-mounted cigar case. The young woman produced a long amber-stemmed cigarette holder. This was promptly filled by the pilot, who paused only to slap a mosquito on his clean-shaven cheek before striking a match.

Out went Garth's hand in a swift clutch that caught the flaming match in his calloused palm. The pilot, who was as tall as Garth and heavier built, turned to stare down at him with cold anger.

"You insolent roughneck! Clear out of here."

Garth smiled. Toben did the answering: "Hub, crazy loon—lighting matches in here. Can't you read the sign? 'No smoking.' Bounce him, lad."

The pilot thrust a hand inside his leather jacket. "Try it. I'll drill both of you."

"How frightful," said Garth. "You must imagine this is a Wild West show. Please don't shoot until the lady can get outside. Shots are even more apt than matches to explode all this gasoline."

The portly man snapped shut his cigar case.

"That's so! You have no cause to be ruffled, Vivian. The fellow seems to have acted on a well-intentioned impulse."

The pilot's hand came out empty from inside the jacket. "Why couldn't the fool have spoken a warning?"

Garth had sized up the man. He expected neither an apology for the abuse nor thanks for saving the visitors from possible annihilation. With an indifferent smile, he shifted the gaze of his gray eyes to examine the woman member of the party.

A first glance had led him to think her older than the pilot. Under her rouge and powder her face was thin and drawn. Its lines might have belonged to a woman in the mid-thirties. Her blue eyes looked more than bored and cynical. Their tiredness matched the lined face. Her body was thin almost to boniness.

Yet, upon examination, Garth saw she could not be even in the mid-twenties. Traces of girlish freshness still lingered in her painted face, under the blemishes of dissipation and disillusionment.

As she faced away from him, the pilot spoke to Tobin:

"Get busy. Truck down sixty gallons of gas and five of oil—and be quick about it. While your helper is refueling the plane, you'll cook us the best meal you can throw together."

Down came Tobin's shaggy eyebrows. "Who d'you think you're bossin'? Shove along to a tradin' post for yer grub an' gas. This here cache is the comp'ny's emergency deppo."

The portly visitor took a billfold from his coat and drew out a paper. "Take a look at this order, my man. It authorizes me to requisition any of the Airways' stations for whatever supplies I wish."

Tobin read the order, and thrust it back, with no lessening of his dourness. "So you're Burton Ramill, are you? Looks like a straight order. All the same, you'll sign the book before you'll get a drop."

He turned about to open an oily account book on one of the stacks of gasoline cases. Mr. Ramill drew a fountain pen from his vest pocket with plump white fingers, and limped forward to write.

"There's your receipt," said the pilot. "Now have this dumb helper of yours rush out our gas, and get your pans on the fire. We want service."

"Yuh? Well, you're welcome to want it till doomsday. That comp'ny order calls for supplies. Don't say nothin' about cookin' nor service."

Mr. Ramill interposed: "All right, man. I see you're stiff from rheumatism. I will pay this young fellow to refuel the plane."

Garth turned his cool gaze upon the pilot. "Why not give this bird of yours the chance to earn a little more pay?" "Because Mr. Huxby has flown my plane all the way from Chicago, with only short stop-overs. Also, he is my partner, not a mechanic."

"Well, he's not the only party present who's not a kiwi." Garth pulled a small poke from inside his buckskin shirt, hefted it as if considering, and put it back. "Nor do I need your pay."

Huxby's supercilious eyes glistened with sudden keen interest. "What's that? You're from the new gold fields?"

"No."

"But your gold sack?"

"Gold?" Garth muttered.

He drew out his poke again and opened it to shake a few small nodules of metal into his palm. Both Huxby and Mr. Ramill stepped close to peer at the grayish silvery bits. The older man looked puzzled. The younger took a nodule into his own palm, eyed it a moment, and handed it back in an indifferent manner.

"Galena. I'm a mining engineer. You're out of luck, not making a gold strike. Never before in history has silver been so low."

Garth looked disappointed. "Too bad, isn't it?"

He picked out a nodule that had been rubbed to a rather bright polish. The girl was leaning with her left hand on one of the lower piles of gasoline cases. A ring with a large blue diamond banded the "engagement" finger. Garth thrust the nodule up close beside the ring.

"Yes," he said, "I always did think gold looked prettier than galena—even white gold."

The girl drew her hand away as if he had smirched it. "My ring is not gold. You pretend to be a prospector, yet do you know platinum from gold?"

"Platinum?" Garth questioned. "But your friend here calls it galena."

Mr. Ramill interposed: "Permit me. Lillith—Young man, I am largely interested in metalliferous mines. If you have located a lode of galena, the lead might pay for development of the prospect."

"That depends," put in Huxby.

"Where's the place?"

"Three weeks—paddle and portage," Garth answered.

"Slow travel. But by airplane?"

"The bird distance can't interest you. Neither lead nor silver would pay for airplane freighting. Nor would packing. I lost ten pounds of this—galena. Canoe upset, running one of the rapids."

As Garth spoke he put up a hand to cover a yawn. "If you don't mind, Tobin, I'll roll in. It's a long traivois to Great Slave."

The portly investor in mines caught the eye of his engineer partner. He spoke to Garth: "You are going outside?"

"Perhaps."

"Well, a day or so should make no difference to you. Is there a lake or pond near your prospect?"

"One about four miles long; half as wide."

Huxby repeated his question: "It could be reached how soon by air?"

The fish were no longer nibbling; they were hooked. Garth had only to haul in on his line. But he took his time about it. He paused to consider. Not all fish prove to be desirable catches.

Neither Mr. Ramill nor Huxby looked like a crook. They had the appearance of reputable business men. On the other hand, neither looked easy. Huxby broke in on Garth's weighing of the chances: "Well, Jack, let's have it."

"Two to three hours," Garth replied. "I don't know the speed of your plane."

"Fastest type of cabin cruiser. Call it six hours to go and return, and the same to inspect your prospect. It's possible there may be a trace of gold in your ore. I'll test it while you get your sleep."

The girl spoke to Mr. Ramill: "I shall take a nap myself, Dad. Ten hours of flying, with no chance to dance off the Scotch, is enough to kill a horse."

In the act of handing a nodule to Huxby, Garth paused to stare at the girl. So that was the answer—liquor, tobacco, paint, and all the rest of the flapper-jazz rot.

She stiffened and stared back at him haughtily. He dropped the nodule into Huxby's cupped palm and crossed into the rear room to stretch out on one of the bunks.

A tug at his shoulder roused Garth from his six-hour sleep. Tobin's hoarse voice croaked in his ear:

"Roll out, sir. Sun's up. The pair of 'em are keen to be a-wing. Look-like their test of your nugget livenev'em up. Grab 'em on."

Garth pulled on his buckskins and moccasins and stepped into the storeroom. Miss Ramill was coming in at the front door. She paused to remove her headnet. Huxby and Mr. Ramill were already putting down a hearty breakfast of bacon, sourdough bread and oatmeal porridge. Garth crowded past them and Tobin to the end of the little shelf table.

Jefferson's Rules

Rules compiled by Thomas Jefferson included: Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today. Never trouble another for what you can do yourself. Never spend your money before you have it. Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap; it will be dear to you. Pride costs us more than hunger, thirst and cold. We never repent of having eaten too little. Nothing is troublesome that we do willingly. How much pain is suffered in evils which have never happened. Take things always by the smooth handle. When angry, count ten before you speak; if very angry, a hundred.

Amazing Juggling Trick

The most amazing juggling performance ever presented on a stage was the billiard-ball-and-cue act of the famous German juggler, Paul Cinquevalli. This feat, which required eight years to perfect, consisted of balancing two balls on the top of a cue, which in turn was balanced on another movable ball in a drinking glass that he held in his mouth.—Collier's Weekly.

"QUOTES"

COMMENTS ON CURRENT TOPICS BY NATIONAL CHARACTERS

Opinions expressed in the paragraphs below are not necessarily concurred in by the editor of this newspaper.

OUR FOREIGN POLICY

By CORDELL HULL, Secretary of State.

OUR policy as a member of the community of nations should be twofold—first, to avoid being brought into a war and, second, to promote as far as possible the interests of international peace and good-will.

A virile policy tempered with prudent caution is necessary if we are to retain the respect of other nations and at the same time hold our position of influence for peace and international stability in the family of nations.

In summary, while our primary aim should be to avoid involvement in other people's difficulties and hence to lessen our chances of being drawn into a war, we should, on appropriate occasions and within reasonable bounds, use our influence toward the prevention of war and the miseries that attend and follow in its wake. For, after all, if peace obtains, problems regarding neutrality will not arise.

OLD GUARD ASSAILED

By WILLIAM E. DORAH, Senator From Idaho.

I FEEL that the Constitution affords ample power to deal with our economic problems. I should be greatly surprised to find that the vast majority of the people do not feel the same way. But those who once were in a position to exercise these powers refused to act. Why then should we expect them to act if they should be given power again?

They permitted monopolies to get control of practically our entire material wealth and to fix the prices which the people should pay. When the export debenture was offered by some of us, which in my opinion would have gone far toward avoiding the crisis in agriculture, they rejected it. The only thing proposed was to plow up every third row of cotton and thus start a program of destruction in the face of want.

As to bureaus and expenditures, they created bureaus without precedent. Heaven knows the Old Guard has little to offer in the way of a program except repentance, and no one would accept their professions.

ISSUES DRAWN

By HAROLD G. HOFFMAN, Governor of New Jersey.

THE lines of our present conflict are clearly drawn. Upon the side where we stand are the forces of individual liberty and opportunity and of that greatest of human rights, the right to earn, to own and to enjoy the use of property.

Also in our ranks are those who believe that a people burdened with debt cannot by edict constitute themselves a rich government, although a spendthrift government can make a people poor.

Upon the side of our opposition stand those who deny history, who deny fact, who deny and strive to conceal their own blunders. In the same ranks stand those who draw their inspiration and ideas of government from sources both alien and repugnant to every meaning of the word "American."

People Heavier, Taller

People of today are taller and heavier than their ancestors, writes E. W. Christmas, Boston, Mass., in Collier's Weekly. The best evidence of this fact is the costumes which adorn the numerous wax effigies in the historical museum. These clothes were actually worn by persons who lived from 50 to 500 years ago, and they are much too small for the average-sized citizen of the Twentieth century.

Air Service to China Will Force New Travel Concept

You can now buy an air ticket to carry you to the Orient. It will put you on board the "China Clipper" in San Francisco bay late in the afternoon. You will be settled in a comfortable compartment in time for dinner—dinner beneath a star-studded sky far above the highest clouds of the eastern Pacific. You will roll out of a larger-than pullman berth to thrill at the early morning sun splashing gold over Honolulu harbor.

Then on again, by daylight now, over a necklace of surf-ringed coral keys to the little Midway Islands, where a well-appointed inn awaits your overnight stop. A short flight next day to Wake Island, a tiny dot in the vast Pacific. There, too, you pass a night. Another daylight flight. A night on Guam. The next night finds you in exotic yet modern Manila. Then the following morning you step ashore for luncheon, in China itself.—W. L. Van Dusen and Daniel Sayre in Cosmopolitan.

Dam Faced With Marble

An attraction, for visitors at Athens is a dam, recently constructed to supply the city with water, faced with marble. The stone is taken from a quarry which once supplied ancient Greek sculptors.

PROVISIONS MADE FOR RIGHT-OF-WAY

Along Johns Creek, Middle Creek Routes Up for WPA Work

In special session Tuesday the Floyd fiscal court took steps necessary to procure for the county the expenditure of approximately $100,000 of Works Progress Administration funds on two roads which, unless such action had been taken, would not have been finished by the WPA.

The court's action Tuesday authorized County Attorney Forrest D. Short to negotiate for right-of-way on Johns Creek and Middle Creek routes and also gave County Clerk A. B. Meade authority to issue county orders in payment of right-of-way grants. Contracts entered into between the county and landowners and the amounts to be paid for right-of-way must, however, first be approved by the fiscal court. The court will meet December 3 for the purpose of reviewing right-of-way matters on these two routes.

Had this action not been taken, it was cited in the court's order made Tuesday the funds allocated by the WPA for the two roads would have reverted to the federal government and thus forever be lost to Floyd county. The special session was called by County Judge W. L. Stumbo upon the urgent request last week of County Attorney Forrest D. Short, who pointed out the necessity of procuring all possible WPA work to relieve the emergency arising because of the imminent suspension of direct relief.

Work started on county roads has been impeded by lack of machinery, and to date pick-and-shovel operations have made slow headway. It was unofficially said last week that efforts were being made to procure trucks and steam shovels in order to expedite road construction...

TWO ON WAY BACK BUT ONE IS TAKEN

Man Accused of Stealing Large Sum from Aged Man Taken in South

Two men this week were on their way back to Floyd county to face trial in circuit court here, and a third was on his way from this county to Virginia for a hearing before a former Floyd county man, now a Virginia official.

Tom Marshall, of Alpheretta, went to Rutherfordton, N. C., to return to this county Kelse Meade, who is accused of stealing from his relative and benefactor, John P. (Printer) Meade, approximately $800 in cash. Meade and a Gibson girl left this county, it is said, on a motorcycle and were detained by North Carolina officials a few days ago. They still had the motorcycle, and Meade was in possession of a considerable sum in cash. Marshall was one of Meade's bondsmen.

Sheriff M. T. Stumbo and Deputy Sheriff W. A. Wills left Tuesday for Newport, Ky., to return to this county Buster Coleman, alias Adam Venice, who escaped jail here along with Curtis Bradley, about two months ago. Coleman was identified by a police line-up photo supplied the sheriff's office here by Newport police. He was originally charged with breaking and entering. A warrant issued by Gallia Friend, Magistrate at Clintwood, Va., charging Arvil Rose with child desertion, resulted in Rose's arrest near Melvin Tuesday. Sheriff Younce, of Clintwood, came to this county Tuesday to claim the prisoner. Magistrate Friend is a brother of B. P. Friend, of Prestonsburg.

FAIR WARNING

A well-known Paris citizen just came into this office and stopped his paper for the reason, he said, that it did not just suit his fancy. We can picture now the note of surprise on his face when we meet him on the street in a few days. He'll be surprised that we are still in existence since he "stopped his paper."

Some day—and it won't be long—that man will be no more. His heart will be stilled forever. Neighbors and friends will carry his lifeless clay to the silent city and lay him to rest among the flowers. An obituary will be published in these columns telling what a good neighbor and beloved citizen he was and in a short time he will be forgotten. As he lies in the cemetery wrapped in the silent slumber of death, he will never know that the last kind word spoken of him was by the editor of this paper which he so spitefully stopped.

Did you ever stop to think that your editor, whoever he may be, will write your obituary some day? — Paris Citizen.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

John T. Flynn, conducting the syndicated United Features column, "Plain Economics," in the Washington Daily News, on November 15, said in part:

"REA enables the farmers to get power, the utility company gets customers, the electrical construction industry to get a contract, the electrical supply industry to sell equipment.

"Rural communities can hardly generate their own power. Close to them are the great power plants of the cities. This power is available to the farms if the lines can be extended into the farm area. One thing more is needed—funds. If the utility companies are willing to run their lines into rural neighborhoods the REA will assist them by making the funds available as a loan at the most favorable terms.

"Where the utility company is not willing, then the REA encourages farmers to form co-operative groups and buy power wholesale from the utility. This is even more favorable. If the farmers organize into a co-operative unit, the government will finance them, without the utility taking any risk whatever."

Mr. Flynn is careful to point out that REA has no quarrel with the utilities. The notion that the REA is some sort of reinforcement for the Government's designs against the utilities is in no sense true. It is the one arm of the Government which aims to act in friendly cooperation with the utility interests.

"The plan looks, to an unbiased observer, like one of the most intelligent and useful of all the New Deal schemes, certainly the one most designed to aid recovery. There are a million possible farm customers. Maybe the REA can't get them all. But it can get a large part of them if the utilities will help."

THE COUNTRY NEWSPAPER

(Industrial Press Service) If you would know what Americans are really thinking about, get off the highways and amble leisurely along the byways. Seek out the towns and villages; forget the cities and their suburbs. If your time is limited, buy a copy of the paper in each of the towns through which you travel. Carry them home with you and read them. It is a simple way to remove the veneer of sophistication with which the city has coated you, and to bring you back to earth again.

There is no better sounding board of public opinion than the editorial page of the country weekly. All too often the perspective of the metropolitan daily is, paradoxically enough, narrowed to the very size of his huge city. He can't see the woods for the trees. On the other hand, the country editor follows a homely pattern of life, and his thinking, reflected on the editorial page, has its roots in sincerity, simplicity and an unsuspected wisdom that his fellow editor has sacrificed on the altar of urbanity.

Don't laugh if you read in the news pages the unadorned story that Faemer Jones has lost his cow. What do you think your country cousins think of your plight when they chance to see a city edition that discloses the extent to which you have lost your self-respect in a story describing your bondgoggling activities? While you read about manners and morals, they read about men and women—looms that spin your cloth. The commas and semi-colons may not be there, but for that very reason the meaning is less obscure.

When you have finished reading the country papers you brought home with you, you may find yourself hoping that Farmer Jones finds his cow; that Mrs. Brown's newly arrived son—her fourth child—lives a long and healthy life, that Ezra Smith, grocer, finds the rascal who rifled his cash drawer. And you may find yourself a little closer to earth.

IS YOUR HUSBAND BETWEEN 50 & 60

When a man is that age and begins to show partiality to the old arm chair it's up to the good wife to do something about it.

Really a man of 60 is in his prime—no reason on earth why he should feel tired after his day's work—no reason why he shouldn't have plenty of ambition—plenty of forceful energy—plenty of endurance.

If you want to see him walk with spry step—want him to sleep sound at night and awake refreshed in the morning—

Just drop into his morning cup of tea or coffee as much of the world famous Kruschen Salts as will lie on a dime—he can't taste it.

Do this every morning for a month—the results will make you proud and happy—your husband will look and feel younger—the urge for action will possess him—keener mind, spryer step.

For the 6 precious salts in Kruschen help to keep stomach, liver, gall bladder, bowels and kidneys in more healthy working order—and cost of all these benefits is a trifle—40 cents.

No drastic cathartic—constipation—but by daily bowel action when you take your little daily dose of Kruschen.

DRILLING ACTIVITIES SEEN ON JOHNS CREEK

Johns Creek—The Warfield Natural Gas Company has hired approximately 40 men in this vicinity to reconstruct roads over which drilling rigs are to be moved. Five rigs will soon be ready to start work in this section of the county, it is said.
